hide from you the mysteries of God, but from the beginning of her natiuitie I wil search out, and set the knowledge of her into light, and wil not let passe the truth: 25. neither wil I goe with pynning enuie: because such a man shal not be partaker of wisdom. 26. But the multitude of the wise is the health of the round world: and a wise King is the stabilitie of the people. 27. Therefore take ye discipline by my words, and it shal profite you.

C H A P. VII.

Wheras al men haue the like birth and death, 7. wisdom maketh great difference, bringing al goodnes, 13. and knowledge. 17. as wel of natural things, 22. as moral: 25. which heauenlie giift is a sparckle, and participation of wisdom increa- ted, God himself.

A L S O certes am a mortal man, like to al, and of the earthlie kinred of him that was made first, and in the wombe of my mother was I fashioned flesh, 2. the time of (a) ten months was I brought together in bloud, of the seede of man, and the delectation of (b) sleepe-concurring. 3. And I being borne receiued the common ayre, and fel vpon the earth that is made alike, and the first voice like to al men did I put forth weeping. 4. I was nourished in swadling clothes, and great cares. 5. For none of the Kings had other beginning of natiuitie. 6. There is one entrance therfore into life to al men, and like departure. 7. For this cause (c) I wished, and vnderstanding was giuen me: and I inuocated, and the spirit of wisdom came vpon me: 8. and I preferred her before Kingdoms and thrones, and riches I courted to be nothing in comparison of her. 9. Neither did I compare the precious stone to her: because al gold in cōparison of her, is a litle sand, and siluer in the sight of her shal be esteemed as clay. 10. Aboue health and beautie did I loue her, and purposed to haue her for light: because her light can not be extinguished. 11. And al good things camē to me together with her, and very much honestie by her hands, 12. and I reioyced in al: because (d) this wisdom went before me, and I was ignorant that she is the mother of al these. 13. Which I learned without fiction, and doe cōmunicate without enuie, and her honestie I hid not. 14. For she is an infinite treasure to men: which who so haue, are made partakers of the freinship of God commended for the giufts of discipline. 15. And to me God hath giuen to speake according to my minde, and to presume things worthie of those, that are giuen me: because he is the guide of wisdom, and the Creatour of the wise: 16. For in his hand are both we, & our words, and wisdom, and the knowledge & discipline of workes. 17. For he gaue me (e) the true knowledge of these

For in her is the spirit of vnderstanding (f)holie, onlie, manifold, subtil, eloquet, moueable, vndefiled, sure, sweete, louing, good, sharpe, who nothing hindereth wel-doing, 23. gentle, benigne, stable, certaine, secure, hauing al power, foreseeing al things, and that conteyneth al spirits: intelligible, cleane, subtile. 24. For wisdom is more moueable then al moueable things: and reacheth euerie-where because of her cleannes. 25. For she (g)is a vapour of the power of God, & a certaine sincere emanation of the glorie of God omnipotent: and therefore no defiled thing commeth vnto her. 26. For she is the brightnes of eternal light, & the vnspotted glasse of Gods maiestie, and the image of his goodnes. 27. And whereas she is one, she can doe al things: and permanēt in her selfe she reneweth al things, and by nations transporteth herself into holie soules, she maketh the freinds of God, and Prophets. 28. For God loueth none, but him that dwelleth with wisdom. 29. For she is more beautiful then the sunne, and aboue al disposition of the starres, being compared to light she is found the first. 30. God is the beginning of al things, absolute and independent.

1. They could not vnderstand him, that is.) Philosophers discussing the nature of manie creatures, saw that euerie creature proceeded of some other thing, & so there must needs be one beginning of al, absolute of it-selfe, neither proceeding nor depending of an other, nor a limited substance. As the thing that is a man, is not a beast; an ox is not a horse &c. and telling what anie thing is, we exclude therby that it is not other things, but saying without addition, HEWHI CHIS, we shew the beginning of al, in no sorte limited: and this is God. Whom some Philosophers, by such discourse found, & knew in general, & sometimes confessed, but did not honour him as God, and therefore were inexcusable, as S. Paule concludeth against them. Rom. 1.

Foolish men intending to saile, honour wooden idols, in regard of the profite they receiue by ships : 6. by which some were saued in the general deluge. 8. Idols, and idol-makers are cursed. 12. They were not from the beginning, 15. but were deuised for memorie of the dead, and worshipped with diuine honour. 22. So men forgetting God, proceeded in idolatrie, with other abominable and cruel enormities.

GAYNE an other thinking to saile, and beginning to make a iourney through the fierce waues, inuocateth wood (a) more fraile then the wood that carieth him. 2. For couetousnes of getting inueted it, and the craftsman by his wisdom framed it. 3. But thy prouidence, o Father, doth gouerne: because thou hast giuen a way euen in the sea, and among the waues a most sure path, 4. shewing that thou art able to saue out of al things, yea (b) if a mā goe to the sea without art. 5. But that thy workes might not be voyde of wisdom: for this cause also men commit their liues euen to a litle wood, and passing ouer the sea are deliuered by ship. 6. But from the beginning also when the proud giants perished, the hope of the world flying to a ship, rendered to the world seede of natiuitie, which was gouerned by thy hād. 7. For (c) blessed is the wood, by the which (d) iustice is made. 8. But the idol that is made by hands, cursed is both it, and he that made it: because he indeed wrought it: and the same being fraile, was called God. 9. But to God the impious and his impietie are odious alike. 10. For that which is made, with him that made it, shal suffer torments. 11. For this cause also in the idol of the nations there shal be no respect: because the creatures of God were made to hatred, and for rētation to the soules of men, and for a snare to the feete of the vnwise. 12. For the beginning (e) of fornication is the deuising of idols: and the inuention of them is the corruptiō of life. 13. For neither were they from the beginning, neither shal they be for euer. 14. For this vanitie of men came into the world: and therefore there is found a short end of thē. 15. For "the father being sorowful with bitter mourning, made vnto himself the image of his sonne quickly taken away: and him, that then was a dead man, now (f) he began to worshipping as God, and appointed holie things and sacriñces among his seruāts. 16. (g) Afterward by succession of time, the wicked custom preuayling, this errour was kept as a law, and things grauen were worshipped by the commandment of Tyrants. 17. And thoe, whom openly men could not honour, for that they were far off, their figure being brought from a far, they made an euident image of the King, whom they would honour: that by their carefulnes they might honour as present, him that was absent. 18. And to the worshipping of these the excellent diligēce also of the artificer, holpe them forward, that were ignorant. 19. For he willing to please him that entertained him, laboured by his art to fashion the similitude in better sort. 20. And the multitude of men caried away by the beautie of the worke, him that a little before had been honoured as a man, now they esteemed for a God. 21. And this was the deceyuing of mans life: because mē seruing either affection, or Kings, gaue the name that is (g) not cōmunicable, to stoncs and wood. 22. And it was not sufficient that they erred about the knowledge of God, but also liuing in a great battail of ignorance, so manie and so great euils they cal peace. 23. For (b) either sacrificing their childrē, or making obscure sacrifices, or hauing watches ful of madnes, 24. they now neither keepe life, nor mariage cleane, but one killeth an other by enuie, or playing the adulterer maketh him sorrowful: 25. and al things are mingled together, bloud, manslaughter, theft and fiction, corruption and infidelitie, trouble and periurie, disquieting of the good, 26. forgetfulnes of God, iniquation of soules, immutation of natiuitie, inconstancie of mariage, disorder of adulterie, and vnchastnes. 27. For the worship of idols not to be named, is the cause of al euil, and the beginning and end. 28. For either when they reioyce, they are made: or certes prophecie false things, or liue vniustly, or quickly forswear themselves. 29. For whiles they trust in idols, which are without soule, swearing amisse they hope not to be hurt. 30. (i) Two euil things therefore shal happen to them worthily, because they haue thought euil of God, attending to idols, and haue sworne vniustly, in guile contemning iustice. 31. For it is not the power of them that are sworne by, but the punishment of them that sinne goeth alwayes through the transgression of the vniust.

Images of false Gods are rightly called idols.

15. The fasher made vnto himself the image of his sonne.) Caluin here chargeth this booke with error, in affirming that idolatrie began by superstitiously honouring images of the dead. Against which he alleadgeth that Labans idols, and others more ancient, were before anie images of dead men were honoured. But he argueth vpon a false ground. For Labans idols were images, as the Hebrew word Theraphim signifieth, and is so translated in the English Bibles (1552. and 1577.) but because they were images of false Gods, and for that Laban called them his Gods, a later Bible (1603.) translateth it better, idols, as the Latin and Greeke haue idola. It is also certaine that Ninus King of the Assrians, lōg before Labā, yea before Abraham, set vp the image of his Father Belus (otherwise called Iuppiter) to be publikly honoured by the people, as S. Cyril sheweth li. 3. in Iulianum, nere the end, and S. Ambrose, or an other graue Authour writeth the same in cap. 1. ad Romanos. Likewise S. Cyprian li. de Idolorum vanitate S. Chrysofom. hom. 87. in Matth. and Egesippus apud S. Ieronym. li. de Viris Illustrib. testifie, that the making of mens images in memorie of the dead, was the occasion and beginning of idolatrie, according as this place reporteth, that a Father sorowing for the death of his sonne made an image in his memorie, & began to worship him as a God, causing his seruants also to honour his dead sonne, with rites and sacrifices. Which priuate idolatrie was absolutely the first, that is recorded in holie Scripture, or any other good authour. And the first publike is counted by most authours that of Ninus, worshipping the image of his father Belus with diuine honour, who also pardoned all offenders, how enormous soeuer their crimes were, that fled vnto that image. Which allurements together with so great a Kings auctoritie, drew innumerable to publike idolatrie. Wherupon S. Ierome noteth (in cap. 2. Osee) that Ninus became so great and glorious, as to make his father to be honoured as a God.

Idolatrie began by worshipping images of dead men with diuine honour.

Priuate idolatrie was before publike,

The wise gratefully praise the sweetnes and mercie of God, by whom they are deliuered from idolatrie: 6. desesting the makers & worshippers of idols.

BV T O thou our God art sweete and true, patient, and disposing all things in mercie. 2. For if we sinne, we are thine, knowing thy greatnes: and if we sinne not, we know that we are counted with thee. 3. For to know thee, is absolute iustice: and to know iustice, and thy power, is the roote of immortalitie. 4. For mens inuention of euil art hath not brought vs into errour, for the shadow of a picture being a labour without fruit, a shape grauen by diuerse colours, 5. the sight wherof giueth concupiscence to the senses, and he loueth the shape without life of a deade image. 6. The louers of euils are worthie to haue their hope in such things, both they that make them, and that loue, and that worship them. 7. Yea and the potter pressing softe earth, with labour fashioneth euerie vessel to our vses, and of the same clay maketh the vessels that are cleane to vse, and in like manner them that are contrarie to these: but what the vse of these vessels is, the potter is iudge. 8. And with vaine labour he (a) fashioneth a God of the same clay: he which a litle before was made of earth, and a litle after returneth backe whence he was taken, being exacted the debt of the life which he had. 9. But his care is, not because he shal labour, nor because he hath a short life, but he contendeth with gold-smiths and siluer-smiths: yea and he imitateth the copper-smiths, and counteth it a glorie, because he maketh vaine things. 10. For his hart is as lyes, and his hope vaine earth, and his life viler then clay: 11. because he was ignorant who made him, and who inspired into him the soule which worketh, & who breathed into him the vital spirit. 12. Yea and (b) they esteemed our life to be a pastime, and the conuersation of life made for a gaine, & that we must get euerie way euen of euil. 13. For he knoweth that he offendeth aboue all men, which of the matter of earth fashioneth frayle vessels, and sculptsils. 14. For all the vnwiie and vnhappy aboue measure of the soule, proude (c) are the enemies of thy people, and rule ouer them: 15. because they haue esteemed all the idols of the natiōs for Gods, which neither haue vse of eies to see, nor nosthrels to take breath, nor eares to heare, nor fingers of the hands to handle, yea and their feete are slow to walke. 16. For a man made them: and he that borowed breath, the same fashioned them. For no man can make God like to himself. 17. For wheras himself is mortal, he maketh a dead thing with his wicked hands. For he is better then they, whom he worshippeth, because he indeed liued, though he were mortal, but they neuer. 18. But (d) they worship also most miserable beasts: for the senslesse things compared to these, are worse then they. 19. Yea neither by sight can any man see good of these beasts. But they haue fled from the praye of God, and from his blessing.

God plaguing the Egyptians for idolatrie, and crueltie, deliuered the Israelites. 5. Chastised them also, but againe shewed them mercie; 20. and fed them with Manna.

(b) And that by beasts, because they worshipped beasts for Gods: and by death of their first-begotten, for their crueltie against Gods people.

(c) God punished his owne people as a father, for their amendment.

(d) The brasen serpent not by any vertue inherent, but as a signe of Gods fauour, was the means of curing the people.

Num. 21.

O R (a) these things, and (b) by the like to these, they haue worthily suffered torments, and were destroyed by a multitude of beasts. 2. For the which torments thou didst wel dispose of thy people, to whom thou gauest the desire of their delectation, a new taste, preparing them the quaille for meate: 3. that they indeed coueting meate, because of those things which were shewed and sent them, might be turned away euen from necessarie concupiscence. But they in thort time being made needie, tasted a new meate. 4. For it behoued that without excute destruction should come vpon them exercising tyrannie: (c) but to these onlie to shew how their enemies were destroyed. 5. For when the cruel wrath of beasts came vpon them, they were destroyed with the byings of peruerse serpents. 6. Howbeit thy wrath endured not for euer, but for chastisement they were troubled a short time, hauing a signe of saluation for the remembrance of the commandment of thy law. 7. For he that turned to it, (d) was not healed by that which he saw, but by thee the Sauiour of al: 8. and in this thou didst shew to our enemies, that thou art he which deliuerest from al euil. 9. For the bitings of locusts and flies killed them, and there was found no remedie for their life: because they were worthie to be destroyed by such things. 10. But neither the teeth of venemous dragons ouercame thy children: for thy mercie comming healed them. 11. For in memorie of thy words they were examined, & were quickly saued, lest falling into deepe obliuion they might not vie thy helpe. 12. For neither herbe, nor playiter healed them, but thy word, o Lord, which healeth al things. 13. For it is thou, o Lord, that hast power of life and death, and bringest downe to the gates of death, and fetchest againe: 14. but man certes killeth by malice, and when the spirit is gone forth, it shal not returne, neither shal he cal backe the soule that is receiued: 15. but it is vnpossible to escape thy hand. 16. For the impious denying to know thee, haue been scourged by the strength of thine arme, suffering persecution by strange waters, and haile, and rayne, and consumed by fyre. 17. For that which was meruelous in water, which extinguisheth al things, (e) fyre more preuayled: for the world is reuenger of the iust. 18. For a certayne time, the fyre was mitigated, that (f) the beasts which were sent to the impious might not be burnt, but that they seeing might know that by Gods iudgement they suffer punishment. 19. And at a certayne time the fyre aboue his power burnt (g) in water on euerie side, that it might destroy the natiō of a wicked land. 20. For the which things thou didst nourish thy people with the meate of Angels, and bread prepared thou gauest them from heauen without labour, 21. (h) hauing in it al delectation, and the sweetnes of al taste. 21. For thy substance did shew thy sweetnes which thou hast toward thy children, and seruing euerie mans wil, it was turned to that euerie man would. 22. Yea snow and yce susteyned the force of fyre, and melted not: that they might know that fyre burning in hayle, and lightning in rayne destroyed the fruits of the enemies. 23. And this againe, that the iust might be nourished, it forgot also his owne strength. 24. For the creature seruing thee the Creator, is fierce into torment against the vniust: and is made more gentle to doe good for them, that trust in thee. 25. For this cause euen then being transformed into al things, they serued thy grace the nource of al, at their wil that desired thee: 26. that thy children might know, whom thou louedst o Lord, that not the fruits of natiuitie doe feede mē, but thy word preferueth them, that belieue in thee. 27. For that which could not be destroyed by fyre, forthwith being (i) heated with a litle beame of the sunne did melt: 28. that it might be knowen to al men, that we ought to preuent the sunne to blesse thee, and at the rysing of light to adore thee. 29. For the (k) fayth of the vngrateful shal melt as winter yce, & shal perish as vnprofitable water.

(e) With the plague of haile there was also fire mixed, Exo. 9. v. 24. which destroyed the profitable cattle:

Horrible darkenes falling in Aegypt, 19. the rest of the world had ordinarie light.

FOR thy iudgements, o Lord, are great, & thy words inexplicable, for this cause the soules lacking discipline haue erred. 2. For whiles the wicked are perswaded that they can rule ouer the holie nation: fettered with the bands of darkenes and (a) long night, shut vp vnder roofes, they haue lyen fugitiues from the euerlasting prouidence. 3. sinnes, they were disperfed by the darke couert of obliuion, being horribly afrayd and disturbed with exceeding admiration. 4. For neither did the denne that conteyned them, keep them without feare: because the found comming downe troubled them, and forowful visions appearing to them, put them in feare. 5. And no force certes of the fyre could giue them light, neither could the cleere flames of the starres lighten that horrible night. 6. But there appeared to them sodain fyre ful of feare: and being strucken with the feare of that face, which was not seen, they esteemed the things that were seen to be worfe: 7. and there were added derisions of the magical art, and contumelious rebuke of the glorie of their wisdom. 8. For they which promised that they would expel feares and perturbations from the languishing soule, these with derision languished ful of feare. 9. For although none of the monsters disturbed them: being moued with the passing by of beasts, and hissing of serpents, they perished trembling: and denying that they saw the ayre which by no meanes any man could avoyde. 10. For wheras wickednes is fearful, it giueth testimonie of condemnation: for (b) a troubled conscience doth alwayes presume cruel things. 11. For feare is nothing els but a bewraying of the aydes of cogitation. 12. And whiles inwardly there is lesse expectation, the greater doth he count the ignorance of that cause which maketh the torment. 13. But they that during the night indeed impotent, and comming vpon them from the lowest and highest hel, slept the same sleepe, 14. were sometime molested with the feare of monsters, sometime fayled by passing away of the soule: for sodain feare and vnlooked for came vpon them. 15. Moreouer if any of them had fallen downe, he was kept shut vp in prison without yron. 16. For if one were a husbandman, or if a shepheard, or worker of the labours in the fiede were sodainly taken, he susteyned necessitie ineuitable. 17. For with one chayne of darkenes they were al tyed together. Whether it were the hissing winde, or among the thicke boughes of trees the sweete sound of birds, or the force of water running downward exceedingly, 18. or the mightie sound of rockes tumbled headlong, or the running of playing beasts, that were not seen, or the mightie noyse of roaring beasts, or an Echo resounding from the highest mountaynes: they made them swoone for feare. 19. For (c) al the world was illuminated with a cleere light, & none was hindered in their workes. 20. But ouer them onlie was layd an heauie night, the image of darkenes, which wasto come vpon them. They therefore were vnto themselues more heauie then the darkenes.

C H A P. XVIII.

In the Egyptian darknes the Israelites saw cleerly, and were not seen of their enemies. 5. For the Aegyptians crueltie against the Hebrewes infants, al their owne first-borne were slaine, and their whole armie drowned in the red sea. 20. But fire deuouring the rebellious in Chores schisme, was quenched by Aarons intercession.

BV T to thy (a) saints there was very great light, and their voyce indeed they heard, but figure they saw not. And because themselues alio did not suffer by the same things, they magnified thee: 2. and they that before had been hurt, because they were not hurt, gaue thanks: and that there might be a difference, they asked a guift. 3. For the which cause they had a burning pillar of tyre for a guide of the vnknown way, and thou gauest them the sunne without hurt of a good harbour. 4. They indeed worthie to lacke light, and to suffer the prison of darkenes, which kept thy children shut vp, by whom the vncorrupt light of the law began to be giuen to the world. 5. When they decreed to kil the infants of the iust: and (b) one child being layd forth, and deliuered, thou to the reproofing of them, didst take away a multitude of children, and destroyedst them together in the mightie water. 6. For that night was knowen before of our fathers, that they knowing indeed what othes they had credited, might be of better comfort. 7. And by thy people indeed the health of the iust was receiued, but destruction by the vnjust. 8. For as thou didst hurt the aduersaries: so vs also thou didst magnifie, proouoking vs. 9. For the iust children of the good sacrificed secretly, and disposed the law of iustice in concorde: that the iust should receiue both good & euil alike, singing now the prayfes of the fathers. 10. But there sounded a disagreeing voyce of the enemies, and a lamentable mourning was heard for the bewayled infants. 11. And the seruant with the master was afflicted with like punishment, and a man of the vulgar sort suffered the like things to the King. 12. Al therefore alike by one name of death had dead ones innumerable. For neither did the liuing suffice to burie them: because in one moment, that which was the nobler nation of them, was destroyed. 13. For concerning al things being incredulous because of the enchantments, but then first when there was destruction of the first-begotten, they promised to be the people of God. 14. And one here an other there cast forth halfe aliue, shewed for what cause of death he died. 19. For the visions that troubled them, forewarned these things, that they might not perish as ignorant why they suffered euils. 20. But then (d) there touched the iust also a tentation of death, and a disturbance of the multitude was made in the wilderness: but thy wrath did not long continue. 21. For a mā without blame hastening to pray for the people, bringing forth the shield of his ministerie, prayer, and by incense alleading supplication, resisted the wrath, and made an end of the necessitie, shewing that he is thy seruant. 22. And he ouercame the multitudes, not in strength of bodie, nor with might of armour, but with a word subdued he him that vexed him, rehearsing the oathes of the parents, and the testament. 23. For when they were now fallen dead by heaps one vpon another, he stood between, and cut off the violence, and separated that way which leadeth to the liuing. 24. For in the vesture downe to the foote, which he had, was al the world: and the glorious things of the fathers were grauen in the foure iewels of stoncs, & thy magnificence was written in the diademe of his head. 25. And to these he that destroyed gaue peace, & these did he feare: for the prooffe onlie of wrath was sufficient.

For

For euerie creature according to his kind was fashioned agayne from the beginning, seruing thy percepts, that thy children might be kept without hurt. 7. For a clowde ouershadowed their campe, and out of the water which was before, there appeared drie land, and in the red sea a way without impediment, and of the great depth a springing felde: 8. through the which al the natiō passed, which was protected with thy hand, seeing thy meruelous things and wonders. 9. For euen as horses they fed on meate, and as lambs they reioyed, magnifying thee ô Lord, which didst deliuer them. 10. For they were mindful of those things, which had been done in their sciouning, how for the nation of beasts the earth brought forth flies, & for fishes the riuer yealded a multitude of frogs. 11. And last of al they saw a new creature of birdes, when allured by concupiscence they delired meats of delicioufnes. 12. For in comfort of their desire, there came vp to them the quaile from the sea : and vexations came vpon the sinners, not without those arguments, which were made before by the force of lighnings: for they suffered iustly according to their wickednes. 13. For they instituted a more detestable inhospitalitie: (b) some certes receiued not the vnknownen strangers, and other-some brought the good strangers into seruitude. 14. And not onlie these things, but indeed there was an other respect also of them: for they against their wil receiued the strangers. 15. But they that receiued them with gladnes, did afflict them with most cruel sorowes, that vsed the famerights : 16. but they were strucken with biindnes: as they in the dores of the iust, when they were couered with sodaine darkenes, euerie mā sought the passage of his doore. 17. For whiles the (c) elements are turned in themselves, as in an instrument the sound of the qualitie is changed, and al keepe their sound: wherfore it may be certainly iudged by the very sight. 18. For the things of the field were turned into things of the water : and what soeuer were swimming things passed into the land. 19. The fyre had force in water aboue his power, and the water forgot her quenching nature. 20. On the contrarie the flames vexed not the flesh of corruptible beasts walking therewith, neither did they melt that good meate, which was easily dissolued euen as yce. THE ARGUMENT OF ECCLESIASTICVS.

IN what sense this Book is sometimes called Salomons, we haue shewed in the Argument before the Book of wisdom. As likewise that it is Canonical Scripture. Wherto we might adde more testimonies of ancient Fathers: as S. Clement of Alexandria lib. 1. c. 8. Paedagogi, Origen ho. 8. in Numer. & ho. 1. in Ezech. S. Cyprian de opere & eleemos. S. Athanasius in Synopsi, & lib de virginitate, S. Basil in regul. disput. resp. 104. S. Gregorie Nazianzen Orat. 2. aduers. Iulian. S. Epiphanius har. 76. & in Ancorato, S. Hilarie, in Psal. 144. S. Ambrose de bono mortis, c. 8. & Ser. 22. in Psal. 118. S. Chrysostom ho. 33. ad populum Antioch. S. Augustin lib. 2. cap. 8. Doct. Christ. & lib. 17. cap. 20. de Ciuit. S. Gregorie the Great in Pal. 50. and manie others expressly cite this book as holie Scripture. But chiefly we relie vpon the auctoritie of the Church defining that it is Canonical.

It was written by Iesus the sonne of Sirach in Hebrew, about the time of Simon Iustus otherwise called Priscus: and translated into Greeke by the Authours Nephew, as the same Translatour testifieth in his Prologue, but expresseth not his owne name. It is called Ecclesiasticus, which signifieth a Collectour or Gatherer, as a common title of euerie ordinarie Preacher, instructing and exhorting the multitude gathered to a sermon: with difference from Ecclesiastes, which signifieth The Preacher, as a greater title of the chief or principal Preacher of anie Church, Citie, or Prouince, and agreeth most eminently to Christ our Sauour: who preached, and sendeth Preachers to the whole world. And for the excellent contents it may also rightly be called Panaretos, that is, a Receptacle or Store-house of al vertues, for the instruction of al in general, to cooperate with Gods grace in this life. and so enioy eternal glorie. In fourtie and three whole chapters, are mixtly the commendations and precepts of al sorts of vertues; sometimes in particular, but more often vnder the general names of wisdom and Iustice. In the other eight chapters are recited manie excellent examples of most renowned holie men: with praises and thanks to God.

Particular testimonies that this book is holie Scripture.

OF SIRACH.

THE knowledge of manie and great things hath been shewed vs by the Law and the Prophets, and others that folowed them: in which we ought ^(a) to prayse Israel for doctrine & wisdom: because not onlie they in speaking must needs be cunning, but strangers also both learning & writting may become most learned. My grandfather Iesus, after he gaue himselfe more amply to the diiigence of reading the Law and the Prophets, and other Books that were deliuered vs from our fathers; himself also would write some of those things, which perryne to doctrine and wisdom: that such as are desirous to learne, and to be made cunning in the same things, may inore and more be attent in minde, and be confirmed to the life that is according to the law. I exhort you thertore to come with beneuolence, and to read with attent studie, and to pardon vs for those things, wherein we seeming to folow the image of wisdom, may fayle in the composition of words: for the Hebrew words also ^(b) fayle when they shal be translated to an other tongue. And not onlie thete, but the Law also it-self, and the Prophets, and the rest of other books, haue no smal difference, when they are spoken within themselves. For in the eight and thirtieth yeare, in the time of Ptolomee Euergetes the King, after I came into Agypt, and when I had been there muchtime, I found there books leaft, of no smal nor contemptible doctrine. Thertore myself also thought it good and necessarie to adde some diligence and labour to interprete this book: and with much watching I brought forth this doctrine in space of time, that men may learne those things which reach them, that wil applie their minde, how they ought to order their manners, them that purpose to lead their life according to the Law of our Lord.

^(a) By reason of a more perfect law the people of Israel were more renowned then anie other nation in the world.

C H A P. I.

Wisdom proceedeth from God, appeareth in his creatures. 10. and is giuen in competent measure to al that feare God, 16. it bringeth al vertues, 27. excludeth al vices. 33. and is to be sought in simplicitie of hart.

Wisdom is of our Lord God, & hath been alwayes with him, & is before al time. 2. The sand of the sea, & the drops of rayne, & the dayes of the world (a) who hath numbred? The height of heauen, and breath of the earth, & profunditie of the depth, who hath measured? 3. The wisdom of God that goeth before al things, who hath searched out? 4. Wisdom was created before al things, & the vnderstanding of prudence from cuerlasting. 5. A fountayne of wisdom the word of God on high, and the entrance therof euerlasting commandments. 6. The roote of wisdom to whom hath it been reuealed, & the subtilities therof who hath knowen? 7. The discipline of wisdom to whom hath it been reuealed and made manifest, and the multiplication of her entrance who hath vnderstood? 8. There is one most high Creatour omnipotent, and mightie King, and to be feared exceedingly, sitting vpon his throne & the God of dominion. 9. He created her in the Holie Ghost, and hath seen, and numbred, and measured her. 10. And he hath powred her out vpon al his workes, and vpon al flesh according to his guift, and hath giuen her to them that feare him. 11. The feare of our Lord is (b) glorie, and gloriatio, and ioy, and a crowne of exultation. 12. The feare of our Lord shal delight the hart, and shal giue ioy, and gladnes, and length of dayes. 13. With him that feareth our Lord it shal be wel in the later end, and in the day of his death he shal be blessed. 14. The loue of God is honourable wisdom. 15. But they to whom she shal appeare in vision, they loue her in the vision, and in the agnizing of her great workes. 16. The feare of our Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and was created with the faythful in the wombe, and goeth with the elect women, and is knowen with the iust & faythful. 17. The feare of our Lord is religiofitie of knowledge. 18. Religiofitie shal keepe and iustifie the hart, shal giue ioy and gladnes. 19. With him that feareth our Lord it shal be wel, and in the dayes of nis consummation he shal be blessed. 20. The tuinesse of wisdom is to feare God, and fulnesse is of the fruits therof. 21. Al her house she shal fil with her generations, and the store-houses with her treasures. 22. A crowne of wisdom, the feare of our Lord, replenishing peace, and the fruit of saluation: 23. and hath seen, and numbred her: but both are the gifts of God. 24. Wisdom shal distribute knowledge, and vnderstanding of prudence: and exalteth the glorie of them that hold it. 25. The roote of wisdom is to feare our Lord: for the boughs therof are of long time. 26. In the rreasures of wisdom is vnderstanding, & religiofitie of knowledge: but to sinners wisdom is abominatio. 27. The feare of our Lord expelleth wisdom.

(a) Mans wisdom is not able to comprehend the workes of God.

(b) Eternal glorie is the fruit of the feare of our Lord: not that this one vertue sufficeth, but it is the beginning, grounded in true faith, and bringeth forth other vertues, diuine guifts, with the fruit of the Holie Ghost, and a ioyful crowne in the end.

siane: 28. for he that is without feare, can not be iustified: for the anger of his animositie, is his subuersion. 29. Vntil a time the patient shal suffeyne, and after shal be the reward of ioyfulness. 30. A good vnderstanding wil hide his words vntil a time, and the lips of manie shal shew forth his vnderstanding. 31. In the treasures of wisdom is signification of discipline: But the worship of God (c) is abomination to a sinner. 33. Sonne, coueting wisdom keep iustice, & God wil giue her to thee. 34. For the feare of our Lord is wisdom and discipline: and that which wel pleaseth him, 35. is fayth, and meeknes, and he wil fil his treasures. 36. Be not incredulous to the feare of our Lord: and come not to him with a double hart. 37. Be not an hypocrite in the sight of men, and be not scandalized in thy lips. 38. Attend to them, lest perhaps thou fal, and bring dishonour to thy soule, 39. and God reueale thy secrete, and in the mids of the synagogue cast thee downe: 40. because thou camest to our Lord wickedly, & thy hart is ful of guile and deceit.

C H A P. II.

Whosoener wil serue God must haue iustice, feare of God, and patience, 6. with confidence in God: 14. Dissemblers, incredulous, and impatient shal be miserable: 18. but the godlie shal receiue more grace.

SONNE, comming to the seruice of God, stand in iustice, and in feare, & prepare thy soule to tentation. 2. Represse thy hart, & susteyne: incline thine eare, & receiue the words of vnderstanding, (a) and make no hast in the time of * obduction. 3. Susteyne the sustentations of God: be ioyned to God, and susteyne, that thy life may increase in the later end. 4. Al that shal be applied to thee, receiue: and in sorow susteyne, and in thy humiliation haue patience: 5. for gold and siluer are tryed in the fyre, but acceptable men in the fornace of humiliation. 6. Belieue God, and he wil recouer thee: and direct thy way, and hope in him. Keepe his feare, and grow old therein. 7. Ye that feare our Lord, expect his mercie: & decline not from him, lest ye fal. 8. Ye that feare our Lord, belieue him, & your reward shal not be voyde. 9. Ye that feare our Lord hope in him: and mercie shal come to you for your delectation. 10. Ye that feare our Lord, loue him, & your harts shal be illumined. 11. Children behold the nations of men: and know ye that none hath hoped in our Lord, and hath been confounded. 12. For who hath continued in his commandement, and hath been forsaken? or who hath intocated him, and he despised him? 13. Because God is pitiful and merciful, and wil forgie finnes in the day of tribulation: and he is protectour to al that seeke him in truth. 14. (b) Woe to them of a double hart, & to wicked lips, and to the hands that doe euil, and to the sinner that goeth on the earth two wayes. 15. Woe to them that be dissolute of hart, which belieue not God: and therefore they shal not be protected of him. 16. Woe be to them, that haue lost patience, and that haue forsaken the right wayes, and haue declined into pcruerse wayes. 17. And what wil they doe, when our Lord

They that feare our Lord, wil seeke after the things that are wel pleasing to him: and they that loue him, shal be filled with his law. 20. They that feare our Lord, wil prepare their harts; and in his sight wil sanctifie their soules. 21. They that feare our Lord, keepe his commandments, and wil haue patience euen vntil his visitation, 22. saying: If we doe not penance, we shal fal into the hands of our Lord, and not into the hands of men. 23. HE children of wisdom are the Church of the iust: and their (a) nation, obedience and loue. 2. (b) Heare your fathers iudgement o children, and so doe that you may be saued. 3. For God hath honoured the father in the children: and inquiring of the mothers iudgement, hath confirmed it vpon the children. 4. He that loueth God, praying shal obteyne for sinnes, and shal refrayne himself from them, and shal be heard in the prayer of dayes. 5. And as he that gathereth treasure, so he also that honoureth his mother. 6. He that honoureth his father, shal haue ioy in children, and in the day of his prayer he shal be heard. 7. He that honoureth his father, shal liue the longer life: & he that obeyeth the father, shal refresh the mother. 8. He that feareth our Lord honoureth his parents, and as his Lords he wil serue them that begat him. 9. In worke and word, & al patience honour thy father, 10. that blessing may come vpon thee from him, & his blessing may remayne in the later end. 11. The fathers blessing establisheth the houses of the children: but the mothers curse rooteth vp the foundation. 12. Glorie not in the contumelie of thy father: for his confusion is no glorie to thee. 13. For the glorie of a man is by the honour of his father, and the father without honour is the dishonour of the sonne. 14. Sonne receiue the old age of thy father, and make him not sorowful in his life: 15. and if he fayle in vnderstanding, pardon him, and despise him not in thy strength: for the alme to the father shal not be in obliuion. 16. Contend not with a man of power . rich, ful of tong, or very ignorant. 6. Despise not the penitent, nor old folke. 8. Reioyce not at an enemies death. 9. Learne of the elder. 13. Obferue discretion in admonishing, lending, and in being furerie. 17. Reproue not Iudges. 18. Conuerse not with the furious, foolish, nor with strangers.

STRIVE not with a mightie man, lest perhaps thou fal into his hands. 2. Contend not with a rich man, lest perhaps he make an action against thee. 3. For (a) gold and siluer hath destroyed manie, and hath reached euen to the hart of Kings, and hath turned them. 4. Striue not with a man ful of tong, & thou shalt not heape stickes vpon his fyre. 5. Communicate not with the ignorant man, lest he speake il of thy progenie. 6. Despise not a man that turneth himself from sinne, nor vpbrayde him therwith: remember that we are al in state to be blamed. 7. Despise not a man in his old age: for we also shal become old. 8. Reioyce not of thine enemy dead: knowing that we doe al die, & would not that others should ioy therat. 9. Despise not the narration of wise ancients, and in their prouerbs be thou conuersant. 10. For of them thou shalt learne wisdom, and doctrine of vnderstanding, and to serue great men without blame. 11. Let not the narration of the ancients escape thee: for they learned of their fathers: 12. because of them thou shalt learne vnderstanding, and in time of necessitie to giue answer. 13. Kindle not the coles of sinners rebuking them, and be not kindled with the flame of the fire of their sinnes. 14. Stand not against the face of a contumelious person, lest he sit as a spie in wayte for thy mouth. 15. Lend not to a man mightier then thy self, and if thou doest lend, count it as lost. 16. Be not suretie about thy power: and if thou be suretie, thinke as if thou were to pay it. 17. Iudge not against a iudge: because he iudgeth according to that which is iust. 18. With the audacious goe not on the way, lest perhaps he burden thee with his euils: for he goeth according to his owne wil, and thou shalt perish together with his follie. 19. With an angrie man make no brawle, and with the audacious goe not into the desert: because bloud is as nothing before him, and where there is no helpe, he wil overthrow thee. 20. Conferre no counsel (c) with tooles, for they can not loue but such things as please them. 21. Betore a stranger doe no matter o. counsel: for thou knowest not what he wil bring forth. 22. Make not thy hart manifest to euerie man: lest perhaps he repay thee false kindnes, and speake reprochfully to thee.

With her that is a dauncer be not daily conuersant, nor heare her, lest perhaps thou perish in her efficacie. 5. Behold not a virgin, lest perhaps thou be scandalized in her beautie. 6. Giue not thy soule to harlots in any poynt: lest thou destroy thy self, and thine inheritance. 7. Looke not round about in the wayes of the citie, nor wander vp and downe in the streets therof. 8. Turne away thy face from a trimmed woman, and gaze not about vpon an others beautie. 9. By the beautie of a woman manie haue perished: and hereby concupiscence is inflamed as a fire. 10. Euerie woman, that is an harlot, shall be troden vpon as dung in the way. 11. Manie hauing admired the beautie of an other mans wife, haue become reprobate, for her communication burneth as fire. 12. (c) Doe not zelously desire the glorie and the riches of a sinner: for thou knowest not what his subuersion shall be. 17. Let not the iniurie of the vniust please thee, knowing that euen to hel the impious shall not please. 18. Be far from the man that hath power to kil, and thou shalt not suspect the feare of death. 19. And if thou comest to him, committe nothing, lest perhaps he take away thy life. 20. Know it to be communication with death; because thou shalt goe in the middes of snares, and shalt walke vpon the weapons of the sorowful. 21. According to thy power beware thee of thy neighbour, and treate with the wise and prudent. 22. Let iust men be thy ghefts, and let thy gloriation be in the feare of God, 23. and let the cogitation of God be in thy vnderstanding, & all thine enarration in the precepts of the Highest. 24. Workes shall be praysed in the hands of artificers, and the Prince of the people in the wisdom of his speach, but the word of the ancients in the sense. 25. An vnwise King shal destroy his people: and cities shal be inhabited by the vnderstanding of the prudent. 4. The power of the earth is in the hand of God, and he wil rayse vp a profitable ruler for a time ouer it. 5. The prosperitie of man is in the hand of God, & vpon the face of the scribe he wil put his honour. 6. Anie iniurie of thy neighbour remember not, and doe nothing by workes of iniurie. 7. Pride is odious before God and mē: and al the iniquitie of the natiō is execrable. 8. A (b) kingdome is translated frō nation vnto natiō, because of iniustices, and iniuries, and cōtunelies, and diuerse deceits. 9. But (c) nothing is more wicked then the couetous man. Why is earth and ashes proud? 10. Nothing is more wicked then to loue money. For he hath his soule also to sel: because in his life he hath cast forth his most inward things: 11. Al power is of short life. Long sicknes greueth the Physicion. 12. Short sicknes the Physiciō cutteth off at the first: so also the King is to day, & to morow he shal die. 13. For when a man shal die, he shal inherite serpents, and beasts, and wormes. 14. The beginning of the pride of man, is to apostatate from God: 15. because his hart is departed frō him that made him, for (d) pride is the beginning of al sinne: he that holdeth it, shal be filled with curse, & it shal subuert him in the end. 16. Therefore hath our Lord dishonoured the congregations of the euil, & hath destroyed them euen to the end. 17. God hath destroyed the seates of proud Princes, and hath made the meeke sitte in their stead. 18. God hath made the rootes of the proud nations to wither, and hath planted the humble of the nations themselues. 19. Our Lord hath subuerted the lands of the gentils, and hath destroyed them euen to the foundation. 20. He hath made of them to wither, and hath destroyed them, and hath made the memorie of them to cease from the earth. 21. Despise not the iust man that is poore, and magnifie not the sinful man that is rich. 27. The great one, and the iudge, and the mightie is in honour, and there is none greater then he that feareth God. 28. Free men wil serue a seruant that is wise: and a man that is prudent and hath discipline wil not murmur being rebuked, and the ignorant shal not be honoured. 29. Extol not thy self in doing thy worke, and linger not in the time of distresse: 30. better is he that worketh, and aboundeth in al things, then he that glorieth, and lacketh breath. 31. Sonne in mildenes keepe thy soule, and giue him honour according to his desert. 32. Him that sinneth against his owne soule who shal iustifie? and who shal honour him that dishonoureth his owne soule? 33. The poore man is glorified by his discipline and feare: & there is a man that is honoured for his substance. 34. and hath exalted his head: and manie haue merueled at him, and haue honoured God. 14. Good things and euil, life and death, pouertie and honestie are of God. 15. Wisdom and discipline, and the knowledge of the law are with God. Loue, and the wayes of good things are with him. 16. (d) Errour & darkenes are created with sinners: and they that reioyce in euils, waxe old in euil. 17. The gift of God is permanent to the iust, and his prospering shal haue successe for euer. 18. There is that is enriched by doing sparingly, and this is the portion of his reward, 19. in that he sayth: I haue found me rest, and now I wil eate of my goods alone: 20. and he knoweth not that time passeth, & death approacheth, 21. and he must leaue al to others, and shal die. 21. (e) In the day of good things be not vnmindful of euils: and in the day of euils be not vnmindful of good things: 28. because it is easie before God in the day of death to reward euerie one according to his wayes. 29. The malice of an houre maketh obliuion of great voluptuousnes, and in the end of a man is the disclosing of his workes. 30. Berore death prayse no man, because a man is knowen in his children. 31. Bring not euerie man into thine house: for there be manie traynes of the deceitful man. 32. For as the stomaks belche of stinking breaths, and as the partrich is brought in to the cage, and as the doe into the snare: so also the hart of the proud, and as a watch-man that seeth the fal of his neighbour. 33. For turning good things into euil he lyeth in wayte, and on the elect he wil lay a blot. 34. For of one sparke fire is increased, and of a deceitful man bloud is increased: and a sinful man lyeth in wayte for bloud. 35. Take heed to thy self of the pestiferous person, for he forgeth euils: lest perhaps he bring vpon thee derision for euer. 36. Admitte a stranger to thee, and he shal ouerthrow thee in an hurlewind, & shal make the an alien from thine owne.

(b) (Euerie one is bound to loue his enemy of charitie; but in prudence it behoueth not to credite him. According to our Sauours rule: Be wise as serpents and simple as doves. Mat. 10.

F thou wilt doe good, (a) know to whom thou doest it, and there shal be much thake in thy good deeds. 2. Doe good to the iust, and thou shalt find great reward: and if not of him, assuredly of our Lord. 3. For it is not wel with him, that is euer occupied in euil things, and that giueth not almes: because the Highest both hateth sinners, and hath mercie on them (b) that are penitent. 4. Giue to the merciful, and receiue not the sinner: both to the impious & to sinners he wil repay vengeance, keeping them vnto the day of vengeance. 5. Giue to the good, and receiue not a sinner. 6. Doe good to the humble, and giue not to the impious: prohibite to giue him bread, lest therin he be mightier then thou: 7. for thou shalt finde double euils in al the good, whatsoeuer thou shalt doe to him: because the Highest hateth sinners, and wil repay vengeance to the impious. 8. A freind shal not be knowen in prosperitie, and an enemy shal not be hid in aduersitie. 9. In the prosperitie of a man, his enemies are in sorow, and in affliction a freind is knowne. 10. (b) Gredite not thyne enemy for euer: for as a brasse pot his wickednes rusteth: 11. and if humbling himself he goe crouching, be aduised in thy mind, and beware of him. 12. Place him not by thee, neither let him sit on thy right hand, lest perhaps turning into thy place, he seeke after thy seate: and at the last thou know my words, and be pricked in my sayings. 13. For one houre he wil tarie with thee: but if thou decline, he wil not abide it. 15. In his lips the enemy speaketh sweetly, and in his hart he lyeth in wayte, that he may overthrow thee into the pit. 16. In his eyes the enemy weepeth: and if he may finde a time, he wil not be satisfied with blood: 17. and if euils happen to thee, thou shalt finde him there first. 18. The manners of lying men are without honour: and their confusion is with them without intermission. 29. A wise man in his words shall vtter himself, and a prudent man shall please great persons. 30. He that tilleth his land, shall make an high heape of corne: and who so worketh iustice, he shall be exalted: and he that pleaseth great men, shall auoide iniquitie. 31. Presents & gifts blind the eyes of iudges, and as one dumbe in the mouth turneth away their chastisements. 32. (c) Wisdom hid, and treasure not seen: what profit is there in both? 33. (d) Better is he that concealeth his foolishnes, then the man that hideth his wisdom.

C H A P. XXI.

An inuectiue against sinne in general, 5. an diuers in particular.

S O N N E hast thou sinned? doe so no more: but for the old also pray that thay may be forgiuen thee. 2. (a) As from the face of a serpent flye from sinnes: and if thou approach to them they wil receiue thee. 3. The teeth of a lion the teeth thereof, killing the foules of men. 4. Al iniquitie is as a two-edged sword, there is no remedie for the wound thereof. 5. Brawling and iniuries shal bring the substance to nothing: and the house that is verie rich, shal be made nothing by pride: to the substance of the proude shal be rooted out. 6. The prayer of the poore out of the mouth shal come to his eares, and iudgement shal come for him speedily. 7. He that hateth chastisement, is (b) the trace of a sinner: and he that feareth God, (c) wil turne to his owne hart. 8. The mightie in a bold tongue is knowen a far off, and a wiseman knoweth himself to fal by him. 9. He that buileth his house at other mens charges, is as he that gathereth his stones (d) in the winter. 10. The synagogue of sinners is as tow gathered together, and their consummation a flame of fire. 11. The way of sinners is paued with stones, & in their end hel, & darkenes, and paines. 12. He that keepeth iustice, shal containe the vnderstanding therof. 13. The consummation of the feare of God wisdom and vnderstanding. 14. He shal not be taught, that is not wise in good. 15. But there is wisdom that aboundeth in euil: and there is no vnderstanding where bitternes is. 16. The knowledge of the wise shal abound as an inundation, and his counsel is permanent as a fountaine of life. 17. The hart of a foole is as a broken vessel, and al wisdom it shal not hold. 18. A man of knowledge wil praise what soeuer wise word he shal heare, and wil applie it to himself: the riotous man hath heard it, and it shal displease him, and he wil cast it behind his back. 19. The (e) narration of a foole is as a burde in the way: for in (f) the lippes of the wise shal grace be found. 20. The mouth of the prudent is sought in the Church, and they wil thinke vpon his words in their harts. 21. As a house destroied, so is wisdom to a foole: & the knowledge of the vnwise inexplicable wordes. 22. Fetters on the feete, doctrine to a foole, and as manicles vpon the right had. 23. A foole in laughter exalteth his voice, but a wise mā wil scarce laugh secretly. 24. Doctrine to the prudent is a golden ornamēt, and as it were a bracelet on the right arme. 25. The foote of a foole goeth easely into his neighbours houte: & a cunning mā wil be abashed at the person of the mightie. 26. A foole wil looke from the window into the house: but the nurtered wil stand without. 27. It is the follie of a man to harken by the dore: and a wiseman wil be greiued with the contumelie. 28. The lippes of the vnwise shal tel foolish things: but the word

(a) As a serpent deceitfully approacheth & stingeth the bodie, so al sinnes inuegle and hurt the soule.

(b) It is a signe that he is guiltie, who conuinceth freindly admonition.

(c) He that truly feareth God wil diligently examine his owne acts & defects when he is warned.

(d) As wals of stone built in the frost, so riches or good name vniustly gotten wil not continue long.

(e) Senseles or bad talke is tedious to al good men.

(f) Wordes that may edifie are grateful to al goodlie cares.

(g) Wicked men condemning the diuel or anie other wicked, doe indeed condemne themselues. And to them agreeth that sentence of our Sauour: By thyne owne mouth I iudge thee, naughty seruant. Luc. 19.

(a) Contempt & ignominie is the worldlie punishment of the slouthful, besides his eternal damnation at the day of iudgement. Mat. 25. 7. 30.

of the wise shal be pondered in balance. 29. The hart of fooles is in their mouth: and the mouth of wisemen is in their hart. 30. Whiles (g) the impious curseth the diuel, he curseth his owne soule. 31. The whisperer shal defile his soule, and shal be hated in al: and he that shal abide with him, shal be odious: the stil man and wise shal be honoured.

C H A P. XXII.

An other admonition against slouth, 3. dissolute children, 6. and mirth out of season. 7. Fooles are hardly corrected, 10. more to be bewayled then the dead. 14. Much talke doth not profite them. 24. Offend not, nor feare not a freind. 33. Keepe alwayes guard of thy tongue.

THE sluggard is stoned (a) with a durtie stone, & al men wil speake of his disgrace. 2. The sluggard is stoned with the dung of oxen: and euerie one that shal touch him, wil shake his hands. 3. The confusion of the father is of a sonne without discipline: and the daughter shal be made of lesse account. 4. A wise daughter is an inheritance to her husband: for she that confoundeth, is made a contumelie to her father. 5. She that is bold shameth father and husband, and shal not be inferiour to the impious: but of them both she shal be dishonoured. 6. Musike in mourning is a tale out of time: scourges and doctrine are at al time wisdom. 7. He that teacheth a foole, is as he that gleweth together a pot-shard. 8. He that telleth a word to him that heareth not, is as he that raiseth vp a man sleeping out of an heauie sleepe. 9. He speaketh with him that sleepeth, which vttereth wisdom to a foole: and in the end of the narration he saith: Who is this? 10. Weepe vpon the dead, for his light hath failed: and weepe vpon (b) a foole, for he faileth in vnderstanding. 11. Weepe a little vpon the dead, because he is at rest. 12. For the wicked life of the very wicked, aboue the death of a foole. 13. The mourning of the dead is seuen dayes: but of a foole and of the impious, al the daies of their life. 14. Speake not much with a foole, and goe not with the vnwise. 15. Keepe thy selfe from him, that thou haue no molestation, and thou shalt not be defiled with his sinne. 16. Turne aside from him, and thou shalt finde rest, and shalt not be wearied with his follie. 17. What shal be heuier then lead? and what other name hath it but foole? 18. It is easier to beare sand and salt, and a masse of yron, then an vnwise man, and a foole, and impious. 19. A frame of wood bound together in the foundation of a building, shal not be dissolved: so also the hart confirmed in the cogitation of counsel. 20. The cogitation of the wise at al time, yea by feare shal not be depraued. 21. As itakes in high places, and plaitterings laid without coft, shal not abide against the face of the winde: 22. so also a feareful hart in the cogitation of a foole shal not resist against the violence of feare. 23. As a trembling hart in the cogitation of a foole, al time wil not feare, so also he that continueth alwaies in the precepts of God. 24. He that pricketh the eie, bringeth forth teares: and he that pricketh the hart, bringeth forth feeling. 25. He that casteth a stone at fowles, and shal throw them downe: so he that speaketh reproachfully to his freind, dissolueth freindship. 26. (c) Although thou drawest a sword at a freind, despaire not: for there is returning to a freind. 27. If thou open a lad mouth, feare not: for there is agreement: (d) except taunt, and reproach, and pride, and reuealing of secret, and a traiterous wound: in al these things a freind wil flye away. 28. Possesse fidelitie with a freind in his pouertie, that in his goods also thou maist reioyce. 29. In the time of his tribulation continue faithful to him, that in his inheritance also thou maist be heire with him. 30. Before the fire the vapour of the chimney, and the smoke of the fire riseth on high: so also before bloud euil words, and contumelies, & threats. 31. I wil not be ashamed to salute a freind, from his face I wil not hyde my self: and if there chance euils to me by him, I wil beare it. 32. Euerie one that shal heare, wil beware of him. 33. Who wil giue a gard to my mouth, and a sure seale vpon my lips, that I sal not by them, and my tong destroy me?

A prayer against pride, 6. gluttonie, and luxurie. 7. Beware of offending in speech, 9. especially of vnlawful swearing. 15. blasphemie, 17. irreuerent and reproachful words. 21. Also of auarice, 24. fornication, and adulterie, 30. al which God seeth, and wil seuerely punish. 33. With other sinnes that follow therof.

Lord father, and dominatour of my life, (a) leaue me not in their counseil: nor suffer me to fall in them. 2. Who laieth on stripes in my cogitation, and in my hart the doctrine of wisdom, and in their ignorances they spare me not, and their offences appeare not, 3. and my ignorances increase not, and my offences be multiplied, and my sinnes abound, and I fall in the sight of mine aduersaries, & mine enimie reioyce? 4. O Lord father, and God of my life, leaue me not in their cogitation. 5. Hauines of mine eies giue me not, and al desire turne away from me. 6. Take from me the concupiscences of the bellie, and let not the concupiscences of copulation take hold of me, and giue me not ouer to a shamelesse and foolish minde. 7. O children heare (b) the doctrine of the mouth: and he that wil keepe it, shal not perish by his lips, nor be scandalized in most wicked workes. 8. A sinner is taught in his vanitie, and the proud and the euil speaker shal be scandalized in them. 9. Let not thy mouth be accu-

(d) In oathes God is called to wimes as he that can not lie, but blasphemie attributeth that to God which perteyneth not to him or attributeth to some creature that which only belongeth to God, and so is a contrarie sinne to vnlawful swearing. Both are mortal sinnes.

accustomed (c) to swearing: 9. for there be manie fals in it. 10. But let not the naming of God be vsual in thy mouth, and meddle not with the names of Saints, because thou shalt not scape free from them. 11. For as a seruant daily examined, lacketh not the marke therof: so euerie one that sweareth, and nameth, shal not be wholly purged from sinne. 12. A man that sweareth much shal be filled with iniquitie, and plague shal not depart frō his house. 13. And if he frustrate it, his sinne shal be vpon him: and if he dissemble, he offendeth double: 14. and if he sweare in vaine, he shal not be iustified: for his house shal be filled with retribution. 15. There is another (d) contrarie speach, also to death, be it not found in the inheritace of Iacob. 16. For of the merciful al those things shal be taken away, and they wil not wallow in sinnes. 17. Let not thy mouth be accustomed to (e) vnvtered speach: for there is in it a word of sinne. 18. (f) Remēber thy father and thy mother, for thou fittest in the midst of great men: 19. lest perhaps God forget thee in their sight, & being besotted with thy dailie custome, thou suffer reproch, & hadst better not haue been borne, and curse the day of thy natiuitie. 20. A man accustomed to the words of reproch, wil not be instructed in al his daies. 21. Two sorts abound in sinnes, and the third bringeth wrath and perdition. 22. An (g) hot soule as a burning fire wil not be quenched, til it swallow somewhat. 23. and a wicked man in the mouth of his flesh wil not cease til he kindie a fire. 24. To a man that is (h) a fornicatour al bread is sweete, he wil not be wearie transgressing vnto the end. 25. Euerie man that passeth (i) beyōd his owne bed, contemning against his owne soule, and saying: Who seeth me? 26. arkenes compasseth me, and the walles couer me, and no man beholdeth me: whom doe I feare? the Higheft wil not be mindful of my sinnes. 27. And he vndestandeth not that his eie seeth al things, for that such feare of man expelleth from him the feare of God, & the eies of men tearing him: 28. and he knoweth not that the eies of our Lord are much more brighter then the sunne, beholding round about al the waies of man, and the botome of the depth, and the harts of men, looking into the hidden parts. 29. For al things were knowne vnto our Lord God, before they were created: so also after it is perfected he beholdeth al things. 30. (k) Reuenge shal be taken on this man in the streets of the citie, and as an horse-colt he shal be chased: and where he expected not, he shal be apprehended. 31. And he shal be in dishonour with al men, for that he vnderstood not the feare of our Lord. 32. So euerie woman also that forsaketh her husband, & getteth inheritance by mariage of another. 33. For first she hath been vntaithful in the law of the Higheft: and secondly she hath sinned against her husband: thirdly she hath fornicated in adulterie, and hath gotten her children of another man. 34. This womā shal be brought into the Church, and vpō her children there shal be examination. 35. Her childrē shal not take roote, & her boughs shal not yeald fruite. 26. She shal leaue her memorie to be cursed, and her dishonour shal not be wiped out. 37. True and laudable wisdom 5. proceeding from God, 6. shineth in his workes: 12. especially in his Church, where she bringeth forth al vertues. 26. She inuiseth al vnto her, 44. and lighneseth her folowers with splendour of doctrine.

WISDOM shal praise (a) her soule, & shal be honoured in God, and shal glorie in the middes of her people, 2. and shal open her mouth in the churches of the Highest and shal glorie in the sight of his power, 3. and in the middes of her people she shal be exalted, and in the holie assemblie she shal be admired, 4. and in the multitude of the elect she shal haue praise, and among the blessed she shal be blessed, saying: 5. I came forth from the mouth of the Highest, the first begotten before al creatures. 6. I made that in the heauens there should rise light: that fraileth not, and as a cloud I couered al the earth. 7. I dwelt in the highest places, and my throne is in the pillar of a cloud. 8. I alone haue gone round about the compasse of heauen, and haue penetrated into the bottome of the depth, and haue walked in the waues of the sea, 9. and stood in al the earth: and in al people. 10. and in euerie natiō I haue had the primacie: 11. and I haue by strength trode downe the harts of al the excellent, and the base; and in al these things (b) I sought rest, & I shal abide in the inheritance of our Lord. 12. Then the creatour of al commanded, and said to me: & he that (c) created me, rested in my tabernacle, 13. and he said to me: Inhabite (d) in Iacob, and inherite in Israel, and take roote in myne elect. 14. From the beginning and before the worlds was I created, and vnto the world to come, I shal not cease, and in the holie habitation I haue minitred before him. 15. And so in Sion was I established, and in the sanctified citie likewise I rested, and my power was in Ierusalem. 16. And I tooke roote in an honourable people, and in the portion of my God his inheritance, and my abiding is in the ful assemblie of saints. 17. I am exalted as a cedar in Libanus, and as a cyprest tree in mount Sion. 18. As a palme tree in Cades am I exalted, and as a rose plant in Iericho: 19. As a faire oliue tree in the fields, and as a plane tree by the water in the streets am I exalted. 20. I gaue an odour as cinnamon, & aromatical balme: as choien myrre haue I giuen the sweetnes of odour 21. and as storax, and galbanum, and onyx, and aloes, and as Libanus not cut, haue I perfumed myne habitation, and myne odour is a balme not mingled. 22. In me is al grace of way and truth, in me al hope of life and vertue. 26. Passe to me al ye that desire me, and be filled of my generations. 27. For my spirit is sweete aboute honie, and myne inheritance aboute honie and the honie combe. 28. My memorie is vnto generations of worlds. 29. They that (e) eate me, shal yet hunger: and they that drinke me, shal yet thirst. 30. He that heareth me, shal not be confounded: and they that worke in me, shal not sinne. 31. They that explicare me, shal haue life euerlasting. 32. Al these things are the book of life, and the testament of the Highest, & the knowledge of truth. 33. Moyse commanded a law in the precepts of iustices, and an inheritance to the house of Iacob, and the promises to Israel. 34. For her cogitation shal abound aboute the sea, and her counsels aboute the great depth. 40. I wisdom haue powred out riuers. 41. I as a fluse of a mightie water out of the riuer, I as the riuer Dioryx, & as a water condite I came out of paradise. 42. I said: I wil water my garden of plantes, and wil inebriate the fruit of my medow. 43. And behold my flute was made abundant, and my riuer came neere to a sea. 44. Because I illuminated doctrine to al as the morning light, & I wil declare it far. 45. I wil penetrate al the interiour parts of the earth, and wil behold al that sleepe, and wil illuminate al that hope in our Lord. 46. I wil yet powre out doctrine as prophecie, and wil leaue it to them that seeke wisdom, and wil not cease vnto their progenies euen to the holie age. 47. See yethat I haue not laboured for my self only, but for al that seeke out the truth,

Concord between brethren, neighbours, and man and wife, much pleaseth God.

3. A poore man proud, a rich man a liar, and an old man doting in carnal or worldlie things, are very hateful. 9. He that seeth his children good; and his enemies overthrowne; hath a good wife; offendeth not in speech; consenseth not to sinne; hath a true freind; teacheth good doctrine; hath sacred and humane knowledge; hath vndoubtedly nine happie things: but to feare God conuyneth 14. and excelleth al. 17. A wicked woman (heresse) is very deseftable, 30. and most vntolerable, if she haue supreme dominion.

N three things my spirit is pleased, which are approued before God, and men: 2. (a) The concord of brethren, and the loue of neighbours, and man and wife wel agreeing together. 3. Three sorts my soule hateth, and I am greatly greeued at their life: 4. (b) A poore man proud: & a rich man a lyer: an old man a foole, and doting. 5. The things that thou hast not gathered in thy youth, how shalt thou find them in thy old age? 6. How beautiful is iudgement for a gray head, and for ancients to know counsel! 7. How beautiful is wisdom for the aged, & vnderstanding glorious, and counsel! 8. Much cunning is the crowne of old men, and the teare of God is their glorie. 9. (c) Nine things not to be imagined of the hart haue I magnified, and the tenth I wil tel vnto men with my tong: 10. A man that hath ioy in his children; liuing and seeing the subuersion of his enemies. 11. Blessed is he that dwelleth with a wife woman; & that hath not offended with his tong; and that hath not serued such as are vnworthie of him. 12. Blessed is he that findeth a true freind; and that declareth iustice to an eare that heareth. 13. How great is he, that findeth wisdom and knowledge; but he is not aboute him (d) that feareth our Lord. 14. The feare of God hath set it-self aboute al things: 15. blessed is the man, to whom is giuen to haue the feare of God: he that holdeth it, to whom shal he be resembled? 16. The feare of God is the beginning of his loue: and the beginning of faith is to be fast ioyned vnto it. 17. The heauines of the hart is al plague: & al malice, (e) the wickednes of a woman. 18. And he wil see al plague, and not the plague of the hart: 19. & al wickednes, & not the wickednes of a woman: 20. and al obduction and not the obduction of them that hate him: 21. and al reuenge, and not the reuenge of the enemies. 22. There is no head worse then the head of a serpent: 23. and there is no anger aboute the anger of a woman. It shal be more pleasant to abide with a lyon and dragon, then to dwel with a wicked woman. 24. The wickednes of a woman changeth her face: and dark-

Al malice is short to the malice of a woman, the lot of sinners fall vpon her. 27. As the going vp a grauelie way in the feete of the aged, so a woman ful of tong to a quiet man. 28. Looke not vpon a womans beautie, and desire not a woman for beautie. 29. A womans anger, and impudencie, and confusion is great. 30. A woman (f) if she haue superioritie, is contrarie to her husband. 31. An humbled hart, and heauie countenance, and plague of hart, is a wicked woman. 32. Feeble hands, and disiointed knees, a woman that doth not make her husband happie. 33. From woman came the beginning of sinne, and by her we doe al die. 34. The praises of a good woman. 5. The betraying of a citie, mutenie of people, and false accusation are terrible, but a ielous woman is more grieuous. 10. Diuers il qualities of a bad woman. 16. More commendations of a good woman. 25. A doleful thing to see a valiant warier wanting liuelibood, a wise man not regarded, and greatest grieue to see a iust man become wicked. 28. A man ful of busines hardly careth for his soule: and an Inne-keeper often fismeth in words.

(a) An vnquiet life deprieth a man of much comfort: and therefore continual peace is as double life.

(b) As when oxen moue, the yoke on their necks doth moue withal: so a wicked woman (to wit hereticke) can not rest, nor let others rest quiet.

HE husband of a good wife is happie: for the number of his yeares is (a) double. 2. A strong woman delighteth her husband, and shal accomplish the yeares of his life in peace. 3. A good woman is a good portion, in the good portion of them that feare God shal she be giuen to a man for good deeds. 4. And the hart of rich and poore is good, at al time their countenance is merie. 5. Of three things my hart hath been afraid, and at the fourth my face hath trembled: 6. The betraying of a citie, and a gathering together of the people: 7. false calumnie, al more grieuous then death. 8. A ielous woman is the sorow and mourning of the hart. 9. In a ielous woman is a scourge of the tong, communicating with al. 10. As (b) a yoke of oxen that is moued, so also a wicked woman: he that holdeth her, is as he that taketh hold of a scorpion. 11. A woman giuen to drunkennes is great anger: & her contumelie and turpitude shal not be hid. 12. The fornication of a woman shal be knowen in the lifting vp of her eies, and in her eie-lids. 13. On thy daughter that turneth not away her self, set sure watch: lest occasion found she abuse her self. 14. Take heede of the impudencie of her eies, and meruail not if she contemne thee. 15. As a waytaring man that thirteth, wil the open

(c) The grace of a diligent woman shal delight her husband, and shal fatte his bones. 17. Her discipline is the gift of God. 18. A wise and still woman, there is no exchange for a soule instructed. 19. A holie, and shamefast woman, is grace vpon grace. 20. And al weight is not worthie a continet soule. 21. Fear of God defendeth from al aduersaries. 5. Follie is vnconstant. 8. God disposeth al to the best. 13. Man is in Gods hand, as clay in the potters. 20. Superiours must keepe their auctoritie, and their subiects in discipline.

TO him that feareth our Lord euils shal not happen, but in temptation God wil keepe him, and deliuer him from euils. 2. A wise man hateth not the commandments and iustices, and he shal not be shaken as a shippe in a storme. 3. A man of vnderstanding belieueth the law of God, and the law is sure to him. 4. He that repeateth an interrogation, shal better prepare his answer, and so shal be heard, and shal keepe discipline. 5. (a) The hart of a foole is a wheele of a carte: & his cogitation as a turning axeltree. 6. A stalion horse neyeth vnder euerie one that sitteth vpon him so: a freind that is a scorner. 7. Why doth one day excel an other, and one light an other, and one yeare an other yeare of the sunne? 8. By the knowledge of our Lord they were separated, the sunne being made, and keeping the precept. 9. And he changed times, and the festiual dayes thereof, and in the same they celebrated the festiual daies at an houre. 10. Of them God exalted and magnified, and of them he put into the number of daies. And al men are of the ground, and of the earth, from whence Adam was created. 11. In the multitude of the discipline of our Lord he separated them, and changed their waies. 12. Of them he blessed, and exalted: and of them he sanctified, and applied to himself: and of them he cursed and humbled, and conuerted them from their separation. 13. As potters clay is in his hand, to fashion and dispose it. 14. Al his wayes according to his disposition: so man in the hand of him, and he wil render to him according to his iudgement. 15. Against euil is good, and against death life: so also against a iust man a sinner. And so looke vpon al the workes of the Highest. Two against two, and one against one. 16. And I awaked latt, and as he gathereth berries after the grape gatherers. 17. In the blessing of God I also haue hoped: and as he that gathereth grapes, haue I filled the wine presse. 18. See that I haue not laboured for my self only, but for al that seeke out discipline. 19. Heare me ye great men, and al peoples, and ye rulers of the Church harken with your cares. 20. To sonne and wife, brother and freind, giue not power ouer thee in thy life: and giue not thy possession to an other: lest perhaps thou repent thee, and thou entreat for them. 21. Whiles thou art yet aliuie and takest breath, al flesh shal not change thee. 22. For it is better that thy children aske of thee, then that thou looke toward the hands of thy children. 23. In al thy workes be exquisite. 24. Giue no staine to thy glorie. In the day of the consummation of the dayes of thy life, and in the time of thy decease ditribute thine inheritance. 25. Fodder, and wand, and burden for an asse: bread, and discipline, and worke for a seruant. 26. He worketh in discipline, and seeketh to rest: release him his hands, and he seeketh libertie. 27. The yoke and the reyne bend a stiffe necke, and continual workes doe bowe a seruant. 28. For a malicious seruant torment & fetters, send him into worke, that he be not idle. 29. For idienes hath taught much naughtines. 30. Set him to worke: for so it becometh him. And if he be not obedient, bow him with fetters, and exceede not ouer al flesh: but without iudgement doe no grieuous thing. 31. If thou haue a faithful seruant, let him be vnto thee as thy soule: as a brother so entreat him: because in the blood of thy soule thou hast gotten him. 32. If thou hurt him vniustly, he wil runne away: 33. if rising vp he depart, thou knowest not whom to aske, and what way to seeke him.

C H A P. XXXIIII.

Trust not vaine dreames, southsayings, nor lies. 9. Much good is got by experience 14. and more by fearing God. 21. God reiecteth the oblations of the wicked: 24. Defrauding the poore is like to manslaughter. 28. Destroy not that an other buildeth. 30. Repentance without amendment is nothing worth.

(a) Vaine dreames are not to be regarded: but some are good, & from God. Gen. 37. 40. 41. Dan. 2. 4. Mat. 1.

(b) Whatsoeuer is written in holy Scripture is vndoubtedly true: and no parte of the law shal perish.

V AINE hope & lying is to a foolish man: & (a) dreames extol the vnwise. 2. As he that apprehendeth a shadow, and pursueth the winde: so is he also that attendeth to lying visions. 3. According to this is the vision of dreames: as a mans similitude before the face of a man. 4. Of the vncleane what shal be made cleane? and of a lyer what truth shal be said? 5. Diuination of error, and lying southsayings, and the dreames of them that doe euil, are vanitie. 6. And as a woman that traueleth, thy hart suffereth phantasies: vnlesse it be a vision sent forth from the Highest, set not thy hart vpon them. 7. For dreames haue made manie to erre, and they that hoped in them haue failed. 8. (b) The word of the law shal be fulfilled

without lying, and (c) wisdom in the mouth of the faithful shal be made plaine. 9. He that hath not been proued, what knoweth he? A man expert in manie things, shal think manie things: and he that hath learned manie things, shal declare vnderstanding. 10. He that is not tryed, knoweth few things: and he that hath been in manie things, multiplyeth wickednes. 11. He that hath not been proued, what manner of things knoweth he? He that is deceiued, shal abound with wickednes. 12. I haue seen manie things in wandring to and fro, and very manie fashions of words. 13. Sometimes I haue been in danger vnto death for these things, and I was deliuered by the grace of God. 14. The spirit of them that feare God is sought, & at his sight shal be blessed. 15. For their hope is on him that saueth them, and the eyes of God vpon them that loue him. 16. He that feareth our Lord shal tremble at nothing, and shal not dread: because he is his hope. 17. His soule is blessed that feareth our Lord. 18. To whom doth he looke, and who is his strength? 19. The eyes of our Lord are vpon them that feare him, a protectour of might, a stay of strength, a couer from the heate, and shadow for the noone time, 20. a sauing from offence, and helpe from falling, exalting the soule, and illuminating the eyes, giuing health, and life, and blessing. 21. The oblation of him that immolateth of an vniust thing is spotted, and the scorings of the vniust are not acceptable. 22. Our Lord is onlie theirs that expect him in the way of truth and iustice. 23. The Highest alloweth not the guifts of the wicked: neither hath he regard to the oblations of the vniust, neither wil he be made propitious for sinnes by the multitude of their sacrifices. 24. He that offereth sacrifice of poore mens substance, is as he that sacrificeth the sonne in the presence of his father. 25. The bread of the needie, is the life of the poore: he that defraudeth it, is a man of bloud. 26. He that taketh away bread in swet, is as he that killeth his neighbour. 27. He that sheddeth bloud, and that defraudeth the hired man, are brethren. 28. (d) One building, and an other destroying: what profite haue they but the labour? 29. One praying, and an other cursing: whethers voice wil God heare? 30. He that is washed from the dead, (e) and toucheth him againe, what doth his washing profite? 31. so a man that fasteth in his sinnes: and doing the same againe, what doth he profite in humbling himself? who wil heare his prayer?

(c) God also prouideth that alwayes there be some which truly explicate his law.

(d) He that destroyeth that an other buildeth, bringeth two mens labours to nothing.

(e) Reciduation into sinne maketh the former repentance frustrate.

Observation of the commandments, 4. and sacrifice of the iust please God, 12. not the sacrifice of the wicked. 14. God proteſteth the poore and deſolate, 19. heareth the prayer of the humble, and rendereth to al as they deſerue.

E (a) that keepeth the law, multiplieth oblation. 2. It is an holſome ſacrifice to attend to the commandments, and to depart from al iniquitie. 3. And to offer propitiation by ſacrifice for iniuſtices, and to retire from iniuſtice is prayer for ſinnes. 4. He who offereth the flower of wheat, ſhal giue thanks: and he that is merciful offereth ſacrifice. 5. To depart from iniquitie is a thing that pleaſeth our Lord wel, and to depart fro iniuſtice is an intreating for ſinnes. 6. (b) Thou ſhalt not appeare before the ſight of our Lord emptie. 7. For al theſe things are done becauſe of the cōmandmēt of God. 8. The oblation of the iuſt maketh a fatte altar, and is an odour of ſweetnes in the ſight of the Higheſt. 9. The ſacrifice of the iuſt is acceptable, and our Lord wil not forget the memorie thereof. 10. Reſerue glorie to God with a good minde: and diminiſh not the firſt fruits of thine hands. 11. In euerie giſt make thy countenance chereful, and in ioyfulnes ſanctifie thy tithes. 12. Giue to the Higheſt according to his giſt, and with a good eie doe according to the abilitie of thine hāds: 13. becauſe our Lord is a rewarder, and wil repay thee (c) ſeuē times ſo much. 14. Offer not wicked giſts, for he wil not receiue thē. 15. And looke not vpon an vniuſt ſacrifice, becauſe our Lord is iudge, and there is not wiſh him the glorie of perſon. 16. Our Lord wil not accept perſon againſt the poore, and he wil heare the prayer of him that is hurt. 17. He wil not deſpiſe the prayers of the pupil: nor the widow, if ſhe power out ſpeach of mourning. 18. Doe not the widows reares rūne downe to the cheek, & her exclamatiō vpon him that cauſeth them to runne? 19. For from the cheek they goe vp euen to heauen, and our Lord the hearer wil not be delighted in them. 20. He that adorerh God in delectation, ſhal be receiued, & his petition ſhal approche euen to the cloudes. 21. The prayer of him that humblēth himſelf, ſhal penetrate the cloudes: and til it approch he wil not be comforted: and he wil not depart til the Higheſt behold. 22. And our Lord wil not belong, but wil iudge the iuſt, and wil doe iudgement: and the ſtrongeſt wil not haue patience in them, that he may crush their backe: 23. and he wil repay vengeance to the Gentiles, til he take away the multitude of the proude: & breake the ſcepters of the vniuſt, 24. til he reward men according to their doings: and according to the workes of Adam, and according to his preſumption. 25. til he iudge the iudgement his people, and ſhal delight the iuſt with his mercie: 26. The mercie of God is beautiful in the time of tribulation, as a cloude of raine in the time of drought.

Beware of a feined, & loue a sure freind. 7. Consult with the wise, trustie, 15. and vertuous, 19. especially relying vpon God. 21. The tongue is cause of much good, or much euil. 30. Be temperate in diet.

VERIE freind wil say: I also haue ioyned freindship: (a) but there is a freind, in name only a freind. Doth there not sorow remaine euen to death? 2. But a companion and freind wil be turned to enmitie. 3. O most wicked presumption, whence wast thou created to couer the drie land with malice, and with the deceitfulnes thereof? 4. A companion is pleasant with his freind in delectations, and in the time of tribulation he wil be an aduersarie. 5. A companion is sorie with his freind for his bellies sake, and he wil take a shield against the enemy. 6. Forget not thy freind in thy minde, and be not vnmindeful of him in thy riches. 7. Consult not with him which betraieih, and hide thy counsel from them that enuie thee. 8. Euerie counseler vttereth counsel, but there is a counseler in himselfe. 9. From such a counseler keepe thy soule. First know what his necessitie is: for he wil deuise to his owne minde: 10. lest perhaps he thrust a sharpe stake into the ground and say to thee: 11. Thy way is good; and stand ouer against thee to see what wil befall thee. 12. With an irreligious man treat not of holines, & with the vniust of iustice, and with a woman of the thing whereof she is iealous: with a feareful man of warre, with a marchant of traficke, with a byer of selling, with an enuious man of giuing thankes, 13. with the impious of pietie, with the vn honest of honestie, with the field labourer of al worke, 14. with him that worketh by the yeare of the ending of the yeare, with a slouthful seruant of much working: attend not to these in al counsel. 15. But be continual with a holie mā, whomsoeuer thou shalt know to obserue the feare of God, 16. whose soule is according to thine owne soule: and who whē thou shalt stumble in the darke, wil be sorie for thee. 17. And establish with thy self an hart of good counsel: for there is none other thing more worth to thee then it. 18. The soule of a holie man vttereth sometime true things, more then seuen warchmen that sitte in a high place to watch. 19. And in al these (b) beseech the Highest, that he direct thy way in truth. 20. Before al workes let a true word 21. goe before thee, and stable counsel before euerie act. 21. A wicked word shal change the hart: out of which, rise foure partes, good, and euil, life, and death: and the tongue is a continual ruler of them. There is a subtile man teacher of manie, & to his owne soule he is vnprofitable. 22. A cunning mā hath taught manie, and is sweet to his owne soule. 23. He that speaketh sophistically, is odious: in euerie thing he shal be defrauded. 24. Grace is not giuen him of our Lord: for he is defrauded of al wisdom. 25. There is a wise mā, wife to his owne soule: and the fruit of his vnderstanding is laudable. 26. A wise man teacheth his people, and the fruits of his vnderstanding are faithful. 27. A wise man shal be filled with blessings, and they that see wil praise him. 28. The life of a man is in the number of dayes: but the dayes (c) of Israel are innumerable. 29. A wise man in the people shal inherite honour, and his name shal liue for euer. 30. Sonne in thy life (d) proue thy soule: & if it be wicked, giue it not power: 31. for al things are not expedient for al, and euerie kinde pleaseth not euerie soule. 32. Be not greedie in al feasting, and powre not out thy self vpon al meate: 33. for in manie meates there shal be infirmitie, and greedines shal approach euen to choler. 34. Because of surfet manie haue died: but he that is abstinent, shal adde life.

God hath ordained corporal 9. and spiritual medicines. 16. Use moderate, not excessive sorrow for the dead. 26. Tradesmen and artificers are necessarie, much more spiritual pastors.

HONOUR the phisition (a) for necessitie: for the Highest hath created him. 2. For al medicine is of God, & it shal receiue guift of the King. 3. The knowledge of the phisition shal exalt his head, and in the sight of great men he shal be praised. 4. The Highest hath created medicines of the earth, and a wise man will not abhorre them. 5. Was not bitter water made sweete by wood? 6. The vertue of the things is come to the knowledge of men, and the Highest hath giuen knowledge to men, for to he honoured in his meruelous things. 7. Curing with these things he shal mitigate paine, and the apothecarie shal make confections of sweetnes, and shal make ointments of health, and his workes shal not be consummared. 8. For the peace of God is vpon the face of the earth. 9. Sonne (b) in thine infirmitie contemne not thy self, but pray our Lord, and he wil cure thee. 10. Turne away from sinne, and direct thy hands, and from al offence cleanse thy hart. 11. Giue sweetnes and a memorial of fine floure, and make a fat oblation, and giue place to the phisition. 12. For our Lord created him: and let him not depart from thee, because his workes be necessarie. 13. For there is a time when thou maist fal into their hands: 14. and they shal beseech our Lord, that he direct their rest, and healing; for their conueriation. 15. He that sinneth in his sight, that made him, shal fal into the hands of the phisition. 16. Sonne, vpon the dead shed teares, and begin to weepe as hauing suffered doleful things, and according to iudgement couer his bodie, and neglect not his burial. 17. But (c) for detraction beare bitterly the mourning of him one day, and be comiorted for the heauines, 18. and make mourning according to his desert one day, or two, because of detraction. 19. For by heauines death hasteneth, and it couereth the strength, and sorow of the hart boweth the necke. 20. In abstraction sorow is permanent: and the substance of the poore is according to his hart. 21. Giue not thine hart into heauines, but expel it from thee: and remember the latter endes, 22. and forget not: for neither is there returne, and him thou shalt profit nothing, and thou shalt hurt thy self. 23. Be mindful of my iudgement: for thine also must be so: to me yesterday, and to thee to day. 24. In the repose of the dead make the memorie of him to rest, and comfort him in the departing of his spirit. 25. (d) The wisdom of a scribe in the time of vacance: and he that is lesse in action, shal receiue wisdom. 26. With what wisdom shal he be replenished, that holdeth the plough, and glorieth in the goade, driueth oxen with the prickle, and conuerseth in their workes, and his talke is in the breede of buls? 27. He wil giue his hart to turne vp furtowes, and his watching in the feeding of kine. 28. So euerie craftiman and workemaster that passeth the night as the day, that maketh grauen seales, and his continual diligence varieth the picture: he wil giue his hart to the similitude of the picture, and his watching wil perfect the worke. 29. So the yronsmith sitting by the anuil and considering the worke of yron. The vapour of the fire wil parch his flesh, and he striueth in the heate of the founace: 30. The noyse of the hammer reneweth his eare, and his eye is against the similitude of the vessel. 31. He wil giue his hart to the finishing of the workes, and his watching wil polish to perfection. 32. So the potter sitting at his worke, turning the wheele with his feete, who is alwayes set in carefulnes for his worke, and al his working is in number: 33. With his arme he wil fashion the clay, and before his feete he wil bend his strength: 34. He wil giue his hart to finish the vernithing thereof, and his watching wil make cleane the founace. 35. Al these haue hoped in their hands, and euerie one is wise in his owne art. 36. Without these a citie is not built. 37. And they shal not inhabite, nor walke therein, and they shal not leape high into the congregation. 38. Vpon the iudges seate they shal not sitte, and the ordinance of iudgement they shal not vnderstand, neither shal they declare discipline and iudgement, and in parables they shal not be found: 39. but they shal confirme the creature of the world, and their prayer shal be in the worke of their art, applying their soule, & searching in the law of the Highest.

C H A P. XXXIX.

Godlie knowledge, 16. puritie of soule, 20. humble conceipt of our selues, 27. and consideration of eternal reward, are good dispositions to spiritual contemplation.

TH E (a) wise man wil search out the wisdom of al the ancients, and wil be occupied in the prophets. 2. He wil keepe the narration of famous men, and wil enter withal into the subtilities of parables. 3. He wil search out the hidden senses of prouerbs, and wil conuerse in the secrets of parables. 4. In the middes of great men he wil minister, and in the sight of the president he shal appeare. 5. He shal passe into the land of strange nations: for he shal trie good and euil in men. 6. He wil giue his hart to watch early vnto our Lord, that made him, and he wil pray in the sight of the Higheft. 7. He wil open his mouth in prayer, and wil entreat for his sinnes. 8. For if it shal please our great Lord, he wil fil him with (b) the spirit of vnderstanding: 9. and he wil power forth the words of his wisdom as showres, and in prayer wil confesse to our Lord. 10. And he wil direct his counsel, and discipline, and in his secrets he wil consult. 11. He wil open the discipline of his doctrine, & wil glorie in the law, of the testament of our Lord. 12. Manie wil praise his wisdom, and it shal not be abolished for euer. 13. The memorie of him shal not depart, and his name shal be required from generation to generation. 14. Nations shal declare his wisdom, & the Church wil shew forth his praise. 15. If he continue, he shal leaue a name more then a thousand: and if he rest, it shal profite him. 16. I wil yet consult that I may declare: For as with furie I am replenished. 17. In voice he saith: Heare me ye diuine fruits, and as the rose plated vpon the riuers of waters fructifie ye. 18. As Libanus (c) haue ye the odours of sweetnes. 19. Flourish ye flowres, as the lillie, and giue forth an odour, and bring forth leaues in grace, and praise with song, and blesse our Lord in his workes. 20. (d) Giue magnificence to his name, and confesse vnto him in the voice of your lippes, and in songs of the lippes, and harps, & thus shal ye say in confession: 21. Al the workes of our Lord are exceeding good. 22. At his word the water stood as an heape: and at the word of his mouth as it were receptacles of waters: 23. because in his commandment placabilitie is made, and there is no diminishing of his saluation. 24. The workes of al flesh are before him, and there is nothing hid from his eyes. 25. From world to world he beholdeth, and nothing is meruelous in his sight. 26. him: 29. euen he turned waters into drought, & the earth was made drie: and his waies are direct to the waies of them: so to sinners stumbling blocks in his wrath. 30. Good things were created for the good from the beginning, so for the wicked, good things and euil. 31. (f) The beginning of the thing necessarie for the life of men, water, fire, and yron, salt, milke, and bread of flower, and honie, and the cluster of grape, and oyle, & clothing. 32. Al these shal be conuerted to saints into good, so also to the impious and to sinners into euil. 33. There are spirits, that were created (g) for vengeance, and in their furie they haue confirmed their torments: 34. in the time of consummation they shal powre out strength: and they shal accomplish the furie of him, that made them. 35. Fire haile, famine, and death, al these were created for vengeance: 36. the teeth of beasts, and scorpions, and serpents, and sword reuenging the impious vnto destruction. 37. In his commandments they shal make merrie, and on the earth they shal be prepared when neede is, and in their times they shal not pretermitt a word. 38. Therefore from the beginning I was confirmed, and I haue consulted, and thought, and least written. 39. Al the workes of our Lord are good, & he wil giue euerie worke in his houre. 40. It is not to be said: This is worse then that: for al shal be approued in their time. 41. And now with al hart and mouth praise ye, and blesse the name of our Lord.

C H A P. XL.

The first matter of spiritual meditation may be mans miserie, contracted by original sinne, 1. and increased by actual, 17. relieved by Gods grace: 22. which giueth manie benefits, 27. man adding his voluntarie cooperation.

(a) The penalties which al men euen new borne infants suffer, doe shew that al in general are guiltie of original sinne, for if they were not guiltie, their punishment were not iust. That Christ also would be subject to the same penalties was for the finnes of others. And

REAT trauail is created to al men, and an heauie yoke vpon the children of Adam, from (a) the day of their comming forth of their mothers wombe, vntil the day of their burying, into the mother of al. 2. Their cogitations, and feares of the hart, imagination of things to come, and the day of their ending: 3. from him that sitteth vpon the glorious seate, vnto him that is humbled in earth & ashes.

4. From him that weareth hyacinth, and beareth the crowne, euen to him, that is couered with rude linen: furie, enuie, tumult, wauering, and the feare of death, anger perseuering, and contention, 5. and in the time of repose in bed, the sleepe of night changeth his knowledge. 6. A litle is as nothing in rest, and afterward in sleepe, as in the day of watch. 7. He is troubled in the vision of his hart, as he that hath escaped in the day of batel. In the time of his safetic he rose vp, and merueleth at no feare: 8. With al flesh, from man euen to beast, and vpon sinners seuenfold.

Al things that are of the earth, shal turne into the earth, and al waters shal returne into the sea. 12. Al bribing, and iniquitie shal be cleane taken away, and fidelitie shal stand for euer. 13. The riches of the vniust shal be dried vp as a riuer, and they shal sound as great thunder in rayne. 14. In opening his hands he shal reioyce: so transgressours shal pine away in consumption. 15. The nephewes or the impious shal not multiplie boughs, nor vnclane roots found vpon the top of a rocke. 16. Ouer al water greennes, and at the brinke of the riuer it shal be plucked vp before al grasse. 17. Grace is as paradise in blessings, and mercie remaineth for euer. 18. The life of a workeman that is sufficient for himself shal be sweete, and in it thou shalt finde a treasure. 19. Children, and building of a citie shal confirme the name, and an vnspotted woman shal be counted aboute this. 20. Wine and musicke make a ioyful hart: and the loue of wisdom is aboute both. 21. Shalmes, and Psalterie make sweete melodie, and a sweete tongue is aboute both. 22. Thine eye wil desire grace and beautie, and (b) greene sowed fields are aboute this. 23. A freind and companion meeting together in time, & aboute them both is a woman with her husband. 24. Bretheren are an helpe in the time of tribulation, and mercie shal deliuer more the they. 25. Gold & siluer are the eitablithing of the feete: and counsel is wel accepted aboute the both. 26. Riches & strength exalt the hart, and aboute these is the feare of our Lord. 27. There is no diminution in the feare of our Lord, and in it there is no neede to seeke for helpe. 28. The feare of our Lord is as a paradise of blessing, and they haue couered it aboute al glorie. 29. Sonne in thy life time (c) want not: for it is better to die then to want. 30. A man that looketh toward an other mans table, his life is as not in thinking how to liue, for he feedeth his soule with an other mans meates. 31. But a man nurtered and taught, wil looke to himselfe. 32. Pouertie wil be sweete in the mouth of the vnwise, and in his bellie a fire wil burne.

(b) The societie of Christs Church flourishing in al vertues excelleth the benefits of the old Testament.

(c) Euerie one is bound to labour that he want not necessaries.

CH A P. XLI.

An other mater of meditation is death : 8. Wherof sinne is the cause. 15. Care of a good fame is necessarie. 19. Let shamesfastnes be a bridle to auoide fornication, 22. iniquitie, 27. theft, and other sinnes.

DEATH how bitter is thy memorie to a man that hath peace in his riches : 2. to a man that is at rest, and whose wayes are prosperous in al things, and that is yet able to take meate ! 3. O death, thy iudgement is good to a needy man, and him that is diminished in strength, 4. and fayleth in age, and that is carerul of al things, and to the incredulous, that loleth patience! 5. Feare not the iudgement of death. Remember what things haue been before thee, and what come after thee: this is the iudgement from our Lord to al flesh: 6. and what ſhal come vpon thee by the good pleasure of the Higheſt: whether it be ten, or an hundred, or a thousand yeares. 7. For in hel there is no (a) accusing of life. 8. The children of ſinners become children of abominations, and they that conuerſe neere the houſes of the impious. 9. The inheritance of the children of ſinners ſhal periſh, and with their ſeede ſhal be continuance of reproch. 10. The childre complaine of an impious father, becauſe for him they are irreproch. 11. Woe to you ye impious men, which haue forſakē the law of our Lord the Higheſt. 12. And if ye be borne, ye ſhal be borne in malediction: and if ye die, in malediction ſhal be your portion. 13. Al things that are of the earth, ſhal returne into the earth: ſo the impious from malediction to perdition. 14. The mourning of men is in their bodie, but the name of the impious ſhal be cleane wyped out. 15. Haue care of a good name: for this ſhal be more permanēt to thee then a thousand treasures precious and great. 16. There is a number of the daies of a good life: but a good name ſhal continue for euer. 17. Children, keepe ye diſcipline in peace. For wiſdom hid, and treasure not ſeen, what profite is there in them both? 18. Better is the man that hideth his follie, then the man that hideth his wiſdom. 19. But yet (b) hauereuerence to theſe things, which proceed from my mouth. 20. For it is not good to obſerue al ſhamraſſines: & (c) al things doe not pleaſe al men in opinion. 21. Be aſhamed before father & before mother, of fornication: and before the preſident and before the miſhtie, of lying: 22 before the Prince, and before the iudge, of offence: before the ſinagogue and the people, of iniquitie: 23. before companion and freind, of iniuſtice: and before the place where thou dwelleſt, 24. of theft, of the truth of God, and his teſtament: of leaning on the bread, and of reproofe for the thing giuen and taken: 25. before them that ſalute thee, of ſilence: of beholding a woman that is an harlot: and of turning away thy countenance from thy kinsman. 26. Turne not away thy face from thy neighbour, & of taking away part & not reſtoring. 27. Behold not an other mans wife, and ſearch not his handmayde, neither ſtand by her bed. 28. Before freinds, of opprobrious words: and when thou haſt giuen, vpbrayde not.

REPETE not the word (a) which thou hast heard, neither reuealethou of a secret word, & thou shalt indeed be without confusion, and shalt finde grace in the sight of al men: be not ashamed for al these things, and accept not perion therby to sinne. 2. Of the law of the Higheft, and his testament, and of iudgement to iustifie the impious, 3. of the word of companions and wayfaring men, and of the giuing of the inheritance of freinds, 4. of the equalitie of balance and weightes, of the getting of manie things and few, 5. of the corruption of bying, and of marchantes, and of much discipline of thy children, and to make bloudie the side of a wicked seruant. 6.ouer a naughtie woman a scale is good. 7. Where there are manie hands, shut vp, and what soeuer thou shalt deliuer, number, and weigh it: and write euerie thing giuen and receued. 8. Of the discipline of the vnwile and foolish, and of ancients, that are iudged of yong men: and thou shalt be wel instructed in al things, and approued in the sight of al the liuing. 9. A daughter is the secret watch of the father, and the care of her taketh away sleepe, lest perhaps in her youth she become past age, & abiding with an husband she become odious: 10. lest at anie time she be corrupted in her virginie, and in her fathers house she be found with child: lest perhaps abyding with her husband she transgresse, or at the least become barren. 11. ouer a dissolute daughter keepe iure watch: lest at anie time she make thee come into reproch with thine enemies, because of detraction in the citie, and the obiection of the people, and she confound thee in the multitude of the people. 12. Looke not on euerie bodie for beautie sake: & among women tarienot. 13. For out of garments commeth forth the moch, and from a woman the iniquitie of a man. 14. For (b) better is the iniquitie of a man, then a woman doing a good turne, and a woman shaming vnto reproch. 15. I therefore wil be mindeful of the workes of our Lord, and I wil shew forth which I haue seen. By the words of our Lord are his workes. 16. The sunne illuminating hath looked throughout al, and tul of the glorie of our Lord is his worke. 17. Hath not our Lord made the faints to declare al his meruelous things, which our Lord the omnipotent confirmed to be established in his glorie: 18. He hath searched out the depth, and the hart of men: & in their subtiltie he hath considered. 19. For our Lord hath knowen al knowledge, and hath beheld the signe of age,

(a) It is not lawful to reueale that, which we iustly promise to conceale.

(b) There is lesse danger in conuersing familiarly with a wicked man, then with a freindie woman. In which conuersation, much prudence is required, as is before admonished. chap 9.

declaring what things are past, and what are to come, reuealing (c) the tokens of secret things. 20. No cogitation escapeth him, and no word hideth it self from him. 21. The glorious workes of his wisdom he hath beautified: who is before the world & world without end, neither is there added, 22. nor diminished, and he cedeth not anie mans counsel. 23. How are al his workes to be desired, and which is as it were a sparke to consider! 24. Al these liue, and remaine for euer, and in al necessitie al things obey him. 25. Al things double, one against one, and he hath made nothing to want. 26. He hath confirmed the good things of euerie one. And who shal be filled seeing his glorie?

Great is our Lord that made it, and by his words it hath hastened his course. 6. And the moone in al in her time, is the shewing of season and the signe of age. 7. By the moone is the signe of a festiual day, a light that diminisheth in consummation. 8. The month is according to her name, increaseth meruelously in consummation. 9. An instrument of the cape on high, shining gloriously in the firmament of heauen, 10. The glorie of the starres is the beautie of heauen, our Lord illuminating the world on high. 11. It hath compassed heauē in the circuite of his glorie, the hādes of the Highest haue opened it. 14. But by his cōmandemēt he hath hastened snow, & he halteth to sēd forth the lightnings of his iudgement. 15. Therefore are the treasures opened, & the cloudes flie forth as birdes. 16. By his greatnes he hath set the cloudes, & the hailestones are broken. 17. In his sight the mountaines shal be moued, & at his wil the south winde hath blowen. 18. The noyse of his thunder shal beate the earth, the tempest of the northwind, and the gathering together of wind: 19. and as the bird lighting downe to sitte, he scatereth snow, and the falling thereof, is as the locust dyuing downward. 20. The eye shal admire the beautie of the whitenes thereof, and the hart quaketh at the shower thereof. 21. He shal power out frost vpon the earth as salt: and when it freeseth, it shal be made as the toppes of a thistle. 22. The cold north wind blewe, & of water there frose chrystal, vpon al gathering together of waters it shal rest, & as a brest plate it shal put it self vpon the waters. 23. And it shal deuoure the mountaines, & burne the desert, & extinguiſh that which is grene as fire. 24. The remedie of al is in the hastie comming of a cloude, and a dew meeting it by the heate that commeth, shal make it quaille. 25. At his word the wind was stil, and with his thought he appeased the depth, and our Lord planted Ilandes therein. 26. They that saile on the sea, tel the perils therof: & hearing with our eares we shal meruail. 27. There are goodly workes, & meruailous: diuers kindes of beastes, & of al cattel, & the creature of mightie beastes. 28. Through him is the end of their iourney confirmed, and by his word al things are set in order. 29. We shal say manie things, & shal faile in words; but the summe of our words is, He is in al. 30. Glorifying him how far shal we be able? for the omnipotent himself is aboue al his workes. 31. Our Lord is terrible, & exceeding great, & his might is meruelous. 32. Glorifying our Lord as much as euer you can, he shal yet surpasse, and his magnificence is meruelous. 33. Blessing our Lord, exalt him as much as you can: for he is greater then al praise. 34. Exalting him be ye replenished with strength. Labour not: for you shal not comprehend. 35. Who shal see him, and shal declare him? and who shal magnifie him as he is from the beginning? 36. Manie things hid are greater then these: for we haue seen few of his workes. 37. But our Lord made al things, and to them that lue piously he hath giuen wisdom.

(c) Though some of the Iudges were sometimes great sinners, yet they were finally iust, & for their good actes much renowned.

(d) Samuel appointed Saul and David Kings.

STRONG in battel was Iesus the sonne of Naue (a) successour of Moyse among the prophets, who was great according to his name, 2. most great in the saluation of Gods elect, to ouerthrow the enemies rising vp, that he might get the inheritance of Israel. 3. What glorie obteyned he in lifting vp his hands, and casting swords against the cities? 4. Who before him did so resist? for our Lord himself brought the enemies. 5. Whether was not the sunne hindered in his anger, and one day was made as two? 6. He inuocated the mightie soueraigne in assaulking of the enemies on euerie side, and the great and holie God heard him in haile-stones of exceeding great force. 7. He made violent assault against the nation of his enemies, and in the going downe he destroyed the aduersaries, 8. that the nations might know his might, that it is not easie to fight against God. And he folowed at the back of the mightie. 9. And in the daies of Moyse did mercie, and (b) Caleb the sonne of Iephone, did stand against the enemy, and stayed the nation from sinnes, and appeased the murmuring of malice. 10. And they two being appointed, were deliuered out of danger from among the number of six hundred thousand foote men, to bring them into their inheritance, into the land that yealdeth milke and honie. 11. And our Lord gaue strength to Caleb himself, and his strength continued euen vntil old age, so that he went vp into the high place of the land, & his seede obteyned inheritance. 12. That al the children of Israel might see, that it is good to obey the holie God. 13. And (c) al the iudges by their name, whose hart was not corrupted: which were not turned away from our Lord, 14. that their memorie might be blessed, and their bones spring out of their place, 15. and their name continue for euer, the glorie of the holie men remaying vnto their children. 16. The beloued of our Lord his God Samuel the Prophet of our Lord renewed the empire, and (d) anoynted Princes in his nation. 17. By the law of our Lord he iudged the congregation, and the God of Iacob saw, and in his fidelitie was proued a prophet. 18. And he was knowen faithful in his words, because he saw the God of light: 19. and inuocated our Lord Omnipotent, in assaulking the enemies besetting him on euerie side, in the oblation of an immaculate lambe. 20. And our Lord thundered from heauen, and in great sound he made his voice heard, 21. and he descomfited the Princes of the Tyrians, and al the dukes of the Philisthiims: 22. and before the time of the end of his life, and the world, he gaue testimonie before

ETER these things arose Nathan the Prophet in the daies of David, 2. And as the fatte separated from the flesh, so was David from the children of Israel, 3. He plaied with lyons as it were with lambes: and with beares he did in like manner as with lambes of sheepe in his youth. 4. Did not he kil the giat, & tooke away reproch from his natio: 5. In lifting vp his hand, with a stone of the sling he overthrew the boasting of Goliah: 6. for he inuocated our Lord the omnipotēt, and he gaue in his right hand, to take away the man strong in battel, and to exalt the horne of his nation. 7. So in ten thousand did he glorifie him, and praised him in the blessings of our Lord, in offering to him a crowne of glorie: 8. for he destroyed the enemies on euerie side, and rooted out the Philisthijms the aduersaries euen vntil this present day: he brake their horne for euer. 9. In euerie worke he gaue confession to the Helie one, and to the Highest, in the word of glorie. 10. Fro (a) al his hart he praised our Lord, & loued God, that made him, and gaue him might against his enemies: 11. and he made singers to stand before the altar, and by their sound he made sweete tunes. 12. And in the solemnities he gaue honour, and adorned the times euen to the end of his life, that they should praise the hoie name of our Lord, and magnifie the holines of God in the morning. 13. Our Lord purged his sinnes, and exalted his horne for euer: and he gaue him a testament of the kingdom, and the seate of glorie in Israel. 14. After him arose a wife sonne, and for (b) him did he overthrowe at the might of the enemies. 15. Salomon reigned in dayes of peace, to who God subdued al his enemies, that he might build an house in his name, & prepare holines for euer: as (c) thou art instructed in thy youth. 16. 10. VVho are written.) Amongst other quarels, Protestants except against the authenticall authoritie of this booke, because the Authour saith, that Enoch and Elias shal come againe, to appease the wrath of our Lord, to reconcile the father to the sonne, and to reitore the tribes of Iacob. But that this is no iust exception, is clere by other holie Scriptures, where the same vniforme doctrine of the whole Cnurch is no lesse euident, then in this booke. For God himself saith the same also by the mouth of his Prophet Malachie: Behold I wil send you Elias the Prophet, before the day of our Lord come, the great and dreadful. Christ also sayth: Elias indeed shal come, and restore al things. Wherupon S. Chrysofom, after he hath shewed how terrible Antichrist shal be, by reason of his temporal power, crueltie, and wicked lawes, he addeth: Feare thou not: He shal only haue force in the reprobate, that perish. For then also Elias shal come, to fortifie the faithful. Likewise the words in the Apocalyps: I wil giue to my two witnesset, & they shal Prophecie a thousand two hundred & three score dayes, were euer inuariably vnderstood by tradition, from the first preachers of Christ (as the ancient writer Aretas testifieth) that Enoch and Elias shal come, & admonish al, not to giue credite to the deceitful wonders of Antichrist: and that they shal trauel in this testimonie the space of three yeares and a half. HE memorie of Iosias is according to the confection of perfume made by the worke of an apothecarie. 2. His remembrance shal be sweete as honie in euerie mouth, & as musick in a banket of wine. 3. He was directed by God into the repentance of the nation, and he tooke away the abominations of impietie. 4. And he gouerned his hart toward our Lord, and in the daies of sinners he strengthened pietie. 5. Except David, and Ezechias, and Iosias, (a) al committed sinne. 6. For the Kings of Iuda forsooke the law of the Highest, and contemned the feare of God. 7. For they gaue their kingdom to others, and their glorie to a strange nation. 8. They burnt the chosen citie of holines, & made the waies threof delolare in the hand of Ieremie. 9. For they euil intreated him, who was consecrated a prophet from his mothers wombe, to ouerthrow, & pluck vp, and destroy, and to build againe, and renewe. 10. Ezechiel who saw the sight of glorie, which he shewed him in the charior of Cherubs. 11. For he made mention of the enemies in rayne, to doe good vnto them, that haue shewed right waies. 12. And the bones of the twelue prophets wel may they spring out of their place: for they haue strengthened Iacob, and haue redeemed themselues in the fidelitie of power. 13. How may we magnifie Zorobabel: for he also was as a signet on the right hand, 14. and so Iesus the sonne of Iosedech: who in their daies built the house, and erected the holic temple to our Lord, prepared to cuerlasting glorie. 15. And Nehemias in the memorie of much time, who erected vs our walies ouerthrowen, and set vp the gates and lockes, who built our houses. 16. No man hath been borne in the earth like to Henoch: for (b) he also was taken vp from the earth. 17. Neither as Ioseph, who was a man borne Prince of his brethren, the stay of the nation, the ruler of his brethren, the stay of the people: 18. and his bones were visited, and after death (c) they prophesied. 19. Seth, and Sem obreynd glorie with men: and aboue euerie soule, in the beginning Adam.

TH E prayer of Iesus the sonne of Sirach. (4) I wil confesse to thee o Lord King, and wil praise thee God my Sauour. 2. I wil confesse to thy name: because thou art become my helper and protectour, 3. & hast deliuered my bodie from perdition, from the snare of an vniust tong, and from the lips of them that worke lying, and in the sight of them that stooode vp thou art become my helper. 4. And thou hast deliuered me according to the multitude of the mercie of thy name from them that did roare, prepared to deuoure, 5. out of the hands of them that seeke my soule, and from the gates of tribulations which haue compassed me: 6. from the oppression of the flame, which hath compassed me, and in the mids of fire I was not burnt. 7. From the depth of the bellie of hel, and from a defiled tong, and from the word of lying, from a wicked King, and from an vniust tong: 8. my soule shal praise our Lord euen to death, 9. and my life was approaching to hel beneath. 10. They haue compassed me on euerie side, & there was none that would helpe. I looked toward the helpe of men, & there was none. 11. I remembered they mercie o Lord, and thy operation, which are from the beginning of the world, 12. Because thou deliuerest them that patiently expect thee o Lord, and sauest them out of the hands of the nations 13. Thou hast exalted my habitation vpon the earth, and I haue prayed for death to passe away. 14. I haue inuocated our Lord the father of my Lord, that he leauē me not in the day of my tribulation, and in the time of the proud without helpe. 15. I wil praise thy name continually, and wil collaude it in confession, and my prayer was heard. 16. And thou hast deliuered me from perdition, and hast rescued me from the wicked time. 17. Therefore wil I confesse, & say praise to thee, and blesse the name of our Lord. 18. When I was yet ^(b)yong, before I erred, I sought for wisdom openly in my prayer. 19. Before the temple I prayed for it, and vnto the later end I wil seeke after it, and it shal flourish as the grape timely ripe, 20. my hart hath reioyced in it, my foote hath walked the right way, from my youth I searched after it. 21. I bowed mine eare a litle, and receiued it. 22. I found much wisdom in my self, & I haue much profited therein. 23. To him that giueth me wisdom, wil I giue glorie. 24. For I haue consulted to doe it: I haue had a zeale to good, and shal not be contumded. 25. My soule hath wrestled in it, and in doing it I was confirmed. 26. I fetched forth my hands on high, & I lamented foolishnes. 27. I directed my soule to wisdom, and in knowledge I found it. 28. I possessed with it an hart from the beginning: for this cause I shal not be forsaken. 29. My belie was troubled in seeking it: therefore shal I possess a good possession. 30. Our Lord hath giuen me a tong for my reward: and with the same I wil praise him. 31. Approch vnto me ye vnlearned, and gather your selues together into the house of discipline. 32. Why slacke ye yet: and what say you herein: your soules are exceeding thirstie. 33. I haue opened my mouth, and haue spoken: Bye it for you without siluer, 34. and submit your necke to the yoke, and let your soule receiue discipline: for it is very neere to finde it. 35. See with your eyes that I haue laboured a litle, and haue found much rest to my self. 36. Take ye discipline in a great summe of siluer, and possess abundance of gold in it. 37. Let your soule reioyce in his mercie, and you shal not be confounded in praise. 39. Worke your worke ^(c) before the time, and he wil giue you your reward in his time.

AMongst manie great benefites, which God bestowed vpon his peculiar people in the old Testament, one principal, and very excellent was, that besides their ordinarie Pastours, and gouerners in spiritual causes, the Priests of Aarons progenie, and other clergie men of the same tribe of Leui, in Ierarchical subordination of one chief, with other superiours and subiects, disposed in sacred functions; he also gaue them other extraordinarie Prophets of sundrie tribes, as admonitours and guides, to reduce them from errours of sinne, into the right way of vertue. Which office the same Prophets performed, as wel by threating the offenders with Gods wrath, and punishment, as by exhorting them to repentance, and so to trust in Gods assured mercie, that he would giue them better times, and reliefe from their miseries. But most especially these holie Prophets did foresee, and foretel the happie times of Grace in the New Testament: The comming of the Messias, Christ our Redeemer and Sauour: with the mysteries of his Incarnation, Birth, Passion, Death, Resurrection, Ascension. Coming of the Holie Ghost. Foundation, Propagation, perpetual Stabilitie of his Church; and finally the General Iudgement, Eternal Glorie of the blessed, and Euerlasting paine of the damned. For albeit they preached and prophecied manie things, properly and immediately perteyning to the particular state, and people of the Iewes, and other nations, where they cōuersed, yet the principal summe of al the prophetical books, is of Christ and his Church. Yea al the old Testament is a general prophecie, and foreshewing of the New. Which (as we noted in the beginning) is conteyned, and lieth hid in the old. Neuertheles speaking more distinctly of the proper arguments, or contents of the foure parts of the old Testament, the former three more peculiarly set forth the Law, the Historie, and Sapiential precepts: and this last part chiefly conteyned Prophecies of things to come. Of which the greatest part is now come to passe, or daily fulfilled, and the rest shal likewise be performed in due time. So now in order after the Legal, Historical, and Sapiential books, folow the Prophetical: and are these, according to the names of the Prophets that writ them.

Isaie, Ieremie with Bafuch, Ezechiel, and Daniel, commonly called the greater Prophets: and the twelue lesser are Ofee, Ioel, Amos, Abdias, Ionas, Micheas, Nahum, Abacuc, Sophonias, Aggeus, Zacharie and Malachie. Who were al singularly inspired, and governed in their preachings and writing by the Holie Ghost, that they could not erre. Yea they were so illuminated in their vnderstanding, that they cleerly saw that which they vttered. And therefore their Prophecies are called Visions, for the assured infallibilitie of truth, which they auouch. For as nothing is more certaine in vulgar knowledge, then that which we see with our corporal eyes, and therefore of al witnesses the eye-witnes is esteemed the surest: and as in al natural knowledge that is most certaine, which is seen by discourse of reason: so in supernatural knowledge nothing is more assured then that which is seen by supernatural light. Wherof there be three sorts: the light of Faith of Prophecie, and of Glorie. Al three certaine, and vndoubted; but most cleere and manifest is the vision by light of glorie: wherby God is seen in himself, and al things in him, that pertaine to the state of euerie glorious Saint. Next thereto is the vision by light of prophecie, wherwith God illuminateth the vnderstanding of the Prophet by a special, extraordinarie, and transuorie light of grace, that either he cleerly seeth the reuealed truths, or at least perfectly knoweth that he is moued by the Holie Ghost, though he vnderstand not al that the Holie Ghost intendeth, and so when and where it is Gods wil, he vttereth the same for instruction of others. The last, which is also certaine, but more obscure, is the supernatural knowledge, which al Catholike Christians haue by light of faith, assuredly believing al things which God reuealeth by his Church.

Concerning therefore this excellent diuine gift of Prophecie, granted to few, for the benefite of al Gods seruants, we are here to informe the vulgar reader, that wheras these Prophecies are for most part hard to be vnderstood, and as S. Peter teacheth, not knowen by priuate interpretatio, but must be interpreted by the same Spirite, wherwith they were written, our purpose is not to explicate them, nor yet to produce large explications of the godlie learned Fathers, but rather fewer and briefer notes then heertofore, and for the rest we remitte the more learned and studious readers according to their capacities, to search the same in the commentaries of ancient and late Expositors, wishing others to content themselues, with the more easie partes of holie Scriptures, and other godlie bookes, and daylie instructions of spiritual teachers. And such as doe also read these, may obserue with vs, these (amongst other) special causes of the hardnes of the Prophets. One cause is the frequent interruption of sentences, with suddaine change from one person or matter to another, without apparent coherence Which S. Ierom noteth in sundrie places. As Isaie. 7. after that the Prophet hath severely reprehended King Achab, for his distrust of Gods assistance against his temporal enemies (v. 13.) in the next words he prophecieth, that a Virgin shal conceive, and beare a sonne, Christ our Sauour: and the like in other places. An other cause is, that the Prophets speake things of some persons, which are to be fulfilled in others, either of their progenie, or prefigured by them. As the prophecie of the Iewes and Gentils, comprised in the historie of Esau & Iacob. Likewise that which Iacob Prophecied (Gen. 29.) of Simeon an Leui, not fulfilled in themselues, but in the Scribes, and authours of the propheticall books following, Baruchis booke being inserted in Ieremie.

Prophecies are called visions, for their certaintie.

Light of prophecie is next to the light of glorie, and more cleere then the light of faith.

Prophecies are hard to be vnderstood for diuers causes.

Suddaine transition from one thing to another.

That which is spoken of certaine persons is ment of others.

Prophecies are often vttered in figuratiue speeches. Some consist in things done, others are mixt with histories, and temporal things with spiritual.

Why God would haue them obscure.

Priests descending of their stock. Also much of that which Dauid seemeth to speake of Salomon, Psal. 88. can only be vnderstood of Christ. Other examples will occurre in the Prophets ensuing. Briefly, for we can not here expresse al the causes in few words, Prophecies are ofentimes vttered in figuratiue speeches, and often not in words but in factes; other times so mixed with histories, and temporal things with spiritual againe some things pertyning to the old Testamēt, so ioyned with mysteriet of the new & the like, that most hard it is to discerne, nay, not possible without special reuelation or instruction of others, to know to what purpose or thing euerie part pertynesh, or is to be applied: for some things are spoken onlie of the historie, some things of mysteriet, manie things of both. And the reason why the Holie Ghost doth so vtter these Prophecies is noted by S. Ierom (in Nabum. 3.) that the proud and malicious enimies of Religion may not vnderstand them: Lest (sayth he) a holie thing should be giuen to dogges, pearles cast to swine, most sacred mysteriet laide open before prophane persons. S. Gregorie also alleadgeth an other reason (ho. 17. in Ezech.) That occasion of humilitie may be giuen vs by those things, which are hidden in holie Scriptures. And increase also of merite by belieuing more then we vnderstand, because faith hath not merite, where reason giueth expetiment.

THE ARGUMENT OF THE PROPHECIE OF ISAIE.

Isaie of noble lineage, and a Martir, prophesied a long time
Is called the Euangelical Prophet.
He writ in a high stile.

Lived in the Kingdom of Iuda.

Isaie the sonne of Amos, and nephew (as S. Ierom insinuateth) to King A~~masias~~ Amasias. Prophecied in the times of Osiat, Ioathan, Acha, Ezechias, and in the beginning of Manasses. Kings of Iuda; in al about three score yeares and was cruelly put to death, sawed into parts by commandment of Manasses. He is commonly called the Euangelical Prophet, for his ample and particular speeches of Christ, more large and more plaine then in anie other of the old Prophets. His stile is high & eloquent, according to his liberal education beeing of the royal blood. For so it pleaseth the Holie Ghost to vtter his diuine Prophecies diuersly, according to the qualities and conditions of the persons by whom he speaketh: by Isaie in a loftie, and by Amos in a meane stile: as a musitian soundeth the same song, by a simple pipe, & by a cornet, trumpet, or other muscal instrument. Which S. Paul also witnesseth, saying: Diuersly and by diuers meanes God spake to the fathers in the Prophets Isaie therefore conuersing in the Kingdom of Iuda, especially in the Imperial and Metropolitane citie of Ierusalem, preached & Prophecied manie things pertyning to the Tribes of Iuda and Benjamin, as also to the tribe of Leui which after the schisme of Ieroboam repayed in maner al to the Kingdom of Iuda, where God was rightly serued: He prophesied also of the remne Tribes, the Kingdom of Israel, & of the iuture captiuities of them both, and of the reduction of Iuda. Also he prophesied of other nations, and peoples, with whom the Iewes had either enmitie, or freindlie conuersation: and of al the world. But most especially of the conning of Christ, to redeeme, & deliuer mankind from captiuitie of sinne.

The whole Prophecie conteyneth two general parts. First more principally the Prophet admonisheth, and threatneth the people, that they shal be punished for their manifold sinnes, in the 39. former chapters. In the other 27. he comforteth them, signifying that God of his mercie wil after chastisement, & their repēance, deliuer them from their aduersaries. Yet so that ech part participateth of the principal contents with the other. More particularly the whole booke may be diuided into eight parts. In the twelue first chapters, the Prophet admonisheth al sortes in the Kingdom of Iuda, of their ingratitude towards God, with manie other sinnes, and of iust punishment, but mixt with consolation of Gods mercie, and thanks-giuing for the same. In eleuen chapters folowing, he directeth his speech to other Nations aduersaries to the the Iewes. In foure more he extendeth his admonitions to al the world, stil intermixing some consolations. In other foure he reprehendeth both the Kingdom of Israel & Iuda, for seeking helpe of strange nations. In the next eight chapters he prophesieth of diuers dangers imminent to the Kingdom of Iuda, of their captiuitie in Babylon, of Gods benignitie deliuering them, & very much in euerie part of Christ, and his Church. Then in five chapters he prophesieth very particularly of the comfortable deliuerie from sinne by Christ. In other foure from temporal captiuitie by Cyrus King of Asirians. And finally in the last eighteene chapters he prophesieth largely of the perfect deliuerie by Christ, conuerſion of al Nations, reiection of the Iewes, til nere the end of the world, when they shal also returne to Christ.

The contents, diuided into two general partes.

And into eight particular.

CHAP. I.

The first part.
The Kingdom of Iuda shal be captiue in Babylon, for their ingratitude towards Gods, and other finnes.

(a) Not Amos

Isaie prophecying in the dayes of foure Kings of Iuda, 2. admonisheth both Princes and people of their ingratitude, and other finnes against God: 7 for which they shal be led captiue. 11. Neither shal sacrifices, nor prayers saue them. 16. except they cleanse their scules from finnes. 20. Which they not doing shal be seuerely punished. 26. Wherby the reliques shal be purged, and the Church shal flourish.

THE vision of Isaie the sonne of (a) Amos, which he sawe concerning Iuda and Ierusalem in the dayes of Ozias, Ioathan, Achaz, and Ezechias, Kings of Iuda. 2. Heare ye heaucens, & giue care o earth, because our Lord hath spoken. I haue brought vp children, and exalted them: but they haue despised me. 3. The ox hath knowen his owner, and the asse his masters crib: but Israel hath not knowen me, and my people hath not vnderstood. 4. Woe to the sinful natiõ, the people lodẽ with greuous iniquitie, the wicked seede, vngracious children: they haue forsaken our Lord, they haue blasphemed the holie one of Israel, they are reuolted backwards. 5. For what shal I strike you anie more, which adde preuarication: (b) euerie head is sicke, & euerie hart in hea-uines. 6. From the sole of the foote vnto the toppe of the head, there is no health therein: wound, and wayle, and swelling stroke: it is not bound vp, nor cured with medicine, nor mollified with oile. 7. Your land is desolate, your citie burnt with fire: your countrie strangers deuour before your face, and it shal be made desolate as in the spoile of enemies. 8. And (c) the daughter of Sion shal be left as a vineyard, and as a cottage in a place of cucumbers, and as a citie that is wasted. 9. (d) Vnlesse the Lord of hostes had lefte vs seed, we had been as Sodom, and we should be like to Gomorrha. 10. Heare the word of our Lord ye Princes of Sodom, giue care to the law of our God ye people of Gomorrha. 11. To what purpose doe you offer me the multitude of your victimes, saith our Lord? I am full, the holocaust of rams, and the fatte of fatlings, and the bloud

of calves, and lambes, and buck goates I haue not desired. 12. When you should haue come before my sight, who sought for these things at your hands, that you should walke in my courts? 13. Offer sacrifice no more in vaine: incense is abomination to me. The Newe moone, and the Sabbath, and other festiuities I wil not abide, your assemblies are wicked. 14. My soule hateth your Calendes, and your solemnities: they are become tedious to me, I haue laboured in susteyning. 15. And when you shal stretch forth your hands, I wil turne away mine eies from you: & when you shal multiplie prayer, I wil not heare: for your hands are ful of bloud. 16. Wash you, be cleane, take away the euil of your cogitations from mine eies: cease to doe peruersely. 17. Learne to doe good: seeke iudgement, succour the oppressed, iudge for the pupil, defend the widow. 18. And come, and accuse me, sayth our Lord: if your sinnes shal be as scarlet, they shal be made white as snow: and if they be red as vermelon, they shal be white as wool. 19. If you be willing, and wil heare me, you shal eat the good things of the earth. 20. But if you wil not, and wil prouoke me to wrath: the sword shal deuoure you, because the mouth of our Lord hath spoken. 21. How is the faythful citie ful of iudgement (e) become an harlot? iustice hath dwelled in it, but now mankillers. 22. Thy siluer is turned into drosse: thy wine is mingled with water. 23. Thy Princes are vnfaithful, companions of theeues: all loue gifts, follow rewards. They iudge not for the pupil: and the widowes cause goeth not into them. 24. For this cause sayth our Lord the God of hostes the mightie one of Israel: Alas! I wil comfort my selfe vpon mine aduersaries: and wil be reuenged of mine enemies. 25. And I wil turne mine hand to thee, and I wil boyle out thy drosse til it be pure, & wil take away all thy tinne. 26. And I wil restore (f) thy iudges as they haue been before, and thy counsellers as of old. After these things thou shalt be called the iust, a faithful citie. 27. Sion shal be redeemed in iudgement, and they shal bring her backe in iustice. 28. And he shal destroy the wicked and the sinners together: and they that haue forsaken our Lord, shal be consumed. 29. For they shal be confounded for the idols, to which they haue sacrificed: and you shal be ashamed of the gardens, which you chose. 30. When you shal be as an oke the leaues falling off, and as a garden without water. 31. And your strength shal be as the isles of towre, and your worke as a sparke: and both shal be set on together, and there shal be none to quench it.

(e) Much wickednes reigned in Ierusalem before their captiuitie in Babylon; but much more at Christs passio, when they persecuted him euen to the Crosse: and his disciples, and all Christians, til their citie was taken by the Romans, and the whole nation dispersed.

(f) The Rabbins vnderstand those Iudges and Priests that governed the people after their deliuerie from captiuitie: but S. Ierom expoundeth this and the like places of the Apostles, and their successours.

C H A P. II.

*All nations shall come to the Church of Christ; which shall beginne in Ierusalem. 6
And the Iewes shall be reiected for their idolatrie, auarice, and other sinnes II. Proud men shall be humbled, & Gods glorie shall increase, 18. Idolatrie shall be destroyed.*

IHE word that Isaie the sonne of Amos saw vpon Iuda and Ierusalem. 2. And in (a) the later dayes the mountaine of the house of our Lord shall be prepared, in the toppe of mountaines, and it shall be eleuated about the litle hils: and all nations shall flowe vnto it. 3. And manie peoples shall goe, & shall say, come and let vs goe vnto the mount of our Lord, and to the house of the God of Iacob, and he wil teach vs his wayes, and we shall walke in his pathes: because the law shall come forth from Sion, and the word of our Lord from Ierusalem. 4. And he shall iudge the Gentiles, and rebuke manie peoples: and they shall turne their swords into culters, and their speares into lithes: nation shall not lift vp sword against natiō, neither shall they be exercised any more to batrel. 5. House of Iacob come ye and let vs walke in the light of our Lord. 6. For thou hast (b) reiected thy people, the house of Iacob: because they are filled as in times past, and haue had southsayers as the Philisthijms, and haue stucke fast to strange children. 7. The land is replenished with siluer and gold: and there is no end of their treasures. 8. And their land is replenished with horses: and their chariots are innumerable. And their land is ful of idols: they haue adored the worke of their hands, which their fingers made. 9. And man bowed himself, and man was humbled: therefore forgieue them not. 10. Enter thou into the rocke, and be hid in a pitte, in the ground from the face of the feare of our Lord, & from the glorie of his maiestie. 11. The loftie eies of man are humbled, and the height of men shall be made to froupe: & our Lord onlie shall be exalted in that day. 12. Because the day of the Lord of hostes shall be vpon all the proude and loftie, and vpon euerie one that is arrogant, and he shall be humbled. 13. And vpon all the ceders of Libanus high & eleuated, & vpon all the okes of Basan. 14. vpon all the high mountaines, and vpon all litle hils eleuated. 15. And vpon euerie high towre, and euerie fenced wal. 16. And vpon all the shippes of Tharsis, and vpon all that is fayre to behold. 17. And the loftines of men shall be bowed, and the height of men shall be humbled, and our Lord onlie shall be exalted in that day. 18. And idols shall (c) vtterly be destroyed. 19. And they shall enter into the caues of rockes, and into the pittes of the earth from the face of the feare of our Lord, and from the glorie of his maietie, when he shall rise vp to strike the earth. 20. In that day shall a mā cast away the idols of his siluer,

(a) It is not only certaine, but also euident that the prophet speaketh here, and in innumerable other places, of the Church of Christ, which is the citie set vpon a mountaine, Mat. 18. vnto which all nations are gathered, and at the time of the new Testament is called the last honore, 1. I. an. 2. because no time shall follow after this, but all eternitie.

(b) The Iewes were reiected after Christs death: before which they were stil conserued: though often seuerely punished. And so now the Church of Christ shall neuer be reiected.

(c) It is most absurde, and contrarie to this and other Scriptures, that Protestants feyne of great idolatrie in the

and the idols of his gold, which he had made him to adore, nowles and bates. 21. And he shal goe into the clefts of rockes, and into the caues of stones from the face of the feare of our Lord, and from the glorie of his maiestie, when he shal rise vp to strike the earth. 22. Cease therefore from the man, whose spirit is in his nostrhrels, because he is reputed high.

C H A P. III.

The Jewes shal be deprived of wise men, 4. and be subiect to childish and effeminate gouerners 8. for their grieuous sinnes. 16. The proud, curious, and lasciuious attyre of their women, 24. shal be turned into ignominie and sorow.

O R behold the dominatour the Lord of hostes (a) shal take away from Ierusalem, and from Iuda the valiant & the strong, al strength of bread, and al strength of water. 2. The strong, and the man of warre, the iudge, and the Prophete, and fourthayer, and the ancient. 3. The Prince ouer sitie, and the honorable of countenance, and the counseler, and the wite of workemasters, and the skilful of mystical speach. 4. And I wil giue children to be their Princes, and the effeminate shal rule ouer them. 5. And the people shal rush violently, man against man, and euerie one against his neighbour: the chilce shal make tumult against the ancient, and the base against the noble. 6. For a man shal take hold of his brother, one of the house of his father: Thou hast a garment, be thou our Prince, and let this ruine be vnder thy hand. 7. He shal anwer in that day, laying: I am no physicion, & in my house there is no bread, nor garment: doe not appoint me Prince of the people. 8. For Ierusalē is gone to ruine, and Iuda is fallē: because their tongue & their inuentions were against our Lord, to prouoke the eyes of his maiestie. 9. The knowledge of their face hath answered them: and they haue proclaimed their sinne as Sodom, neither haue they hid it: woe to their soule, because euils are rendred to them. 10. Say to the iust that it is wel, because he shal eat the fruite of his inuentions. 11. Woe to the impious vnto euil: for the reward of his handes shal be made to him. 12. My people their exactours haue spoyled, & women haue ruled ouer them. My people, (b) they that cal thee blessed, the same deceiue thee, & dissipate the way of thy steppes. 13. Our Lord standeth to iudge, & he standeth to iudge peoples. 14. Our Lord shal come to iudgement with the ancients of his people, and his Princes: for you haue deuoured the vineyard, and the spoile of the poore is in your houie. 15. Why doe you consume my people, and grinde the faces of the poore, sayth our Lord the God of hostes? 16. And our Lord sayd: for that (c) the daughters of Sion are haughtie, and haue walked with wretched out necke, and went with twinglings of our Lord shal be in magnificence, and glorie, and the fruit of the earth high, and exultation to them, that shal be saued of Israel. 3. And it shal be: Euerie one that shal be leaft in Sion, and (b) shal remaine in Ierusalem, shal be called holie, euerie one that is written in life in Ierusalem. 4. If our Lord shal cleanse the filth of the daughters of Sion, and shal wash the bloud of Ierusalem out of the middes thereof in the spirit of iudgement, and spirit of heate. 5.

And our Lord shal create vpon euerie place of mount Sion, and where he is inuocated, a cloud by day, and smoke, and the brightnes of flaming fyre in the night: for vpon al glorie protection. 6. And there shal be a tabernacle for a place of shadow in the day from the heate, and for securitie, and couert from the whyrlewind, and from rayne.

Under the figure of a barren vineyard, is prophesied the reiection of the Iewes, 7. for their sinnes of auarice, 11. intemperance, & other wickednes, 18. one iniquitie drawing an other, 20. iudging good to be euil, and euil good. 25. For which the Gentils of diuers nations shal afflict them.

Mas. 21.

W I L sing to my beloued (a) the canticle of my cosin concerning his vineyard. A vineyard was made to my beloued in horne, the sonne of oile. 2. And he hedged it, and chose stones out of it, and planted it elect, and built a towre in the middes thereof, and set vp a presse therein: and looked that it should yeald grapes, and it yealded wilde grapes. 3. Now therefore ye inhabitants of Ierusalem, and men of Iuda, iudge between me and my vineyard. 4. What is there that I ought to doe more to my vineyard, and haue not done to it? Whether that I looke dit should yeald grapes, and it hath yealded wilde grapes: 5. And now I wil shew you what I wil doe to my vineyard. (b) I wil take away the hedge therof, and it shal be into spoile: I wil throw downe the wal thereof, and it shal be to be troden vpon. 6. And I wil lay it wast: it shal not be pruned, and it shal not be digged: and bryers and thornes shal ouergrowe it: and I wil command the clouds that they rayne no shower vpon it. 7. For the vineyarde of the Lord of hostes, is the house of Israel: and the man of Iuda, his delectable bud: & I looked that it should doe iudgement, and behold iniquitie: and iustice, and behold clamour. 8. Woe to you that ioyne house to house, and lay felde to felde, euen to the end of the place: why shal you alone dwel in the middes of the earth? 9. These things are in my eares, sayth the Lord of hostes: vnles manie great and fayre houses become desolate, without an inhabiter. 10. For ten acres of the vineyards shal yeald one litle flagon, and thirtie bushels of seede shal yeald three bushels. 11. Woe to you that rise vp early to folow drunkennes, & to drinke euen vntil euening, that you may be it: flamed with wine. 12. Harpe, and viol, & timbrel, and shalme, & wine in your feastes: and (c) the worke of our Lord you regard not, nor consider the workes of his handes. 13. Therefore is my peoople led away captiue, because they had not knowledge, and their nobles died with famine, and the multitude thereof dried away with thirst. 14. Therefore hath he dilated his soule, and opened his mouth without anie limite: and their strong ones, and their people, and their high and glorious ones shal descend into it. 15. And man shal be bowed, and man shal be humbled, and the eies of the loftie shal be brought low. 16. And the Lord of hostes shal be exalted in iudgement, and the holie God shal be sanctified in iustice. 17. And the lambes shal feede according to their order, and

Woe to you that are wise in your owne eyes, and prudent before yourselues. 22. Woe to you that are mightie to drinke wine, & stout men in drunkennes. 23. Which iustifie the impious for gifts, and take away the iustice of the iust from them. 24. For this, even as the tongue of fire deuoureth stuble, and the heate of the flame burneth it vp: so shal their roote be as isles, and their bud shal rise vp as dust, for they haue cast away the law of the Lord of hostes, and haue blasphemed the word of the holie one of Israel. 25. Therefore is the furie of our Lord wrath against his people, and he hath stretched out his hand vpon them, & stricken them: and the mountaines were troubled, and their carcasses were made as dung in the middes of the streets. In al these things his furie is not turned away, (d) but yet is his hand stretched forth. 26. And he shal lift vp a signe in the nations a farre, and shal whistle to him of the ends of the earth: and behold he shal come in hast speedily. 27. There is none that faynteth, nor that laboureth in him, he wil not slumber, nor sleepe, neither shal the girdle of his reines be loosed, neither shal the latchet of his shoe be broken. 28. His arrowes sharpe, and al his bowes bent. The hootes of his horses as the flint, & his wheels as the violence of a tempest. 29. His roaring as a lions, he shal roare as lions whelps: and he wil gnash, and hold the praye, and claspe it, and there shal be none to plucke it away. 30. And it shal sound vpon him in that day, as the sound of the sea: we shal looke toward the earth, and behold darkenes of tribulation, and the light is darkened in the mist therof.

5. For that Syria hath takē counsell against thee, vnto the euil of Ephraim, and the sonne of Romelia, saying: 6. Let vs goe vp to Iuda, and rayse it vp, and plucke it away to vs, and make the sonne of Tabeel King in the middest therof. 7. Thus sayth our Lord God: It shal not stand, & this shal not be. 8. But the head of Syria Damascus, & the head of Damascus, Rasin: and yet threescore and fise yeares, and Ephraim shal cease to be a people: 9. And the head of Ephraim Samaria, and the head of Samaria the sonne of Romelia. If you wil not belieue, you shal not be permanent. 10. And our Lord added to speake to Achaz, saying. 11. Aske a signe for thee of the Lord thy God vnto the depth of hel, or vnto the height aboue. 12. And Achaz said: I wil not aske, and (b) I wil not tempte our Lord. 13. And he said: Heare ye therefore o house of Dauid: Is it a smalthing for you, to be grieuous to men, that you are grieuous to my God also? 14. Therefore shal our Lord himselfe (c) giue you a signe. Behold a Virgin shal conceiue, and beare a sonne, & his name shal be called Emmanuel. 15. He shal eat butter and honie, that he may know to refuse euil, and choosc the good. 16. For before the childe know to refuse euil, and choosc good, the land which thou doest desire shal be forsaken of the face of her two Kings. 17. Our Lord wil bring vpon thee, & vpon thy people, and vpon the house of thy father, daies that came not since the daies of the separation of Ephraim from Iuda, with the King of the Assirians. 18. And it shal be in that day: our Lord shal hisse to the sie, that is in the vttermoost part of the riuers of Aegypt, and to the bee, that is in the land of Assur. 19. And they shal come, and shal rest al in the torrents of valleyes, and in the caues of rockes, and in al shrubb places, and in al holes. 20. In that day our Lord shal inauē with a raser hyred by them, that are beyond the riuer, by the King of the Assirians, the head, and the haire of the feete, and the whole beard. 21. And it shal be in that day: a man shal nourish a yong cowe, and two ewes. 22. And for the aboundance of milke he shal eat butter: for butter and honie shal euerie one eate, that shal be leaft in the middes of the land. 23. And it shal be in that day: euerie place where there shal be a thousand vines, for a thousand peeces of siluer, they shal be into thornes and bryers. 24. With arrowes & bow they shal goe in thither: for bryers and thornes shal be in al the land. 25. Under the figure of a new name, Christs birth of a Virgin is againe propheticd, 4. but first the Kindomes of Syria and Israel shal be destroyed: and Iuda sore afflicted: 8. yet conserud with losse of manie. 16. Which is a mysterie bidden from the Iewes. 21. Great euils hang ouer them, that depart from the law.

IN our Lord sayd to me: Take thee ^(a) a great booke, & write in it with the pē of mā. Take away the spoiles speedily, quickly take prayes 2. And I tooke to me faithful witnesses, Vrias the Priest, & Zacharias the sonne of Barachias. 3. And I went to the Prophetesse, and she conceiued, and bare a sonne. And our Lord sayd to me: Cal his name, ^(b) Hasten to take away the spoiles: make hast to take prayes. 4. For before the childe know to cal his father and his mother, the strength of Damascus shal be taken away, and the spoiles of Samaria before the King of the Assirians. 5. And our Lord added yet to speake vnto me, saying: 6. For that ^(c) this people hath cast away the waters of Siloe, that runne with silence, and rather taken Rasin, and the sonne of Romelia: 7. for this cause behold our Lord wil bring vpon them the waters of the riuer strong and manie, the King of the Assirians, and al his glorie: and he wil ascend ouer al their riuers, and wil flowe ouer al their bankes. 8. And wil goe through Iuda, overflowing, and passing through thal come euen to the necke. And the stretching out of his wings shal fil the bredth of thy land o Emmanuel. 9. Gather ye together o peopies, and be ouercome, and heare al ye lands far off: Take courage, and be ouercome, gird your selues, & be ouercome. 10. Take counsel and it shal be defeated: speake a word, and it shal not be done: because God is with vs. 11. For thus sayth our Lord to me: As in a strong arme he hath taught me, that I should not walke in the way of this people, saying: 12. Say not, Conspiracie: for al things that this people speaketh, is conspiracie: and feare ye not their feare, neither dread ye. 13. The Lord of hostes him sanctifie ye: be he your dread, and he your terrour. 14. And he shal be a sanctification to you. But for a stone of offence, and for a rocke of scandal to the two houes of Israel, for a snare & a ruine to the inhabitants of Ierusalem. 15. And verie manie of them thal stumble and fal, and thal be broken in peeces, and shal be snared, and taken. 16. Binde the tetti monie, seale the law in my disciples. 17. And I wil expect our Lord, who hath hid his face from the houte of Iacob, and I wil wayte for him. 18. Behold I and my children, whom our Lord hath giuen me for a signe, and for a wonder in Israel from the Lord of hostes, which dwelieth in mount Sion. 19. His empire shal be multiplied, and there shal be no end of peace: he shal sit vpon the throne of David, and vpon his Kingdom: that he may confirme it, and strengthen it in iudgement and iustice, from this time & for cuer: the zeale of the Lord of hostes shal doe this. 8. Our Lord hath sent a word into Iacob, and it is fallen in Israel. 9. And al the people of Ephraim shal know, & the inhabitants of Samaria, saying in pride & greatnes of hart: 10. And they that cal this people blessed, seducing them: and that are called blessed, shal be throwen headlong. 17. For this cause our Lord shal not reioyce vpon their yong men: and on their pupilles and widowes he shal not haue mercie: because euerie one is an hypocrite & wicked, and euerie mouth hath spoken follie. In al these things his furie is not turned away, but his hand is yet stretched forth. 18. For impietie is kindled as a fyre, it shal deuoure bryer & thorne: & it shal be kindled in the thicket of the torest, and it shal be wrapped vp together in the pride of smoke. 19. In the wrath of the Lord of hostes the earth is troubled, and the people shal be foode for the tyre: man shal not spare his brother. 20. And he shal decline to the right hand, and shal be hungrie: and shal eate on the left hand, and shal not be filled: euerie one shal eate the flesh of his arme: Manasses Ephraim, and Ephraim Manasses, they rogether against Iuda. 21. And it shal be: when the Lord shal haue accomplished al his workes in mount Sion, and in Ierusalem, I wil visite ouer the fruite of the magnificent hart of the King of Assur, and ouer the glorie of the hautes of his eyes. 13. For he hath said: In the strength of mine owne hand haue I done it, and in mine owne wisdome haue I vnderstood and I haue taken away the borders of peoples, and haue spoiled their Princes, and haue pulled downe as a mightie man, them that sat on high. 14. put to his hand the second time to possesse the remnant of his people, which shal be leaft of the Assirians, and of Aegypt, and of Phethros, and of Aethiopia, and of Aelam, and of Scinaar, and of Emath, and of the ilands of the sea. 12. And he shal liue vp a signe vnto the nations, and shal assemble together the fugitiues of Israel, and shal gather the dispersed of Iuda from the foure quarters of the earth. 13. And the emulation of Ephraim shal be taken away, and the enemies of Iuda shal perith: Ephraim shal not enuie Iuda, & Iuda shal not fight against Ephraim. 14. And they shal flie vpon the shoulders of the Philisthims by the sea, they together shal spoile the children of the East: Idumea, and Moab the precept of their hand, and the children of Ammon shal be obedient. 15. And our Lord shal make desolate the tongue of the sea of Aegypt, and shal lift vp his hand ouer the riuer in the strength of his spirit: and he shal strike him in his seuen streames, so that they may passe through it with shoes. 16. And there shal be a way to the remnant of my people, which shal be leaft of the Assirians: as there was to Israel in the day, that he came vp out of the Land of Aegypt.

CHAP. XII.

A Canticle of thanks for the benefites of Christ.

- ND thou shalt say in that day: I WILL confesse to thee o Lord, because thou wast angrie with me: thy furie is turned away, and thou hast comtorted me.
2. Behold God is my sauour, I wil doe confidently, and wil not teare: because our Lord is my strength, and my praise, & he is become my saluation.
3. You shal drawe waters in ioy out of the sauours fountaines.
4. And you shal say in that day: Contesse ye to our Lord, and inuocate his name: make his inuentions knowen among the peoples: remember that his name is high.
5. Sing ye to our Lord, because he hath done magnifically: shew this forth in al the earth.
6. Reioyce, and prayse o habitation of Sion: because great in the middes of thee, is the holie one of Israel.

The Prophet foretelleth the calamitie, and ruine of Babylon.

HE (a) burden of Babylon, which Isaie the sonne of Amos saw. 2. Vpon the darke mountaine lift vp a signe, exalt the voice, lift vp the hand, & let the dukes enter the gates. 3. I haue commanded my (b) sanctified, and haue called my strong ones in my wrath, them that reioice in my glorie. 4. The voice of a multitude in the mountaines, as it were of manie peoples, a voice of the sound of Kings, nations gathered together: The Lord of hostes hath commanded the host of battel. 5. Comming from a countrie far of, from the end of heauen: our Lord, & the instruments of his furie, to destroy the whole land. 6. Howle ye, because the day of our Lord is nere: it shal come as destruction from our Lord. 7. For this cause shal al hands be disolued, and euerie hart of man shal melt; 8. and be broken. Gripings and paines shal hold them, they shal be in paine as she that trauaileth. Euerie one shal be astonied at his neighbour, their countenances as faces burnt. 9. Behold the day of our Lord shal come, cruel, & full of indignation, & of wrath, & furie to bring the land to a wildernes, and to destroy the sinners therof out of it. 10. Because the starres of heauen, and their brightnes shal not display their light: the sunne is darkened in his rising, and the moone shal not shine in her light. 11. And I wil visite ouer the euils of the world, and against the impious their iniquitie, and I wil make the pride of infidels to cease, & wil humble the arrogancie of the strong. 12. A man shal be more precious then gold, & (c) man then pure fine gold. 13. For this I shal trouble heauen: and the earth shal be moued out of her place, for the indignation of the Lord of hostes, & for the day of the wrath of his furie. 14. And it shal be as a yōg doe flying, & as a sheep: & there shal be none to gather the together: euerie man shal turne to his owne people, and euerie one shal flye to his owne land. 15. Euerie one that shal be found, shal be slaine: and euerie one that shal come to ayde, shal fal by the sword. 16. Their infants shal be dashed in pieces before their eies: their houses shal be spoiled, and their wiues shal be rauished. 17. Behold I wil raise vpon them the Medes, which shal not seeke siluer, nor desire gold. 18. But with arrowes they shal kill the litle ones, and shal haue no pitie vpon the sucklings of the wombe, and vpon the children their eie shal not spare. 19. And that Babylon glorious in Kingdoms, noble in the pride of the Chaldees, shal be euen as our Lord subuerred Sodom and Gomorrhā. 20. It shal not be inhabited for euer, & it (d) shal not be founded vnto generatiō & generation: neither shal the Arabian pitch his tents there, nor shapheards rest there. 21. But

The Iewes shal be released from the captiuitie of Babylen. 12. Nabuchodonosor most proud and mightie, shal be throwne into extreme miserie. 24. In the meane time the Assrians besieging Ierusalem shal be defeated. 28. Neither shal the Philistims preuaile against the Iewes, as they presume.

T (a) is neere that the time therof shal come, and the daies therof shal not be prolonged. For our Lord wil haue mercie on Iacob, and wil yet choose out of Israel, and wil make them rest vpon their owne ground: the stranger shal be ioyned to them, & shal sticke to the house of Iacob. 2. And peoples shal hold them, and bring them into their place, and the house of Israel shal possesse them vpon the land of our Lord for seruants and handmaidcs: and they shal lead captiue those that had taken them, & shal subdew their exactours. 3. And it shal be in that day, when God shal giue thee rest from thy labour, and from thy vexation, and from the sore seruitude, which thou didst serue before. 4. Thou shalt take this parable against the King of Babylon, and thalt say: How hath the exactour ceased, the tribute relted: 5. Our Lord hath broken the staffe of the impious, the rodde of the rulers, 6. that did beate peoples in indignation with vncurable wound, subdewing nations in furie, persecuting cruelly. 7. Al earth is quiet and stil, is glaa & hath reioyced. 8. The firre trees also haue reioyced ouer thee, and the ceders of Libanus: since thou hast slept, there hath none come vp to hew vs. 9. Hel beneath is troubled to meete thy cōming, it hath rayfed vp the giants for thee. Al the Princes of the earth are risē vp frō their thrones, al the Princes of natiōs. 10. Al shal answer, and say to thee: Thou also art wounded euē as we, made like vnto vs. 11. Thy pride is drawn downe to hel, thy carcasse is fallen: vnder thee shal the mothe be strawed, and wormes shal be thy couering. 12. (b) How art thou fallen frō heauen Lucifer, which didst rise in the morning: art thou fallen to the earth, that didst wound natiōs? 13. Which didst say in thy hart: I wil ascend into heauen, about the starres of God wil I exalt my throne, I wil sitte in the mount of the testament, in the sides of the North. 14. I wil ascend about the height of the cloudes, I wil be like to the Highest. 15. But yet thou shalt be drwaen downe to hel, into the depth of the lake. 16. Al the Kings of the nations euerie one haue slept in glorie, ech man in his owne house. 19. But thou art cast forth out of thy sepulchre, as an vnprofitable branche polluted, and wrapped vp with them that were slaine by the sword, and are gone downe to the foundations of the lake, as a rotten carcasle. 20. Thou shalt not keepe companie with them, neither in burial, for thou hast destroyed thy land, thou hast slaine thy people: the seede of the wicked shal not be named for euer. 21. Prepare his children to slaughter in the iniquitie of their fathers: they shal not rise vp, nor inherite the lād, nor fill the world with cities. 22. And I wil rise ouer them, sayth the Lord of hostes: & I wil destroy the name of Babylon, and the remaynes, and bud, and, progenie: sayth our Lord. 23. And I wil make it the possession of the hedgehog, & marrices of waters, & I wil sweepe it with besome wearing sayth it, the Lord of hostes. 24. The Lord of hostes hath sworne, saying: If it shal not be, as I haue thought: and so fal out, as I haue in mind consulted: 25. That I (c) destroy the Assirian in my land, and in my mountaines tread vpon him: and his yoke shal be taken away from them, and his burden taken of from their moulder. 26. This is the counsel, that I haue deuised vpon al the earth, and this in the hand stretched forth vpo al nations. 27. For the Lord of hoites hath decreed, and who can weaken it? and his hand is stretched out: and who shal turre it away? 28. (d) In the year, that King Achaz died, was this burden made. 29. Reioyce not thou whole Philistæa, that (e) the rod of thy striker is broken in peeces: for from the roote of the serpent shal issue forth a cockatrice, and his seed swallowing the bird. 30. And the first borne of the poore shal be fed, & the poore shal rest confidently: and I wil make thy roote to perish in famine, & wil kil thy remnant. 31. Howle thou gate, trie out o citie: al Philisthæa is throwen downe: for a smoke shal come from (f) the North, and there is none that shal escape his troupe. 32. And what shal be answered to the messengers of nations? That our Lord hath founded Sion, and the poore of his people shal hope in him.

The Prophet prayeth for and prophecieth Christs comming: 6. adding more of the affliction of the Moabites for their pride.

(a) In the great miserie of the Moabites, the Prophet saw one special cause of consolation, that Christ the lambe of God, which taketh away the finnes of the world, should be borne of their lineage, by one of their progenie:

(b) Of Ruth a Moabite, who was married to Booz, and so was Dauids great grandmother. Ruth

END forth ô Lord (a) the lambe the dominatour of the earth, frō the (b) Rocke of the desert, to the mount of the daughter of Sion. 2. And he shal be as a bird flying, and the yong flying out of the nest, so shal the daughters of Moab be in the passage of Arnon. 3. Take counsel, gather a council: fet thy shadow in the midday as it were night: hide them that flye, and them that wander bewray not. 4. My fugitiues shal dwel with thee: Moab be thou their couert from the face of the destroyer: for the dust is ended, the wretch is come to naught: he hath failed, that trode downe the earth. 5. And a throne shal be prepared in mercie, and there shal sit vpon it, in truth in the tabernacle of Dauid, he that iudgeth & seeketh iudgement, and quickly rendereth that which is iust. 6. We haue heard the pride of Moab, he is proud exceedingly: his pride and his arrogancie, and his indignation is more then his strength. 7. Therefore shal Moab howle: to Moab, al shal howle: to them that reioyce vpon the walles of baked bricke tel ye their plagues. 8. Because the suburbes of Hesebon are desolate, and the vineyard of Sabama the lords of the Nations haue cut of: the branches therof haue reached to Iazer: they wandered in the desert, the branches therof are least, they passed ouer the sea. 9. For this I wil lament in the weeping of Iazer the vineyard of Sabama: I wil inebriate thee with my teare ô Hesebon, and Eleale: because the voice of the treaders is rusht in vpon thy vintage, and vpon thy haruest. 10. And gladnes and ioy shal be taken away from Carmelus, and it shall not reioyce nor make iubilation in vineyards. He shall not tread wine in the presse that was wonte to tread: the voice of the treaders I haue taken away. 11. For this my bellie shall sound as an harpe to Moab, & my bowels to the wal of baked bricke. 12. And it shall be: when it shall appeare that Moab hath laboured for his excelsies, he shall goe into his sanctuaries to pray, & shall not preuaile. 13. This is the word, that our Lord spake to Moab frō that time: 14.

 and now our Lord hath spoken saying: (e) In three yeares, as the yeares, of an hired seruant, the glorie of Moab shall be taken away vpon al the of Israel. 8. And he shall not incline to the altars, which his hands made:

 and the things that his fingers wrought he shall not regard, as groues and ghes and the corne that were leaft before the face of the children of Israel, and thou shalt be desolate. 10. Because thou hast forgotten God thy Iauour, and hast not remembered thy strong helper: therefore shalt thou

Further description of the Aegyptians punishment; 17. with their conversion to Christ in the new Testament.

He burden of Aegypt. Behold (a) our Lord wil ascend vpon a swift cloude, and wil enter into Aegypt, and the idols of Aegypt shal be moued at his preience, & the hart of Aegypt shal melt in the middes therof. 2. And I wil make the Aegyptians to runne together against the Aegyptians: and a man shal fight against his brother, & euerie man against his freind, citie against citie, Kingdom against Kingdom. 3. And the spirit of Aegypt shal be broken in the bowels therof, & I wil ouerthrow their counsel headlong: and they shal aske their idols, & their diuiners, and Pythons, and Southsayers. 4. And I wil deliuer Aegypt into the hand of cruel masters and, a strong King shal rule ouer them, sayth our Lord the God of hostes. 5. And the water of the sea shal be dried vp, & the riuer shal be made desolate, and drie. 6. And the riuers shal faile: the riuers of the rampiers shal be diminished, & dried vp. The reede and bulrush shal wither: 7. the chanel of the riuer shal be spoiled of his fountaine, & al sowne corne fielde that is watered shal be dried vp, it shal wither, and shal not be. 8. And the fishers shal lament, & al that cast angle into the riuer shal mourne, and they that sprede net vpon the face of the water shal pine away. 9. They shal be cōfounded that wrought twisting flaxe, kombing and weauing fine things. 10. And the watred places therof shal be drie, al they that made pooles to take fishes. 11. The Princes of Tanis are fooles, the wise counsellers of Pharao haue giuen vnwise counsel: how say ye vnto Pharao: I am the sonne of the wise, the sōne of the anciēt Kings: 12. Where are now thy wise mē: let thē tel thee, & shew what the Lord of hostes hath thought cōcerning Aegypt. 13. The Princes of Tanis are become fooles, the Princes of Memphis are withered away, they haue deceiued Aegypt: the corner of the peoples therof. 14. Our Lord hath mingled in the middes therof the spirit of gladnes: and they haue made Aegypt to erre in euerie worke therof, as he erreth that is drunke and vomiteth. 15. And Aegypt shal haue no worke, to make the head and the taile, the peruerter and restrayner. 16. In that day Aegypt shal be as women, & they shal be astonished, & shal be afrayd at the face of the mouing of the hand of the Lord of hostes, which he shal moue ouer it. 17. And the land of Iuda shal be a feare to Aegypt: euerie one that shal remember it, shal quake at the face of the counsil of the Lord of hostes, which he hath thought concerning it. 18. In that day there shal be fise cities in the land of Aegypt, speaking the tongue of Chanaan, and swearing by the Lord of hoites: one shal be called the citie of the sunne.

19. For they shall crie to our Lord at the presence of the afflictet, and he shall send them a sauour and defender to deliuer them. 21. And our Lord shall be knowen of Aegypt, & the Aegyptians shall knowe our Lord in that day, and shall worshipe him in hostes and in guits: and they shall vow vowes to our Lord, and pay them. 22. And our Lord shall smite Aegypt with a strok, and heale it, and they shall returne to our Lord, and he shall be pacified towards them, and heale them. 23. In that day there shall be a way from Aegypt to the Assirians, and the Assirian shall enter into Aegypt, and the Aegyptians to the Assirians, & the Aegyptians shall serue Assur. 24. In that day shall Israel be a thurd to the Aegyptian and the Assirian: a blessing in the middes of the earth, 25. which the Lord of hostes hath blessed, saying: Blessed be my people of Aegypt, and the worke of my hands to the Assirian: but Israel is mine inheritance.

The ignominious captiuitie of Aegyptians and Aethiopians is againe foreshewed by the Prophet going naked. 5. wherat the Jewes are astonished and afraid, seeing their confederates so confounded.

IN the yeare that Tharthan entred into Azotus, when Sargon the King of the Assyrians had sent him, and he had fought against Azotus, and had taken it: 2. at that time our Lord spake in the hand of Isaie the sonne of Amos, saying: Goe, and loose the sackcloth from of thy loynes, and take of thy shoes from thy feete. And he did so (a) going naked, and barefoote. 3. And our Lord said: As my seruant Isaie hath walked, naked and barefoote, it shall be a signe and a wonder of three yeares vpon Aegypt, and vpon Aethiopia. 4. so shall the King of the Assyrians leade the captiuitie of Aegypt, and the tran migration of Aethiopia, yong and old, naked and vnshod, their buttockes vncouered to the ignominie of Aegypt. 5. And they shall feare, & be ashamed of Aethiopia their hope, and of Aegypt their glorie. 6. And the inhabitant of this ile shall say in that day: "Loe this was our hope, to whom we fled for helpe, that they should deliuer vs from the face of the King of the Assyrians: and how shall we be able to escape?"

6. See this vnto our hope) God to shew the vanitie of al hope , that is reposed in men , or in wordlie things , layerth the meruelous and miserable mutations of temporal great Kingdoms before the eyes of his people. That we may see, and admire his merciful prouidence, and our owne follie , when we trust in the helpe of our selues, or of other men , who can not defend themselves from ruine and ignominie : and much lesse can they saue vs, or we our selues. As these examples make manifest. The Kingdom of Israel (or tenne tribes) trusted in Damascus, which could not defend itself, but was ouerthrowne. The Kingdom of Iuda (or two tribes) trusted in Aegypt. The Aegyptians trusted in the Ethiopians , and both were ouerthrowne by the Assirians. The Assirians glorying in their victories and triumphes, attributing al to their owne strength, were ouercome by the Babylonians. The Babylonians, likewise insolent and proud, were oppressed by the Medes and Persians. The Medes and Persians were subdued by Alexander the great. Who was shortly taken away in his youth by poyson ; and his great Monarchie diuided amongst his seruants. And so other peoples, and Kingdomes , much more particular persons and families are turned like a wheele. And therefore our only refuge must be to God, in whom is al true hope, helpe, safetic, and happines, temporal and eternal.

Gods' prouidence in punishing al that trust in men & not in him.

The destruction of Babylon by the Medes and Persians is againe prophesied.

II. The like of the Idumeans , 13. and of Arabians.

HE burden of the desert sea. As whirlwinds come from the South, it comineth from the desert, from an horrible land. 2. A fore vision was told me : he that is incredulous doth vnfaithfully : & he that is a spoiler, wasteth. Come vp Aclam, besiege^o Mede: I haue made al the moorning therot to cease. 3. Therefore are my loines filled with sorow , anguish hath possieted me, as the anguish of a woman that trauaileth: I fel downe when I heard it, I was troubled when I saw it. 4. Mine hart fayled, darknes made me astonished: Babylō my beloued is made a miracle vnto me. 5. Lay the table, looke about in the watch towre the eaters and drinkers: arise ye Princes, take shield. 6. For thus hath our Lord sayd io me : Goe, and set a watchman : and what soeuer he shal see , let him tel. 7. And he saw a chariot of two horsemen, a rider vpon an (a) asse, and a rider vpon a camel : and he beheld them diligently whith much looking. 8. And a lion cried : I am vpon the watch towre of our Lord , standing continually by day : and I am vpon my watch , standing whole nights. 9. Behold this man comacth , the rider vpon the chariot of

O my threshing, and children of my flore, the things that I haue heard of the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, I haue shewed vnto you. 11. (b) The burden of Duma crieth to me out of Seir: Watchman what of the night? watchman what of the night? 12. The watchman said: morning is come and night: if you seeke, seeke: returne, come. 13. (c) The burden in Arabia. In the forest at euen you shal sleep, in the pathes of Dodanim. 14. Meeting the thirstie bring water, you that inhabite the land of the South, with bread meete him that flyeth. 15. For they are fled from the face of the swords, from the face of the sword hanging ouer, from the face of the bow bent, from the face of a grieuous battel. 16. Because thus sayth our Lord to me: Yet in one yeare, as in the yeare of an hyred man, and all the glorie of Cedar shal be taken away. 17. And the remnant of the number of the strong archers of the children of Cedar shal be diminished: for our Lord the God of Israel hath spoken it.

For the sinnes especially of chiefe officers, Sion and the temple shal be destroyed.
15. Sobna a wicked ruler shal be removed, 20. and Eliacim put in his place.

(a) The ninth against the cheefe rulers of Ierusalem.
b) Sion situated on a hil, and often called a mountaine, is here called a vale, for the afflicted state wherein it was in the captiuitie.

HE (a) burden of the (b) vale of vision. What aileth thee, that thou art also wholly gone vp into the house toppes? 2. ful of clamour, a populous citie, reioycing thy slaine are not slaine by the sword, nor dead in battel. 3. Al thy Princes are fled together, and are bound hard: al that were found, are bound together, they are fled far off. 4. Therefore haue I sayd Depart from me, I wil weepe bitterly: labour not to comfort me, for the destruction of the daughter of my people. 5. For it is a day of slaughter, and conculcation, and weepings to our Lord the God of hostes, in the vale of visitation, searching the wal, and magnificent vpon the mountaine. 6. And Aelam tooke quiuer, chariot of the horsman, and the shilde hath made the wal naked. 7. And thy principal valleyes shal be ful of chariots, and the horsemen shal place themselues in the gate. 8. And the couering of Iuda shal be discovered, and thou shalt see in that day the armourie of the house of the forest. 9. And you shal see the breaches of the citie of Dauid, because they are multiplied: and you haue gathered together the waters of the lower poole, 10. and haue numbred the houies of Ierusalem, and destroyed houses to fortifie the wal. 11. And you haue made a lake betwee the two walles to the water of the old poole: & you looked not vp to him that made it, and the worker therof long before you saw

And our Lord the God of hostes shal cal in that day to weeping, and to mourning, to baldnes, and to girdle of sackcloth: 13. and behold ioy and gladnes, to kil calves, and to slea rammes, to eate flesh, and to drinke wine: Let vs eate and drinke: for to morow we shal die. 14. And the voice of the Lord of hostes was reuealed in mine eares: If this iniquitie shal be forgiuen you vntil you die, sayth our Lord the God of hostes. 15. Thus sayth our Lord the God of hostes: Goe, get thee in to him, that dwelleth in the tabernacle, to (c) Sobna the prouoit of the temple, and thou shalt say to him: 16. What doest thou here, or as if thou were some bodie here? because thou hast cut thee out a sepulchre here, thou hast cut out a memorial diligently in an high place, a tabernacle for thee in a rocke. 17. Behold our Lord wil cause thee to be caried away, as a cocke is caried, and he wil lift thee vp as a garment. 18. Crowning he wil crowne thee with tribulation, he wil cast thee as a bal into a brode and large cuntry: there shalt thou die, and there shal the chariot of thy glorie be, the ignominie of the house of thy Lord. 19. And I wil expel thee from thy standing, and depose thee from thy ministerie. 20. And it shal be in that day: I wil cal my seruant Eliacim the sonne of Helcias, 21. and wil cloth him with thy coate, and wil strengthen him with thy girdle, and wil giue thy powre into his hand: and he shal be as a father to the inhabitants of Ierusalem, & to the house of Iuda. 22. And I wil giue the key of the house of Dauid vpon his shoulder: and he shal open, and there shal be none to shut: and he shal shut, and there shal be none to open. 23. And I wil fasten him as a pinne in a sure place, and he shal be for a throne of glorie to the house of his father. 24. And they shal hang vpon him al the glorie of his fathers house, diuerse kinds of vessels, euerie litle vessel, fro vessels of cuppes euen to euerie instrumēt of musike. 25. In that day saith the Lord of hostes, shal the pine be taken away, that was fastened in the sure place: and that which hong thereon, shal be broken, and fall, and perish, because our Lord hath spoken.

The destruction of Tyrus by the Chaldees, 15. and reparation thereof after seuenie yeares.

TH E burden of Tyre. Howle ye shippes of the sea, because the house is destroyed, from whence they were wont to come: from the land of Cerchim it is reuealed to them. 2. Hold your peace ye that dwell in (a) the ile: the traffickers of Sidon passing ouer the sea, haue replenished thee. 3. The seed of Nilus in manie waters, the harvest of the riuer was her fruits: & she was made the trafike of the nations. 4. Is not this your citie, which gloried frō ancient dayes in her antiquitie: her feete shal leade her a farre to seiourne. 8. Whō hath thought this against Tyre, that was sometime crowned, whose merchants were Princes, her chapmen the nobles of the earth? 9. The Lord of hostes hath thought it, that he might plucke downe the pride of al glorie, and bring al the glorious of the earth to ignominie. 10. Passe thy land as a riuier, o daughter of the sea, thou hast a gridle no more. 11. He hath stretched forth his hand vpon the sea, he hath troubled Kingdomes: Our Lord hath giuen comandment against Chanaan, to destroy the strong therof, 12. and he said: Thou shalt adde no more to glorie, o Virgin daughter of Sidon susteyning calumnie: rising vp faile ouer to Cethim, there also thou shalt haue no rest. 13. Behold the land of the Chaldees was not such a people, Assur founded it: they led away the strong therof into captiuitie, they vndermined the houses therof, they brought it to ruine. 14. Howle ye shippes of the sea, because your strength is destroyed. 15. And it shal be in that day: thou shalt be in obliuion o Tyre, (b) seuentie yeares, as the daies of one King: but after seuentie yeares, there shal be to Tyre as it were the song of an harlot. 16. Take an harpe, goe about the citie thou harlot forgotten: sing wel, multiple song, that there may be remembrance of thee. 17. And it shal be after seuentie yeares: our Lord wil visite Tyre, and wil bring her backe againe to her merchandise: and she shal fornicate againe with al the Kingdoms of the earth, vpon the face of the earth. 18. And the martes, and rewards shal be sanctified to our Lord: they shal not be kept in store, nor layd vp: because her merchandise shal be for them, that shal dwel before our Lord, that they may eate vnto satietie, and be clothed vnto continuance.

(b) The Trians reioyed in the Iewes captiuitie, & therefore God punished them with like captiuitie of 70. yeares.

CHAP. XXIII.

At this world shal be destroyed, 7. wherof manie signes shal come before, 18. and general iudgement shal folow.

The third part. Prophecies perceyning to the whole world.

(a) Diuerfitie of states which is now in the world, shal cease at the general iudgement, and al men shal receiue according to their desertes.

BE HOLD our Lord shal dissipate the earth, and make it naked, and afflict the face therof, and disperse the inhabitats therof. 2. And (a) as the people, so shal the priest be: & as the seruant, so his master: as the handmayde, so her mistresse: as the buyer, so he that selleth: as the leder, so he that boroweth: as he that asketh his dew, so he that oweth. 3. With dissipatiō shal the earth be dissipated, & with spoile it shal be spoiled: for our Lord hath spokē this word. 4. The earth hath mourned, & fallen away, and is weakened: the world is fallen away the height of the people of the earth is weakened. 5. And the earth is infected by the inhabitants therof: because they haue transgressed the lawes, changed right, dissipated the euerlasting couenāt. 6. For this cause shal maledictiō deuoure the earth, & the inhabitants therof shal sinne: and therefore the dwellers therein (b) shal be madde, & few men shal be leaft. 7. The vintage hath mourned, the wine is weakened, al haue sighed that reioyced in hart. 8. The ioy of tymbrels hath ceased, that sound of thē that reioyce is leaft of, the sweetnes of the harpe is filēt. 9. They shal not drinke wine with song: the drinke shal be bitter to them that drinke it. 10. The citie of vanitie is broken downe, euerie house is shut, no mā goeth in. 11. There shal be crying for the wine in the streetes: al mirth is left: the ioy of the earth is caried away. 12. Desolation is left in the citie, & calamitie shal oppresse the gates. 13. Because these things shal be in the middes of the earth, in the middes of peoples, in like manner as it a few oliues, which are remaying, should be shaken out of the oliue tree; and grapes, when the vintage is ended. 14. These shal lift vp their voice, and praye: when our Lord shal be glorified, they shal make a ioytul noise frō the sea. 15. For this cause in doctrines glorifie our Lord (c) in the isles of the sea the name of our Lord the God of Israel. 16. Frō the endes of the earth we haue heard praite, the glorie of the iust one. And I sayd: My secret to me, my secret to me, woe is me: the preuaricatours haue preuaricated, and by the preuaricatiō of trangressours they haue preuaricated. 17. Feare, and pitte, and snare vpon thee, that art inhabiter of the earth. 18. And it shal be: He that in al flye from the voice of feare, shal fal into the pitte: and he that shal rid himselfe out of the pitte, shal be held in the snare: because the fludgates from on high are opened, and the foundations of the earth shal be tuaken. 19. With breaking shal the earth be broken, with bruising shal the earth be bruised, with mouing shal the earth be moued, 20. with shaking shal the earth be shaken as a drunken man, and shal be taken away as the tabernacle of one night: and the iniquitie therof shal be heauie vpon it, and it shal fal, and not adde to rise againe. 21. And it shal be: In that day our Lord wil visite vpon the holie of heauen on high, and vpon the Kings of the earth, that are vpon the earth. 22. And they shal be gathered together as the gathering of a bundel into the lake, and shal be shut there in prison: and after manie daies they shal be visited. 23. And the moone shal be confounded, when the Lord of hostes shal reigne in mount Sion, and in Ierusalem, & shal be glorified in the sight of his ancients.

Jer. 42.

(b) Neer the end of the world, manie forgetting the law of God, & nature, wil rage in extreme furie against others, persecuting & murdering one another, especially the wicked afflicting the good: which our Sauour describeth (Mat. 24.) saying: Nations shal rise against nations. You shal be odious to al nations for my sake. Iniquitie shal abound, &c.

(c) This ioyful propagation of Gods glorie and name, is either vnderstood to be propheticd of the Church in general, which is as an island of the whole world: or properly and particularly (amongst other gentils) oflandes conuerred to Christ: as great Britannie & others.

C H A P. XXV.

The Prophet giueth thanks to God for his meruelous workes, 7. and great benefites, in lightning manie with faith, washing away their sinnes, and giuing grace and eternal glorie.

(b) The Prophet and faithful people confessing Gods benefites, and perfect performance of whatsoeuer he promiseth, or determineth, conforming their desires to his pleasure, say Amen, as well in prosperitie, when he deliuereth and blesseth them, as in aduersitie, when he punisheth: by the destruction of Ierusalem, which is here prophesied, and the like.

(b) After the resection of the Jewes & Gentiles shall be converted to Christ.

LORD thou art my God. I wil exalt thee, and confesse to thy name: because thou hast done meruelous things, the old cogitations faithful, (a) Amen. 2. Because thou hast brought the citie into a heape, the strong citie into ruine, the house of strangers: that it be no citie, & that it be not built for euer. 3. For this shall strong people prayse thee, the citie of strong nations shall feare thee. 4. Because thou art become a strength to the poore, a strength to the needie in his tribulation: an hope against the whirlwinde, a shadow against the heate. For the spirit of the strong is as a whirlwinde beating against a wal. 5. As heate in thirst, shalt thou humble the tumult of strangers: and as with heate vnder a burning cloude thou shalt make the branch of the strong to wither. 6. And the Lord of hostes shall make to (b) al peoples in this mount, a feast of fat things, a feast of vintage, of fat things full of marrow, of vintage purified from the dregges. 7. And he shall in this mount throw downe headlong the face of the bond, tied together vpon al peoples, and the webbe that he hath begun vpon al nations. 8. He shall cast death downe headlong for euer: and our Lord God shall take away teare from al face, and the reproch of his people he shall take away out of the whole earth: because our Lord hath spoken it. 9. And he shall say in that day: Loe this is our God, we haue expected him, and he wil saue vs: this is our Lord, we haue patiently wayted for him, we shall reioyce and be ioyful in his saluation. 10. Because the hand of our Lord shall rest in this mount: and Moab shall be threshed vnder him, as straw is broken with the wayne. 11. And he shall stretch forth his hands vnder him, as he that swimmeth stretcheth forth to swimme: and he shall humble his glorie with dashing of his hands. 12. And the munitions of thy high walles shall fall, and be humbled, & shall be plucked downe to the grownd euen to the dust.

C H A P. XXVI

A Canticke of thankes for changing the old Synagogue into the Church of Christ: which hath more light of true faith, 12. and more patience in tribulations: 19. which in the general resurrection shall be made manifest.

N (a) THAT day shall this song be sung in the land of Iuda. (b) Sion the citie of our strength, a Saviour therein shall be put (c) a wal and bulworke.

2. Open ye the gates, and let the iust nation enter in, that kepeth truth.

3. The old error is gone: thou wilt keepe peace: peace, because we haue hoped in thee.

4. You haue hoped in our Lord in worlds euerlasting, in our Lord God strong for euer.

5. Because he wil bowe downe them that dwel on high, the high citie he wil abase. He wil abase it euen to the ground, he wil pluke it downe euen to the dust.

6. The foote shall treade it downe, the feete of the poore, the steppes of the needie.

7. The path of the iust is right, the path of the iust is right to walke in.

8. And in the path of thy iudgements, o Lord, we haue patiently expected thee: thy name, and thy memorial are in the desire of the soule.

9. My soule hath desired thee in the night: yea and with my spirit in my hart I wil watch to thee in the morning.

When thou shalt doe thy iudgements in the earth, the inhabitants of the world shall learne iustice.

10. Let vs haue mercie on the impious, and he wil not learne iustice: in the land of the holie he hath done wicked things, and he shall not see the glorie of our Lord.

11. Lord thy hand be exalted, and let them not see: let the enuious people see, and be confounded: and let fyre deuoure thine enimies.

12. Lord thou wilt giue peace to vs: for al our workes thou hast wrought to vs.

13. O Lord our God, there haue Lords besides thee possessed vs, onlie in thee let vs remember thy name.

14. Let not the dead liue, let not the giants rise againe: therefore hast thou visited and destroyed them, & hast destroyed al their memorie.

15. Thou hast been fauourable to the nation, o Lord, thou hast been fauourable to the nation: wast thou glorified? thou hast made al the endes of the earth far of.

(a) In the time of grace giuen by Christ his whole Church singeth this and other like canticles of praises.

(b) Other peoples haue their peculiar proper cities: Babylon, Damascus, Tyrus, Sidon, &c. but al Christians haue one citie, the Catholike Church, signified by Sion.

(c) Fensed with wal and bulworke, of faith & good workes.

S. Ierom here noteth that the sense of this Canticke is hard, by reason of often and sundaine interlocutions of diuers persons consisting in questions and answers. To whose learned commentaries we remitte the studious readers.

16. Lord in distresse they haue sought after thee, in tribulation of murmure thy doctrine was to them.

17. As she that conceiueth, when she draweth neere to be deliuered, being sorowful crieth in her paines: so are we become at thy presence, o Lord.

18. We haue conceiued, and as it were traueled, and brought forth the spirit: saluations we haue not done in the earth, therefore the inhabitants of the earth haue not fallen.

19. Thy (d) dead shal liue; my slaine shal rise againe: awake, and prayse ye that dwel in the dust: because (e) the dew of the light is thy dew, & (f) the land of the giants thou shalt plucke downe into ruine.

20. Goe my people, enter into thy chambers, shut thy doores vpon thee, be hid a litle for a moment, til the indignation passe.

21. For behold our Lord wil come out of his place, to visite the iniquitie of the inhabitant of the earth against him: and the earth shal reueale her bloud, and shal couer her slaine no more.

C H A P. XXVII.

God comforteth the faithfull, promising to destroy the wicked. 3. Christs comming is againe prophecied, with propagation of his Gospel, and conuersion of all nations.

(a) Tyrants are called serpents for, their fittle poweful malice, and barres, because they hold men fast inclosed in bondage.

And for the same reasons the diuel is called a serpent, and a barre.

In that day our Lord wil visite with his sore, and great, and strong sword vpon Leuiathan (a) the serpent, the barre, & vpon Leuiathan the crooked serpent, and shal kil the whale that is in the sea.

2. In that day the vinyard of pure wine shal sing to it. 3. I the Lord that keep it, I wil sodenly drinke to it: lest perhaps there be visitation against it, night and day I keepe it. 4. There is no indignation in me: who wil giue me to be thorne and bryer in battel: to goe vpon it, to set it on fyre together? 5. Or rather shal he hold my strength, shal he make peace with me, shal he make peace with me?

6. They that goe in with violence to Iacob, Israel shal flourish and spring, and they shal fill the face of the world with seed. 7. Hath he striken him according to his stroke that stricke him? or as he killed his slaine, is he killed?

8. In measure against measure, when it shal be cast of, thou shalt iudge it. He hath meditated in his hard spirite during the day of heate. 9. Therefore vpon this shal the iniquitie be forgiuen to the house of Iacob: and this is all the fruit, that the sinne therot be taken away, when he shal haue layd all the stones of the altar, as stones of ashes broken, the groues & temples shal not stand.

10. For the defensed citie shal be desolate, the beautifull citie shal be forsaken, and shal be forsaken, and shal be left as a desert, there shal the calfe feede, and there he shal lie, and shal consume the toppes therof. 11. The haruests therof shal be destroyed in drought, women comining and teaching it: for it is not a wise people, therefore shal not he that made it, haue mercie on it: and he that formed it, shal not spare it. 12. And it shal be. In that day our Lord wil strike from the chanel of the riuer, euen to the torrent of Aegypt, and you shal be gathered together one and one. o children of Israel. 13. And it shal be: In that day a sound shal be made with a great trompet, and they that were lost, shal come from the land of the Assirians, and that were cast out, from the land of Aegypt, and shal adore our Lord in the holie mount in Ierusalem.

C H A P. XXVIII.

Tribulations are threatened to the tenne tribes of Israel, for their pride, and voluptuouſnes (5. God stil protecting some who serue him sincerely) 7. and for contempt of Religion. 16 But God wil lay a sure foundation in Sion. 20. Wil punish the wicked, 24. and comfort the good.

W E to the crowne of pride, to the drunkards of (a) Ephraim, and to the flowre falling downe from the glorie of his exultation, which were in the toppe of the most fatte valley, erring by wine. 2. Behold our Lord is valiant and strong, as the violence of hayle: a whirlewind breaking, the violence of manie waters ouerflowing, & sent forth vpon a large ground. 3. The crowne of pride of the drunkards of Ephraim shal be troden vnder feere. 4. And the flowre of the glorie of his exultation, which is vpon the toppe of the valley of fatte ones, shal be falling as a timely fruite before the ripenesse of autumne: which when he that seeth it shal behold, as soone as he taketh it in his hand, he wil deuoure it. 5. (b) In that day the Lord of hostes shal be a crowne of glorie, and (c) a garland of exultation to the residue of his people: 6. and (d) a spirit of iudgement to him that sitteth in iudgement, and (e) strength to them that returne out of battel to the gate. 7. But these also haue been ignorant, because of wine, and by drunkennes haue erred: the Priest and the Propher haue been ignorant because of drunkennes, they are swallowed vp with wine, they haue erred in drunkennes, they haue not knowne him that seeth, they haue been ignorant of iudgement. 8. For al tables were filled with vomiting and filth, so that there was no more place. 9. Whom shal he teach knowledge? and ful men, which rule ouer my people: that is in Ierusalem. 15. For you haue sayd: We haue stricken a league with death, & with hel we haue made a covenant. The scourge ouerflowing when it shal passe, shal not come vpon vs: because we haue made lying our hope, & with lying we are pro-foundations of Sion a stone, an approued stone, a corner stone, pretious, founded in the foundation. He that belieueth, let him not make hast. 17.

And I wil put iudgement in weight, and iustice in measure: and haile shal ouerthrow the hope of lying: and waters shal ouerflow the protewith hel shal not stand: when the scourge ouerflowing shal passe, you you away: because in the morning early it shal passe through in the day and in the night, and vexation alone shal giue vnderstanding in the bear-doe his worke, his strange worke: that he may worke, his worke is strange frō him. 22. And now mocke not, lest perhaps your bonds be tied straye.

For I haue heard of our Lord the God of hostes consumption and abridgement vpon al the earth. 23. Harken with your eares, and heare my voicc, attend, & heare my speach. 24. Wil (g) the ploughman plowe al the day to sow, wil he cut & harrow his ground? 25. Wil he not when he hath made cūen the face therof, sprinkle cummine, and place the wheare by order, and the barley, and miller, and vetch, in their bondes? 26. And his God wil instruct him in iudgement: he wil teach him. 27. For (h) gith shal not be threshed with instruments that haue teeth, neither shal the wayne wheele turne about vpon cummine: but gith shal be beaten out with a rodde, and commine with a staffe. 28. But bread corne shal be broken smal: (i) but the thresher shal not thresh it for euer, neither shal the wayne wheele vex it, nor breake it with the teeth therof. 29. And this is come forth from our Lord the God of hostes, that he might make his counsel merueious, and magnifie iustice.

The Prophet bewaileth the Jewes destruction, 9. for their blinde obstinacie; 17
 prophesying the Gentiles conuersion.

Woe to (a) Ariel, Ariel the citie, which Dauid ouercame: yeare is added to yeare: the solemnities are at an end. 2. And I wil make a trench about Ariel, and it shal be sorowful and moorning, and it shal be to me as Ariel. 3. And I wil compasse as a sphereround about thee, and wil cast a rampier against thee, and place munitions to besiege thee. 4. Thou shalt be humbled, thou shalt speake out of the earth, and out of the ground thy speach shal be heard: and thy voice shal be out of the earth as the Pythons, and out of the ground thy speach shal mutter. 5. And the multitude of them that fanne thee shal be as smal dust: and as isles passing away, the multitude of them, that haue preuailed agaynst thee. 6. And it shal be sodainly torthwith. It shal be visited of the Lord of hostes in thunder, and earth quake, and with great voice of whirlewind and tempest, and with flame of deuouring fyre. 7. And the multitude of al nations, that haue fought agaynst Ariel, shal be as the dreame of a vision in the night, and al that haue waried, and besieged, and preuailed agaynst it. 8. And as he that is hungrie dreameth, and eateth, but when he is awake, his soule is emptie: and as he that is thirstie dreameth, & drinketh, and after he is awake, faint as yet thirsteth, & his soule is emptie: so shal the multitude be of al the Gentiles, that haue fought agaynst mount Sion. 9. Be astonied, and meruel, wauer, & stagger: be ye drunke, & not of wine: be moued, & not of drunkennes. 10. Because our Lord hath mingled vnto you the spirit of drowlines, he wil shut your eyes, he wil couer your Prophets & Princes, that see visions. 11. And the visio of al shal be vnto you as the words of a Book sealed: which when they shal giue to him that knoweth letters, they shal say: Read this; and he shal answer: (b) I ca not, for it is sealed. 12. And the Book shal be giue to one that knoweth not letters, and it shal be sayd to him: Reade; and he shal answer: (c) I know not letters. 13. And our Lord sayd: Because this people approacheth with their mouth, and with their lippes glorifieth me, but their hart is far from me, and they haue feared me by the commandment and doctrines of men: 14. therefore behold I wil adde to make admiration to this people, by a great and wonderful miracle: for wisdom shal perill from their wise men, and the vnderstanding of their prudent shal be hid. 15. Woe vnto you that are deep of hart, to hide your counsel from our Lord: whose works are in darkenes, and they say: Who seeth vs, and

The Iewes are blamed for seeking counsel and helpe of the Aegyptians. 18. But if they repent, they shal find releefe, and spiritual riches of the soule. 27. Gods iudgement wil be strict: 33. and bel is most horrible.

(a) You that trust in your owne counsels: and forces, or in other mens, and not in God, shal finde the miserable euent of your follie, as is before noted.

And the strength of Pharao shal be a confusion to you, and the confidence in the shadow of Aegypt an ignominie. 4. For thy Princes were in Tanis, & thy messengers came euen to Hanes. 5. Al were confounded vpon the people, that could not profite them: they were no helpe, nor to any profite, but to cofusion & to reproch. 6. The burden of the beastes of the South. In a land of tribulation & distresse, the lionesse, & the lion of them, the viper & the flying basiliscus carying their riches vpon the shoulders of beastes, & their treasures vpon the bunch of camels, to a people that can not be able to profite them. 7. Take from me the way, turne away the path from me, let the holie one of Israel cease from our face. 12. Therefore thus sayth the holie one of Israel: For that you haue reiected this word, and haue hoped in calumnie and tumult, and haue leaned therevpon: 13. therefore shal this iniquitie be vnto you as a breach that falleth, and is found lacking in an high wal, because sodenly, whiles it is not hoped, shal come the destruction therof. 14. And it shal be broken smal, as the porters vessel is broken with mightie breaking: and there shal not a shread be found of the fragments therof, wherein a litle fyre may be caried from the burning, or a litle water be drawn out of the pitte. 15. Because thus sayth our Lord the God of Israel: If you returne and be quiet, you shal be saued: in silence and in hope shal your strength be. And you would not: 16. and you haue sayd: No, but we wil flye to horses: therefore shal you flye. And we wil mount vpon swift ones: therefore shal they be swifter, that shal persecute you. 17. A thousand men at the face of terrour of one, and at the face of the terrour of fise: shal you flye, til you be least as the mast of a shippe in the toppe of a mountaine, and as a signe vpon a litle hil. 18. Therefore our Lord expecteth that he may haue mercie on you: and therefore shal he be exalted sparing you: because our Lord is the God of iudgement: blessed are al they that expect him. 19. For the people of Sion shal dwell in Ierusalē: weeping thou shalt not weep, pitying he wil pitie thee: at the voice of thy crie as soone as he shal heare, he wil answer thee. 20. And our Lord wil giue you straite bread, & short water: and wil not make thy doctour to flye away from thee any more: and thine eies shal see thy master. 21. And thine eares shal heare the word of him, that behinde thy backe admonisheth thee: This is the way, walke in it: and decline ye not neither to the right hand, nor to the left. 22. And thou shalt contaminate the plates of the sculprils of thy siluer, & the garmēt of the molten or thy gold, and shalt scatter them as the vncleannes of a menstruous woman. Thou shalt say to it: Get thee hence. 23. And rayne shal be giuen to thy seed, wheresoeuer thou shalt sow in the land: and the bread of the corne of the land shal be most plentiful, and fatte. The lambe in that day shal feede at large in thy possession: 24. and thyne oxen, as the asse coltes, that til the ground, shal eat mingled prouender as it was fanned in the floore. 25. And there shal be vpon euerie high mounrayne, and vpon euerie litle hil eleuated, riuers of running waters in the day of the killing of manie when the towres shal fal. 26. And (c) the light of the moone shal be as the light of the sunne, and the light of the sunne shal be seuenfold, as the light of seuen daies, in the day when our Lord shal bind vp the wound of his people, and shal heale the strok of their wound. 27. Aegypt, a man, and not God: and their horses, flesh, and not spirite: and our Lord shal bowe downe his hand, and the helper shal fal, and he that is holpen shal fal, and they shal al be confounded together. 4. Because thus sayth our Lord to me: As if a lion should roare, and the lions whelp vpon his praye, and when a multitude of shepherds shal come against him, he wil not feare at their voice, and of their multitude he wil not be afrayd: so shal the Lord of hostes descend (b) to fight vpon mount Sion, and vpon the litle hil therof. 5. C H A P. XXXII.

The Prophet comforteth the Iewes, foreshewing that their King Ezechias wil rule wel, and prosper, but most especially prophesieth of Christ. 9. That they shal be reiected for persecuting him, 15. and his Church shal prosper.

BEHOLD "the King shal" reigne in iustice, & the Prince shal rule in iudgement. 2. And a man shal be as he that is hid from the wind, and hideth himselfe from a tempest, as riuers of waters in drough, and the shadow of a rocke that standeth out in a desert ground. 3. The eyes of them that see, shal not be dimme, and the eares of them that heare, shal harken diligently. 4. And the hart of fooles shal vnderstand knowledge, and the tongue (a) of masslers shal speake readily and plaine. 5. He that is vnwise shal no more be called Prince: neither shal the deceitful be called the greater man: 6. for the foole shal speake foolish things, & his hart shal doe iniquitie, that he may worke simulation, and speake to our Lord deceitfully, & make emptie the soule of the hungrie, and take away drinke from the thirstie. 7. The vessels of the deceitful are most wicked: for he hath framed deuises to vndoe the meeke, with the word of lying, whē the poore mā spake iudgement. 8. But the Prince wil thinke these things, that are worthie of a Prince, & he shal stand aboue the dukes. 9. Ye *riche women arise, and heare my voice: ye confident daughters giue care to my speach. 10. For after dayes & a yeare you shal be troubled that haue confidence: for the vintage is at an end, the gathering wil no more come. 11. Be astonied ye riche women, be troubled ye confident: strippe you, and be confounded, gird your loynes. 12. Moorne vpon your breasts, vpon the countrie worthie to be destroyed, vpon the fruitful vineyard. 13. ANNOTATIONS.

CHAP. XXXII.

This & manie other prophecies pertaine to the old testament as in figure, alluding to the historie, but principally to Christ, and his Church.

1. The King shal reigne.) Some expound this whole passage of Ezechias, or Iosias Kings of Iuda, and of the chiefe Princes vnder them: but so great effectes, as be here prophecied, were not fully verified in them, but as in figure only of a more excellent King, and his principal seruantes, that should folow afterwards. For albeit these were very good kings, and had good and wise counsellers, & gouerners vnder them: yet they had not that perfect iudgement, nor performed that complete iustice, wherby the subiectes enioyed such peace, rest, safetic, and consolation, as be here described, by the metaphores, and similitudes of men hid from winde, safe from tempest, refreshed with waters in their heate, and shadowed by a rock from the burning sunne in the desert, with the like. And therefore S. Ierom, and other Christian Doctours vnderstand it of Christ, who hath most perfect iudgement and iustice; and of his Apostles, and other Pastours of his Church who by vntion of the Holie Ghost, participate more abundantly of Christs grace, then did the priestes, & other rulers in the old testament. And so Christian people receiue these benefits of peace, rest, protection, refreshing in soule, & conscience, & other spiritual comfertes in Christ, by the mysteries of the new Testament, which the faithful of the old Testament could not receiue by their Kings & Princes, nor by priestes and prophets of that time. The same we might deduce of innumerable other places of this & other Propheies: but it is not our * purpose to explicate much in this Edition.

What the words, Iudgement and Iustice, signifie.

Definition of Iudgement and Iustice as they are vsed in the holie Scriptures. Both applied to Gods and mens actions.

1. Reigne in iustice: and rule in iudgements) Here also to auoide polixitie, we may once more note that these words: Iudgements, and Iustice, haue a farre other higher and more excellent signification in holie Scriptures (where they most frequently occur) then in prophane writings, and natural or morol philosophical discourses. For Philosophers, such as Plato and Aristotle, could reach no further then to natural reason, which they called right iudgement: and to morall equitie, which in general they named iustice. But the Holie Ghost by these wordes reueleth most high spiritual mysteries, knowen by faith, most comfortable to mens soules, relieuing and refreshing the consciences of penitents in this life & replenishing the iust with vnspearable gladnes in eternal glorie. Therefore in the sense vsual in holy Scripture, Iudgement is the act of the mind, or vnderstanding, discerning what is right, iust, & agreeing to reason: And Iustice is the rectitude of the wil, doing conformably to right direction of the mind, or vnderstanding. And so these wordes are applied to signifie both Gods, and iust mens actions. As that which God mercifully decreed in eternitie, and promised after the fall of man, to do for mankind, as conuenient for his Diuine Powre, Wisdom, Iustice, Mercie, & Goodnes; with al the meanes which he ordained for effecting the same, is called his Iudgement; and the performing and accomplishment thereof, so farre as is of his part, is called his Iustice. Also that which anie man discusseth, discerneth, and determineth in his vnderstanding, as right, or reasonable in supernatural things, is called his spiritual iudgement; and that which he doth of his freewil according to the same right iudgement, is called his iustice. So in this place the Prophet foreteweth, that Christ our King reigne in iustice, that is, performe and fulfil al that he, as God with the Father & the the Holie Ghost, decreed for Redemption, Iustification and Saluation of men. And the Princes, his Apostles and other Pastors, shall rule in iudgements: that is, discern and iudge, what is right, and good for themselves, and the people in respect of their soules, and eternal saluation.

Lord haue mercie vpon vs: for we haue expected thee: be our arme in the morning, and our saluation in the time of our tribulation. 3. At the voice of the Angel the peoples fled, and at thy exaltation the nations are dispersed. 4. And there shall be (b) fayth in thy times: riches of saluation, wisdom & knowledge: the feare of our Lord, that is his treasure. 7. Behold they that see shall crie without: (c) the angels of peace shall weepe bitterly. 8. The wayes are dissipated, the passenger by the path hath ceased, the couenant is made frustrate, he hath reiected the cities, he hath not esteemed the me. 9. The land hath moored, & languished: Libanus is confounded, & become foule, and Saron is made as a desert: and Basan is shaken, & Carmel. 10. Now wil I rise vp, sayth our Lord: now wil I be exalted, now wil I be lifted vp. 11. You shall conceiue heate, you shall bring forth stubble: your spirit as fire shall deuoure you. 12. And the people shall be as ashes of a great fyre, thornes gathered together shall be burned with fyre. 13. Heare ye that are far off, what things I haue done, and ye that are neere, know my strength. 14. The sinners are terrified in Sion, trembling hath possessed the hypocrites. Which of you can dwell with deuouring fyre? which of you shall dwell with euerlasting heates? 15. He that walketh in iustices, and speaketh truth, that casteth away auarice of oppression, and shaketh his hands from al guist, that stoppeth his eares leit he heare bloud, and shutteth his eyes that he may see no euil. 16. (d) Both prophecies & histories testifie that terrene Ierusalem was subiect to destruction, and was destroyed, and therefore this is necessarily to be vnderstood of the Church of Christ, against which hel gates shal neuer preuaile.

C H A P. XXXIII.

A Prophecie of the destruction of the whole world, at the day of Iudgement, 5. and in particular of Idumæa 9. & Ierusalem, as figures therof.

(a) God wil- leth as wel gentils that were farre of, to come neere, (b) as also the Iewes that were his peculiar people, al to attend, that he wil destroy this whole world, before the general Iudgement. (c) No defence of strong places (signified by Bosra) shal saue anie men from destruction in the day of Iudgement.

OME (a) neere ye Gentils, and heare, and ye (b) peoples attend: let the earth' heare, & the fulnes therof, the round world, and euerie spring therof. 2. Because the indignation of our Lord is vpon al Gentils, and furie vpon al their hostes: he hath killed them, & giuen them into slaughter. 3. Their flaine shal be cast forth, and out of their carcasses shal rise a stinch: the mountaines shal melt with their blood. 4. And al the hoit of the heauens shal melt away, and the heauens shal be folded together as a booke: and al their host shal fal away as the leafe falleth from the vine, & from the figge tree. 5. Because my sword is inebriated in heauen: behold it shal descend vpon Idumæa, and vpon the peoples of my slaughter to iudgement. 6. The sword of our Lord is filled with blood, it is fatted of the blood of lambes and buckgoats, of the blood of rāmes ful of marow: for the victime of our Lord is in (c) Bosra, & a great slaughter in the land of Edom. 7. And the vnicornes shal come downe with thē, & the bulles with the mightie: their land shal be drunke with blood, & their ground with the fatnes of fatte ones. 8. Because it is the day of the reuēge of our Lord, the yeare of retributiōs of the iudgemēt

(a) of

(d) of Sion. 9. And the torrents therof shal be turned into pitch, and the ground therof into brimstone: and the land therof shal be into burning pitch. 10. Night and day it shal not be quenched, the smoke therof shal goe vp for euer: from generation vnto generation it shal be desolate, there shal none passe by it world without end. 11. The onocrotalus, and hedgehog shal possesse it: & the ibis, and the rauen shal dwel in it: & a measure shal be stretched out vpon it, to bring it to nothing, and a plumme line vnto desolatiō. 12. The nobles therof shal not be there: they shal call rather vpon the King, and al the Princes therof shal be as nothing. 13. And thornes and nettles shal grow vp in the houses therof, & the thistle in the munitions therof: and it shal be the couche of dragons, and the pasture of ostriches. 14. And spirits shal meet the onocentaures, and the satyr shal crie one to the other, there hath the lamia lyen, and tound her selfe. 15. There hath the hedgehog had an hole, and brought vp whelps, and digged round about, and cherished them in the shadow therof: thither are the kites gathered together, one to another. 16. Search ye diligently in the Book of our Lord, and read: one of them hath not wanted, one hath not sought for the other, because that which proceedeth out of my mouth, he hath commanded, and his spirit the same hath gathered them. 17. And he hath cast them a lot, and his hand hath diuided it vnto them by measure: they shal possesse it for euer, in generation and generation they shal dwel therein.

d) In the meane time, as a figure therof, Sion shal be destroyed: and therefore the metaphorical destruction following, rather pertaineth to the state of the damned in the next world than to the afflicted in this life.

Sennacherib King of Assirians hauing taken other cities in Turie, bessegeth and threatneth Ierusalem; 4. reprocheth King Ezechias; 7. blasphemeth God; 13. and terrifieth the people.

AND it came to passe (a) in the fourteenth yeare of King Ezechias, Sennacherib King of the Assirians came vp agaynst al the fenced cities of Iuda, and tooke them. 2. And the King of the Assirians sent Rabfances from Lachis to Ierusalem, to King Ezechias with a great armie, and he stood by the water conduite of the vpper poole in the way of the fullers fielde. 3. And there came out to him Eliacim the sonne of Helcias, who was ouer the house, and Sobna the scribe, and Ioahc the sonne of Asaph the commenter. 4. And Rabfances sayd to them: Tel Ezechias: Thus sayth the great King, the King of the Assirians: What is this confidence, wherevpon thou dost trust? 5. or by what counsel or force art thou disposed to rebel? vpon whom hast thou confidence, that thou art reuolted from me? 6. Loe thou dost trust vpon this broken staffe of reed, vpon Aegypt: vpon which if a man leane, it wil enter into his hand, and pearce it: so is Pharao the King of Aegypt to al that trust in him. 7. But if thou wilt answer me: We trust in our Lord God: is it not he (b) whose excelses and altars Ezechias hath taken away, and he sayd to Iuda and Ierusalem: Before this altar shal you adore? 8. And now deliuer thy self to my Lord the King of the Assirians, and I wil giue thee two thousand horses, neither shal thou be able of thy self to giue riders for them. 9. And how wilt thou abide the face of the iudge of one place, of the lesser seruants of my Lord? But if thou trust in Aegypt, in chariots and in horsemen: 10. and now am I come vp without the Lord vnto this land to destroy it? The Lord sayd to me: Goe vp agaynst this land, and destroy it. 11. For he heard that he was departed from Lachis, 9. and he heard of Tharaca the King of Aethiopia, whom that sayd: He is come forth to fight agaynst thee. Which when he had heard, he sent messengers to Ezechias, saying: 10. Thus shal you say to Ezechias the King of Iuda, speaking: Let not thy God deceiue thee, in whom thou hast confidence, saying: Ierusalem shal not be giuen into the hand of the King of the Assyrians. 11. Lo thou hast heard al things the Kings of the Assyrians haue done to al countries, which they haue subuerted, & canst thou be deliuered? 12. And Ezechias tooke the letters of the hand of the messengers, & read them, and went vp into the house of our Lord, and Ezechias layd them open before our Lord. 15. And Ezechias prayed to our Lord, saying: 16. O Lord of hostes God of Israel, which sittest vpō the Cherubs, thou art the onlie God of al the Kingdoms of the earth, thou hast made heauen and earth. 17. Incline o Lord thine eare, & heare: open o Lord thine eies, and see, and heare al the words of Sennacherib, which he hath sent to blaspheme the liuing God. 18. For in verie deed, o Lord, the Kings of the Assyrians haue made lands desolate, and the countries of the same. 19. And now, o Lord our God, saue vs out of his hand: and let al the Kingdoms of the earth know, that thou onlie art the Lord. 21. And Isaie the sonne of Amos sent to Ezechias, saying: Thus sayth our Lord the God of Israel: For the things that thou praied me concerning Sennacherib the King of Assyrians: 22. this is the word which our Lord hath spoken vpon him: The virgin daughter of Sion hath despised thee, and scorned thee: the daughter of Ierusalem hath wagged the head after thee. 23. Whom hast thou vpbrayded, and whom hast thou blasphemed, and vpon whom hast thou exalted voice, and lifted vp the height of thine eies? To the holie one of Israel. 24. I haue digged, and drunken the water, and haue dried vp with the step of my roote al the riuers of the rampiers. 26. Why, hast thou not heard, what I haue done to him of old: from ancient daies haue I formed it: and now I haue brought it to effect: and it is made to the rooting out of litle hilles bickering together, and ofensfed cities. 27. The inhabitants of them with shortned hand haue trembled, and are confounded: they are become as hay of the field, and grasse of the pasture ground, and herbe of the housetoppes which hath withered before it was ripe. 28. I haue knowen thy habitation, and thy going out, and thy comming in, and thy madnes againstme. 29. When thou didst rage against me, by pride ascended into mine eares: therefore I wil put a ring in thy noithrels, and a bitte in thy lips, and wil bring thee backe into the way, by which thou camest. 30. (d) But to thee this shal be a signe: eate this yeare the things that grow of themselues, and in the second yeare eate fruits: but in the third yeare sow & reape, & plant vineyards, and eate the fruits of them. 31. And that which shal be saued of the houle of Iuda, and which is leaft, shal take roote downeward, and shal beare fruits vpward: 32. because out of Ierusalem there shal a remnant goe forth, and saluation from mount Sion: the zeale of the Lord of hostes shal doe this. 33. Therefore thus sayth our Lord concerning the King of the Assyrians: He shalt not enter this citie, and he shal not shoot arrow there, and shilde shal not occupie it, and he shal not cast rampier about it: 34. In the way that he came, by the same he shal returne, and into this citie he shal not enter, sayth our Lord. 35. And I wil protect this citie, that I may saue it for myne owne sake, and " for Dauids sake my seruant. 36. And the Angel of our Lord came forth, and strucke in the campe of the Assyriās an hundred eightie fye thousand. And they arose in the morning, and behold, al were carcasses of dead men. 37. And he went out, and departed, and Sennacherib the King of the Assyrians returned, and dwelt in Niniue. 38. And it came to passe, when he adored in the temple of Nefroch his God, Adramelech & Sarasar his sonnes strucke him with the sword: and they fled into the land of Ararat, & Asarhaddon his sonne regned for him.

35. For Dauids sake. VVe haue here a manifest example that the merites of Saints departed forth of this world, do profite the liuing: God protecting Ierusalem not onely for his owne, but also for his seruant Dauids sake. Against which plaine sense, Protestantes denying merites and prayers of Saints, seeme to haue no better euasion,

Merites of

The Protestantes
res euasion.

God promised to protect the citie of Ierusalem from certaine dangers, but not perpetually.

The Protestants glosse is ill grounded.

This similitude doth not proue but explaine the truth otherwise proued.

then this sillie shift, feyned without warrant of holie Scripture, or ancient Father: to interpret these words, For Davids sake, to signifie for Gods promise sake made to David. But if they be demanded, where and when God promised to David, that he would protect and saue the citie of Ierusalem from sacking by enemies, or from ruine, they can neuer shew it. God made David conquerour of Ierusalem, extirpating there the Iebusites, who vntil his time kept the towre of Sion (2. Reg. 5. v. 7) & protected the same citie al his time, and long after. And in certaine particular dangers, promised to Achaz a wicked King (Isaie. 7.) and to this good King Ezechias here (& 4. Reg. 19.) that he would saue and deliuer Ierusalem, from the particular distresses wherein it was at those times: but be promised not this to King David. Neither did God make a general promise to protect that citie perpetually. For if he had so promised, it should not haue been subdued, brought into captiuitie, & defaced, as it was by the Babylonians. And therefore this glosse of Protestants is built vpon false ground. And the wordes are as manifest, as if the Kings Maiestie should say: I wil protect the citie of London, that I may saue it for myne owne sake, and such my former subiectes sake, that haue faithfully heretofore serued their Kings. Or if he should say: I wil protect such a noblemans chiefe Manour place for myne owne sake, & for such his progenitours sake, who serued me loyally. Whereby is plainly signified, that the King doth this fauour not only for his owne sake, but also for the merites of some that liued there, and deserued wel before. Neither do we produce this similitude to proue that is in controuersie, but to explaine the Catholike doctrine, apparent by this text, and approved by the ancient Fathers, and the whole Church of God.

Why, (e) doe you not know why, haue you not heard? why, hath it not been told you from the beginning? Haue you not vnderstood the foundations of the earth? 22. He that sitteth vpon the compasse of the earth, and the inhabitants therof are as locustes: he that stretcheth out the heauens as nothing, and spreddeth them as a tent to dwell in. 23. He that maketh (f) the searchers of secrets as if they were not, that hath made the iudges of the earth as a wayne thing: 24. and indeed their flock was neither planted, nor sowed, nor rooted in the earth: sodainly he hath blowen vpon them, and they haue withered, and a whirlewind shal take them away as stubble. 25. And to whom haue ye likened me, and made me equal: saith the hoie one? 26. Lift vp your eies on high, and see who hath created these things: he that bringeth out the hoit of them in number,

Who hath rayfed the iust from the East, hath called him that he should folow him? he shal giue the Gentils in his sight, & he shal obteyne Kings: he shal giue them as it were dust to his sword, as stubble taken violently with the winde, to his bow. 3. He shal pursue them, he shal passe in peace, there shal no path appeare after his feet. 4. Who hath wrought and done these things, calling the generations from the begynning? I the Lord, the first and the last I am. 5. The ilends haue seen, and haue been afrayd, the ends of the earth haue been astonied, they haue approached, and come neere. 6. Euerie one shal helpe his neighbour, and shal say to his brother: Be strong. 7. The coppersmith striking with the hammer encouraged him that forged at that time, saying: It is good for sodering: and he strengthened it with nailes, that it should not be moued. 8. And thou Israel my seruant, Iacob whom I haue chosen, the seed of Abraham my freind: 9. in whom I haue taken thee from the ends of the earth, and from the far parts therof haue called thee, and sayd to thee: Thou art my seruant, I haue chosen thee, & haue not cast thee away. 10. Because I am the Lord thy God, taking thy hand, and saying to thee : Feare not, I haue holpen thee. 14. Feare not thou (b) worme of Iacob, ye that are dead of Israel : I haue holpen thee, sayth our Lord : and thy redeemer the holie one of Israel. 15. I haue made thee as a new threshing wayne, hauing teeth like a saw: thou shalt thresh the mountaynes, and breake them in peeces : and shalt make the litle hilles as dust. 16. Thou shalt fanne them, and the wind shal take them away, & the whirlewind shal disperse them: and thou shalt reioyce in the Lord, in the holie one of Israel thou shalt be ioyful. 17. I wil open riuers in the high hilles, and fountaynes in the middes of plaine fieldes : I wil make the desert into pooles of waters, and the land not passable into riuers of waters. 19. I wil giue into the wildernes the cedar, and the thorne, and the myrtle and the oliue tree : I wil set in the desert the firre tree, the elme, and the box tree together. 20. That they may see, and know, and recount, and vnderstand together, that the hand of the Lord hath done this, and the holie one of Israel hath created it. 21. Make your iudgement approach, sayth the Lord : bring hither, if perhaps you haue any thing, sayd the King of Iacob. 22. (c) Let them come, and tel vs what things soeuer are to come : tel the former things what they haue been : and we wil set our hart, and shal know the later ends of them, and tel vs the things that are to come. 23. Shew what things are to come hereafter, and we shal know that ye are Gods. Doe ye also good or euil, if you can : & let vs speake & see together. 24. Behold, you are of nothing, and your worke of that which is not: he is abomination that hath choien you. 25. I haue rayfed vp from the North, and he shal come from the rising of the sunne : he shal cal vpon my name, and shal bring the magistrates as myre, and as the plasterer treading claie. 26. Who hath shewed from the beginning, that we may know : and from the beginning that we may say: Art thou iust: There is neyther that sheweth, nor telleth before, nor heareth your words. 27. The first shal say to Sion: Loe I am present, and to Ierusalem: I wil giue an euangelist. 28. And I saw, and neither of these was there any that would consult, and being asked would answer a word. 29. Behold al are vniust, and their works wayne : their idols are wind and vanitie.

(b) You that are as abiectes contemned, & as dead men in the world, feare not, because Christ hath care to protect and to reward you.

I the Lord, and there is none other. 19. I haue not spoken in secrete, in a darke place of the earth I haue not sayd to the seed of Iacob: Seek me in vayne. I the Lord that speake iustice, that declare right things. 20. Gather ye together, and come, and approch together ye that are saued of the Gentiles: they haue been ignorant that lift vp the wood of their grauen worke, and aske of a God that sauerh not. 21. Declare ye, and come, and consult together: who hath made this to be heard from the begynning, from that time foretold this? Haue not I the Lord, and there is no God besides but I? A iust God, and that sauerh there is none beside me. 22. Be conuerted to me, and you shal be saued al ye endes of the earth: because I am God, and there is none other. 23. I haue sworne by my self, the word of iustice shal proceede out of my mouth, and shal not returne, because euerie knee shal be bowed to me, and euerie tongue shal swear. 24. Therefore in our Lord, shal he say, are my iustices and empire: they shal come to him, and al that resist him, shal be confounded. 25. In our Lord shal al the seed of Israel be iustified and prayfed.

Bel, Nabo, and other idols shal be destroyed, 3. where vpon the Iewes are admonished to returne from sinne, to Gods true seruice. 12. And saluation is promised by Christ.

BE is broken, (a) Nabo is destroyed: their idols are made to beasts & cattel, your burdēs of heauie weight euen vnto wearines. 2. They haue melted away, and are broken together: they could not saue him that caried the, & their soule shal goe into captiuitie. 3. Heare me, o house of Iacob, al the remnant of the house of Israel, which are caried of my wombe, are borne vp of my matrice. 4. Euen vnto old age I am the same, and vnto hoare haire I wil carie: I haue made, & I wil beare: I wil carie, and wil saue. 5. Wherto haue you resembled me, and made me equal, and compared me, and made melike? 6. You that contribute gold out of the bag, and weigh siluer with balance: hyring a goldsmith to make a God: and they fal downe and adore. 7. They beare him on their shoulders carying, and setting him in his place, and he shal stand, and shal not moue out of his place. Yea when they shal crie also vnto him, he shal not heare: from tribulation he shal not saue them. 8. Remember this, and be confounded: returne ye transgressours to the hart.

OME downe, sit in the dust (a) o Virgin daughter of Babylon, sit on the ground: there is no throne for the daughter of the Chaldees, because thou shalt no more be called nice and tender. 2. Take a mil, and grinde meale: make bare thy turpitude, discover the shoulder, vncouer the thighs, passe the riuers. 3. Thyne ignominie shall be discovered, and thy reproch shall be seen: I wil take vengeance, and no man shall resist me. 4. Our redeemer, the Lord of hostes is his name, the holie one of Israel. 5. Sit holding thy peace, and enter into darknes, o daughter of the Chaldees: because thou shalt no more be called the ladie of Kingdoms. 6. I was angrie agaynst my people, I (b) haue contaminated mine inheritance, and haue giuen them into thy hand: thou hast not shewed mercies to them: vpon the ancient thou hast made thy yoke exceeding heauie. 7. And thou hast sayd: I wil be a ladie for euer: thou hast not put these things vpon thy hart, neither hast thou remembered thy later end. 8. And now heare these things thou that art delicate, and dwellest confidently, that sayest in thy hart: I am, and there is none els beside me: I shall not sit a widow, and I shall not know barrenesse. 9. These two things shall come to thee sodenly in one day, barrenesse and widowhood. All things are come vpon thee, because of the multitude of thy sorceries, and for the vehement hardnes of thine inchanters. 10. And thou hast confidence in thy malice, and hast sayd: There is none that seeth me. Thy wisdom, and thy knowledge, this hath deceiued thee. And thou hast sayd in thy hart: I am, and beside me there is none other. 11. For they are called of the holie citie, and are established vpon the God of Israel: the Lord of hostes is his name. 3. The former things of old I haue declared, & they proceeded out of my mouth, and I haue made them to be heard: sodainly I haue wrought, and they came. 4. For I knew that thou art stubburne, and thy necke is an yron sinew, and thy forehead of brasse. 5. I foretold thee of old: before they came I told thee, lest perhaps thou shouldest say: My idols haue done these things, & my sculpts & moltens haue commanded these things. 6. See al the things which thou hast heard: but haue you declared them? I haue made thee know new things of old, and the things are kept which thou knowest not: 7. now they are created, and not of old: and before the day, and thou heardst them not, lest perhaps thou mightest say: Behold I knew them. 8. Thus sayth our Lord thy Redeemer, the holie one of Israel: I the Lord thy God that teach thee profitable things, that gouerne thee in the way that thou walkest. 18. I would thou hadst attended to my commandments: thy peace had been as a fload, and thy iustice as the waues of the sea. 19. And thy feede had been as the sand, and the stocke of thy wombe as the grauel stones therof: his name had not perished, neither had it been destroyed from before my face. 20. Come forth out of Babylon, fye from the Chaldees, shew it forth in the voice of exultation: make this to be heard, and speake it out euen to the ends of the earth. Say: Our Lord hath redeemed his seruant Iacob. 21. Our Lord therfore wil comfort Sion, and wil comfort al the ruines therof: and he wil make her desert as delicacies, and her wildernes as the garden of our Lord. Ioy and gladnes shal be found in it, giuing of thanks, and voice of prayse. 4. Ho (a) hath believed our hearing? and the arme of our Lord to whom is it reuealed? 2. And he shal come vp as a yong spring before him, and as a roote from a thirstie ground: there is no beautie in him, nor comelinese, and we haue scen him, and there was no sightlines, and we were desirous of him. 3. Despised, and most abiect of men, a man of sorowes, and knowing infirmitie: and his looke as it were hid and despised, whereupon neither haue we esteemed him. 4. He surely hath borne our infirmities, and our sorowes he hath carried: and we haue thought him as it were a leper, & stricken of God, and humbled. 5. But he was wounded for our iniquities, he was broken for our finnes: the discipline of our peace vpon him, and with the waile of his stripe we are healed. 6. As we haue strayed as sheep, euerie one hath declined into his owne way: and our Lord hath put vpon him the iniquitie of al vs. 7. And he (b) shal giue the impious for his burial, and (b) the riche for his death: because he hath not done iniquitie, neither was there guile in his mouth. 10. And our Lord would breake him in infirmitie. If he shal put away his soule for sinne, he shal see seed of long age, and the wil of our Lord shal be directed in his hand. 11. For that his soule hath laboured, he shal see and be filled: in his knowledge the same my iust seruant shal iustifie manie, and he shal beare their iniquities. 12. Therefore wil I distribute vnto him verie manie, and he shal diuide the spoiles of the strong, for that he hath deliuered his soule vnto death, and was reputed with the wicked: and he hath berne the sinne of manie, and hath prayed for the transgressours.

4. Let not the Eunuch say: I am a drie tree.) To be barren without children was ignominious amongst the Iewes in the old testament, because God hauing then chosen that only nation for his peculiar people, the conseruation & increase of his Church depended much vpon their multiplication. But seeing the Church of Christ in the new testament should be gathered & consist of al Natiōs: the Prophet here foresheweth, that Christian Eunuchs liuing virgins, or continent, should not be ignoble or inglorious, but more glorious and haue a better name then (Gods other seruants) sonnes and daughters: an euerlasting name which shal not perish: because keeping Gods precepts (such as was the Sabbath) they also of their free election, chose this itate of life to keepe perpetual chastitie, more then is commanded. Against which plaine sense of the text, Protestants oppose their owne glosses. Peter Martyr (li de calibatu & vosis Monasticis) saith, God preferreth not Eunuchs before others that keepe the law, but only before them that transgresse the law. Which commentarie is faultie in two respects. For God heere calleth them not transgressours, but his sonnes and daughters, before whom he preferreth holie Eunuchs: neither speaketh of such as shal be excluded from a good place or good name, but of such as shal enioy both; and sayth these Eunuchs shal haue a better place, & better name; that is, more renoume, and greater reward. Other Protestants expound this better name, to signifie, that such Eunuchs shal be called after (or according to) Gods people, and be of the same religion: which importeth no excellencie at al, in place or name, as the text exprefeth: nay scarce equalitie with other seruants of God. Lastly they adde (lest perhaps this former sense satisfie not the reader) Yea vnder Christ. (say they) the dignitie of the faithful, shal be greater then the Iewes were at that time. As though the comparison made in this place, were to signifie the general difference between Gods seruants before and since Christ, and not particularly between Eunuchs, and such as haue children. How much more meete therefore is it, to see and embrace the explications of the ancient holie Fathers? Who vniuniformly vnderstand & expound this prophcie, of such as vow perpetual chastitie in the Church of Christ, preferring that state before Mariage. S. Basil li. de virginitate) amongst other reasons and testimonies, bringeth this place in prooffe of the excellencie of virginie, that the reward thereof shal be, that for a humane name, God wil giue to virgins the name of immortal Angels, which shal not faile; that they shal possess a special place in heauen, not only the glorie of Angels, but an excellent dignitie amongst Angels. S. Cyril of Alexandria in his commentaries vpon Isay sheweth by this doctrine, that the rewards of continencie are (eximia) excellent, and exceeding great; so that such as be continent in bodie, doe also keepe al Gods commandments. S. Ierom in his commentaries proueth that virginie, or perpetual chastitie, is a singular good worke of supererogation, not of precept but of Euangelical counsel, by the world elegeris, shal choose the thing which God would, rather then which he condescending to mans weaknes alloweth. Such an Eunuch (saith he) elegit quae Dominus voluit, ut plus offerat quam preceptum si hath chosen the things which our Lord would, to offer more then is commanded. And such an Eunuch (keeping also Gods commandments) shal haue locum

Why haue we fasted, and thou hast not regarded: haue we humbled our soules, and thou hast not knowen? Behold in the day of your fast your owne wil is found, and you exact of al your debtors. 4. Behold you fast to debates and contentions, and strike with the fist impiouly. Doe not fast as vntil this day, that your crie may be heard on high. 5. C H A P. LVIII.

5. Is this such a fast, as I haue chosen? Fasting is so often & cleerly commended in holie Scriptures, that Protestants (though not greatly affected thereto) confesse it to be a good thing of it-self, but in diuers respects detract much frō it: denying it to be an act of religion, but only of bodily mortification: neither doe all generally allow of prescript times, nor of abstinence from flesh those dayes, which they thinke good to fast: and those which doe abstaine from flesh, say they doe it not for religion, but for the ordinance of ciuill policie. For which opinion they alleadge out of this and other places (Iere. 14. v. 12. Zacha. 7. v. 5.) that such affliction is not the fast, which God hath chosen. But if they would consider the coherence of the text, they should finde the contrarie. For albeit fasting alone without amendment of euil manners, & without other good workes, doth not appease Gods wrath, nor is agreable to Gods wil, yet being ioynd with contrition of hart, and sincere pietie, doth then greatly please him. And therefore our Lord God here (sayth S. Ierom) lest he might seeme to reprove fasting, which himself had commanded, teacheth how it behoueth to fast: Non enim querit Deus afflictionem solam, & humiliacionem animæ per iniuriam corporis, ut inflexi circuli torqueat corpus, & colla submitat, ac tristis incedat. Sed ut cum istis hæc faciat quæ sequuntur. For God seeketh not onlie affliction and humiliation of the soule by iniurie of the bodie; that one should writh his bodie about like a circle, hold downe his necke, and goe peniue, &c. But that with these things, he doe those which follow: to wit, Dislike the bands of impietie and the rest, as in the text. Wherupon this Doctour discourseth at large, shewing that it profiteth not to carie an emptie bellie, and doe those things that dis-

This scripture reproveth not fasting, but admonisheth to fast especially from sinne.

There is none that doth inuocate iustice, neither is there any that iudgeth truly: but they trust in things of nothing, and speake vanities: they haue conceiued labour, and brought forth iniquitie. 5. and our sinnes haue answered to vs: because our wicked doings are with vs, & our iniquities we haue knowē, 13. to sinne and lie against our Lord: and we were turned away so that we went not after our God, that we spake calunnie and transgression: we conceiued, and spake from the hart words of lying. 14. And iudgement was turned backward, and iustice stood far off: because truth hath fallen downe in the street, and equitie could not enter in. 15. And truth grew into obliuion: and he that departed from euil, lay open to the praye: and our Lord saw, and it appeared euil in his cies, because there is no iudgement. 16. And he saw that there is not a man: & he was astonished, because there is none to oppose himself: and (b) his owne arme saued to himself, and his iustice it-self confirmed him. 17. He is clothed with iustice as with a brestplate, and is an helmet of saluation on his head: he is clothed with garments of reuenge, and is couered as with a mantel of zeale. 18. As vnto reuenge as it were vnto retribution of indignation to his aduersaries, and recompence to his enemies: he wil repay the like to the ilands. 19. And they of the West shal feare the name of our Lord: and they of the rising of the sunne his glorie: when he shal come as a violent streame, which the spirit of our Lord driueth: 20. and there shal come a redeemer to Sion, and to them, that returne from iniquitie in Iacob, sayth our Lord. 21. This is my couenant with them, sayth our Lord: (c) My spirit that is in thee, and my words that I haue put in thy mouth, shal not depart out of thy mouth, and out of the mouth of thy seede, & out of the mouth of thy seeds, seede, sayth our Lord, from this present and for euer.

ANNOTATIONS.

CHAP. LXIII.

The Iewes supposed that for their finnes the Patriarchs did not acknowledge them for their children. Yet hoped that God of his mercie would relieue them in distresse.

How the old Patriarchs knew the state of men in this world. Saints in glorie see more cleerly then Prophets in this life. That Saints know, & helpe mortal mens necessities is certaine: but the manner how, is obscure.

16. Abraham hath not knowen vs.) The faithful people considering their owne great, frequent, & iuuererate finnes, with the extreme calamities wherinto they were fallen for the same, supposed that their progenitour Abraham (whom God had particularly called out of his countrie) & Iacob (of whose twelue sonnes the whole nation was propagated) did no longer acknowledge them for their children, because they had so grievously offended God, & were not worthie of anie fauour. Al which notwithstanding, yet they hoped in Gods incōparable mercie, that his diuine goodnes, being Creatour of al, who had elected thē for his peculiar people, brought them out of Egypt, and often deliuered them from sundrie afflictions, would againe reduce them from captiuitie and as their merciful father, remit their finnes, and relieue their miseries: though Abraham, Iacob, and other Patriarchs had iustly reiected them as lost children. This being the proper literal sense of this place, according to S. Ierome, and other ancient Doctours explication, it maketh nothing at al for the old and new heresie of Vigilantius, & Luther, denying that Saints in another life doe know what is done in this world. For albeit the Patriarchs in zeale of iustice, did not acknowledge their carnal posteritie (because of their great finnes) for their children, yet they knew their state, as S. Augustin (li. de cura pro mortuis) interpreting this, and other places of holie Scripture, teacheth, partly by relation of such as passed from hence to them; partly by holie Angels; and especially by diuine inspirations. As it is cleere that Abraham knew the state of poore Lazarus, & of the rich glutton, describing what ech of them had deserued, and consequently received. Much more both the old Patriarchs, and al other Saints, in eternal glorie know ech other, though neuer seen nor knowne before in this world, as S. Gregorie teacheth li. 2. c. 33. Dial. g. The glorified Saints see also in God that which perteyneth to their clients, that pray vnto thē in earth, so farre as God doth ordaine, more cleerly by light of glorie, then Prophets see by light of prophecie: as S. Augustin teacheth. But touching the manner, he saith it exceeded the reach of his vnderstanding, hinc Martyrs due helpe those vbi non est certamine are holpen by them. So discoursing at large of the vncertaine manner, sheweth that there is no doubt at al of the thing it selfe, that Saints in heauen doe know mortal mens necessities, heare their prayers, and helpe them by theyr intercession and merits; which he confirmeth also li. 20. c. 21. con. Faust. Tract. 8. i. Ioan. Ser. 5. de Sanctis. Likewise S. Ierom against Vigilantius, S. Gregorie li. 3. Epist. ep. 30. li. 7. ep. 126. li. 9. ep. 38. and others in manie places.

Why, shall the earth trauele in one day: or shall a nation be brought forth together, because Sion hath traueled, & brought forth her children: 9. Shall not I (d) that make others to bring forth children, my self bring forth, saith the Lord: shall I, that giue generation to others, be barren, saith the Lord thy God? 10. Reioyce with Ierusalem, & be ioyful in her al ye that loue her: be glad with her in gladnes al ye, that mourne vpon her, 11. that you may suck, & be filled of the breast of her consolation: that you may milke, & flow with delights in al manner of her glorie. 12. Because thus saith our Lord: Behold I wil decline vpon her as it were a flood of grace, and as a torrent ouerflowing the glorie of the Gentils, which you shall sucke: at the breasts you shall be caried, & vpon the knees they shall speake you fayre. 13. As if the mother would speake one fayre, so wil I comfort you, & in Ierusalem you shall be comforted. 14. You shall see, & your hart shall reioyce, and your bones shall spring as an herbe, and the hand of our Lord shall be knowen to his seruants, & he shall be wrath with his enemies. 15. Because loe our Lord (e) wil come in fyre, & his chariots as a whirlwind, to render his furie in indignation, & his rebuking in flames of fyre: 16. because our Lord shall iudge in fyre, & in his sword to al flesh, and the flaine of our Lord shall be multiplied, 17. they that were sanctified, & thought themselves cleane in the gardes behind the gate within, they that did eate swines flesh, and abomination, and the mouse: they shall be confounded, saith our Lord. 18. But I know their workes, and their cogitations: I come that I may gather together, with al nations and tongues: and they shall come and shall see my glorie. 19. And I wil put (f) a signe in them, and I wil send of them, that shall be faued, to the Gentils into the sea, into Afrique, & Lydia, them that hold the arrow: into Italie, and Greece; to the islands farre off, to them that haue not heard of me, and haue not seen my glorie. And they shall shew forth my glorie to the Gentils: 20. and (g) they shall bring al your brethen of al nations a gift to our Lord, vpon horses, and in chariots, & in horse-litters, & on mules, and in coches, to my holie mountaine Ierusalem, saith our Lord, as if the children of Israel should bring in a gift in a cleane vessel into the house of our Lord. 21. And " I wil take of them to be Priests, & Leuites, saith our Lord. 22. 1. Heaven is my feate.) Lest anie should interpret these propheticall promises (as the Jewes doe) only of the restauration & reedification of Ierusalem and the Temple, the Prophet here sheweth, that albeit God sanctified the temple, and granted manie benefites to those that serued him therein, yet his proper seate is not in anie material temple or terrestrial place, but in heauen. And therefore Temples and Churches are indeed ordayned for faithful people to serue him in, & to signifie, that as these places are more holie then ordinarie houses, so heauen is infinitely more glorious then anie earthlie palace: yet God is not coneyned in anie place, but exceedeth al. To which purpose S. steuen (Act. 7.) alleadgeth and vrgeth this place: and also S. Paul Act. 17. that God dwelleth not, or is not concluded in temples, neither needeth them for his owne vse, but is rightly serued in them, by those that lift vp their minds to him, as dwelling in heauen, & replenishing al places.

As God was serued more specially in the temple, so he is now in Churches, but is in al places. See Act. 7. v. 48.

2. I will take of them to be Priests.) In the Law of Moyse Priests and Leuites were al of one Tribe, by succession of natural kinned, not by election; but the law being changed, necessarily also Priesthood is changed. And Byshops, Priests, Deacons and other Clergie men, are taken, and ordained, not by necnes of bloud, but by election, according to their merites of vertues.

Clergy men in the old law succeeded by bloud, in the new by election.

THE ARGUMENT OF THE BOOKS OF IEREMIE.

Ieremies life.

IEREMIE the sonne of Helcias, Priest and Prophet, being sanctified in his mothers wombe, began to Prophecie as yet a child in Iuda; in the thirteenth yeare of the reigne of King Iosias; continued the rest of his time, which was nineteen yeares more; and the eleuen yeares of Ioakim (wherin are counted the three months of Ioachaz, and other three of Iechonias, otherwise called Ioachin) and eleuen yeares of Sedecias; in all fourtie one yeares; before he went into Aegypt, where he also prophesied, and finally was stoned to death by the people, in the citie of Taphnis. His whole worke conteyneth two distinct Bookes, besides an Epistle, which foloweth after the Prophecie of Baruch. The former booke is called his Prophecie, the other his Lamentations. S. Ierom comprehendeth the summe of all briefly, saying: Ieremie connecteth a nuttie (not watching) rod, and a pot boyling hote, frō the face of the north, the leopard spoiled of his colours, and the fourefold Alphabet in diuers meeters. Signifying, that God wil correct his people with a rod, in his hote furie, from the north, to wit by the King of Babylon for their pertinacitie in sundrie kinds of sinnes. At which the Prophet lamenteth with his doleful verse of diuers meeter. The Prophecie may be diuided into five parts. First, he sheweth the conditions and qualities of himselfe, with the manner of his mission: then Gods great clemencie in recalling the people from sinne, denouncing dangers imminent for their obstinacie: in the twelue first chapters. Secondly, in the eight chapters following, by diuers Metaphorical and other figurative descriptions, he declareth the ingratitude & other sinnes of the people, threatening punishment: for which they persecute him. Thirdly, in other eight chapters, he reprehendeth the inhabitants of Ierusalem, especially the King, euil Priests, and false Prophets, some being already caried into captiuitie: for which free preaching, he is againe persecuted. Fourthly, in the next eleuen chapters, he mixteth consolations & threats, especially the destruction of Ierusalem, captiuitie of King and people, and their release after seuentie yeares. Fifthly, in the other thirteene chapters he prophesieth the destruction of the Iewes, that goe into Aegypt: and of sundrie nations for their idolatrie, and for their crueltie against the Iewes. In euerie part interposeth manie Prophecies of Christ, and his Church: besides the mystical sense included in the historical.

THE PROPHECIE OF IEREMIE.

CHAP. I.

Jeremie Prophecied in the times of Iosias, Ioakim, and Sedecias Kings of Iuda: 5. being sanctified in his mothers wombe, is sent in his tender age 10. Prophecie 11. the destruction of Ierusalem, 17. God giuing him courage against his persecutors.

The first part. Gods clemencie inuited to repentance, & his iustice punisheth obstinate sinners.

HE words of Ieremie the sonne of * Helcias, of the Priests that were in Anathoth, in the land of Benjamin. 2. The word of our Lord which was made to him in the daies of Iosias the sonne of Amon King of Iuda, in the thirteenth yeare of his Kingdome. 3. And the word was made in the daies or Ioakim the sonne of Iosias King of Iuda, vnto the end of the eleuenth yeare of Sedecias the sonne of Iosias King of Iuda, (a) euen vnto the transmigration of Ierusalem, in the fifth month. 4. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 5. Before I formed thee in the wombe, I knew thee: and (b) before thou camest forth of the marrice, I sanctified thee, and a Prophet in the Gentils I gaue thee. 6. And I sayd: A a a, o Lord God: Behold I can not speake, because I am a childe. 7. And our Lord said vnto me: Say not: I am a childe: for to al things, to which I shal send thee, thou shalt goe: and al things whatsoeuer I shal command thee, thou shalt speake. 8. Be not afraide of their face: because I am with thee, to deliuer thee, saith our Lord. 9. And our Lord put forth his brand, and touched my mouth: & our Lord sayd to me: Behold I haue giuen my words in thy mouth: 10. Behold I haue appointed thee this day ouer (c) the Gentils, and ouer Kingdoms, that thou maist pluck vp, and destroy, and walte, and dissipate, and build, and plant. 11. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: What seest thou Ieremie? And I said: I see a rod * watching. 12. And our Lord sayd to me: Wel hast thou seen; because I (d) wil watch vpon my word to doe it. 13. And the word of our Lord was made to me the second time, saying: What seest thou? And I said: I see a pot boyling hote, and the face thereof from the face of the North. 14. And our Lord sayd vnto me: From the North shal euil be opened vpon al the inhabitants of the land. 15. Because loe I wil cal together al the kinreds of the kingdoms of the North, saith our Lord: and they shal come, and shal set euerie one his throne in the entring of the gates of Ierusalem, and vpon al the walles thereof round about, and vpon al the cities of Iuda. 16. And I wil speake my iudgements with them, touching al the wickednes of them that haue forsaken me, and haue offered to strange Gods, and haue adored the worke of their owne hands. 17. Thou therefore girde thy loynes, & rise, and speake to them al things that I command thee. Be not afrayd of their face: for I wil make thee not to feare their countenance. 18. For I haue giuen thee this day to be as a fenced citie, and as an yron pillar, and as a brasen wal ouer al the land of the Kings of Iuda, to the Princes thereof, & to the Priests, and to the people of the land. 19. And they shal fight against thee, and shal (e) not preuaile: because I am with thee, saith our Lord, to deliuer thee.

CHAP. II.

God expostulateth with the Iewes, 6. that they regard not his great benefites. 8. Some Priests, and (pretended) Prophets seruing false God, 23. and denyng their fault, 25. are obstinate in idolatrie: 36. for which they shal be confounded.

ND the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. Goe, and crie in the eares of Ierusalem, saying: Thus saith our Lord: I haue remembred thee, pityng (a) thy youth, and the charitie of thy desponsing, when thou didest folow me in the desert, in a land that is not sowe. 3. Israel (b) is holie to our Lord, the first fruits of his fruits: al they that doe deuour it doe sinne: euil shal come vpon them, saith our Lord. 4. Heare ye the word of our Lord, o house of Iacob, and al ye kinreds of the house of Israel: 5. thus saith our Lord: What iniquitie haue your fathers found in me, that they haue made themselues far from me, and haue walked after vanitie, and are become vaine? 6. And they haue not said: Where is our Lord, that made vs come vp out of the land of Aegypt, that led vs through the desert, through a land inhabitable and without way, through a land of thirft, & the image of death, through a land, wherein no man walked, nor anie man dwelt? 7. And I brought you into the land of (c) Carmel, that you might eat the fruit thereof, and the best things thereof: and being entred in, you haue contaminated my lād, & made mine inheritance an abomination. 8. The Priests haue not said:

(a) God multiplied Israel in Aegypt, & deliuered them from seruitude.

(b) Not of anie desert, but of Gods mere grace Israel was preferred before other nations.

(c) Into a fruitful land.

Mich. 6. v. 3.

Where

Where is our Lord? and they that held the law knew me not: and the Pastours haue transgressed against me, and the Prophets haue prophesied in Baal, and haue folowed idols. 9. Therefore wil I yet contend in indgement with you, saith our Lord, and I wil plead with your children. 10. Passe ye to the iles of Cethim, and see: and send into Cedar, and consider earnestly, & see if there hath the like thing been done. 11. If a nation hath changed their Gods, & surely they are not Gods: but my people hath changed their glorie into an idol. 12. Be astonished, o heauens, vpon this, and o gates thereof be ye desolate exceedingly, saith our Lord. 13. For two euils hath my people done, Me they haue forsaken the founaine of liuing water, & haue digged to themselues cesterns: broken cesterns, that are not able to hold waters. 14. Why, is Israel a bondmā, or a seruant borne in the house? why then is he become a praye? 15. The lions haue roared vpon him, & haue giuen their voice, they haue made his lād a wildernes: his cities are burnt vp, & there is none to dwel in them. 16. The children also of Memphis and Taphnes haue desfloured thee, euen to the crowne of the head. 17. Is not this done to thee, because thou didest forsake the Lord thy God at that time, when he led thee by the way? 18. And now what wilt thou in the way of Aegypt, to drinke the troubled wares? And what hast thou to doe with the way of the Assyrians, to drinke the waters of the riuier: 19. Thy malice shal reprove thee, and thine apostacie shal rebuke thee. Know thou, & see that it is an euil & a bitter thing for thee, to haue left the Lord thy God, & that my feare is not with thee, saith our Lord the God of hosts. 20. Frō the beginning thou hast broken my yoke, thou hast burst my bonds, & thou saidst: I wil not serue. For on euerie litie high hil, & vnder euerie greene thicke tree thou wast laied downe as an harior. 21. But I plāted thee an elect vineyard, (e) al true seede: how then art thou turned vnto me into that which is depraued, o strange vineyard? 22. If thou shalt wash thyself with nitre, and multiplie to thyself the herbe borith, thou art spotted in thine iniquitie before me, saith our Lord God. 23. How sayst thou: I am not polluted, I haue not walked after Baalim: see thy wayes in the valley, know what thou hast done: a swift courser that rideth his wayes. 24. The wild Assie accustomed to the wildernes in the desire of his soule, hath drawn the winde of his loue: none shal turne her away: al that seeke her shal not faile: in her monthlie flowres they shal finde her. 25. Stay thy foote from nakednes, and thy throat from thirt. And thou saidest: I haue despayred, no, I wil not doe it: for I haue loued strangers, and I wil walke after them. 26. As the theefe is confounded when he is taken, so is the house of Israel confounded, they and their Kings, the Princes and Priests, and their Prophets, 27. saying to wood: Thou art my father: and to stone: Thou hast begotten me: they haue turned the backe to me, & not the face: and in the time of their affliction they wil say: Arise, and deliuer vs. 28. Where are the Gods, whom thou hast made to thee? let them arise and deliuer thee in the time of thine affliction: for according to the number of thy cities were thy Gods, o (f) In vaine haue I strucke your children, they haue not receiued discipline: your sword hath deuoured your Prophets, as a wasting lion is your generation. 31. See yee the word of our Lord: why, am I become a wildernes to Israel, or a lateward springing land? why then hath my people said: We haue reuolted, we wil no more come to thee? 32. Wil a Virgin forget her ornament, or a bride the stomacher of her brest? but my people hath forgotten me innumerable daies. 33. Why dost thou endeauour to shew thy way good to seeke loue, which moreover also hast taught thy malices to be thy wayes. 34. And in thy wings is found the bloud of the soules of the poore and innocents? Not in ditches haue I found them, but in al places, which before I haue mentioned. 35. And thou hast said: I am without sinne and innocent: and therefore let thy furie be turned away from me. Behold, I wil contend with thee in iudgement, because thou hast said: I haue not sinned. 36. How vile art thou become exceedingly, iterating thy wayes! and thou shalt be confounded of Aegypt, as thou art confounded of Assur. 37. For from hence also thou shalt goe, & thy hands shal be vpon thy head: because the Lord hath destroyed thy confidence, and thou shalt haue nothing prosperous therein.

CHAP. III.

Idolaters (and other sinners) are invited to repent, with promise of remission: 6. but neither the kingdome of Israel nor Iuda wil returne. 14. God still calling, some Iewes, and manie Gentils come to Christ.

(*) No idolatry nor other sinne whatsoever can be so great, but God wil remitte it, if the sinner be penitent.

(b) The ten tribes.

It is commonly said: If a man put away his wife, and she departing from him marie an other man, wil he returne to her anie more? shal not that woman be polluted and contaminated? (*) but thou hast committed fornication with manie louers: neuertheless returne vnto me, saith our Lord, and I wil receiue thee. 2. I lift vp thine eies direct, and see where thou hast not been polluted: thou didest sit in the waies, expecting them as a robber in the wildernes: and thou hast polluted the land in thy fornications, and in thy malices. 3. For which thing the drops of rayne were kept back; and there was no lateward shower: thou haddest an harlots forehead, thou wouldest not blush. 4. Therefore at the least fro henceforth cal me: Thou art my father, the guide of my virginie. 5. Why, wilt thou be angrie for euer, or wilt thou perseuer vnto the end? Loe, thou hast spoken, and hast done euils, and hast preuailed. 6. And our Lord said to me in the daies of Iosias the King. Hast thou seen what thing the reuolter (b) Israel hath done? she hath gone of her self vpon euerie high mountaine, and vnder euerie thicke greene

tree and hath fornicated there. 7. And I said, when she had done al these things: Returne to me, & she returned not. And (c) Iuda her transgressing sister saw, 8. because the rebel Israel had plaid the harlot, I had put her away, and giuen her a bil of diuorce: and Iuda her transgressing sister was not afrayd, but went and plaid the harlot also her self. 9. And with the facilitie of her fornication she contaminated the land, plaid the harlot with stone & wood. 10. And in al these things Iuda her transgressing sister hath not returned to me in her whole hart, but in falsehood, saith our Lord. 11. And our Lord said to me: The rebellious Israel hath iustified her soule, (d) in comparison of the transgressour Iuda. 12. Goe, and crie these wordes against the North, and thou shalt say: Returne, o rebellious Israel, saith our Lord, and I wil not turne away my face from you: because I am holie, saith our Lord, and I wil not be angrie for euer. 13. But yet know thou thine iniquitie, that thou hast transgressed against the Lord thy God: and thou hast dispersed thy waies to strangers vnder euerie thick greentree, and hast not heard my voice, saith our Lord. 14. Returne, o ye reuolting children, saith our Lord: because I am your husband: and I wil take you one of a citie, and two of a kinred, and wil bring you into Sion. 15. And I wil giue you pastours according to my hart, and they shal feede you with knowledge and doctrine. 16. And when you shal be multiplied and increase in the land in those daies, saith our Lord, they shal say no more: The Arke of the Testament of our Lord: neither shal it ascēd vpo their hart, neither shal they be mindeful thereof, neither shal it be visited, neither shal that be done anie more. 17. In that time Ierusaie shal be called the throne of our Lord: & (e) al Gētils shal be gathered together to it, in the name of our Lord into Ierusaie, & they shal not walke after the peruersitie of their most wicked hart. 18. In those daies the house of Iuda shal goe to the house of Israel, & (f) they shal come together frō the land of the North to the land which I gaue to your fathers. 19. But I said: How shal I make thee as children, and giue thee a land worthje to be desired, the goodlie inheritance of the hosts of the Gentils? And I said: Thou shalt cal me father, & shalt not cease to walke after me. 20. But as if a woman should contemne her loue, so hath the house of Israel contēned me, saith our Lord. 21. A voice was heard in the waies, weeping & howling of the childrē of Israel: because they haue made their way vniust, they haue forgotten our Lord their God. 22. Returne ye reuolting children, & I wil heale your reuoltings. Behold we come to thee: for thou art the Lord our God. 23. In verie deed the litle hils were lyers, and the multitude of the mountaines: verily in the Lord our God is the saluation of Israel. 24. Confusio hath eaten the labour of our fathers frō our youth, their flocks, and their heards, their sonnes, and their daughters. 25. We shal sleepe in our confusio, and our ignominie shal couer vs, because we haue inned to the Lord our God, we and our fathers from our youth euen to this day: and we haue not heard the voice of the Lord our God.

(d) The kingdom of Iuda receiuing more benefites was more faultie then the kingdom of Israel, but neither of them excusable.

C H A P. III.

(a) An oth is an act of religion, & lawful, so it be made by God Almighty, not by false Gods, and with other three conditions: in earnest, not falsely: in iudgement, with due consideration, not rashly: and in iustice, in matters that is iust, and of importance.

An admonition to sincere repentance, and circumcision of the hart: 5. with threats of grievous punishment to those, that persist in sinne. 19. which the Prophet foreseeing lamenteth the vastation of the land: 27. yet mixt with consolation, that it shall not be utterly ruined.

If thou wilt returne, o Israel, saith our Lord, returne to me: if thou wilt take away thy stumbling blocks from my face, thou shalt not be moued. 2. And thou shalt sweare: (a) Our Lord liueth, in truth, & in iudgement, and in iustice: and the Gentils shall blesse him, & shall praise him. 3. For thus saith our Lord to the man of Iuda, and to Ierusalem: Make vnto you new fallow ground, & sow not vpon thornes: 4. be circumcised to our Lord, and take away the prepuces of your harts, ye men of Iuda, and inhabitants of Ierusalem: lest perhaps mine indignation goe forth as fire, and be kindled, & there be none that can quench it: because of the malice of your cogitations. 5. Declare ye in Iuda, and make it heard in Ierusalem: speake, and sound with the trumpet in the land: crie strongly, and say: Assemble your selues, & let vs enter into the fenced cities, 6. lift vp the signe in Sion. Take courage, stand not, because I doe bring euil from the North, & great destruction. 7. The lyon is come vp out of his denne, and the robber of the Gentils hath lifted vp himselfe: he is come forth out of his place, that he may make thy land as a wildernes: thy cities shall be wasted, remayning without an inhabiter. 8. For thus gird your selues with clothes of haire, moune and howle: because the wrath of the furie of our Lord is not turned away from vs. 9. And it shall be in that day, saith our Lord: The hart of the King shall perish, & the hart of the Princes: and the Priests shall be astonished, and the Prophets shall be amazed. 10. And I said: Alas, alas, alas, o Lord God, hast thou then deceiued this people & Ierusalem, saying: You shall haue peace: and behold the sword hath come euen to the soule? 11. At that time it shall be said to this people, & to Ierusalem: A burning wind in the waies, that are in the desert of the way of the daughter of my people, not to fanne and to purge: 12. A full spirit from these shall come to me: and now I will speake my iudgement with them. 13. Behold he shall come in a cloude, and his chariots as a tēpest: his horses are swifter then eagles: woe vnto vs, because we are destroyed. 14. Wash thy hart from malice, o Ierusalem, that thou maist be saued: how long shall hurtful cogitations abide in thee? 15. For a voice of one declaring from Dan, and notifying the idol from mount Ephraim. 16. Say ye to the Gētils: loe it is heard in Ierusalem, that there come keepers from a farre countrie, and found their voice vpon the cities of Iuda. 17. They are set vpon her round about, as the keepers of fields: because she hath prouoked me to wrath, saith our Lord. 18. Thy wayes and thy cogitations haue done these things to thee: this thy malice, because it is bitter, because it hath touched thy hart. 19. My bellie, my belly aketh, the senses of my hart are troubled in me, I wil not hold my peace, because my soule hath heard the voice of the trumpet, the crie of battel. 20. Destruction is called vpon destruction, and al the earth is wasted: my tentes are wasted quickly, sodainly my skinnes. 21. How long shal I see one that flyeth away, shal I heare the voice of the trumpet? 22. Because my foolish people haue not knowen me: they are vnwise children, and without wit: they are (b) wise to doe euils, but to doe wel they haue not knowen. 23. I beheld the earth, and loe it was void, and a thing of nothing: and the heauens, & there was no light in them. 24. I saw the mountaines, and loe they were moued: and al the little hills were troubled. 25. I beheld, and there was not a man: and euerie soule of the aire was departed. 26. I looked, and behold Carmel made desert: and al the cities therof were destroyed at the face of our Lord, and at the face of the wrath of his furie. 27. For thus saith our Lord: Al the land shal be desolate, (c) but yet I wil not make a consummation. 28. The earth shal mourne, and the heauens shal lament from aboue: because I haue spoken, I haue purposed, and it hath not repented me, neither am I turned away from it. 29. At the voice of the horseman, and the archer, al the citie is fled: they haue entred into high places, and haue climed the rocks: al the cities are forsaken, and there dwelleth not a man in them. 30. But thou being wasted, what wilt thou doe? when thou shalt cloth thy selfe in scarlet, when thou shalt be adorned with golden iewels, and shalt paint thine eies with stibike stone, thou shalt be trimmed in vaine: thy louers haue contemned thee, they wil seeke thy life. 31. For I haue heard the voice as of a traueling woman, anguishes as of a woman in labour of child. The voice of the daughter of Sion, amongst them that dye, and stretch forth their hands: woe is me, because my soule hath fainted for them that are slaine.

GOE round about the wayes of Ierusalem, and looke, and consider, & seeke in the streets therof, whether you can finde a man that doth iudgements, and seeketh fidelitic: and I wil be propitious vnto him. 2. Yea if they say: Our Lord liueth (a) this also they wil sweare falsely. 3. O Lord thyne eyes regard fidelitic: thou hast stricken them, and they were not forie: thou hast broken them, and they haue refused to receiue discipline: they haue hardned their faces more then the rocke, and they would not returne. 4. But I said: Perhaps they are poore and foolish, not knowing the way of the Lord, the iudgement of their God. 5. I wil goe therefore to the great men, and wil speake to them: for they haue knowen the way of their Lord: and behold these altogether haue more broken the yoke, haue burst the bonds. 6. Therefore hath (b) the lion out of the wood stricken them, (c) the woole in the euening hath wasted them, (d) the leopard watching vpon their cities: euerie one of them that shal come forth, shal be taken, because their preuaricatiōs are multiplied, their reuoltings are strengthened. 7. Wherupon can I be propitious to thee? thy children haue forsaken me, and sweare by them, that are not Gods: I filled them, and they committed aduoutrie, and did riotously in the harlots house. 8. They are become as amarous horses, and stalions: euerie one neyed at his neighbours wife: 9. Why, shal I not visite vpon these things, saith our Lord? and on such a nation shal not my soule take reuenge? 10. Scale the wals therof, and dissipate them, but make not a consummation: take away the branches therof, because they are not the Lords. 11. For by preuarication hath the house of Israel preuaricated against me, and the house of Iuda, saith our Lord. 12. They haue denied our Lord, and sayd: It is not he: neither shal the euil come vpon vs: we shal not see sword and famine. 13. The Prophets haue spoken into the wind, and there was no answer in them: these things therefore shal happen to them. 14. Thus saith our Lord the God of hosts: Because you haue spoken this word: behold, I giue my words in thy mouth as fire, & this people as sticks, & it shal deuour them. 15. Behold I wil bring vpon you a nation from a far, o house of Israel, saith our Lord: a strong nation, an ancient nation, a nation whose tongue thou shalt not know, nor vnderstand what it speaketh. 16. The quiuer thereof is as an open sepulcher, they are al strong. 17. And it shal eat thy corne, and thy bread: it shal deuour thy sonnes, and thy daughters: it shal eat thy flocke, and thy heards: it shal eat thy vineyard, and thy figge: and it shal destroy thy fenced cities, wherin thou hast confidence, with the sword. 18. But yet in those daies, saith our Lord, I (e) wil not bring you into consummation. 19. And if you shal say: Why hath the Lord our God done al these things to vs? thou shalt say to them: As you haue forsaken me, and serued a strange God in your owne iand, so shal you serue strange ones in a land not your owne. 20. Declare ye this to the house of Iacob, and make it heard in Iuda, saying: 21. Heare thou foolish people, that hast no hart, which hauing eies, seest not: and cares, and hearest not. 22. Me then wil you not feare, saith our Lord: and at my presence wil ye not be sorie? Who haue set the sand a limite for the sea, an euerlasting precept, that shal not passe, and they shal be moued, and shal not preuaile: and the waues therof shal swel, and shal not passe ouer it. 23. But to this people their hart is become incredulous, and exasperating, they are reuolted and departed. 24. And they haue not said in their hart: Let vs feare the Lord our God, who giueth vs the timely and lateward rayne in due season: who preferueth the fulnes of the yearly harvest vnto vs. 25. Your iniquities haue turned away these things, and your sinnes haue stayed good from you. 26. Because there are found impious men in my people, that lye in watie as fowlers setting snares & traps to take men. 27. As a net ful of birds, so their houses are ful of guile: therefore are they magnified, and enriched. 28. They are made grosse and fat: and haue transgressed my words most wickedly. The cause of the widow they haue not iudged, the cause of the pupil they haue not directed, and the iudgement of the poore they haue not iudged. 29. (f) Shal I not visite vpon these things? saith our Lord: or vpon such a nation shal not my soule take reuenge? 30. Astonishment and meruelous things are done in the land. 31. Ierusalem shal be destroyed for transgressing Gods law : 8. and conserning admonitions. 16. Yet God admonisbeth againe the Iewes, and they conserning, 18. he calleth the Gentils, and reiecteth the Iewes.

TAKE courage ye children of Benjamin in the middes of Ierusalem, and in Thecua sound with the trumpet, and ouer Bethacatem lift vp the standart : because there is euil seen from the North, and great destruction. 2. I haue resembled the daughter of Sion to a beautiful and delicate woman. 3. To her shal (a) Pastours come, and their flocks: they haue pitcht tents in her round about : euerie one shal feed them that are vnder his hand. 4. Sanctifie ye battel vpon her : arise, and let vs goe vp in the midday : woe vnto vs, because the day is declined, because the shadowes of the euening are waxen longer. 5. Arise, and let vs goe vp in the night, and destroy her houses. 6. Because thus saith the Lord of hosts : Hew downe her wood, cast a trench about Ierusalem : this is the citie of visitation, al oppression is in the middes thereof. 7. As a cesterne maketh cold the water therof, so hath she made cold her malice : iniquitie and spoile shal be heard in her, infirmitie and plague alwaies before me. 8. Be thou taught Ierusalem, lest perhaps my soule depart from thee, lest perhaps I make thee a desert land not habitable. 9. Thus saith the Lord of hosts : Euen to one cluster shal they gather as in a vineyard the remaines of Israel, turne back thy hand, as the grape gatherer to the basket. 10. To whom shal I speake? and whom shal I contest, that he may heare? behold, their eares are vncircumcised, and they can not heare : behold the word of our Lord is become vnto them as a reproch : and they will not receiue it. 11. Therefore am I full of the furie of our Lord, I haue laboured sustayning : powre out vpon the litle one without, and vpon the counsel of the yong men together : for man with woman shal be taken, the ancient with him that is ful of daies. 12. And their houses shal passe to others, their lands and wiues together : because I wil extend my hand vpon the inhabitants of the land, saith our Lord. 13. For from the lesser euen to the greater, al studie auarice : and from the Prophetis euen to the Priest, al comit guile. 14. And they cured the destruction of the daughter of my people with ignominie, saying : Peace, peace : and there was not peace. 15. They were confounded, because they did abemitation : yea rather they were not confounded with confusion, and they knew not how to

bfush, for the which thing, they shal fal among them that fal: in the time of their vlsitation, they shal fal downe, saith our Lord. 16. Thus saith our Lord: Stand ye vpon the waies, and see, and aske of the old pathes, which is the good way, and walke ye in it: and you shal find refreshing for your soules. And they said: We wil not walke. 17. And I appointed watchmen ouer you. Heare yee the voice of the trumpeter. And they said: We wil not heare. 18. (b) Therefore heare ye, o Gentiles; and thou congregation know, what great things I wil doe to them. 19. Heare o earth: Behold I wil bring euils vpon this people, the fruits of their cogitations: because they haue not heard my words, and they haue cast off my law. 20. To what purpose bring you me frankincense from Saba, and the sweet smelling canie from a farre countrie? your holocausts are not acceptable, and your victimnes haue not pleased me. 21. Therefore thus saith our Lord: Behold I wil bring ruine vpon this people, and the fathers with the children shal fal in them together, neighbour and neighbour, and they shal perish. 22. Thus saith our Lord: Behold there commeth a people from the land of the (c) North, and a great nation shal arise vp from the ends of the earth. 23. It shal take arrow and shield: it is cruel, and wil haue no mercie. The voice thereof shal sound as the sea: and they shal mount vpon horses, prepared as a man to battel, against thee, o daughter of Sion. 24. We haue heard the fame thereof, our hands are dissolued: tribulation hath caught vs, sorowes as a woman in trauel. 25. Goe not out to the fields, and walke not in the way: because the sword of the enemy is feare round about. 26. Be girded with sackcloth, o daughter of my people, and be sprinkled with ashes: make thee a bitter lamentation as the mourning of the only-begotten, because the destroyer shal sodainly come vpon vs. 27. I haue sette thee a strong prouer in my people: and thou shalt know, and proue their way. 28. Al these Princes are declining, walking deceitfully, brasse and yron: they are al corrupted. 29. The bellows haue failed, the lead is consumed in the fire, the foundler hath melted in vaine: for their malices are not consumed. 30. Cal ye them reprobate siluer, because our Lord hath rejected them.

God promiseth to dwell with those that walk right wayes : 8. otherwise the materiel temple wil not saue them : 16. neither the prayers of the Prophet shal helpe them, persisting in their sinnes : 21. nor sacrifice, but obedience to Gods law.

(a) The Jewes presumed that God would neuer suffer his Temple to be destroyed; they thought also that external sacrifices without internal repentance, should take away their sinnes; but for their impenitence they and their sacrifices are reiected, & the temple destroyed.

Stand in the gate of the house of the Lord, and preach there this word, and say : Hear ye the word of our Lord at Iuda, which goe in by these gates, to adore our Lord. 3. Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel : Make your wayes good, and your studies : and I wil dwell with you in this place. 4. Trust not in words of lying, saying : (a) The temple of our Lord, the temple of our Lord, it is the temple of our Lord. 5. For if you shal wel direct your waies, and your studies : if you shal doe iudgement between a man and his neighbour, 6. to the stranger, and to the pupit, and to the widow shal doe no oppression, nor shed innocent blood in this place, and walke not after strange Gods to your owne euil : 7. I wil dwell with you in this place : in the land, which I gaue to your fethers from the beginning and for euer. 8. Behold you trust to your selues in words of lying : which shal not profite you : 9. to steale, to murder, to committe aduouerie, to sweare falsely, to offer to Baalim, and to goe after strange Gods, which you know not. 10. And you haue come, and stood before me in this house, in which my name is inuocated, and haue said : We are deliuered because we haue done al these abominations. 11. Why, is this house then wherein my name is inuocated, in your eies become a denne of theues ? I, euen I am : I haue seen, saith our Lord. 12. Goe ye to (b) my place in Silo, where my name dwelt from the beginning : and see what I haue done to it for the malice of my people Israel : 13. and now because you haue done al these workes, saith our Lord : and I haue spoken to you early rising, and speaking, & you haue not heard : and I haue called you, and you haue not answered : 14. I wil doe to this house, wherein my name is inuocated, & wherein you haue confidence : and to the place which I haue giuen you and your fathers, as I did to Silo. 15. And I wil cast you away from my face, as I haue cast away al your bretheren, (c) the whole seed of Ephraim, 16. Thou therefore pray not for this people, neither take vnto thee praise and prayer for them, and resist me not : because I wil not heare thee. 17. Queen of heauen, and to offer libaments vnto strange Gods, and to prouoke me to wrath. 19. Why doe they prouoke me to wrath? saith our Lord: and not themselues to the confusion of their owne countenance? 20. Therefore this saith our Lord God: Behold my furie, and my indignation is powred vpon this place, vpon men, and vpon beasts, and vpon the wood of the countrie, and vpon the fruits of the land, and it shal be kindled, and shal not be quenched. 21. Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Adde your holocausts to your victims, and eate ye the flesh. 22. Because I spake not with your fathers, and I (d) commanded them not in the day, that I brought them out of the land of Ægypt, touching the word of holocausts and victims. 23. But this word I commanded them, saying: Heare ye my voice, and I will be your God, and you shal be my people: and walke ye in al the way, that I haue commanded you, that it may be wel with you. 24. And they heard not, nor inclined their eare: but haue gone in their pleasures, and in the peruersitie of their wicked hart: and haue been made backward and not foreward, 25. from the day that their fathers came out of the land of Ægypt, euen to this day. And I haue sent to you al my seruants the Prophets by day, rising early, and sending. 26. And they haue not heard me, nor inclined their eare: but they haue hardned their neck, and haue wrought worse then their fathers. 27. And thou shalt speake vnto them al these words, and they wil not heare thee: and thou shalt cal them, and they wil not answer thee. 28. And thou shalt say to them: This is the nation which hath not heard the voice of the Lord their God, nor receiued discipline: faith is perished, and is taken away out of their mouth. 29. Pole thy haire, and cast it away, and take lamentation on high: because our Lord hath cast of, and hath left the generation of his furie, 30. because the children of Iuda haue done euil in mine eyes, saith our Lord. They haue put their stumbling blocks in the house, wherein my name is inuocated, that they might pollute it: 31. and they haue built the excelses of Topheth, which is in the valley of the sonne of Ennom, that they might burne their sonnes, and their daughters with fire: which things I commanded not, nor thought in my hart. 32. Therefore loe the daies shal come, saith our Lord, and it shal no more be said: Topheth, and the valley of the sonne of Ennom: but the valley of slaughter: and They shal burie in Topheth, because there is no place. 33. And the carcasse of this people shal be for meats to the foules of the ayre, and to the beasts of the land, and there shal be none to driue them away. 34. And I wil make to cease out of the cities of Iuda, and out of the streets of Ierusalem, the voice of ioy, and the voice of gladnes, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride: for the land shal be in desolation.

(d) God gaue his perfect law comprised in the ten commandments: which alone being kept wil suffice: and afterwards added ceremonial precepts, to exercise the people in external sacrifices of beasts and other corporal things to be offered to himself, as wel to keep them from idolatrie, as to leade them therby to internal vertues, and to signifie Mysteries of the new testament. As is noted. Lewis. 1.

Ex. 26.

C H A P. VII.

The Babylonians spoiling Ierusalem wil cast the bones of Kings, Priests, Prophets, and others out of their sepulchres, and most cruelly afflict the liuing: 5. God so permitting, because they would not repent, when the true Prophets admonished them so to doe. 18. At which the Prophet foreseeing lamenteth.

(a) Persecutors spoile the shrines of Kings & other principal persons, of cruetie, & also of auarice if they be richly adorned.

At that time, saith our Lord, (a) they wil cast out the bones of the Kings of Iuda, and the bones of the Princes thereof, and the bones of Priests, and the bones of the Prophets, and the bones of them that inhabit Ierusalem, out of their sepulchres. 2. And they shal spread them abroad in the sunne, and the moone, and al the host of heauen, which they haue loued, and which they haue serued, & after which they haue walked, and which they haue sought, and adored: they shal not be gathered, and they shal not be buried: they shal be as a dunghil vpon the face of the earth. 3. And they shal choose rather death then life, al that shal be remaining of this wicked kinred in al places, which are left, to the which I haue cast them out, saith the Lord of hosts. 4. And thou shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord: Shal not he that falleth rise againe? and he that is turned away, shal he not turne againe? 5. Why then is this people in Ierusalem turned away with a contentious reuoluing? they haue apprehended lying, and would not returne. 6. I attended, and harkned: no man speaketh that which is good: there is none that doth penance for his sinne, saying: What haue I done? They are al turned to their owne course, as an horse going with violence to battel. 7. The kite in the heauen hath knowen her time: the turtle, and the swalow, and the storke haue obserued the time of their coming: but my people haue not knowen the iudgement of the Lord. 8. How say you: We are wise, and the law of our Lord is with vs? In very deede the lying penne of the Scribes hath wrought lying. 9. The wise are confounded, they are terrified and taken: for they (b) haue cast away the word of our Lord, and there is no wisdom in them. 10. Therefore wil I giue their women to strangers, their fields to inheritours: because from the least euen to the greatest al folow auarice: from the Prophet euen to the Priest al make lies. 11. And they healed the destruction of the daughter of my people to ignominie, saying: Peace, peacc, when there was not peacc. 12. They are confounded, because they haue done abomination: yea rather they are not confounded with confussion, and they haue not knowen how to blush: therefore shal they fal among them that fal, in the time of their visitation they shal fal, saith our Lord. 13. Gathering I wil gather them together, saith our Lord, there is no grape in the vines, and there are no figges on the figtree, the leafe is fallen downe : and I haue giuen them the things that are passed. 14. Why doe we sit? come together and let vs enter into the fenced citie, and let vs be silent there : because the Lord our God hath made vs to be silent, and hath giuen vs water of gaule for drinke : for we haue sinned to our Lord. 15. We expected peace and there was no good : a time of medicine and behold feare. 16. From Dan was the snoring noyse of his horses heard, with the voice of the neyings of his fighting horses al the land was moued: and they came and deuoured the land, and the fulnes thereof : the citie & the inhabitants thereof. 17. For behold I wil send you (c) serpents basaliskes, for which there is no enchantment : and they shal bite you, saith our Lord. 18. My sorow is about sorow, my hart mourning within me. 19. Behold the voice of the daughter of my people from a farre countrie : Is not our Lord in Sion: or is not her King in her? Why then haue they prouoked me to wrath in their sculptures, & in strange vanities? 20. The haruest is past, somer is ended: and we are not saued. 21. For the affliction of the daughter of my people I am afflicted, and made sorowful, astonishment hath taken me. 22. Is there not rosen in Galaad? or is there no phisicion there? Why then is not the wound of the daughter of my people closed?

(c) As serpents can not be hindered by enchantments from hurting men, no more can the furious Chaldees be dissuaded by any speech from killing, spoiling, and ransaking the Israclites.

The prophet lamenteth the future calamitie of the people, and their false dealing ech with others : 12. willing al to consider that their wickednes is the cause of their miserie, 17. and to mourne, 23. and returne to God : 25. who otherwise wil punish both Gensiles, and Iewes not circumcised in hart.

W H O wil giue water to my head, and to mine eyes a fountaine of teares? and I wil weepe day and night for the slaine of the daughter of my people. 2. Who wil giue me in the wildernes an inne of wayfaring men, and I wil forsake my people, and depart from them? because they are al adulterers, an assemblie of transgressours. 3. And they haue bent their tongue, as a bow of lying and not of truth : they haue taken courage in the land, because they haue proceeded from euil to euil, and me they haue not knowen, saith our Lord. 4. Let euerie man take heede to himselfe of his neighbour, and in euerie brother of his let him not haue affiance : because euerie brother supplanting wil supplant, and euerie freind wil walke deceitfully. 5. And man shal scorne his brother, and they wil not speake truth : for they haue taught their tongue to speake lies : they haue laboured to doe vniustly. 6. Thine inhabitation is in the middes of deceipt : in deceipt they haue refused to know me, saith our Lord. 7. Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts : Behold I wil melt, and wil trie them : for what eis shal I doe at the face of the daughter of my people ? 8. Their tongue is a wandering arrow, it hath spoken guile : in his mouth he hath spoken peace with his freind, and secretly he layeth waite for him. 9. Shal I not viuite vpon these things, saith our Lord ? or vpon such a nation shal not my soule be reuenged ? 10. Vpon the mountaines I wil take vp weeping and lamentation, & vpon the beautiful places of the desert, mourning : because they are burnt, for that there is not a man that passeth through : and they haue not heard the voice of the owner : from the foule of the ayre vnto the beasts they are gone away & departed. 11. And I wil make Ierusalem to be heaps of sand, and dennes of dragons : and I wil giue the cities of Iuda into desolation, because there is not an inhabiter. 12. Who is a wise man, that can vnderstand this, & to whom the word of the mouth of our Lord may be made, that he may declare this, why the earth hath perished, and is burnt as a desert, because there is none that passeth through ? 13. And our Lord said : Because they haue forsaken my law, which I gaue them, and haue not heard my voice, & haue not walked in it. 14. And they haue gone after the peruersitie of their owne hart, and after Baalim, which they learned of their fathers. 15. Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel : Behold I wil feed this people with wormewood, and giue them water of gale to drinke. 16. And I wil disperse them in the Nations, which they & their fathers haue not knowen : & I wil send the sword after them, () til they be consumed. 17. Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel : Consider & cal ye lamenting women, & let them come : & send to thē that are wise, and let them make haste : 18. let them hasten & take vp a lamentation vpon vs : let our eies shed teares, & our eie-lids runne downe with waters. 19. Because a voice of lamatation is heard from Sion : How are we wasted and confounded exceedingly ? because we haue left the land, because our tabernacles are cast downe. 20. Heare therefore ye women the word of our Lord : and let your cares take the word of his mouth : and teach your daughters lamentation : & euerie one her neighbour mourning : 21. because death is come vp through our windowes, it is entred into our houses, to destroy the children from without, the yong men out of the streets. 22. Speak : Thus saith our Lord : and the carcasse of man shal fal as dung vpon the face of the countrie, and as a grasse behind the backe of the mower, and there is none to gather it. 23. Thus saith our Lord : Let not the wiseman glorie in his wisdom, & let not the strong man glorie in his strength, & let not the rich man glorie in his riches : 24. but he that glorieth, let him glorie in this, to vnderstand & know me, because I am the Lord that doe mercie and iudgement, & iustice in the earth : for these things please me, saith our Lord.

Psal. 27.

After the destruction of Ierusalem, most of the people, especially the richer sort, were carried into captiuitie; others were persecuted til they were consumed, that is, euen to death & destruction. But not al the nation consumed, for he prophecied the contrarie, ch. 4. v. 27. & ch. 5. v. 10. & 18. And after 70. yeares the relikes were released, and returned into Iewrie, manie also remained stil there. As eis euident in the books of Esdras.

Influence of starres, nor imagined power of idols, is not to be feared, but God only: whose Maieste is infinite, and idols haue no power at al. 19. Ierusalem Iememeth, 24. and prayeth God to pardon and protect his owne people.

HE A'R'E ye the word, which our Lord hath spoken concerning you, o house of Israel. 2. Thus saith our Lord: According to the waies of the Gentiles learne not: and (a) of the signes of heauen; which the heathen feare, be not afraid: 3. Because the lawes of the people are vaine: because the worke of the hand of the artificer hath cut a tree out of the forest with an axe: 4. with siluer & gold he hath decked it: with nailles and hammers he hath compacted it, that it fal not asunder. 5. They are framed after the similitude of a palme tree, & shal not speake: being caried they shal be remoued, because (b) they are not able to goe. Therefore feare the not, because they can neither doe il nor wel. 6. There is not the like vnto thee o Lord: thou art great, and great is thy name in strength. 7. Who shal not feare thee o King of Nations? For thine is the glorie among al the wise of the Gētiles, & in al their Kingdoms there is none like vnto thee. 8. They shal be proued altogether vnwise & foolish: the doctrine of their vanitie is wood. 9. Siluer wrapped vp is brought frō Tharsis, and gold from Ophaz: the worke of the artificer; & the hands of the copersmith: hyacinth and purple are their clothing: al these things are the worke of artificers. 10. But our Lord is the true God: he is the liuing God, and the King euerlasting: at his indignation the earth shal be moued: and the Gentils wal not sustaine his threatning. 11. Thus then you shal say to them: The Gods that made not heauen and earth, let them perish from off the earth, and from these places, that are vnder heauen. 12. He that maketh the earth in his strength, prepareth the world in his wisdom, & with his prudence stretcheth out the heauens. 13. At his voice he giueth a multitude of waters in the heauen, & listeth vp the clouds from the ends of the earth: he maketh lightnings into rayne, & bringeth forth the winde out of his treasures. 14. Euerie man is become a foole for knowledge, euery craftsman is confounded in the sculptil: because it is false that he hath melted, and there is no spirit in them. 15. They are vaine things, and a worke worthie to be laughed at: in the time of their visitation they shal perish. 16. The portion of Iacob is not like to these: for it is he that formed al things: and Israel is the rodde of his inheritance: the Lord of hosts in his name. 17. Gather thy confusion out of the land, thou that dwellest in besiege. 18. Because thus saith our Lord: Behold I wil cast forth farre of the inhabitants of the land at this time: & I wil afflict them, so that they may not be found. 19. Woe is me for my destruction, my plague is very fore. But I said. Truly this is myne infirmitie, and I wil beare it. 20. My tabernacie is walted, al my cords are broken in sunder: my children are gone out from me, and are not: there is none to stretch out my tent anie more, & to set vp my curtaines. 21. Because the Pastours haue done foolishly, & haue not sought our Lord: therefore haue they not vnderstood, and al their flock is dispersed. 22. Loe the voice of a bruit cometh, a great commotion from the land of the North: to make the cities of Iuda a desert, and an habitation of dragons. 23. I know Lord, that (c) mans way is not his owne: neither is it in a man to walke, and to direct his steppes. 24. Correct me o Lord, but yet in iudgement: and not in thy furie, lest perhaps thou bring me to nothing. 25. Power out thine indignation vpon the Gentiles, that haue not knowen thee, and vpon the Prouinces, that haue not innocated thy name: because they haue eaten Iacob, and deuoured him, and consumed him, and haue dissipated his glorie.

(c) Man can not doe any good thing without Gods help, nor any euil without his permission: neither of which destroyeth freewil. As in the present example Nabuchodonosor could not afflict the Iewes but by Gods permission.

CHAP. XI.

The Prophet being commanded to preach the obseruation of Gods couenant is not heard. 9. The people folow their fathers example, adoring idols: 11. and shal therefore be seuerely punished, neither shal their idols, nor prayers of the iust profite them. 15. their malice against Christ is described, 20. and the reuenge therof.

(a) Not for the priuiledges of kinred (being the children of Abraham, Isaac and Iacob) nor for suffering circumcision, nor for the rest of the Sabbath, but for obedience (in keeping the couenant & precepts) our Lord is the God of Israel, & Israel his people, S. Ierom.

HE word that was made from our Lord to Ieremie, saying: 2. Heare ye the words of this couenant, and speake to the men of Iuda, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem, 3. and thou shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: Cursed is the man that shal not heare the words of this couenant, 4. which I (a) commanded your fathers in the day, that I brought them out of the Land of Ægypt, out of the yron fornace saying: Heare ye my voice, and doe al things, that I command you: and you shal be my people, and I wil be your God. 5. That I may raise vp the othe, which I sware to your fathers, that I would giue them a land flowing with milke and hunnie, as is this day. And I answered, and said: Amen Lord. 6. And our Lord said to me: Crie aloud al these words in the cities of Iuda, and without Ierusalem, saying: Heare ye the wordes of this couenant, and doe them: 7. because confest I did confest your fathers in the day, that I brought them out of the Land of Ægypt euen to this day: arising early I contested, and said: Heare ye my voice: 8. and they heard not, nor inclined their eare: but went euerie one in the peruersitie of his owne wicked hart: and I brought vpon them al the words of this couenant, which I commanded them to doe, and they did not. 9. And our Lord said to me: Conspiracie is found in the men of Iuda, and in the inhabitants of the men of Ierusalem. 10. They are returned to the former iniquities of their fathers, which would not heare my words: and these therefore haue gone after strange Gods, to serue them: the house of Israel, and the house of Iuda hath made voide my couenant, which I made with their fathers. 11. For which thing thus saith our Lord: Behold I wil bring in euils vpon them, out of which they shal not be able to goe forth: and they shal crie to me, and I wil not heare them. 12. And the cities of Iuda, and the inhabitants of Ierusalem shal goe, and crie to the Gods, vnto whom they sacrificed, and they shal not saue them in the time of their affliction. 13. For according to the number of thy cities were thy Gods ô Iuda: and according to the number of the waies of Ierusalem thou didst set altars of confusion, altars to sacrifice to Baalim. 14. (b) Thou therefore pray not for this people, and take not to thee praise and prayer for them: because I wil not heare in the time of their crie vnto me, in the time of their affliction. 15. What is it, that my beloued hath in my house done much wickednes: that (c) the holie flesh take away from thee thy malices: in which thou hast boasted? 16. The Lord hath called thy name, a plentiful oliue tree, faire, fruitful, beautiful: at the voice of a word, a great fire flamed vp in it, and the thrubs thereof are burnt. 17. And the Lord of hostes that planted thee, hath spoken euil vpon thee: for the euils of the house of Israel, and of the house of Iuda, which they haue done to themselues, to prouoke me, in offering to Baalim. 18. (d) But thou Lord hast shewed me, and I haue knowen: thou hast shewed me their studies. 19. And I as a milde lambe, that is caried to a victim: and I (e) knew not that they deuised counsels against me, saying: Let vs cast wood on his bread, & rase him out of the lād of the liuing, and let his name be mentioned no more. 20. But thou ô Lord of Sabaoth, which iudgeth iustly, & prouest the reynes & the harts, let me see thy reuenge of them: for to thee I haue reuealed my cause. 21. Therefore thus saith the Lord to the men of Anathoth, which seek thy life, and say: Thou shalt not prophetic in the name of our Lord, and thou shalt not die in our hands. 22. Therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes: Behold I wil visite vpon them: their yong men shal die by the sword, their sonnes and their daughters shal die in famine. 23. And there shal be (f) no remaines of them: for I wil bring in euil vpon the men of Anathoth, the yeare of their visitation.

CHAP. XII.

It seemeth strange that the wicked prosper. 5. The Iewes heretofore afflicted by weaker enimies, shal be more oppressed by the Babylonians. 10. Evil Pastours shal be punished, 14. and forraime enemies destroyed.

(a) Prophets, & other holy mē, not ignorant nor doubtful of Gods prouidence, speake sometimes in the person of the weake, as desirous to know why God suffereth the wicked to prosper in this world, and the godlie to be afflicted. Iob. 21. v. 7. David Psal. 72. v. 2. 3. Abacuc. 1. v. 3.

(b) After that the children are chasticed, the rod is to be burned.

HOW indeed o Lord art iust, if I dispute with thee, but yet I wil speake iust things to thee: (a) Why doth the way of the impious prosper: why is it wel with al that transgresse, and doe wickedly? 2. Thou hast planted them, and they haue taken roote: they prosper and bring forth fruit: thou art nigh to their mouth, and farre from their reynes. 3. And thou Lord hast knowen me, thou hast seen me, and proued my hart with thee: gather them together as a flocke to the victime, and * sanctifie them in the day of slaughter. 4. How long shal the land mourne, and the herbe of euerie field be withered for malice of the inhabitants therein: Beast is consumed, and foule: because they haue said: He shal not see our later ends. 5. If running with foot-men thou hast laboured: how canst thou cōtend with horses? And whereas in a lād of peace thou hast been secure, what wilt thou doe in the pride of Iordan? 6. For euen thy brethren, and the house of thy father, they also haue fought against thee, and haue cried after thee with ful voice: belieue them not when they shal speake good things vnto thee. 7. I haue forsaken my house, I haue left mine inheritance: I haue giuen my beloued soule into the hand of her enimies. 8. Myne inheritance is become vnto me as a lion in the wood: it hath vttered a voice against me, therefore haue I hated it. 9. Why, is myne inheritance vnto me as a bird of diuers colours: is it as a bird died throughout? come, assemble your selues al ye beasts of the land, make haste to deuour. 10. Manie pastours haue destroyed my vineyard, they haue troden downe my portion: they haue made my portion that was worthie to be desired, into a desert of desolation. 11. They haue laied it into dissipation, and it hath mourned vpon me. With desolation is al the land made desolate: because there is none that considereth in the hart. 12. Vpon al the wayes of the desert the wasters are come, because the sword of our Lord shal deuour from one end of the land to the other end thereof: there is no peace to al flesh. 13. They haue sown wheate, and reaped thornes: they haue taken an inheritance, & it shal not profite them: you shal be ashamed of your fruits, for the wrath of the furie of our Lord. 14. Thus saith the Lord against al my most wicked neighbours: (b) which touche the inheritance that I haue distributed to my people of Israel: Behold I wil plucke them out of their land, and the house of Iuda I wil plucke out of the middes of them. 15. And when I shal haue plucked them out, I wil returne, and haue mercie on them: and wil bring them backe, euerie man to his inheritance, and euerie man into his land. 16. And it shall be: if being taught they wil learne the waies of my people, that they sweare in my name: Our Lord liueth, as they haue taught my people to sweare by Baal: they shal be built in the middes of my people. 17. But if they wil not heare, I wil plucke out that nation with plucking vp and with destruction, saith our Lord.

CHAP. XIII.

By a girdle first vsed and after least of, 8. is prefigured the reuoltion of the Iewes: 12. til Gods mercie recalleth them. 17. The Prophet lamenting their obstinacie, 22. sheweth that their finne is the cause of their miserie.

H V S saith our Lord to me: Goe, and get thee (a) a girdle of linnen, and thou shalt put it about thy loynes, and shalt not put it into water. 2. And I got a girdle according to the word of our Lord, and put it about my loynes. 3. And the word of our Lord was made to me the second time, saying: 4. Take girdle, which thou hast gotten, which is about thy loynes, and rising goe to Euphrates, and hide it there in an hole of the rocke. 5. And I went, and hidde it in Euphrates, as our Lord had commanded me. 6. And it came to passe after manie daies, our Lord said to me: Arise, goe to Euphrates: and take from thence the girdle, which I commanded thee that thou shouldst hide it there. 7. And I went to Euphrates, and digged, and tooke the girdle out of the place, where I had hid it: and behold the girdle was rotten, so that it was fit for no vse. 8. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 9. Thus saith our Lord: so wil I make the pride of Iuda, and the great pride of Ierusalem. 10. This most wicked people, which wil not heare my words, and walke in the peruersitie of their hart: & haue gone after strange Gods to serue them and to adore them: and they shal be as this girdle, which is fitte for no vse. 11. For as the girdle cleaueth to the loynes of a man, so haue I fast ioyned to me al the house of Israel, and al the house of Iuda, saith our Lord: that they might be my people, and name, and prayse, and glorie: & they heard not. 12. Thou shalt say therefore vnto them this word: Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: (b) Euerie bottle shal be filled with wine. And they shal say to thee: Why, are we ignorant that euerie bottle shal be filled with wine? 13. And thou shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord: Behold I wil fill al the inhabitants of this land, & the Kings that of the stock of Dauid sit vpon his throne, & the Priests, & the Prophets, & al the inhabitants of Ierusalem, with drunkennes. 14. cuerie man from his brother, and the fathers and sonnes together, saith our Lord : I wil not spare, and I wil not yeald : neither wil I haue mercie not to destroy them. 15. Heare ye, and giue care. Be not elated, because our Lord hath spoken. 16. Giue ye glorie to our Lord your God, before it waxe darke, and before your feet stumble at the darke mountaines : you shal looke for light, and he wil turne it into the shadow of death, & into darknes. 17. But if you wil not heare this, in secret my soule shal weep because of the pride : weeping it shal weep, and mine eie shal drop teares, because the flock of our Lord is taken. 18. Say to the King, and to her that ruleth : Be humbled, sitte downe : because the crowne of your glorie is come downe from your head. 19. The cities of the South are shut, and there is none that may open them : al Iuda is transported with a perfect transmigration. 20. Lift vp your eies and see, you that come from the North, where is the flock that is giuen thee, thy noble cattel? 21. What wilt thou say when he shal visite thee? for thou hast taught them against thee, and instructed them against thyne owne head : shal not sorowes apprehend thee, as a woman in trauel? 22. And if thou shalt say in thy hart : why are these things come vnto me? For the multitude of thine iniquitie, thy more shamelie parts are discourred, the soles of thy feet are polluted. 23. (c) If the Ethiopian can change his skinne, or the leopard his spots : you also can doe wel, when you haue learned euil. 24. And I wil scatter them as stubble, which is violently taken with the wind in the desert. 25. This is thy lot, and portion of thy measure from me, saith our Lord, because thou hast forgotten me, and hast trusted in lying. 26. Wherefore I haue also made bare thy thighs against thy face, and thine ignominie hath appeared, 27. thine adulteries, and thy neying, the wickednesse of thy fornication : vpon the litle hils in the field I haue seen thine abominations. Woe to thee Ierusalem, thou wilt not be made cleane after me : how long yet?

(c) Customs is as it were another nature, hard to be altered: yet Gods grace raiseth some inueterate sinners to true repentance, but this is rare. And of themselves without grace no sinners can rise nor repent.

Iurie shal be afflicted with drought and famine. 11. Neither shal the Prophets prayer, nor their fasts, nor sacrifices auail them. 14. False-Prophets shal perish with the seduced people. 17. Ieremie lamenting exhorteth them to repentance.

THE word of our Lord that was made to Ieremie concerning the words (a) of the drought. 2. Iurie hath mourned, and the gates thereof are fallen downe, and are obscured on the earth, and the crie of Ierusalem is come vp, 3. 4. For the wast of the land , because there came no rayne vpon the earth , the husbandmen were confounded , they covered their heads.

5. For the hind also brought forth in the field , and left it : because there was no grasse. 6. And the wild asses stood vpon the rocks , they drew wind as dragons , their eies failed , because there was no grasse. 7. If our iniquities haue answered vs : Lord doe for thy names sake , because our reuolkings are manie , to thee we haue sinned. 8. O expectation of Israel , the sauour thereof in the time of tribulation : why wilt thou be as a sciourner in the land , and as a wayfaring man turning in to lodge?

9. Why wilt thou be as a wandring man , as the (b) strong that can not faue : but thou O Lord art in vs , and thy name is inuocated vpon vs , forsake vs not. 10. Thus saith our Lord to his people , which hath loued to moue their feet , and haue not rested , and hath not pleased our Lord :

Now wil he remember their iniquities , and visit their sinnes. 11. And our Lord said to me : Pray not for this people to good. 12. When they mal fast : wil not heare their prayers : and if they shal offer holocausts and victims , I wil not receiue them : because with sword , and famine , and pestilence I wil consume them. 13. And I said : A a a , O Lord God (c) the Prophets say to them : You shal not see the sword , and there shal be no famine among you , but he wil giue you true peace in this place. 14. And our Lord said to me : The Prophets prophetic falsely in my name : I sent them not , and I commanded them not , neither haue I spoken vnto them : lying vision , and deceitful diuination , guilefulness , and the seduction of their owne hart they prophetic vnto you.

15. Therefore thus saith our Lord of the Prophets , that prophetic in my name , whom I sent not , that say : There shal not be sword , and famine in this land : In sword and famine shal those Prophets be consumed. 16. And the peoples to whom they prophetic , shal be cast forth in the waies of Ierusalem through famine and sword , and there shal be none to burie them ; they & their wiues , their sonnes & their daughters , and I wil power out their cuil vpon them. 17. And thou shalt say this word vnto them : Let mine eies shed teares night & day , & not cease , because the (a) virgin daughter of my people is afflicted with great affliction , with a verie sore plague exceedingly. 18. If I shal goe out to the fields , loe the slaine with the sword : and if I enter into the citie , loe the pyned away with famine. For the Prophet & the Priest are gone into a land which they knew not. 19. Why , casting of hast thou cast away Iuda , or hath thy soule abhorred Sion ? why then hast thou stricken vs , so that there is not health ? we haue expected peace , & there is no good : and a time of curing , and behold trouble. 20. We haue knowen O Lord our impieties , the iniquities of our fathers , because we haue sinned to thee. 21. Giue vs not into reproche for thy names sake , neither make vs to haue the contumelie of the throne of thy glorie : remember , make not thy couenant with vs void. 22. Why , are there

ANNOTATIONS.

CHAP. XV.

1. If Moyses and Samuel shal stand before me.] As before God reuealed to this Prophet Ieremie, that the people should assuredly be punished, and therefore prohibited him (ch. 7. v. 16. ch. 11. v. 14. & ch. 14. v. 11.) that he should not pray for them: so here he confirmeth the same determinate sentence of their punishment, saying: If Moyses and Samuel shal stand before me, my soule is not towards this people. That is, though not only Ieremie (a zelous holie Prophet now liuing) but also Moyses and Samuel (departed from this world long before) shal pray for this people, yet they shal not escape the designed punishment, for their great sinnes. By necessarie consequence of which confirmation, is also proued, that Moyses and Samuel, after their death; both could and did sometimes pray for the same people. For otherwise the particular mention of these Prophets, were not to the purpose; if they neuer did, nor could pray for them. And whereas the English glosie (in the Geneva Bible) supposeth Gods meaning to be, that if there were anie man liuing moued with so great zeale towards the people, as were these two, yet he would not grant this request, for as much as he had determined the contrarie, it is euident that Ieremie, Ezechiel, Daniel, and some other Prophets then liuing, had also great zeale, very like to the others, and therefore this text speaketh not of others like vnto them; but as S. Ierom (in his commentaries vpo this place) S. Chrysostom (he. 1. m. 1. Thess. 1.) and S. Gregorie (li. 9. Moral. c. 12.) vnderstand it of Moyses and Samuel themselues; being in assured happie state, where their former great zeale and charitie were now greater, and more perfect then in this life.

No prayers of others doe auaille for obstinate & impenitent sinners.

Saints after their death pray for men in this world.

This text is vnderstood of Moyses and Samuel themselues.

The Prophet is forbid to marie, troublesome times not suffering the cares of familie: 5. He must neither goe to places of feasting, nor mourning, more dying then can be mourned or buried. 10. At which is for their idolatrie. 15. But after captiuitie the people shal be released. 16. And both Iewes and Gentiles conuerted to Christ.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. (a) Thou shalt not take a wife, and thou shalt not haue sonnes and daughters in this place. 3. Because thus saith our Lord concerning sonnes and daughters, that are begotten in this place, and concerning their mothers, which beare them: and concerning their fathers, of whose stock they were borne in this land: 4. by the deaths of diseases they shal die: they shal not be mourned, and they shal not be buried, they shal be as a dunghil vpon the face of the earth they shal be consumed, both with sword, & famine: & their carcasie shal be meate for the foules of the ayre, and beasts of the earth. 5. For thus saith our Lord: Enter not into the house of feasting, neither goe thou to mourne, nor comfort them: because I haue taken away my peace from this people, saith our Lord, mercie and commiserations. 6. And great and litle shal die in this land: they shal not be buried nor mourned, and they shal not cut themselves, neither shal baldnes be made for them. 7. And they shal not breake bread among thē to him that mourneth to comfort him vpon the dead: and they shal not giuen them drinke of the cup to comfort them vpon their father and mother. 8. And enter not into the house of feasting, to sit with them, and to eate and drinke: 9. because thus saith our Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Behold I wil take away out of this place in your cies & in your daies the voice of ioy, and the voice of gladnes, the voice of the bridegrome, and the voice of the bride. 10. And when thou shalt tel this people al these words, and they shal say to thee: Wherefore hath our Lord spoken vpon vs al this great euil? what is our iniquitie? and what is our sinne, that we haue sinned to the Lord our God? 11. Thou shalt say to them: Because your fathers haue forsaken me, saith our Lord: and gone after strange Gods, and serued them, and adored them: and me they haue forsaken, & my law they haue not kept. 12. But (b) you also haue wrought worse then your fathers: for behold euerie one walketh after the peruersitie of his euil hart, that he heare me not. 13. And I wil cast you forth out of this land, into a land which you & your fathers knew not: & there you shal serue strange Gods day & night, which shal not giue you anie rest. 14. Behold I wil send manie (d) fishers saith our Lord, and they shal fish them: and after this I wil send them manie (e) hunters, and they shal hunt them from euerie mountaine, and from euerie litle hil, and out of the caues (f) of rocks. 17. Because mine eies are vpon al their waies: they are not hid from my face, and their iniquitie hath not been hid from mine eies. 18. And I wil repay first their double iniquities, and their finnes: because they haue contaminated my land with the carcasses of their idols, and with their abominations they haue filled mine inheritance. 19. O Lord my force, and my strength, and my refuge in the day of tribulation: to thee the Gentils shal come from the ends of the earth, and shal say: In very deed our fathers haue possessed lying, vanitie which hath not profited them 20. Why, (g) shal a man make Gods vnto himself, and they are not Gods? 21. For obstinacie in sinne the Iewes shal be led captiue. 5. He is cursed that trusteth in flesh: 7. and blessed that trusteth in God. 9. And thou shalt be left alone of thine inheritance, which I gaue thee: and I wil make thee serue thine enemies in a lād, which thou knowest not. because thou hast kindled a fire in my furie, it shal burne for euer. 5. As clay in the hand of a potter, so is Israel in Gods hand. 8. He pardoneth penitents, 10. and punisheth the obstinate. 18. They conspire against Ieremie, for which he denounceth miseries hanging ouer them.

THE word that was made to Ieremie from our Lord, saying: 2. Arise and goe downe into the potters house, and there thou shalt heare my words. 3. And I went downe into the potters house, and behold he made a worke vpon the wheele. 4. And the vessel was broken which he made of clay with his hands: and turning (a) he made it an other vessel, as it pleased in his eies to make it. 5. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 6. Why, shal I not be able to doe vnto you, as this potter, O house of Israel? Behold, saith our Lord, as clay in the hand of the potter, so are you in my hand, O house of Israel. 7. I wil sodainly speake against nation, and against Kingdom, to roote out, and destroy, and wast it. 8. If that nation shal repent the of their euil, against whom I haue spoken: I also wil repēt me of the euil, that I haue thought to doe to it. 9. And I wil sodainly speake of nation and of Kingdom, to build and plant it. 10. If it shal doe euil in mine eies, that it heare not my voice: I wil repent me of the good that I haue spoken to doe vnto it. 11. Now therefore tel the man of Iuda, and the inhabitants of Ierusalem, saying: Thus saith our Lord: Behold I forge euil against you, and deuise a deuice against you: let euerie man returne from his euil way, and direct ye your waies and your studies. 12. Who said: We are desperate: for we wil goe after our cogitations, and we wil doe euerie one the peruersitie of his euil hart. 13. Therefore thus saith our Lord: Aske the Nations: Who hath heard such horrible things, as the virgin of Israel hath done exceedingly? 14. Why shal the snow of Libanus faile frō the rock of the field? or can the cold waters gushing forth and runing downe, be drawen out? 15. Because my people hath forgotten me, sacrificing in vaine, and stumbling in their waies, in the pathes of the world, that they might walke by them in a way not troden: 16. that their land might be made into desolation, and into an euerlasting hisse: euerie one that shal passe by it, shal be astonished, & wag his head. 17. bottel of the ancients of the people, and of the ancients of the Priests: 2. and goe forth to the valley of the sonne of Ennom, which is by the entrie of the earthen gate: and there thou shalt preach the words, that I wil speake to thee. 3. And thou shalt say: Heare the word of our Lord ye Kings of Iuda, and inhabitants of Ierusalem: Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold I wil bring in affliction vpon this place: so that euerie one that shal heare it, his eares shal tingle: 4. because they haue forsaken me, and haue made this place strange: and they haue sacrificed therein to strange Gods, whom they, and their fathers, and the King of Iuda haue not knowen: and they haue filled this place with the bloud not, nor haue spoken of, neither haue they ascended into my harr. 6.

Therefore behold the daies come, saith our Lord: and this place shal no more be called, Topheth, and the valley of the sonne of Ennom, but the valley of slaughter. 7. And I wil dissipate the counsel of Iuda and Ierusalem in this place: and I wil subuert them with the sword in the sight of their enemies, and in the hand of them that seeke their liues: and I wil giue their carcasses to be meate for the foules of the ayre, and for the beasts of the earth. 8. And I wil make this citie into astonishment, and into hissing: euerie one that shal passe by it, shal be astonished, & shal hisse vpon al the plague therof. 9. And I wil feede them with the flesh of their sonnes, and with the flesh of their daughters: and euerie one shal eate the flesh of his freind in the siege, and in the distresse, wherein their enemies shal include them, and they that seek their liues. 10. And thou shalt breake the bottel in the sight of the men, that shal goe with thee. 11. And thou shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord of hosts: So wil I break this people, and this citie, as the posters vessel is broken, that can (b) no more be repaired: and they shal be buried in Topheth, because there is no other place to burie in. 12. So wil I doe to this place, saith our Lord, and to the inhabitants thereof: and I wil make this citie as Topheth. 13. And the houses of Ierusalem, and the houses of the Kings of Iuda shal be as the place of Topheth, vncleane: al houses, in the tops whereof they haue sacrificed to al the host of heauen, and haue offered libaments to strange Gods. 14. And Ieremie came from Topheth, whither our Lord had sent him to prophecie, and he stode in the court of the house of our Lord, and said to al the people: 15. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold I wil bring in vpon this citie, and vpon al the cities thereof al the euils that I haue spoken against it: because they haue hardned their necke, that they would not heare my words.

But thou Phassur, and al the inhabitants of thy house shal goe into captiuitie, and thou shalt come into Babylon, and there thou shalt die, and there shalt be buried, thou and al thy freinds, to whom thou hast prophecied a lie. 7. Thou hast seduced me, o Lord, and I am seduced: thou wast stronger then I, and hast preuailed: I am made a derision al the day, al doe scorne me. 8. Because now long agoe I speake, crying out iniquitie, and I often proclayme-wasting: and the word of our Lord is made a reproch to me, and a derision al the day. 9. And I said: I wil not remember him, nor speake anie more in his name: and there was made in my hart as a fire-boyling, and shut vp in my bones: and I fauted, not stayingning to beare it. 10. For I heard the contumelies of manie, and terrour on euerie side: persecute ye, and let vs persecute him: of al the men, that were my peaceables, and garding my side: if by anie meanes he may be deceued, and we preuaile against him, and be reuenged on him. 11. But our Lord is with me as a strong warriar: therefore they that persecute me shal fal, and shal be weake: they shal be confounded exceedingly, because they haue not vnderstood the euerlasting reproch, which neuer shal be cleane put away. 12. Cursed be the man that told my father, saying: There is a man child borne to thee: and as it were with ioy he reioyced him. 16. Let that man be as the cities are, which our Lord hath subuerted, and it hath not repented him: let him heare crying in the morning, and howling at noone time. 17. Aske our Lord for vs, because Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon maketh battel against vs: if perhaps our Lord shal doe with vs according to al his meruelous works, and he may retire backe from vs. 3. And Ieremie said to them: Thus shal you say to Sedecias: 4. Thus saith our Lord the God of Israell: Behold I wil conuert the weapons of warre which are in your hands, and wherewith you fight against the King of Babylon, & the Chaldees, that besiege you round about the walles: & I wil gather them together in the middes of this citie. 5. And I wil vanquish you in stretched out hand, and in a strong arme, and in furie, and in indignation, and in great wrath. 6. And wil strike the inhabitants of this citie, men and bealts shal dye with a great pestilence. 7. And after this saith our Lord: I wil giue Sedecias the King of Iuda, and his seruants, & his people, & they that are leaft in his citie from the pestilence, and the sword, and famine, into the hand of Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon, and into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them that seek their life, and he wil strike them in the edge of the sword, and he wil not be moued, nor spare, nor haue mercie. 8. And to this people thou shalt say: Thus saith our Lord: Behold (b) I giue before you the way of life, and the way of death. 9. He that shal dwel within this citie, shal dye with the sword, and with famine, and pestilence: but he that shal goe forth, and flye to the Chaldees that besiege you, shal liue, and his life shal be to him as a spoile. 10. For I haue set my face vpon this citie to euil, & not to good, saith our Lord: it shal be giuen into the hand of the King of Babylon, & he shal burne it with fire. 11. And they shal answer: Because they haue forsaken the couenant of the Lord their God, and haue adored strange Gods, and serued them. 10. Weep not for the dead, neither mourne ye vpon him with weeping: Lament him that goeth forth, because he shal returne no more, nor see the land of his natiuitie. 11. Because thus saith our Lord to (e) Sellum the sonne of Iosias the King of Iuda, who (f) hath reigned for Iosias his father, who is gone forth out of this place. He shal returne hither no more: 12. but in the place, to which I haue transported him, there shal he die, and he shal not see this land anie more. 13. Woe to him that buildeth his house in iniustice, and his chambers not in iudgement: his freind he wil oppresse without cause, and his hyre he wil not render him. 14. Who saith: I wil build me a broad house, and large chambers; who openeth to himself windowes , and maketh embowed felings of cedar, and painteth them with ruddle. 15. Why, shalt thou reigne, because thou comparest thy self to the cedar? why, did not thy father eat and drinke, & doe iudgemēt & iustice then whē it was wel with him? 16. He iudged the cause of the poore & needie to his owne good, did he it not therefore because he knew me faith our Lord? 17. But thine eies and hart are to auarice, and to shede innocent bloud, and to craftie oppression, & to the course of euil worke. 18. Therefore thus saith our Lord to Ioakim the sonne of Iosias King of Iuda: They shal not mourne for him, Alas brother, & alas sister: they shal not crie together to him, Alas Lord, and alas ô noble one. 19. With the burial of an asse shal he be buried, rotted and cast forth without the gates of Ierusalem. 20. Goe vp to Libanus and crie: and in Basan giue thy voice, & crie to them that passe by, because al thy louers are destroyed. 21. I spake to thee in thine abundance: & thou saidst: I wil not heare: This is thy way from thy youth, because thou heardest not my voice. 22. The winde shal feed al thy Pastours, & thy louers shal goe into captiuitie: & then shalt thou be confounded, and ashamed of al thy malice. 23. Thou thatittest in Libanus, and makest thy neste in the cedars, how hast thou mourned together when sorowes came to thee, as the sorowes of a woman in trauel? 24. I liue, saith our Lord: that if (g) Iechonias the sonne of Ioakim the King of Iuda shal be a ring on my right hand, thence wil I pluck him off. 25. And I wil giue thee into the hand of them that seek thy life, and into the hand of them, whose face thou fearest, and into the hand of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, and into the hand of the Chaldees. 26. And I wil send thee, and thy mother that bare thee, into a strange countrie, in the which you were not borne, & there you shal dye. 27. and into the land, wherto they lift vp their minde to returne thither: they shal not returne. 28. Why, is this man Iechonias an earthen and broken vessel? is he a vessel without al pleasure? why are they cast away, he and his seed are cast forth into a land which they know not? 29. Earth, earth, earth, heare the word of our Lord. 30. Thus saith our Lord: Write this man barren, a man that in his daies shal not prosper: for neither shal there be a man of his seed, that shal sitte vpon the throne of Dauid, and haue power anie more in Iuda.

C H A P. XXIII.

God reproveeth the euil gouerners, promising to reduce the reliques of the people from dispersion; 4. to send good Pastours, and Christ the chiefe Pastour. 9. False Propheets are threated: 16. The people warned, not to heare them, preaching without mission, 27. against Gods wil, 33. and calling Gods word a burden.

VOE to the Pastours, that destroy and teare the flocke of my pasture, saith our Lord. 2. Therefore thus saith our Lord the God of Israel to the Pastours, that feed my people: You haue scattered my stocke, and cast them out, & haue not visited them: Behold I wil visite vpon you the malice of your studies, saith our Lord. 3. And I wil gather together the remnant of my flock out of all lands, into which I haue cast them out: and I wil make them returne to their fields, and they shal increase and be multiplied. 4. And I wil raise vp Pastours ouer them, and they shal feed them: they shal feare no more, and they shal not dread: and none shal be to seek of the number, saith our Lord. 5. Behold the daies come, saith our Lord: and I wil raise vp to Dauid (a) a iust branch: and he shal reigne a King, and shal be wise: and he shal doe iudgement and iustice in the earth. 6. In those daies shal Iuda be saued, and Israel shal dwel confidently: and this is the name that they shal cal him: The Lord our iust one. 7. For this cause behold the daies come, saith our Lord, and they shal say no more: Our Lord liueth, that brought forth the childrē of Israel out of the Land of Ægypt: 8. but: Our Lord liueth, that hath brought forth, and brought hither the seed of the house of Israel from the Land of the North, and out of all the lands, to which I had cast them out: and they shal dwel in their owne land. 9. To the Prophets: My hart is broken in the middes of me, all my bones haue trembled: I am become as a drunken man, and as a man wet with wine, at the presence of our Lord, and at the presence of his holie words. 10. Because the land is replenished with aduouterers, because the land hath mourned by reason of malediction, the fields of the desert are withered: and their course is become euil, and their strength vnlike. 11. For the Prophet and the Priest are polluted: are in my house I haue found their euil, saith our Lord. 12. Therefore their way shal be as slipper ground in the darke: for they shal be driuen forth, and fall therein: for I wil bring euils vpon them, the yeare of their visitation, saith our Lord. 13. And in the Prophets of Samaria I haue seen foolishnes: They Prophecied in Baal, and deceiued my people Israel. 14. And in the Prophets of Ierusalem I saw the similitude of aduiteres, and the way of lying: and they strengthened the hands of the most wicked, that no man would returne from his malice: they are al become vnto me as Sodoma, and the inhabitants thereof as Gomorra. 15. Therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes to the Prophets: Behold I wil feed them with worne-wood, and wil giue them gual to drinke, for from the Prophets of Ierusalem is pollution gone forth vpon al the land. 16. Thus saith the Lord of hostes: Heare not the words of the Prophets, that prophecie vnto you, and deceiue you: they speak the vision (b) of their owne hart, not from the mouth of the Lord. 17. They say to them that blaspheme me: Our Lord hath spoken: Peace shal be to you, and to euerie one that walketh in the peruersitie of his owne hart, they haue said: There shal no euil come vpon you. 18. For who hath been present in the counsel of our Lord, and hath seen and heard his word? Who hath considered his word, & heard it? 19. Behold the whirlewind of the Lords indignation shal come forth, and a tempest breaking out: it shal come vpon the head of the impious. 20. The furie of the Lord shal not returne til he doe it, and vntil he accomplish the cogitation of his hart: in the later daies you shal vnderstand his counsel. 21. I (c) sent not the Prophets, and they ranne: I spake not to them, and they Prophecied. 22. If they had stood in my counsel, and made my wordes knowen to my people, I had verily turned them from their euil way, and from their most wicked cogitations. 23. Am I God neer hand thinkest thou, saith our Lord? and not God farre off? 24. Shal a man be hid in secrets: and shal not I see him, saith our Lord? Why, doe not I fil heauen and earth, saith our Lord? 25. I haue heard what the Prophets haue said, prophecying in my name lies, and saying: I haue dreamed, I haue dreamed. 26. How long is this in the hart of the Prophets prophecying lies, and prophecying the seductions of their owne hart? 27. Who wil make my people to forget my name through their dreames, which euerie one telleth to his neighbour: as their fathers forget my name for Baal. 28. The prophet that hath a dreame, let him tel the dreame: & he that hath my word, let him speake my word truly: what hath the chaffe to doe with the wheate, saith our Lord? 29. Why, are not my words as fire, saith our Lord: and as a hâmer breaking a rocke? 30. Therefore behold I to the Prophets, saith our Lord: which steale my words euerie one from his neighbour. 31. Behold I to the Prophets, saith our Lord: which take their tongues, & say: Our Lord saith it. 32. Behold, I to the Prophets dreaming lies, saith our Lord: which haue told those things, & haue seduced my people in their lying, & in their (a) miracles: when I had not sent thē, nor cōmâded them, who haue not profited this people, saith our Lord. 33. If therefore this people, or the Prophet, or the Priest shal aske thee, saying: What is the burdē of our Lord? thou shalt say to thē: We are the burden. for I wil cast you forth, saith our Lord. 34. And the Prophet, and the Priest, and the people that saith: The burden of our Lord wil I visite vpon

And the burden of our Lord shall no more be mentioned: because euerie mans burden shall be his owne word: & you haue peruerred the words of the liuing God, the Lord of hosts our God. 37. Thus shalt thou say to the Prophet: What hath our Lord answered thee? and what hath our Lord spoken? 38. But if thou shalt say the burden of our Lord: for this, thus saith our Lord: Because you haue said this word: The burden of our Lord: and I haue sent to you, saying: Say not: The burden of our Lord: 39. Therefore behold I wil take you away carying you, and wil forsake you, and the citie which I haue giuen to you, and to your fathers, from before my face. 40. And I wil giue you into euerlasting reproch, and into eternal ignominie, which shall neuer be put away by obliuion.

CHAP. XXIIII.

By a parable of good and euil figges, is signified 5. the reduction of the penitent from captiuitie: 8. and the vexation of those, that stayed in Ierusalem, or fled into Egypt.

4) Literally he prophecieth that King Ieconias, and others carried in the first transmigration into Babylon should be released; & King Sedecias with his children & followers should perish: but mystically he prophecieth that the good shall prosper & be highly rewarded, & the wicked shall be miserable and most severely punished.

VR Lord shewed me: & behold two baskets full of figges, set before the temple of our Lord: after that Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon transported Iechonias the sonne of Ioakim the King of Iuda, and his Princes, and the craftsman, & inclofer of Ierusalem, and had brought them into Babylon. 2. One basket had very good figges: as the figges of the prime time are wont to be: and one basket had very-naughtie figges, which could not be eaten, because they were naught. 3. And our Lord said to me: What seest thou Ieremie? And I said: Figges: the good figges, (4) exceeding good, and the naughtie figges, exceeding naught: which can not be eaten because they are naught. 4. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 5. Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: As are these good figges: so wil I know the transmigration of Iuda, which I haue sent forth out of this place into the land of Chaldees, vnto good. 6. And I wil set mine eyes vpon them to be pacified, and I wil bring them againe into this land: and I wil build them, and not destroy: and I wil plant them and not pluck them vp. 7. And I wil giue them an hart to know me, that I am the Lord: and they shall be my people, & I wil be their God: because they shall returne to me in all their hart. 8. And as are the very-naughtie figges, that can not be eaten, because they are naught: thus saith our

Lord.

Lord, so wil I giue Sedecias the King of Iuda: and his Princes, and the rest of Ierusalem, that haue remained in this citie, and that dwel in the Land of Ægypt. 9. And I wil giue them into vexation, and affliction, to al the Kingdoms of the earth: into reproch, and to be a parable, and into a prouerbe, and into malediction in al places, to which I haue cast them out. 10. And I wil send among them the sword, famine, and pestilence: til they be consumed out of the land, which I gaue them, and their fathers.

C H A P. XXV.

After the peoples contemning to heare Ieremie, and other Prophets, preaching three and twentie yeares, 8 he denounceth their assured captiuitie seuentie yeares in Babylon: 12. and then the ruine of their enemies. 13. At which wrath of God, Ieremie foresheweth to the Iewes, 19. and Gentils. 29. Which shal first happen to Gods proper people: 36. and so extend to al nations: 34. the principal gouerners bewayling their common miserie.

TH E word that was made to Ieremie concerning al the people of Iuda in (a) the fourth yeare of Ioakim the sonne of Iosias King of Iuda (the same is the first yeare of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon.) 2. Which Ieremie the Prophet spake to al the people of Iuda, and to al the inhabitants of Ierusalem, saying: 3. From the thirteenth yeare of Iosias, the sonne of Amon King of Iuda vntil this day; this is the three and twentieth yeare, the word of our Lord was made to me, and I haue spoken to you rising in the night and speaking, and you haue not heard. 4. And our Lord hath sent al his seruants the Prophets, rising early, and sending, and you haue not heard, nor inclined your eares to heare 5. when he said: Returne ye euerie one from his euil way, and from your most wicked cogitations: and you thal dwel in the land, which our Lord hath giuen you, and your fathers from euerlasting and for euermore. 6. And goe ye not after strange Gods to serue them, and adore them: nor prouoke me to wrath in the works of your hands, and I wil not afflict you. 7. And you haue not heard me, saith our Lord, so that you prouoked me to anger in the works of your hands, to your euil. 8. Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts: For that you haue not heard my words: 9. behold I wil send, & take al the ki:ngs of the North, saith our Lord, & Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon (b) my seruant: & I wil bring them vpon this land, & vpon the inhabitants thereof, & vpon al the nations that are round about it: and I wil kil them, & make them into astonishment & hissing, and into euerlasting desolations. 10. And I wil destroy out of them the voice of ioy, and the voice of gladnes, the voice of the

And al this land shal be in desolation, and into astonishment: and al these nations shal serue the King of Babylon (c) seuentie yeares. 12. And when the seuentie yeares shal be expired, I will visite vpon the King of Babylon, & vpon that nation, saith our Lord, their iniquitie, and vpon the land of Chaldees: and I will make it into euerlasting desolations. 13. And I will bring vpon that land al my words that I haue spoken against it, al that is written in this Book, whatsoever Ieremie hath prophecied against al nations: 14. because they haue serued them, whereas they were manie nations, and great Kings: and I will repay them according to their works, and according to the deeds of their hands. 15. Because thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Take (d) the cup of wine of this furie at my hand: & thou shalt drinke thereof to al nations, vnto the which I shal send thee. 16. And they shal drinke, & be troubled, and be madde at the face of the sword, which I shal send among them. 17. And I tooke the cup at the hand of our Lord, and I dranke to al the nations, to which our Lord sent me: 18. to Ierusalem, and the cities of Iuda, and to the Kings thereof, and Princes thereof: that I would giue them into desolation, and into astonishment, and into hissing, and into malediction, as is this day. 19. And thou shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Drink ye, and be drunken, and vomite: and fal, and rise not, at the face of the sword, which I shal send among you. 28. And when they shal not take the cup of thy hand to drinke, thou shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord of hosts: Drinking you shal drinke: 29. because loe in the citie, wherein my name is inuocated, wil I beginne to afflict, and shal you be as innocent and scape free? you shal not scape free: for I cal the sword vpon al the inhabitants of the earth, saith the Lord of hosts. 30. Thus saith our Lord: Stand in the court of the house of our Lord, and thou shalt speake to al the * cities of Iuda, out of the which they come, to adore in the house of our Lord, at the words which I haue commanded thee to speake vnto them: withdraw not a word, 3. Silo, and this citie I wil giue into malediction to al the nations of the earth 7. And the Priests, and Prophets, and al the people heard Ieremie speaking these words in the house of our Lord. 8. And when Ieremie had ended speaking al things that our Lord had commanded him, to speake vnto al the people: the Priests, and Prophets, and (b) al the people apprehended him, saying: Let him dye the death. 9. Why hath he prophecied in the name of our Lord, saying: This house shal be as Silo: and this citie shal be made desolate, for that there is no inhabitant? And al the people was gathered together against Ieremie in the house of our Lord. 10. And the Princes of Iuda heard these words: & they went vp from the Kings house into the house of our Lord, & sate in the entrie of the new gate of the house of our Lord. 11. And the Priests and the Prophets spake to the Princes, and to al the people, saying: The iudgement of death is to this man: because he hath prophecied against this citie, as you haue heard with your eares. 12. And Ieremie spake to al the Princes, & to al the people, saying: Our Lord sent me, that I should prophecie to this house, and to this citie al the words that you haue heard. 13. Now therefore make your waies good, and your studies, and heare the voice of our Lord your God: and our Lord wil repeat him of the euil, that he hath spoken agaynst you. 14. But I loe am in your hands: doe vnto me that which is good, and right in you eyes: 15. Howbeit know ye and vnderstand, that if you kil me, you shal betray innocent bloud against your selues, and against this citie, & the inhabitants thereof. For in truth our Lord sent me to you, that I should speake al these words in your eares. 16. And the Princes, and (c) al the people said to the Priests, and to the Prophets: There is no iudgement of death to this man: because he hath spoken to vs in the name of the Lord our God. 17. Men therefore of the anciets of the land rose vp, & they spake to al the assemblie of the people, saying: 18. Michæas the Morasthi was a Prophet in the daies of Ezechias the King of Iuda, and he spake to al the people Iuda, saying: Thus saith the Lord of hostes: Sion shal be plowed as a field, and Ierusalem shal be as an heape of stones: and the mount of the house as the high places of woods. 19. Did Ezechias the King of Iuda, and al Iuda, condemne him to death: Did they not feare our Lord, and beseech the face of our Lord: and it repeated our Lord of the euil, that he had spoken against them? Therefore we doe great euil against our selues. 20. There was also a man prophecyng in the name of our Lord, Vrias the sonne of Semei of Cariathiarim: and he prophecied against this citie, & against this land, according to al the words of Ieremie. 21. And King Ioakim, and al his mighties, and his Princes heard these words: & the King sought to kil him. And Vrias heard, and was afraid, & fled & went into Ægypt. 22. And King Ioakim sent men into Ægypt, Elnathan the sonne of Achobor, and men with him into Ægypt. 23. And they brought Vrias out of Ægypt: and brought him to King Ioakim, & he struck him with the sword: and he cast forth his

IN the beginning of the Kingdom of Ioakim, the sonne of Iosias King of Iuda, was this word made to Ieremie from our Lord, saying: 2. Thus saith our Lord to me: Make thee (a) bands, and chaynes: and thou shalt put them on thy necke. 3. And thou shalt send them to the King of Edom, and to the King of Moab, and to the King of the children of Ammon, and to the King of Tyre, and to the King of Sidon: by the hand of the messengers, that are come to Ierusalem to Sedecias the King of Iuda. 4. And thou shalt commaund them that they speake to their Lords: Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Thus shal you say to your Lords: 5. I made the earth, and men, and the beasts, that are vpon the face of the earth, in my great strength, and in my stretched out arme: and I haue giuen it to him, that pleased in mine eyes. 6. And now therefore I haue giuen al these lands into the hand of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon (b) my seruant: moreouer also the beasts of the field I haue giuen him, to serue him. 7. And al nations shal serue him, and his sonne, and his sonnes sonne: til the time come of his Land and of himself: and manie nations and great Kings shal serue him. 8. But the nation and Kingdome that shal not serue Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, and whosoever shal not bow his necke vnder the yoke of the King of Babylon: I wil visite vpon that nation with sword, and with famine, and with pestilence, saith our Lord: til I consume them in his hand. 9. You therefore heare not your Prophets, and deuiners, and dreamers, and southsayers, and forcerers, that say to you. You shal not serue the King of Babylon. 10. Because they propheticie lies vnto you: that they may make you far frō your countrie, & cast you out, and you perish. 11. But the nation, that shal submit their necke vnder the yoke of the King of Babylon, and shal serue him, the same wil I let alone in their owne land, saith our Lord: and they shal husband it, and dwel in it. 12. And to Sedecias the King of Iuda I haue spoken according to al these words, saying: Submit your necks vnder the yoke of the King of Babylon, and serue him, and his people, and you shal liue. 13. Why wil you dye, thou and thy people with the sword, and famine, & the pestilence, as the Lord hath spoken to the nation, that wil not serue the King of Babylon? 14. Heare not the words of the Prophets that say to you: You shal not serue the King of Babylon: because they speake a lie to you. 15. Because I sent them not, saith our Lord: & they prophecie in my name falsely: that they may cast you out, & you perish, as wel you, as the Prophets that prophecie vnto you. 16. And to the Priests, and to this people I haue spoken, saying: Thus saith our Lord. Heare not the words of your Prophets, that prophecie to you, saying: Behold the vessels of our Lord shal returne out of Babylon euen now quickly, for they prophecie a lie vnto you. 17. Therefore heare them not, but serue the King of Babylon, that you may liue. Why is this citie giuen into desolation? 18. And (c) if they be Prophets, and the word of our Lord be in them: let them interpose themselues before the Lord of hosts, that the vessels which were left in the house of our Lord, & in the house of the King of Iuda, and in Ierusalem, come not into Babylon. 19. Because thus saith the Lord of hosts to the pillars, and to the sea, and to the feet, and to the rest of the vessels, that are remaying in this citie. 20. Which Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon, tooke not when he transported Ieconias the sonne of Ioakim, the King of Iuda, from Ierusalem into Babylon, and al the great men of Iuda and Ierusalem. 21. Because thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel to the vessels, that are left in the house of our Lord, and in the house of the King of Iuda and Ierusalem: 22. They shal be transported into Babylon, and there they shal be vntil the day of their visitation, saith our Lord: and I wil cause them to be brought, and to be restored in this place.

C H A P. XXVIII.

Hananiah a false Prophet auoucheth that within two yeares the holie vessels and King Ieconias with other captiues shal be restored. 5. Ieremie prayeth that it may be so: 7. but prophecieth that it wil not so be. 10. The false Prophet in confirmation of that he saith, breaketh Ieremies chaine. 12. But Ieremie againe prophecieth the contrarie, 16. and that Hananiah shal dye the same yeare.

(a) Sedecias reigning eleue years, the fourth yeare of his reigne

AND it came to passe in that yeare, in the beginning of the Kingdom of Sedecias King of Iuda, in the (a) fourth yeare, in the fifth month, Hananiah the sonne of Azur the Prophet of Gabaon spake to me, in the house of our Lord before the Priests, and al the people, saying: 2. Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, I haue broken the yoke of the King of Babylon. 3. As yet two yeares of dayes, and I wil make al the vessels of the house of our Lord to be brought back into this place, which Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon tooke out of this place, and transported them into Babylon. 4. And Iechomias the sonne of Ioakim the King of Iuda, and al the transmigration of Iuda, that are entred into Babylon, I wil make to returne to this place, saith our Lord: for I wil breake the yoke of the King of Babylon. 5. And Ieremie the Prophet said to Hananias the Prophet in the presence of the Priests, and in the preséce of al the people, that stood in the house of our Lord: 6. And Ieremie the Prophet said: (b) Amen, Our Lord so doe: our Lord raise vp thy words, which thou hast prophecied: that the vessels may be brought againe into the house of our Lord, and al the transmigration out of Babylon to this place. 7. But yet heare this word, that I speake in thine eares, and in the eares of al the people: 8. The Prophets, that haue been before me, and before thee from the beginning, and haue prophecied concerning manie countries, and concerning great Kingdomes of warre, and of affliction, and of famine. 9. The Prophet, that hath prophecied peace: when his word shal come to passe, the Prophet shal be knowen, whom our Lord hath sent in truth. 10. And Hananias the Prophet took the chaine from the necke of Ieremie the Prophet and brake it. 11. And Hananias spake in the sight of al the people, saying: Thus saith our Lord: So wil I break the yoke of Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon after two yeares of dayes, from the neck of al nations. 12. And Ieremie the Prophet went his way. And the word of our Lord was made to Ieremie, after that Hananias the Prophet brake the chayne from the neck of Ieremie the Prophet, saying: 13. Goe, and thou shalt tel Hananias: Thus saith our Lord: Thou hast broken chaynes of wood, and thou shalt make for them chaynes of yron. 14. Because thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: An yron yoke haue I put vpon the necke of al these Nations, to serue Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon, and they shal serue him: moreouer also the beasts of the earth I haue giuen him. 15. And Ieremie the Prophet said to Hananias the Prophet: Heare Hananias: Our Lord sent thee not, and thou hast made this people to trust in a lie. 16. Therefore thus saith our Lord: Behold I wil send thee from off the face of the earth: this yeare shalt thou dye: for thou hast spoken against our Lord. 17. AND these are the words of (a) the booke, which Ieremie the Prophet sent from Ierusalem to the remnant of the Ancients of the transmigration, and to the Priests, and to the Prophets, and to all the people, which Nabuchodonosor had transported from Ierusalem into Babylon: 2. after that Iechonias the King was gone forth, and the Queen, and the Eunuchs, and the Princes of Iuda, and of Ierusalem, and the craftsman, and the iacloser out of Ierusalem: 3. by the hand of Elasa the sonne of Saphan, and Gamarias the sonne of Helcias, whom Sedecias the King of Iuda sent to Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon into Babylon, saying: 4. Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel to all the transmigration, which I haue transported from Ierusalem into Babylon: 5. Build ye houses, and inhabite them: and plant orchards, and eate the fruit of them. 6. Take wiues, and beget sonnes and daughters: & giue wiues to your sonnes, & giue your daughters to husbands, and let them beare sonnes and daughters: and be ye multiplied there, and be not few in number. 7. And seek the peace of the citie, to which I haue transported you: and pray for it to our Lord: because in the peace thereof there shal be peace to you. 8. For thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Let not your Prophets, that are in the middes of you, and your diuiners seduce you: and attend not to your dreames, which you dreame: 9. because they doe falsely prophecie to you in my name: and I sent them not, saith our Lord. 10. Because thus saith our Lord: When the seuentie yeares shal beginne to be expired in Babylon, I wil visite you: and I wil raise vpon you my good word, to bring you againe to this place. 11. For I know the cogitations, that I intend vpon you, saith our Lord, cogitations of peace, and not of affliction, to giue you an end and patience. 12. And you shal inuocate me, and goe: and you shal pray me, and I wil heare you. 13. You shal seek me, and I wil find: when you shal seek me with all your hart. 14. And I wil be found of you, saith our Lord: and I wil bring backe your captiuitie, & I wil gather you out of al nations, & from al places to the which I haue expelled you, saith our Lord: and I wil make you to returne from the place, to the which I haue transported you. 15. our Lord to the King, that sitteth vpon the throne of Dauid, and to al the people the inhabiter of this citie, to your brethren, that are not gone forth with you into the transmigration. 17. Thus saith the Lord of hosts: Behold I wil send vpon them the sword, and famine, and the pestilence: and I wil make them as naughtie figges, that can not be eaten, because they are very naught. 18. And I wil persecute them with the sword, and with famine, and with pestilence: and I wil giue them into vexation to al the Kingdomes of the earth: into (c) malediction, and into astonishment, and into hissing, and into reproch to al the Nations, to which I haue cast them out: 19. because they haue not heard my words, saith our Lord: which I sent to them by my seruants the Prophets in the night rising, and sending: and you heard not, saith our Lord. 20. You therefore heare the word of our Lord al ye the transmigration, which I haue sent out from Ierusalem in Babylon. 21. Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel to Achab the sonne of Colias, and to Sedecias the sonne of Maasias, which prophetic vnto you in my name falsely: Behold I wil deliuer them into the hands of Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon: & he mal strike them in your cies. 22. And of them a malediction shal be taken vp by al the transmigration of Iuda, that is in Babylon, saying: Our Lord make thee as Sedecias, & as Achab, whom the King of Babylon tryed in the fire: 23. for that they haue done follie in Israel, and committed aduiterie with their arcinds-wiues, and haue spoken the word in my name falsely, which I commanded them not: I am the iudge and the witnes, saith our Lord. 24. And to Semeias the Nehelamite thou shalt say: 25. Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: For that thou hast sent in thy name books to al the people, that is in Ierusalem, and to Sophonias the sonne of Maasias, the Priett, & to al the Prietts, saying: 26. Our Lord hath made thee Priett for Ioiada the Priett, that thou shouldest be ruler in the house of our Lord, vpon euerie man rauing and prophcing, to put him into the stocks, and into prison. 27. And now why hast thou not rebuked Ieremie the Alarothite, which prophcieth vnto you? 28. Because vpon this he hath sent into Babylon to vs, saying: It is long: build ye houses, and inhabite them: and plant gardens, and eate the fruits of them. 29. Sophonias therefore the Priett read this Book in the eares of Ieremie the Prophe. 30. And the word of our Lord was made to Ieremie, saying: 31. Send to al the transmigration, saying: Thus saith the Lord to Semeias the Nehelamite: Because Semeias hath prophcied to you, and I sent him not: and hath made you to trust in a lie: 32. Therefore thus saith our Lord: Behold I wil visite vpon Semeias the Nehelamite, and vpon his secede: there shal not be vnto him a man sitting in the middes of this people, & he mal not see the good, that I wil doe to my people, saith our Lord: because he hath spoken preuacacation againt our Lord.

For behold the daies come, saith our Lord: and I wil conuert the conuersion of my people (a) Israel and Iuda, saith our Lord: and I wil make them returne to the land, which I gaue their fathers, & they shal possesse it. 4. And these are the words, that our Lord hath spoken to Israel and to Iuda: 5. Because thus saith our Lord: We haue heard a voice of terrour: there is feare and no peace. 6. Demand, and see if a man beare child? wherefore then haue I seen euerie mans hand vpon his loyne, as a woman that is in trauel, and al faces are turned into the jaundice? 7. Alas, because that is a great day, neither is there the like to it: and it is the time of tribulation to Iacob, & he shal be sau'd out of it. 8. And it shal be in that day, saith the Lord of hosts: I wil breake his yoke from off thy neck, and wil breake his bands: & strangers shal no more rule ouer him: 9. but they shal serue our Lord their God, & Dauid their King, whom I wil raise vp to them. 10. Thou therefore my seruant Iacob feare not, saith our Lord, neither be thou afrayd Israel: because loe I wil saue thee out of a farre countrie, and thy feede out of the land of their captiuitie: & Iacob shal returne, and be at rest, & flow with al good things, & there shal be none whom he may feare: 11. because I am with thee, saith our Lord, to saue thee: for I wil make (b) a consummation in al the Nations, in which I haue dispersed thee: but thee I wil not make into consummation: but I wil chastice thee in iudgemēt, that thou maist not seeme to thy self innocent. 12. Because thus saith our Lord: Thy wound is vncurable, thy stripe is very sore. 13. There is none to iudge thy iudgement to binde it vp: there is no profite of medicines for thee. 14. Al thy louers haue forgotten thee, & wil not seeke thee: for with the stroke of an enemy I haue stricken thee with cruel chastisement: for the multitude of thine iniquitie, thy finnes are hardned. 15. What criest thou vpon thine affliction? thy sorrow is vncurable: for the multitude of thine iniquitie, & for thine hardned finnes I haue done these things to thee. 16. Thus saith our Lord: Let thy voice cease from weeping, and thine eies from teares: because there is a reward for thy worke, saith our Lord: and they shal returne out of the land of theemie. 17. And there is hope to thy last ends, saith our Lord: & the children shal returne to their borders. 18. Certes Ephraim is an honourable sonne to me, certes a delicate child: because since I spake of him, as yet wil I remember him. Therefore are my bowels troubled vpon him: pitying I wil pitie him, saith our Lord. 21. Sette thee a watch tower, make vnto thee bitternes: direct thy hart into the right way wherein thou hast walked: returne, o virgin Israel, returne to these thy cities. 22. How long wilt thou be dissolute in deliciousnes, o wandring daughter? because our Lord hath created a new thing vpon the earth: A WOMAN SHAL COMPASSE (f) A MAN. 23. Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: As yet shal they say this word in the land of Iuda, & in the cities thereof, whẽ I shal conuert their captiuitie: Our Lord blesse thee the beauty of iustice, the holie mountaine.

Behold the daies come, saith our Lord: and I wil sow the house of Israel & the house of Iuda with the (g) seed of men, & with the seed (h) of beasts. 28. And as I haue watched vpon them, to plucke vp, and deface, and dissipate, & destroy, and afflict: so wil I watch ouer them, to build, and to plant them, saith our Lord. 29. In those daies they shal say no more: The fathers did eate the bitter grape, and the teeth of the children are set on edge. 30. But euerie one shal dye in his owne iniquitie: euerie man that shal eate the sowre grape, his teeth shal be on edge. 31. Behold the daies shal come, saith our Lord: and I wil make a new couenant with the house of Israel and the house of Iuda: 32. not according to the couenant, which I made with their fathers in the day that I tooke their hand, to bring them out of the Land of Ægypt: the couenant which they made voide, and I had the dominion of them, saith our Lord. 33. But this shal be the couenant, that I wil make with the house of Israel: after those daies saith our Lord: I wil giue my law in their bowels, and in their hart I wil write it: and I wil be their God, and they shal be my people. 34. And a man shal no more teach his neighbour, and a man his brother, saying: Know our Lord: for al shal know me from the least of them euen to the greatest, saith our Lord: because I wil be propitious to their iniquitie, and their sinne I wil remember no more. 35. Thus saith our Lord, that giueth the sunne for the light of the day, the order of the moone and of the starres, for the light of the night: that troubleth the sea, and the waues thereof doe sound, the Lord of hosts is his name. 36. If these lawes shal faile before me, saith our Lord: thee also (i) the seed of Israel shal faile, that it be not a nation before me for euer. 37. Thus saith our Lord: If the heauens aboue shal be able to be measured, and the foundations of the earth beneath to be searched out: I also wil cast away al the seed of Israel, for al things that they haue done, saith our Lord. 38. Behold the daies come, saith our Lord: and the citie shal be built to our Lord from the tower of Hananeel euen to the gate of the corner. 39. And the rule of the measure shal goe out farder in his sight vpon the little hill Gareb: and it shal compassse Goatha, 40. and al the valley of carcasses, and of ashes, and al the countrie of death, euen to the torrent of Cedron, and to the corner of the East gate of horses. (b) Sedecias was brought to the King of Babylon in Reblatha, where they put out his eyes, & thence carried him blind to Babylon. 4. Reg. 24. & so coming to that citie he could not see it. Exod. 12. p. 43.

HE word that was made to Ieremie from our Lord (a) in the tenth yeare of Sedecias the King of Iuda: the same is the eighteenth yeare of Nabuchodanosor. 2. Then the armie of the King of Babylon besieged Ierusalem: and Ieremie the Prophet was shut vp in the court of the prison, that was in the house of the King of Iuda. 3. For Sedecias the King of Iuda had shut him vp, saying: Why dost thou prophecie, saying: Thus saith our Lord: Behold I wil giue this citie into the hand of the King of Babylon, and he shal take it? 4. And Sedecias the King of Iuda shal not escape out of the hand of the Chaldees: but he shal be deliuered into the hands of the King of Babylon: and he shal speake with him mouth to mouth, and (b) his eyes shal see his eyes. 5. And he shal leade Sedecias into Babylon: & he shal be there til I visite him, saith our Lord. But if you wil fight against the Chaldees you shal haue nothing prosperous. 6. And Ieremie said: The word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 7. Behold, Hanameel the sonne of Selum thy cosin shal come to thee, saying: Bye vnto thee my field, which is in Anathoth: for it apperteyneth to thee by kinned to bye it. 8. And Hanameel myne vncles sonne came vnto me according to the word of our Lord to the entrie of the prison, and said to me: Possesse my field, which is in Anathoth in the land of Benjamin: because the inheritance pertaineth to thee, and thou art neer of kine to possesse it. And I vnderstood that it was the word of our Lord. 9. And I bought the field of Hanameel myne vncles sonne, which is in Anathoth: and I weyed him the siluer, seuen staters, and ten picces of siluer. 10. And I wrote it in a booke, and signed it, and tooke witnesses, and I weighed the siluer in balace. 11. And I tooke the booke of the possession signed, and the stipulations, and the things ratified, and the signes on the out side. 12. And I gaue the booke of the possession to Baruch the sonne of Neri the sonne of Maasias in the sight of Hanameel my cosin, and in the sight of the witnesses, that were written in the booke of the purchase, and in the sight of al the Iewes, that sate in the court of the prison. 13. And I commanded Baruch before them saying: 14. Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Take these books, this booke of the purchase signed, and this booke, that is open:

and put them in an earthen vessel, they may continue manie daies. 15. For thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Yet shal houses, and fields, and vineyards be possessed in this land. 16. And I prayed to our Lord, after that I deliuered the Book of the possession [to Buruch the sonne of Neri, saying: 17. Alas, alas, alas, ô Lord God: behold thou hast made heauen and earth in thy great strength, & in thy stretched out arme: no word shal be hard to thee: 18. Which doest mercie on thousands, and rendrest the iniquitie of the fathers into the bosome of their children after them. ô Most strong, great, & mightie, the Lord of hosts is thy name. 19. Great in counsel, and incomprehensible in cogitation: whose eies are open vpon al the waies of the childrē of Adam, to render vnto cuerie one according to his waies, and according to the fruit of his inuentions. 20. Which hast put signes & wonders in the land of Ægypt euen vntil this day, & in Israel, & in men, and hast made thee a name as is this day. 21. And thou didest bring forth thy people Israel out of the Land of Ægypt, in signes, & in wonders, & in a strong hand, and in a stretched out arme, and in great terrour. 22. And thou gauest them this land, which thou swarest to their fathers, that thou wouldst giue them a land flowing with milke and honie. 23. And they entred in, & possessed it: & they obeyed not thy voice, & in thy law they walked not: al that thou didst command them to doe, they did not: and al these euils are befallen them. 24. Behold munitions are built against the citie, that it may be taken: & the citie is giuen into the hands of the Chaldees, which fight against it, at (c) the presence of the sword, and of famine, and of pestilence: & what things soeuer thou hast spoken, are come to passe, as thy self seest. 25. And sayst thou to me ô Lord God: Bye the field for siluer, & take witnesses, whereas the citie is giuen into the hands of the Chaldees? 26. And the word of our Lord was made to Ieremie, saying: 27. Behold I am the Lord the God of al flesh: shal anie word be hard for me? 28. Therefore thus saith our Lord: Behold I wil deliuer this citie into the hands of the Chaldees, and into the hands of the King of Babylon, and they shal take it. 29. And the Chaldees shal come fighting against this citie, and shal set in on fire, and burne it, and the houses, in whose tops they did sacrifice to Baal, and offered libaments to strange Gods, to prouoke me vnto wrath. 30. For the children of Israel, and the children of Iuda were continually doing euil in myne eies (d) from their youth: the children of Israel which euen vntil this present exasperate me in the worke of their hands, saith our Lord. 31. Because in furie and in myne indignation this citie is made to me, from the day that they builded it, vntil this day, wherein it shal be taken out of my sight. 32. For the malice of the children of Israel, and of the children of Iuda, which they haue done prouoking me to wrath, they & their Kings, their Princes, & their Priests, and their Prophets, the men of Iuda, and the inhabitants of Ierusalem. 33. And they haue turned the backs to me, and not the faces: when I taught them early, & instructed them, & they would not heare that they might take discipline. 34. And they haue set their idois in the house, wherein my name is inuocated, that they might pollute it. 35. And they haue built the excelses of Baal, which are in the valley of the sonne of Ennom, that they might consecrate their sonnes and their daughters to Moloch: which I commanded them not, neither hath it ascended into my hart, that they should doe this abomination, & bring Iuda into sinne. 36. And now for these things, thus saith our Lord the God of Israel to this citie, whereof you say that it is deliuered into the hands of the King of Babylon in sword, and in famine, and in pestilence. 37. Behold (e) I wil gather them together out of all lands, to which I haue cast them out in my furie, and in my wrath, and in my great indignation: and I wil bring them againe into this place, and wil make them dwell confidently. 38. And they shall be my people, and I wil be their God. 39. And I wil giue them one hart, and one way, that they may feare me al daies: and it may be wel with them, and with their children after them. 40. And I wil make an euerlasting couenant with them: and wil not cease to doe them good: and I wil giue my feare in their hart, that they reuolt not from me. 41. And I wil reioyce vpon them, when I shall doe them good: and I wil plant them in this land in truth in my whole hart and in al my soule. 42. Because thus saith our Lord: As I haue brought vpon this people al this great euil: so wil I bring vpon them al the good, that I speake to them. 43. And the fields shall be possessed in this land: whereof you say that it is desolate, because there is remayning no man nor beast, and it is giuen into the hands of the Chaldees. 44. The fields shall be bought for money, and shall be written in a Book, and the signe shall be stamped on, and a witness shall be taken, in the land of Benjamin, and round about Ierusalem, in the cities of Iuda, and in the cities on the mountaines, and in the champaigne cities, and in the cities that are toward the South: because I wil conuert their captiuitie, saith our Lord.

And much lesse shal Christs Church euer faile after his coming. Besides many other reuelations, this Prophet had two visions in prison, in confirmation that God would conuerse his people and Church for euer: one in shewing their manifold great sinnes & great affliction and destruction of the same: or the same.

AND the word of our Lord was made to Ieremie (a) the second time, when as yet he was shut vp in the court of the prison, saying: 2. Thus saith our Lord that wil doe, & wil forme it, & prepare it, the Lord is his name. 3. Crie vnto me, and I wil heare thee: and I wil tel thee great things, and firme things which thou knowest not. 4. Because thus saith our Lord the God of Israel to the houses of this citie, and to the houses of the King of Iuda, which are destroyed, & to the munitions, to the sword, of them that come to fight with the Chaldees, and to fill them with the carcasses of the men, whom I haue stricken in my furie, and in myne indignation, hiding my face from this citie, because of al their malice. 6. Behold I wil bring to them a scarre and health, & wil cure them: & I wil reueale vnto them the prayer of peace & truth. 7. And I wil conuert the conuersion of Iuda, & the conuersion of Ierusalem: and wil build them as from the beginning. 8. And I wil cleanse them from al their iniquitie, wherein they haue sinned to me: & I wil be propitious to al their iniquities, wherein they haue sinned to me, & despised me. 9. And it shal be to me a name, & a ioy, & a praise, & an exultation to al the nations of the earth, that shal heare al the good things, which I wil doe to them: and they shal feare, & be troubled in al the good things, & in al the peace, that I wil make to them. 10. Thus saith our Lord: Yet there shal be heard in this place (which you say is desolate, because there is neither man nor beast: in the cities of Iuda, & without Ierusalem, which are desolate without man, & without inhabiter, and without beast) 11. the voice of ioy and the voice of gladnes, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the voice of them that say: Confesse ye to the Lord of hosts, because our Lord is good, because his mercie is for euer: and of them that carie vowes into the house of our Lord. For I wil bring backe the conuersion of the land as from the beginning, saith our Lord. 12. Thus saith the Lord of hosts: Yet there shal be in this desolate place without man, and without beast, and in al the cities thereof, an habitation of Pastours of the resting flocks. 13. In the cities on the mountaines, and in the champaigne cities, and in the cities that are toward the South: and in the land of Benjamin, and round about Ierusalem, and in the cities of Iuda there shal yet passe flocks, at the hand of him that numbred them, saith our Lord. 14. Behold the daies shal come, saith our Lord, & (.) I wil raise vp the good word, that I haue spoken to the house of Israel, and to the house of Iuda. 15. In those daies, and in that time, I wil make (c) the spring of iustice to bud forth vnto Dauid: and ne shal doe iudgement and iustice in the earth. 16. In those daies shal Iuda be sowed, and Ierusalem shal dwell confidently: & this is the name, that they shal cal him, The Lord our iust one. 17. Because thus saith our Lord: (a) There shal not faile of Dauid a man, to sit vpon the throne of the house of Israel. 18. And of the Priests and Leuites there shal not faile from before my face a man, to offer (e) holocausts, & to burne sacrifice, & to kil victims al daies. 19. And the word of our Lord was made to Ieremie, saying: 20. Thus saith our Lord: If my couenant with the day can be made voide, & my couenant with the night, that there be not day and night in their time: 21. also my couenant may be made voide with Dauid my seruant, that there be not of him a soune to reigne in his throne, & Leuites & Priests:

Hast thou not seen what this people hath spoken, saying: The (f) two kinreds, which our Lord had chosen; are cast off: and they haue despised my people, because it is no more a Nation before them? 25. Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: Goe, and speake to Sedecias the King of Iuda: & thou shalt say to him: Thus saith our Lord: Behold I wil deliuer this citie into the hands of the King of Babylon, & he shal burne it with fire. 3. And thou shalt not escape out of his hand: but by taking thou shalt be taken, and thou shalt be deliuered into his hand: and (a) thine eies shal see the eies of the King of Babylon, and his mouth shal speake with thy mouth, & thou shalt enter into Babylon. 4. But yet heare the word of our Lord o Sedecias King of Iuda: Thus saith our Lord to thee: Thou shalt not dye by the sword, 5. but thou shalt dye in peace, & according to the burnings of thy fathers the former Kings that haue been before thee, so shal they burne thee: & Alas Lord, shal they mourne for thee: because I haue spoken the word, saith our Lord. 6. And Ieremie the Prophet spake al these words to Sedecias the King of Iuda in Ierusalem. 7. And the armie of the King of Babylon fought against Ierusalem, and against al the cities of Iuda, that were remayning, against Lachis, and against Azecha: for these remained of the cities of Iuda, fenced cities. 8. That euerie one should dismisse his seruant, and euerie one his handmayd ; the Hebrew man & the Hebrew woman free : And that they should not haue dominion ouer them, that is, on a Iew and his brother. 10. Al the Princes therfore heard, and al the people which had made the couenant that euerie man should dismisse his seruant, and euerie man his handmaid free, and should no more haue dominion ouer them : they heard therfore, and dismissed them. 11. And ^(b) they turned afterwards: and drew their seruants and their handmaids back againe, whom they had dismissed free, and brought them into subiection as men seruants, and women seruants. 12. And the word of our Lord was made to Ieremie from our Lord, saying: 13. Thus saith our Lord the God of Israëll: I made a couenant with your fathers in the day, that I brought them out of the Land of Ægypt, from the house of bondage, saying: 14. When seuen yeares shal be accomplished, let euerie man dismisse his brother an Hebrew, that was sold to him, and he shal serue thee six yeates: and thou shalt dismisse him free from thee: and your fathers haue not heard me, nor inclined their eare. 15. And you were conuerted this day, & did that which is right in myne eyes, that you proclaymed libertie euerie one to his freind: and you made a couenant in my sight, in the house, wherein my name is inuocated vpon it. 16. And you are returned, and haue defiled my name: and you haue brought backe againe euerie man his seruant, and euerie man his handmayd, whom you had dismissed to be free, and of their owne iurisdiction: and you haue brought them into subiection to be your seruants and handmayds. 17. Therefore thus saith our Lord: You haue not heard me, to proclaime libertie euerie man to his brother, and euerie one to his freind: behold I proclaime vnto you libertie, saith our Lord, to the sword, to the pestilence, and to famine: and I wil giue you into commotion to al the Kingdoms of the earth. 18. And I wil giue the men, that transgresse my couenant, and haue not obserued the words of the couenant, wherevnto they consented in my sight, the calfe which they did cut into two parts, and passed between the diuisions thereof: 19. The Princes of Iuda and the Princes of Ierusalem, the eunuchs, and the Priests, and al the people of the land that passed between the diuisions of the calfe. 20. And I wil giue them into the hands of their enemies, and into the hands of them that seek their life: and their carcasse shal be for meate to the foules of the ayre, and to the beasts of the earth. 21. And Sedecias the King of Iuda, and his Princes I wil giue into the hands of their euemies, and into the hands of them that seek their liues, and into the hands of the armies of the King of Babylon, which are retired from you. 22. Behold I ^(c) command, saith our Lord, and I wil bring them againe into this citie, and they shal fight against it, and take it, & burne it with fire: and the cities of Iuda I wil giue into desolation, because there is not an inhabiter.

And I tooke Iezonias the sonne of Ieremias the sonne of Habsamias, and his brethren, and al his sonnes, and the whole house of the Rechabites. 4. And I brought them into the house of our Lord, to the treasure-house of the sonnes of Hanan, the sonne of Iegedlias the man of God, which was by the treasure-house of the Princes, about the treasure of Maasias the sonne of Sellum, who was keeper of the entrie. 5. And I set before the sonnes of the house of the Rechabites goblets full of wine, and cups: and I said to them: Drinke ye wine. 6. Who answered: We wil not drinke wine: because (b) Ionadab the sonne of Rechab, our father, commanded vs, saying: You shall not drinke wine, you and your childre for euer. 7. And you shall not build house, and you shall not sow seed, and you shall not plant vineyards, nor haue any: but you shall dwell in tabernacles al your daies, that you may liue many daies vpon the face of the land, wherein you are (c) strangers. 8. We therefore haue obeyed the voice of Ionadab the sonne of Rechab, our father, in al things that he commanded vs: so that we drinke not any wine al our daies: we and our wiues, our sonnes & our daughters. 9. And we builded not houses to inhabite, and vineyard, and field, and seed we haue not had: 10. but we haue dwelt in tabernacles, and haue been obedient according to al things, that Ionadab our father commanded vs. 11. But when Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon was come vnto our Land, we said: (d) Come, and let vs goe into Ierusalem from the face of the host of the Chaldees, & from the face of the host of Syria: & we haue taried in Ierusalem. 12. And the word of our Lord was made to Ieremie, saying: 13. Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Goe, & say to the men of Iuda, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem: Why wil you not receiue discipline, to obey my words, saith our Lord: 14. The children therfore of Ionadab the sonne of Rechab haue firmly kept the precept of their father, which he comanded them: but this people hath not obeyed me. 17. ANNOTATIONS.

CHAP. XXXV.

1. The house of Rechabite.) We haue here (according to the state of God Church in the old Testament) a cleare example of religious life, by professing and performing good workes of supererogation, not commanded by God, but piously instituted by a holie man called Ionadab. Which, not only himself, and his proper children, but also their posteritie manie ages after him, voluntarily obserued by a prescript Rule: Not to builde houses, nor dwell in anie (but in tents) not to sow seed, nor to plant, nor haue vineyards, nor to drinke wine. A like rule but not the same in al points, was prescribed by God himself (Num. 6) for such as would voluntarily embrace it. And Elias and Elizeus with their disciples obserued another forme of religious life: as appeareth 4. Reg. 1. 2. &c. Al which were figures of more perfect Religious Orders in the Church of Christ, consisting in three essentiall vowes, of voluntarie Pouertie, Chastitie, and Obedience: not commanded but commended, and for the better attayning to perfection counseled by our Sauour, wherof they are called Euangelical Counsels, obserued by the Apostles, leauing al their worldlie substance, and al desire of hauing anie proper possessions: such also as had wiues leauing them, the rest not marrying, and al renouncing their owne wils, subiected the same to Christs wil, following him. Whose example others imitating, this holie manner of life hath still continued in the Church, as is euident by the Ecclesiastical histories euen from the Apostles time. But al obserued not the same particular rules, nor were called by the same titles. For as in the time of Moyses law, some were called Nazareites, some the Children of the Prophets, and some Rechabites, after the name of their founder father Rechab, a renowned godlie man: so now some are called Fremites, some Monkes, some Freres, and some Religious Clerks. And of each of these kinds, diuers Torts are distinguished by varietie of rules, habites,

AND it came to passe in the fourth yeare of Ioakim, the sonne of Iosias King of Iuda: this word was made to Ieremie from our Lord, saying: 2. Ieremie therefore called Baruch the sonne of Nerias: and Baruch wrote from the mouth of Ieremie al the words of our Lord, which he spake to him, in the volume of the booke. 5. And Ieremie commanded Baruch, saying: I am (b) shut vp, neither am I able to goe into the house of our Lord. 6. Goe thou in therefore, and read out of the volume, wherein thou hast written from my mouth the words of our Lord, in the hearing of al the people in the house of our Lord on the fasting day: moreouer also in the hearing of al Iuda, which come out of their cities, thou shalt read it to them: 7. if perhaps their prayer may fal in the sight of our Lord, and euerie one returne from his most wicked way: because great is the furie and indignation, which our Lord hath spoken against this people. 8. the words of our Lord in the house of our Lord. 9. And it came to passe in the fifth yeare of Ioakim the sonne of Iosias the King of Iuda, in the ninth month: they proclaymed a fast in the sight of our Lord to al the people in Ierusalem, and to al the multitude, that was flocked together out of the cities of Iuda in Ierusalem. 10. And Baruch read out of the words of Ieremie in the house of our Lord, in the tresurie of Gamarias the sonne of Saphan the scribe, in the higher court, in the entrie of the new gate of the house of our Lord, al the people hearing it. 11. And when Micheas the sonne of Gamarias the sonne of Saphan had heard al the words of our Lord out of the booke: 12. he went downe into the Kings house to the tresurie of the scribe: and behold al the Princes sate there, Elisama the scribe, and Dalaias the sonne of Semeias, and Elnathan the sonne of Achobor: and Gamarias the sonne of Saphan, and Sedecias the sonne of Hananias, and al the Princes. 13. And Micheas told them al the words that he had heard Baruch reading out of the volume in the eares of the people. 14. Al the Princes therefore sent to Baruch, Iudi the sonne of Nathanias, the sonne of Selemias, the sonne of Chusi, saying: Take in thy hand the volume, out of which thou hast read in the hearing of the people, & come. Baruch therefore the sonne of Nerias tooke the volume in his hand & came to them. 15. And they said to him: Sitte, and reade these things in our eares. And Baruch read in their eares. 16. Therefore when they had heard al the words, they were astonished euerie one to ward his neighbour, and they sayd to Baruch: We must tel the King al these words. 17. And they asked him, saying Tel vs how didest thou write al these words frō his mouth. 18. And Baruch sayd to thē: Frō his mouth he spake as it were reading vnto me al these word, sand I wrote in a volume with inke. 19. And the Princes said to Baruch: Goe, & be hid thou & Ieremie, and let no man know where you are. 20. And they went to the King into the court: moreouer they layd vp the volume in the tresurie of Elisama the scribe: and they told al the words in the hearing of the King. 21. And the King sent Iudi, that he should take the volume: who taking it out of the tresurie of Elisama the scribe, read it, the King hearing, and al the Princes, that stood about the King. 22. And the King sate in the winter house in the ninth month: and there was an hearth set before him ful of burning coles. 23. And when Iudi had read three or foure pages, (c) he cut it with the penknife of a scribe: and he cast it into the fire, that was vpon the hearth, til al the volume was consumed with the fyre, that was on the hearth. 24. And the King and al his seruants, that heard al these words, did not feare, nor rent their garments. 25. But yet Elnathan, and Dalaias, and Gamarias gaynesaid the King, not to burne the Book: and he heard them not. 26. And the King commanded Ieremiel the sonne of Amelech, and Saraias the sonne of Ezriel, and Selemias the sonne of Abdeel, that they should apprehend Baruch the scribe, and Ieremie the Prephet: but (a) our Lord hid thē. 27. And the word of our court aduised Baruch & Ieremie to hide themselves; but kept himself close in some secret place; a most Priest: doe now in England, that they may better exercise their function, then if they were in the persecutours hands.

(c) The secretarie cut out the leaues and burnt them by the Kings commandment, as appeareth.

Lord

Lord was made to Ieremie the Prophet, after that the King had burnt the volume and the words, that Baruch had written from the mouth of Ieremie, saying: 28. Againe take an other volume: and write in it al the former words, that were in the first volume, which Ioakim the King of Iuda hath burnt. 29. And to Ioakim the King of Iuda thou shalt say: Thus saith our Lord: Thou hast burnt that volume, saying: Why hast thou written in it telling: The King of Babylon wil come in hast, and wil waste this land: and he wil make man and beast, to cease out of it? 30. Therefore thus saith our Lord against Ioakim the King of Iuda: (e) There shall not be of him to sit vpon the throne of Dauid: and his carcasse shall be cast forth to the heate by day, and to the frost by night. 31. And I wil visite against him, and against his seede, and against his seruants their iniquities, and I wil bring vpon them, and vpon the inhabitants of Ierusalem, & vpon the men of Iuda al the euil, that I haue spoken to them: and they haue not heard. 32. And Ieremie tooke an other volume, and gaue it to Baruch the sonne of Nerias the scribe: who wrote in it from the mouth of Ieremie al the words of the booke, which Ioakim the King of Iuda had burnt with fire: & there were added moreouer manie moe words, then had been before.

Sedecias appointed by the King of Babylon to reigne in Iuda, requesteth Ieremias prayers. 4. The Chaldees besieging Ierusalem, and hearing that the Egyptians come against them, part away. 5. AND King Sedecias the sonne of Iosias reigned for Iechonias the sonne of Ioakim: whom Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon made King in the Land of Iuda. 2. And he obeyed not, he and his seruants, and the people of the land the words of our Lord, that he spake in the hand of Ieremie the Prophet. 3. And King Sedecias sent Iuchal the sonne of Selemias, and Sophonias the sonne of Maasias Priest to Ieremie the Prophet, saying: (a) Pray the Lord our Ged for vs. 4. And Ieremie walked freely in the middes of the people: for they had not cast him into ward in prison. Therefore the armie of Pharao came out of Egypt: and the Chaldees that besieged Ierusalem, hearing such tydings, retyred from Ierusalem. 5. And the word of our Lord was made to Ieremie the Prophet, saying: 6. Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: Thus shall you say to the King of Iuda, which sent you to demand of me : Behold the armie of Pharao , which is come forth to helpe you , shal returne into his land into Ægypt. 7. And the Chaldees shal returne , and make warre against this citie , and take it , and burne it with fire. 8. Thus saith our Lord : Deceiue not your soules , saying : The Chaidees going shal goe away , & retyre from vs , because they shal not goe away. 9. But if you shal strike al the host of the Chaldees , that fight against you , and there be left of them some wounded : euerie one shal rise vp out of his tent , and shal burne this citie with fire. 10. Therefore when the armie of the Chaldees was retyred from Ierusalem , because of Pharaos armie , 11. Ieremie went out of Ierusalem to goe into the land of Benjamin , and to diuide possession there in the sight of the citizens. 12. And when he was come to the gate of Benjamin , there was there the keeper of the gate by course , one named Ierias , the sonne of Selemias , the sonne of Hana-nias : and he apprehended Ieremie the Prophet , saying : (b) Thou flyest to the Chaldees. 13. And Ieremie answered : It is not so , I flye not to the Chaldees. And he heard him not : but tooke Ieremie , and brought him to the Princes. 14. For which thing the Princes being angrie against Ieremie , they beat him , and cast him into the prison that was in the house of Ionathan the scribe : for he was chiefe ouer the prison. 15. Ieremie therefore went into the house of the lake , and into the dungeon : and Ieremie sate there manie daies. 16. But Sedccias the King sending tooke him : and demanded of him in his house secretly , and said : Thinkest thou the word is from our Lord ? And Ieremie said : It is. And he said : Thou shalt be deliuered into the hands of the King of Babylon. 17. And Ieremie said to King Sedccias , what haue I sinned against thee , and thy seruants , and thy people , that thou hast cast me into the prison house ? 18. Where are your Prophets that did prophecie to you , and said : The King of Babylon shal not come vpon you & vpon this land ? 19. Now therefore heare I beseech thee my Lord King : let my petition be auailable in thy sight : and send me not back into the house of Ionathan the scribe , lest I dye there. 20. King Sedccias therefore commanded that Ieremie should be committed in the entrie of the prison : and there should be giuen him a peace of bread euerie day , beside broth , til al the bread were spent out of the citie : and Ieremie remoynd in the entrie of the prison.

The nobles being offended with Ieremies preaching, solicite to haue him slaine: 5. the King putting him in their hands, they cast him into a dyrtie don-geour, 7. from whence at the instance of Abdemelech an Æthiopian, he is d'awen forth, 14. and hauing licence to speake, he aduiserh the King to yeald himself to the Chaldees, so he and the citie shal be safe: 18. otherwise shal be taken captiue, 24. which the King commandeth him to keepe secret.

AND Saphatias the sonne of Mathan, and Gedelias the sonne of Phassur, and Iuchal the sonne of Selemias, and Phassur the sonne of Melchias heard the words, that Ieremie spake to al the people, saying: 2. Thus saith our Lord: Whosoever shal remaine in this citie, shal dye by sword, and famine, and pestilence: but he that shal flye to the Chal-dees, shal liue, and his life shal be safe and (a) liuing. 3. Thus saith our Lord: By deliuering this citie shal be deliuered into the hand of the ar-mie of the King of Babylon, and he shal take it. 4. And the Princes said to the King: We desire thee that this man may be put to death: for of purpose he weakneth the hands of the men of warre, that are re-mayning in this citie, and the hands of the people, speaking to them according to these words: for this man seeketh not peace to this peo-ple, but euil. 5. And King Sedecias said: Behold he is in your hands: for it is not lawful for the King to denie you anie thing. 6. They there-fore tooke Ieremie, and cast him into the lake of Melchias the sonne of Amelech, which was in the entrie of the prison: & they let downe Ieremie by ropes into the lake, wherein there was no water, but myre. Ieremie therefore sunke downe into the myre. 7. But (b) Abdemelech the Æthiopian an eunuch, that was in the Kings house, heard that they had cast Ieremie into the like: moreouer the King fate in the gate of Benjamin. 8. And Abdemelech went out of the Kings house, and spake to the King, saying: 9. My Lord King, these men haue done al things naughtily, whatsoever they haue done against Ieremie the Prophet, casting him into the lake, that he may dye for famine, for there is no more bread in the citie. 10. The King therefore com-manded Abdemelech the Æthiopian, saying: Take with thee from hence thirtie men, and lift vp Ieremie the Prophet out of the lake, before he dye. 11. Abdemelech therefore taking the men with him, entred into the Kings house, that was vnder the celler: and he tooke thence old rags, and old things that were rotten: and he set them downe to Ieremie into the lake by cords. 12. And al thy wiues , and thy sonnes shal be brought out to the Chaldees , and thou shalt not escape their hands , but thou shalt be taken in the hand of the King of Babylon : and he shal burne this citie with fire. 24. Sedecias therefore said to Jeremie : Let none know these words , and thou shalt not dye. 25. But if the Princes shal heare , that I haue spoken with thee : and shal come to thee , and say to thee : Tel vs what hast thou spoken with the King , conceale not from vs , and we wil not kil thee. 26. Thou shalt say to them : I did prostrate my prayers before the King , that he would not command me to be caried backe into the house of Jonathan , and there dye. 27. Al the Princes therefore came to Jeremie , and asked him : and he spake to them according to al the words , that the King had commanded him , and they left him : for nothing had been heard. But Jeremie remained in the entrie of the prison , vntil the day , that Ierusalem was taken : and it came to passe that Ierusalem was taken.

Ierusalem after two yeares siege is taken by the Chaldees: 4. King Sedecias with others flying by a posterne gate, is taken, brought to the King of Babylon, al his sonnes are slayne, his eyes put out, and so led into Babylon. 8. The Kings palace and the towne house are burned; the wals of the citie destroyed, the people caried captiue, only the poorest left to tit the ground. 11. Ieremias is deliuered. 15. And Abdemelech is saued from danger.

IN the ninth yeare of Sedecias the King of Iuda, the tenth month, came Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, & al his armie to Ierusalem, and they besieged it. 2. And in the eleuenth yeare of Sedecias, the fourth month, the ninth of the month the citie was opened. 3. But the host of the Chaldees pursued them: and they tooke Sedecias in the field of the desert of Iericho, and being taken they brought him to Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon into Reblatha, which is in the Land of Emath: and he spake vnto him (b) iudgements. 6. And the King of Babylon killed the sonnes of Sedecias in Reblatha, before his eies: and the King of Babylon killed al the nobles of Iuda. 7. The eies also of Sedecias he plucked out: and bound him with fetters, to be led into Babylon. 8. The Kings house also, and the house of the common people the Chaldees burnt with fire, and they ouerthrew the wal of Ierusalem. 9. And the remnant of the people, that remayned in the citie, and the fugitiues that were fled to him, and the rest of the people that remained, Nabuzardan the Prince of the soldiers transported into Babylon. 10. But Iohanān the sonne of Caree, and al the Princes of the host, that had been dispersed in the countries, came to Godolias into Masphath. 14. And they said to him: Know that Baalis the King of the children of Ammon hath sent Ismahel the sonne of Nathanias to kil thee. And Godolias the sonne of Ahicam believed them not. 15. But Iohanān the sonne of Caree, spake to Godolias apart in Masphath, saying: I wil goe, and strike Ismahel the sonne of Nathanias no man knowing it: lest he kil thee, and al the Iewes be dispersed, that are gathered vnto thee, and the remnant of Iuda perish. 16. Jeremie praying and consulting God, 7. answereth that al those which remaine in Ierusalem shal be safe: 13. but those that goe into Ægypt shal perish.

(a) This consultation was piously begun, seeking to know Gods wil by his Prophet: but the same people erred grievously in not following his direction, as he foresaw they would not. v. 21. And he further recordeth that they rebelliously opposed against him. ch. 43. v. 2. (e) Whether it seeme to bring prosperitie or adversitie.

AND (a) there came al the Princes of the men of warre, and Iohanan the sonne of Caree, and Iezonias the sonne of Ofaias, and the rest of the common people from litle vnto great: 2. And they said to Ieremie the Prophet: Let our prayer fal in thy sight: and pray for vs to the Lord thy God for al this remnant, because we are left few of manie, as thine eies doe behold vs. 3. And let our Lord thy God tel vs the way, by which we may goe, and the * word that we must doe. 4. And Ieremie the Prophet said to them: I haue heard: behold I pray to our Lord your God according to your words: euerie word whatsoeuer he shal answer me, I wil tel you: neither wil I conceale from you anie thing. 5. And they said to Ieremie: Be our Lord witnes between vs of truth and faith, if we doe not according to euerie word, for the which our Lord, thy God shal send thee to vs. 6. Whether it be (b) good, or euil, we wil obey the voice of the Lord our God, to whom we send thee: that it may be wel with vs, when we shal heare the voice of the Lord our God. 7. And when ten dayes were accomplished, the word of our Lord was made to Ieremie. 8. And he called Iohanan the sonne of Caree, and al the Princes of the men of warre, that were with him, and the whole people from litle to great. 9. And he said to them: Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel, to whom you sent me, that I should prostrate your prayers in his sight: 10. If resting you wil abide in this land, I wil build you, and not destroy you; I wil plant, and not plucke you vp: for now I am pacified vpon the euil that I hatie done to you. 11. Feare not at the face of the King of Babylon, of whom you being feareful are afraid. feare him not, saith our Lord: because I am with you, to saue you, and to deliuer you out of his hand. 12. And I wil giue you mercies, and wil haue mercie vpon you, and wil make you dwell in your owne land. 13. But if you shal say: We wil not dwell in this land, neither wil we heare the voice of the Lord our God, 14. saying: No, not so: but we wil goe forward to the Land of Ægypt, where we shal not see warre, and not heare the sound of the trumpet, and shal not susteyne famine: and there we wil dwell. 15. For this now heare the word of our Lord ye remnant of Iuda: Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel : If you shal set your face to goe into Ægypt, and shal enter to inhabite there : 16. the sword which you feare , shal there take you in the Land of Ægypt : and the famine , for the which you are careful , shal cleue to you in Ægypt , and there you shal dye. 17. And al the men , that shal set their face to goe into Ægypt , to dwel there , shal dye by the sword , and by famine , and by pestilence : none of them shal remaine , nor escape from the face of the euil , that I wil bring vpon them. 18. Because thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel : As my furie is powred out , and mine indignation vpon the inhabitants of Ierusalem : so shal mine indignation be powred out vpon you , when you shal be entred into Ægypt , and you shal be into (c) an othe , and into astonishment , and into a curse , and into reproch : and you shal no more see this place. 19. The word of our Lord is vpon you, o remnant of Iuda : Enter not into Ægypt : knowing you shal know that I haue adiured you this day , 20. because you haue deceiued your soules : for you sent me to the Lord our God , saying : Pray for vs to the Lord our God , & according to al things whatsoever the Lord our God shal say to thee , so tel vs , and we wil doe. 21. And I haue told you this day , and (d) you haue not heard the voice of the Lord your God concerning al things, for which he hath sent me to you. 22. Now therefore knowing you shal know that by sword , and famine , and pestilence you shal dye in the place , to which you would enter for to dwel there.

The relikes of the Iewes , against Ieremies admonitions, goe into Ægypt , 6. carrying Ieremie and Baruch with them : 8. where Ieremie prophesieth that the King of Babylon shal spoyle that land, 12. and their idols.

ND it came to passe , when Ieremie had finished speaking to the people al the words of the Lord their God, for which our Lord their God had sent him to them , al these words : 2. Azarias the sonne of Osaias said : & Iohanen the sonne of Caree , and al the proude men , saying to Ieremie : (a) Thou speakest a lie : the Lord our God sent thee not , saying : Goe not into Ægypt , to dwel there. 3. But Baruch the sonne of Nerias doth prouoke thee against vs , that he may deliuer vs into the hands of the Chaldees , that he may kil vs , and make vs to be transported into Babylon. 4. And Iohanen the sonne of Caree , and al the Princes of the men of warre , & the whole people , heard not the voice of our Lord , to abide in the Land of Iuda. 5. And they went into the Land of Ægypt, because they obeyed not the voice of our Lord: & they came as farre as Taphnis. 8. And the word of our Lord was made to (b) Ieremie in Taphnis, saying: 9. (c) Take thee great stones in thy hand, and thou shalt hide them in the caue, that is vnder the bricke wal in the gate of Pharaoes house in Taphnis: in the sight of the men of Iuda. 10. And thou shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Behold I wil send, and take to me Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon my seruant: and I wil set his throne ouer these stones, which I haue hid, and he shal set his throne vpon them. 11. And comming he shal strike the Land of Ægypt: those that into death, into death: & those that into captiuitie, into captiuitie: and those that into the sword, into the sword. 12. And he shal kindle a fire in the temples of the Gods of Ægypt, and shal burne the same, and he shal lead them captiue: & he shal be clothed with the Land of Ægypt, as a pastour is clothed with his cloke: & he shal goe out from thence in peace. 13. And he shal breake the statues of the house of the Sunne, that are in the Land of Ægypt: and the temples of the Gods of Ægypt he shal burne with fire.

The Iewes admonished by Ieremie to leaue their idolatrie, 15. obstinately answer, that they wil persist therein. 20. Where upon he prophecieth their destruction; 28. few escaping that returne into Ierusalem. 29. And that the King of Ægypt shal also fall into his enemies hands.

Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: (a) You haue seen al this euil, that I haue brought vpon Ierusalem, & vpon al the cities of Iuda: and behold they are desolate this day, and there is not an inhabiter in them: 3. for the malice, which they haue done, to prouoke me to wrath, & to goe and sacrifice, & worshiipe false Gods, which both they, & you, & your fathers knew not. 4. And I haue sent to you al my seruants the Prophets, in the night rysing, and sending and saying: Doe not the word of this manner of abomination, which I hated. 5. And now thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Why doe you this great euil against your owne soules, that there should dye of you man and woman, child and suckling out of the middes of Iuda, and nothing be left remaying vnto you: 8. prouoking me in the works of your hands, in sacrificing to strange Gods in the Land of Ægypt, into which you are entred to inhabite there: and that you should perish, and be a malediction, and a reproch to al the nations of the earth? 9. Why, haue you forgotten the euils of your fathers, and the euils of the Kings of Iuda, and the euils of their wiues, and your euils, and the euils of your wiues, that they haue done in the Land of Iuda, and in the countries of Ierusalem? 10. They are not censed euen to this day: and they haue not feared, and they haue not walked in the lasse of the Lord, and in my precepts, which I haue giuen before you and your fathers. 11. Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Behold I wil set my face vpon you to euil: and I wil destroy al Iuda. 12. And I wil take the remnant of Iuda, which haue set their face to goe into the Land of Ægypt, and to dwel there, and they shal be al consumed in the Land of Ægypt: they shal fal by the sword, and by famine: & they shal be consumed (b) from the least euen to the greatest, by the sword, and by famine shal they dye: and they shal be for an othe, and for a miracle, and into malediction, and into reproch. 13. And I wil visite the inhabitants of the Land of Ægypt, as I haue viured vpon Ierusalem in sword, and famine, and pestilence. 14. And there shal be none that shal escape, and be remaying of the remnant of the Iewes, that goe to seiourne in the Land of Ægypt: & that shal returne into the Land of Iuda, to the which they eleuate their soules, for to returne and dwel there: there shal none returne but they that shal flye. 15. But al the men that knew that their wiues sacrificed to strange Gods: and al the women of whom there stood a great multitude, and al the people of the inhabitants in the Land of Ægypt in Phatures, answered Ieremie, saying: 16. The word, which thou hast spoken to vs in the name of our Lord, we wil not heare of thee: 17. But doing we wil doe euerie word, that shal procede out of our owne mouth, to sacrifice vnto (c) the Queé of heauen, and to offer libaments vnto her, as we and our fathers haue done, our Kings, and our Princes in the cities of Iuda, and in the streets of Ierusalem, and we were filled with bread, and it was wel with vs, and we saw no euil. 18. But from that time, since we ceased to sacrifice to the Queen of heauen, and to offer libaments vnto her, we lacke al things, & we are consumed with sword, & famine. 19. And if we sacrifice to the Queen of heauen, and offer libaments to her: why, haue we without our husbands made her cakes to wothip her, and to offer libaments to her? 20. And Ieremie said to al the people against the men, and against the women, and against al the people, that had answered him:

Why, the sacrifice that you haue sacrificed in the cities of Iuda, and in the streets of Ierusalem, you and your fathers, your Kings, and your Princes, and the people of the land, is not our Lord mindful of them, and hath it not ascended vpon his hart? 22. And our Lord would beare no longer for the malice of your studies, and for the abominations, which you haue done, and your land is brought into desolation, and into astonishment, and into malediction, for that there is not an inhabiter, as is this day. 23. Because you haue sacrificed to idols, and haue sinned to our Lord: and haue not heard the voice of our Lord, and haue not walked in his lawes, and in his precepts, and in his testimonies: therefore are these euils fallen to you, as is this day. 24. And Ieremie said to al the people, and to al the women: Heare you the word of our Lord al Iuda, which are in the Land of Ægypt: 25. Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, saying: You, and your wiues haue spoken with your mouth, and haue accomplished with your hãds, saying: Let vs performe our vowes which we haue vowed, to sacrifice to the Queen of heauen, and to offer libaments to her: you haue fulfilled your vowes, and haue done them in worke. 26. Therefore heare ye the word of our Lord al Iuda, which dwel in the Land of Ægypt: Behold I haue sworne by my great name, saith our Lord: that my name shal no more be calied by the mouth of euerie man of Iuda, saying: Our Lord God liueth in al the Land of Ægypt. 27. Behold I wil watch vpon them to euil, and not to good: and al the men of Iuda that are in the Land of Ægypt, shal be consumed, with sword, and famine, til they be viterly consumed. 28. And they that shal escape the sword, shal returne out of the Land of Ægypt into the Land of Iuda a few men: and al the remnant of Iuda that goe into the Land of Ægypt, to dwel there, shal know, whose word is accõplished, mine, or theirs. 29. And this shal be a signe for you, saith our Lord, that I visite vpon you in this place: that you may know that my words shal be accomplished indeed against you to euil. 30. Thus saith our Lord: Behold I wil deliuer Pharao Ephree the King of Ægypt into the hand of his enemies, and into the hand of them that seek his life: as I haue deliuered Sedecias the King of Iuda into the hand of Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon his enemie, and that seeketh his life.

CHAP. XLV.

Jeremie reprehendeth Baruch for lamenting in affliction.

THE word that Jeremie spake to Baruch the sonne of Nerias, when he had written these words in a book, from the mouth of Jeremie, in the fourth yeare of Ioakim the sonne of Iosias King of Iuda, saying: 2. Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel to thee Baruch: 3. Thou hast said: Woe is me wretch, because our Lord hath added (a) sorow to my sorow: I haue laboured in my mourning, & haue not found rest. 4. Thus saith our Lord: Thus shalt thou say to him: Behold, them whom I haue builded, I doe destroy: and whom I haue planted, I doe pluck vp, and al this land. 5. And doest thou seek to thy self great things? Seek not: for behold I wil bring euil vpon al flesh, saith our Lord: and I wil giue (b) thee thy life into safetie in al places, whither-soeuer thou shalt goe.

(a) Baruch seeing the people much afflicted, & vnderstanding by Ieremies Prophecie, that they should yet be more punishment, lamented the same.

(b) God granted not his prayer for the people but for himself only.

Jeremie prophesieth that the King of Babylon shal inuade Egypt, 13. and waste the cities and land: 25. which shal againe be repayed. 27. And the reliques of the Iewes shal be deliuered from sundrie places of captiuitie.

THE word of our Lord that was made to Jeremie the Prophet against (a) the Gentils, 2. to Egypt against the armie of Pharao Nechao the King of Egypt, which was beside the riuer Euphrates in Charcamis, whom Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon stricke, in the fourth yeare of Ioakim the sonne of Iosias King of Iuda. 3. Prepare yeshield, & buckler, and goe forth to bartel. 4. Yoke horses, & mount ye horsemen: stand in helmets, furbish the speares, put on coates of maile. 5. What then? (b) I saw them feareful, and turning their backs, their valiants flainte: they fled in hast, neither looked they backe: terrour on cuerie side, saith our Lord. 6. Let not the swift fly, nor the strong thinke that he is safe: Toward the North by the riuer Euphrates they were ouercome, and fel downe. 7. Who is this that riseth vp as a floud: and as it were of riuers, so his streames doe swel? 8. Egypt riseth vp like a floud, & the waues thereof shal be moued as riuers, & shal say: Rysing vp I wil couer the earth: I wil destroy citie, and the inhabitants thereof. 9. Get

(a) As partly before, so more especially in the chapters following the Prophet fore-sheweth the punishment of diuers gentils which were the chiefe enemies to the Iewes.

(b) It is the common manner of Prophets to speake in the preterence of things to come, for the infallible certaintie thereof.

(c) Ægypt accounted it-self inuincible: and so the Prophet ironically calleth it the virgin daughter, as in this whole passage he speaketh by the same figure ironia, willing them to doe those things which should nothing help nor profite the, as appeareth by the next words: Thou doest in vaine multiplie medicines, or remedies, and v. 5. 10. 16.

And that day of our Lord the God of hosts, is a day of reuenge, that they may take vengeance of his enemies: the sword shal deuour, and be filled, and shal be drunken with their blood: for the the victime of our Lord the God of hosts is in the Land of the North by the riuer Euphrates. 11. Goe vp into Galaad, & take refine (c) ô virgin the daughter of Ægypt: thou doest in vaine multiplie medecines, there shal not be health to thee. 12. The Gentils haue heard thine ignominie, and thine howling hath filled the earth: because the strong hath stumbled against the strong, and both are fallen together. 13. The word that our Lord spake to Ieremie the Prophet, concerning this, that Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon should come and strike the Land of Ægypt: 14. Tel Ægypt, and make it heard in Magdal, and let it sound in Memphis, and in Taphnis: Say ye: Stand, and prepare thy self: because the sword shal deuour those things, that be round about thee. 15. Why is thy valiant become rotten? he stood not: because our Lord hath overthrown him. 16. He hath multiplied them that fall, and man hath fallen against his neighbour, and they shal say: Arise, and let vs returne to our people, and to the Land of our natiuitie, from the face of the sword of * the doue. 17. Cal ye the name of Pharao the King of Ægypt, Tumult, Time hath brought it. 18. I liue (saith the King, the Lord of hosts is his name) that as Thabor in the mountaines, and as Carmel in the sea, he shal come. 19. Make vessels of transmigration ô daughter inhabitant of Ægypt: because Memphis shal be in desolation, and shal be forsaken, and shal be inhabitable. 20. Ægypt a trimme and beautiful heyfer: a pricker from the North shal come to her. 21. Her hyrelings also that conuerfed in the middes of her, as fatted calves are turned, and are fled together, neither could they stand: because the day of their slaughter came vpon them, the time of their visitation. 22. Her voice shal sound as if it were of brasse, because they shal hasten with an armie, & with axes they shal come to her, as it were cutting trees. 23. They haue cut downe her forest, saith our Lord, which can not be counted: they are multiplied about locusts, and are without number. 24. The daughter of Ægypt is confounded, and deliuered into the hand of the people of the North. 25. The Lord of hosts the God of Israel hath said: Behold I wil visite vpon the tumult of Alexandria, and vpon Pharao, and vpon Ægypt, and vpon her Gods, and vpon her Kings, and vpon Pharao, and vpon them that trust in him. 26. And I wil giue them into the hand of them that seek their life, and into the hand of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, and into the hand of his seruants: and after these things it shal be inhabited as in the daies of old, saith our Lord. 27. And (d) thou my seruant Iacob feare not, and be not thou afraid Israel: because loe I wil saue thee from a farre, and thy seed out of the land of thy captiuitie: and Iacob shal returne, and rest, and prosper: and there shal be none to terrifie

The desolation of the Philisthims , Tyre , Sidon , Gaza , and Ascalon , is prophecied.

THE word of our Lord that was made to Ieremie the Prophet against the Palesthines, before Pharao stricke Gaza: 2. Thus faith our Lord : Behold there come vp waters from (a) the North, and they shal be as a torrent ouerflowing, and they shal couer the earth, and the fulnes thereof, the citie and the inhabitants thereof : men shal crie , and al the inhabitants of the land shal houle. 3. at the noise of the pompe of the armour , and of his men of warre , at the commotion of his chariots , and the multitude of his wheels. The fathers haue not respected the children, being of dissolute hands, 4. for the comming of the day, wherein al the Philisthims shal be wasted , and Tyre, and Sidon shal be destroyed with al the rest of their aydes. For our Lord hath spoyled the Palesthines , the remnant of the ile of Cappadocia. 5. Baldnes is come vpon Gaza. Ascalon hath held her peace, and the remnant of her valley, how long shalt thou be hewed? 6. O sword of our Lord, how long wilt thou not be quiet? Get into thy scabbard, be cooled, and be stil. 7. How shal it be quiet when our Lord hath commanded it against Ascalon , and against the countries thereof by the sea side, and there hath made appointment with it?

from being a nation, therefore shalt thou in silence hold thy peccae, and the sword shall follow thee. 3. The voice of a crie from Oronaim: wast, and great destruction. 4. Moab is destroyed: proclaime a crie to her children. 5. For by the ascent of Luith shall the mourner goe vp in weeping: because in the descent of Oronaim the enemies haue heard the howling of destruction: 6. Flye, saue your liues: & you shall be as heath in the desert. 7. For that thou hast had confidence in thy munitions, and in thy treasures, thou also shalt be taken: and (b) Chamos shall goe into transmigration, his Priests, and his Princes together. 8. And the spoyler shall come to euerie citie, and no citie shall be saued: and the valleyes shall perish, & the champaine countries shall be destroyed: because our Lord hath said: 9. Giue ye the floure to Moab, because flourishing it shall goe out: and her cities shall be desolate, and inhabitable. 10. Cursed be he that doeth the worke of our Lord fraudulently: and cursed that stayeth his sword from blood. 11. Moab hath been fruitful from his youth, and hath rested in his dregs: neither hath he been powred out of vessel into vessel, and hath not gone into transmigration: therefore hath his taste remained in him, and his saueur is not changed. 12. Therefore behold the daies come, saith our Lord: and I will send vnto him those that shall order and dispose of his pots, and they shall ouerthrow him, and shall emptie his vessels, and dash their pots one against an other. 13. And Moab shall be ashamed of Chamos, as the house (c) of Israel was ashamed of Bethel, wherein it had confidence. 14. How say ye: We are valiant, and strong men to fight? 15. Moab is wasted, and her cities they haue cast downe: & her chosen yong men are gone downe into slaughter: saith the King, the Lord of hosts is his name. 16. The destruction of Moab is nigh to come: the euil thereof shall come exceeding swiftly. 17. Comfort him al ye that are round about him, and al you that know his name, say: How is the strong rod broken, the glorious staffe? 18. I know, saith our Lord, his boasting: and that the strength thereof is not according to it, neither hath it endeauoured to doe according to that which it was able. 31. Therefore wil I waile vpon Moab, and to al Moab wil I crie, to the men (i) of the earthen wal that lament. 32. Of the mourning of Iazer I wil weepe to thee, O vineyard of Sabana: thy branches haue passed over the sea, they are come euen to the sea of Iazer: the spoiler hath violently entred vpon thine haruest, and thy vintage. 33. Ioy and gladnes is taken away out of Carmel, and out of the Land of Moab, and the wine out of the presses I haue taken away: the treader of the grape shal not sing the accustomed cheertul note. 34. From the crie of Hesebon vnto Eleale, and Iasa, they haue giuen their voice: fro Segor to Oronaim, an heifer of three yeares old: the waters also of Netrim shal be verie il. 35. And I wil take away from Moab, saith our Lord, him that offereth in the excelses, and that sacrificeth to his Gods. 36. Therefore shal my hart found to Moab as a shaulme: and my hart shal giue the sound of shaulmes to the men of the earthen wal: because he hath done more then he could, therefore haue they perished. 37. For euerie head (f) baldnes, and euerie beard shal be shauen: in al hands binding together, & vpon euerie backe cloth of haire. 38. Vpon al the house tops of Moab, & in the streets thereof al mourning: because I haue broken Moab as an vnprofitable vessel, saith our Lord. 39. How is it ouercome, & they haue howled? How hath Moab cast downe the necke, and is confounded? And Moab shal be in derision, and for an example to al round about him. 40. Thus saith our Lord: Behold he shal flye as an eagle, and shal stretch forth his wings to Moab. 41. Carioth is taken, and munitions are wonne: and the hart of the valiants of Moab in that day, shal be as the hart of a woman in trauel. 42. And Moab shal cease to be a people: because he hath gloried against our Lord. 43. Feare, and pit, & snare vpon thee O inhabiter of Moab, saith our Lord. 44. He that shal flye from the face of feare, shal fall into the pitte: and he that shal come vp out of the pitte, shal be taken in the snare: for I wil bring vpon Moab the yeare of their visitation, saith our Lord. 45. They stood in the shadow of Hesebon that fled from the snare: because there came a fire out of Hesebon, and a flame out of the middes of Sehon, and it hath deuoured part of Moab, and the top of the children of tumult. 46. Woe to thee Moab, thou hast perished, O people of Chamos: because thy sonnes are taken, and thy daughters into captiuitie. 47. And I wil conuert the captiuitie of Moab (g) in the last daies, saith our Lord. Hitherto the iudgements of Moab.

The like vastation of Ammon (6. who shal be againe restored.) 7. destruction of Idumea: 27. of the Syrians, 28. Agarenes, 34. and Elavites: 39. whose captiuitie shal at last be released.

O the children of Ammon. Thus saith our Lord: Why, (a) hath Israel no children? or hath he not an heire? Why then hath (b) Melchom by inheritance possessed Gad: and his people dwelt in his cities? 2. Therefore behold the daies come saith our Lord: and I wil make the noise of battel to be heard vpon Rabbath the children of Ammon, and it shal be destroyed into an heape, and her daughters shal be burnt with fire, & Israel shal possesse his possessours, saith our Lord. 3. Howle Hesebon, because Hai is wasted. Crie ye daughters of Rabbath, gird your selues with clothes of haire: mourne and goe about by the hedges: because Melchom shal be led into transmigration, his Priests, and his Princes together. 4. What gloriest thou in the valleyes? thy valley hath flowed away ô delicate daughter, which didst trust in thy treasures, & saidst: Who shal come to me? 5. Behold I wil bring terrour vpon thee, saith our Lord the God of hosts, from al that are round about thee: & you shal be dispersed euerie one from an others sight, neither shal there be anie to gather together them that flye. 6. And after these things I wil make the captiues of the children of Ammon to returne, saith our Lord. 7. To Idumea. Thus saith the Lord of hosts: (c) Why is wisdom no more in Theman? Counsel is perished from the children: their wisdom is become vnprofitable. 8. Flye and turne your backes, goe downe into the gulfe ye inhabitants of Dedan: because I haue brought the perdition of Esau vpon him, the time of his visitation. 9. If the grape gatherers had come vpon thee, they had not left a cluster: if theeues in the night, they had taken that should suffice them. 10. But I haue discovered Esau, I haue revealed his secrets, and he can not be concealed: his seed is wasted, and his brethren, and his neighbours, and he shal not be. 11. Leauethy pupils: I wil make them liue: and thy widowes shal hope in me. 12. For thus saith our Lord: Behold they whose iudgement was not to drinke the cup, drinking shal drinke: and shalt thou be left as innocent? thou shalt not be innocent, but drinking thou shalt drinke. 13. Because I haue sworne by myself, saith our Lord, that Bosra shal be into desolation, & into reproch, and into a desert, and into malediction: and al her cities shal be into euerlasting desolations. 14. I haue heard a bruit from our Lord, & a legate is sent to the Nations: Gather your selues together, and come against her, and let vs rise vp into battel.

Abdia
v. 1.

(a) When the ten tribes were carried into captiuitie, the Ammonites possessed the inheritance of Gad by intrusion, as next neighbours, & and of their kindred, as though al the Israellites had been vtterly destroyed.

(b) And therefore God expostulateth this iniurie and absurditie, that the people of Melchom, the idol of the Ammonites (4. Reg. 23.) should inuade the inheritance of his owne people.

(c) The Idumeans were worldly wise, but became foolish in the way of seruing God.

15. For behold I haue made thee a litle one in the Gentils, contemptible among men. 16. Thine arrogancie hath deceiued thee, and the pride of thy hart: which dwellest in the caues of the rocke, and endeauourest to apprehend the height of the hil. whē thou shalt exalt thy nest as an eagle, thence wil I bring thee downe, saith our Lord. 17. And Idumca shal be desolate: euerie one that shal passe by it, shal be (d) astonished, & shal hisse vpon al the plagues thereof. 18. As Sodome is ouerthrowen and Gomorrah, and her neighbours saith our Lord: there shal not a mā dwel there and there shal no sonne of man inhabite it. 19. Behold as a lion he shal come vp from the pride of Iordan, to the strong beautifulnes: because I wil make him runne solemly to her: & who shal be a chosen one whom I may appoint ouer her: for who is like to me: and who shal abide me? and who is this Pastour that can resist my countenance? 20. Therefore heare ye the counsel of our Lord, which he hath taken concerning Edom: and his cogitations, which he hath thought concerning the inhabitants of Theman: If the litle ones of the flock shal not cast them downe, if they shal not destroy their habitation with them. 21. At the voice of their ruine the earth is moued: the crie of their voice is heard in the Red-sea. 22. Behold he shal come vp as an eagle, & flye out: and he shal spred his wings ouer Bosra: and the hart of the strong of Idumca shal be in that day, as the hart of a woman in trauel. 23. (e) To Damascus: Emath is cōfounded and Arphad: because they haue heard a verie il bruit, they are troubled in the sea: for carefulnes it could not be quiet. 24. Damascus is vndone, she is turned into flight, trembling hath apprehended her: anguish and sorowes haue held her as a woman in trauel. 25. How haue they forsaken the laudable citie, the citie of ioy! 26. Therefore shal her yong men fal in her streets: and al the men of warre shal be silent in that day, saith the Lord of hosts. 27. And I wil kindle a fire in the wal of Damascus, and it shal deauour the wals of Benadad. 28. (f) To Cedar, and to the Kingdoms of Asor, which Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon hath stricken. Thus saith our Lord: Arise, & goe ye vp to Cedar, and waste the children of the East. 29. They shal take their tabernacles, and their flocks: their cortines, and al their vessels, & their camels they shal take to them: and they shal cal vpon them feare round about. 30. Fly yee, get away speedily, sit in deepe pits you that inhabite Asor, saith our Lord: for Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon hath taken counsel against you, & hath deuised deuises against you. 31. Arise, and goe vp to the nation that is quiet, and that dwelieth confidently, saith our Lord, they haue neither doors, nor barres: they dwel alone. 32. And their camels shal be into spoile, & the multitude of beafts for a pray: and I wil disperse them into euerie winde, which haue their heare poled: and from euerie confine of theirs, I wil bring destruction vpon them, saith our Lord. 33. And Asor shal be for an habitation of dragons, desolate for euer: there shal no man tarie there, nor sonne of man inhabite it. 34. The word of our Lord that was made to Ieremias

In those daies, and in that time, saith our Lord, the iniquitie of Israel shal be sought, and it shal not be: and the sinne of Iuda, and it shal not be found: because I wil be propitious to them, whom I shal leaue. 21. Ascend vpon the land of them that rule, and visite vpon the inhabitants thereof, destroy, and kil the things that are behind them, saith our Lord: and doe according to al things that I haue commanded thee. 22. A voice of battel in the land, and great destruction. 23. How is the hammer of the whole earth broken, and destroyed? how is Babylon turned into a desert among the nations? 24. I haue snared thee, and thou art taken Babylon, and thou knewest it not: thou art found & apprehended, because thou hast prouoked our Lord. 25. Our Lord hath opened his treasure, and brought forth the vessels of his wrath: because the Lord the God of hosts hath a worke in the land of the Chaldees. 26. Come ye vnto her from the the vitermost borders, open that they may goe forth that shal tread her downe: take the stones out of the way, & bring it into heaps, & kil her: neither let there be anie thing left. 27. Therefore shal her yongmen fal in her streets : and al her men of warre shal hold their peace in that day, saith our Lord. 31. Behold I to thee thou proud one, saith our Lord the God of hosts: because thy day is come, the time of thy visitation. 32. And the proud shal fal, and tumble downe, and there shal be none to raise him vp : and I wil kinde a fire in his cities, and it shal deuoure al things round about him. 33. More miseries shal fal vpon Babylon (11. by the Medes) with destruction of her idols.

THVS saith our Lord : (a) Behold I wil raise vpon Babylon and vpon the inhabitants thereof, which haue lifted vp their hart against me , as it were a pestilent wind. 2. And I wil send vpon Babylon fanners , and they shal fanne it , and shal destroy her land : because they are come vpon her on euerie side in the day of her affliction. 3. Let not him that bendeth bend his bow , and led not him goe vp that is in * a brigandin , spare not her yong men , kil al her host. 4. And the slaine shal fal in the land of the Chaldees , and the wounded in the countries thereof. 5. Because Israel and Iuda haue not been left as a widow of their God the Lord of hosts: but their land hath been replenished with sinne from the holie one of Israel. 6. Flye ye out of the middes of Babylon, and let euerie one saue his owne life, hold not your peace vpon her iniquitie : because it is the time of reuenge from our Lord, he wil requite her the like. 7. Babylon is a golden cup in the hand of our Lord , inebriating al the earth : of her wine haue the Nations drunke, and therefore they are in commotion. 8. Babylon is fallen sodainly , and is destroyed : houle ye vpon her , take refine for her sorow, if perhaps she may be healed. 9. We haue cured Babylon, & she is not healed: let vs forsake her, and let vs goe euerie man to his owne land : because her iudgement hath reached euen to the hea- uens , & is lifted vp vnto the clouds. 10. We are confounded, because we haue heard reproch: ignominie hath couered our faces: because strangers are come vpon the sanctification of the house of our Lord. 52. Therefore behold the daies come, saith our Lord: & I wil visite vpon her sculptsils, and in al her land the wounded shal roare. 53. If Babylon shal ascend vp into heauen, and stablish her strength on high, frome there shal come wasters of her, saith our Lord. 54. A voice of crying from Babylon, and great destruction from the Land of the Chaldees: 55. because our Lord hath wasted Babylon, and destroyed out of it the great voice: & their waues shal sound as manie waters: their voice hath giuen a sound. 56. Because the spoyler is come vpon her, that is, vpon Babylon, & her valiants are apprehended, & their bow is weakened: because the strong reuenger our Lord rendring wil repay. 57. And I wil inebriate her Princes, & her wise men, & her Dukes, and her magistrates, and her valiants: and they shal sleepe an euerlasting sleepe, and shal not awake, saith the King, the Lord of hostiis his name. 58. Thus saith the Lord of hosts : That most brode wal-of Babylon by vndermyning shal be vndermined , and her high gates shal be burnt with fire , and the labours of the peoples shal come to nothing , and of the nations shal be into the fire , & shal perish. 59. The word that Ieremie the Prophet commanded Saraias the sonne of Nerias , the soune of Maasias , when he went with Sedecias the King into Babylon , in the fourth yeare of his Kingdom : and Saraias was (d) the Prince of Prophecie. 60. And Ieremie wrote al the euil , that was to come vpon Babylon in one Book : al these words , that are written against Babylon. 61. And Ieremie said to Saraias : When thou shalt come into Babylon , and shalt see , & shalt reade al these words , 62. thou shalt say : Lord thou hast spokē against this place to destroy it : that there be none to inhabite it from man euen vnto beast , and that it be a perpetual wildernesse. 63. And when thou shalt haue finished reading this Book , thou shalt tye a stone to it , and shalt throw it into the middes of Euphrates : 64. and thou shalt say : So shal Babylon be drowned , and she shal not rise vp from the face of the affliction , that I wil bring vpon her , and she shal be dissolved. (e) Hitherto the words of Ieremie.

ACHILD of one and twentie yeares was Sedecias when he began to reigne : and eleuen yeares he reigned in Ieru-salem : and the name of his mother was Amital , the daughter of Ieremie of Lobna. 2. And he did euil in the eyes of our Lord , according to al things that Ioachim had done. 3. Because the furie of our Lord was against Ierusalem , & against Iuda , til he cast them away from his face : and Sedecias reuolted from the King of Babylon. 4. And it came to passe in the ninth yeare of his reigne , in the tenth month , the tenth of the month , came Na-buchodonosor the King of Babylon , himself and al his armie against Ierusalem , and they besieged it , and built against it munitions round about. 5. And the citie was besieged vntil the eleuenth yeare of King Sedecias. 6. And in the fourth month , the ninth of the month , a famine possessed the citie : and there were no victuals for the people of the land. 7. And a breach was made into the citie , and al the men of warre fled, and went out of the citie in the night by the way of the gate that is between the two wals, and leadeth to the Kings garden (the Chaldees besieging the citie round about) & they departed by the way, that leadeth into the wildernes. 8. But the armie of the Chaldees pursued the King: and they apprehended Sedecias in the desert, which is beside Iericho: and al his trayne fled scattering from him. 9. And when they had taken the King, they brought him to the King of Babylon into Reblatha, which is in the land of Emath; and he spake to him iudgements. 10. And the King of Babylon killed the soones of Sedecias before his eyes: yea & al the Princes of Iuda he slew in Reblatha. 11. And he plucked out the eyes of Sedecias, & bound him with fetters; & the King of Babylon brought him into Babylon: and he put him in the prison-house euen to the day of his death. 12. And in the fifth month, the tenth of the month, the same is the nineteenth yeare of Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon: came Nabuzardan the Prince of the warfare, who stood before the King of Babylon in Ierusalem. 13. And he burnt the house of our Lord, and the Kings house, and al the houses of Ierusalem, and euerie great house he burnt with fire. 14. And al the host of the Chaldees that was with the Prince of the warfare, destroyed al the wal of Ierusalem round about. 15. But of the poore of the people, and of the rest of the vulgar sort, which remayned in the citie, and of the fugitiues, that were fled to the King of Babylon, and the rest of the multitude, Nabuzardan the Prince of the warfare transported. 16. But of the poore of the land Nabuzardan the Prince of warfare left some to be dressers of vineyards, and husbandmen. 17. The brasen pillars also, that were in the house of our Lord, and the feet, and the sea of brasse, that was in the house of our Lord, the Chaldees brake: and they tooke al the brasse of them into Babylon. 18. And the kettles, and the fleshhooks, and the psalteries, and the phials, and the litle mortars, and al the brasen vessels, that had been in the ministrie, they tooke: 19. and the water pots, and the censars, and the pitchers, and the basins, and the candlesticks, & the mortars, & the goblets as manie as of gold, of gold, & as manie as of siluer, of siluer, did the Prince of the warfare take: 20. and two pillars, & one sea, & twelue oxen of brasse, that were vnder the feet, which King Salomon had made in the house of our Lord: there was no weight of the brasse of al these vessels. 21. And concerning the pillars, there were eighteen cubits of height in one pillar: & a corde of twelue cubits did compasse it about: moreouer the thicknes thereof, of foure fingers, and within it was holow. 22. And the litle heads of brasse vpon both: the height of one litle head, of fise cubits: and the litle nettes, and the pomegranates vpon the crowne round about, al of brasse. Likewise of the second pillar, & the pomegranates. 23. And there were nintie six pomegranates hanging downe: and al the pomegranates an hundred, were compassed with litle nets. 24. And the master of the warfare tooke Saraias the chiefe Priest, and Sophonias the second Priest:

3. Reg. 7:

and the three keepers of the entrie. 25. And of the citie he tooke one eunuch, that was chiefe ouer the men of warre : and seuen men of them, that saw the Kings face, that were found in the citie : and a scribe the captayne of the souldiers, who tryed the yong souldiers : and three score of the people of the land, that were found in the middes of the citie. 26. And Nabuzardan the Prince of the warfare tooke them, and he brought them to the King of Babylon into Reblatha. 27. And the King of Babylon struck them : and he killed them in Reblatha in the land of Emath : and Iuda was transported from his land. 28. This is the people, which Nabuchodonosor transported : In the seuenth year, Iewes three thousand and twentic three. 29. In the eighteenth year of Nabuchodonosor from Ierusalem soules eight hundred thirtie two. 30. In the three and twentith year of Nabuchodonosor, Nabuzardan the Prince of the warfare transported of the Iewes seuen hundred fourtie five soules. al the soules therfore were foure thousand six hundred. 31. And it came to passe in the seuen and thirtith yeare of the transmigration of Ioachin the King of Iuda, the twelfth month, the five and twentic of the month, Euilmerodach the King of Babylon lifted vp in the very yeare of his reigne, the head of Ioachin the King of Iuda, and he brought him out of the prison house. 32. And he spake with him good things, & he sette his throne aboue the thrones of the Kings, that were after himself in Babylon. 33. And he changed his prison garments, and he did eate bread before him alwaies al the daies of his life. 34. And his allowance of meate, a continual prouision of meate was giuen him by the King of Babylon, euerie day a certaine, euen vnto the day of his death, al the daies of his life.

OF IEREMIES

LAMENTATIONS.

2. Paral.
15. v. 25.

THESE Lamentations, in Greek called Threni, and by the Hebrew Rabbins intituled Cinoth, were written by Ieremie before the greatest part of his other Prophecies (as seemeth most probable to S. Ierom) and were first songe at the death of Iosias King of Iuda. Againe when King Sedecias with manie others were taken captiues, manie also slaine, and the Temple and citie of Ierusalem destroyed. But most especially he propheciethe the Iewes miserable estate, and iust cause of Lamentation after Christs comming, and their reiecting him. And therefore his Church singeth the same in the Anuersarie, or Commemoration of his Passion and Death, and most piously inuiceth al sinners, both Iewes and Gentils, to returne vnto Christ our Redeemer, saying: Ierusalem, Ierusalem conuertere ad Dominum Deum tuum. In this litle booke the diligent reader wil easely obserue manie doleful pathetical speeches, powred out from a pensie hart, as in great calamities it commonly happeneth, with litle connexion of sentences, but otherwise foure whole chapters are very artificially compiled in verse, not by number of times, with measure of long & short syllables, as the Greeks & Latins vse, but after the Hebrew manner, obseruing number of syllables, and beginning euerie verse with a distinct letter, from the first to the last in order, with some smal varietie, of the Hebrew Alphabet. Doubtles with great mysseries, as S. Ierom iudgeth, and therefore explicateth the significations, and certaine connexions of the two and twentieth Hebrew letters: as we haue noted vpon the 118. Psalm: but aboue the capacitie of our vnderstanding. In the last chapter the Prophet omitting the obseruation of initial letters, in twentieth two verses prayeth lamentably, as the whole people shal pray in captiuitie.

It is probable that the Lamentations were written before his other Prophecies.

Doleful speeches are commonly vttered without connexion of sentences.

These Lamentations are artificially composed. And besides the historical sense conteyne hidden mysseries.

* These words are not Ieremias, but added by the 70. or other Interpreter, as a Preface to his Lamentations. The miserable change in Ierusalem made the beholders astonished.

* And it came to passe, after that Israel was brought into captiuitie, and Ierusalem was desolate, Ieremie the Prophet sat weeping, and he mourned with this lamentation vpon Ierusalem, and with a pensiue mind sighing, and wayling he sayd.

C H A P. I.

HOW doth the citie full of people, sit solitarie: how is the ladie of the Gentils become as a widow: the principesse of prouinces is made tributarie?

Aleph.

2. Weeping she hath wept in the night, and her teares are on her cheeks: there is none to comfort her of al her deare ones: al her freinds haue despised her, and are become her enimies.

Beth.

3. Judas is (a) gone into transmigration because of affliction, and the multitude of bondage: she hath dwelt among the Gentils, neither hath she found rest: al her persecuters haue apprehended her within the straites.

Ghimel.

4. The waies of Sion mourne, because there are none that come to the solemnitie: al her gates are destroyed: her Priests sighing: her virgins lothsome, and herself is oppressed with bitternes.

Daleth.

5. Her aduersaries are made (a) in the head, her enimies are enriched: because our Lord hath spoken vpon her for the multitude of her iniquities: her litle ones are led into captiuitie, before the face of the afflicter.

He.

6. And from the daughter of Sion al her beautie is departed: her Princes are become as (c) rammes not fynding pastures: and they are gone without strength before the face of the purtuer.

Vau.

(a) Some Iewes seeing their brethren led captiues into Babylon, we into Ægypt, but there also were in miserie.
(b) It is a desolate miserie when enimies obtaine domination.

7. Ierusalem hath remembred the dayes of her affliction, and pre-uatication of al her things worthie to be desyred, which she had from the daies of old, when her people fel in the enemies hand, and there was no helper: the enemies haue seen her, and haue scorned her sabbaths.

Herb.

8. Ierusalem hath sinned a sinne, therefore is she made vnstable: al that did glorifie her, haue despised her, because they haue seen her igno-minie: but she sighing is turned backward.

Tesh.

9. Her (d) filthines is on her feete, neither hath she remembred her end: she is pulled downe exceedingly, not hauing a comforter: see O Lord mine affliction, because the enemy is exalted.

(d) Idolatrie which is spiritual adultrie.

10. The enemy hath thrust his hand to al her things worthie to be de-syred: because she hath seen the Gentils enter into her sanctuarie, of whom thou gauest commandment that they should not enter into thy Church.

Ceph.

11. Al her people sighing, and seeking bread: they haue giuen al precious things for meate to refresh the soule, see O Lord and consider, because I am become vyle.

Lamed.

12. O alye that passe by the way, attend, and see if there be sorow like to my sorow: because he hath made (e) vintage of me, as our Lord hath spoken in the day of the wrath of his furie.

Nun.

14. The yoke of mine iniquities hath watched: they are folded together in his hand, and put vpon my neck: my strength is weakned: our Lord hath giuen me into the hand, from which I can not rise.

Samech.

15. Our Lord hath taken away al my magnifical ones out of the mid-des of me: he hath called a time against me, to destroy mine elect: our Lord hath troden the wine-presse to the virgin the daughter of Iuda.

21. They haue heard that I doe sigh, and there is none to comfort me: al mine enimies haue heard mine euil, they haue reioyced, because thou hast done it: thou hast brought a day of consolation, and they shal be made lyke to me. Sin.

22. Let al their euil enter in before thee: and vintage them, as thou hast vintaged me for al mine iniquities: for my sighings are manie, and my hart is sorowful. Thau.

CHAP. II.

a) Punishment permitted by God is truly ascribed to him as his fact.

NOW (a) hath our Lord in his furie covered the daughter of Sion with darknes: cast forth the noble one of Israel from heauen to the earth, and hath not remembered the foot-stoole of his feet in the day of his furie. Aleph.

2. Our Lord hath cast downe headlong, and hath not spared, al the beautiful things of Iacob: he hath destroyed in his furie the munitions of the virgin of Iuda, and cast it downe to the ground: he hath polluted the Kingdom, and the Princes therof. Beth.

b) Strength and forces are called hornes, so euerie horne signifieth al their strength.

3. He hath broken (b) euerie horne of Israel in the wrath of furie: he hath turned away his right hand backward from the face of the enemy: and he hath kindled in Iacob as it were the fyre of a flame deuouring round about. Ghimel.

4. He hath bent his bow as an enemy, he hath fastned his right hand as an aduersarie: and he hath killed al, that was fayre to behold in the tabernacle of the daughter of Sion, he hath powred out his indignation as fyre. Daleth.

5. Our Lord is become as an enemy: he hath cast downe Israel headlong, he hath cast downe headlong al her wals: he hath destroyed the munitions therof, and hath replenished in the daughter of Iuda the humbled man and humbled woman. He.

6. And he hath destroyed his tent as a garden, he hath throwen downe his tabernacle: our Lord hath brought festiuitie and sabbath in Sion to obliuion: and King and Priest into reproch, and into the indignation of his furie. Chan.

c) Suffered his Sanctuarie to be polluted.

7. Our Lord hath reiected, he (c) hath cursed his sanctification: he hath deliuered the wals of the towers therof into the hand of the enemy: they haue made a noyse in the house of our Lord, as in a solemne day. Zain.

8. Our Lord hath meant to destroy the wal of the daughter of Sion: he hath stretched out his corde, and hath not turned away his hand from destruction: and the forewal hath mourned, and the wal is destroyed together. Heth.

9. Her gares are fastned in the ground: he hath destroyed, and Teth.

broken

broken her bærres : her King and her Princes in the Gentils : there is no law , and her Prophets haue not found vision from our Lord.

Jod.

10. The ancients of the daughter of Sion haue sitten on the ground, they haue held their peace : they haue sprinkled their heads with dust, they are girded with haire cloths , the virgins of Ierusalem haue cast downe their heads to the ground.

Saph.

11. Myne eies haue fayled for terres , my bowels are troubled : my liuer is poured out on the earth , for the destruction of the daughter of my people , when the litle one , and the sucking faynted in the streets of the towne.

Lamed

12. They sayd to their mothers : Where is wheate and wyne? when they faynted as the wounded in the streets of the citie : when they yealded vp the ghosts in the bosome of their mothers.

Mem.

13. Wherto shal I compare thee ? or wherto shal I liken thee , ô daughter of Ierusalem : wherto shal I make thee equal , and comfort thee , ô virgin daughter of Sion ? For great is thy destruction (d) as the sea : who shal heale thee?

Nun

14. Thy Prophets haue seen false & foolish things for thee : neither haue they opened thine iniquitie , to prouoke thee to penance , but they haue seen false burdens and banishments for thee.

Samech.

15. Al that passed by the way haue clapped their hands vpon thee : they haue hissed , and moued their head vpon the daughter of Ierusalem , saying : Is this the citie of perfect beautie , the ioy of al the earth?

Phe.

16. Al thine enemies haue opened their mouth vpon thee : they haue hissed , and gnashed with the teeth , & haue sayd : We wil deuour : for this is the day , which we expected : we haue found it , we haue seen it.

Sin.

17. Our Lord hath done the things that he meant , he hath accomplished his word , which he commanded from the dayes of old : he hath destroyed , and hath not spared , & he hath made the enemy ioyful ouer thee , and hath exalted the borne of thine aduersaries.

Tade.

18. Their hart hath cryed to our Lord vpon the wals of the daughter of Sion : Shede teares as a torrent by day and night : giue no rest to thy self , neither let the apple of thine eye cease.

Coph.

19. Arise , prayse in the night in the beginning of the watches : poure out thy hart as waters before the sight of our Lord : lift vp thy hands to him for the life of thy litle ones , which haue fainted for famine in the head of al high wayes.

Res.

20. See ô Lord , and contider whom thou hast vintaged thus : (g) shal women then eat their owne fruit , lie in ones of the measure of a spanne : is the Priest , & the Prophet slaine in the sanctuarie of our Lord?

Sin.

21. The childe & the old man lay on the ground without , my virgins : and my yongmen are fallen by the sword : thou hast killed in the day of thy furie : thou hast stricken , (h) neither hast thou had mercie.

(d) As the sea exceedeth al other waters , so the affliction of Ierusalem surpasseth other afflictions , which is spoken by hyperbole to signifie the grievousnes thereof.

(e) This happened before in Samaria . 4. Reg. 6. and in the siege of Ierusalem , by Titus and Vespasian . Joseph. i. 7. & 8. de bello Iudaeo .
(f) More severely then thou art accustomed.

22. Thou hast called as it were to a solemne day ; those that should terrific me round about , and there was none in the day of the furie of our Lord , that escaped and was left : whom I brought vp , and nourished , mine enemie hath consumed them. Thau.

CHAP. III.

(a) Ieremie himself felt his part of this affliction.

THE man (a) that see my pouertie in the rod of his indignation. Aleph.

2. He hath led me , and brought me into darknes and not into light. Aleph.

3. Only against me he hath turned and hath conuerted his hand al the day. Aleph.

4. He hath made my skinne old and my flesh , he hath broken my bones. Beth.

5. He hath built round about me , and he hath compased me with (b) gaul , and (c) labour. Beth.

6. In darke places he hath placed me as the euerlasting dead. Beth.

7. He hath built round about against me , that I goe not forth : he hath aggravated my fetters. Ghimel.

8. Yea and when I shal crie , and aske , he hath excluded my prayer. Ghimel.

9. He hath shut vp my wayes with square stones , he hath subuerted my pathes. Ghimel.

10. He is become vnto me a beare lying in waite : a lyon in secret places. Daleth.

11. He hath subuerted my paths , and hath broken me , he hath made me desolate. Daleth.

12. He hath bent his bow , and set me as a marke for the arrow. Daleth.

13. He hath shot in my reines the daughters of his quiuer. He.

14. I am made a derision to al my people , their song al the day. He.

15. He hath replenished me with bitternes , he hath inebriated me with wormwood. He.

16. And he (d) hath broken my teeth by number , he hath fed me with ashes. Vau.

17. And my soule is repelled frō peace , I haue forgotten good things. Vau.

18. And I sayd : Mine end is (e) perished , and mine hope from our Lord. Vau.

19. Remember my pouertie , and transgression , the wormwood , and the gaul. Zain.

20. Remembring I wil be mindful , and my soule shal languish in me. Zain.

21. Recording this thing in my hart , therefore wil I hope. Zain.

THE ARGUMENT OF BARUCHS PROPHECIE.

MANIE ancient Fathers supposed this Prophecie to be Ieremies: though none doubted but Baruch his scribe was the writer thereof. So S. Xistus Epist. ad omnes fideles. S. Ireneus, li. 5. c. 35. S. Clement of Alexandria, li. 1. c. 10. & li. 2. c. 3. Pedag. S. Cyprian, li. 2. c. 5. & 6. contra Iudaos. Eusebius Cæsariensis, li. de Propheticoꝝ libror. appellationibus, Cap. de Ieremia, & li. 6. c. 19. Demonst. Euangel. Lactantius, li. 4. c. 13. Diuin. Instit. The first Council of Nice, li. 2. fol. 105. & 109. S. Hilarie, li. 5. de Trinit. sub finem. S. Cyril of Ierusalē, Cathedesi. 4. & 11. & de Concurſu Domini. S. Basil li. 4. cont. Eunomium. S. Ambrose, li. de fide c. 7. cont. Arianos. li. de Panit c. 8. & li. 3. Examer. c. 14. S. Gregorie Nazianzen, Orat. 49. de fide, & Epist. 2. ad Cledonium. S. Epiphanius, cont. Nazareos, & cont. Ebrionas. S. Chriſtoſtom, Ser. de Trinit. & aduers. Gentiles. S. Augustin, li. 18. c. 33. de Ciuit. & Quest. Vet. & Noui Testa. q. 102. S. Prosper par. 2. c. 9. & p. 3. c. 3. de promiss. & predict. S. Theodoretus, Dialogo 1. Eranistes. (who also writeth Commentaries vpon this Book, as vpon diuine Scripture) c. 2. v. 9. These and others alleadge this Prophecie as Ieremies. Some also vnder the name of Baruch. As Origen, li. 2. c. 3. Periarck. S. Cyril of Alexandria, li. 10. in Iulianum, S. Gregorie Nyssen, Orat. 1. de pauperibus amandis. S. Athanasius, Orat. 3. cont. Arianos. Though in his Synopsi he mentioneth not Baruch, yet he, as also S. Augustin, l. 2. c. 8. Doct. Christ. S. Gelacius, dist. 15. and others in their Catalogues of Canonical Scriptures, comprehend this Book vnder the name of Ieremie. But whether Baruch was the immediate Author vnder God, or the writer thereof as of an other mans Prophecie (as the Euangelistes writ the words of Christ and others in the Ghospels, and in the Actes of the Apostles) alwayes it is certaine, the Holie Ghost directed him, that he could not erre in writing it. And the ancient Fathers, and Councils euer accepted this booke as Diuine Scripture. The Council also of Laodicea, in the last Canon, expressly nameth Baruch, Lamentations, and Ieremies Epistle. And lastly the Councils of Florence, de Vnione Armenorum, and of Trent Sess. 4. expressly define that Baruch is Canonical Scripture. In the Greek this booke is placed before the Lamentations. which S. Ierom not finding in Hebrew, nor in the Canon of the Iewes, vrgeth it not against them. Yet testifieth that he found it in the vulgate Latin Edition, and that it conteineth manie things of Christ, & the later times. According to the historical sense, the authour in five chapters exhorteth the Iewes to repentance, and patience, prophecying that they should be brought into more distresse and captiuitie, then as yet they were, but should afterwards be released. The sixth chapter is Ieremies Epistle.

This Prophecie is supposed by many to be Ieremies.

By others accounted Baruchs,

By al holden to be Canonical Scripture.

Why S. Ierome vrgeth it not against the Iewes. The contents.

THE PROPHECIE OF BARUCH.

CHAP. I.

The Iewes in Babylon hearing heard Baruchs Book red, 6. send the same with money to Ierusalem, 10. requesting their brethren there to offer sacrifice, and to pray for the King and Prince of Babylon; and for them, 15. acknowledging their manifold finnes.

AND these be the words of the Book, that Baruch the sonne of Nerias, the sonne of Maasras, the sonne of Sedecias, the sonne of Sedei, the sonne of Helcias wrote in Babylon, 2. in the fifth yeare, in the seuench day of the month, at (a) the time that the Chaldees tooke Ierusalem, and burnt it with fyre, 3. And Baruch read the words of his Book vnto the eares of Iechonias the sonne of Ioakim King of Iuda, and to the eares of al the people comming to the Book, 4. and to the eares of the mightie, the sonnes of the Kings, and to the eares of the ancients, and to the eares of the people, from the least even to the greatest of them, that dwelt in Babylon, by the riuer Sodi. 5. Who hearing it wept, and fasted, and prayed in the sight of our Lord. 6. And they gathered money, according as euerie mans hand was able, 7. and they sent into Ierusalem to Ioakim the sonne of Helcias, the sonne of Salom, Priest, and to the Priests, and to al the people, that were found with him in Ierusalem. 8. When he tooke the vessels of the temple of our Lord, which had been taken away out of the temple, to returne them into the Land of Iuda the tenth day of the month Siuan, the silver vessels, which Sedecias the sonne of Iohas the King of Iuda made, 9. after that Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon had taken Iechonias, and the Princes, and al the mightie, and the people of the land from Ierusalem, and brought them bound into Babylon. 10. And they said: Behold we haue sent you money, with the which bye ye holocausts, and frankincense, and make manna, and offer for sinne at the altar of the Lord our God: 11. and pray ye for the life of Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon, and for the life of Balthasar his sonne, that their dayes may be as the dayes of heauen vpon the earth: 12. and that our Lord giue vs strength, and illuminate our eyes, that we may liue vnder the shadow of Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon, and vnder the shadow of Balthasar his sonne, and (v) may serue them manie dayes, and may find grace in their sight. 13. And for our selues pray ye to the Lord our God: because we haue sinned to the Lord our God, and his furie is not turned away from vs euen to this day. 14. And read ye this Book, which we haue sent to you to be recited in the temple of our Lord, in a solemne day, and in a day conuenient. 15. And you shall say: To the Lord our God iustice: but to vs confusion of our face: as is this day to al Iuda, and them that dwell in Ierusalem, 16. to our Kings, and to our Princes, and to our Priests, and to our Prophets, and to our fathers. 17. We haue sinned before the Lord our God, and believed him not, hauing diffidence in him: 18. and we would not be made subiect to him, and we haue not heard the voice of the Lord our God, to walke in his commandments, which he hath giuen vs. 19. From the day, that he brought our fathers out of the Land of Ægypt, euen to this day, we would not be brought to believe the Lord our God: and *dissipated we reuolted, that we might not heare his voice. 20. And manie euils and maledictions haue clouen to vs, which our Lord appoynted to Moyse his seruant: who brought our fathers out of the Land of Ægypt, to giue vs a land flowing with milke and honie, as at this present day. 21. And we haue not heard the voice of the Lord our God according to al the words of the Prophets, which he hath sent to vs: 22. & we haue gone away euerie man into the sense of our malignant hart, to serue strange Gods, doing euils before the eyes of the Lord our God.

(b) Seeing it was Gods will they should be in captiuity, they desired rather to be vnder the Chaldees then any other fo-reine nation.

C H A P. I I.

The same captiues further confesse, that their calamities are iustly come vpon them for their iniquities, 11. and therefore lamensably pray for Gods mercie, as he promised by Moyses to penitents.

OR the which thing the Lord our God hath established his word, that he speake to vs, and to our iudges, that haue iudged Israel, and to our Kings, and to our Princes, and to al Israel and Iuda : 2. that our Lord might bring vpon vs great euils, which were not done vnder the heauen, as haue been done in Ierusalem, according to the things that are written in the law of Moyses : 3. that a man (a) should eate the flein of his sonne, & the flesh of his daughter. 4. And he hath giuen them vnder the hand of al the Kings, that are round about vs into reproch, & into desolation among al peoples, into which our Lord hath disperfed vs. 5. And we are made vnderneath, & not aboue: because we haue sinned to the Lord our God, in not obeying his voice. 6. To the Lord our God iustice: but to vs, & to our fathers confuson of face, as is this day. 7. Because our Lord hath spoken vpon vs al these euils, that are come vpon vs: 8. & we haue not besought the face of the Lord our God, to returne euerie one of vs frō our most wicked waies. 9. And our Lord hath watched in euils, and hath brought them vpon vs: because our Lord is iust in al his works, which he hath commanded vs: 10. and we haue not heard his voice to walke in the precepts of our Lord, which he hath giuen before our face. 11. And now ô Lord God of Israel: which brought out thy people out of the Land of Egypt in a strong hand, & in signes, & in wonders, & in thy great strength, & in a mightie arme, & madest thee a name as is this day: 12. we haue sinned, we haue done impiously, we haue dealt vniustly, ô Lord our God, in al thy (b) iustices. 13. Let thy wrath be turned away from vs: because we are left a few among the nations, where thou hast disperfed vs. 14. Heare ô Lord our prayers, & our petitions, & bring vs out for thine owne sake: & grant vs to fynd grace before their face, that haue led vs away. 15. that al the earth may know that thou art the Lord our God, & that thy name is inuocated vpon Israel, and vpon his stocke. 16. Looke ô Lord from thy holie house vpon vs, and incline thine eare, and heare vs. 17. Open thine eies, & see: because the dead that are in hel, whose spirit is taken from their bowels, shal not giue honour and iustification to our Lord: 18. but the soule, that is sorowful for the greatnes of euil, and goeth crooked, and weake, and the eies fayling, and the hungrie soule giueth glorie & iustice to thee their Lord. 19. not according to the iustices of our fathers doe we power out prayers and aske mercie before thy sight, O Lord our God: 20. but because thou hast sent thy wrath, and thy furie vpon vs, as thou hast spoken by the hand of thy seruants the Prophets, saying: 21. Thus sayth our Lord: Bowe downe your shoulder, & your necke, and doe works for the King of Babylon: and you shal sitte in the land, which I haue giuen to your fathers: 22. But if you wil not heare the voice of the Lord your God, to worke for the King of Babylō: I wil make you to faile out of the cities of Iuda, and from without Ierusalem, 23. and I wil take from you the voice of mirth, and the voice of ioy, and the voice of the bridegrome, and the voice of the bride, and al the land shal be without foote-step that inhabite it. 24. And they heard not thy voice, to worke for the King of Babylon: & thou hast established thy words, which thou spakest by the hands of thy seruants the Prophets, that the bones of our Kings, and of our fathers should be transported out of their place: 25. and behold they are cast forth in the heate of the sunne, & in the frost of the night: and they are dead in verie sore paines, in famine, and by sword, and by casting forth. 26. And hast made the (c) temple, in which thy name was there inuocated, as it is this day, for the iniquitie of the house of Israel, & of the house of Iuda. 27. And thou hast done in vs, O Lord our God, according to al thy goodnes, and according to al that thy great compassion: 28. as thou spakest by the hand of thy seruant Moyses, in the day, that thou didst command him to write thy law before the children of Israel, 29. saying: If you wil not heare my voice, this great multitude shal be turned into a verie litle one among the Gentils, whither I wil disperse them: 30. because I know that the people wil not heare me, for it is a people of a stiffe necke: and they shal be conuerted to their hart in the land of their captiuitie: 31. and they shal know that I am the Lord their God: and I wil giue them a hart, and they shal vnderstand: and eares, and they shal heare. 32. And they shal praise me in the land of their captiuitie, and shal be mindful of my name. 33. And they shal turne away themselves from their hard backe, & from their malignant works: because they shal remember the way of their fathers, that sinned against me. 34. And I wil recal them backe into the land, which I sware to their fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Iacob, and they shal haue the dominion therof: and I wil multiplie them, and they shal not be lesned. 35. And I wil establish vnto them (d) an other testament euerlasting, that I be their God, and they shal be my people: and I wil no more moue my people the children of Israel from the land, that I haue giuen them.

Because thou sittest for euer, and shal we perish euerlastingly? 4. O Lord omnipotēt, God

Israel, heare now the prayer of (a) the dead of Israel, and of their children, that haue sinned before thee, and haue not heard the voice of the Lord their God, and euils haue stuck fast to vs. 5. Reméber not the iniquities of our fathers, but remember thy hand, & thy name in this time: 6. because thou art the Lord our God, and we wil praise thee, ô Lord: 7. because for this end thou hast giuen thy feare in our harts, and that we may inuocate thy name, & may praise thee in our captiuitie, because we are conuerted from the iniquitie of our fathers, which haue sinned before thee. 8. And behold we are in our captiuitie this day, wherby thou hast dispersed vs into reproch, and into malediction, and into sinne, according to al the iniquities of our fathers, which haue reuolted from thee, ô Lord our God. 9. (a) Wisdom wherof he spake in the former chapter (v. 12.) is the law and commandment of God.

Gentils, not into perdition: but for that in anger you prouoked God to wrath, you are deliuered to the aduersaries. 7. For you haue exasperated him that made you, the eternal God, immolating to diuels, and not to God. 8. For you haue forgotten God, who hath nourished you, and your nource Ierusalem you haue made sorowful. 9. For she saw the wrath comming from God to you, and she sayd: Heare ye confines of Sion, for God hath brought me great mourning: 10. For I haue seen the captiuitie of my people, and of my sonnes, and daughters, which the euerlasting hath brought vpon them. 11. For I nourished them with ioyfulness: but I haue left them with weeping and mourning. 12. Let no man reioyce ouer me a widow, and desolate: I am forsaken of manie for the sinnes of my children, because they haue declined from the law of God. 13. And his iustices they haue not knowen, nor walked by the wayes of Gods commandments, neither haue they entred by the pathes of his truth & iustice. 14. Let the borderers of Sion come, & remember the captiuitie of my sonnes and daughters, which the euerlasting hath brought vpon them. 15. For he hath brought vpon them a nation from a farre, a wicked nation, and of an other tong: 16. which haue not reuerenced the ancient, nor pitied the children, and haue led away the beloued of the widow, and made the sole woman desolate of children. 17. But (b) as for me what can I help you? 18. For he that hath brought the euils vpon you, he wil deliuer you out of the hands of your enemies. 19. walke children, walke: for I am left alone. 20. I haue put off the stole of peace, and I haue put vpon me the sackcloth of prayer, & I wil erie to the Highest in my dayes. 21. Be of good comfort my children, crie to our Lord, and he wil deliuer you out of the hand of the Princes your enemies. 22. For I haue hoped in the euerlasting for your saluation: and ioy is come to me from the holie one vpon the mercie, which shal come to you from our euerlasting sauour. 23. For I sent you forth with mourning and weeping: but our Lord wil bring you backe to me with ioy and gladnes for euer. 24. For as the neighbours of Sion haue seen your captiuitie from God: so shal they see also with celeritie your saluation from God; which shal come vpon you with great honour, and euerlasting brightnes. 25. Children patiently sustaine the wrath, which is come vpon you: for thyne enimie hath persecuted thee, but thou shalt quickly see his destruction: and thou shalt get vp vpon his necke. 26. My delicate ones haue walked rough waies, for they are led as a flocke taken violently of the enimies. 27. Be of good comfort children, and crie out to our Lord: for there shall be remembrance of you with him, that hath led you away. 28. For as your minde hath been to stray from God: ten tymes so much shal you returning againe seek him. 29. For he that hath brought the euils vpon you, he againe wil bring vnto you euerlasting ioy with your saluation: 30. Be of good comfort Ierusalem: for he exhorteth thee, that named thee. 31. The wicked afflictors shal perish, that haue vexed thee: & they that haue reioyced in thy ruine, shal be punished. 32. The cities which thy children haue serued, shal be punished: and she that receiued thy children. 33. For as she hath reioyced in thy ruine, and been glad at thy fall: so shal she be made sorowful in her owne desolation. 34. And the reioycing of her multitude shal be cut off, and her gladnes shal be turned to mourning. 35. For fyre shal come vpon her from the euerlasting in long during dayes, and she shal be inhabited of diuels a great time. 36. Looke about O Ierusalem toward the East, and see the ioy that commeth to thee from God. 37. For behold thy children come, whom thou hast let goe disperfed, they come gathered together from the East euen to the West, in the word of the holie one reioycing to the honour of God.

A consolatorie prophetic to Ierusalem, that her children shal be reduced with ioy from captiuitie.

PV T off Ierusalem the robe of mourning, and of thy vexation: and put on the beautie, and honour of that euerlasting glorie, which thou hast of God. 2. God wil cloath thee with the doublet (a) of iustice, & wil put vpon thy head the mitre of euerlasting honour. 3. For God wil shew his brightnes in thee, which is vnder the heauen. 4. For thy name shal be named of God to thee for euer: The peace of iustice, and honour of pietie. 5. Arise Ierusalem, and stand on high: and looke about toward the East, and see thy children gathered together from the rising of the sunne to the going downe, in the word of the holie reioycing at the memorie of God. 6. For they went out from thee on foot led by the enemies: but our Lord wil bring them to the exalted into honour as children of the Kingdom. 7. For God hath appoynted to humble euerie high mountaine, and euerlasting rocks, & to fill vp valleyes to be equal with the earth: that Israel may walke diligently to the honour of God. 8. And the woods also, and euerie tree of sweetnes haue ouershadowed Israel by the commandment of God. 9. For God wil bring Israel with ioyfulness in the light of his maestic, with mercie, and iustice, which is of him.

(a) Mercie is here called iustice, in respect of Gods promise. for although his promise was of his only mercie, yet the performance proceedeth also from his iustice.

(a) Ieremie writ this Epistle before the common people were in Babylon, but Baruch red it vnto them in Babylon, and so it was sent back to the rest, which were yet in Ierusalē.

b. Ten, being the first article number, signifie a general number; and so seuen generations signifie seuen times ten, that is seuentie yeares. Sometimes seuen doe signifie a generalitie, because this whole world is counted by seuen dayes: sometimes, 100. signifie the same, as Gen. 15. v. 16. 400 yeares are called four generations.

(c) The Angel which guided this people coming out of Egypt. Exo. 12. 33. protected them also in Babylon.

(d) The innumerable absurdities in forging & adoring false Gods here recited by the Prophet, shew how foolish & senseless they are, that serue idols, or any images for Gods.

C H A P. V I.

Ieremie by his epistle forewarneth the Iewes, that they shal be captiues in Babylon: and after seuentie yeares shal be released: 3. exhorting them at that time to auoid idolatrie: 7. largely shewing the vanitie of idols.

COPIE of the Epistle that Ieremie sent to them that were (a) to be led away captiues into Babylon, by the King of Babylon, to tel them according to that which was commanded him of God.

1. For the finnes that you haue sinned before God, you shal be led away captiue into Babylon by Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon. 2. Being entred therefore into Babylon, you shal be there manie yeares, and long times, euen vnto (b) seuen generations: and after this I will bring you forth from thence with peace. 3. But now you shal see in Babylon Gods of gold, and of siluer, and of stone, and of wood to be caried vpon shoulders, shewing feare to the Gentils. 4. Beware therefore lest you also be like to the doing of strangers, and you be afrayd, and feare take you in them. 5. Seeing therefore the multitude adoring behind, and before, say you in your harts: Thou oughtest to be adored O Lord. 6. For mine (c) Angel is with you: and my selfe (d) will aske account of your soules. 7. For their tongue polished by the craftesman, themselves also layd ouer with gold, and siluer are false things, and they can not speake. 8. And as to a virgin that loueth ornaments: so taking gold their Gods are forged. 9. Their Gods certes haue golden crownes vpon their heads: wherof the Priests secretly conuey away from them gold, and siluer, and bestow it on themselves. 10. Yea and they giue therof to strumpets, and they decke whores: and againe when they receiue it of the harlots, they decke their Gods. 11. But the feare not deliuered from the rust, and the moth. 12. And these being covered with a purple garment, they wpe their face for the dust of the house, which is very much among them. 13. And he hath a scepter as a man, as a iudge of the countrie, that killeth him not that offendeth against him. 14. He hath also in his hand a sword, and an axe, but his selfe he deliuereth not from the sword, and from robbers, wherby be it knowne to you that they are not Gods. 15. Therefore feare them not. For as a mans vessel being broken is made vprofitable: such also are their Gods: 16. they being placed in the house, their eies are ful of dust by the feet of them that goe in. 17. And as vpon one, that hath offended the King, the gates be shut round about, or as the dead brought to the graue, so doe the Priests gard the doores with shurrings, and lockes, lest they be spoyled of theeues. 18. They light candles to them, and that manie, of the which they can see none : but they are as beames in the house. 19. And they say that the serpents which are of the earth , gnaw out their harts , whiles they eat them and their garment , & they feele not. 20. Their faces are blacke with the smoke , that is made in the house. 21. The owles , and the swallowes flye vpon their bodie , and vpon their head & the birds also, the cates in like manner. 22. Whereby you may know that they are not Gods. Therefore feare them not. 23. The gold also which they haue. is for bewtie : vnles a man wye off the rust, they shal not shine : for neither when they were molten , did they feele. 24. With (c) al price are they bought, whereas there is no breath in them. 25. As being without feet thy are caried vpon moulders, shewing their basenes to men. Be they confounded also that worship them. 26. Therefore if they fal to the ground, they rise not vp of themselves, nor if a man set him vpright , shal he stand by himself , but as to dead men their guits shal be set before them. 27. Their Priests sel their sacrifices, and abuse them : likewise also their wiues plucking from them, impart nothing , neither to the sicke, nor to the begger. 28. Of their sacrinces women in childbed , and in flowers doe touche : knowing therefore by these things that they are not Gods , feare them not. 29. For whence are they called Gods ? Because women offer to the Gods of siluer , and gold, & wood: 30. And Priests sit in their houses, hauing their garments rent, & their heads, & beard hauen, whose heads be bare. 31. And they were crying before their Gods, as at the super of the dead. 32. The Priests take away their garments , & they cloath their wiues & their children. 33. Neither if the y suffer anie euil , nor if anie good of any man , are they able to recompence it : neither can they make a King, nor take him away: 34. In like manner they can neither giue riches, nor requyte euil. If a man vow a vow vnto them , and performe it not ; neither this doe they require. 35. They deliuer not a man from death, nor saue the weak from the mightier. 36. The blind man they restore not to his sight: they shal not deliuer a man out of necessitie. 37. They shal not pitie the widow, nor doe good to the fatherlesse. 38. Like vnto the stones of the mountaine are their Gods, of wood, & of stone, & of gold, & of siluer, and they that worship them, shal be confounded : 39. How then is it to be supposed, or to be sayd, that they are Gods? 40. Moreouer the Chaldees themselues not honouring them : who when they heare that the dumme can not speak, they offer it to Bel, requesting of him, that it may speake. 41. As though they could feele that haue no motion : and they when they shal vnderstand, wil leaue them : for their Gods themselues haue no sense. 42. And women compassed with cords , sit in the waies, burning the bones of oliues. 43. And when one of them being drawn of some passenger shal lie with him , she vpbraydeth her neighbour, that she is not counted worthie , as her self , neither is her cord broken. 44. But al things that are done about them are false , how is it then to be thought , or to be said , that they be Gods? And they are made by craftesmen, and by goldsmiths. They shal be nothing els , but that which the Priests wil haue them to be. 46. For the artificers themselves, that make them, are of no long time. Why, can those things then that are made by them , be Gods? 47. But they haue left: forged things and reproch to them that shal come after. 48. For when battel cometh vpon them, & euils : the Priests deuise with themselves, where they may hide themselves with them. 49. How then may they be thought , that they are Gods , which neither deliuer themselves frō battel , nor saue themselves frō euils? 50. For seeing they be of wood, & layd ouer with gold with siluer, it shal be knowne afterwards that they are false things , of al the Gentils , and Kings : Which are manifest that they are no Gods, but the works of mens hands , and no worke of God is with them. 51. Whence then is it knowne , that they are not Gods , but the works of mens hands , and no worke of God is in them. 52. A King to be countrie they raise not vp, neither shal they giue rayne to men. 53. Iudgement also they shal not decerne, neither shal they deliuer countries from iniurie : because they can not doe nothing , as choughs between the heauen and the earth. 54. For when fire shal fal into the house of the wooden, and siluer , and golden Gods, their Priests indeed shal flye, and be deliuered: but themselves as beames shal be burnt in the middes. 55. And King and battel they shal not resist. How is it then to be supposed , or to be receiued that they are Gods? 56. Not from theeues , nor from robbers shal the Gods of wood, and of stone, and layd ouer with gold , and with siluer deliuer themselves , stronger then which are the wicked men. 57. The gold , and siluer, and the garment wherewith they are couered , they shal take from them , and shal depart , neither shal they helpe themselves. 58. Therefore it is better to be a King shewing his strength : or a profitable vessel in the house , wherin he wil glorie that possesseth it : or a doore in the house, which kepeth the things that are therein , then false Gods : 59. The sunne certes , and the moone, and the starres, wheras they are bright , and sent forth for profitable vies, obey. 60. Likewise also the lightning , when it shal appeare is perspicuous : and the wind also bloweth the self-same in euerie countrie. 61. And the clouds, which when God shal command to walke throughout the whole world, they doe that which is comanded them. 62. The tyre also being sent from aboue to consume mountaines, and woods , doeth that which is commanded it. But these neither in shapen, nor in vertues are like to one of them. 63. Wherfore neither is it to be thought, nor to be said, that they be Gods : wheras they can neither iudge iudgment, nor doe anie thing for men. 64. Knowing therfore that they are not Gods, then feare them not. 65. For neither shal they curse Kings , nor blesse them. 66. Signes also in the heauen to the Gentils they shew not, neither shal they shine as the sunne, nor giue light as the moone. 67. Beasts are better then they, which can flye vnder the rooffe, and profit themselves. 68. By no meanes therfore is it manifest vnto vs , that they are Gods :

for which cause feare them not. 69. For as in a garden of cucumbers a scarcrow keepeth nothing, so are their Gods of wood, and of siluer, and layd ouer with gold. 70. After the same sorte also in a garden the white thorne, vpon the which euerie bird sitteth. In like manner also their Gods of wood, and layd ouer with gold, and with siluer, are like to a dead bodie cast forth in the darke. 71. By the purple also and the murex colour layde vpon them, which fadeth, you shal know that they are not Gods. At the last also they are consumed, and shal be a reproch in the countrie. 72. Better is therefore the iust man, that hath not Idols: for he shal be farre from reproches.

EZECHIEL a Priest, and a Prophet, and at last a Martyr; as likewise Ieremie was, nere of the same age, prophesied for the most part the same things; but Ieremie began to prophesie a childe, in Ierusalem, and finally in Ægypt: Ezeciel when he was about thirtie yeares old, in Babylon, where he was in captiuitie with King Iechonias and others.

The beginning and end of his Prophecie are so obscure, that amongst the Hebrewes (saith S. Ierom.) none may reade these parts, nor the beginning of Genesis, before the age of thirtie yeares. The three first chapters contayne a wonderful vision, wherein the Prophet saw God as sitting in a glorious throne, resting as it were vpon foure liuing creatures, draw- ingly strangely foure wheels. Secondly, in one and twentie chapters folowing he prophesieth the destruction of Ierusalem and the Temple, with the captiuitie of the people for their enormous sinnes. Thirdly, in eleuen more chapters, he prophesieth the like of diuers other nations. Fourthly, in foure other chapters, he sheweth the reduction of the Iewes from captiuitie, but more especially the Redemption of mankinde by Christ, and the glorious state of his Church. Finally, in the other nine chapters, he describeth, but meruelous obscurely, his last vision of the restitution of the Temple, Sacrifices, Priests, and other religious things perceyning therto; but principally concerning the Church of Christ, both mil- itant and triumphant.

Ezechiel & Ieremie like in many respects, prophesied for most part the same things.

By the riuer of Chobar neere Babylon, Ezechiel seeth in vision a tempestuous whirlewinde; 5. and strange shapcs, 10. of a man, a lion, an oxc., and an eagle: 15. of foure wheels, 22. and of a man sitting gloriously on a throne in the firmament.

AND (a) it came to passe in (b) the thirtieth yeare, in the fourth, in the fifth of the month, when I was in the middles of the captiues beside the riuer Chobar, the heauens were opened, and I saw the visions of God. 2.
In the fifth of the month, the same is the fifth yeare of the transmigration of King Ioachin, 3. the word of our Lord was made to Ezechiel the sonne of Buzi Priest in the land of the Chaldees, by the riuer Chobar: and there the hand of our Lord was made vpo him. 4. And I saw, and behold a whirlewinde came from the North: & a great cloud, and a fire inuoluing, & brightnes round about it: and out of the middes therof as it were the forme of amber, that is, out of the middes of the fire. 5. and out of the middes therof the similitude of foure *liuing creatures: and this was their look: the similitude of a man in them. 6. There were foure faces to one, and foure wings to one. 7. Their feet streight feet, and the sole of their foot as the sole of a calues foote, and sparkes as the forme of glowing brasse. 8. And the hands of a man vnder their wings in foure parts: and they had faces, and wings by the foure parts. 9. And the wings of them were ioyned one to an other. They (c) returned not when they went: but euerie

one went before his face. 10. And the similitude of their countenance: the face of a man, and the face of a lyon on the right hand of them foure: and the face of an oxe, on the left hand of them foure: and the face of an eagle ouer them foure. 11. And their faces, and their wings were stretched out aboue: two wings of euerie one were ioyned, and two couered their bodies: 12. and euerie one of them walked before his face: where the force of the spirite was, thither they went: neither did they returne when they went: neither did they returne when they walked. 13. And the similitude of the liuing creatures, their looke as it were of coales of burning fire, and as it were the resemblance of lamps. This was the vitron running in the middes of the liuing creatures, brightnes of fire, and from the fire lightning going forth. 14. And the liuing creatures went, and returned after the similitude of glistering lightning. 15. And when I beheld the liuing creatures, there appeared one wheele vpon the earth by the liuing creatures, hauing foure faces. 16. And the shape of the wheels, and the worke of them, as it were apparence of the sea: and one similitude of them foure: and their apparence and worke, as if it were (d) a wheele in the middes of a wheel. 17. By their foure parts going they went: and they returned not when they walked. 18. There was a stature also to the wheels, and height, and a fearful forme: and the whole bodie was ful of eies round about them foure. 19. And when the liuing creatures walked, the wheels also walked together by them: and when the liuing creatures were lifted vp from the earth, the wheels also were lifted vp together. 20. Whither soeuer the spirit went, thither the spirit going, the wheels also were lifted vp withal, folowing it: for the spirit of life was in the wheels. 21. With them going they went, and with them standing they stood, and with them lifted vp from the earth, the wheels also were lifted vp together, folowing them: because the spirit of life was in the wheels. 22. And a similitude ouer the heads of the liuing creatures of the firmament, as it were the sight of cristal-dreadful, and stretched out ouer their heads aboue. 23. And vnder the firmament the wings of them streight one toward an other, euerie one with two wings couered his bodie, and the other was couered in like manner. 24. And I heard the sound of the wings, as it were the sound of manie waters, as it were the sound of the high God, when they walked, it was as the voice of a multitude, as the sound of a campe, and when they stood, their wings were let downe. 25. For when a voice was made aboue the firmament, that was ouer their head, they stood, and let downe their wings. 26. And (e) aboue the firmament, that hung ouer their head, as it were the forme of the sapphire stone the similitude of a throne, and vpon the similitude of the throne, a similitude as it were the shape of a man aboue. 27. And I saw as it were the forme of amber, as the resemblance of fire within it round about: from his loines & vpward, and from his loines downward, I saw as it were the resemblance of fire glistering round about. 28. As

d) S. Gregorie expounding this vision of the foure Euāgelistes, or of the whole new Testament, teacheth that the old & new Testaments are each in the other; both teaching the same things in diuers manners.

e) In this chapter the Prophet describeth

of foure wheels v. 15. & of a mā sitting in a throne in the firmamēt. v. 26.

For vnderstanding of all which, I arned large commentaries doe hardly suffice.

the forme of the bow when it is in a cloud on a day of rayne, this was the forme of the brightnes round about.

CHAP. II.

The Prophet terrified with the vision, is encouraged by Gods spirite. 3. And is sent to preach penance, and the seruice of God.

HIS was the vision of the similitude of the glorie of our Lord. And I saw, and I fel on my face, and I heard the voice of one speaking. And he said to me (a) Sonne of man, stand vpon thy feet, and I wil speake with thee. 2. And the spirit entred into me after that he spake to me, and he set me vpon my feet: and I heard him speaking to me, 3. and saying: Sonne of man, I send thee to the children of Israel, to nations apostates which haue reuolted from me: they, and their fathers, haue transgressed my couenant euen vnto this day. 4. And they are children of an hard face, and of an hart that can not be tamed, to whom I send thee: and this thou shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord God: 5. If perhaps they at the least wil heare, & if perhaps they wil cease, because it is an exasperating house: and they shal know that there was a Prophet in the middes of them. 6. Thou therefore o sonne of man feare them not, neither be afrayd of their words: because the incredulous and subuerrers are with thee, & thou dwellest with scorpions. Feare not their words, and of their looks be not afrayd: because it is an exasperating house. 7. Thou therefore shalt speake my words to them, if perhaps they wil heare, and be quiet, because they are prouokers to anger. 8. But thou sonne of man heare whatsoeuer I speake to thee: and be not exasperating, as it is an exasperating house: open thy mouth, and eat whatsoeuer I giue thee. 9. And I looked, and behold, an hand sent to me, wherein was a roled booke: and he spred it before me, which was written within and without: and there were written in it (b) lamentations, and (c) a song, and (d) woe.

(a) Our Sauour of his grear humilitie & his singular loue towards mankind, often calleth himself the Sonne of mā; but no other so calleth him. Here the Angel most frequently calleth Ezechiel the Sonne of man, as wel to distinguish between Angelical and humane kind, as in honour of Christ, of who this and other Prophets were figures: but why Ezechiel, and scarce any other (Dan. 8. v. 17.) had this title is hard to explicate.
(b) Lamentation perteine to the penitent:
(c) Song to the praises of God:
(d) Woe to the desperate damned.

CHAP. III.

Against a stubborne people, to whom he must preach, 8. the Prophet is strengthened, 12. by increase of spirite: 17. charged to execute his office. 12. But first to be silent for a time.

AND he said to me: Sonne of man, whatsoeuer thou shalt find and eate: (a) eate this volume, and going speake to the children of Israel. 2. And I opened my mouth, and he fed me with that volume: 3. and he said to me: Sonne of man thy bellie shal eate, and thy bowels shal be filled with this volume, which I giue thee. And I did eate it: and it was made in my mouth sweet as honic. 4. And he said to me: Sonne of man goe to the house of Israel, and thou shalt speake my words to them. 5. For not to a people of profound speech, and of an vnknowne tougue art thou sent, to the house of Israel. 6. Neither to manie peoples of profound speech, and of an vnknowne tongue, whose words thou canst not heare: and if thou were sent to them, (b) they would heare thee. 7. But the house of Israel wil not heare thee: because they wil not heare me. for al the house of Israel is of a shameles forehead, & hard harted. 8. Behold I haue made thy face stronger then their faces, and thy forehead harder then their foreheads. 9. As the adamant, & as the flint stone haue I made thy face: feare the not, neither be afraid of their face: because it is an exasperating house. 10. And he said to me: Sonne of man, al my words which I speake to thee, take in thy hart, & heare with thine eares: 11. And goe, enter into the transmigration, to the children of thy people, and thou shalt speake to them, and shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord God: if perhaps they wil heare, and be quiet. 12. And the spirit tooke me vp, and I heard behind me the voice of a great comotion: Blessed be the glorie of our Lord from his place, 13. and the voice of the wings of liuing creatures striking one against an other, & the voice of wheels folowing the liuing creatures, & the voice of a great comotion. 14. The spirit also listed me, & tooke me vp: & I went away bitter in the indignation of my spirit: for the hand of our Lord was with me, strengthening me. 15. And I came to the transmigration, to the heape of new corne, to the that dwelt by the riuer Chobar, & I sate where they sate: & I taried there seuen daies mourning in the middes of them. 16. And when seuen daies were passed, the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 17. Sonne of man, a watchman to the house of Israel haue I giuen thee: & thou shalt heare the word out of my mouth, & shalt tel it them from me. 18. If when I say to the impious: Dying thou shalt dye: thou tel him not, nor speake that he may be turned away from his impious way, and liue: the same impious man shal dye in his iniquitie, but his blood I wil require at thy hand. 19. But if thou denounce to the impious, and he be not conuerted from his impietic, and from his impious way: he verily shal dye in his iniquitie, but thou hast deliuered thy soule. 20. Yea & if the iust shal be turned from his iustice, & shal doe iniquitie: I (c) wil lay a stumbling blocke before him, he shal dye: because thou hast not told him, he shal dye in his sinne, & his iustices which he hath done shal not be in memorie: but his blood I wil require at thy hand. 21. And the spirit entred into me, and set me vpon my feet: and he spake to me, and sayd to me: Goe in, and be thut vp in the middes of thy house. 25. But when I shal speake to thee, I wil open thy mouth, and thou shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord God: He that heareth, let him heare: & he that is quiet, let him be quiet, because it is an exasperating house.

CHAP. IIII

The future siege of Ierusalem is described in a bricke. 4. The time of captiuitie of Israel and of Iuda, is signified by sleeping 390. dayes on the left side, and fourtie on the right. 9. Famine is also signified by bread sprinkled with dung.

AND thou sonne of man take thee a bricke, and thou shalt put it before thee: and thou shalt draw in it the citie of Ierusalem. 2. And thou shalt lay siege against it, and shalt build munitions, and cast vp (a) a banke, and pitch camps against it, and place engines round about. 3. And thou take thee an yron frying panne, and thou shalt set it as an yron wal between thee and the citie: & thou shalt set thy face stedily toward it, & it shal be besieged, & thou shalt compasse it: which is a signe to the house of Israel. 4. And thou shalt sleep vpon thy left side, and shalt put the iniquities of the house of Israel vpon it, according to the number of the daies, that thou shalt sleep vpon it, and thou shalt take their

And when thou hast accomplished these things, thou shalt sleepe vpon thy right side the second time: and thou shalt take the iniquitie of the house of Iuda (c) fourtie daies, a day for a yeare, a day, I say, for a yeare I haue giuen thee. 7. And thou shalt turne thy face to the siege of Ierusalem, & thine arme shall be stretched out: and thou shalt prophetic against it. 8. Behold I haue compassed thee with bands: & thou shalt not turne thy self from thy side vnto the other side, til thou accomplish the daies of thy siege. 9. And thou take thee wheate and barley, and beanes, and lentils, and millet, and fitches: and thou shalt put them into one vessel, and make thee loaves according to the number of the daies, that thou shalt sleepe vpon thy side: three hundred & nnetie daies shalt thou eate it. 10. And thy meat, that thou shalt eate, shall be in weight twentie staters a day: from time to time thou shalt eate it. 11. And water by measure thou shalt drinke, the sixt part of an hin: from time to time thou shalt drinke it. 12. And as hearth baken barley bread thou shalt eate it: and with the dung that cometh out of a man, thou shalt couer it before their eies. 13. And our Lord said: So shall the children of Israel eate their bread polluted among the Gentils, to the which I shall cast them out. 14. And I said: A, a, a, O Lord God, behold my soule is not polluted, and a dead thing, and thing torne of beasts, I haue not eaten from mine infancie euen til this time, and al vncleane flesh hath not entred into my mouth. 15. And he said to me: Behold I haue giuen thee dung of oxen for mans dung, and thou shalt make thy bread therwith. 16. And he said to me: Sonne of man, Behold I wil breake (d) the staffe of bread in Ierusalem: and they shall eate bread in weight, and in carefules: and they shall drinke water in measure, and in distresse. 17. That bread and water sayling, euerie man may fal against his brother, and they may pine away in their iniquities.

By the haire of the Prophets head and beard poled, and diuersly destroyed, 5. is signified the destruction of the Iewes. 10. The fathers and sonnes eating one another, 12. in extremities of pestilence, famine, and sword.

AN D thou sonne of man take thee a sharp knife, shauing the haire: and thou shalt take it and draw it ouer thy head, and ouer thy beard: and thou shalt take thee a ballance of weight, and shalt diuide them. 2. dayes of the siege : and thou shalt take a third part , and cut it with the knife in (a) the circuite therof:but the other third part thou shalt scatter into the wind , and I wil draw the sword after them: 3. And thou shalt take therof a smal number : and shalt binde them in the skirt of thy cloke. 4. And of them againe thou shalt take, and shalt cast them forth in the middes of the fire, and shalt burne them with fire : and out of it shal come forth a fire into al the house of Israel. 5. Thus saith our Lord God : This is Ierusalem, I placed her in the middes of the Gentils, and countries round about her. 6. And she hath contemned my iudgements, so that she was more impious then the Gentils : and my precepts more then the lands , that are round about her. For they haue cast away my iudgements, and in my precepts they haue not walked. 7. Therefore thus saith our Lord God : Because you haue passed the Gentils , that are round about you , and haue not walked in my precepts , and haue not done my iudgements , and according to the iudgements of the nations, which are round about you , you haue not wrought. 8. Therefore thus saith our Lord God : Behold I to thee , & I my self wil doe iudgements, in the middes of thee in the eies of the Gentils. 9. And I wil doe in thee that which I haue not done : & the like wherof I wil doe no more for al thine abominations. 10. Therefore (b) the fathers shal eat the sonnes in the middes of thee , and the sonnes shal eat their fathers : and I wil doe iudgements in thee , and I wil scatter al thy remnant into euerie wind. 11. Therefore I liue, saith our Lord God : Vnles for that thou hast violated my sanctuarie in al thine offences , and in al thine abominations : I also doe breake thee , and mine eye shal not spare , and I wil not haue mercie. 12. The third part of thee shal dye with the pestilence, and shal be consumed with famine in the middes of thee : and a third part of thee shal fal by the sword round about thee : and thy third part I wil scatter into euerie wind , and I wil draw a sword after them. 13. And I wil accomplish my furie, and wil make mine indignation rest in them, and wil be comforted : and they shal know that I the Lord haue spoken in my zele , when I shal haue accomplished mine indignation in them. 14. And I wil make thee a desert, and a reproch to the nations, that are round about thee , in the sight of euerie one that passeth by. 15. And thou shalt be a reproch , and (c) blasphemie , an example , and astonishment amongst the nations , that are round about thee, when I shal haue done iudgements in thee in furie , and in indignation, and in the rebukes of anger. 16. I the Lord haue spoken : When I shal send verie sore arrowes of famine vpon them : which shal be mortiferous , and which I shal send to destroy you : and I wil gather famine vpon you , and wil breake among you the staffe of bread. 17. And I wil send in vpon you famine , and very sore beasts euen to destruction : and pestilence, and bioud shal passe through thee , and the sword I wil bring in vpon thee. I the Lord haue spoken.

CHAP. VI.

For idolatrie the people shal be diuersly destroyed: 8. til the reliques conuert to God.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. Sonne of man, set thy face toward (a) the mountaynes of Israel, and thou shalt prophetic to them, 3. and shalt say: Mountaynes of Israel heare ye the word of our Lord God: Thus saith our Lord God to the mountaynes, and litle hilles, and to the rockes, & the valleys: Behold I wil bring vpon you the sword, and wil destroy your excellēs, 4. and cast downe your altars, and your idols shal be broken: and I wil ouerthrow your flaine before your idols. 5. And I wil lay the carcasses of the children of Israel before the face of your idols: and I wil disperse your bones about your altars 6. in al your habitations. The cities shal be desolate, and the excelses shal be cast downe, and destroyed, and your altars shal perish, and shal be broken: and your idols shal cease, & your temples shal be destroyed, & your works shal be defaced. 7. And the flaine shal fal in the middes of you: & you shal know that I am the Lord. 8. And (b) I wil leaue in you thē, that shal escape the sword in the Gentils, wēh I shal disperse you in the lāds. 9. And your deliuered shal remēber me amōgst the Gentils, to which they are led in captiuitie: because I haue brokent their hart fornicating, and reuolting from me: & their eyes fornicating after their idols: and (c) they shal mislike with themselues vpon the euils which they had done in al their abominations. 10. And they shal know that I the Lord haue not spoken in vaine to doe them this euil. 11. Thus saith our Lord God: Strike thy hand, and knock thy foote, and say: Alas, to al the abominations of the euils of the house of Israel: because they shal fal by sword, famine, and pestilence. 12. He that is far off, shal dye with pestilence: and he that is neere, shal fal by the sword: and he that shal be left, and besieged, shal dye for famine: and I wil accomplish mine indignation in them. 13. And you shal know that I am the Lord, when your flaine shal be amongst the middes of your idols, in the circuit of your altars, in euerie high hil, and in al the toppes of mountaynes, and vnder euerie wooddie tree, and vnder euerie oake with thick branches, the place where they burnt frankincense smelling sweetly to al their idols. 14. And I wil stretch forth my hand vpon them: and wil make the land desolate, and destitute from the desert of Deblatha in al their habitations: and they shal know that I am the Lord.

(a) Idolatrie was most especially committed in mountaynes, or hills, & therefore both idols and idolaters were destroyed in the same places.

(b) Gods perpetual prouidence stil preserueth some reliques that serue him sincerely, and before those depart from this world, (c) others doe repent and returne to God.

C H A P. VII.

Miseries shal be so great, 8. and shal come so presently, 16. that few shal escape, and those also shal be in great terrour and affliction.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, saying:
 2. And thou sonne of man, thus saith our Lord God to the land (a) of Israel: The end is come, come is the end vpon the foure quarters of the land. 3. Now an end vpon thee, and I wil send my furie vpon thee: and I wil iudge thee according to thy wayes: and I wil lay against thee al thine abominations. 4. And vpon thee mine eye shal not spare, and I wil not haue mercie: but I wil lay thy waies vpon thee, and thyne abominations shal be in the middes of thee: and you shal know that I am the Lord. 5. Thus saith our Lord God: One affliction, loe affliction commeth. 6. An end commeth, there commeth an end, it hath awaked against thee: behold it commeth. 7. Destruction commeth vpon thee, which dwellest in the land: the time commeth, the day of slaughter is neere, & not of the glorie of mountaines. 8. Now streight-way I power out my wrath vpon thee, & I wil accomplish my furie in thee: & I wil iudge thee according to thy wayes, & I wil lay vpon thee al thy wicked deeds. 9. And mine eye shal not spare, neither wil I haue mercie: but I wil lay thy wayes vpon thee, and thine abominations shal be in the middes of thee: and you shal know that I am the Lord that strike. 10. Behold the day, behold it commeth: destruction is gone forth, the rod hath flourished, pride hath budded. 11. Iniquitie is risen in the rod of impietie: not of them, and not of the people, nor of the sound of them: and there shal be no rest in the. 12. The time commeth, the day is at hand: he that buyeth let him not reioyce, and he that selleth, let him not mourne: because wrath vpon al the people therof. 13. Because he that selleth (b) shal not returne to that which he hath sold, and as yet in the liuing the life of them. For the vision shal not goe backe to al the multitude therof: and man in the iniquitie of his life shal not be strengthened. 14. Sound you with the trumpet, let al be prepared, and there is none to goe to the battel: for my wrath shal be vpon al the people therof. 15. The sword without, and the pestilence and famine within: he that is in the field shal dye by the sword: & they that are in the citie, shal be deaoured with the pestilence and famine. 16. And those of them that flye shal be saued: and they shal be in the mountaines as doues of the valleyes al trembling, euerie one in his iniquitie. 17. Al hands shal be dissolved, & al knees shal runne with waters. 18. And they shal gird themselues with haire-cloaths, and feare shal couer them, and in euerie face confusion, and vpon al their heads baldnes. 19. Their siluer shal be throwen forth, and their gold shal be into a dughil. Their siluer and their gold shal not be able to deliuer them in the day of the furie of our Lord. Their soule they shal not satisfie, and their bellies shal not be filled: because it is made (c) a scandal of their iniquitie. 20. And the ornament of their Jewels they haue turned into pride, and the images of their abominations, and idols they haue made of it: for this cause haue I giuen it them into vncleannes: 21. and I wil giue it into the hands of aliens to spoyle, and to the impious of the earth for a prey, and they shal contaminate it. 22. And I wil turne away my face from them, and they shal violate my * secret: and spoylers shal enter into it, and shal contaminate it. 23. Make a conclusion: because the land is ful of the iudgement of bloud, and the citie ful of iniquitie. 24. And I wil bring the worst of the nations, and they shal possesse their houses: and I wil make the pride of the mightie to cease, and they shal possesse their sanctuarie. 25. Distresse comming vpon them, they wil seek peace, and there shal be none. 26. Trouble shal come vpon trouble, and report vpon report, and they shal seek vision of the Prophet, and (d) the law shal perish from the Priest, and counsel from the ancients. 27. The King shal mourne, and the Prince shal be clothed with sorowfulness, and the hands of the people of the land shal be troubled. According to their way wil I doe to them, and according to their iudgements I wil iudge them: and they shal know that I am the Lord.

(d) This and other like places signifie scarcitie of Priests to teach the law, in the captiuitie, but not an vniuersal destruction or want of al. For euen then also God conserued some relikes, as appeareth, Malach 2.

C H A P. VIII.

In an other vision the Prophet seeth innumerable most abominable idolatries 11. committed by al sorts of men and women, 27. for which God wil no longer spare them.

AND it came to passe in (a) the sixt yeare, in the sixt month, in the fifth of the month: I sate in my house, and the ancients of Iuda sate before me, and the hand of our Lord God fel there vpon me. 2. And I saw, and behold a similitude as it were the resemblance of fire: from the resemblance of his loynes, and doneward, fire: and from his loynes, and vpward, as it were the resemblance of brightnes, as the appearance of amber. 3. And the similitude of a hand put forth tooke me by the locks of my head: and the spirite lifted me vp between the earth and the heauen, and brought me into Ierusalem in the vision of God, beside the inner doore, that looked to the North, where was set an idol of zele to prouoke emulation. 4. And loe there the glorie of the God of Israel according to the vision which I had seen in the field. 5. And he said to me : Sonne of man, lift vp thine eyes to the way of the North. And I lifted vp mine eyes to the way of the North : and behold on the North of the port of the altar the idol of zele in the verie entrie. 6. And he said to me: Sonne of man, doest thou see thinkest thou what these doe, the great abominations , that the house of Israel doth here, that I may depart far from my sanctuarie : and yet turning thou shalt see greater abominations. 7. And he brought me into the doore of the court: and I saw, and behold one hole in the wal. 8. And he said to me: Sonne of man dig the wal. And when I had digged the wal , there appeared one doore. 9. And he said to me : Goe in , and see the most wicked abominations , which these doe here. 10. And being entred in I saw, and behold euerie similitude of creeping creatures, and of beasts, abomination, and al the idols of the house of Israel were painted in the wal round about throughout. 11. And seuentie men of the ancients of the house of Israel , and Iezonias the sonne of Saphan stood in the middes of them , that stood before the pictures : and euerie one had a censar in his hand : and a vapour of a cloud rose vp from the frankincense. 12. And he said to me: Surely thou seest sonne of man what things the ancients of the house of Israel doe in darkenes, euerie one in the secret of his chamber: for (b) they say : Our Lord seeth vs not, our Lord hath forsaken the earth. 13. And he said to me : Yet turning thou shalt see greater abominations , which these doe. 14. And he brought me in by the doore of the gate of the house of our Lord, which looked to the North: and behold their women fate mourning for (c) Adonis. 15. And he said to me : Surely thou hast seen ô sonne of man : yet turning thou shalt see greater abominations then these. 16. And he brought me into the inner court of the house of our Lord: and behold in the doore of the temple of our Lord between the porch and the altar, as it were fife and twentie men hauing their backs against the temple of our Lord , and their faces to the East : and they adored toward the rising of the sunne. 17. And he said to me: Surely thou hast seen ô sonne of man: why, is this a light thing to the house of Iuda , that they should doe these abominations , which they haue done here : because they replenishing the land with iniquitie, are turned to prouoke me : and behold they put a bough to their nostrhrels. 18. Therefore I also wil doe in my furie : mine eye shal not spare, neither wil I haue mercie : and when they shal crie to mine cares with a lowd voice, I wil not heare them.

(a) After that the Prophet had rested in his house 390. dayes, in which time when so euer he slept, he lay only on his left side, & 40. dayes in like manner on his right side, which was in al. 430. dayes, which make one yeare, two month, and five dayes, the next day he had this other vision before he went forth to preach.

(b) Wicked men either doe not heliue, or litle consider Gods knowledge, & prouidence, of all things, & so fall into idolatrie. (c) Rabbi David & Rabbi Salomon write, that the image of this idol being made of brasse had eyes of lead, and when the brasse was made hot by fire secretly out vnder the lead beginning to melt, the image seemed to weep, whereupon the women of compassion did weep with the Goddess.

C H A P. I X.

The Prophet seeing six men by Gods commandment kil al, 6. that are not marked with THAV in their forehead: 8. lamenteth so great a slaughter: 9. and God answereth, that their iniquitie may no be longer tolerated.

AND (a) he cried in mine eares with a lowd voice, saying: The visitations of the citie approach, and euerie one hath * a weapon of slaughter in his hand. 2. And behold (b) six men came from the way of the vpper gate, which looketh to the North: and euerie mans weapon of destruction in his hand: (c) one man also in the middes of them was clothed with linnen garments, and the inke-horne of a writer at his reines: and they entred in, and stood by the brasen altar. 3. And the glorie of the Lord of Israel was taken vp from the Cherub, which was ouer him to the threshhold of the house: and he called the man, that was clothed with the linnen garments, and had the inke-horne of a writer on his loynes. 4. And our Lord said to him: Passe through the middes of the citie in the middes of Ierusalem: and " signe * Thau vpon the foreheads of the men that mourne and lament vpon al the abominations, that are done in the middes therof. 5. And to them he said in my hearing: Passe through the citie folowing him, and strike: let not your eye spare, neither haue ye mercie. 6. The old, the yong man, and the virgin, the litle one, and the women kil to vtter destruction: but euerie one vpon whom you shal see Thau, kil not, and (d) begin ye at my Sanctuarie: They began therefore at the ancient men, which were before the face of the house. 7. And he said to them: Contaminate the house, and fil the courts with the slaine: goe ye forth. And they went forth, and strucke them that were in the citie. 8. And the slaughter being accomplished I remained: and I fel vpon my face, and crying: I sayd Alas, alas, alas o Lord God, wilt thou then destroy al the remnant of Israel, powring out thy furie vpon Ierusalem? 9. And he said to me: The iniquitie of the house of Israel, and Iuda is exceeding great, and the land is replenished with bloud, and the citie is replenished with auersion: for they haue said: Our Lord hath forsaken the earth, and our Lord seeth not. 10. Therefore mine eye also shal not spare, neither wil I haue mercie: I wil requite their way vpon their head. 11. And behold the man, that was clothed with the linnen garments, that had the inke-horne at his backe, answered a word, saying: I haue done as thou hast commanded me.

Ieromstime by the Samaritans, hath the similitude and forme of a Crosse. So expressing a particular determinate signe; as when the Angel slew the first-borne of Ægypt, the Israelites houses were distinctly marked with blood, sprinkled on the posts of their dores: mystically signifying our B. Sauours most sacred blood to be shed for Redemption of mankind: so also this letter T H A V bearing the forme of a Crosse, formed in the forehead of the mourners, signified the Crosse, wheron Christ our Lord should dye, and redeeme vs from sinne. Which signe, as it was then prefiguratiue, and prophetical; so now it is representatiue, and commemoratiue of our Redemption made by our B. Sauour, on the holie Crosse. That we may truly glorie in Christ, and that with our great Apostle S. Paul, in CHRIST CRUCIFIED. With great reason therefore hath the whole Church of Christ singularly esteemed, and continually vsed this holie Signe of the Crosse in al Diuine Mysteries, and godlie works, euen from the Apostles time. Witnesses hereof are the auient Fathers: S. Dionyse Ariopagite, Eccles. Hierarch. c. 2. reciting the signe of the Crosse amongst other sacred rites in administration of Baptisme: who also c. 5. & 6. maketh like mention of the same signe in making Priests, and professing of Religious persons Likewise S. Ireneus li. 2. c. 42. describeth the forme of the Crosse. S. Iustinus Martyr, Dialogo cum Tryphone, sheweth diuers figures in the old Testament of the Crosse. Tertullian, Aduersus Marcionem, testifieth that the Apostles, and al the faithful of Christ were signed in their foreheads with the signe of T H A V, the last of the Hebrew letters, bearing the forme of a Crosse: the same (saith he) with the Greek letter, T A V, and our Latin T. Who further both in that place, and li. de corona militis, & li. de resurrect. carnis, testifieth the most frequent vse of this holie signe of the Crosse After him S. Cyprian witnesseth the same in his time, Epist. ad Tybaritanos, li. ad Demetrianum, & li. 1. ca. 8. Testimoniorum aduers. Iudeos. More especially, li. 2. c. 21. proueth by this place amongst other holie Scriptures, that in this signe of the Crosse, is health to al that are signed therewith in the foreheads. S. Chrysostom li. cont. Gentiles: Amongst other demonstrations, sheweth by the honour, and daylie vse of the Crosse, that Christ is God, because none but God could make a thing, which before was so execrable, to be now euery where so highly esteemed. And in his Homilies. 55. in Mat. 16. & 84. in Ioan. 19. and other places, witnesseth that in Baptisme, in the most holie Eucharist, in the Sacrament of holie Orders, and in al most excellent Mysteries, the Ensigne of Victorie, the signe of the Crosse is euer present vnto vs: in al his discourse teaching to glorie, not only in Christ crucified, but also to honour the signe of the Crosse And that who soeuer despiseth the signe of the Crosse, despiseth indeed Christ Crucified. To omit others, S. Augustin recordeth, li. 1. Confess. c. 11. that himself when he was a childe, and dangerously sicke, was by his mothers pious care, signed with the signe of the Crosse: and li. de catechizandis rudibus c. 20. teacheth that euerie one is to be signed in the forehead with the signe of the Crosse, and that al Christians are so signed. Also 7 tract. 113. in Ioan. What is the signe of Christ (saith he) which al know, but the Crosse of Christ? which signe vnles it be adioyned, as wel to the foreheads of them that belieue in Christ, as to the water it-selfe wherewith they are regenerate, and to the chrisme oyle, wherewith they are anointed, as also to the Sacrifice, wherewith they are nourished; none of these things is rightly performed. Or wil you haue him to speake more plainly, or more generally? Ser. 101. de tempore: With the signe of the Crosse (saith he) our Lords bodie is consecrated, and al things, whatsoeuer are sanctified, are consecrated with the inuocation of Christs name in this signe. Who pleaseth to see more testimonies of ancient Fathers, may also reade S. Basil, li de Spiritu Sancto. S. Cyril of Ierusalem, Catechesi 4. & 13. S. Ambrose, Orat. fanchri de obitu Theodosii. S. Gregorie Epist. 126.

The apparition also of this signe to Constantin the Great, with this inscription: IN HOC VINCES, is most famous; written by Eusebius Caesariensis li. 1. c. 22. & 23. de vita Constantini, and in many others. The same signe also appeared in Ierusalem in the time of his sonne Constantius, as S. Cyril of Ierusalem testifieth in his Epistle to the same Emperour. And Nicephorus li. 10. c. 2. Hist. Eccles. writeth that the formes of Crosses, fel with the dew vpon the garments of Iulian the Apostata, and of his folowers. And manie other histories, both ancient and moderne make mention of the like apparitions.

But aboue al others, the most principal is to come: The Signe of the Sonne of man; as our B. Sauour himself foretelleth, which shal appeare in the heauen at his comming to iudge the whole world: his most proper Ensigne the Crosse; by which he conquered the diuel, sinne, death, and al enemies of God and men. So al ancient Fathers vndoubtedly vnderstand his prediction Mat. 24. Then wil this signe appeare to the great confusion of al vsigned miscreants, with other wicked enemies of the Crosse and Crucifix. For then shal al the world, both men, and Angels see, what infinite charitie, our most blessed Redeemer hath vsed for mans saluation; and how iustly those that either doe not belieue, or not regard his vspeakable mercie, shal be adiudged to euerlasting damnation in the pit and fire of hel. And on the other side, al those that are rightly signed in their foreheads, and haue accordingly performed that which in Baptisme they promised, shal meete this sauing Ensigne, with incomparable comfort, ioy, and gladnes; who comming clothed in white robes, with palmes of victorie in their hands, shal then receiue glorious crownes in eternal life.

The signe of the Crosse vsed in Baptisme, in Confirmation, in the B. Eucharist, and in al holy Rites.

Miraculous apparitions of the signe of the Crosse.

The signe of the Crosse shal appeare before Christ, coming to iudge.

The vsigned shal be confounded.

CHAP. X.

Destruction of the citie is againe signified by apparence of fire sprinkled therein, 9. with description of Cherubims, foure wheels, and of the ioure liuing creatures.

a) In this visio appeared in the ayre as it were a man sitting in a throne of sapphire stone, ouer the image of Cherubs, & foure wheels vnder them.

b) The strange forme of these foure payre of wheels, signified the consonant agreemēt of the old and new Testamēt. S. Greg. ho. 6. in Ezech.

(c) They were readie to goe forward, backward, on the right hand, on the left, or to what part soeuer without turning about.

(d) It seemeth euerie one had as it were foure faces. v. 21. al like enes faces, but one more ressembling a mans face then the other, one somewhat resembling an oxe face (c. l.) here called he face of a Cherub) another, he face of a lion, the other an eagle.

AND I saw, & behold (a) in the firmament, that was ouer the head of the Cherubs, as it were the sapphire stone, as it were the forme of the similitude of a throne appeared ouer them. 2. And he spake to the man, that was clothed with the linnen garments, and sayd: Goe in the middes of the wheels that are vnder the Cherubs, and fil thy hand with the coles of fyre, that are between the Cherubs, and powre them out vpon the citie. And he went in, in my sight: 3. & the Cherubs stood on the right hand of the house, when the man went in, and a cloud filled the inner court. 4. And the glorie of our Lord was lifted vp frō about the Cherub to the threshold of the house: and the house was replenished with the cloud, & the court was replenished with the brightnes of the glorie of our Lord. 5. And the sound of the wings of the Cherubs was heard euen to the vtter court, as it were the voice of God almightie speaking. 6. And when he had commanded the man, that was clothed with the linnen garments, saying: Take fyre from the middes of the wheels, that are between the Cherubs: he being gone in stood beside the wheele. 7. And a Cherub stretched out his hand from the middes of the Cherubs to the fyre, that was between the Cherubs: & he tooke, & gaue into his hands, that was clothed with the linnen garments: who taking it went forth. 8. And there appeared in the Cherubs the similitude of a mans hand vnder their wings. 9. And I saw, & behold foure wheels by the Cherubs: one wheele by one Cherub, & an other wheele by one Cherub: & the forme of the wheels was as it were the resemblance of the stone Chrysolithus: 10. & their resemblance, one similitude to the foure: as it were (b) a wheele in the middes of a wheele. 11. And when they walked, they went into (c) foure parts: & they returned not walking: but to the place, wherunto that which was first declined, the rest also folowed, neither did they turne. 12. And al their bodie, & necks, & hands, & wings, and the circles were ful of eies, in the circuit of the foure wheels. 13. And these wheels he called voluble, my self hearing it. 14. And one had foure faces: one face, the face (d) of a Cherub, and the second face, the face of a man: and in the third the face of a lyon: and in the fourth the face of an eagle. 15. And the Cherubs were lifted vp: the same is the liuing creature, that I had seen by the riuer Chobar. 16. And when the Cherubs walked, the wheels also went together by them: and when the Cherubs lifted vp their wings, to be rayfed vp frō the earth, the wheels rested not, but also were besyde them. 17. Those standing, they stood: and with them lifted vp they were lifted vp. For the spirit of life was in them. 18. And the glorie of our Lord went forth from the threshold of the temple, and stood ouer the Cherubs. 19. And the Cherubs lifting vp their wings, were exalted from the earth before me: and they going forth, the wheels also folowed: & it stood in the entry of the east gate of the house of our Lord: and the glorie of the God of Israel was ouer them. 20. The same is the liuing creature, which I saw vnder the God of Israel by the riuer Chobar: and I vnderstood that they were Cherubs. 21. Foure faces to one, and foure wings to one: and the similitude of a mans hand vnder their wings. 22. And the similitude of their faces, the same faces, which I had seen by the riuer Chobar, and the looks of them, and the sway of euerie one to goe before his face.

C H A P. XI.

Against fals-Prophets affirming that the people should not be caried into captiuitie, 4. Exechiel prophecied that they shal not escape it. 13. Pheltias a fals-Prophet dieth: 14. and God promiseth to conserue some relikes: 19. and to giue a new spirite in their hart.

AND the spirit lifted we vp, and (a) brought me into the east gate of the house of our Lord, which looketh to the ryng of the sunne: and behold in the entrie of the gate siue and twentie men: and I saw in the middes of them Iezonias the sonne of Azur, & Pheltias the sonne of Banaias, the Princes of the people. 2. And he said to me: Sonne of man, these are the men that conceiue iniquitie, and deuiſe most wicked counsel in this citie, 3. saying: (b) Were not houses builded of late? (c) This is the caldron, & we the flesh. 4. Therefore prophecie of them, prophecie thou sonne of man. 5. And the spirit of our Lord fel vpon me, & said to me: Speake: Thus saith our Lord: So haue you spoken, o house of Israel, & the cogitations of your hart I know. 6. Very manie haue you killed in this citie, and you haue filled the wayes therof with the slaine. 7. Therefore thus saith our Lord God: Your slaine, whom you haue layd in the middes therof, these are the flesh, and this is the caldron: and I wil bring you out of the middes therof. & (d) The sword you haue feared, and the sword I wil bring vpon you, saith our Lord God. 9. And I wil cast you out of the middes therof, & I wil giue you into the hand of the enemies, & wil doe iudgements in you. 10. You shal fal by the sword: in the borders of Israel wil I iudge you, and

(a) The Prophet in Chaldea saw in spirit what was done in Ierusalem.

(b) Were not new houses builded (say the false Prophets) since Ieremie said, that al our houses should be destroyed? whereupon they inferre that his Prophecie is false: (c) and so counred themselues as secure, in Ierusalem: as flesh in the potte.

(d) The false Prophets feared warres, but not captiuitie, therefore the Prophet assureth them that the people shal feele both sword, & captiuitie.

you shal know that I am the Lord. 11. This shal not be as a caldron to you, and you shal not be as flesh in the middes therof, in the borders of Israel I wil iudge you. 12. And you shal know that I am the Lord: because you haue not walked in my precepts, and haue not done my iudgeméts, but you haue done according to the iudgements of nations, that are round about you: 13. And it came to passe, when I prophecied, Pheltias the sonne of Banaias died: and I (e) fel vpon my face, crying with a lowd voice: and sayd: Alas, alas, alas, ô Lord God: makest thou a consumation of the remnant of Israel? 14. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 15. Sonne of man thy brethren, thy brethren, thy kinsmen, and al the house of Israel, al to wlsom the inhabitants of Ierusalem haue sayd: Depart ye far from our Lord, the land is giuen to vs in possession. 16. Therefore thus sayth our Lord God: Because I haue made them far off in the Gentils, and because I haue disperfed them in the lands: I wil be (f) a litle sanctification to thē in the lands, to which they are come. 17. Therefore speake: Thus sayth our Lord God: I wil gather you out of the peoples, and vnite you out of the lands, wherein you are disperfed, and I wil giue you the ground of Israel. 18. And they shal goe in thither, and shal take away al the offences, and al the abominations therof out of it. 19. And I wil giue them one hart, and wil giue a new spirit in their bowels: and I wil take away the stonie hart out of their flesh, and wil giue them a fleshie hart: 20. that they may walke in my precepts, and keep my iudgements, and doe them: and they may be my people, and I may be their God. 21. Whose hart walketh after their offences and abominations, their way wil I lay on their head, saith our Lord God. 22. And the Cherubs lifted vp their wings, and the wheels with them: and the glorie of the God of Israel was ouer them. 23. And the glorie of our Lord ascended from the middes of the citie, and stood ouer the mount, that is on the east side of the citie. 24. And the spirite lifted me vp, and brought me into Chaldee to the transmigration, in a vision in the spirite of God: and the vision which I had seen was taken vp from me. 25. And I spake to the transmigration al the words of our Lord, which he had shewed me.

e) He lamented not the death of the false prophet, but feared great ruine of the people, seeing this wicked man dye so plainly.

f) God stil conserueth his Church from vtter ruine, as the Prophets doe often affirmc. Iere. 4 v. 27. ch. 5. v. 10. 18. P. sal. 88. v. 35.

C H A P. XII.

By providing furniture for a iourney, and carying it from one place to an other, 5. and flying through a hole in the wal, 10. the Prophet signifieth that the King, and people shal goe into captiuitie. 17. By eating, as if he were troubled, foresheweth their famine. 21. At which shal come quickly.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. Sonne of man, thou dwellest in the middes of an exasperating house: which haue eyes to see, and see not: and eares to heare, and heare not: because it is an exasperating house. 3. Thou therefore, o sonne of man, make thee (a) vessels of transmigration, and thou (b) shalt sit by day before them: and thou shalt sit out of thy place to an other place in their sight; if perhaps they wil behol: because it is an exasperating house. 4. And thou shalt carie forth thy vessels as the vessels of one sitting by day in the sight of them: and thou shalt goe forth at euen before them, as one goeth forth that sitteth. 5. Before their eyes dig to thee through the wal: and thou shalt goe forth through it. 6. In their sight on shoulders thou shalt be caried, in the darke thou shalt be caried out: thou shalt couer thy face, and shalt not see the earth: because I haue giuen thee a portending signe to the house of Israel. 7. I did therefore as he had commanded me: I caried my vessels as the vessels of one sitting by day: and at euen I digged to me through the wal with my hand: and I went forth in the darke, and was caried on shoulders in their sight. 8. And the word of our Lord was made to me in the morning, saying: 9. Sonne of man, hath not the house of Israel the exasperating house sayd to thee: What doest thou? 10. Say to them: Thus sayth our Lord God: This burden vpon the Prince, that is in Ierusalem, and vpon al the house of Israel, which is in the middes of them. 11. Say I am your portending signe, as I haue done, so shal it be done to them, into transmigration, and into captiuitie shal they goe. 12. And the Prince, that is in the middes of them, shal be caried on shoulders, he shal goe forth in the darke: they shal dig through the wal to bring him out: his face shal be couered, that he may not see the earth with his eye. 13. And I stretch forth my net vpon him, and he shal be taken in my net: and I (c) wil bring him into Babylon into the land of the Chaldees, and he shal (d) not see it, and there he shal dye. 14. And al that are about him, his gard, and his troupes I wil disperse into euerie wind: and I wil draw the sword after them. 15. And they shal know that I am the Lord, when I shal haue dispersed them in the Gentils, and scattered them in the lands. 16. And I wil leaue of them a few men from the sword, and the famine, and the pestilence: that they may declare al

their wicked deeds in the Gentils, to which they shal enter: and they shal know that I am the Lord. 17. And the word of our Lord was made vnto me, saying: 18. Sonne of mā, eate thy bread in trouble; yea & drinke thy water in hast and sorowfulness. 19. And thou shalt say to the people of the land: Thus sayth our Lord God to them that dwel in Ierusalem in the land of Israel: Their bread they shal eate in carefulnes, and their water in desolation they shal drinke: that the land may be made desolate from the multitude therof, for the iniquitie of al that dwel therein. 20. And the cities, that are now inhabited, shal be desolate, and the land desert: and you shal know that I am the Lord. 21. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 22. Sonne of man, what is this (e) prouerb with you in the land of Israel: saying: (f) The dayes shal be deferred to a long time, and al vision shal perish. 23. Therefore say to them: Thus sayth our Lord God: I wil make this prouerb cease, neither shal it anie more be commonly sayd in Israel: and speake to them that the dayes are at hand, and the word of euerie vision. 24. for al vision shal no more be in vaine, nor diuination ambiguous in the middes of the children of Israel. 25. Because I the Lord wil speake: and what word soeuer I shal speake, shal also be done, it shal not be prolonged anie more: but in your dayes ye exasperating house, wil I speake the word, and wil doe it, sayth our Lord God. 26. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 27. Sonne of man, behold the house of Israel, they that say: The vision, that this man seeth, is for manie daies: and this man Prophecietieth long times. 28. Therefore say to them: Thus sayth our Lord God: Euerie word of mine shal be prolonged no further: the word that I shal speake, shal be accomplished, sayth our Lord God.

(e) That which is commonly said of manie is called a Proverb.

(f) Falso Prophets perswaded the people, that seeing the captiuitie foretold by the Prophets was not yet come, therefore it would neuer come. As heretikes shal deny the day of general iudgement. 1. Pet. 3.

CHAP. XIII.

God threathneth false Prophets, 5. that flatter the people with lies: 10. without the feare of God. 17. Likewise false Prophetesses, that deceiue themselves and others with flaterie, 19. for worldlie gayne.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. Sonne of man prophecie to the Prophets of Israel, that prophecie: and thou shalt say to them, that prophecie of their owne hart: Hearc ye the word of our Lord: 3. Thus sayth our Lord God: Woe to the foolish Prophets, which folow their owne spirite, and see nothing. 4. As foxes in the deserts, were thy Prophets O Israel. 5. You haue not ascended against, nor opposed a wal for the house of Israel, that you might stand in battel in the day of our Lord. 6. They see vayne things, and they diuine lies, saying: Our Lord sayth: whereas our Lord sent them not: and they perseuered to confirme the word. 7. Why haue you not seen vaine vision, and spoken lying diuination? and you say: Our Lord saith; whereas I haue not spoken. 8. Therefore thus saith our Lord God: Because you haue spoken vaine things, and haue seen lies: therefore behold I to you, saith our Lord God. 9. And my hand shall be vpon the Prophets, that see vaine things, and diuine a lie: in the counsel of my people they shall not be, & in the scripture of the house of Israel they shall not be written, neither shall they enter into the land of Israel: and you shall know that I am the Lord God. 10. For that they haue deceiued my people, saying: Peace, and there is not peace: and he builded the wal, and they daubed it with mortar (a) without straw. 11. Say to them that daube without tempering, that it shall fall: for there shall be a shower ouerflowing, and I will giue very great stones falling violently from aboue, and the wind of a storme dissipating. 12. For indeed behold the wal is fallen: shall it not be sayd you: Where is the daubing, that you daubed? 13. Therefore thus sayth our Lord God: And I will make the spirit of tempests to breake forth in myne indignation, and there shall be an ouerflowing shower in my furie: & great stones in my wrath vnto consumption. 14. And I will destroy the wal, that you haue daubed without tempering: & I will make it euen with the ground, and the foundation therof shall be reuealed: and it shall fall, and shall be consumed in the middes therof: and you shall know that I am the Lord. 15. And I will accomplish myne indignation in the wal, and in them, that daube it without tempering, and I will say to you: The wal is not, and they are not that daube it. 16. The Prophets of Israel, which prophecie to Ierusalem, & see vision of peace for it: and there is not peace, sayth our Lord God. 17. And thou sonne of man, put thy face against (b) the daughters of thy people, which prophecie of their owne hart: and doe thou prophecie vpon them, 18. and say: Thus sayth our Lord God: Woe to them that saw cushions vnder euerie cubite of the hand: and make pillowes vnder the head of euerie age to catch soules: and when they caught the soules of my people, they did (c) viuificate their soules. 19. And they violated me to my people, for a handful of barley, and a cantel of a bread, that they might kil the soules, which dye not, and viuificate the soules which liue not, lying to my people, that belieueth lies. 20. For this cause thus saith our Lord God: Behold I to your cushions, wherewith you catch flying soules: and I will breake them from your armes: and I will let goe the soules that you take, the soules to flye. 21. And I will breake your pillowes, & will deliuer my people out of your hand, neither shall they be anie more in your hands to be a praye: and you shall know that I am the Lord. 22. For that you haue made the hart of the iust to mourne lyingly, whō I made not sorrowful: and haue strengthened the hands of the impious, that he might not returne from his euil way, and liue. 23. Therefore you shall not see vaine things, and diuinations you shall diuine no more, and I will deliuer my people out of you hand: and you shall know that I am the Lord.

(a) As a wal of clay, or mortar ter without straw or other temperature, is washed away with rayne, so vaine hopes of securitie, without repentance & good workes deceiue the careles people that liue in sinne.

(b) There were also false Prophetesses feyning to be illuminated with the spirit of Prophecie; as Debora (Iud. 4.) Holda (4. Reg. 22.) and other holy women were indeed true Prophetesses. but these by (c) flaterie deceiued the people, saying they were in good state & in securitie, when they were in sinne, & in extreme danger of both temporal and eterna ruine.

CHAP. XIII.

(a) God reuealed to the Prophet that these men came not sincerely to learne, but were ferled in their hart to serue the idols. As worldly mē in heretical countries doe inquire of Catholike Priests what they should doe, but remaine resoluēd to participate with heretikes.

(b) Such men are first of al to be admonished to depart from idolatrie, heresie, schisme, & from al practices therof: which is the first step of true conuersion to God

(c) God permitteth false Prophets to be deceiued, & to deceiue, in punishment of their owne finnes, and of the people that heare them. 3. Reg. 22. v. 19. 2. Par. 18. v. 18. (d) Daniel then liuing, Noe & Iob departed from this life did sometime pray for the

Idolaters inquiring of Gods wil by his Prophets, 6. must first depart from idolatrie: 8. otherwise God wil permitte fals Prophets to deceiue them, and both shal perish together: 12. by famine, 15. by rauenous beasts, 17. sword, 19. and pestilence: yea Noe Daniel, and Iob interceding shal not deliuer them (v. 14. 16. 18. 20.) 21. yet God wil conserue some that the whole Church perish not

AND men of the ancients of Israel came to me, and sate before me. 2. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 3. Sonne of man, (a) These men haue put their vncleannes in their harts, and the scandal of their iniquitie they haue set against their face: what, being asked shal I answer them? 4. For this cause speake to them, and thou shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord God: Man, man of the house of Israel, that shal put his vncleannes in his hart, and set the scandal of his iniquitie against his face, and shal come to the Prophet asking me by him: I the Lord wil answer him in the multitude of his vncleannes. 5. that the house of Israel may be taken in their hart, wherwith they haue reuolted from me in al their idols. 6. Therefore say to the house of Israel: Thus saith our Lord God: (b) Conuert, and depart from your idols, and from al your contaminations turne away your faces. 7. Because man man of the house of Israel, and of the profelytes, whosoever shal be a stranger in Israel, if he be alienated from me, and put his idols in his hart, and set the scandal of iniquitie against his face, and come to the Prophet to aske me by him: I the Lord wil answer him by my self. 8. And I wil set my face vpon that man, and wil make him for an example, & for a prouerbe, & wil destroy him out of the middes of my people: & you shal know that I am the Lord. 9. And the Prophet when he shal erre, & shal speake a word: I the Lord (c) haue deceiued that Prophet: and I wil stretch forth my hand vpon him, and wil rase him out of the middes of my people Israel. 10. And they shal carie their iniquitie; according to the iniquitie of him that asketh, so shal the iniquitie of the Prophet be. 11. That the house of Israel may no more erre from me, nor be polluted in al their preuarications: but may be people, & I may be their God, saith the Lord of hosts. 12. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 13. Sonne of man, the land when it shal sinne to me, that transgressing it transgresseth, I wil stretch forth my hand vpon it, and wil breake the rod of the bread therof: and I wil send famine into it, and wil kil out of it man and beast. 14. And if these three men shal be in the middes therof, (d) Noe, Daniel, & Iob:

they by their iustice ſhal deliuer their owne ſoules, ſaith the Lord of hoſts. 15. And if I ſhal bring moſt euil beaſts alſo vpon the land, to waſte it; and it be without paſſage, for that there is none can paſſe becauſe of the beaſts: 16. Theſe three men if they ſhal be therin, I liue, I, ſaith our Lord, that they ſhal deliuer neither ſonnes nor daughters: but themſelues alone ſhal be deliuered, and the land ſhal be made deſolate. 17. Or if I ſhal bring the ſword in vpon that land, and ſhal ſay to the ſword: Paſſe through the land: and ſhal kil out of it man & beaſt: 18. And theſe three men ſhal be in the middes therof: I liue, I, ſaith our Lord God, they ſhal not deliuer ſonnes nor daughters, but themſelues alone ſhal be deliuered. 19. And if I ſhal ſend the peſtilence alſo in vpon that land, and ſhal powre out mine indignation vpon it in bloud, to take away out of it man and beaſt: 20. And (e) Noe, & Daniel, & Iob ſhal be in the middes therof: I liue, I, ſaith our Lord God, that ſonne and daughter they ſhal not deliuer: but themſelues by their iuſtice ſhal deliuer their owne ſoules. 21. Becauſe thus ſaith our Lord: That and if I ſhal ſend in vpon Ieruſalem my foure very ſore iudgements, the ſword, and famine, and euil beaſts, & the peſtilence: to kil out of it man, and beaſt: 22. Yet ſhal there be left in it ſaluation (f) of ſome bringing out ſonnes, and daughters: behold they ſhal goe forth to you, & you ſhal ſee their way, and their inuentions: and you ſhal be comforted vpon the euil, that I haue brought vpon Ieruſalem in al things, that I haue brought in vpon it. 23. And they ſhal comfort you, when you ſhal ſee their way, & their inuentions: and you ſhal know that I haue not in vaine done al things, which I haue done in it, ſaith our Lord God.

CHAP. XV.

As a vine cut downe is profitable to no uſe, but to burne: 6. ſo the Iewes (and other people) ſeparated from the Church, are to be burned in the fire.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, ſaying: 2. Sonne of man, what ſhal be made of (a) the wood of the vine of al the trees of the woods, that are among the trees of the foreſts? 3. ſhal there be taken wood of it, that a worke may be made, or ſhal a piſſe be made therof, that anie veſſel may hang theron? 4. Behold it is giuen to the fire for food: the fire hath conſumed both parts therof, and the middes therof is brought into aſhes: why, ſhal it be profitable for a worke? 5. Yea when it was whole, it was not fit for a worke: how much more when the fire hath deuoured, and burnt it, ſhal no worke be made therof? 6. Therefore thus ſaith our Lord God: As the wood of the vine among the trees of the foreſts, which I haue giuen to the fire to be deuoured, people; els this allegation of their interceding, were not to the purpoſe of confirming Gods immutable decree to puniſh this obſtinate people. As is noted of Moyſes & Samuel. 1. Cor. 15.

(e) Noe is named for example of ſpiritual Paſtours of the Church, Daniel of al religious orders, & Iob of holy laie people. S. Greg. l. 1. c. 13. Mor.

(f) There ſhal alwayes be Paſtours to bring forth & ſcede ſpiritual children of God.

(a) Gods Church is very often and fitly compared to a vine in reſpect of the excellent fruit: & ſo the branches cut off from the Church, are moſt like to wilde ſuperſtitie of the vine, good for nothing but to the fire. S. Aug. Tra 7. 81. in 10

b) In burning a fagot the middle being first consumed (v. 4.) the rest of both ends are likewise put in the fire till all be consumed: so none that are out of the Church can escape the fire.

(a) Ezechiel was now in Babylon, & therefore this admonitiō which he should giue to Ierusalem was to be notified there by letters, & messengers sent thither for this purpose.

(b) By al this is signified that God made the Israelites of a barbarous nation to be ciuill, and gaue them not only things necessarie, but also (c) ornaments, aboue the state of other nations; especially in spiritual benefits, giuing a Law, with Sacrifices, Sacraments, and other holy rites so wil I deliuer the inhabitants of Ierusalem. 7. And I wil set my face against them: (b) out of the fire shal they come forth, and fire shal consume them: and you shal know that I am the Lord, when I shal set my face against them, 8. and shal make their land not passable, and desolate, because they haue been preuaricatours, saith our Lord God.

CHAP. XVI.

God by his Prophet setting his benefits 15. and the Iewes wickednes before their eyes, 31. compareth them with other idolaters: 35. and after threatened punishment, 45. with further comparison of other nations, 52. exhorting them to repentance, 60. offereth mercie by a new couenant of Christs Ghespel.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me saying: 2. Sonne of man make knowne (a) to Ierusalem her abominations: 3. and thou shalt say: Thus saith our Lord God to Ierusalem: Thy root, and thy generation of the land of Chanaan, thy father an Amorrheite, & thy mother a Cetheite. 4. And when thou wast borne, in the day of thy birth thy nauil was not cut, and thou wast not washed with water to health, nor salted with salt, nor swaddled in clouts. 5. No eye had mercie on thee to doe vnto thee one of these things, hauing pitie on thee: but thou wast throwen forth vpon the face of the earth in the abiection of thy soule, in the day that thou wast borne. 6. And passing by thee (b) I saw thee to be troden downe in thy blood: and I said to thee when thou wast in thy blood: Liue. I said to thee, I say: In thy blood liue. 7. Multiplied as the spring of the field haue I made thee: and thou wast multiplied, & made great, and thou wentest in, and camest to the ornaments of women: thy breasts swelled, and thy haire budded: and thou wast naked, and ful of confusion. 8. And I passed by thee, and saw thee: and behold thy time, the time of louers: and I spred my garment ouer thee, and couered thy ignominie. And I sware to thee, and I entred a couenant with thee, saith our Lord God: and thou wast made myne. 9. And I washed thee with water, and made cleane thy blood from of thee: and I anoynted thee with oile. 10. And I clothed thee with diuers colours, and shod thee with hyacinth: and I girded thee with silke, and clothed thee with fine garments. 11. And I (c) adorned thee with ornament, and gaue bracelets on thy hands, and a cheine about thy necke. 12. And I gaue a iewel vpon thy face, and rings to thine eares, and a crowne of beautie on thy head. 13. And thou wast adorned with gold, and siluer, and wast clothed with silke, and embrodered worke, and manie colours : thou hast eaten floure , and honie , and oile , and wast made very beautiful exceedingly : and didst prosper to a Kingdom. 14. And thy name went forth into the Gentils , because of thy beautie : because thou wast perfect in my beautie , which I had put vpon thee , saith our Lord God. 15. And hauing confidence in thy beautie thou hast fornicated in thy name : & thou hast layd forth thy fornication to euerie passenger to be made his. 16. And taking off thy garments thou madest thee idols embrodred on each side : & thou didst fornicate vpon them , as hath not been done , nor shal not hereafter. 17. And thou tookest the vessels of of thy beautie , of my gold , and my siluer , which I gaue thee : and thou madest thee images of men , and hast fornicated in them. 18. And thou tookest thy garments of manie colours , and coueredst them : and mine oile , and mine incense thou didst put before them. 19. And my bread , which I gaue thee , the floure , and oile , and honie , wherewith I haue nourished thee , thou didst set in their sight for an odour of sweetnes , and it was done saith our Lord God. 20. And thou hast taken (d) thy sonnes , & thy daughters , which thou didst beget to me : and hast immolated the same vnto the to deuour. Why , is thy fornication smal : 21. Thou hast immolated my sonnes , & hast giuen the , consecrating them to the idols. 22. And after al thine abominations , & fornicatiōs , thou wast not mindful of the dayes of thy youth , whē thou wast naked , & ful of confusion , troden downe in thy bloud. 23. And it chanced after al thy malice (woe , woe to thee , saith our Lord God) 24. thou didst also build thee a stewes , & madest thee a brothel house in al streets. 25. At euerie head of the way hast thou built a signe of thy prostitution : & hast made thy beautie abominable : & hast diuided thy feet to euerie one that passeth by , and hast multiplied thy fornications. 26. And thou hast fornicated with the children of Ægypt thy neighbours of great flesh , & hast multiplied thy fornicatiō to prouoke me. 27. Behold I wil stretch out my hand vpon thee , & wil take away thy iustification : & I wil giue thee into the soules of the daughters of Palestine that hate thee , that are ashamed of thy wicked way. 28. And thou hast committed fornication with the sonnes of the Assyrians , because neither as yet wast thou filled : & after thou didst fornicate , neither so wast thou faciated. 29. And thou didst multiplie thy fornicatiō in the Land of Chanaā with the Chaldees : & neither so wast thou faciated. 30. Wherin shal I clense thy hart , saith our Lord God : wheras thou doest al these the works of a womā that is a whore , & mapert : 31. Because thou hast built thy brothel house in the head of euerie way , & thy excelse thou hast made in euerie street , neither becamest thou as an harlot that by disdayne augmenteth the price , 32. but as a woman aduouteresse , that ouer her husband bringeth in strāgers. 33. To (e) al harlots are rewards giuē : but thou hast giuen rewards to al thy louers , & thou didst giue them gifts to come vnto thee on euerie side , to fornicate with thee. 34. And in thee it was done contrarie to the custome of women in thy fornications , and after thee there shal be no fornication :

(d) Adulterous women doe deceiue their husbands , bringing them other mens children : but the Iewes gaue their lawfull children to the worst adulterers , sacrificing them to idols. 4. Reg. 6. 17. 21. 23.

(e) Al fornication is abominable , but that is most detestable when women giue rewards to men for fornication or adultrie.

for in that thou gauest rewards, and didst not take rewards, it hath been done contrarie in thee. 35. Therefore heare, O harlot, the word of our Lord. 36. Thus saith our Lord God: Because thy brasse is powred out, & thine ignominie is reuealed in thy fornications vpon thy louers, and vpon the idols of thine abominations in the blood of thy children, whom thou gauest the: 37. Behold I wil gather together al thy louers, with whom thou hast taken pleasure, & al whom thou hast loued, with al, whom thou didst hate: and I wil gather them together vpon thee on euerie side, and wil discouer thine ignominie before them, and they shal see al thy turpitude. 38. And I wil iudge thee by the iudgements of aduoueresses, and them that shed blood: and I wil giue thee into blood of furie and zeale. 39. And I wil giue thee into their hands, and they shal destroy thy brothel-house, and throw downe thy stewes: and they shal turne thee naked out of thy garments, and shal take away the vessels of thy beautie: and shal leaue thee naked, and ful of ignominie. 40. And they shal bring vpon thee a multitude, and they shal stone thee with stones, and shal murder thee with their swords. 41. And they shal burne thy houses with fire, and shal doe iudgements in thee in the eyes of very manie women: and thou shalt cease to fornicate, and shalt giue rewards no more. 42. And mine indignation shal rest in thee: and my zeale shal be taken away from thee, and I wil cease, and be angrie no more. 43. For that thou hast not remembred the dayes of thy youth, and hast prouoked me in al these: wherfore I also haue giuen thy wayes on thy head, saith our Lord God, & I haue not done according to thy wicked deeds in al thine abominations. 44. Behold euerie one, that speaketh a common prouerbe, shal take vp that against thee, saying (f) As the mother, so also her daughter. 45. Thou art the daughter of thy mother, which did cast off her husband, & her children: & thou art sister of thy sisters, which did cast off their husbands, and their children: y our mother was a Cetheite, and your father an Amorrhite. 46. And thy elder sister, Samaria, she & her daughters, that dwel on thy left hand, & thy sister yonger then thou, which dwelleth on thy right hand, Sodom, & her daughters. 47. But neither in their wayes hast thou walked, nor according to their wicked deeds hast thou done a very litle lesse: thou hast done almost more wicked things then they in al thy wayes. 48. Liue I, saith our Lord God, that Sodom thy sister her selfe hath not done, and her daughters, as thou hast done, and thy daughters. 49. Loe this was the iniquitie of Sodom thy sister, (g) pride, fulnes of bread, and aboundance, and the idlenes of her, and of her daughters: and they raught not the hand to the needie, and the poore. 50. And they were eleuated, and did abominations before me: & I tooke them away as thou hast seen. 51. And Samaria sinned not the halfe of thy sinnes: but thou hast passed the with thy wicked deeds, & hast iustified thy sisters in al thine abominations, which thou hast wrought. 52. Thou also therefore carie thy confusion, which hast passed thy sisters with thy sinnes, doing more wickedly then they:

(f) As Ierusalem was wont to be wicked in former times, so it is now.

(g) Ambition, gluttonie, & idlenes are cause of much more sinnes; temperance & labour bring forth much good fruit.

Ora si tollas periere cupidinis arcus. Take away idlenes, & Cupids bow is weake. Labor omnia vincit.

for they are iustified about thee : thou also therefore be confounded, and beare thine ignominie, which hast iustified thy sisters. 53. And I wil conuert restoring them by the conuersion of Sodom with her daughters, and by the conuersion of Samaria, and her daughters: and I wil conuert thy reuersion in the middes of them, 54. that thou mayst carie thine ignominie, and mayst be confounded in al things, that thou hast done, comforting them. 55. And thy sister (b) Sodom, and her daughters shal returne to their antiquitie: and Samaria, and her daughters shal returne to their antiquitie: and (i) thou, and thy daughters shal returne to your antiquitie. 56. And Sodom thy sister was not heard in thy mouth, in the day of thy pride, 57. before that thy malice was reuealed: as at this time for reproch of the daughters of Syria, & of al the daughters of Palesthine in the circuite of thee, which compass thee round about. 58. Thy wickednes, & thine ignominie thou hast caried, saith our Lord God. 59. Because thus saith our Lord God: And I wil doe to thee, as thou hast despised the oath, to make the couenant frustrate: 60. and I wil remeber my couenar with thee in the dayes of thy youth: and I wil raise vnto thee an euerlasting couenar. 61. And thou shalt remeber thy wayes, & shalt be confounded: when thou shalt receiue (k) thy sisters elder then thee with thy yonger: and I wil giue them to thee for daughters, but not by (l) thy couenant. 62. And I wil raise vp my couenant with thee: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord, 63. that thou mayst remember, and be confounded, and maist no more open thy mouth because of thy confusion, when I shal be pacified toward thee in al that thou hast done, saith our Lord God.

(b) By Sodom & other cities are understood al nations, which shal cometo Christ. (i) After that al other nations are conuerted the Iewes shal also returne to Christ. Ro. xi. 26. (k) Al gentils elder & yonger shal be conuerted to Christ. (l) Not by the couenant made with the Iewes in the Law of Moyse, but by the Euagelical couenant.

C H A P. X V I I.

By a parable of two eagles (6. and of a vineyard) is prophesied, 9. that Seducias being made King by Nabuchodonosor, 15. and rebelling, shal be carried captiue, and dye in Babylon: 22. with prophesie, that God wil plant, and propagate the Church of Christ.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. Sonne of man, propose a darke speech, and tel a parable to the house of Israel, 3. and thou shalt say: Thus saith our Lord God: A great (a) eagle with great wings, with a long reach of members, ful of fethers, and of varietie, came to Libanus, and rooke the marow of the ceder. 4. He plucked away the top of the boughs therof: and transported it into the Land of Chanaan, in the citie of merchants he did put it. 5. And he tooke of the seed of the land, & put it in the ground for seed, that it might fasten the roote ouer manie waters: he planted it in the ouermost part of the earth. 6. And when it had budded, it grew into a broad spreading vine of low stature, the boughs thereof looking toward it: and the roots thereof were vnder it. It became a vine then, and fructified into branches, and put forth shoots. 7. And there was made an other great egle, with great wings, and manie fathers: and behold this vine as it were spreading her roots towards it stretched forth her branches to it, that she might water it from the beds of her spring. 8. In a good ground vpon manie waters it was planted, that it might bring forth branches, & beare fruite, that it might be into a great vine. 9. Say: Thus saith our Lord God: shal it prosper then? shal he not pluck vp the roots thereof, & strip off the fruits thereof, drie vp al the brāches of the spring thereof, & it shal wither: & not in a great arme, nor in much people, to plucke it vp by the root? 10. Behold it is planted: shal it prosper thē? shal it not be dried whē the burning winde shal touch it, and wither in the beds of the spring thereof? 11. And the word of our Lord was made to me saying: 12. Say to the exasperating house: Know you not what these things doe signifie? Say: (b) Behold the King of Babylon commeth into Ierusalem: and he shal take the King and the Princes thereof, and shal bring them to himselfe into Babylon. 13. And he shal take of (c) the seed of the Kingdom, and shal make a couenant with it, and shal take an oath of it. Yea and he shal take away the strong of the land, 14. that it may be a lowe Kingdom, & not be eleuated, but keep his couenant, and obserue it. 15. Who reuoking from him sent messengers to Ægypt, that it would giue him horses, and much people. What, shal he prosper, or get saluation that hath done these things? and he that broke the couenant, shal he escape? 16. Liue I, saith our Lord God: that in the place of the King that made him King, whose oath he made frustrate, and brake the couenant, that he had with him, (d) in the middes of Babylon shal he dye. 17. And not in a great armie, nor in much people shal Pharao make battel agaynst him: in the casting vp of a ramper, and in the building of bulworks, to kil manie soules. 18. For he had despised the oath, that he might breake the couenant, and behold he gaue his hand, & when he hath done al these things, he shal not escape. 19. Therefore thus saith our Lord God: Liue I, that the oath which he hath despised, and the couenant, that he transgressed, I wil lay on his head. 20. And I wil spread my net ouer him, and he shal be taken in my net: and I wil bring him into Babylon, and wil iudge him there in the preuarication, wherby he hath despised me. 21. And al his fugitiues wil al their troupe shal fal by the sword: and the residue shal be disperfed into euerie wind: and you shal know that I the Lord haue spoken. 22. Thus saith our Lord God: And (e) I wil take of the marrow of the high ceder, and wil set it: of the top of the boughs thereof the tender one I wil strip off, and wil plant it vpon a mountaine high and eminent. 23. On the high mountaines of Israel wil I plant it, and it shal shoot forth into a bud, and shal yeald fruit, and it shal be into a great ceder: and al birds, and euerie

One ſhal not beare the finnes of an other, but euerie one their owne: 21. If the wicked truly repent, he ſhal be ſaued: and if the iuſt leaue his iuſtice, he ſhal be damned.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, ſaying: 2. What is that among you, you turne a parable into this prouerbe in the land of Iſrael, ſaying: (a) The fathers did eate a ſowre grape, & the teeth of the children are ſet on edge? 3. Liue I, ſaith our Lord God, if this parable ſhal be vnto you any more for a prouerbe in Iſrael. 4. Behold al ſouls are mine: as the ſoule of the father, ſo alſo the ſoule of the ſonne is mine: the ſoule that ſhal ſinne, the ſame ſhal dye. 5. And a man if he ſhal be iuſt, and hath done Iudgement and iuſtice, 6. hath not eaten on the mountaynes, and not liſted vp his eies to the idols of the houſe of Iſrael: and hath not violated his neighbours wife, & approached not to a menſtruous woman: 7. and made no man ſorowful: hath reſtored the pledge to the debtor, taken nothing away by violence: hath giuen his bread to the hungrie, and couered the naked with a garment: 8. hath not lent to uſurie, and not taken more: hath turned away his hand from iniquitie, and done true iudgement between man & man: 9. hath walked in my precepts, and kept my iudgements, to doe truth: this man is iuſt, liuing he ſhal liue, ſaith our Lord God. 10. And if he hath begotten a ſonne that is a robber ſhedding bloud, and he doe one of theſe things: 11. and that doth not indeed al theſe things, but eateth on the mountaynes, and defileth his neighbours wife: 12. that maketh the needie and poore ſorowful, violently committeth robberies, reſtoreth not the pledge, & liſteth his eyes to idols, doth abomination: 13. that giueth to uſurie, & taketh more: what ſhal he liue? he ſhal not liue. Whereas he hath done al theſe deteſtable things, dying he ſhal dye, his bloud ſhal be vpon him. 14. But and if he hath begotten a ſonne, that ſeeing al his fathers finnes, which he hath done, is atrayd, and ſhal not doe the like to them: 15. hath not eaten vpon the mountaynes, & not liſted vp his eyes to the idols of the houſe of Iſrael, & hath not violated his neighbours wife: 16. and hath made no man ſorowful, hath not withheld the pledge, and hath not violently committed robberie, hath giuen his bread to the

hungrie, and couered the naked with clothing : 17. hath turned away his hand from iniurie of the poore, hath not taken vsurie and ouerplus, hath done my iudgements, hath walked in my precepts : this man shal not dye in the iniquitie of his father, but liuing he shal liue. 18. His father because he did calumniate, and did violence to his brother, and wrought euil in the middes of his people, behold he is dead in his owne iniquitie. 19. And you say : Why hath not the sonne borne the iniquitie of his father ? Verily because the sonne hath wrought iudgement and iustice, he hath kept al my precepts, and done them, liuing he shal liue. 20. The soule that shal sinne, the same shal dye : the sonne shal not beare the iniquitie of the father, and the father shal not beare the iniquitie of the sonne : the iustice of the iust shal be vpon him, and the impietie of the impious shal be vpon him. 21. But (b) if the impious shal doe penance from al his sinnes, which he hath wrought, and shal keep al my precepts, and doe iudgement, and iustice: liuing he shal liue, and shal not dye. 22. Al his iniquities, which he hath wrought, I wil not remember them : in his iustice which he hath wrought, he shal liue. 23. Why, 'tis the death of a sinner my wil, saith our Lord God, and not that he conuert from his wayes, and liue ? 24. But if the iust man shal turne away himselfe from his iustice, and doe iniquitie according to al the abominations, which the impious vseth to worke, shal he liue ? al his iustices, which he had done, shal not be remembered: in the preuarication, which he hath preuaricated, and in his sinne, which he hath sinned, in them he shal dye. 25. And you haue said : The way of our Lord is not right. Heare ye therefore, O house of Israel : What, is not my way right, and are not rather your wayes peruerse ? 26. For when the iust shal turne away himselfe from his iustice, and doth iniquitie, he shal dye in them: in the iniustice, that he hath wrought he shal dye. 27. And when the impious shal turne away himselfe from his impietie, which he hath wrought, and shal doe iudgement and iustice (c) he shal * viuificate his soule. 28. For considering, and turning away himself from al his iniquities, which he hath wrought, liuing he shal liue, and not dye. 29. And the children of Israel say : The way of our Lord is not right. What, are not my waies right, O house of Israel, and not rather your wayes peruerse ? 30. Therefore wil I iudge euerie man according to his wayes, O house of Israel, saith our Lord God. Conuert, (d) and doe penance from al your iniquities : & iniquitie shal not be a ruine to you. 31. Cast away from you al your preuarications, wherein you haue preuaricated, and make to your selues a new hart, and a new spirit : and why wil you dye, O house of Israel ? 32. Because I wil not the death of him that dieth, saith our Lord God, returne ye, and liue.

b) Another general rule is here giuē, That as men alter their manners from euil to good or from good to euil, so they shal be iudged & finally rewarded or punished, according to the state wherein they end this life.

c) As a soule in mortal sinne & spiritually dead: so truly repenting it returneth to spiritual life. d) Not only repentance, which is auer- sion from sinne, & conuersion to God, but also doing penance, that is, satisfac- tion for sinnes past, is necessa- rie to salua- tion.

23. Is the death of a sinner my wil? In manie places of holic Scripture it is cleere, that Gods wil is most assuredly fulfilled in al things, whatsoeuer he would: and none can resist his wil; &c. Neuertheles here, and in other places it is also expressly affirmeth, that God would haue al sinners to repent, and none to dye in their finnes; which seemeth to repugue with the former doctrine For solution of which difficultie, S. Damascen, li 2. c. 29. de Orthodoxa fide, and other Doctours distinguish Gods wil, which is either called Antecedent, and conditional, and so God would haue al men to be saued, as appeareth by creating al to that end, by his frequent admonitions, precepts, threats, temporal punishments, and rewards; and especially by our Sauours death, and redemption of al mankind, wherby he merited most sufficient meanes, and offereth his sufficient grace to euerie one, that they may be saued if they wil. Otherwise Gods wil is called Consequent and absolute; and so for iustice sake his diuine wil is, that impenitent sinners shal be damned, and eternally punished for their finnes. As a iust Iudge conditionally and antecedently would haue al men to obserue good lawes, and to liue so long as they can by nature; but absolutely and consequently finding some to be murderers, or otherwise pernicious to the commonwelth, he punisheth them with death.

Though God conditionally would haue al men to be saued: yet manie are iustly damned.

A iust Iudge would condemneno man, yet cōdemneth murderers, rāceues, &c.

CHAP. XIX.

The Israelites calamitie is described by two parables, of lions, 10. and of a vine planted and plucked vp.

AND thou take vp lamentation vpon the Princes of Israel, 2. and thou shalt say: Why lay (a) thy mother a lionesse among the lions, in the middes of yong lions brought vph whelps? 3. And she brought out one of her yong lions, he became a lion: and he learned to catch prayes, and to cate man. 4. And the Gentils heard of him, and not without their wounds they tooke him: & they brought him in cheynes into the Land of Ægypt. 5. Who when she saw that she was weakened, and her expectation was lost, she rooke one of her yong lions, she made him a lion. 6. Who went among the lions, & became a lion: and he learned to take praye, & to deuoure men. 7. He learned to make widowes, and to bring their cities into a desert: and the land was made desolate, and the fulnes thereof by the voice of his roaring. 8. And (b) the Gentils came together against him on euerie side out of the Provinces, and they spred their net vpon him, in their wounds he was

And there were made to her strong rods for the scepters of them that rule, and her stature was exalted among the branches: and she saw her height in the multitude of her branches. 12. And she was plucked vp in wrath, and cast on the ground: and the burning wind hath dried vp her fruit: the rods of her strength are withered, & dried vp: fire hath eaten her. 13. And now she is transplanted into the desert, in a land not passable, and drie. 14. And there came forth fire from the rod of her boughs, which hath eaten her fruit: and there was not in her a strong rod, the scepter of rulers. Lamentation it is, and it shal be into lamentation.

CHAP. XX.

God wil not answer the elders of Israel asking by the Prophet, 4. but by him setteth his benefits before their eies, and their owne heynous finnes; 30. threatning yet greater punishments: 40. but still mixt with mercie.

(a) Ezechiel began to Prophecie in the fifth year after the transmigration of Iechonias ch. 1. v. 2. after which he was silent 390. dayes, and 40. dayes (ch. 4. v. 8.) which make 430. that is, a yeare two months & five dayes. In the sixth yeare the month he Prophecied againe ch. 8. v. 1. And now in the seuenth yeare fifth month tenth day, the elders coming to demãd Prophecie it was revealed to him not to answer

AND it came to passe in (a) the seuenth yeare, in the fifth, the tenth of the month: there came men of the ancients of Israel to aske our Lord, and they sate before me. 2. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 3. Some of man, speake to the ancients of Israel, and thou shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord God: Why, are you come to aske me? Liue I, that I wil not answer you, saith our Lord God. 4. Doeft thou iudge them, doeft thou iudge o sonne of man? shew to them the abominations of their fathers. 5. And thou shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord God: In the day that I chose Israel, and lifted vp my hand for the stock of the house of Iacob: and appeared to them in the Land of Ægypt, & lifted vp my hand for them, saying: I the Lord your God: 6. in that day I lifted vp my hand for them; that I might bring them out of the Land of Ægypt, into a Land which I had prouided for them, flowing with milke & honie, which is excellent among al lands. 7. And I said to them: Let euerie man cast away the scar dals of his eies, & in the idols of Ægypt be ye not polluted: I the Lord your God. 8. And they prouoked me, & would not heare me: euerie one did not cast away the abominations of his eies; neither did they leaue the idols of Ægypt: and I sayd, I would powre out mine indignation vpon them, and fil my wrath in them, in the middes of the Land of Ægypt. 9. And

(b) I did for my name sake, that it might not be violated before the Gentils, in the middes of whom they were, & among whom I appeared to them to bring them out of the Land of Ægypt. 10. I cast them out therefore of the Land of Ægypt, and brought them forth into the desert. 11. And I gaue them my precepts; and I shewed to them my iudgements, which a man doing, shal liue in them. 12. Moreouer also my sabbaths I gaue to them, to be a signe between me and them: & that they might know that I am the Lord sanctifying them. 13. And the houses of Israel prouoked me in the desert; they walked not in my precepts, and my iudgements they reiected, which a man doing shal liue in the: & my sabbaths they violated exceedingly. I said therefore I would power out my furie vpon them in the desert; and would consume them. 14. And (c) I did for my name sake, lest it should be violated before the Gentils, from which I cast them out, in their sight. 15. I therefore lifted vp my hand vpon them in the desert, not to bring them into the Land, which I gaue them flowing with milke and honie, the chiefe of all lands. 16. Because they reiected my iudgements, and walked not in my precepts, and violated my sabbaths: for their hart went after idols. 17. And mine eye was merciful on them, that I killed them not: neither did I consume them in the desert. 18. But I said to their children in the wildernes: In the precepts of your fathers walke not, neither keep ye their iudgements, nor be polluted in their idols: 19. I the Lord your God: walke ye in my precepts, and keep my iudgements, and doe them. 20. And sanctifie ye my sabbaths, that they may be a signe between me and you: and ye may know that I am the Lord your God. 21. And the children exasperated me, in my precepts they walked not: and my iudgements they kept not, to doe them: which when a man shal doe, he shal liue in them: and they violated my sabbaths: and I threatned to power out my furie vpon them, and to fill my wrath in them in the desert. 22. But I turned away my hand, & did for my names sake, that it might not be violated before the Gentils, out of which I did cast them forth in their eyes. 23. (d) Againe I lifted vp my had vpon them in the wildernes, that I might disperse them into nations, and scatter them into lands: 24. for that they had not done my iudgements, and had reiected my precepts, and had violated my sabbaths, and their eyes had been after the idols of their fathers. 25. Therefore I also gaue them precepts not good, & iudgements, in which they shal not liue. 26. And I polluted them in their gifts, when they offered all that opened the matrice, for their offences: and they shal know that I am the Lord. 27. Wherefore speake to the house of Israel, O sonne of man: and thou shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord God: Yet also in this did your fathers blaspheme me, when contemning they had despised me: 28. and I had brought them into the Land, vpon which I lifted vp my hand to giue it them: they saw euerie high hill, & euerie wooddie tree, and there they immolated their victims: and there they gaue the irritation of their oblation, and there they put

(b) According to their deserts al should haue been destroyed, but God for his names sake saued his people, as he had promised

(c) As v. 9. & 22. God still conserued a succession.

(d) God lifted vp his hand either to deliver, as v. 5. 6. 15. or to threaten and punish, as here:

(e) By long custom of sacrificing to idols upon the Excelses (that is, on high places, or hills) which the people also called the Altar of God an Excelsē: whereupon the prophet argueth against the, that euen by the false name vsed by euil custome, they are conuincid to haue been great idolaters. As those who haue been heretikes, doe commonly vse termes & phrases belonging to heresie. As Communion for Masse, Table for Altar, Service for Sacrifice.

the odour of their sweetnes, and offered their libations. 29. And I said to them: What is (e) the excelsē, vnto which you goe? & the name thereof was called Excelsē euen to this day. 30. Therefore say to the house of Israel: Thus saith our Lord God: Surely in the way of your fathers you are polluted, and after their scandals you doe fornicate. 31. And in the oblation of your gifts, when you make your children passe through the fire; you are polluted in al your idols vnto this day: and shal I answer you, ô house of Israel? Liue I, saith our Lord God, that I wil not answer you. 32. Neither shal the cogitation of your minde come to passe, saying: We wil be as the Gentils, and as the kinreds of the earth, that we may worship wood, and stones. 33. Liue I, saith our Lord God, that in a strong hand, & in a stretched out arme, & in furie powred forth wil I reigne ouer you. 34. And I wil bring you out of the peoples, and I wil gather you out of the lāds, in which you are disperfed, in a strōg hād, & in a stretched out arme, & in furie powred forth wil I reigne ouer you. 35. And I wil bring you into the desert of peoples, and wil be iudged there with you face to face. 36. As I contended in iudgemēt against your fathers in the desert of the Land of Ægypt: so wil I iudge you, saith our Lord God. 37. And I wil subdue you to my scepter, & wil bring you into the bands of couenant. 38. And I wil choose out of you the trāgressours, and impious, & wil bring them out of the land of their sejourning, and into the land of Israel they shal not enter: and you shal know that I am the Lord. 39. And you ô house of Israel, Thus saith our Lord God: (f) Walke you euerie one after your idols, & serue them. But and if in this also you heare me not, and shal pollute (g) my holie name any more in your gifts, & in your idols: 40. in my holie mount, in the high mount of Israel, saith our Lord God, there shal al the house of Israel serue me, al I say in the land, wherein they shal please me, & there wil I require your first fruits, and the beginning of your tithes in al your sanctifications. 41. I wil receiue you for an odour of sweetnes, when I shal brought you out of the peoples, & shal haue gathered you out of the lands, into which you are disperfed, & I wil be sanctified in you in the eyes of the nations. 42. And you shal know that I am the Lord, when I shal haue brought you into the land of Israel, into the land for which I listēd vp my hand to giue it to your fathers. 43. And there you shal remember your wayes, and al your wicked deeds, in which you were polluted: & you shal mislike your selues in your owne sight, in al your malices, which you haue done. 44. And you shal know that I am the Lord, when I shal haue done you good for my name sake, and not according to your euil wayes, nor according to your most wicked deeds, ô house of Israel, saith our Lord God. 45. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 46. Sonne of man, set thy face against the way (h) of the south, and drop toward the sotherne winde, & prophecie to the Forrest of the sot herne field. 47. And thou shalt say to the sotherne Forrest: Hear the word of our Lord: Thus saith our Lord God: Behold I wil kinde a fire in thee, and wil burne in thee euerie green tree, and euerie drie tree: the flame of the fire shal not be quenched: and euerie face shal be burned in it, from the South euen to the North. 48. And al flesh shal see, that I the Lord kindled it, neither shal it be quenched. 49. And I said: A a a, ô Lord God: they say of me: (i) Doth not this man speake by parables?

(i) Much of his Prophecie was so hard, that al seemed to be parables.

C H A P. XXI.

Destruction of Ierusalem by sword is further described: 10. with translation of the Kingdom. 28. The ruine also of the Ammonites is foreshewed. 30. And finally Babylon, the destroyer of others, shal be destroyed.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. Sonne of man set thy face to Ierusalem, and (a) drop to the sanctuaries, and prophecie against the ground of Israel: 3. And thou shalt say to the land of Israel: Thus saith our Lord God: Behold I to thee, and I wil draw forth my sword out of his scabbard, and wil kil in thee (b) the iust, and the impious. 4. And for that I haue killed in thee the iust, and the impious, therefore shal my sword goe forth out of his scabbard to al flesh, from the South euen to the North. 5. That al flesh may know that I the Lord haue drawn my sword out of his scabbard not to be reuoked. 6. And thou sonne of man, mourne in contrition of the loynes, and in bitternes mourne before them. 7. And when they shal say to thee: Why mournest thou? thou shalt say: For the bruit: because it commeth, and euerie hart shal melt, & al hands shal be dissolued, and euerie spirit shal be weakned, and waters shal runne by al knees: behold it commeth, and it shal be done, saith our Lord God. 8. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 9. Sonne of man prophecie, and thou shalt say: Thus saith our Lord God: Speake: The sword, the sword is sharpned, and fourbished. 10. To kil victims it is sharpned, to glitter it is fourbished: thou that mouest the scepter (c) of my sonne, halt cut downe euerie tree. 11. And I gaue it to be made smooth, that it may be held with the hand: this is a sharpned sword, and this is fourbished, that it may be in the hand of the slayer. 12. Crie, and houle, ô sonne of man, because this same is made in my people, in al the captaines of Israel, that fled: they are deliuered to the sword with my people, therefore strike vpon the thigh, 13. because it is proued: and that, when it shal ouerthrow the scepter, it shal not be saith our Lord God. 14. Thou therefore ô sonne of man prophecie, and strike hand against hand, and let the sword be doubled, & let the sword of the slaine be tripled: this is the sword of great slaughter, that maketh them to be astonied, 15. and to pine in hart, & multiplieth ruines. In al their gates haue I giuen the trouble of the sword sharp and fourbished

(a) Cease not to infill & inculcate the punishment of the people.

(b) Temporal afflictions fall also vpon the iust; not for punishment, but for their merite, and that they may escape the miseries of captiuitie, whereas the wicked are punished both temporally & eternally. S. Ierow. in ch. 20. v. 47.

(c) The whole people of Israel was the peculiar adopted sonne of God, called also his first begotten. Exo. 4. v. 22.

to glitter, addressed to slaughter. 16. Be thou sharpned, goe to the right hand, or to the left, whithersoever the appetite of thy face is. 17. Yea and I wil clappe hand to hand, and wil fill mine indignation: I the Lord haue spoken. 18. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 19. And thou sonne of man, (d) put thee two wayes, that the sword of the King of Babylon may come: both shal come forth out of one land: and he shal take coniecture with the hand, in the head of the way of the citie shal he choose it. 20. Thou shalt make way that the sword may come to Rabbath of the children of Ammon, and to Iuda into Ierusalem most fenced. 21. For the King of Babylon stood in the high way, in the head of two wayes, seeking diuination, shuffling arrowes: he asked the idols, and tooke counsell of entrailles. 22. On his right hand was made diuination vpon Ierusalem, to set engines to open the mouth in slaughter, to elcuate the voice in howling, to set engines against the gates, to cast vp a rampier, to build munitions. 23. And he shal be as it were consulting the oracle in vaine in their eyes, and imitating the rest of sabbaths: but he shal remember the iniquitie to take it. 24. Therefore thus saith our Lord God: For that you haue remembred your iniquitie, and haue reuealed your preuarications, and your sinnes haue appeared in al your cogitations: for that, I say, that you remembred, you shal be taken by hand. 25. But thou prophane, impious Prince of Israel, whose day prefixed commeth in the time of iniquitie: 26. Thus saith our Lord God: Take away the myter, take off the crowne: is not this it, that extolled the humble, and humbled the high? 27. Iniquitie, iniquitie, iniquitie wil I put it, and this was not done, til he came to whom iudgement belongeth, and I wil deliuer it to him. 28. And thou sonne of man propheticke, and say: Thus saith our Lord God to the children of Ammon, and (e) to their reproch, and thou shalt say: Sword, sword draw out thy selfe to kil, fourbish thy selfe to slaye, and to glitter. 29. When vaine things were seen for thee, and lies were diuined: that thou mightest be giuen vpon the necks of the wounded impious, whose day prefixed commeth in the time of iniquitie. 30. (f) Returne to thy scabbard, in the place wherein thou wast created, in the land of thy natiuitie I wil iudge thee, 31. and wil powre out vpon thee mine indignation: in the fire of my furie wil I blow vpon thee, and wil giue thee into the hands of men vnwise, and framing destruction. 32. Thou shalt be food for the fire, thy bloud shal be in the middes of the land, thou shalt be forgotten: because I the Lord haue spoken.

C H A P. XXII.

For diuers enormous finnes, 14. Ierusalem, and al Israel shal be plagued: 56. namely false Prophets, Priests, rauening Princes, and wicked people.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. And thou sonne of man (a) doest thou not iudge, doest thou not iudge the cite of blood? 3. And thou shalt shew her al her abominations, & shalt say: Thus saith our Lord God: The cite thedding blood in the middes if it, that her time may come: & that hath made idols against her selfe, that she might be polluted. 4. In thy blood, which is shed by thee, thou hast offended: and in thine idols, which thou hast made, thou art polluted: and thou hast made thy dayes to approach, and hast brought the time of thy yeares: therefore haue I giuē thee a reproch to the Gentils, and a mockerie to al lands. 5. Those that are nere, and that are far from thee, shall triumph ouer thee: thou filthie one, noble, great in destruction. 6. Behold the Princes of Israel, euerie one in his arme, haue been in thee, to shed blood. 7. Father and mother they haue abused with contumelies in thee, the stranger they haue calumniated in the middes of thee, the pupil and widow they haue made forowful in thee. 8. My sanctuaries you haue despised, and my sabbaths you haue polluted. 9. Detracting men haue been in thee to shed blood, and vpon the mountaynes they haue eaten in thee, they haue wrought wickednes in the middes of thee. 10. The fathers thame they haue discovered in thee, the vncleannes of the menstruous woman they haue humbled in thee. 11. And euerie one hath wrought abomination vpon his neighbours wife, and the father in law hath polluted his daughter in law wickedly, the brother hath oppressed his sister the daughter of his father in thee. 12. They haue taken gifts in thee to shed blood: thou hast taken vsurie and ouerplus, and didst caluminate thy neighbours couctously: and thou hast forgotten me, saith our Lord God. 13. Behold, I (b) haue wrong my hands vpon thy couetousnes, which thou hast done, & vpon the blood that hath been shed in the middes of thee. 14. Why, shall thy hart abide, or shall thy hands preuaile in the dayes, which I shall make to thee? I the Lord haue spoken, and wil doe it. 15. And I wil disperse thee into nations, & wil scatter thee into lands, and wil make thy vncleannes to faile from thee. 16. And I wil possesse thee in the sight of the Gentils. and thou shalt know that I am the Lord. 17. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 18. Sonne of mā, the house of Israel is turned into drosse to me: al these are become brasle, and tinne, and yron, and lead, and drosse of silver, in the middes

of the fornace. 19. Therefore thus saith our Lord God : Because you are all turned into drosse , therefore behold I wil gather you together in the middes of Ierusalem ; 20. with the gathering of siluer , and brasse , and tinne , & yron , and lead , in the middes of a fornace : that I may kindle a fire in it to melt it : so wil I gather you together in my furie , and in my wrath , and wil rest : and I wil melt you. 21. And I wil gather you together , and wil set you on fire , in the fire of my furie , and you shal be melted in the middes therof. 22. As siluer is melted in the middes of the fornace , so shal you be in the middes therof : & you shal know that I am the Lord , when I haue powred out mine indignation vpon you. 23. And the word of our Lord was made to me , saying : 24. Sonne of man , say to it : Thou art an vnclane land , and not rayned vpon in the day of furie. 25. A conspiracie of Prophets in the middes therof : as a lion roaring , and rauening the praye , haue they deuoured souls , they haue taken the riches and the price , her widowes they haue multiplied in the middes therof. 26. Her Priests haue contemned my law , and haue polluted my sanctuaries : between a holie thing and prophane they haue put no difference : and between the polluted and the cleane they vnderstood not : and from my sabbaths they haue turned away their eyes , and I was defiled in the middes of them. 27. Her Princes in the middes of her , as wolues rauening the praye to sledge bloud , and to destroy souls , and to pursue gaynes couctously. 28. And her Prophets dawbed them without tempering , seeing vayne things , & diuining lies to them , saying : Thus saith our Lord God : wheras our Lord hath not spoken. 29. The people of the land they oppressed by calumnie , and tooke away violently : the needie and poore they afflicted , and the stranger they oppressed by calumnie without iudgement. 30. And I sought of them a man that might enterpose hedge , and (c) stand opposite agaynst me for the land , that I might not destroy it : and I found not. 31. And I powred out mine indignation vpon them , in the fire of my wrath I consumed them : I haue rendred their way vpon their head , saith our Lord God.

C H A P. XXIII.

By a parable of two harlots, Oolla and Ooliba, 5. the idolatrie of the two Kingdoms of Israel II. and of Iuda is described: 22. with threats (31. as Israel is partly afflicted already) 30. of more affliction to them both.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me , saying : 2. Sonne of man , there were (a) two women daughters of one mother. 3. And they fornicated in Egypt , (b) in their youth they fornicated : there were their brettes pressed , and the paps of their virginie were broken. 4. And their names (c) Oolla the elder ,

(e) A meruelous force of iustmens prayers, by which God suffereth himself to be overcome. And it is most grateful to God when some doe so oppose themselves to entreat mercie for sinners, that they may repent. S. Iero. list. 12. ad Gualtimum.

(d) He speaketh here as of two peoples by anticipation, for when the Israelites were in Egypt, they were but one people & then also they committed idolatrie.

(b) Though they were but beginning to increase.
(c) God called and (d) Ooliba her yonger sister : and I had them, & they bare sonnes, and daughters. Moreouer their names, Samaria Oolia, and Ierusalem Ooliba. 5. Oolia therefore fornicated ouer me, and was made vpon her louers, vpon the Assirians approching, 6. clothed with hyacinth, the Princes, and the magistrates, al the yong men of concupiscences, al the horsmen, the riders of horses. 7. And she gaue her fornications vpon them al the chosen children of the Assirians : and in al, on whom she was made, in their vncleannes she was polluted. 8. Moreouer also her fornications, which she had made in Egypt she left not : for they also slept with her in her youth, and they brake the breasts of the virginite, and powred out their fornication vpon her. 9. Therefore haue I deliuered her into the hands of her louers, into the hands of the children of Assur, vpon whose lust she was made. 10. They discovered her ignominie, tooke her sonnes and daughters, and her they killed with the sword : and they were made notorious women, and they did iudgements in her. 11. Which when her sifter Ooliba had seen, she was made with lust more then she: and she gaue impudently her fornication about the fornication of her sifter. 12. to the children of the Assirians, to the Princes, and magistrates comming to her clothed with partie clothing, to the horsemen that were carried on horses, and to yong men al of goodlie beautie. 13. And I saw that she was polluted, both one way. 14. And she increased her fornication : and when she had seen men paynted in a wal, the images of the Chaldees expressed in colours, 15. and girded with girdles about their reynes, and died turbants on their heads, the forme of al the Dukes, the similitude of the children of Babylon, and of the land of the Chaldees, wherein they were borne, 16. she was made vpon them with the concupiscence of her eies, & she sent messengers to them into Chaldec. 17. And when the children of Babylon were come to her vnto the bed of pappes, they polluted her with (d) their fornications, and she was polluted of them, and her soule was filled of them. 18. She reuealed also her fornications, & discovered her ignominie : & my soule departed from her, as my soule departed from her sifter. 19. For she hath multiplied her fornications, remembring the dayes of her youth, in which she fornicated in the land of Egypt. 20. And she was made for lust vpon the lying with them, whose flesh is as the flein of asses : and as th^e fluxe of horses, their fluxe. 21. And thou hast visited the wickednes of thy youth when thy breasts were pressed in Egypt, & the paps of thy virginitie broken. 22. Therefore Ooliba, thus saith our Lord God : Behold I wil raise vp al thy louers against thee, of whō thy soule is filled : & I wil gather thē together against thee round about, 23. the childē of Babylon, & al the Chaldees, the nobies, & the tyrants, & Princes, al the children of the Assirians, the yong men of goodlie beautie, al the captaynes, & magistrates, the Princes of Princes, & the renoued riders of horses. 24. And they shal come vpon thee wel appoynted with chariot, & wheele, a multitude of peoples : with brigantine, and buckler, the ten tribes Oolia, which signifieth their owne habitation, because they made Gods to themselues, in Bethel & Dan; and the two tribes her called Ooliba, signifying my habitation, because the tēple there was Gods habitation.

d. In al this & the like discourses the Prophet speaketh not of carnal fornication, but of spiritual which is idolatric, by the most frequent figure Metaphora.

(e) In that the Chaldees were the ministers of Gods wrath, they are called his zele, as Afsar is called the rod of his furie. Iſa. 10 v. 5.

(f) By the nose S. Ieron. vnderstandeth the King: by the eares the Priests & Iudges, who were not slaine but cut off from the people, and caried into captiuitie. 4. Reg. 25. Iere. 52.

and hel met they shal be armed against thee on euerie side : and I wil giue iudgement before them , and they shal iudge thee by their iudgements. 25. And I wil put my (e) zele in thee , which they exercise with thee in furie : (f) thy nose and thine eares they shal cut off : & the things that remaine shal fal by the sword : they shal take thy sonnes , and thy daughters , and thy verie last thing shal be deuoured with fire. 26. And they shal strip thee of thy garments , and shal take away the vessels of thy glorie. 27. And I wil make thy wickednes to cease out of thee , and thy fornication out of the Land of Ægypt : neither shalt thou lift vp thine eyes to them , & Ægypt thou shalt remember no more. 28. Because thus saith our Lord God : Behold I wil deliuer thee into the hands of them , whom thou hatest , into their hands , of whom thy soule is filled. 29. And they shal deale with thee in hatred , and they shal take away al thy labours , & shal let thee goe naked , and ful of ignominie , and the ignominie of thy fornications shal be reuealed , thy wicked deed , and thy fornications. 30. They haue done these things to thee , because thou hast fornicated after the Nations , among which thou wast polluted in their idols. 31. Thou hast walked in the way of thy sister , and I wil giue her cup in thy dand. 32. Thus saith our Lord God : The cup of thy sister thou shalt drinke deepe , and wide : thou shalt be into derision & into scorn , which is most capable. 33. With drunkennes and sorow thou shalt be replenished : with the cup of pensifenes , and sadnes , with the cup of thy sister Samaria. 34. And thou shalt drinke it , and shalt drinke it vp euen to the dregs , and the fragments therof thou shalt deuoure , thou shalt rent thy breasts : because I haue spoken , saith our Lord God : 35. Therefore thus saith our Lord God : Because thou hast forgotten me , and hast cast me of behind thy bodie , thou also beare thy wickednes , and thy fornications. 36. And our Lord spake to me , saying : Sonne of man (g) doest thou iudge Oolla , and Ooliba , and shewest thou them their wicked deeds ? 37. because they haue committed aduoutrie , and bloud is in their hands , and with their idols they haue fornicated : moreouer also their children , whom they begat for me , they haue offered vnto them to be deuoured. 38. Yea and they haue done this to me. They polluted (h) my sanctuarie in that day , & profaned my (i) sabbaths. 39. And when they immolated their children to their idols , and went into my sanctuarie in that day to pollute it : these things also they did in the middes of my house. 40. They sent to men comming from far , to whom they had sent a messenger : therefore loe they came : to whom thou didst wash thy self , and didst annoint thine eyes about with * stibik stone , and wast adorned with womens ornaments. 41. Thou satest in a very faire bed , and a table was decked before thee : mine incense , and mine oyntment thou didst set vpon it. 42. And the voice of a multitude reioycing was on it : and on the men , that were brought of the multitude of men , and came from the desert , they did put bracelets on their hands , and beautiful crownes on their heads. 43. And I said to her, that was worne in aduoutries: Now wil this woman also fornicate in her fornication. 44. And they went to her as to an harlot woman: so went they vnto Oolla, and Ooliba wicked women. 45. They therefore are iust men: these shal iudge them with the iudgement of adulteresses, and with the iudgement of bloud-theders: because they are adulteresses, and bloud is in their hands. 46. For thus saith our Lord God: Bring a multitude to them, and deliuer them into tumult, and into spoile: 47. and let them be stoned with the stones of peoples, and let them be thrust through with their swords: they shal kil their sonnes, and daughters, and their houses they shal burne with fire. 48. And I wil take away the wickednes out of the land, and al women shal learne, not to doe according to the wickednes of them. 49. And they shal giue your wickednes vpon you, and the finnes of your idols you shal carie: and you shal know that I am the Lord God.

Ierusalem manie wayes chasticed of God, and not amended, XI. shal at last be melted like a brasse pot: 15. and shal not dare to mourne for the death of her dearest.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me in (a) the ninth yeare, in the tenth month, the tenth day of the month, saying: 2. Sonne of man, (b) write thee the name of this day, wherein the King of Babylon is confirmed against Ierusalem to day. 3. And thou shalt speake by a prouerbe to the exasperating house a parable, & shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord God: Set thou a pot, set it, I say, and put water into it. 4. Heape together the pieces therof into it, cuerie good part, the thigh and the shoulder, the chosen things and ful of bones. 5. Take the fattest beast, and lay together pyles of bones also vnder it: the seething therof is boyling hot, and the bones therof are throughly sodden in the middes therof. 6. Therefore thus saith our Lord God: Woe to the citie of bloud, to the pot, whose rustines is in it, and the rustines therof is not gone out of it: by her parts and by her parts cast her out, there hath no lot fallen vpon her. 7. For her bloud is in the middes of her, she hath shed it vpon the most cleare rocke: she shed it not vpon the ground, that it might be couered with dust. 8. That I might bring mine indignation in vpon her, and might reuenge with vengeance: I gaue her bloud vpon the most cleere rock, that it might not be couered. 9. Therefore thus saith our Lord God: Woe to the citie of bloud, whose bonafire I wil make great. 10. Heape together the bones, which I wil burne with fire: the flesh shal be consumed, and al the Set it also vpon hote burning coles emptie, that the brasse therof may waxe hote, and be melted: and let the filth of it be melted in the middes therof, and let the rust therof be consumed. 12. There hath been sweating with much labour, & the exceeding rust therof is not gone out, (c) no not by fire. 13. Thine vncleannes is execrable: because I would cleanse thee, and thou art not cleansed from thy filthines: yea neither shalt thou be cleansed, before I make myne indignation to cease in thee. 14. I the Lord haue spoken: It shal come, and I wil doe it: I wil not passe, nor spare, nor be pacified: according to thy wayes, and according to thine inuentions wil I iudge thee, saith our Lord. 15. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 16. Sonne of man, behold I take from thee the thing that thine eyes desire in a plague: and thou shalt not lament, nor weep: neither shalt thy teares runne. 17. Sigh holding thy peace, thou shalt not make the mourning of the dead: let thy crowne be tyed round about thee, and thy shoes shal be on thy feet, neither shalt thou couer thy face with a cloth, neither shalt thou eate the meats of mourners. 18. I spake therefore to the people in the morning, and (d) my wife died at euen: and I did in the morning as he had commanded me. 19. And the people sayd to me: Why doest thou not tel vs what these things signifie, that thou doest? 20. And I sayd to them: The word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 21. Speake to the house of Israel: Thus sayth our Lord God: Behold I wil pollute my sanctuarie, the pride of your empire, and the thing that your eyes desire, and vpon which your soule quaketh for feare: your sonnes, and your daughters, which you haue left, shal fal by the sword. 22. And you shal doe as I haue done: your faces with a clothe you shal not couer, and the meats of mourners you shal not eate. 23. You shal haue crownes on your heads, & shoes on your feet: you shal not lament nor weep, but you shal pine away in your iniquities, and euerie one shal groane toward his brother. 24. And Ezechiel shal be vnto you for a portending signe: according to al things, that he hath done, shal you doe when this shal come: & you shal know that I am the Lord God. 25. And thou sonne of man, behold in the day, wherein I wil take away from them their strength, and the ioy of dignitie, and the desire of their eyes, wherupon their soules rest, their sonnes and daughters. 26. In that day when one flying shal come to thee, to tel thee: 27. in that day, I say, shal thy mouth be opened with him that flyeth, and thou shalt speake, and shalt be silent no more: and thou shalt be vnto them for a portending signe, and you shal know that I am the Lord.

The Ammonites, 8. Moabites, 12. Idumeans, 15. and Philistians (for their malice against the Israelites) shal be overthrowen.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. Sonne of man, set thy face against the children of Ammon, & thou shalt prophetic of them. 3. And thou shalt say to the children of Ammon: Heare ye the word of our Lord God: Thus saith our Lord God (a) For that thou hast sayd: Ha, ha, vpon my sanctuarie, because it is polluted: and vpon the Land of Israel, because it is made desolate: and vpon the house of Iuda, because they are led into captiuitie: 4. Therefore wil I deliuer thee to the children (b) of the east for an inheritance, and they shal place their shepcotes in thee, and shal set their tents in thee: they shal eat thy fruits: and they shal drinke thy milke. 5. And I wil giue Rabbath to be an habitation of camels, and the children of Ammon to be a lying place for beasts: and you shal know that I am the Lord. 6. Because thus saith our Lord God: For that thou hast clapped with the hand, and stricken with the foot, and hast been glad with al thy affection vpon the land of Israel: 7. therefore behold I wil stretch forth my hand vpon thee, and wil deliuer thee into the spoile of the Gentils, and wil kil thee out of the peoples, and destroy thee out of the lands, and breake thee: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord. 8. Thus saith our Lord God: For that Moab, and Seir haue sayd: Behold as al the Gentils, so is the house of Iuda: 9. therefore behold (c) I wil open the shoulder of Moab of his cities, of his cities I say, and of his borders the noble cities of the land Bethiesmoth, and Beelmeon, and Cariathaim, 10. to the children of the East with the children of Ammon, & I wil giue it for an inheritance: that there may be memorie no more of the children of Ammon among the Gentils. 11. And in Moab I wil doe Iudgements: and they shal know that I am the Lord. 12. Thus saith our Lord God: For that Idumea hath made reuenge to reuenge herself of the children of Iuda, and hath sinned offending, & hath sought reuenge of them, 13. therefore thus sayth our Lord God: I wil stretch forth my hand vpon Idumea, and wil take away out of it man, and beast, and wil make it desert from the South: and they that are in Dedan, shal fal by the sword. 14. And I wil giue my reuenge vpon Idumea by the hand of my people Israel: and they shal doe in Edom according to my wrath, and my furie: and they shal know my vengeance, saith our Lord God. 15. Thus saith our Lord God: For that the Palesthines haue made reuenge, and haue reuenged themselues with al their minde, killing, and accom-

Some of man for that Tyre hath sayd of Ierusalem : Ah the gates of the peoples are broken, she is turned to me : I shal be filled, she is desert. 3. Therefore thus saith our Lord God : Behold I vpon thee ô Tyre, and I wil make manie nations come vnto thee, as the sea riseth vp swelling. 4. And they shal dissipate the wals of Tyre, and shal destroy the towers therof : and I wil scrape her dust from her, and wil make her as a most cleare rocke. 5. (b) The drying of nets shal be in the middes of the sea, because I haue spoken, saith our Lord God : and she shal be for a spoile to the Gentils. 6. (c) Her daughters also that be in the field, shal be slaine by the sword : and they shal know that I am the Lord. 7. Because thus saith our Lord God : Behold I wil bring to Tyre Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon from the North, the King of Kings with horses, & chariots, and horsemen, and multitude, & a great people. 8. Thy daughters that are in the field, he shal kil with the sword : & he shal compass thee with munitions, and shal cast vp a mount round about : and he shal lift vp the buckler against thee. 9. And he shal dispose ordinances, and engins against thy wals, and shal destroy thy towers with his armour. 10. With the inundation of his horses, the dust of them shal couer thee : at the sound of the horsemen, and wheels, and chariots thy wals shal be moued, when he shal go in at thy gates, as by the entrance of a citie destroyed. 11. With the hoofs of his horses he shal tread downe al thy streets : thy people he shal kil with the sword, and thy noble statues shal fall to the ground. 12. They shal waste thy riches, they shal spoile thy merchandise : and they shal destroy thy wals, and shal ouerthrow thy goodlie houses : and thy stones, and thy timber, and thy dust they shal put in the mids of the waters. 13. And I wil make the multitude of thy songs to cease, and the sound of thy harps shal be heard no more. 14. And I wil make thee as a most cleare rock, drying of nets shal thou be, neither shalt thou be built anie more : because I haue spoken , saith our Lord God. 15. Thus saith our Lord God to Tyre : Why , shal not the ilands be moued at the found of thy ruine, and the groning of thy flaine when they shal be killed in the middes of thee ? 16. And al the Princes of the sea shal goe downe from their seats : and take off their robes, and cast away their brodered garments, and be clothed with astonishment, sit on the earth , and being astonished meruel at thy sudden fal. 17. And taking vpon thee a lamentation , they shal say to thee : How hast thou perished that dwellest in the sea , ô noble citie , which hast been strong in the sea with thine inhabitants , whom al did feare ? 18. Now shal the ships be astonished in the day of thy feare : and the ilands in the sea shal be troubled , for that none commeth forth out of thee. 19. Because thus saith our Lord God : When I shal make thee a desolate citie as the cities that are not inhabited: & shal bring vpon thee the depth, & manie waters shal couer thee : 20. and shal pluck thee downe with those, that descend into the lake to the euerlasting people, and shal place thee in the (c)lowest ground as old desolations, with them that are brought downe into the lake , that thou be not inhabited : moreouer when I shal giue glorie in the land of the liuing, 21. I wil bring thee to nothing, & thou shalt not be , and being sought for , thou shalt not be found anie more for euer, saith our Lord God.

The Prophet lamenteth the ruine of Tyre: 3. describing her former glories 10. and traffike in al sorts of rich merchandise, with sundrie nations. 26. At which shal be ouerthrowne by the Chaldees.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. Thou therefore ô sonne of man , take vp a lamentation vpon Tyre: 3. And thou shalt say to Tyre, which dwelleth in the entrâce of the sea, being the traffike of peoples to manie ilands: Thus saith our Lord God: ô Tyre, thou hast said: (a) I am of perfect beautie, 4. & situated in the hart of the sea. Thy borderers, which builded thee haue accomplisshed thy beautie: 5. with the firetrees of Sanir they builded thee , with al the bords of the sea : they tooke the cedar from Libanus, to make thee a mast. 6. Okes of Basan they haue hewed for thine ores : & thy bankes they haue made thee of the iuorie of India , and litle cabbins of the ilands of Italie. 7. Various silke of Ægypt was women for thy saile , to be put on the mast : hyacinth , and purple out of the ilands of Elifa, were made thy couering. 8. The inhabitants of Sidon, and the Aradians were thy rowers : thy wise men , ô Tyre, were made thy gouernours. 9. The ancients of Gebal, & wisemen therof had mariners to the seruice of

The Perſians , and Lydians , and the Lybians were in thine armie thy men of warre : the buckler , and helmet they did hang in thee for thine ornament. 11. The children of Arad were with thine armie vpon thy wals round about : yea and the Pygmeians , that were in thy towers , hung vp their quiuers on thy wals round about : they accompliſhed thy beautie. 12. They of Carthage thy merchants , for the multitude of al riches , with ſiluer , iron , tinne , and lead did they replenish thy marts. 13. Greece , Thubal , and Moſoch , they were thy merchants : ſlaues , and veſſels of braſſe they brought to thy people. 14. From the houſe of Thogorma they brought horſes , and horſemen , and mules to thy market. 15. The children of Dedan were thy merchants : manie iſlands the traffike of thy hand , teeth of iuorie , and of Heben they exchanged for thy price. 16. The Syrian was thy merchant for the multitude of thy works , the precious ſtone , and purple , and branched works , and fine linnen , and ſilke , and (b) chodchod they did ſet forth in thy market. 17. Iuda and the land of Iſrael they were thy merchants in the principal corne : balme , and honie , and oyle , and refine they did ſet forth in thy marts. 18. The Damacene was thy merchant in the multitude of thy works , in the multitude of diuers riches , in fat wine , in wools of the beſt colour. 19. Dan , and Greece , and Moſel in thy marts haue ſet forth wrought yron : ſtaſte , and calums were in thy merchandise. 20. Dedan thy merchants in tapeſtrie for ſeats. 21. Arabia , and al the Princes of Cedar , they were the merchants of thy hand : with lambs , and rammes , and kiddes thy merchants came to thee. 22. The ſellers of Saba , and Reema , they were thy merchants : with principal ſpices , and precious ſtone , and gold , which they did ſet forth in thy market. 23. Haran , and Chene , and Eden , thy merchants : Saba , Aſſur , and Chelmad thy ſellers. 24. They were thy merchants in diuers manner , with folded pieces of hyacinth , and of embrodered cloths , and of precious riches , which were wrapped vp , and bound with cords : cedars alſo they had in thy merchandise. 25. The ſhips of the ſea , thy chief in thy merchandise : and thou waſt replenished , and glorified exceedingly in the hart of the ſea. 26. In manie waters haue thy rowers brought thee : the ſouthwind hath broken thee in the hart of the ſea. 27. Thy riches , and thy treasures , and thy manifold furniture , thy mariners , and thy gouerners , which hold thy ſtuffe , and were chiefe ouer thy people : thy men of warre alſo , that were in thee with al thy multitude , that is in the middes of thee : ſhal fal in the hart of the ſea in the day of thy ruine. 28.  therein secure, and they shal build houses, and shal plant vineyards, & shal dwel confidently, when I shal haue done iudgements in al, that are their enemies round about: and they shal know that I am the Lord

C H A P. XXIX.

The King of Ægypt shal be ouerthrowne: 9. and the Kingdom wasted fourtie yeares: It shal be repaired to a meane state. 17. And shal be giuen to the King of Babylon, for his seruice in destroying Tyre.

N (a) the tenth year, the tenth month, the eleuenth day of the month, the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. Sonne of man, set thy face against Pharao the King of Ægypt: and thou shalt prophesie of him, & of al Ægypt. 3. Speake, and thou shalt say: Thus saith our Lord God: Behold I to thee Pharao King of Ægypt, thou great dragon, which lyest in the middes of thy riuers, & sayest: The riuers is mine, & I made it my selfe. 4. And I wil put a bridle in thy iawes: and I wil fasten the fishes of thy riuers to thy scales: and I wil draw thee out of the middes of thy riuers, and al thy fishes shal sticke to thy scales. 5. And I wil cast thee forth into the desert, and al the fishes of thy riuers: thou shalt fall vpon the face of the earth, thou shalt not be collected, nor gathered together: to the beasts of the earth, and to the foules of the heauen haue I giuen thee to be deuoured. 6. And al the inhabitants of Ægypt shall know that I am the Lord: for that thou hast been a staffe of reed to the house of Israel. 7. When they tooke thee with the hand, & thou wast broken, and dist rent al their thoulder: and they leaning vpon thee, thou wast broken, and dist dissolue al their reines. 8. Therefore thus saith our Lord God: Behold I wil bring vpon thee the sword: and wil kil out of thee man, & beast. 9. And the Land of Ægypt shal be into a desert, and into a wildernes: & they shall know that I am the Lord: for that thou hast sayd: The riuers is mine, & I made it. 10. Therefore behold I to thee, and to thy riuers: and I wil giue the Land of Ægypt into desolations, destroyed with the sword, from the tower of Syenc, euen to the borders of Æthiopia. 11. The foot of man shall not passe through it, neither shall the foot of beast goe in it: & it shall not be inhabited fourtie yeares. 12. And I wil make the Land of Ægypt desert in the middes of desert lands, & the cities thereof in the middes of cities ouerthrowen, and they shall be desolate fourtie yeares: & I wil disperse the Ægyptians into nations, and wil scatter them into the lands. 13. Because thus saith our Lord God: After the end of fourtie yeares I wil gather Ægypt out of the peoples in which they had been dispersed. 14. And I wil bring backe the captiuitie of Ægypt, & wil place the in the land of Phatuces, in the land of their natiuitie, and they shall be there as a low Kingdom: 15. among other Kingdoms it shall be lowest, and it shall no more be eleuated ouer the nations, and I wil diminish them that they rule no

(a) Prophet doe not writes their prophecies in order of time as they were reuealed: for in former chapters he wrote that which he saw in the eleuenth year; ch. 26. v. 1. but that which was sooner fulfilled: or because Tyre & Sidon were neerer in situation to Ierusalem then Ægypt, the writ that prophesie before this.

(b) This vision against Egypt is in confirmation of the former 17. yeares before, v. . . .

ouer the Gentils. 16. And they shal no more be to the house of Israel in confidence, teaching iniquitie, that they may flye, and folow them: and they shal know that I am the Lord God. 17. And it came to passe in (b) the seuen and twentieth yeare, in the first, in the first of the month: the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 18. Sonne of man, Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon hath made his armie to serue with great seruice agaynst Tyre: euerie head made bald, and euerie shoulder hath the haire plucked off: and (c) there hath been no reward rendred him, nor his armie concerning Tyre, for the seruice that he serued me against it. 19. Therefore thus sayth our Lord God: Behold I wil giue Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon in the land of Egypt: & he shal take the multitude therof, and take the booties therof for a praye, and riffe the spoiles therof: & it shal be (c) a reward for his armie, 20. and for the worke, that he serued me agaynst it. I haue giuen him the land of Egypt, for that they haue laboured for me, sayth our Lord God. 21. In that day there shal a horne spring to the house of Israel, & I wil giue thee an open mouth in the middes of them: and they shal know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXX.

Egypt shal be so wasted, 5. that Ethiopia, and other neighbours shal tremble; 9. seeing the cities and countrie destroyed. 20. At which is confirmed againe by an other vision.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. Sonne of man prophetic, and say: Thus sayth our Lord God: Houle ye, woe, woe to the day: 3. because the day is neere, and (a) the day of our Lord approacheth: the day of a cloude, the (b) time of the Gentils shal be. 4. And the sword shal come into Egypt: & there shal be feare in Ethiopia, whē the wounded shal fal in Egypt, & the multitude therof shal be taken away, and the foundations therof be destroyed, 5. Ethiopia, and Libia, and the Lydians, and al the rest of the common people, and Chub, and the children of the land of couenant, shal fal with them by the sword. 6. Thus sayth our Lord God: And they shal fal that vnderprop Egypt, and the pride of the empire therof shal be destroyed: from the towre of Siena shal they fal in it by the sword, sayth our Lord the God of hosts. 7. And they shal be dissipated in the middes of desolate lands, and the cities therof shal be in the middes of desert cities. 8. And they shal know that I am the Lord: when I shal haue giuen fyre in Egypt, and al the ayders therof shal be broken. 9. In that day shal messengers goe forth from my face in gallies to terrifie the confidence of Ethiopia, and there shal be feare among them in the day of Egypt: because it shal come without doubt. 10. Thus sayth our Lord God: I wil make the multitude of Ægypt to cease in the hand of Nabuchodofor the King of Babylon. 11. He and his people with him the strongest of the Gentils shal be brought to destroy the land: and they shal draw their sworls vpon Ægypt: and shal fil the land with the slaine. 12. And I wil make the channels of the riuers drie, and wil deliuer the land into the hands of the most wicked: and wil dissipate the land and the fulnes thereof in the hands of aliens, I the Lord haue spoken. 13. Thus sayth our Lord God: And I wil destroy the idols, and I wil make the idols to cease out of Memphis: and duke of the land of Ægypt there shal be no more: and I wil giue terrour in the land of Ægypt. 14. And I wil destroy the land of Phathures, and wil giue fire in Taphnis, and wil doe iudgements in Alexandria. 15. And I wil powre out mine indignation vpon Pelusium the strength of Ægypt, and wil kil the multitude of Alexandria, 16. And wil giue fyre in Ægypt: as a woman in trauel shal Pelusium sorow, and Alexandria shal be dissipated, and in Memphis daylie distresses. 17. The yong men of Heliopolis, and of Bubasti shal fal by the sword, and themselves shal be led captiue. 18. And in Taphnis the day shal waxe black, when I shal haue broken there the scepters of Ægypt, and the pride of the might thereof shal faile in it: the cloude shal couer her, & her daughters shal be led into captiuitie. 19. And I wil doe iudgements in Ægypt: & they shal know that I am the Lord. 20. And it came to passe in the eleuenth yeare, in the first month, in the seuenth of the month, the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 21. Sonne of man, I (c) haue broken the arme of Pharao King of Ægypt: and behold it is not wound vp, that health might be restored to it, that it might be bound with cloths, & swadled with linnen clouts, that recouering strength it might hold the sword. 22. Therefore thus saith our Lord God: Behold I to Pharao King of Ægypt, and I wil breake into pieces his strong arme, already broken: and I wil cast downe the sword out of his hand: 23. and wil disperse Ægypt among the Gentils, & wil scatter them in the lands. 24. And I wil strengthen the armes of the King of Babylon, and wil giue my sword in his hand: and I wil breake the armes of Pharao, and the slaine before his face shal grone with gronings. 25. And I wil strengthen the armes of the King of Babylon, and the armes of Pharao shal fal, and they shal know that I am the Lord, when I shal giue my sword into the hand of the King of Babylon, and he shal haue itreched it forth vpon the Land of Ægypt: 26. And I wil disperse Ægypt into nations, and wil scatter them into lands, and they shal know that I am the Lord.

(c) Part of the Kingdom of Ægypt was subdued before this time by the King of Babylon. 4. Reg. 24. v. 7.

CHAP. XXXI.

The glorie of Assirians excellling al other Kingdomes, 10. was ouerthrowne, God so ordaying, by the Chaldees: 18. much lesse shal Ægypt escape.

(4) Thou that seemest to thy self inuincible, yet art thou not equal to the King of Assirians, who already is ouerthrowne; and so shalt thou likewise be.

AND it came to passe in the eleuenth yeare, the third mōth, the first of the month, the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. Sonne of man, say to Pharao the King of Ægypt, and to his people: (4) To whom art thou made like in thy greatnes? 3. Behold Assur as it were a Ceder in Libanus, faire of boughs, & thick of leaues, and high of height, & the top therof is eleuated among the thick boughs. 4. The waters haue nourished him, the depth hath exalted him, the riuers therof ranne out round about the roots therof, and he sent forth her riuers to al the trees of the countrie. 5. Therefore was his height eleuated aboue al the trees of the countrie: and his groues were multiplied, and his boughs were eleuated because of manie waters. 6. And when he had spred forth his shadow, in his boughs al the foules of the heauen made nests, and vnder his leaues al beasts of the forrests engendred, and vnder his shadow dwelt the assemblie of verie manie nations. 7. And he was most faire in his greatnes, and in the enlarging of his groues: for his roote was neere manie waters. 8. The ceders were not higher then he in the paradise of God, the firre-trees matched not his top, & the plane-trees were not equal to his boughs: no tree of the paradise of God was likened to him, and to his beautie. 9. Because I made him beautiful, and with manie and thick boughs: and al the trees of pleasure, that were in the paradise of God, did emulate him. 10. Therefore thus saith our Lord God: For that he is extolled in height, and hath giuen his top greene and tick, and his hart is eleuated in his height: 11. I haue deliuered him into the hands of the strongest of the nations, doing he shal doe to him: according to his impietie I haue cast him out. 12. And aliens, and the most cruel of the nations shal cut him downe, and shal throw him forth vpon the mountaines, and in al valleyes his boughs shal fal, and his groues shal be broken on al rocks of the land: and al the peoples of the earth shal depart from his shadow, and shal leaue him. 13. In his ruine dwelt al the foules of heauen, and in his boughs were al the beasts of the field. 14. For which cause there shal not be eleuated in their height al the trees of the waters, neither shal they put their highnes among the wooddie and thicke ones, neither shal they stand in their height, al that are watered with waters: because they are al deliuered into death to the lowest earth in the middes of the children of men, to them that goe downe into the lake. 15. Thus saith our Lord

God:

God: In the day that he went downe to hel, I brought in mourning I couered him with the depth: and I stayed his riuers, and kept in manie waters: Libanus was made sad vpon him, & al the trees of the field were shaken. 16. At the sound of his ruine I moued the Gentils, when I brought him downe to hel with them, that descended into the lake: & al the trees of pleasure goodlie & glorious in Libanus, al that were watered with waters, were comforted in the lowest earth. 17. For they also shal goe downe with him to hel to the slaine by the sword: & the arme of euerie one shal sit vnder his shadow in the middes of the nations. 18. (b) To whom art thou likened, O thou noble and loftie among the trees of pleasure? Behold thou art brought downe with the trees of pleasure to the lowest earth: in the middes of the vncircumcised shalt thou sleep, with them that are slaine by the sword, the same is Pharao, and al his multitude, saith our Lord God.

(b) Although O Egypt thou art like to the most potent Kingdomes, yet as the Assirians & others so thou also shalt be ruined.

C H A P. XXXII.

The Prophet lamenteth the destruction of Ægypt, 11. prosecuting his prophecie of the most lamentable destruction therof: 17. foreshewing that the more it is exalted in strength and glorie, so much more miserable shal be the fall therof.

AND it came to passe (a) the twelfth yeare, in the twelfth month, in the first of the month, the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. Sonne of man, take vp a lamentatiō vpon Pharao the King of Ægypt, & thou shalt say to him: Thou art likened to the Lion of the Gentils, and the dragon, that is in the sea: and thou didst strike with the horne in thy riuers, and didst trouble the waters with thy fet, and didst conculcate their streames. 3. Therefore thus saith our Lord God: I wil spred my net vpon thee in the multitude of manie peoples, and I wil draw thee out in my net. 4. And I wil throw thee forth on the ground, vpon the face of the field wil I cast thee away: and I wil make al the foules of heauen to dwel vpon thee, and I wil fil of thee the beasts of al the earth. 5. And I wil giue thy flesh vpon the mountaines, and wil fil the litle hils with thy corruption. 6. And I wil water the earth with the stench of thy blood vpon the mountaines, and the valleyes shal be filled of thee. 7. And I wil couer the heauens, when thou shalt be extinguished, and I wil make the starres therof to waxe blacke: the sunne I wil couer with a cloud, & the moone shal not giue her light. 8. I wil make (b) al the lights of heauen to mourne vpon thee: & I wil giue darkenes vpon thy land, saith our Lord God, when thy wounded shal fall in the middes of the land, saith our Lord God. 9. And I shal prouoke

to anger the hart of manie peoples, when I shal haue brought in thy destruction in the Gentils vpon the lands, which thou knowest not. 10. And I wil make manie peoples to be astonished vpon thee., and their Kings with exceeding horroure shal be afraid vpon thee, when my sword shal beginne to flye vpon their faces: and they shal be astonished sodainly, euerie one for his life, in the day of thy ruine. 11. Because thus saith our Lord God: 12. The sword of the King of Babylon shal come to thee, in the swords of the valients wil I ouerthrow thy multitude: inuincible are al these Gentils: and they shal wast the pride of Ægypt, and the multitude therof shal be dissipated. 13. And I wil destroy al the beasts therof, that were vpon verie manie waters: and the foot of man shal trouble them no more, neither shal the hooft of beasts trouble them. 14. Then wil I make their waters most pure, and their riuers I wil bring as oile, saith our Lord God. 15. When I shal haue made the Land of Ægypt desolate: & the lād shal be made desert of her fulnes, when I shal haue stricken al the inhabitants therof: & they shal know that I am the Lord. 16. It is lamentation, and they shal lament it, the daughters of the Gentils shal lament it, vpon Ægypt, and vpon the multitude therof they shal lament it, saith our Lord God. 17. And it came to passe in the twelfth yeare, in the fiftenth of the month, the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 18. Sonne of man, sing a moutning song vpon the multitude of Ægypt: and pluck her downe, her self, and the daughters of the strong nations, to the lowest earth, with them that goe downe into the lake. 19. Fayerer then whom art thou? Descend, & sleep with the vncircumcised. 20. In the middes of the slaine by the sword they shal fall, the sword is giuen, they haue drawen her, and al her peoples. 21. The most mightie of the strong shal speake to him from the middes of hel, which went downe with his helpers, and slept vncircumcised, slaine by the sword. 22. There Assur, and al his multitude: round about him their graues, al the slaine, and they that fel by the sword. 23. Whose graues were made in the lowest, lakes: and his multitude was made round about his graue: al the slaine, and they that fel by the sword, which sometime had giuen feare in the land of the liuing. 24. There Ælam, and al the multitude therof round about her graue, al these slaine, and falling by the sword: that went downe vncircumcised to the lowest earth: which did put their terrour in the land of the liuing, and they haue borne their ignominie with them, that goe downe into the lake. 25. In the middes of their slaine they haue set (c) her couch among al her peoples: round about (d) him their graue, al these vncircumcised, and slaine by the sword, for they gaue their terrour in the land of the liuing, and haue borne their ignominie with the, that descend into the lake: they are layde in the middes of the slaine. 26. There Moch, & Thubal, & al their multitude: round about him their graues: al these vncircumcised, and slaine, and falling by the sword: because they gaue their feare in the land of the liuing: 27. And they shal not sleep with the valients , and them that fel , and the vncircumcised , that went downe to hel with their weapons , and put their swords vnder their heads, and their iniquities were in their bones : because they were made the terrour of the valients in the land of the liuing. 28. And thou therefore shalt be destroyed in the middes of the vncircumcised , and shalt sleepe with the slaine by the sword. 29. There Idumea , and her Kings , and al her Princes , which were giuen with their host with the slaine by the sword : and which slept with the vncircumcised , & with them that goe downe into the lake. 30. There al the Princes of the North , and al the hunters : which were brought downe with the slaine , fearing, and in their strength confounded: which slept vncircumcised with the slaine by the sword, & haue borne their ignominie with them, that goe downe into the lake. 31. Pharao saw them , and he was comforted vpon al his multitude, which was slaine by the sword, Pharao, & al his host, saith our Lord God : 32. because I gaue his terrour in the land of the liuing, and he slept in the middes of the vncircumcised with the slaine by the sword : Pharao and al his multitude , saith our Lord God.

C H A P. XXXIII.

By example of a watchman , 7. God chargeth the Prophet to declare whatsoever dangers he seeth imminent to the people. 10. Sinners repenting shal be saued , and if the iust leaue their iustice they shal be damned. 21. The promise made to Abraham maketh not the Iewes secure : 23. but for their enormous sinnes they shal be carried out captiues. 33. Then they shal know that the Prophet saith the truth.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me , saying : 2. Sonne of man , speake to the children of thy people , and thou shalt say to them : The land when I shal bring the sword in vpon it , and the people of the land take a man, one of their meanest, and make him (a) a watchman ouer them: 3. and he shal see the sword coming vpon the land , and sound with the trumpet , and tel the people : 4. and he that heareth the sound of the trumpet , whosoever he be , and doth not looke to himselfe, and the sword come, and take him : his blood shal be vpon his head 5. He heard the sound of the trumpet , and did not looke to himself, his blood shal be on himself : but if he shal looke to himself, he shal saue his life. 6. And if the watchman see the sword coming , & sound not with the trumpet : and the people looke not to themselves, and the sword come, and take a soule from among them : he certes is caught in his iniquitie, but his blood I wil require of the hand of the watchman. 7. And thou sonne of man , I haue made thee a watchman to the house of Israel :

hearing therefore the word from my mouth, thou shalt tel them from me. 8. If when I say to the impious: O thou impious, dying thou shalt dye: thou speake not that the impious may keepe himselfe frō his way: the impious himselfe shall dye in his iniquitie, but his blood I wil require at thy hand. But if thou telling the impious, that he conuert from his wayes, he conuert not from his way: he shall dye in his iniquitie: but thou hast deliuered thy soule. 10. Thou therefore O sonne of man say to the house of Israel: Thus you haue spoken, saying: Our iniquities, & our sinnes are vpon vs, and in them we fade away: how then can we liue? 11. Say to them: Liue I, sayth our Lord God: (b) I wil not the death of the impious, but that the impious conuert from his way, and liue. Conuert, conuert ye from your most euil wayes: and (c) why wil you dye, O house of Israel? 12. Thou therefore sonne of man say to the children of thy people: The iustice of the iust shall not deliuer him, in what day soeuer he shall sinne: and the impietie of the impious shall not hurt him, in what day soeuer he shall conuert from his impietie: and the iust can not liue in his iustice, in what day soeuer he shall sinne. 13. Yea if I shall say to the iust that liuing he shall liue, & he trusting in his iustice doe iniquitie: al his iustices shall be forgotten, & in his iniquitie, which he hath wrought, in the same shall he dye. 14. And if I shall say to the impious: Dying thou shalt dye: & he doe penance from his sinne & doe iudgement & iustice, 15. & the same impious restore pledge, and render robbrie, walke in the commandements of life, and doe not anie vniust thing: liuing he shall liue, & shall not dye. 16. Al his sinnes, which he hath sinned, shall not be imputed to him: he hath done iudgement & iustice, liuing he shall liue. 17. And the children of thy people, haue said: The way of our Lord is not of equal weight, & their owne way is vniust. 18. For when the iust shall depart from his iustice, & doe iniquities, he shall dye in them. 19. And when the impious shall depart frō his impietie, & shall doe iudgements, & iustice: he shall liue in them. 20. And you say: The way of our Lord is not right, euery one according to his wayes wil I iudge of you, O house of Israel. 21. And it came to passe in (d) the twelfth yeare, in the tenth month, in the fifth of the month of our transmigration, there came to me one that was fled from Ierusalem, saying: The citie is made waste. 22. And the hand of our Lord had been made to me in the evening, before he came that was fled: & he opened my mouth til he came to me in the morning, & my mouth being opened I was silent no more. 23. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 24. Sonne of man, They that dwel in these ruinous places, vpon the ground of Israel, speaking doe say: Abraham was one, and by inheritance he possessed the land: but we be manie, the land is giuen vs in possession. 25. Therefore thou shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord God: Ye that eat in blood & lift vp your eyes to your vncleannes, & shed blood: what shall you possesse the land by inheritace? 26. You stood on your swords, you haue done abominatiōs, & euerie one hath polluted his neighbours wife: & you wil

possesse the land by inheritance? 27. Thus thou shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord God: Live I, that they which dwell in the ruinous places shall fall by the sword: & he that is in the field, shall be delivered to beasts to be devoured: and they that are in holds, and caves, shall dye of the pestilence. 28. And I will give the land into a wilderness, & into a desert, and the proud strength thereof shall fail, and the mountaines of Israel shall be desolate, because there is none to passe by them. 29. And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall give their land desolate and desert for all their abominations, which they have wrought. 30. And thou sonne of man: the children of thy people, which speake of thee by the wals, and in the doores of houses, and one saith to another, a man to his neighbour, speaking: Come, & let vs heare what is the word that proceedeth from our Lord. 31. And they come to thee, as if a people should go in, and my people sit before thee: and they heare thy words, and doe them not: because they turne them into a song of their mouth, and their hart followeth their avarice. 32. And thou art vnto them as a musical song which is sung with sweet and pleasant sound: and they heare thy words, and doe them not. 33. And when it shall come to passe which was told before (for behold it commeth) then shall they know that there was a Prophet among them.

C H A P. XXXIII.

A commination to euil pastours: 11. and a prophecie of the comming of Christ, the true Pastour; who wil gather his flock from all parts of the earth, 25. and conserue it for ever.

AND the word of our Lord was made to me saying: 2. Sonne of man prophecie of the Pastours of Israel: prophecie, and thou shalt say to the Pastours: Thus sayth our Lord God: Woe to the Pastours of Israel, which fed themselves: are not the flocks fed of the Pastours? 3. You did eate the (a) milke, & were couered with the wool, & that which was fat ye killed: but my flock you fed not. 4. That which was weake, you strengthened not: and that which was sicke, you healed not: that which was broken, you bound not vp: and that which was cast away, you brought not againe: and that which was lost, you sought not: but with austeritie you did rule ouer them, and with might. 5. And my sheep were disperfed, because there was no (b) Pastour: & they came to be deuoured of all the beasts of the field, and were disperfed. 6. My flocks haue wandered in all mountaines, and in euerie high hill: and vpon all the face of the earth were my flocks disperfed, and there was none that sought them, there was none, I say, that made a spoile : & my sheep to be deuoured of al the beasts of the field, because there was no Pastour (for my Pastours did not seek my flock, but the Pastours fed themselues, & my flocks they fed not :) 9. therefore ye Pastours heare the word of our Lord : 10. Thus sayth our Lord God:

 Behold I my self vpon the shepherds, I wil require my flock of their hand, and I wil make them cease, that they feed my flock no more, & that the Pastours feed no more themselues : and I wil deliuer my flock out of their mouth, and it shal no more be meate for them. 11. Because thus saith our Lord God : Behold I my self wil seek my sheep, and wil visite them. 12. As the Pastour visiteth his flock in the day when he shal be in the middes of his sheep which were scattered : so wil I visite my sheep, and wil deliuer them out of al places, wherein they had been disperfed in the day of the cloude and of darkenes. 13. And I wil bring them out of the peoples, and wil gather them out of the lands, and wil bring them into their owne land : and I wil feed them in the mountaines of Israel, in the riuers, and in al the seats of the land.
 14. In the most plentiful pastures wil I feed them, & in the high moun-taines of Israel shal be their pastures : there shal they rest on the green grasse, and in fat pastures they shal be fed vpon the mountaines of Israel. 15. I wil feed my sheep, & I wil make them lie, saith our Lord God.
 16. (c) That which was lost, I wil seek : & that which was cast away, I wil bring againe : & that which was broken I wil binde vp : & that which was weake, I wil strengthen : & that which was fat & strong, I wil keep : & wil feed the in iudgement. 17. And you my flocks, thus saith our Lord God : Behold I iudge between beast & beast, of rāmes, & of bucke goates. 18. Was it not ynough for you to feed vpon good pastures ? you haue besides also troden downe with your feet the residue of your pastures : and when you dranke most pure water, the rest you troubled with your feet. 19. And my sheep were fed with those things, which were troden with your feet : and what your feet had troubled, that did they drinke. 20. Therefore thus saith our Lord God to you : Behold, I my self doe iudge between the fat beast & the leane. 21. For that you with sides & shoulders did thrust, and with your hornes struck al the weake beasts, til they were disperfed abroad : 22. I wil saue my flock, & it shal be no more into spoile, & I wil iudge between beast and beast. 23. AND I WILL RAISE VP OVER THEM ONE PASTOUR : who shal feed the, my seruāt (d) Dauid : he shal feed them, & he shal be their Pastour. 24. And I the Lord wil be their God : & my seruāt Dauid the Prince in the middes of them : I the Lord haue spoken. 25. And I wil make a couenant of peace with them, and wil make the most cruel beasts to cease out of the land : & they that dwel in the desert, shal sleep secure in the Forrests. 26.
 And I wil put them round about my hil a blessing : and I wil bring downe the showre in his time, there shal be raynes of blessing. 27. And

An other Prophecie against the Idumeans, 5. because they afflicted the Iſraelites

AND the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 2. Sonne of man (a) set thy face against mount Seir, and thou shalt Prophecie of it, and shalt say to it: 3. Thus saith our Lord God: Behold I to thee mount Seir, and I wil stretch forth my hand vpon thee, & wil make thee desolate and desert. 4. Thy cities I wil destroy, & thou shalt be desert: & thou shalt know that I am the Lord. 5 (b) For that thou hast been an euerlastingemie, and hast shut vp the children of Israel into the hands of the sword in the time of their affliction, in the time of extreme iniquitie. 6. Therefore liue I, saith our Lord God, that I wil deliuer thee vnto bloud, & bloud shal persecute thee: & wheras thou hast hated bloud, bloud shal persecute thee. 7. And I wil make mount Seir desolate & desert: & I wil take from it the commer & goer. 8. And I wil fil his mountaines with his slaine: in thy hils, and in thy valleys, & in the torrents shal the slaine with the sword fal. 9. Into euerlasting desolations wil I deliuer thee, & thy cities shal not be inhabited: & thou shalt know that I am the Lord God. 10. For that thou hast said: The two nations, & the two lands shal be mine, & I wil possesse them by inheritance: wheras our Lord was there. 11. Therefore liue I, saith our Lord God, that I wil doe according to thy wrath, and according to thy zeale, which thou hast vsed hating them: & I wil be made knowne by them, when I shal haue iudged thee. 12. And thou shalt know that I the Lord haue heard al thy reproches, that thou hast spoken of the mountaines of Israel, saying: They are desert, they are giuen vnto vs to deuour. 13. And you rose vp vpon me with your mouth, and haue derogated your

As thou hast reioyced vpon the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was dissipated, so wil I doe to thee: Thou shalt be dissipated mount Seir, & al Idumea: and they shal know that I am the Lord.

The Iewes shal be reduced from captiuitie, 13: their manners amended, 16. which are enormous, 22. by special grace of God, for the glorie of his name: 25. fulfilled by Christs baptisme.

AND thou sonne of man, Prophecie concerning the mountaines of Israel, and thou shalt say: Mountaines of Israel heare ye the word of our Lord: 2. Thus saith our Lord God: For that the enemy hath said of you: Aha, the euerlasting heights are giuen to vs for an inheritance: 3. therefore prophecie, & say: Thus saith our Lord God: For that you haue been desolate, & troden downe round about, & made an inheritance to the rest of the Gentils, and haue ascended (a) vpon the lip of the tongue, & the reproch of the people: 4. therefore ye mountaines of Israel heare the word of our Lord God: Thus saith our Lord God to the mountaines, and hills, to the torrents, and valleyes, & the deserts, and broken wals, and to the cities forsaken, which are spoiled, & scorned of the rest of the Nations round about. 5. Therefore thus saith our Lord God: Because in fyre of my zele I haue spoken of the rest of the nations, & of al Idumea, which haue giuen my land to themselues for an inheritance with ioy, and with al their hart, and with the minde: and haue cast it forth to walte it: 6. therefore prophecie concerning the ground of Israel, and thou shalt say to the mountaines, and hills, to the hil-tops, & valleyes: Thus saith our Lord God: Behold I haue spoken in my zele, & in my turie because you haue susteyned the confusion of the Gentils. 7. Therefore thus sayth our Lord God: I haue lifted my hand, that the Gentils which are round about you, they may beare their confusion. 8. But you O mountaines of Israel may thoot forth your boughs, and bring forth your fruit to my people of Israel: for he is at hand to come. 9. Because loe I to you, and I wil turne to you, and you shal be ploughed, and shal take seed. 10. And I wil replenish you with men, and with beasts: and they shal be multiplied, and increase: and I wil make you dwell as from the beginning, and wil endue you with greater gifts, then you haue had from the beginning: and you shal know that I am the Lord. 12. And I wil bring men vpon you, my people Israel, and they shal possesse thee by inheritance: and thou shalt be for an inheritance to them, & thou shalt adde no more to be without them. 13. Thus saith our Lord God: For that they say of you: A deuourer of men thou art, and one that doest suffocate thy nation. 14. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 17. Sonne of man, the house of Israel dwelt in their ground, and polluted it in their wayes, & in their studies, according to the vncleannes of a menstruous woman was their way made before me. 18. And I haue powred out mine indignation vpon them for the bloud, which they haue shed vpon the land, & in their idols haue polluted it. 19. And I haue disperfed them into the Gentils, & they are scattered into the lands: according to their wayes, & their inuentions haue I iudged them. 20. And they wēt in to the Nations, vnto which they entred, and (b) haue polluted my holie name, when it was said of them: This is the people of the Lord, and out of his land they are come forth. 21. And I haue spared my holie name, which the house of Israel polluted among the Gentils, to which they entred in. 22. Therefore thou shalt say to the house of Israel: Thus saith our Lord God, not for your sake wil I doe it, o house of Israel, but for my holie name which you haue polluted in the Nations to which you entred. 23. And I wil sanctifie my great name, that is polluted among the Gentils, which you haue polluted in the middes of them: that the Gentils may know that I am the Lord, saith our Lord of hosts, when I shal be sanctified in you before them. 24. For I wil take you out of the Gentils, & wil gather you together out of al the lands, & wil bring you into your land. 25. And I wil powre out vpon you (c) cleane water, and you shal be censed from al your contaminations, and from al your idols wil I cense you. 26. And I wil giue you a new hart, and wil put a new spirit in the middes of you: and wil take away the stonie hart out of your flesh, and wil giue you a fleshie hart. 27. And I wil put my spirit in the middes of you: and I (d) wil make that you walke in my precepts, and keep my iudgements, and doe them. 28. And you shal dwell in the land: which I gaue to your fathers, and you shal be my people, and I wil be your God. 29. And I wil saue you from al your contaminations: and I wil cal for corne, and wil multiplie it, and wil not put famine vpon you. 30. Not for you wil I doe it, saith our Lord God, be it knowne to you: be ye confounded, & ashamed vpō your wayes, ô house of Israel. 33. Thus saith our Lord God: In the day that I shal clense you frō al your iniquities, & shal make the cities to be inhabited, & shal repayre the ruinous places. 34. & the desert land shal be tilled, which once was desolate in the eyes of euerie wayfaring man, 35. they shal say : This land vntilled is become as a garden of pleasure : and the desert cities, and destitute and vndermined, haue sitten fenced. 36. And the Nations whatsoever shal be left round about you, shal know that I the Lord haue builded the destroyed things, & planted the vntilled places, that I the Lord haue spoken, and done it. 37. Thus saith our Lord God : As yet in this shal the house of Israel finde me, that I wil doe for them : I wil multiplie them as a flocke of men, 38. as a holie flock, as the flock of Ierusalem in the solemnities therof : So shal the desert cities be ful of flocks of men : and they shal know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVII.

By dead bones rising to life (which also signifieth the general resurrection) II. is prophesied the reduction of the Iewes from captiuitie: 15. the Kingdoms of Iuda and Israel shal be reduced into one Kingdom: 23. in figure that al Nations shal be vntied in Christ.

HE hand of our Lord was made vpon me, and brought me forth in the spirite of our Lord : and left me in the middes of a field, that was ful of bones. 2. And he led me about through them on euerie side : and there were verie manie vpon the face of the field, and exceeding drie. 3. And he said to me : Sonne of man, thinkest thou these bones shal liue ? And I said, Lord God, thou knowest. 4. And he sayd to me : Prophecie of these bones : and thou shalt say to them : Drie bones heare ye the word of our Lord. 5. Thus saith our Lord God to these bones : Behold (a) I wil put spirite into you, and you shal liue. 6. And I wil giue sinowes vpon you, and wil make flesh to grow vp ouer you, and wil stretch a skin on you : and I wil giue you spirit, and you shal liue, and you shal know that I am the Lord. 7. And I prophecied as he had commanded me : and there was made a found when I prophecied, and behold a commotion : and bones came to bones, euerie one to his iuncture. 8. And I saw, and behold vpon them sinowes, and flesh was growen vp : and a skin was stretched out in them aboue, and they had no spirit. 6. And a A double prophecie of two great benefits, the reduction of the Iewes from captiuitie; and of the Gentils from idolatrie to Christ, where in also is included the mysterie of resurrection.

he sayd to me: prophecie to the spirit, prophecie sonne of man, & thou shalt say to the spirit: Thus saith our Lord God: Come spirit from the foure winds, and blow vpon these slaine, and let them be reuiued. 10. And I prophecied as he had cōmanded me: and spirit entred into them, and they liued: and they stood vpon their feet, an armie passing great. 11. And he said to me: Sonne of man: Al these bones, are the house of Israel: They say: our (a) bones are withered, (b) our hope is perished, and we (c) are cut off 12. Therefore prophecie, and thou shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord God: (d) Behold I wil open your graues, and wil bring you out of your sepulchers ô my people: and wil bring you into the land of Israel. 13. And you shal know that I am the Lord, when I shal haue opened your sepulchres, & shal haue brought you out of your graues ô my people: 14. and shal haue giuen my spirit in you, & you shal liue, & I shal make you rest vpon your ground. & you shal know that I the Lord haue spoken & done it, saith our Lord God. 15. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 16. Thou shalt speake to the: Thus saith our Lord God: Behold I wil take the peece of wood of Ioseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, & the tribes of Israel, that are adioyned to him: and I wil giue them together with the peece of wood of Iuda, and wil make them into one peece of wood: and they shal be one in his hand. 20. And the pieces of wood wherupon thou shalt write, in thy hand, shal be before their eies. 21. And thou shalt say to them: Thus saith our Lord God: Behold I wil take the children of Israel out of the middes of the nations, to which they are gone: and I wil gather them together on euerie side, and wil bring them to their ground. 22. And I wil make them into one nation in the land on the mountaines of Israel, and there shal be one King ruling ouer them al: & they shal no more be two nations, neither shal they be diuided any more into two Kingdoms. 23. Neither shal they be polluted any more in their idols, & their abominations, and al their iniquities, & I wil saue them out of al the seats, in which they haue sinned, & I wil cleanse them: & they shal be my people, & I wil be their God. 24. And my seruau David King ouer them, & there shal be (f) one Pastour of the al, they shal walke in my iudgements, and shal keepe my commandements, and shal doe them. 25. And they shal dwell vpon the land, which I gaue to my seruau Iacob, wherein your fathers dwelt, and they shal dwell vpon it, themselves, & their children; & their childrens children, euen for euer: & David my seruau their Prince for euer. 26. (a) One cause of distrust that the people of Israel should not be restored from captiuitie, was because they were like to drie bones.

(b) Secondly they had al generally lost their hope of restitution.

(c) Thirdly they seemed like to trees or plants cut off at the very root.

(d) Yet God by his power & goodnes restored them.

(e) Before Christ ioyned the Gentils to his Church, he first vnited the two Kingdoms of Iuda and Israel: signifying that Catholikes which labour for conuersion of heretikes (as now in England) must first agree amongst themselves, & then shal their endeauours be more effectual. After manie dayes thou shalt be visited: in the later end of yeares thou shalt come to the land, that is returned from the sword, and is gathered together out of manie peoples, to the mountaines of Israel, that were desert continually: this same is brought forth out of the peoples, and they shal al dwel in it confidently. 9. And going vp as a tempest thou shalt come, & as it were a clowd that thou maist couer the land, thou & thy troups, & manie peoples with thee. 10. Thus sayth our Lord God: In that day shal words ascend vpon thy hart, and thou shalt thinke a most wicked thought. 11. Thus sayth our Lord God: Thou then art he, of whom I spake in the dayes of old, in the hand of my seruants the Prophets of Israel, which prophecied in the dayes of those times, that I would bring in thee vpon them. 18. And it shal be in that day, in the day of the comming of Gog vpon the land of Israel, saith our Lord God, myne indignation shal ascend in my furie. 19. And in my zeale, and in the fire of my wrath I haue spoken. That in that day shal be a great commotion vpon the land of Israel: 20. and at my presence shal the fishes of the sea be moued, and the foules of heauen, and the beasts of the field, and euerie creeping thing, that moueth vpon the ground, and al men that are vpon the face of the earth: & the mountaines shal be ouerthrowen, & the hedges shal fal, and euerie wal shal fal on the ground. 21. And I wil cal in against him (e) in al my mountaines the sword, saith our Lord God: euerie mans sword shal be directed against his brother. 22. And I wil iudge him with pestilence, & blood, & vehement showre, & mightie great stones: fire, and brimstone wil I raine vpon him, and vpon his armie, and vpon the manie peoples that are with him. 23. Behold it commeth, and it is done, saith our Lord God: this is the day, wherof I haue spoken. 9. And the inhabitants shal goe forth of the cities of Israel, and shal set on fire and burne weapons, buckler, and speares, bow and arrowes, and hand-staues, and polaxes: and they shal burne them with fire seuen yeares. 10. And they shal not carie trees out of the countries, nor cut downe out of the forests: because they shal burne the weapons with fire, & shal make praye of them, to whom they had been a praye, & they shal spoile their spoilers, saith our Lord God. 11. And it shal be in that day: I wil giue Gog a renowned place for a sepulcher in Israel: the valley of wayfaring men on the East of the sea, which shal make the that passe by to be astonished: & they shal there (b) burne Gog, and al his multitude, and it shal be called the valley of the multitude of Gog. 12. And the house of Israel shal burie them, that they may cleanse the land seven months. 13. And all the people of the land shall bury him, and it shall be unto them a renowned day, wherein I was glorified, saith our Lord God. 14. And they shall appoint men continually going about the land, to bury & to seeke the, that were remaining upon the face of the earth, that they may cleanse it: and after seven months they shall begin to seeke. 15. And they that traue through the land shall goe about: and when they shall see the bone of man, they shall set vp a signe beside it, til the buriers bury it in the valley of the multitude of Gog. 16. And the name of the citie Amona, and they shall cleanse the land. 17. Thou therefore O sonne of man, saith our Lord God, say to euery fowle, and to all birds, and to all the beasts of the field: Come together, make hast, runne together on euery side to my victime, which I immolate for you, the great victime upon the mountaines of Israel: that you may eat the flesh, and drinke the blood. 18. The flesh of the strong shall you eat, and the blood of the princes of the earth shall you drinke: of rammes, of lambs, and of buckgoats, and buls, and of fed wares, and of all fat things. 19. And you shall eat the fat your fill, and shall drinke blood til you be drunke of the victime, which I shall immolate for you. 20. And you shall be filled upon my table of horse, and strong horsemen, and of all the men of warre, saith our Lord God. 21. and I wil put my glorie in the Gentils: and all nations shall see my iudgement, that I haue done, and my hand, that I haue put upon them. 22. And the house of Israel shall know that I am the Lord their God from that day and so forward. 23. And the Gentils shall know that the house of Israel (c) was taken in their iniquitie, for that they forsooke me, and I hid my face from them: and deliuered them into the hands of the enemies, and they fel all by the sword. 24. According to their vncleannes and wickednes haue I done to them, and haue hid my face from them. 25. Therefore thus saith our Lord God: Now wil I bring backe the captiuitie of Iacob, and wil haue mercie on all the house of Israel: and I wil take on me zeale for my holie name. 26. And they shall beare their confusion, and all the preuarication wherewith they preuaricated against me, when they shall dwel in their land confidently fearing no man: 27. and I shall haue brought them backe out of the peoples, & shall haue gathered them together out of the lands of their enemies, and shall be sanctified in them, in the eyes of many nations. 28. And they shall know that I am the Lord their God, for that I transported them into the nations, and haue gathered them together upon their owne land, & haue not left any of them there. 29. And I wil hide my face no more from them, because I haue powred out my spirite upon all the house of Israel, saith our Lord God.

(c) Gods people were not made captiues by the power of their enemies, as if God could not defend them, but by his permission for punishment of their finnes.

Annotations upon Ezechiels last vision: written in the nine last chapters.

Of the temple and citie reedified after the captiuitie.

That Messias shal build a material temple and citie.

That this Propheticall vision was conditional.

That it can not al be expounded according to the historie, but only mystically.

Of the true sense of this obscure vision there be foure opinions: two of the Iewish Rabbins, and other two of Christian Catholike Doctours. The more ancient Iewes vnderstand this vision wholly and only of the temple and citie of Ierusalem, reedified by Zorobabel and Nehemias with others, after their captiuitie in Babylon, assisted by the Persian Kings. But this opinion can not consist with the holie text, ch. 42. v. 10. describing the vtter wal of the temple in length on euerie side (being foure square v. 10.) five hundred reeds, euerie reed conteyning six sacred cubits (ch. 40. v. 5.) which are about ten footes, or two passes: and so 500. reeds making a thousand passes, or a myle, the whole wal was foure myles in compass. Likewise the citie is described (ch. 48. v. 16.) to haue in length on the north quarter, foure thousand five hundred reeds, with the same length on the west quarter, and consequently on the east, & south, that is, nine thousand passes, or nine myles on euerie side: in al the circuite thirtie six myles. Of which greatnes it is certaine, the temple and citie neuer were. No not after the temple was augmented by Herod Afcalonites, wherof Iosephus writeth, li. 15. c. 14. Antiq. Iudaeorum. Neither were there anie such waters issuing from the material temple, nor such trees on the bankes therof, bringing forth fruites euerie month, as are described ch. 47. v. 1. & 12. Al which, with other like dissonances considered, the later Iewes confessing that this propheticie is not hitherto fulfilled, say that their Messias, whom they expect, shal build such a terrestical citie and temple, with al the appertinances as are shewed in this vision. Reiecting therefore these Iewish errors, and ridiculous imaginations, Richardus de Sancto Victore, Hugo Cardinalis, Nicolaus Lyranus, and some other Christian Doctours, suppose that God indeed conditionally, according to his antecedent wil, promised al these things, euen as the letter soundeth, to the Iewes, if after their deliuerie from captiuitie, they should sincerely serue him, walke rightly in his wayes, and perfectly keep his commandments. And that besides this supposed literal sense, al the same should more excellently be performed in the mystical temple and citie of God, our Sauour Christ, and his Church. But for so much (say these Doctours) as the Iewes performed not that which was required of their part, in perfect life & due seruice of God, this visio was not fulfilled, but only in some part, according to the vertues and merits of the better sorte of that people, by the restauration of the citie, temple, & other things, as in the bookes of Esdras: & that lastly for their general reuolt from Christ persecuting him to death, their temple and citie were againe destroyed, the people slaine, dispersed, & reiected, except only the few reliques conuerted to Christ. In whom, with the multitude of Gentils, the whole visio hath ful effect. This opinion, albeit grounded in probabilitie, yet seemeth not so certaine, nor indeed so probable, as the iudgement of S. Ieron. & S. Theodoret in their commentaries, as also of S. Gregorie in his homilies vpon Ezechiel, and of manie others, both ancient and late writers. Who not finding how to applic this vision in al parts to the state of the old testament, neither that promise of such a huge great temple and citie with the rest were agreeable to Gods wisdom, doe only expound this vision to pertaine in some parts to the Iewes reduced from temporal captiuitie, as in figure of al mankind redeemed by Christ, & of his Church gathered of al natiōs, enriched and adorned with al spiritual graces, vertues, and power. Neither yet expounding al of the militant Church, but some part of the triumphant only, as surpassing the perfectest state of this transitorie life. We therefore out of their large discourses shal abridge a few, and brief marginal nores, for some light of vnderstanding the text, and entrance into the spiritual sense, principally intended by the Holie Ghost.

C H A P. XL.

In a vision the Prophet seeth the reedification of Ierusalem. 5. With the measures of diuers parts thereof, 47. and of the court, and entrie of the temple.

N the five & twentieth yeare of our transmigration, in the beginning of the yeare, the tenth of the month, the fourteenth yeare, after the citie was stricken: in this self-same day the hād of our Lord was made vpon me, & he brought me (a) thither. 2. In the visions of God he brought me into the Land of Israel, & left me vpon (b) a mountaine (c) exceeding high: vpon which there was as it were the building of a citie bending toward the south. 3. And he brought me in thither: and behold a man, whose forme was as the forme of brasse, and a linen corde in his hand, and a reed of measure in his hand: & he stood in the gate. 4. And the same man spake to me: Sonne of man, see with thine eyes, and heare with thine eares, & set thy hart on al things, which I wil shew thee: for thou art brought hither that they may be shewed to thee: declare al things that thou seest, to the house of Israel. 5. And behold a wal on the outside round about the house, & in the mā's hād a reed of measure of six cubits (d) & palme: & he measured the breadth of the building with one reed, the height also with one reed. 6. And he came to the gate, that looked to the way of the east, & he ascended by the steps therof: & he measured the threshold of the gate with one reed the bredth, that is, one threshold with one reed in bredth: 7. and a chamber with one reed in length, and one reed in bredth: and betwæen the chambers five cubits: 8. and the threshold of the gate by entrie of the gate within, with one reed. 9. And he measured the entrie of the gate of eight cubits, and the front therof of two cubites: and the entrie of the gate was within. 10. Moreover the chambers of the gate to the way of the East, three on this side, and three on that side: one measure of the three, and one measure of the fronts, on both parts. 11. And he measured the bredth of the threshold of the gate of ten cubits: and the length of the gate of thirteen cubits: 12. and the border before the chambers of one cubite: and one cubite the end on both sides, and the chambers were of six cubites, on this side and that side. 13. And he measured the gate from the rooffe of the chamber, euen to the rooffe therof, the bredth of five and twentie cubits: doore against doore. 14. And he made fronts by sixtie cubits: & to the front the court of the gate on euerie side round about. 15. And before the face of the gate, which raught euen to the face of the entrie of the inner gate, fiftie cubits. 16. And (e) oblike windowes in the chambers, and in their fronts, which were within the gate on euerie side round about: & in like manner there were also in the entries windowes round about within, and before the fronts the picture of palme trees grauen. 17. And he brought me out to the vter court, & behold cels, and the pauement paved with stone in the court round about: thirtie cels in the compass of the pauement. 18. And the pauement in the front of the gates according to the length of the gates was beneath. 19. And he measured the bredth from the face of the lower gate euen to the front of the inner court without, an hundred cubits to the East, and 10 to the North. 20. The gate also that looked to the way of the North of the vter court, he measured as wel in length as in bredth. 21. And the chābers therof three on this side, & three on that side: and the front therof, and the entrie therof according to the measure of the former gate, of fittie cubits the length therof, and the bredth of siue and twentie cubits. 22. And the windowes therof, & the entrie, and the grauings according to the measure of the gate, that looked to the East, and the ascent therof was of seuen steps, and an entrie before it. 23. And the gate of the inner court against the gate of the North, and the East gate: and he measured from gate euen to gate an hundred cubits. 24. And he brought me out to the way of the South, and behold the gate, that looked to the South: and he measured the front therof, and the entrie therof according to the former measures. 25. And the windowes therof, and the entries round about, as the other windowes: of fittie cubits in length, and in breth of siue and twentie cubits. 26. And on (f) seuen steps was the ascent to it: and an entrie before the doores therof: and there were grauen palme trees, one on this side, and an other on that side in the front therof. 27. And the gate of the inner court in the way of the South: and he measured frō gate euen to gate in the way of the South, an hundred cubits. 28. And he brought me into the inner court to the South gate: and he measured the gate according to the former measures. 29. The chamber therof, and the front therof, and the entrie therof with the same measures: and the windowes therof, and entrie therof round about fittie cubits of length, and of bredth siue and twentie cubits. 30. And the entrie round about in length of siue and twentie cubits, & in bredth of siue cubits. 31. And the entrie therof to the vter court, & the palme-trees therof in the front: & there were eight steps, on which the ascent was through it. 32. And he brought me in into the inner court by the way of the east: & he measured the gate according to the former measures. 33. The chamber therof, and the front therof, and the entrie therof as before: and the windowes therof, and the entries therof round about, in length of fittie cubits, & in bredth of siue and twentie cubits. 34. And the entrie therof, that is, of the vter court: & the grauen palme-trees in the front therof on this side and on that side: and on eight steps the ascent therof. 35. And he brought me into the gate, that looked to the North: & he measured according to the former measures. 36. The chamber therof, and the front therof, and the entrie therof, and the windowes therof round about, in length of fiftie cubits, and bredth of fve and twentie cubits. 37. And the entrie therof looked to the vtter court: and the grauing of palmetrees in the front therof on this side & on that side: and vpon eight steps the ascent therof. 38. And at cuerie chamber a doore in the forefronts of the gates: there they washed the holocaust. 39. And in the entrie of the gate, two tables on this side, and two tables on that side: that there might be immolated vpon them holocaust, & for sinne, and for offence. 40. And on the vtter side, which goeth vp to the doore of the gate, that goeth on toward the North, two tables: and at the other side before the entrie of the gate, two tables. 41. Foure tables on this side, and foure tables on that side: at the sides of the gate were eight tables, wherupon they did immolate. 42. And the foure tables for holocaust, were made of square stones: in length of one cubite and an halfe, and in bredth of one cubite and an halfe, and in height of one cubite: vpon which they shal put the vessels, wherin is immolated the holocaust, and the victime. 43. And the brimmes of them of one palme, bowed backe within round about: and vpon the tables the flesh of the oblation. 44. And without the inner gate the cels of the singing men in the inner court, which was on the side of the gate that looketh to the North: and the faces of them against the way of the South, one at the side of the East gate, which looked to the way of the North. 45. And he said to me: This is the chamber, which looketh to the way of the South, it shal be for the Priests, that watch in the wards of the temple. 46. Moreouer the chamber that looketh to the way of the North shal be for the Priests, that watch vpon the ministerie of the altar. These are the children of Sadoc, which of the children of Leui approach to our Lord to minister vnto him. 47. And he measured the court in length of an hundred cubits, and in bredth of an hundred cubits square: and the altar before the face of the temple. 48. And he brought me into the entrie of the temple: and he measured fve cubits on this side, and fve cubits on that side: and the bredth of the gate of three cubits on this side, and of three cubits on that side. 49. And the length of the entrie of twentie cubits: and the bredth of eleuen cubits, and by eight steps was the ascent to it. And there were (g) pillers in the fronts: one on this side, and an other on that side.

(g) For that the pillers are not measured, it seemeth they were of the same height and bignes, as the former were built by Salomon. 3. Reg. 7. v. 15.

CHAP. XLI.

A description of the temple to be reedified, and of the parts thereof.

^a This description of the temple & order of Priesthood, with the partition & fertilitye of the land, is much more excellent, then was in Salomons time: & the new temple reedified by Zorobabel, was much meaner then Salomons, & therefore this prophetic (as likewise the Prophecies of Aggeus & Zacharias) can not be understood of the temple in Ierusalem, but of the Church of Christ. S. Ierome in ib. 40. Exec. S. Aug. l. 18. c. 45. cum.

AND he brought me into (a) the temple, and he measured the fronts six cubits of breadth on this side, and six cubits of breadth on that side, the breadth of the tabernacle. 2. And the breadth of the gate was of ten cubits: and the sides of the gate of five cubits on this side, and of five cubits on that side: and he measured the length thereof of fourtie cubits, and the breadth of twentie cubits. 3. And being entred within he measured in the front of the gate, two cubits: and the gate of six cubits: and the breadth of the gate of seven cubits. 4. And he measured the length thereof of twentie cubits, and the breadth of twentie cubits, before the face of the temple: and he said to me: This is Sanctum Sanctorum. 5. And he measured the wal of the house of six cubits: and the breadth of a side, of foure cubits on euerie side round about the house. 6. And the sides, side to side, were twise thirtie three: and they were eminent, which might enter in through the wal of the house, in the sides round about, to hold in, and not to touch the wal of the temple. 7. And there was a broad alley made round, ascending vp by winding staires, and it led into the vpper chamber of the temple round about: therefore was the temple broder in the higher parts; and so from the lower parts they mounted to the higher vnto the middes. 8. And I saw in the house the height round about, the sides founded by the measure of a reede the space of six cubits: 9. and the breadth through the wal of the side without of five cubits: and there was an inner house in the sides of the house. 10. And between the cels the breadth of twentie cubits round about the house on euerie side; 11. and the doore of the side for prayer: one doore to the way of the North, and one doore to the way of the South: and the breadth of the place for prayer, of five cubits round about. 12. And the building, that was seperated, and turned to the way that looketh toward the sea, of the breadth of seuentie cubits: and the wal of the building, of five cubits in breadth round about: and the length thereof of ninetie cubits. 13. And he measured the length of the house, of an hundred cubits: and the building that was seperated, and the wals thereof, of the length of an hundred cubits. 14. And the breadth before the face of the house, and of that which was seperated against the East, of an hundred cubits. 15. And he measured the length of the building against the face of that, which was seperated at the backe: the ethecks on both sides of an hundred cubits: and the inner temple, and the entries of the court. 16. The thresholds, and oblike windowes,

& the ethecks round about by three parts, against the threshold of euerie one, and paued with wood round about the circuit: and earth euen to the windowes, and the windowes that ouer the doores. 17. And euen to the inner house, and without by euerie wal round about within and without, by measure. 18. And (b) Cherubs and palmetrees wrouht, & a palmetree between Cherub & Cherub, & a Cherub had (c) two faces. 19. The face of a man by the palmetree on this side, and the face of a lion by the palmetree on the other side: expressed through all the house round about. 20. From the ground euen to the vpper parts of the gate, were Cherubs, and palmetrees grauen in the wal of the temple. 21. The threshold foure square, and the face of the sanctuarie, sight to sight. 22. The height of the wooden altar, of three cubits: and the length thereof, of two cubits: and the corners thereof, and the length thereof, & the wals thereof of wood. And he spake to me: This is the table before our Lord. 23. And there were two doores in the temple, and in the sanctuarie. 24. And in the two doores on both sides were two litle doores, which were folded within each other: for there were two wickets on both sides of the doores. 25. And there were Cherubs also grauen in the same doores of the temple, and the grauing of palmetres, as they were expressed in the wals: for which cause also there was thicker timber in the front of the entrie without. 26. Vpon which were the oblike windowes, and the similitude of palmetrees on this side and on that side in braces of the entrie: according to the sides of the house, and the breadth of the wals.

(b) In the wal of the Temple were interchangelably placed a Cherub, signifying knowledge, & a palmetree signifying victory, representing to me that they must be instructed in diuine knowledge, & so fight for victory.
(c) Signifying our Saviour, who in his humane sufferred miseries, but as a lion ouercame all enemies.

Description of the courts, chambers, & other places pertaining to the temple.

AND he brought me out into the vtter court by the way that leadeth to the North, and he brought me into the cell, that was against the separated building, & against the house bending to the North. 2. In the face of the length, an hundred cubits of the North doore: and the breadth fiftie cubits, 3. against the twentieth cubits of the inner court, & against the pauement paued with stone of the vtter court, where was a porch ioyned to a triple porch. 4. And before the cells a walke of ten cubits in breadth, looking to the inner parts of the way of one cubite. And their doores toward the North: 5. Where were chambers in the vpper parts more low: because they bare vp the porches, which appeared about out of them from the nether parts, and from the middes of the building. 6. For they were triple lofts, & had not pillers, as the pillers of the courts: therefore did they appear about out of the

netuer places, and out of the middle places, from the ground fiftie cubits. 7. And an vtter closure according to the cels, which were in the way of the vtter court before the cels: the length therof of fiftie cubits. 8. Because the length of the cels of the vtter court was of fiftie cubits: and the length before the face of the temple, of an hundred cubits. 9. And there was vnder these cels an entrance from the East, going into them out of the vtter court. 10. In the bredth of the closure of the court, that was against the way of the East, toward the face of the separated building, and there were cels before the building. 11. And the way before the face of them according to the similitude of the cels, which were in the way of the North. according to the length of them, so also was their bredth: and at the entrance of them, and similitudes, and their doores. 12. According to the doores of the cels that were in the way looking to the South: a doore in the head of the way, which way was before the entrie separated by the way of the East going in. 13. And he said to me: The celles of the North, and the celles of the South, which are before the separated building: these are the holie celles, wherin the Priests doe eate, which approach to our Lord into Sancta Sanctorum, there that they lay the holies of holies, and the oblation for sinne, and for offence: for it is a holie place. 14. And when the Priests shal be entered, they shal not goe forth out of the holie places into the vtter court: and there they shal lay their vestments, wherin they minister, because they are holie: and they shal be clothed with other vestments, & so they shal goe forth to the people. 15. And when he had accōplished the measures of the inner house, he brought me out by the way of the gate, that looked to the way of the East: and he measured it on ouerie side round about. 16. And he measured against the East winde with the reed of measure, fise hundred reeds in reed of measure round about. 17. And he measured against the North winde fise hundred reeds in reed of measure round about. 18. And to the South wind he measured fise hundred reeds, in reed of measure round about. 19. And to the West wind he measured fise hundred reeds, in reed of measure. 20. By the foure winds he measured the wal therof on every side round about the length and bredth of fise hundred reeds, diuiding between the sanctuarie and the place of the common people.

CHAP. XLIII.

The glorie of God returneth to the new temple. 7. The prophet heareth, that the Israclites w^{ill} no more pollute Gods name w^{ith} idolatrie: 10. is commanded to shew them the measure, and forme of the temple, 13. and of the altar: 18. w^{ith} sacrifices to be offered seven dayes.

AND he brought me to the gate that looked to the way of the East. 2. And behold the glorie of the God of Israel went by the East gate: and he had a voice as the voice of many waters, and (a) the earth shined at his maiestie. 3. And I saw a vision according to the forme which I had seen, when he came to destroy the cite: and the shape according to the sight, which I had seen by the riuer Chobar: and I fel vpon my face. 4. And the maiestie of our Lord went into the temple by the way of the gate that looked to the East. 5. And the spirite litted me vp, and brought me into the inner court: and behold the house was filled with the glorie of our Lord. 6. And I heard one speaking to me out of the house, and a man stood by me, 7. said to me: Sonne of man, the place of my throne, and the place of the steps of my feete, where I dwel in the middes of the children of Israel (b) for euer: and the house of Israel shal no more pollute my holie name, they, and their Kings in their fornications, and in the ruines of their Kings, and in the excelses. 8. Who haue built their threshold by my threshold, and their posts by my posts: and there was a wal between me and them: and they polluted my holie name in the abominations which they did: for the which thing I consumed the in my wrath. 9. Now therefore let them reuel their fornicatiō, & ruines of their Kings far frō me: & I wil dwel in the middes of the alwayes. 10. But thou sonne of man, shew to the house of Israel the temple, and let them be confounded at their iniquities, and let them measure the frame: 11. and be ashamed of al things that they haue done. The figure of the house, & of the frame therof, the goings out, and the comings in, and al the description therof, and al the precepts therof, and al the order therof, and al the lawes therof shew to them, and thou shalt write in their eyes: that they may keepe al the descriptions therof, and the precepts therof, and let them doe them. 12. This is the law of the house in the top of the mount: Al the border therof round about is holie of holies: this then is the law of the house. 13. And these are the measures of the altar by the most true cubite (d) which had a cubite and a palme: in the bosome therof was a cubit, & a cubite in bredth: and the limite therof euen to the brimme therof, and round about, one palme, this also was the trench of the altar. 14. And taking of his bloud, thou shalt put it vpon the foure hornes therof, and vpon the foure corners of the brimme, and vpon the crowne round about: and thou shalt clense, and expiate it. 21. And thou shalt take the calfe, that is offered for sinne: and thou shalt burne him in a separate place of the house without the sanctuarie. 22. And in the second day thou shalt offer a bucke of goats vnsported for sinne: and they shal expiate the altar, as they did expiate in the calfe. 23. And when thou shalt haue accomplished expiating it, thou shalt offer a calfe of the heard vnsported, and a ramme of the flocke vnsported. 24. And thou shalt offer them in the sight of our Lord: and the Priests shal cast salt vpon them, & shal offer them an holocaust to our Lord. 25. Seuen dayes shal they expiate the altar, and shal clenie it: and they shal fil his hand. 27. And the dayes being expired, in the eighth day and so forth, the priests shal make your holocausts vpon the altar, and those which they offer for peace: and I wil be pacified toward you, saith our Lord God.

And he brought me by the way of the North gate in the sight of the house: and I saw, & behold the glorie of our Lord filled the house of our Lord: and I (b) fell on my face. 5. And our Lord said to me: Sonne of man (c) set the hart, and see with thine eyes, and heare with thine eares al things, that I speake to thee concerning al the ceremonies of the house of our Lord, and concerning al the lawes thereof: & thou shalt set thy hart in the wayes of the temple, by al the goings out of the sanctuarie. 6. And thou shalt say to the house of Israel that exasperateth me: Thus saith our Lord God: Let al your wicked deeds suffice you o house of Israel: 7. because you bring in strange children vncircumcised in hart, & vncircumcised in flesh, to be in my sanctuarie, & to pollute my house, & you offer my breads, the fat, and the bloud: & you dissolue my couenant in al your wicked abominations. 8. And you haue not kept the precepts of my sanctuarie: & you haue set keepers of my obseruāces in my sanctuarie to your owne selues. 9. Thus saith our Lord God: Euerie stranger vncircumcised in hart, & vncircumcised in flesh, shall not enter into my sanctuarie, euerie strange child that is in the middes of the children of Israel. 10. Yea and the Leuites that haue reuolted farre frō me in the errour of the children of Israel, & haue erred frō me after their idols, and haue borne their iniquitie: 11. they shall be officers in my sanctuarie, and porters of the gates of the house, and ministers of the house: they shall kil the holocausts, and the victimes of the people: & they shall stand in their sight, to serue them. 12. For that they haue serued them in the sight of their idols, and were made to the house of Israel a scandal of iniquitie: therefore haue I lifted vp mine hand vpon them, saith our Lord God, & they shall beare their iniquitie: 13. and they shall not approach to me, to doe the functiō of priesthood vnto me, neither shall they approach to al my sanctuarie by Sancta Sanctorum: but they shall beare their confusion, and their wicked abominations which they haue done. 14. But the Priests, and Leuites, the sonnes of Sadoc, which kept the ceremonies of my sanctuarie, when the children of Israel erred from me, they shall approach to me, to minister vnto me: & they shall stand in my sight, to offer me the fatte, and the bloud; saith our Lord God. 16. The sanctified piece of the land shal be for the Priests the ministers of the sanctuarie, which approach to the ministerie of our Lord: and it shal be a place to them for houses, and for the sanctuarie of holines. 5. And five and twentie thousand of length, and ten thousand of bredth shal be for the Leuites, which minister in the house: they shal possesse twentie cels. 6. And the possession of the citie you shal giue five thousand of bredth, & of length five and twentie thousand, according to the separation of the sanctuarie, to al the house of Israel. 7. To (b) the Prince also on this side & on that side, according to the separation of the sanctuarie, and according to the possession of the citie, against the face of the separation of the sanctuarie, and against the face of the possession of the citie: frō the side of the Sea euen to the Sea, and from the side of the East euen to the East. And the length according to euerie part frō the West border to the East border. 8. The measure of oyle also, a bate of oyle is the tenth part of a core: and ten bates make a core: because ten bates fil a core. 15. And one ramme of a flocke of two hundred, of those things that Israel nourisheth for sacrifice, & for holocaust, and for pacifikes, to expiate for them, saith our Lord God. 16. Al (d) the people of the land shal be bound to these first fruits for the Prince in Israel. 17. And (e) vpon the Prince shal the holocaust be, and the sacrifice, and the libaments in the solemnities, and in the Calends, & in the Sabbaths, & in al the solemnities of the house of Israel: he shal make the sacrifice for sinne, & the holocaust, & the pacifikes to expiate for the house of Israel. 18. Thus saith our Lord God: In the first month, the first of the month, thou shalt take a calfe of the heard vnspotted, and thou shalt expiate the sanctuarie. 19. And the Priest shal take of the blood that shal be for sinne: and he shal put it on the posts of the house, and on the foure corners of the brimme of the altar, & on the posts of the gate of the inner court. 20. And so shalt thou doe in the seuenth of the month for euerie one, that hath been ignorant, and was deceiued by error, and you shal expiate for the house. 21. And the people of the land shall adore at the doore of that gate in the Sabbaths, & in the Calends before our Lord. 4. And this holocaust shall the Prince offer to our Lord: in the Sabbath day six lambs vnspotted, & a ramme vnspotted. 5. And sacrifice an ephi for a ramme: but in the lambs the sacrifice that his hand shall giue: and of oyle an hin for euerie ephi. 6. And in the day of the Calends a calfe of the heard vnspotted: and the six lambs, and the rammes shall be vnspotted. 7. But when the Prince shal make a voluntarie holocaust, or voluntarie pacifikes to our Lord : to him the gate shal be opened, that looketh to the East, & he shal make his holocaust, & his pacifikes, as it is wont to be done in the Sabbath day : and he shal goe out, and the gate shal be shut after that he is gone forth. 13. And a lambe of the same yeare vnspotted, shal he make for holocaust dayly to our Lord : alwayes in the morning shal he make it. 14. And he shal make sacrifice vpon it morning by morning the sixt part of an ephi : & of oyle the third part of an hin, that it may be mingled with the floure : a sacrifice to our Lord by ordinance, cōtinual & euerlasting. 15. He shal make the lābe, & the sacrifice, & the oyle morning by morning, an euerlasting holocaust. 16. Thus saith our Lord God : If the Prince shal giue a gift to anie (b) of his soones : his inheritance shal be to his soones, they shal possesse it by inheritance. 17. But if he giue a legacie of his inheritance to one (c) of his seruants, it shal be his vntill the yeare of remission, & it shal returne to the Prince : and his inheritance shal be to his soones. 18. And the Prince shal not take of the peoples inheritance by violence, & of their possession : & of his owne possession he shal giue the inheritance to his soones : that my people be not disperfed euerie one from his possession. 19. And he brought me in by the entrie, that was on the side of the gate, into the cels of the sanctuarie to the Priests, which looked to the North. And there was a place bending to the West. 20. And he said to me : This is the place where the Priests shal seeth that for sinne, and that for offence : where they shal dresse the sacrifice, that they bring it not out into the vtter court, & the people be sanctified. 21. And he brought me into the vtter court, and he led me about by the foure corners of the court : and behold there was a litle court in the corner of the court, to euerie corner of the court a litle court. 22. In the foure corners of the court were litle courts disposed, of fourtie cubits in length, and thirtie in bredth : the foure were of one measure. 23. And a wal round about compassing the foure litle courts : and there were kichins builded vnder the porches round about. 24. And he said to me : This is the house of kichins wherein the ministers of the house of our Lord shal seeth the victimes of the people.

And these shall be the first fruits of the sanctuarie of the Priests: toward the North of length five and twentie thousand, and toward the Sea of bredth ten thousand. Yea and toward the East of bredth ten thousand, and toward the South of length five and twentie thousand: and the sanctuarie of our Lord shall be in the middles therof. 11. The sanctuarie shall be for the Priests of the sennes of Sadoc, which kept my ceremonies, & erred not when the children of Israel erred, as the Leuites also erred, 12. And for the shall be the first fruits of the first fruits of the land holie, of holies by the border of the Leuites. 13. Yea & to the Leuites in like manner by the borders of the Priests five & twentie thousand of length, & of bredth ten thousand. All the length of five and twentie thousand, and the bredth of ten thousand. 14. And they shall not sel therof, nor change, neither shall the first fruits of the land be transported, because they are sanctified to our Lord. 15. But the five thousand, that remaine in the bredth against the five & twentie thousand, shall be the profane parts of the citie for habitation, and for the suburbs: and the citie shall be in the middes therof. 16. And these are the measures therof: to (c) the North quarter five hundred and foure thousand: and to the South quarter five hundred and foure thousand: and to the East quarter five hundred & foure thousand: & to the West quarter five hundred & foure thousand: 17. And the suburbs of the citie shall be, to the North two hundred fiftie, & to the South two hundred fiftie, and to the East two hundred fiftie, and to the Sea two hundred fiftie. 18. And that which shall be residue in length according to the first fruits of the sanctuarie, ten thousand toward the East, and ten thousand toward the west, shall be as the first fruits of the sanctuarie: and the fruits therof shall be for bread to them, that serue the citie. 19. And they that serue the citie, that worke of all the tribes of Israel. 20. All the first fruits, of five and twentie thousand, answering to five and twentie thousand foure square, shall be separated according to the first fruits of the sanctuarie, and to the possession of the citie. 21. And that which shall be left, shall be the princes of euery part of the first fruits of the sanctuarie, and of the possession of the citie ouer against the five and twentie thousand of the first fruits vnto the East border: Yea & to the sea ouer against the five & twentie thousand, vnto the border of the Sea, likewise it shall be in the portions of the Prince: and the first fruits of the sanctuarie, and the sanctuarie of the temple shall be in the middes therof. 22. And of the possession of the Leuites, & of the possession of the citie in the

And therefore the latter Iewish Rabbins hold opinion that when their Meffias commeth the citie of Ierusalem shall be built so great. But all Catholike Doctours vnderstand it mystically of the Church of Christ.

THE ARGUMENT OF DANIELS PROPHECIE.

Daniel of the royal blood.

He was most holy:

most wise and most loyal.

His book is excellent: but hard to be understood.

Certain parts of this book are denied by the Jewes, & some others. It is probable that these parts were some times in the Hebrew, or the Chaldee.

Objection out of S. Ierome.

First solution.

Second solution.

DANIEL of the tribe (a) of Iuda, and (b) royal blood, about the age of tenne yeares, was caried into Babylon with other children for hostage, when Nabuchodonosor invaded the Kingdom of Iuda, in (c) the third yeare of King Ioakim. His whole life (in all about an hundred and tenne yeares) was most pious, with such zeale of Gods bonour, and common good of his coun-trie, that he was called by an Angel, (d) vir desideriorum, the man of (godlie) desires: (e) whom also Ezechiel, elder in yeares, prophecyng part of the same time, ioyned with Noe and Iob for example of hoine men; recounting him also the most renowned of his time for wisdom. Whose loyal fidelitie toward the King of Babylon, was so cleere, that his malignant enemies said expressly of him: (f) We shal not find against this Daniel anie occasion, vnles perhaps in the law of his God. His Book, as wel in respect of various important narratiōs of things done, as of most high diuine Mysteries is very excellent:
but withal very obscure, for that manie things here inserted, seeme hardly to agree with other authentical histories; some things also are surlicate in themselves; nor placed in order of time as they happened; & manie things so briefly related, that they can not be vnderstood, without the knowledge of prophane histories. As S.
Ierom affirmeth Epist. 103. But as for an other difficultie which some make, denyng the Prayer of Azarias, with the Hymne following, & the histories of Susanna, Bel, & the Dragon, to be Canonical Scripture, it is partly solued already, in the Annotations before the Book of Tobie: where is shewed, that it is no iust exception against these, & other parts of holie Scripture of the old Testament, because they are not in the Hebrew Edition, being otherwise accepted for Canonical by the Catholike Church. And further it is very probable that these parcels were sometimes either in the Hebrew or Chaldee tongue, in which two languages (part in one, part in the other) the rest of this Book was written. For from whence els could the Septuagint Interpreters, Theodotion, Symmachus, and Aquila translate them? In whose Editions S. Ierom found the same. But S. Ierom, some wil say, calleth these histories fables, and so did not account them Canonical Scripture. First, we answer, that he reporting the Jewes opinion vseth their termes, not explicating his owne iudgement, intending only to deliuer sincerely that which he found in the Hebrew: Yet would he not omitte to insert the rest, aduer-tising withal that he had it in Theodotians translation. Which answer is cleerly iustified by his owne testimonie (li. 2. c. 9. aduersus Rufinum) in these wordes:
whereas I relate (sayth he) what the Hebrewes say against the historie of Susanna, and the Hymne of the three children, he that for this reputeth me a foole, proueth himself a sycophant. For I did not explicate what my self iudged, but what they are wont to say against me. Secondly, we answer, that if S. Ierom did not thinke these parts to be Canonical, yet seeing so manie other ancient Fathers, & now the whole Church hold them for Canonical, we so belicue them to be. For albeit the Ancient Councils, and others that recite catalogues of holie Scriptures, doe not expressly say, as the Council of Trent lastly doth (Sess. 4.) that al the parts of Books by them recited, are Cannical; yet they doe not except anie parts of this of Book and therefore speaking indefinitely, doe indeed include al, and not exclude anie parcels vsually read in the Church as these are. Moreouer very manie ancient Fathers doe expressly alleadge these parts as Diuine Canonical Scriptures. Of manie we shal cite some.

They are proued to be Canonical by the Councils, and other Fathers.

The prayer of Azarias is alleaged as diuine Scripture by S. Cyprian, Ser. de lapsis, by holie Ephrem, li. de humilitate comparanda, ca. 9. by S. Chryl. ho. de tribus pueris. Leontius Cyprius, apud Euryth. par. 1. Paroplia, tit. 8. Patianus, Parenesi in Pœnitentiam. S. Aug. Epist. 122. & li. de natura boni, c. 16. S. Fulgen. ad Venetiam de pœnitentia, c. 26. Likewise the Hymne of three children is alleaged by most of the same, and by diuers others. As by S. Ierom himself in c. 3. ad Galatas, & Epist. 49. de muliere septuaginta: S. Amb. Præfat. in Psalmos, & li. 6. in Lucam, c. 2. Concilium Toletanum, c. 13.

The prayer of Azarias.

The Hymne of the three children.

In like manner the historie of Susanna is cited as holie Scripture by S. Ignatius, Epist. ad Magnesianos. Tertul. li. de corona militis. S. Cyprian li. 1. Epist. ep. 8. & 40. S. Chryl. Ho. 1. in fine, hath a whole sermon of Susanna, as vpon holie Scripture. S. Amb. li. 1. de Officiis, c. 13. li. 3. c. 14. & li. 3. de Spiritu sancto, c. 7. S. Aug. Tract. 36. in Ioan. & ser. 118. & 242.

The historie of Susanna.

Finally, the histories of Bel and of the Dragon are iudged Diuine Scripture by S. Cyprian, li. 1. Ep. ep. 4. & li. 3. ep. 1. & li. 4. ep. 6. S. Basil, ho. in auites auaros. S. Athanasius in Synopsi, briefly explicating the argument of this whole Book, maketh expresse mention of the Hymne of the three children; and of the histories of Susanna, and of Bel, and the Dragon.

The histories of Bel, and the Dragon.

To conclud therefore with whom we began, S. Ierom speaking of this whole Book, saith: Daniel temporum conscius, & totius mundi philoistor, lapidem præcisum de monte sine manibus, & regna omnia subuertentem, claro sermone pronuntiat. Daniel skilful of times, a studious historiographer, in cleare speech sheweth the stone cut out of the mountaine without hands, which ouerthroweth al Kingdoms. Signifying the principal contents of this Book to be, that al other Kingdomes (namely for example sake, the foure great Monarchies, the first of the Chaldees, the second of the Medes and Persians, the third of the Grecians, and the fourth of the Romans) should be ouerthrowne, one after an other; and only the Kingdom of Christ our Sauour, borne of a perpetual Virgin, shal be permanent for euer. More particularly this Book may be diuided into three parts. In the first six chapters especially are declared (for most part in manner of historie) certaine actes of Daniel, with the other three Hebrew children, and of the Kings of Pabylon. In other six chapters is more directly prophesied of Christ; and of Antichrist: of the perpetual glorie of Christs Kingdom, & viter destruction of the others, with the end of the world, & general iudgement. In the two last chapters are conteyned the histories of holie Susanna, and of the idols Bel, and the Dragon.

THE PROPHECIE OF DANIEL:

CHAP. I.

The King of Babylon by force entring into Ierusalem, spoyleth the temple: 6. amongst others carieth captiue Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Azarias: 8. who abstayning from the Kings meats, 15. are sayrer then other children, 17. and wiser (Daniel also vnderstanding dreames) then al the magicians of Chaldee.

IN the third yeare of the Kingdom of Ioakim King of Iuda, came Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon into Ierusalem, and besieged it. 2. And our Lord deliuered into his hand Ioakim the King of Iuda, and part of the vessels of the house of God: & he caried (a) them away into the land of Sennaar, into the house of his God, and the vessels he brought into the house of the treasure of his God. 3. And the King spake to Asphenez the gouernour of the Eunuches, that he should bring in of the children of Israel, and of the Kings, and the tyrants seede, 4. children in whom was no spot, beautiful of forme, and instructed in al wisedom, cunning in knowledge, and taught in discipline, and that might stand in the Kings palace, that he might teach them the learning, and the tongue of the Chaldees. 5. And the King appoynted them a certaine prouision for euerie day, of his meats, and of the wine wherof he dranke himself, that being nourished three yeares, afterward they might stand in the Kings sight. 6. There were therefore among them of the children of Iuda. Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Azarias. 7. And the gouernour of the eunuches gaue them names: to Daniel, Baltassar, to Ananias, Sidrach, to Misael, Misach, and to Azarias, Abdenago. 8. But (b) Daniel purposed in his hart, that he would not be polluted of the Kings table, nor of the wine of his drinke: & he requested the gouernour of the eunuchs, that he might not be contaminated. 9. And God gaue vnto Daniel grace & mercie in the sight of the Prince of the eunuchs. 10. And the Prince of the eunuchs said to Daniel: I feare my Lord the King, who hath appoynted for you meate and drinke: who if he shal see your faces leaner then the other youths your equals, you shal condemne my head to the King. 11. And Daniel sayd to Malasar whom the Prince of the eunuchs appoynted ouer Daniel, Ananias, Misael, & Azarias: 12. (c) Proue I beseech thee thy seruants for tenne dayes, & let * pulse be giuen vs to eate, & water to drinke: 13. and looke vpon our faces, and the faces of the children that eate of the Kings meate: and as thou shalt see, thou shalt doe with thy seruants. 14. Who hearing that manner of speach, proued them for ten dayes. 15. And after ten daies their faces appeared better & more corpulent then al the children, that did eate of the Kings meate. 16. Moreouer Malasar tooke away the meats, and the wine of their drinke: and he gaue them pulse. 17. And to these children God gaue knowledge, and discipline in euerie Book, and wisdom: but to Daniel the vnderstanding of al visions and dreames. 18. The dayes therfooe being accomplished, after which the King had sayd, that they should be brought in; the gouernour of the eunuchs brought them in the sight of Nabuchodonosor. 19. And when the King had spoken to them, there were not found such of them al, as Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Azarias: & they stood in the Kings sight. 20. And euerie word of wisdom and vnderstanding, that the King demanded of them, he found in them more by ten fold aboue al the southsayers, and magicians, that were in al his Kingdom. 21. And Daniel was euen to (d) the first yeare of Cyrus the King.

pease,
etc.

(b) Daniel as chief was an example to the other three childrē in their manner of life, wherby is also probable that they being al of the tribe of Iuda, v. 6. he was neerer of the royal bloud: of which some were taken into the Kings court.

v. 3.
(c) Three causes moued them to abstayne from the Kings meats: lest they might eate any thing offered to idols, or forbid by the law of Moyse, and because such delicate diet might prouoke to gluttonie, or in time when they should be elder, to other sinnes. T. beed.

(d) By mention of the first yeare of Cyrus is sufficiently signified that Daniel liued al the time of the captiuitie. And ch. 10. it is further cleere that he liued in the third yeare: & very like longer.

CHAP. II.

Nabuchodonosor dreameth, and forgetteth his dreame, 4. which the magicians not able to tel, 12. are adiudged to dye. 14. But Daniel (praying with his three felowes) by reuelation, 24. telleth, 36. and interpreteth the dreame: 46. the King adoreth him, confessing his God to be the onlie true God, and aduanceth him & his felowes.

(a) Nabuchodonosor had this dreame the second yeare after his great conquest of the the Moabites, Ammonites, Syrians, & Ægyptians, making his Kingdome a great Monarchie so it was in the 25. yeare of his reigne: when Daniel was about the age of 35 yeares.
(b) It is indeed more easie to tel by the diuels help, what one hath dreamed; because dreames being past, might either procede from the diuel, or by some external signes be knowne vnto him: but to declare the signification which is to come, and vncertaine, is about the diuels or mans power: who can only coniecture what is probable, & doe often erre therein. See the A. not. Gen. 40.

N (a) the second yeare of the Kingdō of Nabuchodonosor, Nabuchodonosor saw a dreame, and his spirit was terrified, & his dreame was fled frō him. 2. But the King cōmanded, that the southsayers should be called together, & the magicians, and the forcerers, and the * Chaldees: to declare vnto the King his dreames: who whē they were come, stood before the King. 3. And the King said to them: I saw a dreame: & being confounded in minde I know not what I saw. 4. And the Chaldees answered the King in Syriach: King for euer line: tel the dreame to thy seruants, and we wil declare the interpretation therof. 5. And the King answering sayd to the Chaldees: The word is departed from me: vnles you tel me the dreame, and the coniecture therof, you shal perish, and your houses shal be confiscate. 6. But if you tel the dreame, & the coniecture therof, you shal receiue of me rewards, & gifts, & much honour: the dreame therefore, & the interpretation therof tel you me. 7. They answered the second time, & sayd: Let the King tel his seruants the dreame, & we wil declare the interpretation therof. 8. The King answered, & sayd. Surely I know that you redeeme time, knowing that the word is departed from me. 9. If therfore you shew me not the dreame, there is one sentence of you, that you haue also framed a guileful interpretation, and ful of deceit, to speake vnto me til the time passe away. Tel me therfore the dreame, that I may know (b) that you speake a true interpretation also therof. 10. The Chaldees therfore answering before the King sayd: There is no man vpon the earth, that can accomplish thy word, ō King, yea neither anie King great and mighty demandeth such a word of anie southsayer, & magician, & Chaldee. 11. For the word that thou askest, ō King, is weightie: neither shal there be found any, that can shew it in sight of the King, except the Gods, whose conuersation is not with men. 12. Which thing being heard, the King in furie, and in great wrath commanded that al the wisemen of Babylon should perish. 13. And the sentence being gone forth, wisemen were slaine: & Daniel & his felowes were sought for to perish. 14. Then Daniel inquired concerning the law & the sentence of Arioch the Prince of the Kings warfare, who was gone forth to kil the wisemen of Babylon. 15. And he asked him, that had receiued the power of the King, for what cause so cruel a sentence was gone forth from the face of the King. When Arioch therfore had shewed the matter to Daniel, 16. Daniel going in desired the King, that he would giue him a time to tel the solution to the King. 17. And he went into his house, and he told the matter vnto Ananias, and Misael, & Azarias his felowes: 18. that they should aske mercie at the face of the God of heauen vpon this sacrament, & Daniel & his felowes might not perish, with the rest of the wisemen of Babylon. 19. Then was the mysterie reuealed to Daniel by a vision in the night: and Daniel blessed the God of heauen, 20. and speaking sayd: The name of our Lord be blessed from euerlasting & for euer more: because wisdom & strength are his. 21. And he changeth times, and ages: transporteth Kingdoms and establisheth them: giueth wisdom to the wise, and knowledge to them that vnderstand discipline: 22. he reuealeth profound & hidden things, & knoweth the things that are done in darkenes: and light is with him. 23. To thee ô God of our fathers I confesse, & I prayse thee: because thou hast giuen me wisdom & strength: and now thou hast shewed me the things that we desired of thee, because the Kings word thou hast opened to vs. 24. After these things Daniel being entred in to Arioch, whom the King had appointed to destroy the wisemen of Babylon, spake thus vnto him: Destroy not the wisemen of Babylon: bring me in before the presence of the King, & I wil tel the solution to the King. 25. Then Arioch in hast brought in Daniel to the King, and said to him: I haue found a man of the children of the transmigration of Iuda, that can tel the solution to the King. 26. The King answered and said to Daniel, whose name was Baltassar: Thinkest thou in very deed thou canst tel me the dreame that I saw, and the interpretation thereof? 27. And Daniel answering before the King, sayd: The mysterie that the King demandeth, the wisemen, the Magicians, and the soothsayers, and the inchanters can not declare vnto the King. 28. But there is a God in heauen that reuealeth mysteries, who hath shewed vnto thee, King Nabuchodonosor, what things are to come in the later times. Thy dreame, and the visions of thy head in thy bed, are these. 29. (d) Thou ô King beganst to thinke in thy bed, what should be hereafter: and he that reuealeth mysteries, shewed thee what things are to come. 30. To me also, not in the wisdom that is in me more then in al men aliue, is this sacrament reuealed: but that the interpretation might be made manifest to the King, and thou mightest know the cogitations of thy minde. 31. Thou ô King didst see, and behold (e) as it were one great statua: that statua, great and high of stature stood ouer against thee, and the sight thereof was terrible. 32. (f) The head of this statua was of the best gold, but the breast and the armes of siluer, moreouer the bellie, and the thighes of brasse: 33. and the legs of yron, of the feet a certaine part was of yron, and a certaine of earth. 34. Thou sawest so, til a stone was cut out of a mountaine without hands: and it strucke

(c) By shewing the Kings former cogitation before his dreame, he gaue great assurance of the true spirite of prophecie, that the King might securely belieue the interpretation of the dreame.

(d) The foure Kingdoms of the Chaldees, Persians, Grecians, and Romans, signified by the foure parts of this statua, consisting of diuers metals or mater, did succede in order of time:

(f) not ech one meaner, or baser then the former, as gold is best, & yron & earth the worst, for the last rather excelled former; but when this vision appeared the Kingdom of the Chaldees was the greatest, and most excellent: and that being destroyed the Medes & Persians became greater then it had been. Again the Grecians vnder Alexander became farre greater then any before, and finally the Romanes greatest of all, till Christs Kingdome, his Church, was spread ouer the whole world.

g The Church of Christ is the only Kingdom that can not be destroyed.

(b) He thought Daniel to be a little God, subject in the great God. v. 47.

(i) Notwithstanding this confession, shortly after he erected an idol to represent his owne greatness, and to be adored therein.

the statua on the yron, & earthen feet therof, and brake them in peeces. 35. Then were the yron, the clay, the brasse, the siluer, and gold broken together, and brought as it were into the dust of a summers floore, that are taken violently with the winde: and there was no place found for them: but the stone that stricke the statua, was made a great mountaine, and it filled all the earth. 36. This is the dreame: the interpretation also therof we wil tel before thee, O King. 37. Thou art the King of Kings: and the God of heauen hath giuen thee Kingdom, and strength, and empire, and glorie: 38. and all things, wherein the children of men, and the beasts of the field doe inhabite, the souls also of the heauen he hath giuen in thy hand, and vnder thy dominion he hath appoynted all things: thou therefore art the golden head. 39. And after thee shall rise vp an other Kingdom lesse then thou of siluer: and an other third Kingdom of brasse, which shall rule ouer all the world. 40. And the fourth Kingdom shall be as it were yron. As yron breaketh into peeces, and tameth all things, so shall that breake, and destroy all these. 41. Moreouer because thou sawest part of the feete, and of the toes of the porters clay, and part of yron: the kingdom shall be diuided, which notwithstanding shall rise of the ground of yron, according as thou sawest the yron myngled with the earth of clay. 42. And the toes in part of yron, and in part of earth: in part the kingdom shall be whole, and in part broken. 43. And that thou sawest the yron mingled with the earth of clay, they shall be mingled indeed together with mans seed, but they shall not sticke fast one to another, as yron can not be mingled with earth. 44. But in the dayes of those kingdoms the God of heauen wil raise vp (g) a kingdom, that shall not be dissipated for euer, and his kingdom shall not be deliuered to another people: and it shall breake in peeces, and shall consume all these kingdoms: and it self shall stand for euer. 45. According as thou sawest, that the stone was cut out of the mountaine without hands, and brake the earth in peeces, and the yron, and the brasse, and the siluer, and the gold, the great God hath shewed the King what things are to come hereafter, and the dreame is true, and the interpretation therof faithful. 46. Then King Nabuchodonosor fel on his face, & (b) adored Daniel, and commanded to sacrifice to him hostes & incense. 47. The King therefore speaking said to Daniel: In very deed (i) your God is the God of Gods, and Lord of Kings, & he that reuealeth mysteries: because thou couldst open this * sacrament. 48. Then the King aduanced Daniel on high, and he gaue him manie gifts, and great: and he made him Prince ouer all the prouinces of Babylon: and chiefe of the magistrates, ouer all the witeinen of Babylon. 49. And Daniel requested of the King, and he appointed ouer the workes of the prouince of Babylon, Sidrach, Misach, & Abdenago: but Daniel himself was in the doores of the King.

Nabuchodonosor setteh vp a statua, commanding al vnder paine of death to adore it: 8. which Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago refusing to doe, 14. are cast into a burning fornace, 24. wherein they walke, defenaed by an Angel from burning: praying, and praysing God 51. with an hymne, 57. mouing al creatures to praise him. 91. Which the King admiring confesseth, and proclamereth, that their God is the only true God.

Abuchodonosor the King made (a) a statua of gold in height of sixtie cubits, in bredth of six cubits, and he set it in the field of Dura of the Province of Babylon. 2. Therefore Nabuchodonosor the King sent to cal together the nobles, the magistrates, & iudges, dukes, and tyrants, & rulers, & al the Princes of the countries, that they should come together to the dedication of the statua, which Nabuchodonosor the King had erected. 3. Then were the nobles gathered together, the Magistrates, and iudges, the dukes, and tyrants, & the great men that were placed in regiments, and al the Princes of the countries, to come together to the dedication of the statua, which Nabuchodonosor the King had erected. And they stood in the sight of the statua, which Nabuchodonosor the King had set vp. 4. And the cryer cried mightily: To you peoples, and tribes, and tongs it is said: 5. In the houre that you shal heare the sound of the trumpet, and pipe, and harpe, of the doulcimer, & psalter, & symphonie, and al kind of musical instrumēt: falling adore ye the golden statua, which Nabuchodonosor the King hath set vp. 6. But if any man shal not adore (b) prostrate, he shal the self same houre be cast into a fornace of burning fyre. 7. After this therefore forthwith as al the peoples heard the sound of the trumpet, the pipe, & harpe, of the doulcimer, and psalter, of the symphonie, & of al kind of musical instruments: al the peoples, tribes, and tongs falling adored the golden statua, which Nabuchodonosor the King had set vp. 8. And forthwith in the very same time men of Chaldee comming accused the Iewes, 9. and sayd to Nabuchodonosor the King: King for euer liue: 10. thou, O King, hast made a decree, that euerie man which shal heare the sound of the trumpet, of the pipe, and harpe, of the doulcimer, and psalter, of the symphonie, and of al kind of musical instruments, prostrate himself, and adore the golden statua: 11. and if any man doe not prostrate on the ground adore, that he be cast into a fornace of burning fyre. 12. There are therefore mē of Iewrie, whō thou didst appoynt ouer the workes of the countrie of Babylon, Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago: these: men O King, haue contemned thy decree thy Gods they

(a) This huge statua of ninety foot in height and nine in bredth contained a great masse of gold. Which the King made to shew his riches, to terrifie his enemies, & to represent himself, that he might be adored therein as a God. S. Ierom.

(b) Practise of this idolatrie consisted in falling prostrate on the ground before the statua; some times it consisteth in offering incense to idols; and the like; Now in Englad personal presence at heretical seruice or sermon is a distinctiue signe of conformitie to the protestants preteded religion; becau such presence is there exacted for this purpose.

worshipe not & the golden statua, which thou hast erected, they adore not. 13. Then Nabuchodonosor in furie & in wrath commanded, that Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago should be brought: who immediately were brought before the King. 14. And Nabuchodonosor the King pronouncing, said to them: Indeed Sidrach, Misach, & Abdenago, doe not you worshipe my Gods, and the golden statua that I haue set vp doe not you adore? 15. Now therefore if you be readie, in what houre soeuer you shal heare the sound of the trumpet, the pipe, the harpe, of the doulcimer, and psalter, and Symphonie, and of al kind of musical instruments, prostrate your selues, and adore the statua which I haue made: but if you adore not, the selte same houre you shal be cast into the fornace of burning fyre: and what God is there, that shal deliuer you out of my hand? 16. Sidrach, Misach, & Abdenago answering said to King Nabuchodonosor: We must not answer thee concerning this thin. 17. For behold our God, whom we worshipe, (c) can saue vs from the fornace of burning fyre, and out of thy hands, O King, deliuer vs. 18. But if he wil not, be it knowen to thee, O King, that we worshipe not thy Gods, & the golden statua, which thou hast erected we adore not. 19. Then was Nabuchodonosor replenished with furie: and thee looke of his face was altered vpon Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, & he commanded that the fornace should be heated seuen times more, then it had been accustomed to be heated. 20. And commanded the strongest men of his host to binde the feet of Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, and to cast them into the fornace of burning fyre. 21. And forthwith those men being bound with their breeches, * and head attire, and shoes, and garments, were cast into the fornace of burning fyre. 22. For the commandement of the King did vrge, & the fornace was heated exceedingly. Moreouer the flame of the fyre slew those men, that had cast in Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago. But these three men, that is, Sidrach Misach, and Abbenago fel in the middes of the fornace of burning fire, bound together.

Blessed art thou O Lord the God of our fathers, and laudable, and glorious is thy name for euer: 27. because thou art iust in al things, which thou hast done to vs, and al thy workes are true, and thy wayes right, and al thy iudgements true. 28. For thou hast done true iudgements according to al things, that thou hast brought in vpon vs, and vpon the holie citie of our fathers Ierusalem: because in truth & in iudgement thou hast brought in al these things for our sinnes. 29. For we haue sinned, & done vniustly reuolting from thee: and we haue offended in al things, 30. and thy precepts we haue not heard, nor obserued, nor done as thou hadst commanded vs, that it

Al things therfore that thou hast brought in vpon vs, & al things that thou hast done to vs, thou hast done with true iudgement: 32. and thou hast deliuered vs into the hands of our enemies vniust, & most wicked, & preuaricatours, & to an vniust King and most wicked aboue al the earth. 33. And now we can not open the mouth: we are become a confusion, and reproch to thy seruants, & to them that worship thee. 34. Deliuer vs not for euer, we beseech thee, for thy name sake, and dissipate not thy testament: 35. neither take thou away thy mercie from vs (a) for Abraham thy beloued, & Isaac thy seruant, and Israel thy holie one: 36. to whom thou hast spoken, promising that thou wouldest multiplie their seede as the starres of heauen, and as the sand that is in the sea shore. 37. Because O Lord we are diminished more then al nations, and are abased in al the earth this day for our finnes. 38. And there is not at this time (e) Prince, and Duke, and Prophet, nor holocaust, nor sacrifice, nor oblation, nor incense, nor place of first fruits before thee, 39. that we may finde thy mercie: but in contrite minde, and spirit of humilitie let vs be receiued. 40. As in holocaust of rammes, and bulles, and as in thousands of fat lambs: so let our sacrifice be made in thy sight this day, that it may please thee: because there is no confusion to them that trust in thee. 41. And now we folow thee in al our hart, & feare thee, and seeke thy face. 42. Confound vs not, but doe with vs according to thy meeknes, and according to the multitude of thy mercie. 43. And deliuer vs in thy meruels, & giue glorie to thy name O Lord: 44. and let al be confounded that shew euils to thy seruants, let them be confounded in al thy might, & let their strength be broken: 45. & let them know that thou art the Lord, the onlie God, & glorious ouer the round world. 46. And the Kings seruants that had cast them in, ceased not to heate the fornace, with * Naphtha, & tow, and pitch, & drie sticks, 47. and the flame mounted out aboue the fornace nine & fourtie cubits: 48. and it brake forth, and burnt them whom it found by the fornace, of the Chaldees. 49. But the Angel of our Lord descended with Azarias, and his felowes into the fornace: and he shook the flame of the fire out of the fornace, 50. and made the middes of the fornace as a winde of dew blowing, and the fire touched them not at al, nor payned them, nor did them anie greuance.

51. Then these three as out of one mouth prayed, and glorified, and blessed God in the fornace, saying:

52. Blessed art thou O Lord the God of our fathers: and laudable, & glorious, and superexalted for euer: and blessed is the holie name of thy glorie: and laudable, and superexalted in al ages.

S. Ierom's words.

Hitherto it is not in the Hebrew : and that which we haue put, is translated out of the Edition of Theodosion.

91. The Nabuchodonosor the King was astonished, & he arose hastily, & said to his nobles : Did we not cast three men (b) fettered into the middes of the fire ? Who answering the King, said : It is true O King. 92. He answered, & said : Behold I see foure men loose, and walking in the middes of the fire, & there is no corruption in the, & the forme of (i) the fourth is like to the sonne of God. 93. Then came Nabuchodonosor to the doore of the fornace of burning fire, and said : Sidrach, Misach, & Abdenago, seruants of the high God, goe ye forth, and come. And forthwith Sidrach, Misach, & Abdenago went out of the middes of the fire. 94. And the nobles, and the magistrates, and iudges, & the potentates of the King being gathered together, beheld those men, that the fire had no power on thir bodies, and not a haire of their head was singed, yea their breeches were not altered, & the sent of the fire had not passed by them. 95. And Nabuchodonosor breaking forth, said : Blessed be the God of them, to wit, of Sidrach, Misach, & Abdenago, who hath sent his Angel, & hath deliuered his seruants that belieued in him : and they changed the Kings word, & deliuered their bodies that they might not serue, & might not adore any God, except their owne God. 96. By me therefore this decree is made, that euerie people, tribe, & tongue, whatsoever shall speake blasphemie against the God of Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, he perish, and his house be wasted: for there is none other God, that can so saue. 97. Then did the King (k) promote Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago in the Prouince of Babylon. 98. Nabuchodonosor the King, to al peoples, nations, & tongues, that dwel in the whole earth, peace be multiplied vnto you. 99. The high God hath wrought signes & meruelous things with me. It hath pleased me therefore to publish 100. his signes, because they are great: and his meruels, because they are strong: and his Kingdom an euerlasting Kingdom, and his power in generation and to generation.

(k) They were not only restored to their former austeritie, as precepts ouer the works, ch. 2. v. 14. but were also more advanced, as this place insinuateth.

CHAP. III.

King Nabuchodonosor hauing an other dreame, telleth it to Daniel, demanding of him the interpretation: 16. who encouraged and warranted to speake freely, sheweth that the King shall become like a beast in forme seuen yeares: 28. the same is confirmed by a voice from heauen: 30. and being fulfilled, he is at last restored to his owne forme, and state.

(a) It seemeth that Daniel inferred this particular historie as the King in his owne person & words reported it after his restauration. It is also probable that the King had this dreame about the 14. yeare of his reigne. For he reigned in al 41. yeares, liued seuen yeares, among beasts: into which state he fell one yeare after this dreame, v. 26. and liued about a yeare more or less. after his restauration.

(a) Nabuchodonosor was quiet in my house, & flourishing in my palace. 2. I saw a dreame that made me sore at rayd: & my cogitations in my bed, and the visions of my head disturbed me. 3. And by me there was a decree set forth, that al the wisemen of Babylon should be brought into my sight, & that they should shew me the solution of the dreame. 4. Then came in the southsayers, magicians, Chaldees, & diuiners, & I told the dreame in their sight: & the solution thereof they shewed me not: 5. til their colleague Daniel came into my sight, whose name is Baltassar, according to the name of my God, who hath the spirit of the holie Gods in himself: & I told the dreame before him. 6. Baltassar Prince of the southsayers, because I know that thou hast the spirit of the holie Gods in thee, and no secret is impossible to thee: tel thou the visions of my dreames, which I haue seen, and the solution of them. 7. The vision of my head in my bed, I saw, & behold a tree in the middes of the earth, & the height thereof exceeding. 8. A great tree, & strong: and the height thereof touching the heauen: the sight thereof was euen to the ends of al the earth. 9. The leaues thereof most fayre, and the fruit thereof exceeding much: and the food of al things in it: vnder it

dwelt cattel, and beasts, and in the boughes therof conuerfed the fouls of heauen: and of it al flesh did eate. 10. I saw in the vision of my head vpon my bed, & behold a watchman, and an holie one descended from heauen. 11. He cried mightily, and thus he sayd: Cut ye downe the tree, and chop of the boughs therof: shake of the leaues therof, and scatter the fruits therof: let the beasts flie that are vnder it, and the foules from the boughs therof. 12. But yet leaue the spring of the roots therof in the earth, and let it be tyed with yron, and brafen band among the grasse, that is without, and let it be dipped with the dew of heauen, and with wild beasts his portion in the grasse of the earth. 13. Let his hart be changed from humane, and let the hart of a wild beast be giuen him: and let seuen (b) times be changed ouer him. 14. In the sentence of the watchman is the decree, and the word of saints, and the petition, til the liuing know, that the high one ruleth in the kingdom of men, and to whom soeuer it shal please him, he wil giue it, and the basest man he wil appoint ouer it. 15. This dreame saw I Nabuchodonosor the King: thou therefore ô Baltassar tel the interpretation quickly: because al the wisemen of my kingdom can not declare the solution vnto me: but thou canst, because the spirit of holie Gods is in thee. 16. Then Daniel, whose name was Baltassar, began secretly to thinke within himself as it were for one houre: and (c) his cogitations troubled him. But the King answering said: Baltassar, let not the dreame and the interpretation therof trouble thee. Baltassar answered, and said: My Lord, the dreame be to them, that hate thee, and the interpretation therof be thine enemies. 17. The tree which thou sawest high and strong, whose height reacheth to the heauen, and the sight therof into al the earth: 18. and the bough therof most fayre, and the fruit therof exceeding much, and the food of things in it, vnder it the beasts of the field inhabiting, and in the boughs therof the foules of heauen abyding: 19. It is thou King, which art magnified, and become nightie: and thy greatnes hath growen, and is come euen to heauen, and thy power vnto the ends of the earth. 20. But in that the King saw a watchman, and an holy one descend from heauen, and say: Cut ye downe the tree, & dissipate it, but leaue the spring of the roots therof in the earth, and let it be bound with yron & brasle among the grasse without, & let it be sprinkled with the dew of heauen, and let his foder be with the wil beasts, til seuen times be changed ouer him. 21. This is the interpretation of the sentence of the Highest, which is come vpon my Lord the King. 22. They shal cast thee out from men, and with beasts and wilde beasts shal thy habitation be, and grasse thou shalt eate as an oxe, & with the dew of heauen thou shalt be wet: seuen times also shal be changed ouer thee til thou know that the High one ruleth ouer the Kingdoms of mē, & giueth it to whomsoeuer he wil. 23. But wheras he commanded, that the spring of the roots therof, that is, of the tree, should be left: thy Kingdom shal remaine to thee after thou shalt haue knowen that power

(b) Seuen times signifie seuen yeares, because al ordinatie varieties of times are in one week.

(c) No meruel that the Prophet was troubled in mind being loath to declare the calamitie which should fall vnto the King, and yet must needs utter the truth. And therefore with milde words, wishing the King might escape the euil, which was decreed against him, he maketh his entrance to the true interpretation of the dreame.

(d) Gods threats being cōditional, that if sinners truly repent he wil pardon al, or part of the punishment, the Prophet proposeth the most soueraigne remedie of almes deeds, that by works of mercie this sinful King, or any other sinner may procure the mercie of God. As indeed this King found mercie after some punishment: the Prophet proposeth the soueraigne remedie of almes deeds, that by works of mercie, he procure Gods mercie.

(e) Being restored to his wits he went vp right, cut his haire & nailles, & so appeared to himself as returned to his former figure or shape.

Nabuchodonosor was not hāged in substance; but became madde, & liued seuen yeares like a beast.

is neuēly. 24. Wherfore ô King let me counsel thee, & (d) redeeme thou thy sinnes with almes, & thine iniquities with the mercies of the poore: perhaps he wil forgiue thine offences. 25. Al these things came vpon Nabuchodonosor the King. 26. After the end of twelue months he walked in the palace of Babylon. 27. And the King answered, & said: Is not this Babylon the great citie, which I haue built to be the house of the Kingdom, in the strength of my power, and in the glorie of my beautie? 28. And when the word was yet in the Kings mouth, a voice came downe from heauen: To thee it is said Nabuchodonosor: Thy Kingdom shal passe from thee, 29. and from men they shal cast thee out, & with beasts & wild beasts shal thy habitation be: grasse as an oxe shalt thou eate, and seuen times shal be changed ouer thee til thou know that the High one ruleth in the Kingdom of men, and to whom soeuer he wil, he giueth it. The self same boure was the word accōplished vp Nabuchodonosor, & he was cast away frō amōg men, & as an oxe did he eate grasse, and with the dew of heauen his bodie was imbrued: til his haire grew into the similitude of eagles, & his nailles as it were of birds. 31. Therefore after the end of the dayes, I Nabuchodonosor lifted vp mine eyes to heauen, and my sence was restored to me: and I blessed the Highest, and prayed him that liueth for euer, and glorified him: because his power is an euerlasting power, & his Kingdom in generation and generation. 32. And al the inhabitants of the earth with him are reputed for nothing: for he doth according to his wil, as wel in the powers of heauen, as in the inhabitants of the earth: & there is none that can resist his hand, and say to him: Why didst thou it? 33. In the very same time did my sence returne to me, & I came to the honour, and beautie of my Kingdom: and my (e) figure returned to me: and my nobles, & my magistrates sought for me, & I was restored in my Kingdom. and more ample magnificence was added to me. 34. " Now therefore I Nabuchodonosor praise, and magnifie, & glorifie the King of heauen: because al his works are true, & his wayes iudgements, & them that walke in pride he can humble.

C H A P. IIII.

Let his hart be changed) In what manner King Nabuchodonosor was changed is hard to explicate. But omitting other opinions, the most probable & common is, that he was not deprived of his reasonable soule, nor the forme & parts of his bodie substantially changed frō the nature of a man: but he was distracted loosing the vse of reason, & in his owne melancholie imaginatiō & phantasie, thought that he was a beast. And therefore easily refused the conuersation of men, & comforted himself with beasts; went naked; his haire growing very much, & couering al his bodie, his nayles likewise extreme long; he went on his hāds together with his feete, like fourfooted beasts; did eate grasse as an oxe, putting his mouth to the ground to

there

13. there & swallow it, the space of seuen yeares. Then God restoring to him the vie of reason, and inspiring him with grace, he lifted vp his eyes to heauen (v. 31.) & in perfect sence blessed God, the Highest, and prayed him; was againe receiued, yea sought for by his nobles and magistrates: so was restored to his Kingdom, and had more magnificence then before.

34. Now therefore I Nabuchodonosor praise, magnifye, and glorifie God) Albeit holie Scripture doth not report, when and how King Nabuchodonosor died, yet by this last thing written of him, it is very like he liued not long after his great chastisemēt: for if he had, it is probable that Daniel would haue writtē more of him, and that he being so fully conuerted to God, would haue deliuered Ioachim King of Iuda, out of prison (which his next successour Euilmerodach did. 4 Reg. 25. v. 27.) and al the Iewes from captiuitie, if God had longer spared him life, he being now wel affected towards them. And that he died in state of saluation, may with great reason be supposed, seeing his repentance and conuersion to God is so fully expressed in holie Scripture, and no mention that he sel againe. Which is also the iudgement of most learned writers. Namely of Iosephus, li. 10. Antiq. Dorotheus in Synopsi. S. Epiphanius, in vita Danielis. S. Ierom. epist. 7. ad Letam. S. BALTASSAR (a) the King made a great feast to his nobles a thousand: & euerie one dranke according to his age. 2. He commanded therefore now being dranke that the vessels of gold & siluer, should be brought, which Nabuchodonosor his father had caried away out of the temple, that was in Ierusalem, that the King, and his Nobles might drinke in them, and his wiues, and concubines. 3. Then were the golden & siluer vessels brought, which he had caried away out of the temple, that was in Ierusalem: and the King and his nobles dranke in them, his wiues and concubines. 4. They dranke wine, and prayed their Gods of gold, and of siluer, of brasse, of yron, and of wood, and of stone. 5. In the very same houre there appeared fingers, as it were of the hand of a man, writing ouer against the candlestike in the vtter part of the wal of the Kings palace: and the King beheld the ioyns of the hand that wrote. 6. Then was the Kings face changed, & his cogitations troubled him: and the iunctures of his reynes were loosed, and his knees were stricken one against the other. 7. The King therefore cried out mightily that they should bring in the magicians, Chaldees, and southsayers. And the King speaking sayd to the wisemen of Babylon: Whosocuer shal read this writing, and shal make the interpretation thereof manifest vnto me, shal be clothed with purple, and shal haue a golden chayne on his necke, and shal be the third in my Kingdom. 8. Then all the Kings wisemen going in could not neither read the writing, nor declare the interpretation to the King. 9. Wherewith King Baltassar much troubled, and his countenance was changed: yea and his nobles were troubled. 10. And the * Queen for the thing that had happened to the King, and his Nobles, entred into the house of the feast: and speaking she sayd: King for euer liue: let not thy cogitations trouble thee, neither let thy face be changed. 11. There is a man in thy Kingdom, that hath the spirit of the holie Gods in him: and in the dayes of (b) thy father knowledge and wisdom were found in him: for King Nabuchodonosor also thy father appoynted him Prince of the magicians, inchanters, Chaldees, and southsayers, thy father, I say O King: 12. Because more ample spirit, and prudence, and vnderstanding, and interpretation of Dreames, and shewing of secrets, and solution of things bound were found in him, that is, in Daniel: to whom the King gaue the name Baltassar. Now therefore let Daniel be called, and he wil tel the interpretation. 13. Daniel therefore was brought in before the King. To whom the King speaking, said: Art thou Daniel of the children of the captiuitie of Iuda, whom my father the King brought out of Iewrie? 14. I haue heard of thee, that thou hast the spirit of the Gods, & more ample knowledge, and vnderstanding, & wisdom are found in thee. 15. And now there haue come in into my sight the wise magicians, that they might read this writing, and might shew me the interpretation thereof: & they could not declare me the sense of this * word. 16. Moreover I haue heard of thee, that thou canst interpret obscure things, and resolute things bound: if therefore thou be able to reade the writing, and to shew me the interpretation thereof, thou shalt be clothed with purple, and shalt haue a cheyne of gold about thy neck, and shalt be the third Prince in my Kingdom. 17. To which things Daniel answering, sayd before the King: Thy rewards be they vnto thee, and the gifts of thy house giue to another: but the writing wil I read thee, O King, and the interpretation thereof wil I shew to thee. 18. O King, God the most high gaue to Nabuchodonosor thy father Kingdom and magnificence, glorie and honour. 19. And for the magnificence, which he gaue to him, all peoples, tribes, and tongs trembled, and feared him: whom he would he killed: & whom he would he stucke: and whom he would he exalted: and whom he would, he humbled. 20. But when his hart was eluated, & his spirit obstinately set to pride, he was deposed from the throne of his Kingdom & his glorie was taken away. 21. And he was cast out

b) All progenitors are commonly called the fathers of their offspring: so Nabuchodonosor is called the father of Baltassar, being his grand father: as may be gathered, Ier. 27. v. 7. where is prophecied that Nabuchodonosor & his sonne, and sonnes sonne should reigne ouer manie nations.

from the sonnes of men, yea and his (c) hart was set with the beasts, and with the wild asses was his habitation: grasse also he did eate as an oxe, & with the dew of heauen his bodie was embrewed: til he knew that the Highest had power in the Kingdom of men, and whomsoever it shal please him he wil raise vp ouer it, 22. Thou also his sonne Baltassar hast not humbled thy hart, whereas thou knowest al these things: 23. but against the dominatour of heauen thou wast eleuated: and the vessels of his house haue been brought before thee: & thou, & thy nobles, and thy wiues, and thy concubines haue drunke wine in them: the Gods also of siluer, and of gold, and of brasse, of yron, and of wood, and of stone that see not, nor heare, nor feele, thou hast prayesed: moreouer the God, that hath thy breath in his hand, and al thy wayes, thou hast not glorified. 24. Therefore fro him is the ioynt of the hand sent, which hath written this that is drawen. 25. And this is the writing which is ordered: M A N E, T H E C E L, P H A R E S. 26. And this the interpretation of the word: M A N E, God hath numbred thy kingdom, & hath finished it. 27. T H E C E L, thou art weighed in the balance, & art found hauing lesse. 28. P H A R E S, thy Kingdom is diuided, and is giuen to the Medes and Persians. 29. Then the King commanding Daniel was clothed with purple, and a cheyne of gold was put about his neck: and it was proclaimed of him that he had power the third in the Kingdom. 30. (d) The same night was Baltassar the King of Chaldee slaine. 31. And Darius the Mede succeeded into the Kingdom, being three score and two yeares old.

(c) His imagination that he was a beast made him forsake the companie of men, and to dwell amongst wilde beasts. cb. 4.

(d) The Medes being at this time in the siege of Babylon, tooke their opportunitye to assault it this night, when the King and most part of the citie were drunke.

And ouer them three Princes, of whom Daniel was one: that the gouerners might render account to them, and the King might susteyne no trouble. 3. Daniel therefore passed al the Princes, & gouerners: because there was the spirit of God more ample in him. 4. Moreouer the King thought to appoynt him ouer al the Kingdom, wherupon the Princes, and the gouerners sought to finde occasion against Daniel on the behalfe of the King: and they could find no cause, nor suspiciō, because he was faithful, & no fault, nor suspicion was found in him. 5. Those men therefore said: (b) We may not finde against this same Daniel any occasion, vntles perhaps in the law of his God. 6. Then the Princes, and the gouerners by surreption suggested to the King, and spake thus vnto him: King Darius, for euer liue: 7. Al the Princes of the Kingdom, magistrates, and gouerners, the senatours and iudges haue taken counsel, that there goe forth an imperial decree, and an edict: That euerie one, which shal aske any petition of whatsoeuer God, or man, vntil thirtie dayes, but of thee O King, he be cast into the lake of lions. 8. Now therfore O King confirme the sentence, and write the decree: that it may not be changed, which is decreed by the Medes and the Persians, nor be lawful for anie man to transgresse it. 9. Moreover King Darius put forth the edict, & decreed it. 10. Which whē Daniel had perceiued, that is to say, the law determined, he went into his house: & (c) the windowes being opened in his vpper chamber, three times in a day toward Ierusalem bowed he his knees, & adored, and confessed before this God, as also he had accustomed to doe before. 11. Those men therefore searching curiously, found Daniel praying, and beseeching his God. 12. And comming they spake to the King vpon the edict: O King, hast thou not decreed, that euerie man which should aske any of the Gods & men vntil thirtie dayes, but thy self O King, he should be cast into the lake of lions? To whom the King answering, said: The word is true according to the decree of the Medes, and Persians, which it is not lawful to transgresse. 13. Then they answering said before the King: Daniel of the childre of the captiuitie of Iuda, hath not cared for thy law, & for the edict, that thou madest: but three times in a day he prayeth with his prayer. 14. Which word when the King had heard, he was stricken very sad: & for Daniel he set his hart to deliuer him, & euen vntil sunne set he laboured to deliuer him. 15. But those men perceiuing the King said to him: know thou O King, that the law of Medes & Persians is, that euerie decree, which the King hath determined, is not lawful to be chaged. 16. Then the King comanded, & they brought Daniel, & cast him into the lake of lions. And the King said to Daniel: Thy God, whom thou doest worship alwayes, he wil deliuer thee. 17. And there was a stone brought, & layd vpon the mouth of the lake: which the King sealed with his ring, & with the ring of his nobles, that nothing should be done against Daniel. 18. And the King went into his house, & slept vsupped, & meats were not brought before him: moreover also sleep departed from him. 19. Then the King rising in the very first breake of day, went in hast to the lake of the lions: 20. & approaching to the lake, cried on Daniel with a weeping voice, & spake vnto him: Daniel seruāt of the liuing God, thy God whō thou seruest alwayes, hath he been able thinkest thou, to deliuer thee from the lions? 21. And Daniel answering the King said: King for euer liue. 22. (d) My God hath sent his Angel, & hath shut vp the mouths of the lions, and they haue not hurt me: because before him iustice hath been found in me: yea and before thee, O

King, I haue done to offence. 23. Then was the King exceeding glad vpon him, & he commanded Daniel to be brought out of the lake: and Daniel was brought out of the lake, and no hurt was found in him, because he believed his God. 24. And by the Kings commandement, those men were brought that had accused Daniel: and (e) they were cast into the lake of the lions, themselves, and their children, & their wiues: and they came not to the pauement of the lake, til the lions caught them, & brake al their bones in pieces. 25. The Darius the King wrote to al peoples, tribes, and tongs dwelling in the whole earth: PEACE be multiplied vnto you. 26. By me a decree is made, that in al myne empire, and my Kingdó they dread & feare the God of Daniel. for he is the liuing and eternal God for euer: & his Kingdom thal not be dissipated, & his power euen for euer. 27. He is the deliuerer, and fauour, doing signe, & meruels in heauen, and in earth: who hath deliuered Daniel out of the lake of the lions. 28. Moreouer Daniel continued vnto the Kingdom of Darius, and the Kingdom of Cyrus the persian.

(e) The law of like-punishment is so agreeable to the law of nature, that this Pagan King punished Daniels accusers, when it appeared to him, that Daniel had not committed treason, but only vsed his religion and deuotion.

C H A P. VII.

Daniel seeth foure winds fighting, and foure terrible beasts rising from the sea: 9. God sitting in a throne, and serued by innumerable Angels. 11. The greatest beast is slaine, and the power of the rest diminished. 13. The Sonne of man receiuethe eternal power of God. 15. The Prophet much terrified, is instructed that the foure beasts signifie foure Kingdoms. 19. The greatest shal preuaile for awhile, 26. but shortly perish.

The 2. part. Prophetical visions of Christ and of Antichrist.

a) In order of time these two visions were before the histories written in the two precedēt chapters. b) Foure winds may signifie the great tumults which happen in the beginning of monarchies by warres and bloudshed of much people c) Foure beasts doe signifie the foure Monarchies

N (a) the first yeare of Baltassar the King of Babylon, Daniel saw a dreame, & the vision of his head in his bed: & writing the dreame, he comprehēded it in a short speech: & in summe comprising it, he said: 2. I saw in my vision by night, and behold (b) the foure winds of heauen fought in the great sea. 3. And (c) foure great beasts came vp, out of the sea diuerse one from an other. 4. The first as it were (d) a lyonesse, and she had the wings of an eagle: I beheld til her wings were plucked off, & she was lifted vp fró the earth, & she stood vpon the feet as a mā, & the hart of a man was giuē to her. 5. And behold an other beast like (e) a beare stood aside: & there were three rewes in the mouth therof, & in the teeth therof, & thus they said to it: Arise, eat very much flesh. 6. After this I beheld, & loe another as it were (f) a leopard, and it had wings as of a chiefs of the Chaldees, Medes and Persians, the Grecians; & the Romans: as was also signified before in Nabuchodonosors dreame. ch 2. (d) A lionesses crueltie, and the pride of an eagle doe resemble the Chaldees monarchie. (e) A beare of rude shape, & weake fight, content with litle and base meate, represented the Medes & Persians. (f) The leopard with wings and foure heads, signified the speedie victories of the Grecians vnder Alexander in foure quarters of the world: after his death diuided into foure Kingdoms.

(g) By the fourth beast without name is vnderstood the incomparable power of the Romans: gouerning first by kinglie authority; afterwards by Consuls; then ioyning to them Tribunes; sometimes Dictators; finally Emperial.

(h) The litle horne becoming so great and strong, as to ouercome al the other, signifieth Antichrist; whose ourragious furie shal continue but a short time. v. 25.

(i) God the Father is called the Ancient of dayes, not as though one Person of the Blessed Trinitie were more ancient then another: for euerie Person is eternal; and al are one eternal God: But in order of proceeding one from another, the Father is the beginning: of whom the bird, foure vpon it, & there were foure heads in the beast, and power was giuen to it. 7. After this I beheld in the vision of the night, and loe (g) a fourth beast terrible & meruelous, & strong exceedingly, it had great yron teeth, eating & breaking, and treading the rest with her feet: and it was vnlike to the other beasts, which I had seen before it, and it had ten hornes. 8. I considered the hornes, and behold an other (h) litle horne sprang put of the middes of them: and three of the first hornes were plucked off at the presence therof, and loe eyes as it were the eyes of a man were in this horne, & a mouth speaking great words. 9. I beheld til thrones were set, and (i) the ancient of dayes sate: his vesture white as snow, and the haire of his head as cleane wool: his throne flames of fire: his wheels fire kindled. 10. A fire & swift streame came forth frō his face: (k) thousands of thousands ministred to him, & (l) ten thousand hundred thousands assisted him: iudgement sate, & the Books were opened. 11. I beheld because of the voice of the great words, which that horne spake: and I saw that the beast was slaine, & the bodie herof was perished, & was cōmitted to the fyre to be burnt. 12. The power of the other beasts also was taken away: and times of life were appoynted them vntil time & time. 13. I beheld therefore in the vision of the night, & loe with the clouds of heauen there came in, as it were (m) the sonne of man, and he came euen to the ancient of dayes: and in his sight they offered him. 14. And he gaue him power, and honour, and Kingdom: and al peoples, tribes, & tongs shal serue him: his power, an eternal power, that shal not be taken away: and his Kingdō, that shal not be corrupted. 15. My spirit trembled, I Daniel was made sore afrayd at these things, & the visions of my head troubled me. 16. I came to one of the assistants, & I asked the truth of him concerning al these things, who told me the interpretation of the words, & taught me: 17. These foure great beasts, are foure Kingdoms, which shal rise vp out of the earth. 18. And they shal take the Kingdom of the holie God most high: & they shal obtaine the Kingdom euen to world, & world of worlds. 19. After this I would diligently learne of the fourth beast, which was very vnlike from al, and exceeding terrible: his teeth and clawes of yron: he did eate, and breake in pieces, & the rest he stamped with his feet: 20. and of the ten hornes that he had on his head: and of the other, that had growen vp, before which the three hornes fel: and of that horne, that had eyes, and the mouth speaking great words, and was greater then the rest. 21. I beheld, and loe that horne made warre agaynst the saints, & preuailed ouer them, 22. til the ancient of dayes came, & gaue iudgement to the saints on High, and the time came, and the saints obeyned

the Kingdom. 23. And thus he said: The fourth beast shall be the fourth Kingdom in the earth, which shall be greater then all the Kingdoms, and shall deuoure the whole earth, and shall conculcate, & breake it in pieces. 24. Moreouer the ten hornes of that same Kingdom, shall be ten Kings: and another shall rise vp after them, and he shall be mightier then the former, & he shall bring downe three Kings. 25. And he shall speake words against the High one, and shall destroy the saints of the Highest: and he shall thinke that he can change times, & lawes, and they shall be deliuered into his hand euen (n) to a time, & times, & half a time. 26. And iudgement shall sit, that might may be taken away, and be broken, and perish euen to the end. 27. And Kingdom, and power, & the greatnes of the Kingdom, that is vnder al the heauen, be giuen to the people of the saints of the Highest: whose Kingdom is an euerlasting Kingdom, and al Kings shall serue him, and shall obey him. 28. Hitherto the end of the word. I Daniel was much troubled with my cogitations, and my face was changed in me: but the word I kept in my hart.

IN the third yeare of the reigne of Baltassar the King, a vision appeared to me. 2. Daniel (a) saw in my vision, after that which I had seen in the beginning, whē I was in Susis the castel, which is in the prouince of Ælam: and I saw in the vision, that I was ouer the * gate Vlai: 3. and I lifted vp mine eyes, and saw: and behold one (b) ramme stood before the marrice, hauing high hornes, & one higher then another & growing vnder. 4. Afterward I saw the ramme pushing with the hornes against the West, & against the North, & against the South: and al beasts could not resist him, nor be deliuered out of his hand: & he did according to his wil, & was magnified. 5. And I vnderstood: & behold (c) a buckgoate came from the West vpon the face of the whole earth, & he touched not the ground. Moreouer the buckgoate had a notable horne between his eyes: 6. And he came euen to that ramme with the hornes, which I had seen standing before the gate, and he ranne towards him in the violence of his strength. 7. according to that which hath been done in Ierusalem. 13. As it is written in the law of Moyses, al this euil is come vpon vs: and we besought not thy face ô Lord our God, that we might returne from our iniquities, and might thinke on thy truth. 14. And our Lord hath watched vpon the malice, and hath brought it vpon vs: iust is the Lord our God in al his workes, which he hath done: for we haue not heard his voice. 15. And now ô Lord our God, which broughtest forth thy people out of the Land of Ægypt in a strong hand, and madest thee a name according to this day: we haue sinned, we haue done iniquitie. 16. O Lord according to al thy iustice, but let thy wrath be turned away I beseech thee, and thy furie from thy citie Ierusalem, and from thy holie mount. For by reason of our sinnes, and the iniquities of our fathers, Ierusalem, and thy people are a reproch to al round about vs. 17. Now therefore heare ô our God the petition of thy seruant, and his prayers: and shew thy face vpon thy sanctuarie, which is desert, for thine owne sake. 18. Incline my God thine eare, & heare: open thine eyes, & see our desolation, & the citie vpon which thy name is inuocated: for neither in our iustifications doe we prostrate prayers before thy face, but in thy many commiserations. 19. Heare ô Lord, be pacified ô Lord: attend & doe, delay not for thine owne sake my God: because thy name is inuocated vpon thy citie, & vpon thy people. 20. And when I yet spake, & prayed, and confessed my sinnes, & the sinnes of my people of Israel, & did prostrate my prayers in the sight of my God, for the holy mount of my God: 21. as I was yet speaking in prayer, loe the man Gabriel, who I had seen in the vision from the beginning, quickly flying touched me in the time of the euening sacrifice. 22. And he taught me, & spake to me, & said: Daniel now am I come forth to teach thee, & that thou mightst vnderstand. 23. From the beginning of thy prayers the word came forth: & I am come to shew it to thee because thou art (d) a man of desires: and doe thou marke the word, & vnderstand the vision. 24. (e) Seuentie weeks are abridged vpon thy people, & vpon thy holie citie (f) that preuarication may be consummate, and sinne take an end, and iniquitie be abolished: and euerlasting iustice be brought; & vision be accomplished, and propheticie: & the Holie one of holies be anointed. 25. Know therefore, and marke: From the going forth of the word, that Ierusalē be built againe, vnto Christ the Prince, there shal be seuen (g) weeks, and sixtie two weeks, and the street shal be built againe, and the wals in* straitnes of the times. 26. And after sixty two weeks Christ shal be slaine: and it shal not be his people, that shal denie him. And the city, & the sanctuary shal the people dislipate with the Prince to come: and the end thereof waste, and after the end of the battel the appoynted desolation. 27. And he wil confirme the covenant to manie, one week: and in the halfe of the weeke shal the hoste and the sacrifice fayle: and there shal be in the temple the abomination of desolation: and euen to the consummation and to the end shal the desolation endure.

CHAP. X.

After fasting and other voluntarie afflictions, 4. Daniel seeing a man in a strange forme, and much terrified therewith, 8. is comforted. 13. The Angels of Persians and Grecians resist his prayer, 20. S. Michael assisting the Iewes.

IN the third yeare of Cyrus King of the Persians, a word was reuealed to Daniel surnamed Baltassar, and a true word, and great strength: and he vnderstood the word: for (a) there is neede of vnderstanding in vision. 2. In those dayes I Daniel mourned the dayes of three weeks; 3. desirous bread I did not eate, and flesh and wine entred not into my mouth, yea neither with ointment was I annoynted: til the dayes of three weeks were accomplished. 4. And in the foure & twentieth day of the first month I was by the great riuer, which is Tigris. 5. And I lifted vp mine eyes, and I saw: and behold a man clothed with linnen cloths, and his reynes girded with the finest gold: 6. and his bodie as it were the chrysolithus, and his face as the forme of lightning, and his eyes as a burning lampe: and his armes, & the parts that are downward euen to the feet, as it were the forme of glistering brasse, and the voice of his word as the voice of a multitude. 7. And I Daniel alone saw the vision: moreouer the men that were with me, saw it not, but exceeding terrour fel vpon them, and they fled away, and hidde themselues. 8. And I being left alone saw this great vision: and there remayned no strength in me, yea and my thape of countenance was changed in me, & I withered, neither had any strength. 9. And I heard the voice of his words: and hearing I lay astonished vpon my face, and my visage cleaued to the ground. 10. And behold a had touched me, and lifted me vp vpon my knees, and vpon the ioynts of my hands. 11. And he said to me: Daniel (b) thou man of desires, vnderstand the words, that I speake to thee, and stand in thy place: for now am I sent to thee. And when he had said this word to me, I stood trembling. 12. And he said to me: Feare not Daniel: because since the first day that thou didst set thy hart to vnderstand to afflict thy self in the sight of thy God, thy words haue been heard: and I am come for thy words. 13. But (c) the Prince of the Kingdom of the Persians (a) resisted me one and twentie dayes: and behold Michael one of the chiefe Princes came to ayde me, and I taried there by the King of the Persians. 14. But I am come to teach thee what things shal come to thy people in the later dayes, because as yet the vision vnto dayes. 15. And when he Ioseph vnderstood the former, & Daniel this other, and so they were Prophets. For as this text teacheth, vnderstanding is required that a vision be propheticall. S. Tho 2. 2. q. 173. a. 2. & 4. (b) The Angel repeateh this honourable new title to encourage him beeing sore frightened. (c) The Angel guardian of Persia. S. Ierom, S. Theodores. S. spake to me in these manner of words : I cast downe my countenance to the ground , and held my peace. 16. And behold as it were the similitude of the sonne of man touched my lips , and opening my mouth I spake , and sayd to him , that stood before me : My Lord , in thy vision my ioynts are dissolued, and no strength hath remayned in me. 17. And how can the seruant of my Lord speake with my Lord ? for no strength is remaying in me, yea and my breath is stopped. 18. Agayne thertore there touched me as it were the vision of a man , and strengthened me, 19. and he sayd : Feare not ô man of desires , Peace be to thee : take courage and be strong. And when he speake with me , I receiued strength, and sayd : Speake my Lord , because thou hast strengthened me. 20. And he sayd : Doest thou know whefore I am come to thee? and now I wil returne , that I (e) may fight against the Prince of the Persians. When I thertore went forth , there appeared the Prince of the Greeks comming. 21. But yet I wil tel thee that which is expressed in the scripture of truth : and none is my helper in al these , but Michael (f) your Prince.

(e) Daniels proper Angel ioyned his prayers with him for the deliuerie of the Iewes from captiuitie. (f) S. Michael the guardian Angel of the whole Church also prayed for the same purpose.

CHAP. XI.

The Angel declareth what shal happen to the Iewes vnder the Kings of Persia, and by occasion of warres between Ægypt and Syria.

(a) The Angel prosecuting his speach to the Prophet sheweth that he had prayed for the King of Persians, from the first time after the ouerthrow of Babylō, seeing him wel affected towards the Iewes, as was also the next King Cyrus, who indeed released them. (b) Scarcely touching other successours of Alexander, the holie scripture here prophecietieth of the Kings of Ægypt on the south side of Iurie; and Syrians on the North: by whose warres the Iewes were most molested. (c) Euerie prophecie (saith S. Iren. li. 4. c. 43.) before is be fulfilled is enigma, a riddle, or obscure proposition. But when it is past may more easily, sometimes certainly be interpreted. So by histories of things now past he gathereth very probably that by this King of the south was vnderstood Ptolomeus sonne of Lagus King of Ægypt. And after the end of yeares they shall be cōfederated: & the daughter of the King of the South shall come to (e) the King* of the North to make amitie, & shall not obtayne the strength of the arme, neither shall his seed stand: and she be deliuered, & they that brought her, her yong men & they that strengthened her in the times. 7. And there shall stand of the bud of her roots a plant: and he shall come with an armie, and shall enter the Prouince of the King of the North: and he shall abuse them, and shall obtayne. 8. Moreouer also their Gods, and sculpts, the precious vessels also of gold, & siluer, he shall carie away captiue into Ægypt: he shall preuaile against the King of the North. 9. And the King of the South shall enter into the Kingdom, and shall returne to his owne land. 10. And (g) his sonnes shall be prouoked, and they shall gather a multitude of very manie hosts: and he shall come hastning, and ouerflowing: and he shall returne and be stirred vp, and he shall ioyne battel with his force. 11. And the King of the South being prouoked shall goe forth, & shall fight against the King of the North, and shall prepare an exceeding great multitude, & a multitude shall be giuen into his hands. 12. And he shall take a multitude, and his hart shall be exalted, and he shall ouerthrow manie thousands: (h) but he shall not preuaile. 13. For the King of the North shall returne, & shall prepare a multitude much greater than before: & in the end of times, & yeares, he shall come hastning with a great host, & riches exceeding much. 14. And in those times manie shall rise vp against the King of the South (i) the children also of the preuaricatours of thy people shall be extolled to fulfil the vision, and they shall fall. 15. And the King of the North shall come, and shall cast vp a mount, and shall take the best fenced cities: and the armes of the South shall not susteyne, and his chosen shall rise vp to resist, & there shall be no strength. 16. And he shall doe coming vpon him according to his pleasure, & there shall be none to stand against his face: and he shall stand in a noble land, & it shall be consumed in his hand. 17. And he shall set his face to come to possesse all his Kingdom, & he shall doe right things with him: and he shall giue vnto him a daughter of women, to ouerthrow it: & she shall not stand neither shall she be his. 18. And he shall turne his face to the islands, & shall take manie: and he shall make the Prince of his reproche to cease, & his reproch shall be returned vpon him. 19. And he shall turne his face to the empire of his owne land, & he shall tumble, and fall, & shall not be found. 20. And there shall stand in his place one most vile, & vnworthy of kingly honour: & in few dayes he shall be destroyed, not in furie nor in battel. 21. And (k) there shall stand in his place one despised, & Kingie honour shall not be giuen him: & he shall come secretly, and shall obtayne the Kingdom by fraude.

Antichrists persecution shall not be long. Anciet fathers vnderstand this terme to be three yeeres and a halfe. Agreeably to other Scriptures,

7. Vnto a time, and times, and half a time. Our Saviour saying (Mat. 24. v. 22.) that the dayes (of Antichrists great persecution) shall be shortened: and Apo. 17. v. 10. the great persecutour that is to come, must carie a shors time, it is neceliarie to say, that the time of the same persecutour here signified to Daniel, as also before ch. 7. v. 25. & repeted Apo. 12. v. 14. by these ternies of a time, & times, and half a time, can not possibly import any long time. And therefore the ancient Fathers vniformly vnderstand by a time one yeare, by times two yeeres, and so by half a time half a yeare. Which is some what more cleere in other termes, in this ch. v. 11. by a thousand two hundred ninetie naves, & v. 12. a thousand three hundred thirtie dayes, & Apo. 11. v. 3. Two witnesses shall prophecie (Against Antichrist) a thousand two hundred sixtie dayes: Apo. 12. v. 6. The Church shall be fed in the wilderness, the same number of dayes 1260. But most cleerly Apo. 11. v. 2. & Apo. 13. v. 5. this great persecution shall indure 42. months, that is, three yeeres & a half.

Two old iudges ouercome with carnal concupiscence, tempt chaste Susanna : 22. who constantly resisting, 27. is by them falsly accused, 41. and condemned of adulterie. 45. Daniel conuinceth them of false testimonie, 60. and they are punished with death.

AND there was a man dwelling in Babylon, and his name Ioakim: 2. and he tooke a wife named Sufanna, the daughter of Helcias, exceeding fayre, and fearing God. 3. For her parents being iust, instructed their daughter according to the law of Moyfes. 4. And Ioakim was very rich, and he had an orchard neere vnto his house: and to him the Iewes resorted together, because he was the more honourable of al. 5. And there were (b) two anciēts appointed iudges in that yeare, of whom our Lord spake: That iniquities came out of Babylon frō the seniour iudges, that seemed to rule the people. 6. These frequented the house of Ioakim, & al that had iudgements came to thē. 7. And when the people returned at noone, Sufanna went in, & walked in her husbands orchard. 8. And the ancients saw her dayly going in, & walking: & they were inflamed to the cōcupiscence of her: 9. and they subuerted their sense, & deciated their eyes that they would not see heauen, nor remember iust iudgements. 10. They were both therefore wounded with the loue of her, neither did they shew their grieffe one to the other: 11. for they were ashamed to shew one an other their concupiscence, being desirous to lie with her: 12. and they watched euerie day carefully to see her. a) S. Athanasius in Synopsē reciteth this historie in the beginning of Daniel. And S. Aug. ser. 242. de tem. supposeth that Daniel about the age of twelue yeares indued with the spirit of prophecie, discovered the malicious falsehood of them, that accused Sufanna.

b) In the transmigration which was made in the third yeare of Ioakim King of Iuda, the Iewes were better entreated, and had their owne iudicial tribunal, and other priuiledges, vntil the captiuitie, which happened about 19. yeares after, in the eleuenth yeare of Sedecias. At which time they were brought into much more bondage.

And if thou wilt not , we wil giue testimonie against thee , that there was a yong man with thee , and for this cause thou didst send out thy maydes from thee. 22. Susanna sighed , and sayd : Perplexites are to me on euerie side : for if I shal doe this , it is death to me : and if I doe it not , I shal not escape your hands. 23. But it is better for me without the act to fall into your hands , then to sinne in the sight of our Lord. 24. And Susanna cried out with a lowd voice : but the ancients also cried out against her. 25. And one ranne to the doore of the orchard , and opened it. 26. When the seruants therfore of the house had heard the crie in the orchard , they rushed in by the backe doore , to see what it was. 27. And after the ancients spake , the seruants were ashamed exceedingly : because neuer had there been such a word sayd of Susanna. And the morow came. 28. And whē the people was come to Ioakim her husband , the two ancients also came ful of vniust cogitation against Susanna , to put her to death. 29. And they sayd (c) before the people : Send to Susanna daughter of Helcias the wife of Ioakim. And forthwith they sent. 30. And she came with her parents , and children and al her kinne. 31. Moreouer Susanna was exceeding delicate , and beautiful of faee. 32. But those wicked men commanded that she should be vncovered (for she was couered) that so at least they might be satisfied with her beautie. 33. Her freinds therfore wept , and al that had knowne her. 34. But the two ancients rysing vp in the middes of the people , layd their hands vpon her head. 35. Who weeping looked vp to heauen , for her hart had confidence in our Lord. 36. And the ancients sayd : When we walked alone in the orchard , this womā came in with two mayds , and shut the doores of the orchard : and she sent away the maydes from her. 37. And a yong man that was hid came to her , and lay with her. 38. But we being in corner of the orchard , seeing the iniquitie , ranne to them , and saw them lie together. 39. And him indeed we could not take , because he was stronger then we , and opening the doores he lept out : 40. but her when we apprehended , we asked what yong man it was , and she would not tel vs : of this thing we are witnesses. 41. The multitude belieued them as the ancients and the iudges of the people , & (d) they condemned her to death. 42. But Susanna cried out with a loud voice , and sayd : Eternal God , which art the knower of hidden things before they come to passe , 43. thou knowest that they haue borne false witnes against me : and loe I dye , wheras I haue done none of these things , which these men haue maliciously forged against me. 44. And our Lord heard her voice. 45. And when she was led to death , our Lord (e) raysed vp the holy spirit of a yong boy , whose name was Daniel : 46. and he cried out with a loud voice : (f) I am cleane from the bloud of this woman. 47. And al the people turning to him , said : What is this word , that thou hast spoken : 48. Who when he stood in the middes of them , said : So foolishly ye children of Israel, not iudging, nor discerning that which is the truth, haue you condemned the daughter of Israel? 49. Returne ye to iudgement, because they haue spoken false testimonie against her. 50. The people therefore returned with speed, and the ancients sayd to him: Come, and sit in the middes of vs, and tel vs: because God hath giuen thee the honour of old age. 51. And Daniel sayd to the people: Separate them far one from an other, and I wil discover them. 52. When they were therefore diuided one from the other, he called one of them, and said to him: O thou inueterated of euil dayes, now are thy sinnes come, which thou didst commit before: 53. iudging vniust iudgements, oppressing innocents, and dismissing offenders, our Lord saying: The innocent & the iust thou shalt not kil. 54. Now then if thou sawest her, tel vnder what tree thou sawest the talking together. Who sayd: Vnder a schine tree. 55. And Daniel sayd: Wel hast thou lyed against thine owne head: for behold the Angel of God taking the sentence of him, thal cut thee in the middes. 56. And remouing him away, he commanded that the other should come, and he sayd to him: Seed of Chanaan, and not of Iuda, beaurie hath deceued thee, and concupiscence hath subuerted thy hart: 57. so did you to the daughters of Israel, and they fearing spake to you: but the daughter of Iuda did not abide your iniquitie. 58. Now therefore tel me, vnder what tree thou tookest them speaking one to an other. Who said: Vnder a prune tree. 59. And Daniel said to him: Wel hast thou also lyed against thine owne head: for the Angel of our Lord tarieth, hauing a sword, that he may cut thee in the middes, and kil you. 60. Therefore al the assemblie cried out with a loud voice, & they blessed God, which saueth them that hope in him. 61. And they rose vp against the two elders (for Daniel had conuincd them by their owne mouth to haue giuen false testimonie) and they did to them as they had dealt naughtily against their neighbour, 62. to doe according to the law of Moyses: and they killed them, and innocent bloud was saued in that day. 63. But Helcias, and his wyfe praysed God, for their daughter Sufanna, with Ioakim her husband, and al her kinne, because there was no vn honest thing found in her. 64. And (g) Daniel became great in the sight of the people from that day, and thence forward. 65. (h) And King Astiages was layd to his fathers, & Cyrus the Persian receiued his Kingdom.

C H A P. XIII.

Daniel detecteth the fraud of Bels Priests: who pretend that Bel eateth much meat: 21. for which they are slaine, and the idol destroyed. 22. Likewise he destroyeth a dragon, which the Babylonians held for a God. 27. He is cast into the lake of seven lions: 32. whither Habacuc miraculously bringeth him meat: 39. the lions hurt him not: and his accusers are deuoured.

(a) It seemeth most probable that this King was Euilmorodach, who fauoured the Iewes, and deliuered Iechonias (otherwise called Ioachin) out of prison. 4. Reg. 25. 21. 27. b) Which supposed, Daniel was now about the age of 55. yeares. For being caried into Babylon at the age of renne yeares, was there 8. yeares before Ioachin, who was there 37. yeares before he was deliuered from prison, which make in al 55.

AND Daniel was (a) the Kings ghest, & honoured aboue al his freinds. 2. There was also an idol among the Babylonians named Bel: and there were bestowed on him euerie day of floure twelue * arctabaes, and fourtie sheep, and of wine six great pots. 3. The King also did worship him, and went euerie day to adore him: But (b) Daniel adored his God, and the King sayd to him: Why dost thou not adore Bel. 4. Who answering sayd to him: Because I worship not idols made with hand, but the liuing God, that created heauen, and earth, and hath power ouer al flesh. 5. And the King sayd to him: Doeth not Bel seeme vnto thee to be a liuing God? Seest thou not how much he eateth and drinketh euerie day? And Daniel smiling sayd: Be not deceiued ô King. For this same is within of clay, and without of brasse, neither hath he eaten at any time. 7. And the King being wrath called his Priests, and sayd to them: Vnlesse you tel me who it is that eateth these expenses, you shal dye. 8. But if you shew that Bel eateth these things, Daniel shal dye, because he hath blasphemed against Bel. And Daniel sayd to the King: Be it done according to thy word. 9. And the Priests of Bel were seuenē, beside their wiues, & litle ones, & childrē. And the King came with Daniel into the temple of Bel. 10. And the Priests of Bel sayd: Behold we goe forth: & thou ô King set the meats, & mingle the wine, and shut the doore, and seale it with thy ring: 11. and when thou shalt come in the morning, vnles thou finde al eaten of Bel, dying we wil dye, or Daniel that hath lyed against vs. 12. And they contentined, because they had made vnder the table a secret entrance, and by it they came in alwayes, and deuoured those things. 13. It came to passe therfore after they were gone out, the King set the meats before Bel: & Daniel cōmanded his seruants, and they brought ashes, & he sifted them ouer al the temple before the King: & going forth they shut the doore, & sealing it with the Kings ring, they departed. 14. But the Priests went in by night, according to their custome, & their wiues, & their children: & they did eate, & drinke al. 15. And the King arose in the first breake of day, & Daniel with him. 16. And the King sayd: Are the scales safe, Daniel? Who answered: Safe ô King. 17. And forthwith when he had opened the doore, the King looking on the table, cried out with a loud voice : Great art thou ô Bel , and there is not any deceite with thee. 18. And Daniel laughed : and he held the King that he should not goe in : & he sayd : Behold the pauemēt, marke whose steps these are. 19. And the King said : I see the steps of mē, & women, & of infants. And the King was angrie. 20. Then apprehended he the Priests, & their wiues , & their children : & they shewed him secret litle doores by which they came in, & consumed the things that were on the table. 21. The King therefore slew them , & he deliuered Bel into the power of Daniel : who ouerthrew him, and his temple. 22. And (c) there was a great dragō in that place, & the Babylonians worshipped him. 23. And the King said to Daniel : Loe now thou caust not say, that this same is not a liuing God: adore him therefore. 24. And Daniel sayd : The Lord my God I doe adore: because he is the liuing God: 25. but thou ô King giue me licēce, & I wil kil the Dragō without sword & clubbe. And the King sayd: I giue thee licence. 26. Doniel therefore tooke pitch, & fat, & haire, & sod them together: & he made lumps, & gaue into the Dragons mouth, & the Dragon burst in sunder. And he said: Loe whom you worshipped. 27. Which when the Babylonians had heard , they were wrath exceedingly: and being gathered together against the King, they sayd : The King is become a lewe. Bel he hath destroyed, the Dragon he hath killed, & he hath slaine the Priests. 28. And they said whē they were come to the King: Deliuer vs Daniel, otherwise we wil kil thee , & thy house. 29. The King therefore saw that they pressed vpō him vehemētly: & cōpelled by necessity he deliuered Daniel to thē. 30. Who cast him into the lake of lions, & he was there six dayes. 31. Moreouer in the lake were seuen liōs, & there were giuē to thē two bodies euerie day, & two sheep: & they were not giuē vnto thē, that they might deaour Daniel. 32. And there was (d) Habacuc a Prophet in Iewrie, & he had boyled broth, and had brokē bread in a boule: & he wēt into the field, to carie it to the reapers. 33. And the Angel of our Lord sayd to Habacuc : Carie the dinner which thou hast, into Babylon to Daniel, who is in the lake of lions. 34. And Habacuc sayd: Lord, Babylō I haue not seē, & the lake I know not. 35. And the Angel of our Lord tooke him by the top of his head, & carried him by the haire of his head, & put him into Babylō ouer the lake in the force of his spirit. 36. And Habacuc cried, saying: Daniel, take the dinner that God hath sent to thee. 37. And Daniel sayd : Thou hast remēbred me ô God, & hast not forsaken thē that loue thee. 38. And Daniel ryising vp did eat. Moreouer the Angel of our Lord restored Habacuc forthwith in his place. 39. The King therefore came the seuenth day to lament Daniel, & he came to the lake , and looked in , and behold Daniel sitting in the middes of the lions. 40. And the King cried out with a

(c) Not only the Babylonians as is manifest in manie places, but also the Romans and most nations worshipped Bel for a great God: But it is more wonderful that both the Chaldees and the Romans, otherwise most wise, worshiped a serpent, or dragon, a beast naturally, most hating men, & most abhorred by al men. The cause of this blindness can be no other but Gods iust punishment, suffering them for their abominable pride, and other sinnes to fall into so foolish conceits, as to thinke, that serpents could either greatly benefit them, or by such worship be appeased, and cease from annoying them. As Valerius writeth. li. 1. c. 8. S. Augustin also li. 14. c. 11. (1111) & manie others testifie the same (d) Although a bout. 20. yeares before, there was no Prophet in Iurie (ch. 3. v. 38.) yet now this Habacuc was inued with the spirit of prophecie. As for Habacuc, the eight in order of the lesse Prophets, he prophesied before the captiuitie: yea before the Chaldees became a Monarchie. As appeareth Hab. 1. v. 6.

loud voice, saying: Great art thou, O Lord the God of Daniel. And he drew him out of the lake of lions. 41. But those that had been the cause of his perdition, he cast into the lake, and they were deuoured in a moment before him. 42. Then the King sayd: Let al inhabitants in the whole earth feare the God of Daniel: because he is the Sauour, doing signes, and meruels in the earth: who hath deliuered Daniel out of the lions denne.

THE ARGUMENT THE OF TWELVE LESSE PROPHECIE.

Four are called the greater Prophets, and twelue the lesse.

Al these and manie others were as properly Prophets as the chiefest.

Of these 12, six prophesied before the captiuitie of the 10. tribes.

Other three also before the captiuitie of the two tribes, & three after the relaxation.

WHY Isay, Ieremie, Ezechiel, and Daniel are called the four greater Prophets, & these twelue the lesse, there seemeth no other certaine and proper reason, but because they writ more largely, and these more briefely. For otherwise without essential difference, al the sixteene, as also Baruch (whose Book is inserted with Ieremies) and Moyses, Samuel, the Royal Psalmist David, Nathan, Elias, Elizeus, Esdras, Nehemias, & manie others, some writing Books, some not, were absolutely true Prophets of God, indued with the holie spirit of prophecie; haa the like reuelations, with the same assurance of truth, in great part of the same Mysteries, as wel pertyning to the old Testament, as to the New. And so these twelue, contracted into the streitnes of one volume (sayth S. Ierom.) multò aliud, quàm sonant in litera, prefigurant: Prefigure a farre other thing, then they found in the letter. Sygnifying, as he elswhere explicateth, that they doe foreshew manie important things, not only pertyning to the Iewes, and some other peoples of those former times, but also of al natiōs to be conuerted to Christ. They were not al at one time: but Osee, Ioel, Amos, Abdias, Ionas, & Micheas, prophesied before the captiuitie of the ten Tribes. Nahum, Habacuc, & Sophonias, after that captiuitie, & before the captiuitie of the two Tribes, and the other three Aggeus, Zacharias, and Malachie, after the relaxation from captiuitie. Neither did they al prophesie in the same places: nor concerning the same people; and so haue their particular argumenss, as we shal briefly note of euerie one, as they folow in order.

He we may note for instruction of the vulgar reader, that the Prophets commonly vse one of these names, when they direct their speach of the Kingdom of two Tribes.

{ Iuda, Benjamin, Ierusalem, or
The house of Dauid.

Special names signifying the Kingdom of two tribes.

Because Iuda was the chiefe, and most worthie tribe. Benjamin the other only tribe (besides Leui) that ioyned with Iuda. Ierusalem the Metropolitan & Royal citie, where both the Temple, and Kings palace were situated. The House of Dauid is the familie, wherof succeeded al the Kings of that Kingdom, so long as it stood; and of which some remayned in more estimation then any other euen to Chist.

Likewise they vse some of these other names, when they speake of the Kingdom of tenne Tribes.

{ Ephraim, Ioseph, Samaria, Iezrahel; Bethel, or Bethauen.

Others signifying the tenne tribes.

For that their first King Ieroboam was of the tribe of Ephraim, and so descended from Ioseph; Samaria, and Iezrahel were the chiefest cities of that Kingdom; Bethel was one of the places (Dan the other) where Ieroboam set vp the two calves. Which place was otherwise, and more truly called Bethauen, the house of the idol, or of vanitie, or iniquitie. The names also of Israel and Jacob, were more commonly vsed for the tenne tribes; who being more in number, vsurped and appropriated to themselues the names of their general Progenitour and Patriarch. Yet sometimes these names importe al the twelue tribes, including also Leui. And sometimes, especially after the captiuitie of the tenne tribes, these names signifie the two tribes only: which more imitated Jacobs steps and vertues, then the tenne.

Israel & Jacob
Kingdom's.

SEE borne in Belomoth (as writeth S. Epiphanius) of the tribe of Issachar, prophesied in the reigne of Ozias (otherwise called Azarias) Ioathan, Achaz, Ezechias, Kings of Iuda, and of Ieroboam the sonne of Ioas King of Israel; and of the residue of the Kings of Israel, euen to their captiuitie, which happened in the sixth yeare of Ezechias King of Iuda. This Prophet taking by Gods commandement a fornicatrice to wife, and hauing children that became also fornicatours, by these figures, and by a widow long expecting another husband, and the like parables, and other preaching, admonisheth both the Kingdomes of Israel and Iuda, that for their obstinaeie in sinnes, they shal fal, first the one and afterwards the other, into miserable captiuitie. Exhorteth them to repentance; foresheweth their release; and the coming of Christ our Redeemer, with aboundance of grace, and benefits to al nations.

And thou shalt fal to day , and the Prophet also shall fal with thee : in the night I made thy mother hold her peace. 6. My people haue held their peace , because they had not knowledge : because thou hast repelled knowledge , I wil repel thee , (c) that thou doe not the function of priesthood vnto me : and thou hast forgotten the law of thy God , I also wil forget thy children. 7. According to the multitude of them so haue they sinned to me : their glorie I wil change into ignominie. 8. They shall eate (d) the finnes of my people , and at their iniquitie shall lift vp their soules. 9. And as the people , so shall the Priest be : and I wil visite their wayes vpon them , and their cogitations I wil render to them. 10. And they shall eate and shall not be filled : they haue fornicated , & haue not ceased : because they haue forsakē our Lord in not obseruing. 11. Fornication , & wine , & drunkennes take away the hart. 12. My people hath asked in their wood , & their staffe hath declared vnto thē : for (e) the spirit of fornications hath deceiued them , & they haue fornicated from their God. 13. Vpon the heads of mountaines they did sacrifice , and vpon little hilles they burnt incense : vnder the oke , and the poplar-tree , and the terebinth , because the shadow thereof was good : therefore shall your daughters fornicate , and your spouses shall be aduourees. 14. I wil not visite vpon your daughters when they shall fornicate , and vpon your spouses when they shall commit aduoutrie : because they themselues conuerst with harlots , and with the effeminate they did sacrifice , and the people not vnderstanding shall be beaten. 15. If thou fornicate (f) O Israel , at the least let not Iuda offend : and enter ye not into Galgal , and goe not vp into Bethauen , neither sweare ye : Our Lord liueth. 16. Because Israel hath declined as a wanton cow : now wil our Lord feed them , as a lambe in latitude. 17. Ephraim is partaker of idols , let him alone. 18. The spirit hath bound him in his wings , and they shall be confounded at their sacrifices.

C H A P. V.

The Prophet reprehendeth the Priests, and Princes of both Kingdoms, for drawing the people to idolatrie: & denouncing captiuitie for the same.

HE A R E ye this (a) ō Priests, and attend ye house of Israel, and you the Kings house harken: because there is iudgement for you, because you are become a snare to speculation, & a net spread vpon Thabor. 2. And victims you haue declined into the depth: & I the teacher of them al. 3. I know Ephraim, & Israel is not hid from me: because now hath Ephraim fornicated, Israel is contaminated. 4. They wil not giue their cogitations to returne to their God, because the spirit of fornications is in the middes of them, & they haue not knowen the Lord. 5. And the arrogancie of Israel shal answer in his face: and Israel and Ephraim shal fal in their iniquitie, Iudas also shal fal with them. 6. In their flocks and in their heards they shal goe to seeke the Lord, and shal not finde: he is taken away from them. 7. They haue preuaticated against the Lord, because they haue begotten strange children: now shal a month deauour them with their parts. 8. (b) Sound with the trumpet in Gabaa, & with the shalme in Rama: houle ye in Bethauen, behind thy backe ō Beniamin. 9. Ephraim shal be in defolatiō in the day of correction: in the tribes of Israel I haue shewed faith. 10. The Princes of Iuda are become as they that take the bound: I wil power out my wrath as water vpon them. 11. Ephraim is suffering calumnie, broken in iudgement: because he began to goe after filthines. 12. And I as it were a mothe to Ephraim: & as the rotte to the house of Iuda. 13. And Ephraim saw his sicknes, and Iudas his band: and Ephraim went to Assur, and sent to the King reuenger: and he shal not be able to heale you, neither shal he be able to loose the band from you. 14. Because I as it were a lionesse to Ephraim, and as a lions whelp to the house of Iuda: I, I wil take, and goe: I wil take away, and there is none that can deliuer. 15. Going I wil returne to my place: vntil you fayle and seek my face.

[a] There were no true priests in the ten tribes (3. Reg. 12.) but he calleth them by the title which they vsurped; falsly dreading to doe the offices of right Priests.

(b) The captiuitie is heere described not only in bare words but as in fact it shal happen, with tumults of warre, sounding of trumpets, crying, howling &c.

CHAP. VI.

By afflictions the people wil returne to God, and hope in Christ to come 4. both the Kingdoms sinning (6. and thinking to be spared for their sacrifices, neglecting works of mercie) 7. shal be punished : 11. but at last deliuered from captiuitie.

(a) God who punisheth, is alwayes readie to heale sinners, if they wil repent.

(b) S. Paul (1. Cor. 15. v. 4.) not only teaching Christs Resurrection, but also expressly saying the third day, according to the Scriptures, seemeth to vnderstand this place, where & in no other place, the day is so clearly expressed.

(c) God punishing al the Jewes by diuiding their Kingdom into two (3. Reg. 12.) would haue cured them : but Ieroboam King of the ten tribes drew al his people into grosser sinnes then before, by makig a schisme & setting vp idols to be adored for God.

IN their tribulation early they wil rise vp to me : Come, & let vs returne to our Lord. 2. Because he (a) hath wounded, & wil heale vs : he wil strike, & wil cure vs. 3. He wil reuiue vs after two dayes : in (b) the third day he wil raise vs vp, & we shal liue in his sight. We shal know, & we shal folow, that we may know our Lord. As the morning light, is his coming forth prepared, and he wil come to vs as a shower timely, and late to the earth. 4. What shal I doe to thee Ephraim ? what shal I doe to thee Iuda ? your mercie as a morning cloud, & as the dew passing away in the morning. 5. For this haue I hewed in Prophets, I haue killed them in the words of my mouth : and thy iudgements shal come forth as the light : 6. because I would mercie, and not sacrifice : and the knowledge of God more then holocausts. 7. But they as Adam haue transgressed the couenant, there haue they preuaricated against me. 8. Galaad a citie of them that worke idol, supplanted with blood. 9. And as it were the iawes of men that are robbers, partaker with the Priests, of them that in the way kil those that passe out of Sichem : because they haue wrought wickednes. 10. In the house of Israel I saw an horrible thing : there the fornications of Ephraim : Israel is contaminated. 11. Yea and thou Iuda put thee an haruest, when I shal conuert the captiuitie of my people.

CHAP. VII.

Since Ieroboam made schisme in religion, that Kingdom hath fallen into manie distresses : 10. and not repenting shal indure more.

WHEN (a) I would heale Israel, the iniquitie of Ephraim was reuealed, & the malice of Samaria, because they haue wrought lying, & the theefe hath entred in spoyling, the rober without. 2. And lest perhaps they may say in their hearts, that I haue remembered al their malice : now haue their owne inuentions compassed them, they haue been done before me. 3. In their malice they haue reioyced the King : and in their lies the Princes. 4. Al they committing aduoutrie, as it were an ouen heated of the baker: the citie was quiet a litle from the commition of leauen, til the whole was leauened. 5. The day of our King, (b) the Princes began to rage by reason of wine: he stretched out his hand with the scorner. 6. Because they haue applied their hart as an ouen, when he lay in wayte for them: he slept al the night baking them, in the morning himself heated as a fire of flame. 7. Al were heated as an ouen, and haue deuoured their iudges: al their Kings are fallen: there is none amongst them that crieth vnto me. 8. Ephraim himself was (c) mingled in the peoples: Ephraim is become as harth-baken-bread (d) that is not turned. 9. Strangers haue eaten his strength, & he knew not: yea hore haire also were powred out on him, & he was ignorant. 10. And the pride of Israel (e) shal be humbled in his face: neither did they returne to the Lord their God, & they haue not sought him in al these. 11. And Ephraim is become as a doue seduced, not hauing an hart: they inuocated Ægypt, they went to the Assyrians. 12. And when they shal goe forth, I wil spread my net vpon them: as a foule of the heauen wil I plucke them downe, I wil beate them according to the hearing of their assemblie. 13. Woe to them, because they haue reuolted from me: they shal be wasted because they haue preuaricated against me: & I redeemed them & they haue spoken lies against me. 14. And they haue not cried to me in their hart, but they howled in their chambers: vpon wheate and wine they chewed the cud, they are reuolted from me. 15. And I haue taught them, and strengthened their armes: and against me they haue thought malice. 16. They returned, that they might be without yoke: they became as a deceitful bow: their Princes shal fall by the sword, for the furie of their tongue. This is their scorning in the Land of Ægypt.

The Chaldees shal destroy the Temple. 3. But the tenne tribes shal first be caried into captiuitie, 6. for worshiping the image of a calf.

In thy throte let there be a trumpet as an eagle vpon (a) the house of the Lord: for that they haue transgressed my couenant, and haue preuaricated my law. 2. Me they shal inuocate: My God, we (b) Israel haue knowen thee. 3. Israel hath cast away the good thing, the enemy shal persecute him. 4. They haue reigned, & not of me: they haue been Princes, & I knew not: their siluer & their gold they made idols to themselues, that they might perish. 5. Thy calf is cast off ô Samaria, my furie is wrath against them. How long can they not be censured? 6. Because it-self also is of Israel: the workman made it, and it is not God: because the calfe of Samaria shal be as spiders webbes. 7. Because they shal sow winde, & reape a whirlewind: there is no standing stalke in it, the bud shal not yeald meale: & if it doe yeald, strâgers shal eat it. 8. Israel is deuoured: Now is he become in nations as an vncleane vessel. 9. Because they went vp to Assur, a wilde asse solitarie to himself: Ephraim haue giuen-guifts to louers. 10. Yea and when they shal hyre the nations with reward, now wil I gather them together: & they shal rest a while from the burden of the King and the Princes. 11. Because Ephraim hath multiplied altars to sinne: altars are made to him vnto sinne. 12. I wil write to him my manifold lawes, which haue been accounted as strange. 13. They shal offer hostes, they shal immolate flesh, and shal eat, and the Lord wil not receiue them: now wil he remember their iniquitie, and wil visite their sinnes: they shal returne into Ægypt. 14. And Israel hath forgotten his maker, and hath built temples: and (c) Iudas hath multiplied fenced cities: & I wil cast fire on his cities, and it shal deuoure the houses therof.

(c) The two tribes seeing the miseries of the other ten, wil not preuent the like by penance, but think to escape by fortifying their cities.

CHAP. IX.

The ten tribes shal suffer famine: 12. be deprived of their children: 15. and made captiue.

(a) Nanie of the Kingdō of Israel by reasō of famine and other distresses wil fly into Ægypt, as both this place and the same words ch. 8. v. 13. doe fore shew.

S. Ierom & Theodores, v. 6.

(b) Israel did foolishly prophetic al prosperity to the selues,

(c) not inspired by God, but replenished with furie of madnes.

BE not glad Israel, reioyce not as the peoples: because thou hast fornicated from thy God, thou hast loued reward aboue al the flores of wheat. 2. The flore and the winepresse shal not feed them, and the wine shal lie to them. 3. They shal not dwel in the land of our Lord: (a) Ephraim is returned into Ægypt, and among the Assyrians he hath eaten the thing polluted. 4. They shal not offer wine to our Lord, and they shal not please him: their sacrifices as the bread of mourners: al that shal eat it shal be cōtaminated: because their bread for their soule shal not enter into the house of our Lord. 5. What wil you doe in the solemne day, in the day of the festiuitie of our Lord? 6. For behold they are gone forth from destruction: Ægypt shal gather them together, Memphis shal burie them: their siluer to be desyred the nettle shal inherite, the burre in their tabernacles. 7. The dayes of visitation come the dayes are come of retributions: know. (b) Ô Israel the foolish Prophet, (c) the mad spiritual mā, for the multitude of thine iniquitie, the multitude also madnes. 8. Gabaa : he wil remember their iniquitie , and wil visite their sinne. 10. As grapes in the desert I found Israel: as the first fruits of the fig-tree in the top therof I saw their fathers : but they haue entered into Beelphegor , and are alienated into confusion , and are become abominable, as those things , which , they loued. 11. Ephraim as a bird hath flown away , their glorie from birth , and from the wombe , and from conception. 12. But if they shal nourish vp their children , I wil make them without children among men : yea and woe to them , when I shal depart frō them. 13. Ephraim, as I saw, (d) was Tyre founded in beautie: & Ephraim shal lead out his children to the murderer. 14. Giue thē ō Lord, what wilt thou giue to thē: Giue thē a wombe without children, & drie breasts. 15. Al their wicked in Galgal, because there I hated them : for the malice of their inuentions I wil cast them forth out of my house: I wil not adde to loue them, al their Princes reuolters. 16. Ephraim is stricken, their roote is dried vp, they shal yeald no fruit. But and if they shal haue issue, I wil kil the best beloued things of their wombe. 17. My God wil cast them away , because they heare him not : and they shal be vagabunds in the nations.

After manie benefits , and aduancement , much affliction shal fal vpon the ten tribes , for their ingratitude towards God.

ISRAEL a vine (a) thick of branches, the fruit is made equal to it : accordiug to the multitude of his fruit he hath multipliad altars, according to the plentie of his land he hath abounded in idols. 2. Their hart is diuided, now they shal perish: he shal breake their idols, he shal destroy their altars. 3. Because they wil now say : We haue no King: for we feare not our Lord: and what shal a King doe to vs? 4. You speake words of vnprofitable vision, and you shal make a couenant : and iudgement shal spring as bitternes vpon the furrowes of the field. 5. The kine of (b) Bethauen haue the inhabitants of Samaria worshipped : Because his people mourned vpon him, and his temple wardens reioyced vpon him in his glorie, because it departed frō him. 6. For he also was caried vnto Assur, a guist to the King Reuenger : confusion shal take Ephraim, and Israel shal be confused in his owne wil. 7. Samaria hath made her King to passe as froth vpō the face of water. 8. And the excelses of the idol the sinne of Israel shal be destroyed : the burre and the thistle shal grow vp ouer their altars : and they shal say to the mournaines: Couer vs, & to the litle hils: Fal vpon vs

9. From the Dayes (c) of Gabaa, Israel hath sinned, there they stood: the battel in Gabaa vpon the children of iniquitie shal not apprehend them. 10. According to my desire I wil chastise them: & the peoples shal be-gathered together vpon them, when they shal be chastised for their two iniquities. 11. Ephraim an heifer taught to loue threshing, & I haue passed ouer the beautie of her neck: I wil ascend vpon Ephraim, Iudas shal plough, Iacob shal breake the furrowes to himself. 12. Sow to your selues in iustice, and reape in the mouth of mercie, fallow ground: but the time to seeke our Lord, when he shal come that shal teach you iustice. 13. You haue ploughed impietie, you haue reaped iniquitie, you haue eaten the fruite of lying: because thou hast trusted in thy wayes, in the multitude of thy strong ones. 14. A tumult shal arise in thy people: and al thy munitions shal be destroyed as Salmana was destroyed by his house, that tooke vengeance on Baal in the day of battel, the mother being dashed in pieces vpon the children. 15. The Kingdom of Israel is further admonished, and threatned, 10. of which tribes manie shal belieue in Christ.

(a) Literally this is spoken of the people of Israel called Gods sonne (Exo. 4. v. 22.) whom he deliuered out of Ægypt, but mystically is verified of Christ called out of Ægypt (Mat. 2. and is no lesse certaine the true mystical sense, the Euangelist indued with the Holie Ghost, so interpreting, then is the literal sense of this or any other place.

S the morning passed, hath the King of Israel passed away. Because Israel was a child, and I loued him: & (a) out of Ægypt I called my sonne. 2. They called them, so they departed from their face: they immolated to Baalim, and sacrificed to idols. 3. And I as it were the nurse of Ephraim, caried them in myne armes: and they knew not that I cured them. 4. In the cords (b) of Adam I wil draw them, in the bands of charitie: and I wil be to them as lifting vp the yoke vpon their cheeks: and I declined to him that he might eate. 5. He shal not returne into the Land of Ægypt, and Assur he his King: because they would not conuert. 6. The sword hath begun in his cities, and it shal consume his elect, and shal eate their heads. 7. And my people shal hang vpon my returne: but a yoke shal be put vpon them together, which shal not be taken away. 8. How shal I giue thee Ephraim, protect thee Israel? how shal I giue thee as Adama, lay thee as Seboim? My hart is turned within, my repentance is disturbed together. 9. I wil not doe the furie of my wrath: I wil not returne to destroy Ephraim: because I am (c) God, and not (d) man: in the mid-

And he preuailed against the Angel, and was strengthened: and he wept, and besought him: in Bethel he found him, an there he spake with vs. 5. And our Lord the God of hosts, the Lord is his memorial. 6. And thou shalt conuert to thy God: keepe mercie and iudgement, & hope in thy God alwayes. 7. And I the Lord thy God out of the Land of Ægypt I wil yet make thee sit in tabernacles, as in the dayes of festiuitie. 10. And I haue spoken vpon the Prophets, and I haue multiplied vision, and in the hand of the Prophets I haue been resembled. 11. And now they haue added to sinne : and they haue made to themselues (c) a molten of their siluer as it were the similitude of idols, the whole is the worke of crafts-men: to these they say: Immolate men adoring calues. 3. Therefore they shal be as a morning cloud , & as a morning dew passing away , as dust caught with a whirlewind out of the floore , and as smoke out of the chimnie. 4. But I! the Lord thy God out of the Land of Ægypt : and God beside me thou shalt not know , and there is no Sauour beside me. 5. I knew thee in the desert , in the land of wildernes. 6. According to their pastures they were filled , and were made ful : they haue lifted vp their hart , and haue forgotten me. 7. And I wil be vnto them as a lionesse , as a leopard in the way of the Assyrians. 8. THE PROPHECIE OF IOEL Ioel prophesied the same time with Osee.

Especially to the two tribes.

The contents.

IOEL the sonne of Phatuel, borne in Bethoron, of the tribe of Issachar, prophesied the same time, or part thereof, with Osee, according to S. Ieromes rule, approued by most expositors, that when anie of these twelue Prophets expresseth not what time he writ, the same time is vnderstood which the precedent Prophet noteth. He prophesied to the Kingdom of Iuda, as appeareth by expresse mention of sacrifice, Priests, house of God, Ierusalem, and Sion; but describeth also the whole land of twelue tribes, consumed by the Eruke, Locust, Bruke, and Blast. And after the euerfion of the former people, the comming of the Holie Ghost vpon the seruants of God men and women: the 120. faithful gathered in the chamber in Sion. Finally foresbewing the general Iudgement, and future eternal world.

CHAP. I.

The Chaldees shal miserably waste the Kingdom of Iuda: 9. take away sacrifice by destroying the temple: 10. and so make the land barren spiriuually and temporally.

(a) Prophecies pertyne not only to those that then liue, when they are vttered, but also to al posteritie, euen to the end of the world, that it may appeare what is fulfilled, and what yet resteth to come in due time.

HE word of our Lord, that was made to Ioel the sonne of Phatuel. 2. Heare this ye ancients, and harken with your eares al ye inhabitants of the land: if this hath been done in your dayes, or in the dayes of your fathers? 3. Vpon this (a) tel you to your children, and your children to their children, and their children to an other generation. 4. " The residue of the eruke hath the locust eaten, and the residue of the locust hath the bruke eaten, and the residue of the bruke hath the blast eaten. 5. Awake you that be drunke, and weep, and houle al ye, that drinke wine in sweetnes : because it is perished from your mouth. 6. For a nation is ascended vpon my land, strong & innumerable : his teeth as the teeth of a lion : & his cheek-teeth as of a lions whelpe. 7. He hath layd my vineyard into a desert, and hath pilled off the barke of my fig-tree : stripping he hath spoiled it, and cast it forth : the boughs therof are made white. 8. Mourn as a virgin girded with sack-cloth vpon the husband of her youth. 9. (b) Sacrifice and libation is perished out of the house of our Lord : the Priests our Lords Ministers mourned. 10. The region is destroyed, the ground hath mourned : because the wheate is wasted, the wine is confounded, the oyle hath languished. 11. The husbandmen are confounded, the dressers of vines haue houled vpon the wheate, and the barley, because the haruest of the field is perished. 12. The vineyard is confounded, & the fig-tree hath languished : the pomegranet, & the palme-tree, and the apple-tree, & al the trees of the field are withered : because ioy is confounded from the children of men. 13. Gird your selues, & mourn ye Priests, houle ye Ministers of the altar : goe in, lie in sack-cloth ye Ministers of my God : because sacrifice and libation is perished out of the house of your God. 14. (c) Sanctifie ye a fast, cal an assemblie, gather together the ancients, al the inhabitants of the land into the house of your God : and crie ye to our Lord : 15. A a a, for the day : because the day of our Lord is at hand, and as destruction from the mightie it shal come. 16. Why, are not the victuals perished before your eyes, ioy and exultation out of the house of our God ? 17. The beasts are rotted in their dung, the barnes are destroyed, the store-houses are dissipated : because the wheate is confounded. 18. Why groned the beast, why lowed the flocks of the heard ? because there is no pasture for them : yea & the flocks of the cattel are perished. 19. To thee O Lord wil I crie : because fire hath eaten the beautiful things of the desert, and the flame hath burnt al the trees of the region. 20. Yea and the beasts of the field, as a garden bed thirsting for a shower, haue looked vp to thee, because the fountains of waters are dried vp, and fire hath deuoured the beautiful things of the desert.

(b) When Ierusalem, was taken, and the Temple destroyed by the Babylonians, the sacrifice necessarily ceased according to this & other Prophecies.

(c) Fasting, praying and other good workes of manie assembling together, are an especial means to appease Gods wrath, prouoked by former sinnes.

Before the face therof a deuouring fyre, & after it a burning flame: the land before it as it were a garden of pleasure, and after it the wildernes of a desert, neither is there that can escape it. 4. As the appearance of horses, their appearance, & as horsemen so shal they runne. 5. As the sound of chariots vpon the top of mountaines shal they leape, as the sound of a flame of fire deuouring stubble, as a strong people prepared to battel. 6. At his presence the people shal be vexed: al visages shal be made like a pot. 7. They shal runne as valiants: as men of warre they shal scale the wal: the men shal march in their wayes, & shal not decline from their paths. 8. THE PROPHECIE OF AMOS.

Amos prophesied the same time with Osee and Ioel.

Especially Against the ten tribes.

AMOS a heards-man of Thecua in the tribe of Zabulon, was indued with the spirit of prophetic about the same time with Osee and Ioel, in the reigne of Ozias King of Iuda, and of Ieroboam sonne of Ioas King of Israel, in Metaphores, and other obscure speeches agreeable to his pastoral education, but profound in sense, prophecieth especially against the Kingdom of Israel, and diuers Gentils; partly also against Iuda, foreshewing their afflictions for their sinnes: but at last the vocation of al Nations to Christ, with abouandance of spiritual graces in his Church.

(c) euil in the citie, which our Lord hath not done? 7. Because our Lord God wil not doe a word, vnles he haue reuealed his secret to his seruants the Prophets. 8. The lion shall roar, who wil not feare? Our Lord God hath spoken, who shall not propheticie? 9. Make it heard in the houses of Azotus, and in the houses of the Land of Ægypt, and say: Gather ye together vpon the mountaines of the Samaria, and see the manie madneses in in the middes thereof, and them that suffer calumnie in the inner parts thereof. 10. And they haue not knowne to doe right, sayth our Lord, treasuring vp iniquitie, and robberies in their houses. 11. Therefore thus sayth our Lord God: The land shall be in tribulation, & compassed about, and thy strength shall be plucked away from thee, and thy houses shall be spoyled. 12. Thus sayth our Lord: As if a Pastour should get out of the lions mouth two legges, or the tip of the eare: so shall the children of Israel, that dwel in Samaria, be deliuered, in the plague of the bed, and in the couche of Damascus. 13. Heare ye, and contest in the house of Iacob, sayth our Lord the God of hosts: 14. That in the day when I shall begin to visite the preuarications of Israel, I wil visite vpon him, and vpon the altars of Bethel: and (d) the hornes of the altar shall be cut off, and shall fall to the ground. 15. And I wil strike the winter house with the summer house: and the houses of yuorie shall perith, and manie houses shall be dissipated, sayth our Lord.

(c) Al euil of paine, that is punishment for sinne, is by Gods permission and ordinance, either to bring sinners to repentance, or (if they dye in mortal sinne) the beginning of eternal punishment.

(d) The fayrest and strongest things that wicked men haue shall at last be destroyed.

C H A P. III.

The ten tribes are particularly charged for oppressing the poore, 2. therefore threatened with calamities: 6. blamed for their obstinacie: 12. neuertheless are admonished to expect Christ.

HE A R E this word ye (a) fat kine, which are in the mountaines of Samaria: which doe calumnie to the needie, and breake the poore: which say to your Lords: Bring, and we wil drinke. 2. Our Lord God hath sworne by his holie, that loe the dayes shall come vpon you, and they shall lift you vpon poles, and your remnant in pots boyling hot. 3. And by the breaches you shall goe out one against another, & you shall be cast forth into* Armon, saith our Lord. 4. (b) Come ye to Bethel, and doe impiouesly: to Galgal, and multiplie preuarication: and offer in the morning your victimes, three dayes your tithes. 5. And sacrifice ye prayse of the leauened: and cal voluntarie oblations, & proclaime it: for so would you, O children of Israel, sayth our Lord God. 6. Wherupon I (c) haue giuen you dulnes of the teeth in al your cities, & lacke of bread in al your places: and you haue not returned to

I also haue stayed the rayne frō you, when there remayned yet three months vnto haruest: and I rayned vpon one citie, and vpon an other citie I rayned not: one part was rayned vpon, and the part whereupon I rayned not, withered. 8. And two and three cities came to one citie to drinke water, & were not filled: & you returned not to me, sayth our Lord. 9. I stricke you with a burning winde, and with blasting, the multitude of your gardens, and al your vineyards: your oliue groues, & fig-groues the eruke hath eaten: and you returned not to me, sayth our Lord. 10. I sent death vpon you in the way of Ægypt, I stricke your yong-men with the sword, euen to the captiuitie of your horses: and I made the putrefaction of your campe to come vp into your nosthrels: and you returned not to me, sayth our Lord. 11. I subuerted you, as God subuerted Sodom and Gomorth, and you were made as a fyre-brand hastily caught from the burning: & you returned not to me, sayth our Lord. 12. Wherefore these things wil I doe to thee Israel: but after I shal doe these things to thee, (d) be prepared to meete thy God ô Israel. 13. Because loe he that formeth the mountaines and createth the wind, and declareth his word to man, maketh the morning mist, and walketh vpon the high places of the earth, our Lord the God of host is his name.

Notwithstanding great miseries threatned against the ten tribes: 4. yet if they wil repent they shal escape: 7. otherwise they shal fall into captiuitie: 14. and therefore they are admonished to returne to God: 16. but being obstinate, 21. no sacrifice can appeaze Gods wrath.

E A R E ye this word, that I lift vpon you (a) a lamentation. The house of Israel is fallen, and it shal not adde to rise againe. 2. The virgin of Israel is cast forth vpon her land, there is none to rayse her vp. 3. Because thus sayth our Lord God: The citie, out of which came forth a thousand, there shal be left in it an hundred: and out of which there came an hundred, there shal be left in it ten, in the house of Israel. 4. Because thus sayth our Lord to the house of Israel: Seeke ye me, and you shal liue. 5. And seek not Bethel, and into Galgal enter not, and into Bersabee you shal not passe: because Galgal shal be led captiue, and Bethel shal be vnprofitable. 6. Seek ye our Lord, & liue: lest perhaps the house of Ioseph be burnt as fyre, and it shal deuoure, and there shal be none to quench Bethel. 7. You that turne iudgement into wormewood, and leaue off iustice in the land. 8. Him that maketh Arcturus, and Orion, and that turneth darknes into morning, and that changeth day into night: that calleth the waters of the sea, and powreth them out vpon the face of the earth: The Lord is his name. 9. He that seeketh destruction vpon the strong, & bringeth depopulation vpon the mightie. 10. They haue hated him that rebuketh in the gate: & him that speaketh perfectly they haue abhorred. 11. Therefore because you spoiled the poore, & tooke the chosen praye from him: you shal build houses with square stone, and shal not dwel in them: you shal plant most amiable vineyards, and shal not drinke the wine of them. 12. Because I haue knowen manie your wickednesses, and your strong sinnes: enemies of the iust, taking bribe, and oppressing the poore in the gate. 13. Therefore shal the wise at that time hold his peace, because it is an euil time. 14. Seeke ye good, & not euil, that you may liue: & our Lord the God of hosts wil be with you, as you haue sayd. 15. Hate ye euil, & loue good, and establish iudgement in the gate: (b) if perhaps our Lord the God of hosts may haue mercie on the remnant of Ioseph. 16. Therefore thus sayth our Lord the God of hosts the Dominatour, in al streets lamentation: & in al places that are without, shal be sayd woe woe, & they shal cal the husband man to mourning, and to lamentation them that know to lament. 17. And in al vineyards there shal be lametation: because I wil passe through in the middes of thee, sayth our Lord. 18. Wo vnto them that desyre the day of our Lord: to what purpose the same vnto you? This day of our Lord, darkenes, and not light. 19. As if a man should flye from the face of a lion, and a beare should meete him: and enter into the house, and leane with his hand vpon the wal, and a serpent should bite him. 20. Why, is not the day of our Lord darkenes, & not light: and mist, and no thining therein? 21. I haue hated, and haue reiected your festiuities: & I wil not take the odour of your assemblies. 22. And if you shal offer vnto me holocausts, and your guifts, I wil not receiue them: & the vowes of your fatthings I wil not respect. 23. Take away frō me the tumult of thy songs: & the cāicles of thy harpe I wil not heare. 24. And iudgement shal be reuealed as water, & iustice as a mightie torrent. 25. Why, (c) did you offer hostes and sacrifice to me in the desert fourtie yeares, ô house of Israel? 26. And you caried a tabernacle for your Moloch, and the image of your idols, the starre of your God, which you made to your selues. 27. WOE to you that are rich (a) in Sion, and haue confidence in the mountaine of Samaria: ye great men, heads of the peoples, going stately into the house of Israel. 2. Passe ye into Chalane, and see, and goe ye hence into Emath the great: & descend into Geth of the Palestines, and to al the best Kingdoms of these: tiff their border be larger then your border. 3. You that are seperated vnto the euil day: & approch to the throne of iniquitie. 4. You that sleep in beds of iuorie, and play the wantons in your couches: that eat the lãbe out of the flocke, & calues out of the middes of the heard. 5. You that sing to the voice of the psalter: as Dauid they haue thought themselues to haue the instruments of song. That drinke wine in phials; and are annoynted with the best oyntment: and they suffered nothing vpon the contrition of Ioseph. 7. Wherfore now they shal goe in the head of them, that goe in transmigration: and the faction of the wantons shal be taken away. 8. The Lord God hath sworne by his soule, saith our Lord the God of hostes: I detest the pride (b) of Iacob, and I hate his houses, and I wil deliuer vp the citie with the inhabitants therof. 9. And if there shal be left ten men in one house, they also shal dye. 10. And his kinsman shal take him vp, and shal burne him, that he may carie the bones out of the house: and he shal say to him, that is in the inner parts of the house: Is there yet with thee? 11. And he shal answer: There is an end. And he shal say to him: Hold thy peace, and remember not the name of our Lord. 12. Because loe our Lord hath commanded, & he wil strike the greater house with ruines; & the lesser house with clefts. 13. (b) Whereas Iacob by humilitie, patience, & manie other vertues, became great in Gods fauour: now his progenie by pride & delicacie become hateful to God in respect of these sinnes, & are therefore afflicted, and miserably slaine and carried captiues.

(c) To turne the works of iudgement & iustice, into sinnes, which are bitter & vngratefull, is as contrarie to order, as it is contrarie to the course of nature, that horses should runne vpon craggie rocks, or wild buffles be brought to draw the plough

C H A P. VII.

In three visions manie miseries are reuealed, which shal come vpon both the Kingdomes. 10. A false Priest of Bethel accusing the Prophet of sedition, and endeauouring to chase him away, 14. is by him forewarned of miseries to his familie, and death to himself.

THESE things hath our Lord God shewed to me : and loe the former (a) of the locust in the beginning of things that spring of the later rayne , and behold the later rayne after the Kings mowing. 2. And it came to passe : after it had finished to eate the grasse of the land , I sayd : O Lord God be propitious I beseech thee : who shal rayse vp Iacob , because he is a litle one ? 3. Our Lord hath had pitie vpon this : (b) It shal not be , sayth our Lord. 4. These things hath our Lord God called iudgement vnto (c) fyre , and it deauoured the great depth and it did eate a part together. 5. And I sayd : Lord God be quiet I beseech thee : who shal rayse vp Iacob , because he is a litle one ? 6. Our Lord had pitie vpon this : Yea this also shal not be , sayth our Lord God. 7. These things hath our Lord shewed to me : and loe our Lord standing vpon a wal plastered , and in his hand (d) a masons truel. 8. And our Lord said to me : What seeest thou Amos ? And I said : A masons truel. And our Lord sayd : Behold I wil lay downe the truel in the middes of my people Israel : I wil adde no more to plaster it ouer. 9. And the excelses of the idol shal be throwen downe , and the sanctifications of Israel shal be made desolate : and I wil rise vpon the house of Ieroboam with the sword. 10. And Amasias the Priest of Bethel sent to Ieroboam the King of Israel , sayng : Amos (e) hath rebelled against thee in the middes of the house of Israel : the land wil not be able to susteyne al his words. 11. For thus saith Amos : (f) Ieroboam shal dye by the sword , and Israel shal depart captiue out of their land. 12. And Amasias sayd to Amos : Thou that seeest , goe , flye into the land of Iuda : and eate bread there , and thou shalt prophecie there. 13. And in Bethel thou shalt adde no more to prophecie : because it is the sanctification of the King , and it is the house of the Kingdom. 14. And Amos answered , and sayd to Amasias : I am not a Prophet * and I am not the sonne of a Prophet : but an heardsman am I plucking sycamores. 15. And our Lord tooke me when I folowed the flocke , and our Lord sayd to me : Goe , Pro-

(e) False Prophets not induring the wholsome preaching of true Pastours falsely accuse them of rebellion , treason , and sedition. Therefore thus saith our Lord: Thy wife shall fornicate in the citie, and thy sonnes, and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy ground shall be measured with a corde, and thou shalt dye in a polluted land, and Israel shall depart captiue out of their land.

CHAP. VIII.

In a vision of an apple hooke the captiuitie of the ten tribes is againe foreshewed, 4. with reprehension of their auarice, and oppression of the poore: 7. for which they shall fall into great miseries.

(a) By this vision of a hooke is signified, that not only the neerer parts of the ten tribes should be brought into captiuitie, which is written 4. Reg. 15. v. 29. but also the rest which were further off: as fruit of trees, which can not be gathered with the hand, is drawn with a hooke: & so all were carried away. 4 Reg. 17. v. 6.

(b) In their great prosperitie, when they least suspect, calamitie shall fall vpon them.

(c) It can not be doubted but in the siege there was want of bread, drink, & of other victuals: but greater want of spiritual foode.

THESE things hath our Lord shewed to me: and (a) behold an apple hooke. 2. And he sayd: What seeest thou Amos? And I sayd: An apple hooke. And our Lord sayd to me: The end commeth vpon my people Israel: I will adde no more to passe them. 3. And the hinges of the temple shall creak in that day, saith our Lord God: manie shall dye: in euerie place shall silence be cast. 4. Heare this you that tread downe the poore, & make the needie of the land to faile, 5. saying: When wil the month passe, and we shall sel wares: and the Sabbath, and we open the corne: that we may diminish the measure, and increase the sicke, and conuey in deceitful balances, 6. that we may for siluer possesse the needie, and the poore for shoes, and may sel the refuse of the corne? 7. Our Lord hath sworne against the pride of Iacob: If I shall forget euen to the end all their works. 8. Why, shall not the land be moued vpon this, and euerie inhabitant thereof mourne: and rise vp as a riuer altogether, and be cast out, & runne downe to the riuer of Ægypt? 9. And it shall be in that day, saith our Lord God: (b) The sunne shall goe downe at midday, and I will make the earth to be darke in the day of light. 10. And I will turne your festivities into mourning, and all your songs into lamentation: and I will bring in vpon euerie backe of yours sackcloth, and vpon euerie head baldnes: and I will lay it as the mourning of an onlie begotten sonne, & the later end thereof as a bitter day. 11. Behold the dayes come, saith our Lord, and I will send forth famine into the land: (c) not the famine of bread, nor thirst of water, but of hearing the word of the Lord. 12. And they shall be moued from the sea euen to sea, and from the North euen to the East: they shall goe about seeking the word of our Lord, and shall not find. 13. In that day the fayre virgins shall faile, and the yong men in thirst. 14. They that sweare by the sinne of Samaria, and say: Thy God ô Dan liueth: and the way of Bersabee liueth: and they shall fall, and shall rise no more.

CHAP. I.

Jonas being sent to preach in Niniue, flyeth by sea: 4. a tempest riseth, 8. whereof he being found by lot, to be the cause 12. is cast into the sea, 15. and it is caume.

AND the word of our Lord was made to Ionas the sonne of Amathi, saying: 2. Arise, and goe into (a) Niniue the great citie, and preach in it: because the malice therof is ascended before me. 3. And Ionas arose (b) to flye into Tharsis from the face of our Lord, and he went downe into Ioppe, and found a ship going into Tharsis: and he gaue the fare therof, and went downe into it, that he might goe with them into Tharsis from the face of our Lord. 4. But our Lord sent a great winde into the sea: and a great tempest was made in the sea, and the ship was in danger to be broken. 5. And the mariners were a frayd, and the men cried to their God: & they threw the vessels, that were in the ship, into the sea, that it might be lightned of them: & Ionas went downe into the inner part of the ship, and slept a deep sleep. 6. And the gouerner came to him, & sayd to him: Why art thou oppressed with sleep? Rise, inuocate thy God, if perhaçs God wil thinke of vs, and we perish not. 7. And

a) God Creator & Lord of all the world, hath also care of al, Rom. 3. v. 29 & therefore sent this Prophet to the great citie Niniue, as likewise others prophecied to the Babylonians, Egyptians, Moabites, Ammonites, Iudaeans, &c.

b) Ionas sheweth the cause why he fled, ch. 4 v. 1. fearing to be counted a false Prophet.

(c) The mariners seeing no natural cause of so sudaine & great a tēpest, sought to know the reason thereof by lot, wherto the Prophet agreed, by Gods inspiration, & so was discovered.

(d) Sacrifice & vowes are knowne to all men by the light of nature to be grateful to God.

(a) That this great fish was a whale, our Sauiour plainly expresth. Mat. 11. v. 40.

(b) The Prophet doubtles prayed before & when they cast him out of the ship, and continued the same prayer being in the whales bellie, with more confidence, that he should be safely cast on the drie land. v. 4. And therefore rendreth thanks, vowing sacrifice of thanks-giuing. v. 10.

(c) Furthest that can be from mountaines, euen into the depth of the sea, which is lower then any other vall eyes.

euerie one sayd to his fellow: Come, and (c) let vs cast lots, and know why this euil is to vs. And they cast lots, and the lot fel vpon Ionas. 8. And they sayd to him: Tel vs for whose cause this euil is to vs, what is thy worke? what is thy countrie? & whither goest thou? or of what people art thou? 9. And he sayd to them: I am an Hebrew, & the Lord God of heauen I feare, which made the sea and the drie land. 10. And the men feared with great feare, and they sayd to him: Why hast thou done this? (For the men knew that he fled from the face of our Lord: because he had told them.) 11. And they sayd to him: What shal we doe to thee, and the sea shal cease from vs? because the sea went, and swelled. 12. And he sayd to them: Take me vp, and cast me into the sea, and the sea shal cease from you: for I know that for me this great tempest is vpon you. 13. And the men rowed, to returne to the land, and they were not able: because the sea went and swelled vpon them. 14. And they cried to our Lord, and sayd: We beseech thee o Lord, let vs not perih in the life of this man, and giue not vpon vs innocent bloud: because thou o Lord, hast done as thou wouldest. 15. And they tooke Ionas, and cast him into the sea: & the sea ceased from his rage. 16. And the men feared our Lord with great feare, and (d) immolated hostis to our Lord, and vowed vowes.

C H A P. II.

Ionas is swallowed by a great fish; 3. Prayeth with confidence in God; 11. and the fish casteth him on the drie land.

AND our Lord prepared (a) a great fish to swallow downe Ionas: and Ionas was in the bellie of the fish three dayes and three nights. 2. And Ionas (b) prayed to our Lord his God out of the bellie of the fish. 3. And he sayd .

I cryed out of my tribulation to our Lord, & he hath heard me: out of the bellie of hel cried I, and thou hast heard my voice.

4. And thou hast cast me forth into the depth in the hart of the sea, & a floud hath compassed me: al thy surges, and thy waues haue passed ouer me.

5. And I say: I am cast away from the sight of thine eyes: but yet I shal see thy holie temple againe.

6. The waters haue compassed me euen to the soule: the depth hath iuclosed me, the sea hath eouered my head.

7. I am descended to the (c) extreme parts of the mountaines: the barres of the earth haue shut me vp for euer : and thou wilt lift vp my life from corruption , ô Lord my God.

8. When my soule was in distresse within me , I remembered our Lord : that my prayer may come to thee vnto thy holie temple.

9. They that keepe vanities in vaine , forsake their mercie.

10. But I in the voice of prayse wil immolate to thee : what things foeuer I haue vowed I wil render for saluation to our Lord.

11. And our Lord. (d) spake to the fish : and it vomited vp Ionas vpon the drie land.

(d) Gods wil is his word by which al creatures were made, and to which, as wel liuing, as senses things obey.

CHAP. III.

Againe Ionas is commanded to preach in Ninieue , that within fourtie dayes it shal be destroyed : 5. They al fast , and repent : 10. and God recallt to his sentence.

AND the word of our Lord was made to Ionas the second time , saying : 2. Arise, and goe into Ninieue (a) the great citie : and preach in it the preaching which I speake to thee. 3. And Ionas arose, and went into Ninieue according to the word of our Lord : and Ninieue was a great citie of three dayes iourney. 4. And Ionas

(a) Diodorus Siculus li. 3. c. 1. writeth that Ninieue was in length 150 stadia, or for lögs, in breadth 90. so it was in circuite of the wals 480. And euerie forlong hauing 125. paces of five foot the pace, the compasse was 60. Italian myles, about 50. or 48. English myles: a sufficient trauel of three dayes, to passe through the principall streetes, and more publike places therof.

began to enter into the citie one dayes iourney : & he cried, and sayd : As yet fourtie dayes, and Ninieue (b) shal be subuerted. 5. And the men of Ninieue belieued in God : and they proclaimed a fast , and were clothed with sackcloth from the greater to the lesser. 6. And the word came to the King of Ninieue : and he rose vp out of his throne , and cast away his garment from him , and was clothed with sackcloth , and sate in ashes. 7. And he cried, and sayd in Ninieue from the mouth of the King and of his Princes , saying : Men, (c) and beasts , and oxen , and cattel let them not taste any thing : nor feed , and let them not drinke water. 8. And let men and beasts be covered with sackcloths , and erie to our Lord in strength , and let euerie man conuert from his euil way , and from the iniquitie , that is in their hands. 9. Who knoweth if God wil conuert, and forgieue : and wil returne from the furie of his wrath, and we shal not perishe 10. And God saw their workes, that they were conuerted from their euil way : and God had mercie on the euil which he had spoken, that he would doe to them , and he did it not.

CHAP. IIII.

The Prophet lamenteth for that he was commanded to preach otherwise then it came to passe. 5. Going forth he stayeth neere the cite to see the end. 6. A yuie growing couereth his head from the sunne; 7. but withereth the next day. 8. and he lamenting desireth to dye, 10 and God sheweth that it is more meet to saue Ninue then the yuie.

For I know that thou art a clement, and merciful God, patient, and of much compassion, and forgiuing vpon the euil. 3. And now Lord take I beseech thee my soule from me: because better is death to me then life. 4. And our Lord said: Art thou angrie wel thinkest thou? 5. And Ionas went out of the cite, and sate against the East part of the cite: and he made himself a bowre there, and he sate vnder it in the shadow, til he might see what would befall to the cite. 6. And our Lord God prepared an yuie tree, and it came vp ouer the head of Ionas, to be a shadow ouer his head, and to couer him: for he had laboured: and Ionas reioyced vpon the yuie with great ioy. 7. And God prepared a worme in the rising of the morning against the morrow: & it struck the iuie. & it withered. 8. And when the sunne was risen, our Lord commanded an hot and burning winde: and the sunne beate vpon the head of Ionas, and he broyled for heate: and he desired for his soule to dye, and sayd: It is better for me to dye then to liue. 9. And our Lord sayd to Ionas: Art thou angrie wel, thinkest thou, for the yuie? And he sayd: (b) I am * angrie wel euen vnto death. 10. And our Lord sayd:
Thou art sorie for the yuie, wherin thou hast not laboured, nor made it to grow, which in one night came forth, and in one night is perished.

THE PROPHECIE OF MICHEAS.

Proph. 1.

MICHEAS a Morasthite of the tribe of Ephraim, prophecied part of the time with Isay, and the former five lesse Prophets : against both the Kingdoms of Israell and Iuda : foreshewing their captiuities, and relaxation of Iuda from Babylon : their conuersion to Christ neer the end of the world : and that in the meane time al other nations shal belieue in Christ.

Micheas prophecied the same time with Isay &c.

CHAP. I.

*Samaria and al the ten tribes shal be brought into captiuitie by the Asirians. 9.
The two tribes shal also be inuaded and spoyled, euen neere to Ierusalem.*

Deu 32.
Isa. 1.
Isa. 26.

THE word of our Lord that was made to Micheas the Morasthite, in the dayes of Ioathan, Achaz, and Ezechias Kings of Iuda : which he saw vpon Samaria and Ierusalem. 2. Heare al ye peoples: & let the earth attend, & the fulnes therof: and (a) let our Lord God be vnto you for a witnes, our Lord out his holie temple. 3. Because loe our Lord wil goe forth out of his place: and he wil descend, and wil tread vpon the highest of the earth. 4. And the mountaines shal be consumed vnder him: and the valleyes shal be clouen, as waxe at the presence of fyre, and as waters that runne downe headlong. 5. For the wickednes of Iacob al this, and for the finnes of the house of Israel. What is the wickednes of Iacob? is it not Samaria? and what the excelses of Iuda? is it not Ierusalem?

(a) If the Prophet should not admonish the people, both he and they should dye in their sinne. Iere. 3. v. 18. 19 but he discharging his office (as God is witnes) they not reperting shal perish in their iniquitie.

b) Samaria gathering riches by traffike with idolaters communicated also with them in idolatrie, and therefore their riches shal be carried into Ninue and other places of Assyria.

c) Tel not these calamities which I foresaw amongst your enemies, lest they reioyce therat.

d) But lament in your owne houses which shal be ruined, & replenished with dust. S. Ierome here testifieth the hardnes of this place praying for the assistance of the Holy Ghost so vnderstand it.

e) Ironioully he sayth the glorie, that is, the miserie of Israel shal be extended to Odolla the vttermost citie of Iuda.

a) By the figure Lipote, that is here called vnprofitable, which is indeed extreme hurtful, & hath nothing profitable in it.

6. And I wil lay Samaria as a heape of stones in the field when a vineyard is planted: & I wil plucke downe her stones into the valley, & wil discover her foundations. 7. And al her sculptsils shal be cut in funder, & al her wages shal be burnt with fyre, & I wil lay al her idols into perdition: because they are gathered together of the wages of an harlot, & (b) vnto the hyre of an harlot they shal returne. 8. Vpon this wil I lamēt, and howle: I wil goe spoiled, and naked: I wil make lamentation as of dragons, & mourning as it were of striches. 9. Because her plague is desperate, because it is come euen to Iuda; it hath touched the gate of my people euen to Ierusalem. 10. (c) In Geth declare it not, weep not with teares: (d) in the house of dust sprinkle your self with dust. 11. And passe ye to your selues ô faire habitation, confounded with ignominie: she went not out that dwelleth in the going out: the house adioyning shal receiue lamentation of you, which stood to her self. 12. Because she is weakned to good which dwelleth in bitteresses: because euil is descended from our Lord into the gate of Ierusalem. 13. Tumult of the chariot of astonishment to the inhabitant of Lachis: it is the beginning of sinne to the daughter of Sion, because in thee are found the wickednesses of Israel. 14. Therefore shal he giue spoilers vpon the inheritance of Geth: the houses of lying into deception to the Kings of Israel. 15. As yet wil I bring an heyre to thee which dwellest in Marcsa: euen to (e) Odolla shal the glorie of Israel come. 16. Be bald, and be poled for the children of thy delicacies: enlarge thy baldnes as an eagle: because they are led captiues out of thee

By their great iniustice, 7. notwithstanding their vaine presumption of Gods mercie, wherto he is indeed most prone, 8. the Israelites through their excessive rapine prouoke God to punish them. 12. Yet when Christ shal come some Iewes wil serue him; and manie more in the end of the world.

VOE to you which thinke that is (a) vnprofitable, and worke euil in your beds: in the morning light they doe it, because their hand is against God. 2. And they haue coueted fields, and violently taken, and houses forcibly taken away: and oppressed the man and his house, the man and his inheritance. 3. Therefore thus saith our Lord: Behold I purpose euil vpon this familie: whence you shal not take away your necks, and you shal not walke proud, because it is a very euil time. 4. In that day a parable shal be taken vp vpon you, and a song shal be sung with sweetnes, of them that say: With depopulation we are

wanted: part of my people is changed: how shall he depart from me, whereas he returneth, that will divide our regions? 5. For this cause thou shalt have none casting the cord of lot in the assemblie of our Lord. 6. Speake ye not (b) speaking: It shall not drop upon these, confusion shall not apprehend them. 7. The house of Iacob saith: Why is the spirit of our Lord abridged, or are his cogitations such? (c) Are not my words good with him that walketh rightly? 8. And on the contrary my people is risen up as an aduersarie: from about the cote you have taken away the cloke: & them that passed simply you turned into battell. 9. The women of my people you have cast out of the house of their delicacies: from their litle ones you have taken my praise for euer. 10. Arise, and goe, because you haue no rest here. For the vncleannes thereof it shall be corrupted with a fore putrefaction. 11. Would God I were not a man hauing the spirit, and that I did rather speake a lie: I will distill to thee into wine, and into drunkenness: and it shall be this people upon whom it is distilled. 12. (d) Gathering I will gather thee wholly together O Iacob: I will bring together the remnant of Israel into one, I will put them together as a flocke in the fold, as cattel in the middes of shep-cotes, they shall make a tumult by reason of the multitude of men. 13. For he shall ascend opening the way before them: they shall diuide, and passe through the gate, and shall enter by it: and their King shall passe before them, and our Lord in the head of them.

CHAP. III.

For the finnes of the rich oppressing the poore, 5. of false Prophets flatering for lucre, 9. and of Iudges perueruing iustice, 12. Ierusalem and the temple shall be destroyed.

AND I sayd: Heare ye Princes (a) of Iacob, and ye dukes of the house of Israel: Why, is it not your part to know iudgement, 2. which hate good, and loue euil: which violently take away their skinnes from them, and their flesh from their bones? 3. Which haue eaten the flesh of my people, and haue flead their skinnes from them: and haue broken, and cut their bones as in a kettle, and as it were flesh in the middes of a pot. shall they crie to our Lord, and he will not heare them: and he will hide his face from them at that time, as they haue done wickedly in their inuentions. 5. Thus sayth our Lord upon (b) the Prophets, that seduce my people: that bite with their teeth, and preach peace: and if a man giue not something in their mouth, they sanctifie battell upon him. 6. Therefore there shall be night to you for vision, and darknes to you for diuination: and the sunne shall goe downe upon the Prophets, and the

(b) The Princes of the people command the Prophets not to speake & inculcate so much of future afflictions.

(c) God answereth, that his threates proceed from his mercie. For he would saue all, and those that either walke rightly or repent shall feelee the effect of his mercie, but except they be admonished, neither the good will perseuere in goodness, nor the euil returne into the right way.

(d) In further prooffe of Gods mercie he promiseth to gather his Church of all nations by Christ.

(a) The chief of both the Kingdoms (the two tribes, & the ten) were great extorcioners, & the poore murmuring against the rich also extorted each from other: imitating the greater sort in euil.

(b) False Prophets sought also their priuate gaine.

(c) Likewise the Judges perverted iudgement, scraping their temporal profite of other mens quarels. (d) And therefore al sorts grieuouſly offending ſhal al worthily perriſh.

(a) The Iewes confeſſe this Prophecie to be of Chriſt the promiſed Meſſias: but denie it to be of our Saniour Ieſus of Nazareth, framing for their purpoſe diuers argumētts, which the learned may ſee very wel cōfuted by Doct. F. Ribera in this place. The later dayes are this whole time from Chriſt to the end of the world, which is the laſt time or ſtate, after which ſhal be no other ſtate of time, but eternitic. Though in ſome places, the later dayes, or laſt dayes, ſignifie the time that ſolloweth after the thing then mentioned. as Iſa. 9. v. 1. 2 Tim. 3. v. 1. day ſhal be darkned ouer them. 7. And they ſhal be confounded that ſee viſions, and the diuiners ſhal be confounded: and al ſhal couer their faces, becauſe there is no answer of God. 8. But yet I am replenished with the ſtrength of the ſpirit of our Lord, with iudgement, & power: to declare vnto Iacob his wickednes, and to Iſrael his ſinne. 9. Heare this ye Princes of the houſe of Iacob, and ye (c) iudges of the houſe of Iſrael: which abhorre iudgement, and peruert al right things. 10. Which build Sion in blood, and Ieruſalem in iniquitie. 11. Her Princes iudged for guiſts, and her Priests taught for wages, and her Prophets diuined for money: and they reſted vpon our Lord, ſaying. Why, is not our Lord in the middes of vs? euils ſhal not come vpon vs. 12. (d) For this, becauſe of you, Sion ſhal be ploughed as a field, & Ieruſalem be as an heap of ſtones, and the mount of the temple as the high places of foreſts.

CHAP. III.

Manie Gentils ſhal belieue in Chriſt: 6. and laſtly the multitude of Iewes. 8. In the meane time the two tribes be caried into captiuitie, & be deliuered againe.

AND it ſhal be: In (a) the later end of dayes there ſhal be the mount of the houſe of our Lord prepared in the top of mountaines, and high aboue the hils: & peoples ſhal flow to it. 2. And manie natiōs ſhal haſte, & ſhal ſay: Come, let vs goe vp to the mountaine of our Lord, & to the houſe of the God of Iacob: & he wil teach vs of his wayes, & we ſhal goe in his pathes: becauſe out of Sion ſhal the law goe forth, & the word of our Lord out of Ieruſalem. 3. And he ſhal iudge between manie peoples, and he ſhal rebuke ſtrong natiōs vnto a far off: and they (b) ſhal cut their ſwords into culters, and their ſpeares into ſpades: nation ſhal not take ſword againſt nation: and they ſhal no more learne to make battel. 4. And euerie man ſhal ſitte vnder his vine, and vnder his fig-tree, and there ſhal be none to make them afraid: becauſe the mouth of the Lord of hoſts hath ſpoken it. 5. Becauſe (c) al peoples wil walke euerie one in the name of his God: but we ſhal walke in the name of the Lord our God for euer and euer. 6. In that day, ſaith our Lord, (d) I wil gather her that haltereth: and her that I had caſt out, I wil gather vp, and her whom I had afflicted. 7. And I wil make her that halted into a remnant: and her that had laboured into a mightie nation: and our Lord wil reigne ouer them in mount Sion, from this time now & for euer. 8. And thou (e) the towre of flock, cloude of the daughter of Sion ſhal come to thee: and the firſt power ſhal come the Kingdom to the daughter of Ieruſalem. 9. Now why art thou drawne together with penſiuenes? Why, is there not a King to thee, or is thy counſelour perriſhed, becauſe ſorrow hath apprehended thee as a woman is trauel? 10. Sorow thou and labour o daughter of Sion, as a woman in trauel: becauſe now ſhalt thou goe out of the citie, & ſhalt dwel in the countrie, and ſhalt come euen to Babylon, there thou ſhalt be deliuered: there our Lord wil redeeme thee out of the hand of thine enemies. 11. These defenders are the Fathers and Doctours of the Church, especially Bishops, who are here called Pastours, to admonish them, that their office is to feed the people with spiritual food, doctrine & Sacraments: and are called also Princes, or principal men, to admonish the people to obey, and folow their ordinance. As, S. Paul also admonisheth: Obey your Prelass, and be subiect to them. For they watch as being to render account for your soules. Heb. 13.

THE PROPHECIE OF NAHV M.

S. Iero.
Epist ad
Paulin.

NAHV M borne in Elcese a towne in Galiley, prophecied shortly after the captiuitie of the tenne tribes, against Niniue, about fiftie yeares after Ionas preaching, and their repentance; when they became more wicked then before: forshewing their vtter ruine and ignominie. In figure of the destruction of idolatrie in al nations, by Christ euangelizing and announcing peace to al that wil belieue in him.

Nnhum prophecied about 50. yeares after Ionas, neer 135. before the destruction of Niniue.

CHAP. I.

Niniue shal be destroyed, not able to escape Gods powerful wrath. 9. The Asirians shal not preuaile against Ierusalem: 13. but themselues shal be slaine.

THE (a) burden of Niniue. The Book of the vision of Nahum the Elcesite. 2. God is ielous, & our Lord reuenging, our Lord reuenging, and hauing furie: our Lord reuenging on his aduersaries, and he is angrie with his enemies. 3. Our Lord is patient, and great of strength, and cleansing, he wil not make innocēt. Our Lords wayes in tēpest, & whirlwind, & clouds, the dust of his feet. 4. Rebuking the sea, & drying it vp: & bringing al riuers to a desert. Basā is weakned & Carmel: & the floure of Libanus is faided. 5. The mountaines were moued at him, and the hilles were desolate: and the earth hath trembled at his presence, & the world, & al that dwel therein. 6. Before the face of his indignation who shal stād? & who shal resist in the wrath of his furie? his indignation is Allegorically Nahum according to his name, comforteth the iust, shewing that God wil reuenge them by destroying Niniue the beautiful great citie, that is, the terrestrial world called cosmos beautiful, and then reward his Saints in eternal glorie.

b) The Assiriās accounting themselves assured to take & spoile Ierusalem, & thereupon banquetting and drinking were defeated al in one night.

c) To Senacherib succeeded his sonne Afarhaddon, but presently after the whole lineage was destroyed. 4. Reg. 19.

(a) Nabuchodonosor invading the territorie of Niniue wasted al things, & then assaulted and tooke the citie

(b) The Assiriās became more proud & insolent after they had spoiled the two tribes and caried the ten into captiuitie, & therefore God wil now reuēge this pride.

(c) The people of Niniue, whē the wal of the citie shal once be broken by the enemies, wil flye away as water runneth out of a pond or fish-pool, whē the banke is brokē.

powred out as fire : and the rocks are dissolued by him. 7. Our Lord is good, & strengthening in the day of tribulation : & knowing them that hope in him. 8. And in a floud passing by, he wil make a consummation of the place therof : & darkenes thal pursue his enemies. 9. What thinke ye against our Lord? consumatiō he wil make: there shal nottise double tribulation. 10. Because as thornes claspe one an other : so (b) the feast of them that drinke together : they shal be consumed as stuble ful of drienes. 11. Out of thee shal come forth one that thinketh malice against our Lord in the minde deuising preuarication. 12. Thus saith our Lord : If they shal be perfect : and so a great manie, so also shal they be thorne, and he shal passe by : I haue afflicted thee, and I wil afflict thee no more. And now I wil breake his rod frō off thy backe, & I wil burst thy bōds in sunder. 14. And Our Lord wil command vpon thee, there (c) shal not be sown of thy name any more : out of the house of thy God I wil destroy sculptril, & molten, I wil put thy graue, because thou art dishonoured. 15. Behold vpon the mountaines the feet of him that Euangelizeth, and preachtē peace : celebrate, o Iuda, thy festiuities, and render thy vowes : because Belial shal no more adde to passe through thee, he is wholly perished.

CHAP. II.

The Chaldees shal mightily invade the Assirians, 5. take and ransacke Niniue.

It is come vp that (a) shal scatter before thee, that shal keep the seige : behold the way, fortifie the loynes, strengthen force exceedingly. 2. Because our Lord hath rendered (b) the pride of Iacob, as the pride of Israel : because the waters haue dissipated them, & haue marred their braiches. 3. The buckler of his valiants fyrie, the men of the armie in scarlets, the raynes of the chariot fyrie in the day of his preparation, & the driuers are brought a sleep. 4. In the wayes they are troubled, the chariots struck one agaynst an other in the streets: their appearāce are as it were lamps, as it were lightning running to & fre. 5. He wil remember his valiants, they shal fal in their wayes : they shal quickly scale the wals therof, and a bowre shal be prepared. 6. The gates of the riuers are opened, and the temple throwen downe to the ground. 7. And the souldier is led away captiue : and her handmayds were led away mourning as doves, murmuring in their harts. 8. And Niniue (c) her waters as it were a fishpool of waters : but themselves are fled. (d) Stand stand, and there is none that wil returne. 9. Spoile the siluer, spoile the gold: and there is no end of the riches of al vessels that are to be desired. 10. She is dissipated, and rent, and torne: & pyning hart, and dissolution of the knees, and defect in al reynes: and the faces of them al as the blacknes of a pot. 11. (e) Where is the habitation of lions, and the pasture of lions welps, to which the lion went, to goe in thither, the lions whelp, and is there none to make them afrayd? 12. The lion hath caught sufficiently for his whelps, and hath killed for his lionesses: and he hath filled his dennes with praye, and his couch with raue-ning. 13. Behold I to thee, saith the Lord of hosts, and I wil burne thy chariots euen to smoke, and the sword shal eate thy litle lions: and I wil destroy thy praye out of the land, and the voice of thy messengers shal be heard no more.

(d) Although some of more courage wil exhort the fugitiues to stay, & fight for their citie, it wil not auaille, because the most part wil seeke to escape by running away.
(e) The King of Assirians like a furious lion gathered praye out of al countries, & brought it into Ninine as into his denne, but at last shal be spoyled of al.

And of the glistering sword, and of the glittering speare, and of a multitude slaine, and of a grieuous ruine: neither is there an end of corpes, and they shal fal on their bodies. 4. Because of the multitude of the fornications, of the harlot beautiful and grateful, and hauing sorceries, which hath sold nations in her fornications, and families in her sorceries. 5. Behold I to thee, sayth the Lord of hosts: and I wil discouer thy priue parts in thy face, and wil shew to the Gentils thy nakednes, and to Kingdoms thine ignominie. 6. And I wil throw vpon thee abominations, and wil vse thee contumeliously, and wil put thee for an example. 7. And it shal be, eueric one that shal see thee, shal leape backe from thee, and shal say: Niniue is wasted: who shal shake the head vpon thee? whence shal I seeke a comforter for thee? 8. Why, art thou better then (b) Alexandria ful of peoples, which dwelleth in the riuers? waters round about it: whose riches, the sea: waters the wales therof. 9. Gen 10. so Ninus who built Niniue, & their successors were stil very bloudie, & otherwise wicked, but at last after 1200. yeares, vnder Sardanapalus their Monarchie decayed much, as most writers both Greek & Latin testifie, but yet continued longer & flourished againe, as Doctour Ribera sheweth by the holie Scriptures, & continued in al from Ninus time til it was destroyed by the Chaldees, about 1440. yeares, yea & was repayed againe & was great after the relaxation of the Iewes from captiuitie As Euseb. S. Aug. S. Beda, and others write. (b) This citie was was first called No, but being destroyed by the Chaldees, and reedified by K. Alexander, was then called by his name. S. i. ero.

10. But she also in transmigration was led into captiuitie : her litle ones were dashed in the head of al wayes , and vpon her noble ones , they haue cast lot, and al her great men were made fast in fetters. 11. Thou also therfore shalt be made drunke, and shalt be despised : and thou shalt seek help of the enimie. 12. Al thy munitions as figtrees with their greene figs : if they be shaken, they wil fal into the mouth of the eater. 13. Behold thy people women in the middes of thee : to thine enemies the gates of thy land with opening shal be opened , fyre shal deuoure thy barres. 14. Draw thee water for the siege , build thy munitions: enter into the clay, and tread, making mortar hold the bricke. 15. There the fyre shal eat thee : thou shalt perish by the sword, as a bruke it shal deuoure thee : be gathered together as the bruke , be multiplied as the locust. 16. Thou hast made thy merchandises more then are the starres of heauen : the bruke was spred, and flew away. 17. Thy keepers as the locusts: and thy litle ones as it were the locusts of locusts, which swarme on the hedges in the day of cold : the sunne arose , and they flew away, and their place was not knowen where they were. 18. Thy Pastours slumbred, Ô King of Assur, thy Princes shal be buried, thy people lay hid in the mountaynes , and there is none to gather them together. 19. Thy destruction is not obscure, thy plague is very fore: al that haue heard the fame of thee , haue clapped the hand vpon thee : for vpon whom hath not thy malice passed alwayes?

THE PROPHECIE OF ABACVC.

HABACVC borne in Bezochar prophesied the same time with Nabum, foreshewing the victories of the Chaldees subduing manie nations, namely the Kingdome of Iuda, destroying Ierusalem & the temple, & carrying the pe. ple captiue into Babylon, and after was the ruine of the same Chaldaee, and relaxation of the Iewes: at last the comming of Christ, with diuers particular Mysteries described in a Canticle from his Incarnation to the general Iudgement, and eternitie of the next world.

CHAP. I.

The Prophet lamenteth the imminent ruine of the people, by the insolent crueltie of the Chaldees: 12. especially for that the holie citie shal be ransacked by idolaters and most wicked men.

HE (a) burden that Habacuc the Prophet saw. 2. How long O Lord shal I crie, and thou wilt not heare? shal I crie out to thee suffering violence, and thou wilt not saue? 3. Why hast thou shewed me iniquitie and labour, to see praye and iniustice against me? and iudgement is made, and contradiction more mightie. 4. For this cause is the law torne, and iudgement came not to the end: because the impious preuaileth agaynst the iust, therefore doth there come forth peruerse iudgement. 5. Behold ye in the nations, and see: meruel, and be astonished: because (b) a worke is done in your dayes, which no man wil belieue when it shal be told. 6. Because loe I (c) wil rayse up the Chaldees, a bitter and swift nation; walking vpon the latitude of the earth, to possesse tabernacles not their owne. 7. It is horrible, & terrible: out of it self shal the iudgement, & the burdē therot

Habacuc prophesied of the two tribes of the Chaldees: and of Christ. (a) This Prophet expresieth not against what Kingdom citie or person this buruen is: the reason wherof seemeth to be, because it is against very many and diuers, yea against al persecuters of Gods seruants. (b) S. Paul alleadgeth this place in the mystical sense Act. 13. in the literal the coherence is very obscure. His horses lighter then leopards, and swifter then euening wolues; and his horsemen shal be spred abroad, for his horsemen shal come from a far, they shal flye as an eagle hastening to eate. 9. Al shal come to the praye, their faces a burning winde: and he shal gather together as the sand, captiuitie. 10. And he shal triumph ouer Kings, and tyrants shal be his laughing stocke, and he shal laugh vpon euerie munition, and shal cast vp a mount, and shal take it. 11. (d) Then shal the spirit be changed, and he shal passe, and sal: this is his strength of his God. 12. Why wast thou not from the beginning o Lord my God, my holic one, & we shal not dye? Lord thou hast appoynted him for iudgement: and strong to chastise, thou hast founded him. 13. Thine eyes are cleane, from seeing euil, and thou canst not looke toward iniquitie. Why lookest thou not vpon them that doe vniust things, and holdest thy peace when the impious deuoureth him that is more iust then himself? 14. And thou wilt make men as the fishes of the sea, and as the creeping beast not hauing a Prince. 15. (e) He lifted vp al in the hooke, he drew it in his traine, and gathered it into his net: vpon this he wil be glad and reioyce. 16. Therefore wil he immolate to his trayne, and he wil sacrifice to his net: because by them his portion is fat, & his meate chosen. 17. For this cause therefore spreddeth he his trayne, and alwayes to kil (f) the nations he wil not spare.

CHAP. II.

The captiuitie of the two tribes, their relaxation, Christ wil assuredly come, though not quickly. 5. Their afflictors (the Chaldees) shal be destroyed; 18. and al other idolaters.

(a) The words of the Prophet expecting what God wil further reueale vnto him. (b) He that cometh at the time appointed, though it be long, is not slacke. (c) The principal comforte of the iust consisteth in their faith & confidence of the world to come. Wherby they liue with consolation, whereas

(a) wil stand vpon my watch, and fixe my step vpon the munition: and I wil behold, to see what may be sayd to me, and what I may answer to him that rebuketh me. 2. And our Lord answered me, and sayd: Write the vision, and make it playne vpon tables: that he which runneth may read it ouer. 3. Because as yet the vision is far, and it shal appeare at the end, and shal not ye: if he wil make tariance, expect him: because comming he wil come, and he (b) wil not slacke. 4. Behold he that is incredulous, his soule shal not be right in himself: but (c) the iust shal liue in his faith. 5. And as wine deceiueh him that drinketh: so shal the proud man be, and he shal not be beautified: who as it were hel, hath dilated his soule: and himself as death, and he is not filled: and he hath gathered together vnto him al nations, and hath heaped together vnto him al peoples. 6. Why, shal not al these take vp a parable vpon him, and a speech of obscure sayings of him : and it be sayd : Wo to him that multiplieth things not his owne? how long also doth he agrauat against himself thicke clay? 7. Why, shal they not rise sodainly, that shal bite thee? and they that teare thee, be rayfed vp, and thou be for a spoile to them? 8. Because thou hast spoiled manie nations, al that shal be left of the peoples shal spoile thee : for the bloud (d) of man, and the iniquitie of the land, of the citie, and of al that dwel therein. 9. Woe to him that gathereth together naughtie auarice to his house, that his nest may be on high, and thinketh he is deliuered out of the hand of euil. 10. Thou (e) hast thought confusion to thy house, thou hast cut in sunder manie peoples, and thy soule hath sinned. 11. Because the stone out of the wal shal crie: and the timber, that is between the iunctures of the buildings, shal answer. 12. Woe to him that buildeth a citie in blouds, and prepareth a citie in iniquitie. 13. Why, are not these things from the Lord of hosts? For the peoples shal labour in much fire: and the nations in vaine, and they shal faynt. 14. Because the earth shal be replenished, that they may know the glorie of our Lord, as waters couering the sea. 15. Woe to him that giueth drinke to his freind, putting in his gal, and making drunke, that he may behold his nakednes. 16. Thou art filled with ignominie for glorie, drinke thou also, and be fast a sleepe: the cup of the right hand of our Lord shal compasse thee, and the vomite of ignominie vpon thy glorie. 17. Because the iniquitie of Libanus shal couer thee, & the wasting of the beasts shal terrifie them for the blouds of men, and the iniquitie of the land, and of the citie, and of al that dwel therein. 18. What profiteth the thing engrauen, that the forger therof hath grauen it, a molten, and a false image? because the forger therof hath hoped in his forgerie, to make dumme idols. 19. Woe vnto him that saith to wood: Awake: Arise, to the dumme stone. Why, can it teach? Behold, this same is couered with gold, and siluer: and there is no spirit in the bowels therof. 20. But our Lord is in his holie temple: let al the earth be silent at his presence.

THE PROPHECIE OF SOPHONIAS,

Sophonias prophesied the captiuitie of the two tribes, their relaxatiō, and Mysteries of Christ.

a) In saying the word of our Lord, the Prophets signifie that they are not the principal authours of that which they preach or writ, but the ministers by whom God speaketh. (b) Gathering more cōmonly signifieth a benefite, but by that which foloweth, from the face of the earth, it is manifest, that God here threatneth to destroy sinners, the Kingdom of Iuda.

SOPHONIAS the sonne of Chusi borne in Sarabatha of the tribe of Simeon, in the reigne of Iosias King of Iuda, some what before Ieremie (who began in the 13. yeare of the same Iosias. After whom folowed Ezechiel, in the first yeare of the transmigratiō of King Ioachim, and Baruch in the first yeare after the destruction of Ierusalem: then Daniel three yeares after him) prophesied the captiuitie of the two tribes, and their relaxation; likewise the ruine of diuers Gentils; the comming of Christ; conuersion of Gentils, excccatiō of the Iewes, with their general conuersion towards the end of the world.

And the cord of the sea shal be the rest of Pastours, and folds of cattel. 7. and it shal be the cord of him, that shal remayne of the house of Iuda, there they shal feed: in the houses of Ascalon at euen they shal rest: because our Lord their God wil visite them, and turne away their captiuitie. 8. I haue heard the reproch of Moab, and the blasphemies of the children of Ammon, with which they haue vpbroyded my people, and were magnified vpon their borders. 9. Therefore liue I, sayth the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, that Moab shal be as Sodom, and the children of Ammon as Gomorrha, drynes of thornes, and heaps of salt, and a desert euen for euer: the remnant of my people shal spoile them, and the residue of my nation shal possesse them. 10. This shal be fal them for their pride: because they haue blasphemed, and haue been magnified vpon the people of the Lord of hosts. 11. Our Lord shal be dreadful vpon them, and shal attenuate al the Gods of the earth: and they shal adore him euerie man out of his owne place, al the ilands of the Gentils. 12. Yea and you Æthiopians shal be slaine with my sword. 13. And he wil stretch forth his hand vpon the North, and wil destroy Assur: and he wil lay the Beautiful as a wilderness, and as a place not passable, and as a desert. 14. And flocks shal lie in the middes therof, al the beasts of the Gentils: and onocratulus, and the Irchin shal abide in the thresholds therof. the voice of one singing in the window, the rauon on the vpper post, because I wil attenuate her strength. 15. THE PROPHECIE OF AGGEVS.

Aggeus prophesied after the captiuitie, of Christ and his Church.

AGGEVS prophesying in the second yeare of Darius Hystaspis King of Persians, that is, in the 18. yeare after the relaxation from captiuitie of Babylon, exhorteth to reedifie the Temple, which had been begun & intermitted; promysing much prosperitie after the building thereof, and finally the coming of Christ desired of al nations; who by his presence wil glorifie this new temple, more then the former built by Salomon; and especially prophesieth the glorie of his Catholike Church, which shal much excel the Church of the old Testamēt.

You haue looked for more, and behold it became lesse, and you brought it into the house, and I puft at it: for what cause sayth the Lord of hosts? because my house is desert, and you hasten euerie man into his owne house. 10. For this cause were the heauens stayed ouer you that they gaue no dew, & the earth was prohibited that it yealded not her spring: 11. and I called a drought vpon the earth, and vpon the mountaines, & vpon the wheate, & vpon the wine, and vpon the oile, and what things soeuer the ground brought forth, and vpon men, and vpon beasts, and vpon al the labour of the hands. 12. And Zorababel the sonne of Salathiel, and Iesus the sonne of Iosedec the high Priest, and al the remnant of the people heard the voice of their God, and the words of Aggeus the Prophet, as our Lord their God sent him to them: and the people feared at the face of our Lord. 13. IN the eight month in the second yeare of King Darius the word of our Lord was made to Zacharie the sonne of Barachias, the sonne of Addo the Prophet, saying: Our Lord hath been wrath vpon your fathers with wrath. 3. And thou shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord of hosts: (a) Conuert to me, sayth the Lord of hosts, and I wil conuert to you, sayth the Lord of hosts. Be not as your fathers, to whom the former Prophets cried, saying: Thus saith the Lord of hosts: Conuert from your euil wayes, and from your most wicked thoughts : and they heard not , neither attended to me , sayth our Lord. 5. Your fathers where are they ? and the Prophets shal they liue for euer? 6. But yet my words, & mine ordinances, which I gaue in commandment to my seruants the Prophets , did they not take hold of your fathers, and they conuerred, and sayd : As the Lord of hosts thought to doe to vs according to our wayes, & according to our inuentions he hath done to vs. 7. In the foure and twentieth day of the eleuenth month Sabbath : in the second yeare of Darius , the word of our Lord was made to Zacharie the sonne of Barachias , the sonne of Addo , the Prophet , saying : 8. I saw by night , and behold (b) a man mounting vpon a red horse, and he stood among the myrtle-trees, that were in the botome : and after him horses red, speckled, and white. 9. And I sayd : What are these, my Lord ? and the Angel that spake in me, sayd to me: I wil shew thee what these things are. 10. And the man, that stood among the myrtle-trees answered, and said: These are they, whom our Lord sent to walke through the earth. 11. And they answered to the Angel of our Lord, which stood among the mirtle-trees, and sayd: We haue waiked through the earth, and loe al the earth is inhabited, & at rest. 12. And the Angel of our Lord answered , and sayd : O Lord of hosts, how long wilt thou not haue mercie on Ierusalem, & on the cities of Iuda, with which thou hast been angrie ? this now is (c) the seuentith yeare. 13. And our Lord answered the Angel that spake in me , good words, comfortable words. 14. And the Angel that spake in me , sayd to me: Crie, saying: Thus sayth the Lord of hosts: I haue been zelous for Ierusalem, and Sion with great zeale. 15. And with great anger am I angrie vpon the welthie nations : because I was angrie a litle, but they helped toward the euil. 16. Therefore thus saith our Lord : I wil returne to Ierusalem in mercies : my house shal be built in it , saith the Lord of hosts: & the plummeline shal be stretched forth vpon Ierusalem. 17. As yet crie thou saying : Thus saith the Lord of hosts: As yet shal my cities flow with good things : and the Lord wil yet comfort Sion, and he wil yet choose Ierusalem. 18. And I lifted vp mine eyes, and saw: and behold (d) foure hornes. 19. And I sayd to the Angel that spake in me : What are these: And he sayd to me : These are the hornes that haue scattered Iuda, and Israel, and Ierusalem. 20. And our Lord inewed me foure * artificers. 21. And I sayd : What come these to doe ? Who spake saying: These are the hornes, that scattered Iuda euerie man a-part, and none of them lifted his head : and these are come to fray them , to cast downe the hornes of the nations , that haue lifted the horne vpon the land of Iuda to scatter it.

(b) That this was an Angel in the shape of a man is manifest. v. 11.

(c) Seuentie yeares from the transmigration of Ioachim were complete in the first of Cyrus. Dan. 9.

Seuentie yeares were also complete from the destruction of the temple in the second of Darius Histaspis: & therefore the prophet now prayeth God to inspire such as were able, that they would build the temple againe.

(d) From foure parts of the world, to wit the Moabites & Ammonites on the east of Iurie; the Idumeans and Egyptians on the south; the Philisthiims on the west: & the Assirians and Chaldees on the North side, had much molested the Iewes; al which were therefore plagued & punished for the same.

C H A P. II.

Vnder the name of Ierusalem, he prophesieth the progresse of the Church of Christ: 6. by the conuersion of some Iewes, 8. and manie Gentils.

(a) According to S. Augustins rule in Psalm 71. when greater things are said then can be verified as the letter soundeth, the same is literally so to be understood of the thing prefigured. And so this prophetic perreyneth to the Church of Christ, rather then to the citie of Ierusalem. (b) O ye Gentils that remaine in confused Babylon of this world, fly from it into the Church. (c) And ye Iewes that haue fellowship with Babylon, leaue it, & serue God sincerely.

AND I lifted vp mine eyes, and saw : and loe a man, and in his hand a corde of measurers. 2. And I sayd: Whither goest thou? And he sayd to me: To measure (a) Ierusalem, and to see how great the breadth therof is, and how great the length therof. 3. And behold the Angel that spake in me, came forth, and an other Angel went out to meet him. 4. And he sayd to him: Runne, speake to this yong man saying: Without wal shal Ierusalem be inhabited for the multitude of men, and of beasts in the middes therof. 5. And I wil be to it, sayth our Lord, a wal of fire round about: and I wil be in glorie in the middes therot. 6. O (b) flye ye out of the land of the North, saith our Lord, because into the foure windes of heauen haue I disperfed you, sayth our Lord. 7. (c) O Sion, flye thou that dwellest with the daughter of Babylon: 8. because thus sayth the Lord of hostis: After glorie he sent me to the nations, that haue spoiled you: for he that shal touch you, toucheth the apple of myne eye: 9. because loe I lift vp my hand vpon them, and they shal be a praye to those that serued them: and you shal know that the Lord of hostis sent me. 10. Prayse, and reioyce O daughter of Sion: because loe I come, & wil dwel in the middes of thee, sayth our Lord. 11. And manie nations shal be ioyned to our Lord in that day, and they shal be my people, and I wil dwel in the middes of thee: and thou shal know that the Lord of hostis hath sent me to thee. 12. And our Lord wil possesse Iuda his portion in the sanctified land: and he wil yet choose Ierusalem. 13. Let al flesh be silent at the presence of our Lord: because he is risen vp out of his holie habitation.

In a vision the diuel appeareth accusing the high Priest. 4. He is cleansed from his finnes. 8. Christ is promised, and great fruite of his passion.

(a) Literally this vision perreyned to the high Priest of that time:

AND our Lord shewed me (a) Iesus the grand Priest standing before the Angel of our Lord: and Satan stood on his right hand, to be his aduersarie. 2. And our Lord sayd to Satan: The Lord giue rebuke on thee Satan: and the Lord that chose Ierusalem giue rebuke on thee: Why, is not this a fire-brand taken out of the fire? 3. And Iesus was clothed (b) with filthie garments: and he stood before the face of the Angel. 4. Who answered, and sayd to them that stood before him, saying: Take away the filthie garments from him. And he sayd to him: Behold I haue taken away thine iniquitie, and haue clothed thee with change of garments. 5. And he sayd: Put a cleane mitre vpon his head: and they put a cleane mitre vpon his head, and clothed him with garments: and the Angel of our Lord stood. 6. And the Angel of our Lord contested Iesus, saying: 7. Thus saith the Lord of hosts: If you wil walke in my wayes, and keepe my watch, thou also shalt iudge my house, and shalt keepe my courts, and I (c) wil giue thee walkers of them that now assist here. 8. Heare ô Iesus thou grand Priest, thou and thy freinds that dwel before thee, because they are portending men: for behold I WIL BRING (d) MY SERVANT THE ORIENT. 9. Because loe the stone that I layd before Iesus: vpon one stone there be seuen eyes, behold I I wil graue the grauing therof, sayth the Lord of hosts: and I wil take away the iniquitie of that land in one day. 10. In that day, sayth the Lord of hosts, euerie man shal cal his freind vnder the vine and vnder the fig-tree.

CHAP. III.

In a vision of a candlestike and candles, 3. and of two oliue-trees is prophecied the vocation of the Gentils, II. and lastly of the Iewes.

AND the Angel returned that spake in me: & he rayfed me vp, as a man that is rayfed out of his sleep. 2. And he sayd to me: What seest thou? And I sayd: I saw, & (a) loe (b) a candlesticke al of gold, & (c) the lampe therof vpon the head of it: and the (d) seuen lights therof vpon it: and seuen funnels for the lights, that were vpon the head therof. 3. And (e) two oliue-trees vpon it: one on the right hand of the lampe, and one on the left hand therof. 4. And I answered, and I sayd to the Angel that spake in me, saying: What are these things, my Lord? 5. And the Angel that spake in me answered, and sayd to me: Why, knowest thou not what these things are? And I sayd: No my Lord. 6. And he answered, & sayd to me, saying: This is the word of our Lord (f) to Zorobabel, saying: Not in an host, nor in strength: but in my spirit, sayth the Lord of hosts. 7. Who art thou ô great mountayne before Zorobabel? into a plaine: & he wil bring forth the principal stone, and wil make grace equal to the grace therof. 8. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: 9. The hands of Zorobabel haue founded this house,

For who hath despised litle dayes? and they shal reioyce, & shal see the stone of tinne in the hand of Zorobabel. These are the seuen eyes of our Lord, that runne through out the whole earth. 11. And I answered, and sayd to him: What are these two oliue-trees on the right hand of the candlestike, and on the left hand therof? 12. And I answered the second time, and sayd to him: What are the (g) two branches of oliue-trees, that are beside the two beaks of gold, in which are the funnels of gold? 13. And he sayd to me, saying: Why, knowest thou not what these are? And I sayd: No, my Lord. 14. And he sayd: These are two sonnes of oyle which assist the dominatour of the whole earth.

g) Two branches, the diuine & humane natures of Christ.

AND I turned and lifted vp myne eyes, and I saw, and (a) behold a volume (b) flying. 2. And he sayd to me: What seest thou? And I sayd: I see a volume flying: the length therof of twentie cubits, and the breadth therof of ten cubits. 3. And he sayd to me: This is the malediction, that goeth forth vpon the face of the earth: because euerie theef, as is there writen, shal be iudged: and euerie sweater, by it in like manner shal be iudged. 4. I wil bring it forth, sayth the Lord of hostes: and it shal come to the house of the theef, & to the house of him that sweareth by my name falsly: and it shal abide in the middes of his house, and shal consume it, & the timber therof, and the stones therof. 5. And the Angel went out that spake in me: and he sayd to me: Lift vp thine eyes, and see what is this, that goeth forth. 6. And I sayd: What is it? And he sayd: This is an amphore going forth. And he sayd: This is their eye in al the earth. 7. And behold a talent of lead was caried, and loe one woman sitting in the middes of the amphore. 8. And he sayd: This is impietic. And he threw her in the middes of the amphore, and cast a lumpe of lead vpon the mouth therof. 9. And I lifted vp mine eyes, and saw: and behold (c) two women comming forth, and spirit in the wings of them, and they had wings as the wings of a kite: and they lifted vp the amphore between the earth and the heauen. 10. And I sayd to the Angel that spake in me: Whither doe these carie the amphore? 11. And he sayd to me: That a house may be built for it in the land (d) of Sennaar, and it may be established, and set there vpon the foundation therof.

In a vision of chariots is foresbewed the succession of foure monarchies. 11. In crownes set on the high Priests head, the Kingdom and Priesthood of Christi: 15. and the rewards of them that receiue him.

AND I turned, and lifted vp mine eyes, and saw : and behold (a) foure chariots coming forth from the middes of two mountaines, and the mountaines, mountaines of brassie. 2. In the first chariot red horses, and in the second chariot black horses, 3. and in the third chariot white horses, and in the fourth chariot speckled horses, and strong. 4. And I answered, and sayd to the Angel, that spake in me : What are these things, my Lord? 5. And the Angel answered, and sayd to me : These are the foure winds of heauen, which goe forth to stand before the Dominatour of al the earth. 6. That in which were the blacke horses went forth into the land of the North, and the white went forth after them : and the speckled went forth to the land of the South. 7. But they that were strongest, went-out, and sought to goe, and to runne about through-out al the earth. And he sayd : Goe walke through-out the earth, and they walked through-out the earth. 8. And he called me, & spake to me, saying : Behold, they that goe forth into the land of the North, haue made my spirit to rest in the land of the North. 9. And the word of our Lord was made to me, saying : 10. Take of the transmigration of Holdai, and of Tobias, and of Idaias : and thou shalt come in that day, and shalt enter into the house of Iosias, the sonne of Sophonias, who came out of Babylon. 11. And thou shalt take gold and siluer: and shalt make crownes, & thou shalt set on the head of Iesus the sonne of Iosedec the grand Priest, 12. and thou shalt speake to him, saying : Thus sayth the Lord of hosts, (b) saying : BEHOLD A MAN, ORIENT IS HIS NAME : and vnder him shal spring vp, & shal build a temple to our Lord. 13. And he shal build a temple to our Lord : and shal beare glorie, and shal sit, and rule vpon his throne : and he shal be a Priest vpon his throne, and the counsel of peace shal be between them two. 14. And the crownes shal be to Helem, and Tobias, and Idaias, and Hem, the sonne of Sophonias, a memorial in the temple of our Lord. 15. And they that are far, shal come, and shal build in the temple of our Lord : and you shal know that the Lord of hosts sent me to you. But this shal be, if hearing you wil heare the voice of our Lord your God.

The fast of the first and seventh month obserued in the captiuitie, being good,
5. was vnperfect, 8. fasting from sinne is alwayes more necessarie.

AND it came to passe in the fourth yeare of Darius the King, the word of our Lord was made to Zacharie, in the fourth of the ninth month, which is Casleu. 2. And Sarasar, and Rogommelech, and the men that were with him, sent to the house of God, to beseech the face of our Lord: 3. that they should say to the priests of the house of the Lord of hosts, and to the Prophets, saying: Must I weep in (a) the fifth month, or must I sanctifie myself as now I haue done manie yeares? 4. And the word of the Lord of hosts was made to me, saying: Speake to al the people of the land, and to the Priests, saying: When you fasted, and mourned in the fifth and the seventh for these seuentie yeares: (b) did you fast a fast vnto me? 6. And when you did eate & drinke, did you not eate for your selues, & drinke for your selues? 7. Why, are they not the words, which our Lord spake in the hand of the former Prophets, when Ierusalem as yet was inhabited, & was welthie, it seif and the cities round about it, & toward the South, & in the champaine there was dwelling? 8. And the word of our Lord was made to Zacharie, saying: 9. Thus sayth the Lord of hosts, saying: (c) Iudge ye true Iudgement, and doe ye mercie, and miserationes currie man with his brother. 10. And the widow, and the pupil, and the stranger, and the poore doe not calumniate: and let not a man thinke in his hart euil to his brother. 11. And they would not attend, and they turned away the shoulder departing: and they aggrauated their eares, not to heare. 12. And they made their hart as the adamant, lest they should heare the law, and the words which the Lord sent in his spirit by the hand of the former Prophets: and there was great indignation made from the Lord of hosts. 13. And it came to passe as he spake, and they heard not: so shal they crie, and I wil not heare, sayth the Lord of hosts. 14. And I dispersed them throughout al Kingdoms, which they know not: and the land was left desolate of them; for that there was none passing and returning: and the land to be desired they layd into a desert.

God wil giue aboundance of spiritual benefits to al nations by Christ: 7. so whom shal be conuerred 13. manie Iewes, 20. but manie more Gentils.

AND the word of the Lord of hosts was made, saying: 2. Thus sayth the Lord of hosts: I haue been ielous for Sion with great zeale, & with great indignatiō haue I been ielous for it. 3. Thus sayth the Lord of hosts: (a) I am returned to Siō, & I wil dwel in the middes of Ierusalē: & Ierusalem shal be called the Citie of truth, & the mount of the Lord of hosts, the sanctified mount. 4. Thus sayth the Lord of hosts: As yet shal old men dwel, & old women in the streets of Ierusalem: & euerie mā's staffe in his hand for multitude of yeares. 5. And the streets of the citie shal be filled with infants, & girles playing in the streets therof. 6. Thus sayth the Lord of hosts: If it shal seeme hard in the eyes of the remnant of this people in those dayes: Why, shal it be hard in mine eyes, sayth the Lord of hosts? 7. Thus sayth the Lord of hosts: Behoid. I wil saue my people from the land of (b) the East, and from the land of the going downe of the sunne. 8. And I wil bring them, and they shal dwel in the middes of Ierusalem: & they shal be my people, & I wil be their God in truth & in iustice. 9. Thus sayth the Lord of hosts: Let your hands be strengthened, you that heare in these dayes these words by the mouth of the Prophets in the day, that the house of the Lord of hosts was founded, that the tēple might be built. 10. For before those dayes there was no hyre for men, neither was there hyre for beasts, neither was there peace to the cōmer in, nor goer out for tribulation: & I did let goe al men, euerie one against his neighbour. 11. But now not according to the former dayes wil I doe to the remnant of this people, sayth the Lord of hosts. 12. But the seed of peace shal be: the vine shal giue his fruit, and the earth shal giue her spring, & the heanens shal giue their dew: & I wil make the remnant of this people to possesse al these things. 13. And it shal be: as you were a malediction among the Gentils, ô house of Iuda, & house of Israel: so wil I saue you, & you shal be a benediction: feare not, let your hands be strengthened. 14. Because thus sayth the Lord of hosts: As I purposed to afflict you, when your fathers had prouoked me to wrath sayth our Lord, 15. and I had no mercie: so conuerting I haue meant in these dayes to doe good to the house of Iuda, and Ierusalem: feare not. 16. These then are the words, which you shal doe: Speake ye truth, euerie one with his neighbour: truth and iudgement of peace iudge ye in your getes. 17. And thinke ye not euerie man in your hart euil against his freind: & lying o the loue ye not: for al these things are such

Thus sayth the Lord of hosts, vntil peoples come, & dwell in manie cities, 21. and the inhabitants goe, one to an other, saying: Let vs goe, & beseech the face of our Lord, & let vs seek the Lord of hosts: I also wil goe. 22. And manie peoples shall come, & strong nations to seek the Lord of hosts in Ierusalem, & to beseech the face of our Lord. 23. Vpon the Pastours my furie is wrath, and vpon the buckgoats I wil visite: because the Lord of hosts hath visited his flocke, the house of Iuda, and hath made them as the horse of his glorie in the battel. 4. Of him the corner, of him the pinne, of him the bow of battel, of him shal come forth euerie exactour together. 5. Ierusalem shal be againe most miserably destroyed, a. the Tewish nation reiected and dispersed, 12. because Christ was sold by them to the Gentils for thirtie pence. 16. They wil receiue Antichrist, who shal be finally destroyed.

PEN thy gates (a) ô Libanus, and let fyre deuour thy ceders. 2. Howle thou firre-tree, because the cedar is fallen, because the magnificent are wasted: howle ye okes of Basan, because the fenced Forrest is cut downe. 3. Thus sayth our Lord my God: Feed thou the cattel of slaughter, 5. which they that possessed, slew, and were not sorie, & they sold them, saying: Blessed be our Lord, we are become rich: & their Pastours spared them not. 6. And I wil spare no more vpon the inhabitants of the earth, sayth our Lord: behold I wil deliuer men, euerie one in his neighbours hand, and in the hand of his King: and they shal cut the land in pieces, & I wil not deliuer it out of their hand. 7. And I wil feed the catel of slaughter for this, ô ye poore of the flocke: and I tooke vnto me two rods, one I called (b) Beautie, and the other I called (c) Corde: and I fed the flock. 8. And I cut off three Pastours in one month, and my soule shrunke together at them: for their soule also varied on me. 9. And I sayd: I wil not feed you: that which dieth, let it dye: and that which is cut off, be it cut off: and let the rest deuour euerie one his neighbours flesh. 10. and I tooke my rod that was called beautie, & I cut it off to make voyd my couenāt, which I made with al peoples. 11. And it was made voyd in that day: and so the poore of the flock that keep for me, vnderstood that it is the word of the Lord. 12. And I sayd to them: If it be good in your eyes,

And I tooke (d) the thirtie pieces of siluer: & I threw them into the house of our Lord to the statuarie. 14. And I (e) cut off my second rod, that was called Corde, that I might dissolue the brotherhood between Iuda and Israel. 15. And our Lord wil goe forth, and wil fight against those nations, as he fought in the day of conflict. 4. And his feet shal stand in that day vpon the mount of oliues, which is against Ierusalem toward the East: and the mount of oliues shal be clouen by the halfe part therof to the East, and to the West with a stiepe rupture exceeding great, and halfe of the mountayne shal be separated to the North, and halfe therof to the South. 5. THE PROPHECIE OF MALACHIE.

v. 7. &
c. 3. v. 7.

MALACHIE (whom S. Ierom, and some others thinke to be Esdras) prophesied last of the twelue, after that the temple was reedified. He reprehendeth both Priests, and people, for that they did not offer their sacrifices with sinceritie; foresheweth the reiection of the Iewes, and calling of the Gentils by Christ. Before whose first comming shal be one Precursor: and an other before his last comming to iudge.

phetic.

CHAP. I.

God shewed his especial loue towards the Iewes, in that he chose their progeni-tour Iacob, rather then Esau. 7. Priests are reprehended, for not offering the best things in sacrifice. 10. The old sacrifices shal be reiected, and new farre more excellent shal be offered in al nations.

10. I haue no wil in you.) Manie Prophets (as we haue often noted) did foreſhew the reiection of the Iewes, and vocation of the Gentils: but none more plainly then this here, by whom God expreſly ſayth: I haue no wil in you: and I wil not receiue guiſt of your hand. The reaſon is alſo explicated in this chapter, becauſe God moſt peculiarly louing them, they were ſtil vngrateful, & diſpiſed him, committing ſinnes vpon ſinnes. And therefore in their place, he would bring in the Gentils: and that not anie one, or few nations, but al from the riſing of the ſunne, to the going downe therof, ſhould ſooner or later come into his Church.

11. In euerie place there is ſacrificing.) God not only changed, and multiplied his people, but alſo changed, and bettered his Sacrifice. Which accordingly our Blessed Redeemer and Sauour instituted, of his owne bodie & blood, in the formes of bread and wine As al ancient Fathers proue, by this place amongst others. So S. For that here is prophecied an other Sacrifice, distinct and different from the Iewes sacrifices: neither were sacrifices offered in al the world, neither could be ordinarily offered out of Ierusalem. But of this most sacred Mysterie, and particularly that it is here prophecied, there is so much published by auncient and late writers, that more needeth not to be here added.

Proued by the fathers. And reasons deduced from the scriptures.

(a) Priests coueting & scrapping riches doe greatly dishonour God: diminish the estimation of holy Sacraments & other rites, as though they were temporal to be bought & sold for money, and so doe scandalize the weak.

(b) Such are happie if God by suffering the to be spoiled, recal the to repentance. For otherwise they wil be deprived of eternal reward, as being prayed their wages already in this world. These our Sauour calleth Hyrellings, not true Passions. 10a. 10.

(c) The proper office of Priests besides the administration of Sacraments is also to teach the people true doctrine: (d) as vs? why then doth euerie one of vs despise his brother, violating the couenant of our fathers? 11. Iuda hath transgressed, and abomination was done in Israel, and in Ierusalem: because Iudas hath contaminated the sanctification of our Lord, which he loued, and hath had the daughter of a strange God. 12. Our Lord wil destroy the man, that hath done this, the master, and the scholer out of the tabernacles of Iacob, and him that offereth guift to the Lord of hosts. 13. And this agayne haue you done, you couered the altar of the Lord with teares, with weeping, and howling, so that I haue respect no more to sacrifice, neither doe I accept any placable thing at your hand. 14. And you haue sayd: For what cause? because the Lord hath testified between thee, and the wife of thy youth, whom thou hast despised: and she thy partaker, and the wife of thy couenant. 15. Did not one make, and the residue of the spirit is his? And what doth one seeke, but the seed of God? Keepe then your spirit, and the wife of thy youth despise thou not. 16. When thou shalt hate, distnisse, sayth our Lord the God of Israel: but iniquitie shal couer his garment, faith the Lord of hosts, keep ye your spirit, and doe not despise. 17. You haue in your words made our Lord to labour: and you sayd: Wherein haue we made him to labour? In that you say: Euerie one that doth euil, is good in the sight of our Lord, and such please him: or certes where is the God of iudgement?

THE BOOK OF
 PERTEYNING
 PART OF THE OLD TESTAMENT.

THE ARGUMENT OF THE BOOKS OF MACHABEES, WITH OTHER
 proœmial Annotations.

BEFORE we declare the contents, the reader perhaps wil require to know, why they are called the Books of MACHABEES: how manie they be; who writ them; in what language, and especially whether al, or anie, or which of them are Canonical scripture? For satisfaction of al Which-demands, distinguishing between certaine and vncertaine, we shal briefly shew that which seemeth more probable in the doubtful points, and the assured certaintie of that which is decided by the Catholike Church of Christ. Concerning therefore the name & inscription, S. Ierom very probably supposeth that these Books have their title of Iudas MACHABEVS; the narration of whose heroical vertues and noble Actes occupieth the greatest part of this whole historie. And this surname Machabeus signifying valient of strength (or by an vsual hebrew contraction, Mobi, more explicated, Milchamach Coach bihuda, that is, Force of battel, or Strength in Iuda) was giuen him by his father Mathathias, when before his death asposing of his sonnes and exhorting them, he sayd to them al : You my sonnes take courage, & doe manfully in the law, because in it you shal be glorious. And behold Simon your brother I know that he is a man of counsel : heare ye him alwayes, and he shal be father to you. Next he addeth : And Iudas Machabeus, valient of strength from his youth, let him be to you the Prince of warfayre, and he shal manage the battel of the people. And from him this name was also ascribed to his brethren, and to al the rest that ioyned with them either in the holie warres, or otherwise shewed their valure, professing Gods Law in spiritual combate euen to death. As Nicetas writeth in Orat. 22. S. Greg. Nazian. Wherupon old Eleazarus and the seuen yong brethren, with their mother, are also called Machabees.

Proœmial questions touching these books,

They are called Machabees of Iudas Machabeus. Iudas had this surname for his strength and valour.

Others also called Machabees

There be foure books. Writte by vncertaine Autours. The two last are not Canonical.

Iewes & Protestantes denie also these two first. Their arguments.

Answers.

Approted by Councils.

And by Ancient Fathers.

There be in al, foure Books called Machabees. The first S. Ierom found in Hebrew, the second in Greeke, as he testifieth Epist. 106. The third is also extant in Greeke, and Latin in Bibliis Complurensibus. The fourth seemeth to be that which is mentioned in the end of the first Book. And either the same, or an other vnder that title, is also extant in Greeke, as testifieth Sixtus Senensis li. 1. Bibliotheca. Who writ them is more vncertaine : but most probable euerie one had a diuers authour. Neither are the two last approued for Canonical by anie authentical authoritie.

It resteth therefore to speake of the two first, which the Iewes and Protestantes denie, because they are not in the Hebrew Canon. The Protestantes further alleading that they are not in the former Canon of the Church before S. Ieroms time. Moreouer obiecting certaine places of these Books, which they say, are contrarie to sound doctrine, and to the truth of other authentical histories, or contradictorie in themselues. None of which things can preceede from the Holie Ghost, the principal authour of al Diuine Scriptures. Al which texts we shal more conueniently explicate, according to their true sense, in their proper places. As for the exception, that these Books are not in the Canon of the Iewes, it is answered already (Præf. Tobie) that the Canon of the Christian Catholike Church is of souereigne authoritie, though the Iewes Canon haue them not. Finally wheras these Books were not canonized in the former General Councils, it sufficeth that they are since declared to be Canonical, and Diuine Scripture, as some other parts haue likewise been, which English Protestantes doe not denie. As the Epistle of S. Iames, the second of S. Peter, the second and third of S. Iohn, and S. Iudes epistle : of al which Eusebius, and S. Ierom testifie, that some learned Fathers doubted sometimes, whether they were Apostolical or no. But afterwards the same, with these two Books of Machabees, and others, were expressly declared to be Diuine Scripture by the third Council of Carthage, can. 47. By the Council of seuentie Bishops vnder Gelasius, though by the name of one Book, as also Esdras and Nehemias as but one Book. Lastly, by the Councils of Florence and Trent.

If anie further require the iudgement of more ancient Fathers, diuers doe alleaage these Books as Diuine Scriptures. S. Dyonise, c. 2. celest. Hierar. S.

Gregorie Nazianzen hath a whole Oration of the seven Machabees Martyrs and their mother. S. Ambrose li. 1. c. 41. Offic. But to omite others, albeit S. Ierom vrged not these Books against the Iewes, yet he much esteemed them, as appeareth in his commentaries vpon Daniel. c. 1. 11. & 12. S. Augustin most cleerly auoucheth li. 2. c. 8. de doct. christ. & li. 18. c. 36. de ciuit. that notwithstanding the Iewes denie these Books, the Church holdeth them Canonical. And whereas one Gaudentius an heretike alleadged for defense of his heresie the example of Razias, who slew himself, 2. Mach. 14. S. Augustin denieth not the authoritie of the Book, but discuffeth the fact, and admoniseth that it is not vnprofitably receiued by the Church; si sobrie legatur, vel audiatur: if it be read, or heard soberly. Which was a necessarie admonition to those Donatistes, who not vnderstanding the holie Scriptures, deprauid them (as S. Peter speaketh of like heretikes, ep. 2. c. 3.) to their owne perdition.

Now touching the contents, a great part of the same historie, which is written in the former Book, is repeated in the second, with such varietie of some things added, some omitted, as in the Books of Kings and Paralipomenon: and as the Gospel is written by the foure Euangelistes. Ioyning therefore these two Books together, the Concordance thereof conteyneth foure principal parts: The Preface, the Historie, an Appendix, and the Conclusion. But the three former parts are very extraordinarily disposed. For the writer of the second Book (who doubtles was a distinct person from him that writ the former) first of all added an Appendix to the historie (written before) making mention of two Epistles, and reciting the summe of one of them, in the first chapter and part of the second, as though he meant to haue writ no more of the same matter. But then, as it may seeme vpon new resolution, intending to abridge the historical Books of Iason, maketh a preface to his works, in the rest of that second chapter. And so prosecuteth his purpose: and finally maketh a brieue conclusion in the three last verses of the same second Book. The mayne historie conteyneth two special parts. The first sheweth the state of Gods peculiar people, the Iewish nation, from the beginning of the Grecian Monarchie, parted after the death of Alexander amongst his folowers: of which some did exceedingly persecute the Iewes, by diuers both subtle and cruel meanes, to the ruine of manie, and euen to death and martyrdom of some most constant obseruers of Gods Lawes, and true Religion, til the warres of the Machabees, in the first chapter of the first Book, and in the 3. 4. 5. 6. & 7. chapters of the second Book. In the other fifteen chapters of the former Book, and other eight of the second, are described the battles, victories, and triumphes of the valient Machabees. Of which holie warres Mathathias was the beginner and first captaine: Iudas the second: the third Ionathas: and Simon the fourth: after whose death his sonne Iahn Hyrcanus succeeded Duke and Hiegh-Priest.

And Alexander reigned twelue yeares, & he died. 9. And his seruants possessed the Kingdō, euerie one in his place: 10. and they did al put crownes on them after his death, & their sōnes after thē manie yeares, & euils were multiplied in the earth*. 11. And there came forth of thē a sinful roote Antiochus (c) Illustre, the sonne of King Antiochus, that had been at Rome an hostage: & he reigned in (d) the hundreth & seuen & thirtith yeare of the Kingdome of the Greeks, 12. In those dayes there went forth of Israel wicked children, & perswaded manie, saying: Let vs goe, and make a couenant with the Gētils, that are about vs: because since we departed from thē manie euils haue found vs. 13. And the talke seemed good in their eyes. 14. And some of the people determined, & went to the King: & he gaue them leaue to doe the iustice of the Gentils. 15. And they built a schoole in Ierusalem, according to the lawes of the Nations: 16. and they made to themselues prepuces, and reuolted from the holie testament, and were ioyned to the Nations, and were solde to doe euil.*

17. And the Kingdom was prepared in the sight of Antiochus, and he began to reigne in the land of Ægypt, that he might reigne ouer two Kingdoms. 18. And he entred into Ægypt with great multitude, with chariots, and elephants, & horsemen, and a copious multitude of ships: 19. And he made warre agaynst Ptolomee the King of Ægypt, & Ptolomee was afrayd at his presence, and fled, and manie fel wounded. 20. And he tooke the fenced cities in the land of Ægypt: and he tooke the spoiles of the land of Ægypt.*

21. And Antiochus turned, after he strucke Ægypt in the hundreth and three and fourtith yeare: and he went vp to Israel, 22. and went vp to Ierusalem with a great multitude. 23. And he entred into (f) the sanctification with pride, & tooke the golden altar, & the candlesticke of light, & al the vessels therof, & the table of proposition, and the laboratories, and the phials, and the litle morters of gold, and the veyle, & the crownes, and the golden ornament, that was in the face of the temple: & he brake al into pieces. 24. And he tooke the siluer and gold, & the considerable vessels: and he tooke the hidden treasures which he found: & carying away he departed into his owne lād. 25. And he made a slaughter of men, and spake in great pride. 26. And great lamentation was made in Israel, and in euerie place of theirs: 27. and the Princes, and the ancients mourned, and the yong men, and the virgins were weakned, & the beautifulnes of the women was changed. 28. Euerie husband tooke lamentation: and the women that sate in the marriage bed mourned: 29. and the land was moued vpon the inhabitāts therein, & al the house of Iacob did put on confusion. 30. And the inhabitants of Ierusalem fled by reason of them, and it became the habitation of strangers , and she became stranger to her owne seed, and her children forsooke her. 41. Her sanctification was desolate as a wildernes , her festiual dayes were turned into mourning, her sabbaths into reproch, her honours into naught. 42. According to her glorie was her ignominie multiplied , and her highnes was turned into mourning. 43. And King Antiochus (k) wrote to al his Kingdō, that al the people should be one : and euerie one should leaue his owne law. 44. And al Nations consented according to the word of King Antiochus, 45. & manie of Israel consented to his seruice, & they sacrificed to idols, & defiled the sabbath. 46. And the King sent Books by the hands of messengers into Ierusalé, & into al the cities of Iuda: that they should folow the law of the Nations of the earth, 47. and should prohibite holocausts & sacrifices, & placations to be made in the temple of God , 48. and should prohibite the sabbath to be celebrated, & the solemne dayes. 49. And he cōmanded the holie places to be defiled, & the holie people of Israel. 50. And he commanded altars to be built, and temples, and idols, & swines flesh to be immolated , and common beasts, 51. and to leaue their children vncircumcised , and their soules to be contaminated in al vncleanesses, and abominations, so that they should forget the law, and should change al the iustifications of God. 52. And whofoeuer had not done according to the word of King Antiochus, they should dye. 53. According to al these words wrote he to al his Kingdom : & he appoynted Princes ouer the people, that should force these things to be done. 54. And they commanded the cities of Iuda to sacrifice. 55. And manie of the people were gathered to them, they that had forsaken the law of our Lord: and they did euils vpon the land: 59. and they chased forth the people of Israel in hidden corners, and in the secret places of fugitiues. 57. The fifteenth day of the month Casleu, the hundreth siue and fourtith yeare King Antiochus (l) built the abominable idol of desolatiō vpō the altar of God, and throughout al the cities of Iuda round about they builded altars: 58. and before the gates of houses , and in the streets they burnt Manie are slaine not resisting in battel on the sabbath dayes. 40. Vpon further consideration the rest defend themselves in the sabbath; 45. kil their enimies, and destroy idolatrie. 49. Mathathias dying exhorteth his sonnes to be zelous in the law : 65. appoynting Simon their counseler, and Iudas their capitaine.

IN those dayes arose Mathathias the sonne of Iohn, the sonne of Simeon, Priest of the sonnes of Ioarib from Ierusalem, & he fate in the mountayne of Modin : 2. and he had five sonnes, Iohn who was surnamed Gad-dis: 3. and Simō, who was surnamed Thasi: 4. and Iudas, who was called Machebeus: 5. and Eleazar, who was surnamed Abaron: and Jonathan, who was surnamed Apphus. 6. These saw the euils, that were done in the people of Iuda, and in Ierusalem. 7. And Mathathias sayd: Woe is me, wherfore was I borne to see the affliction of my people, and the affliction of the holie citie, and to sit there, when it is giuen in the hands of the enimies? 8. The holie places are come into the hand of strangers: the temple therof as an ignoble man. 9. The vessels of her glorie are caried away captiue: her old men are murdered in the streets, and her yong men are fallen by the sword of the enemies. 10. What nation hath not inherited her Kingdom, and hath not obteyned her spoiles? 11. Al her beautie is taken away. She that was free, is made a seruant. 12. And loe our holies, and our beautie, and our glorie is desolate, and the Nations haue defiled them. 13. Where to then is it for vs yet to liue? 14. And Mathathias rent his garments, and his sonnes: and they couered themselues with haire-cloths, and lamented exceedingly. 15. And there came thither they that were sent from King Antiochus, to compel them that were fled into the citie of Modin, to immolate and to burne frankincense, & to depart from the law of God. 16. And manie of the people of Israel consenting came to them: but Mathathias, & his sonnes stood constantly. 17. And they that were sent from Antiochus answering sayd to Mathathias: Thou art the Prince, and most honourable, and great in this citie, and adorned with sonnes, and brethren. 18. Therefore come thou first, and doe the Kings commandment, as al Nations haue done, and the men of Iuda, and they that are remayning in Ierusalem: & thou shalt be & thy sonnes among the Kings freinds, and amplified with gold, and siluer, and manie guits. 19. And Mathathias answered, & sayd with a loude voice: Although al Nations obey King Antiochus, that euerie man reuolt from the seruice of the law of his fathers, and consent to his commandments: 20. I and my sonnes, & my brethren wil obey the law of our fathers. 21. God be merciful vnto vs: it is not profitable for vs to forsake the law, and the iustices of God: 22. we wil not heare the words of King Antiochus, neither wil we sacrifice, transgressing the commandments of our law, to goe an other way. 23. And as he ceased to speake these words, there came a certayne Iew in the eyes of al to sacrifice to the idols vpon the altar in the citie of Modin, according to the Kings commandment. 24. And Mathathias saw, & was sorie, and his reynes trembled, and his furie was kindled (b) according to the iudgement of the law, and flying vpon him he slew him vpon the altar: 25. yea and the man, whom King Antiochus had sent, which compelled them to immolate, he slew in that verie time, & destroyed the altar, 26. and zeled the law, as did Phinees to Zamri the sonne of Salomi. 27. And Mathathias cried out with a loud voice in the citie, saying: Euerie one that hath zeale of the law, establishing his testament, let him come forth after me. 28. And he fled himself, & his sonnes into the mountaynes, and left al things whatsoever they had in the citie. 29. Then came downe manie seeking iudgement, and iustice, into the desert: 30. and they sare there themselues, and their children, and their wiues, & their cattel: because the euils ouerflowed vpon them. 31. And it was reported to the Kings men, and to the armie that was in Ierusalem in the citie of Dauid, that certayne men which dissipated the Kings commandment, were departed into secret places in the desert, & manie were gone after them. 32. And forthwith they went forwards towards them,

& set battel against them in the day of the Sabbaths, 33. & they sayd to them: Doe you resist now also as yet? come forth: and doe according to the word of King Antiochus, and you shal liue. 34. And they sayd: We wil not come forth, neither wil we doe the Kings word, to pollute the day of the Sabbaths. 35. And they hastred battel against them. 36. And they answered them not, neither did they cast a stone at them, nor stopped the secret places, 37. saying: (c) Let vs dye al in our simplicitie: and heauen & earth shal be witnesses, vpon vs that you vniustly destroy vs. 38. And they gaue them battel on the Sabbaths: & there died they, & their wiues, & their children, & their cattel euen to a thousand souls of men. 39. And Mathathias vnderstood it and his freinds, and they had lamentation vpon them exceedingly. 40. And euerie man sayd to his neighbour: If we shal al doe as our brethren haue done, and shal not fight against the heathen for our liues, and our iustifications: now wil they quickly destroy vs frō the earth. 41. And they thought in that day, saying: Euerie man whosoever shal come vnto vs in battel on the day of the Sabbaths, let vs fight against him: & we wil not al dye, as our brethren died in secret places. 42. Then was there gathered to them the synagogue of (f) the Assideans strong of force out of Israel, euerie voluntarie in the law: 43. and al that fled from the euils, were added to them, and were made a strength to them. 44. And they gathered an armie, & strucke the sinners in their wrath, and the wicked men in their indignation: & the rest fled to the nations to escape. 45. And Mathathias went round about, & his freinds, and they destroyed the altars: 46. & they circumcised the vncircumcised children, as manie as they found in the coasts of Israel: and in strength. 47. And they persecuted the children of pride, and the worke prospered in their hands: 48. and they obteyned the law out of the hands of the nations, and out of the hands of the Kings: and they gaue not the horne to the sinner. 49. And the dayes of Mathathias approached to dye, & he sayd to his sonnes: Now is pride strengthened, & chastisement, & the time of subuersion, & the wrath of indignation: 50. Now therefore o my sonnes, be ye emulatours of the law, & giue your liues for the testament of your fathers. 51. And remember the works of the fathers, which they haue done in their generations, & you shal receiue great glorie, and an eternal name. 52. Abraham was he not in tentation found faythful, and it was reputed to him vnto iustice? 53. Ioseph in the time of his distresse kept the commandment, & he was made Lord of Egypt. 54. Phinees our father, feruent in the zeale of God, receiued the testament of an euerlasting Priesthood. 55. Iesus whiles he accōplished the word, was made the Duke in Israel. 56. Caleb whiles he testifieth in the Church, receiued an inheritance. 57. Dauid in his mercie obteyned the seate of the Kingdom for euer. 58. Elias whiles he zealeth the zeale of the law, was receiued into heauen. 59. Ananias and Azarias & Misael belicuing, were deliuered out of the flame. 60. Daniel in his simplicitie was deliuered out of the lions mouth. 61. And to thinke ye through generation & generation: that al that hope in him, are not weakned. 62. And of the words of the sinful man be not afrayd: because his glorie is dung, and worme: 63. to day he is extolled, and to morow he shal not be found: because he is turned into his earth, & his cogitation is perished. 64. You therefore my sonnes take courage, and doe manfully in the law: because in it you shal be glorious. 65. (e) And behold Simon your brother, I know that he is a man of counsel: heare ye him alwayes, and he shal be a father to you. 66. And Iudas Machabeus valiant of strength from his youth, let him be to you the Prince of warfare, and he shal manage the battel of the people. 67. And you shal bring to you al the doers of the law: and reuenge ye the reuenge of your people. 68. Repay retribution to the Gentiles, & attend to the precept of the law. 69. And he blessed them, and was layd to his fathers. 70. And he died the hundreth & six and fourtith yeare, and he was buried by his sonnes in the sepulchers of his fathers in Modin, and al Israel lamented him with great lamentation.

e) In al affayres order is of singular importance, that euerie office be designed to fittest persons. As here Mathathias appointed Simon the chiefe for determinig matters in counsel, & Iudas the first for execution, & that the rest should obey these two, and ech of these the other in his office.

And he dilated glorie to his people, & put on him a brigantine as a giant, and girded about him his warlie armour in battels, and protected the campe with his sword. 4. He became like a lion in his actes, and as a lions whelp roaring in hunting. 5. And he persecuted the wicked enquiring the out, & such as troubled his people, them he burnt with fyre: 6. and his enemies were repelled for feare of him, al the workers of iniquitie were troubled: and saluation was directed in his hand. 7. And he exasperated manie Kings, & reioyced Iacob in his works, & for euer his memorie is in benediction. 8. And he walked through the cities of Iuda, & destroyed the impious out of them, & turned away wrath from Israel. 9. And he was renowned euen to the vttermoost part of the earth, and he gathered them that perished. * 10. him : and he struck, and killed him : and there fel manie wounded, & the rest fled away. 12. And he tooke the spoiles of them, and the sword of Apollonius Iudas tooke away, and he fought with it al his dayes. 13. And (c) Seron capitaine of the armie of Syria heard that Iudas gathered a congregation of the faithful, and an assemblie with him, 14. and he sayd : I wil make me a name, and wil be glorified in Kingdom, and wil ouerthrow Iudas, and those that are with him, that despised the word of the King. 15. And he prepared himself : and there went vp with him a campe of the impious strong helpers, to doe vengeance vpon the children of Israel. 16. And they approched enen as far as Bethoron : & Iudas went forth to meet him with few. 17. But as they saw the armie cōming to meete them, they sayd to Iudas : How shal we a few be able to fight against so great a multitude & so strong, and we are wearied with fasting to day? 18. And Iudas sayd : It is an easie matter for manie to be inclosed in the hand of few, & (d) there is no difference in the sight of the God of heauen to deliuer in manie, & in few. 19. Because not in the multitude of the armie is the victorie of battel, but frō heauen is the strēgth. 20. They come to vs in an obstinate multitude, & in pride, to destroy vs, & our wiues, & our children, and to spoile vs. 21. But we wil fight for our liues, & our lawes : 22. & our Lord himself wil destroy them before our face, but you feare them not. 23. And as he ceased to speake, he flew vpon them sudenly : & Seron was destroyed, & his host in his light : 24. & he pursued him in the descēt of Bethoron euen to the playne, & there fel of them eight hundred men, & the rest fled into the land of the Philisthiims. 25. And the feare of Iudas & of his brethren, & the dread fel vpon al the nations round about them. 26. And his name came to the King, & al nations told of the battels of Iudas. 27. And as King Antiochus heard these words he was wrath in his mind : & he sent, & gathered the armie of al his Kingdom, a campe exceeding strong : 28. and he opened his treasurie, and gaue wages to the armie for a yeare : and he commanded them, that they should be readie at al assayes. 29. And he saw that money fayled out of his treasures, & the tributes of the region smal, because of (e) the dissension, and (f) the plague, that he had made in the land, to take away the ordinances, that were from the first dayes : 30. and he feared lest he should not haue as once and twise, for costs & gifts, which he had giuen before with a large hand : & he had abounded about the Kings, that had been before him. 31. And he was exceedingly astonished in mind, and purposed to goe into Persis, and to take the tributes of the regions, and to gather much siluer. 32. And he left Lysias a noble man of the blood royal, ouer the Kings affayres, from the riuier Euphrates euen to the riuier of Egypt : 33. and that he should bring vp Antiochus his sonne, til he returned. 34. And he deliuered to him half the armie, and Elephants : and he gaue him in commandment concerning al things that he would, and concerning the inhabitants of Iurie, and Ierusalem : 35. and that he should send an armie to them, to destroy and roote out the power of Israel, and the remnant of Ierusalem, and to take away the memorie of them out of the place, 36. and that he should appoynt inhabitants in al their costs, children strangers, & should by lot distribute their land. 37. And the King tooke the part of the armie that remayned, & wēt forth frō Antioch the citie of his Kingdom in the yeare an hundredth and seuen and fourtie: and he passed ouer the riuer Euphrates, & walked through the higher countries. 38. And Lysias chose Ptolomee the sonne of Doryminus, and Nicanor, and Gorgias, mightie men of the Kings freinds. 39. And he sent with thē fourtie thousand men, and seuen thousand horsemen: that they should come into the land of Iuda, and should destroy it according to the word of the King. 40. And they went forth with al their power, and came, and ioyned nere to Enimaum in the champaine countrie. 41. And the merchants of the countries heard the name of them: and they tooke siluer and gold exceeding much, and seruants: and they came into the campe, to take the children of Israel for slaues, & there were added to them the armie of Syria, & of the land of the strangers. 42. And Iudas saw, & his brethren, that the euils were multiplied, and the armies approched to their borders: and they knew the Kings words, which he commanded to doe to the people vnto destruction and consummation: 43. and they sayd euerie one to his neighbour: Let vs set vp the abasing of our people, & let vs fight for our people, and our holies. 44. And an assemblie was gathered, that they should be readie vnto battel: & that they should (g) pray and desire mercie & miserations. 45. And Ierusalem was not inhabited, but was a desert: there was none that came in and went out of her children: and the holie place was conculcated: and the children of strangers were in the castel, there was the inhabitation of the Gentils, and pleasuee was taken away from Iacob, & there failed their pipe and harpe. 46. And they gathered together, and came into Maspha against Ierusalem: because the place of prayer in Israel was in Maspha (h) before. 47. And they fasted that day, and clothed themselues with haire-cloths, and put ashes on their head: and they rent their garments: 48. and they layd open the Books of the law, out of which the Gentils searched the similitude of their idols: 49. and they brought the ornaments of Priests, and first-fruits, & tithes, & raysed vp Nazareits, that had fulfilled their dayes: 50. and they cried with a lowd voice to heauen, saying: What shal we doe with these, & whither shal we carie them? 51. And thy holies are conculcated, and they are contaminated, and thy Priests are brought into mourning, & into humiliation. 52. And behold the Natiōs are come together against vs to destroy vs: thou knowest what things they intēd against vs. 53. How shal we be able to stand before their face, vnles thou O God doe helpe vs? 54. And with trumpets they cried out with a loud voice. 55. And after these things Iudas appointed captaynes of the people, tribunes, and centurions, and * sergeants, and decurions. 56. And he sayd to them, that built houses, and despoused wiues, and

And Iudas sayd: Gird vp your selues, and be mightie sonnes, and be readie against the morning, that you may fight against these nations, which are assembled against vs to destroy vs, and our holies, 59. because it is better for vs to dye in battel, then to see the euils of our nation, and of the holies: 60. but (h) as it shal be the wil in heauen, so be it done.

Gorgias with six thousand soldiers wel appointed, intending suddenly to destroy the Israelites armie of three thousand not wel armed, 8. is defeated; halfe of his men slaine, the rest running away. 16. Iudas staying his men from spoiling, ail the enemies were out of sight, then they take rich prayes; and render thanks to God. 28. The next yeare, Lysias with three score thousand foot, and six thousand horsemen invading Iurie, Iudas with ten thousand (making his prayer to God) killeth five thousand: 35. the rest flying, Lysias gathereth more soldiers. 36. Iudas with his brethren, and others cleanse the temple, and receiw holie things, 55. offer Sacrifice, 58. and institute a feast of the dedication of a new Altar.

ND (a) Gorgias tooke five thousand men, & a thousand chosen horsemen: & they remoued the campe by night, 2. that they might approach to the campe of the Iewes, and might strike them suddenly: & the children that were of the castel, where their guides. 3. And Iudas (b) heard, & arose, he and the mighties to strike the power of the Kings armie, that were in Emmaum. 4. For as yet the armie was disperfed frō the campe. 5. And Gorgias came into the campe of Iudas by night, and found no man, & he sought them in the mountaynes: because he sayd: These flye from vs. 6. And when the day was come, Iudas appeared in the field with three thousand men onlie, which had not harnes and swords as they would: 7. and they saw the campe of the Gentils strong, and the men in brigantines, and horsemen round about them, and these were skilful to battel. 8. And Iudas sayd to the men that were with him: (c) Feare not the multitude of the, & of their assault be not afrayd. 9. Remember in what sort our fathers were saued in the red sea, when Pharao with a great armie folowed them. 10. And now let vs crie towards heauen: and our Lord wil haue mercie on vs, and wil be mindful of the testament of our fathers, and wil destroy this armie, before our face this day: 11. and al Nations shal know that there is one that redeemeth and deliuereth Israel. 12. And the aliens lifted vp their eyes, and saw them coming against them. 13. And they went out of the campe into battel, and these that were with Iudas, sounded with the trumpet. 14. And they mette together: and the Gentils were discomfited, and fled into the playne. 15. But al the hinmost fel by the sword, and they pursued them as far as Gezeron, and euen to the playnes of Idumea, and of Azotus, and of Iamnia: and there fel of them euen to three thousand men. 16. And Iudas returned, and his armie following him. 17. And he sayd to the people: Couet not the spoiles: because there is battel against vs; 18. and Gorgias & his armie are nere vs in the mount: but stand ye now against our enemies, and ouerthrow them, and you shal take the spoyles afterwards secure. 19. And as Iudas was speaking these words, loe a certaine part appeared looking forth from the mountayne. 20. And Gorgias saw that his men were turned to flight, & that they burnt the campe: for the smoke that was seen declared what was done. 21. Which things seen they feared exceedingly, beholding with al both Iudas, and the armie in the playne readie to battel. 22. And they did al flye into the playne of the aliens: 23. & Iudas returned to the spoiles of the campe, & they tooke much gold, and siluer, and hiacynth, and purple of the sea, and great riches. 24. And turning they sung an hymne, & blessed God towards heauen, because he is good, because his mercie is for euer. 25. And great saluation was made in Israel in that day. 26. And whosoever escaped of the aliens, they came and told Lysias al things that had chanced. 27. Which when he heard being amased he saynted in mynd: that such things chaced not in Israel, as he would, & such as the King commanded. * 28. And the yeare following (d) Lysias gathered of chosen men three score thousand, & of horsemen siue thousand, to ouerthrow them. 29. And they came into Iewrie, and pitched the campe in Bethoron, and Iudas mette them with ten thousand men. 30. And they saw the armie strong, and he prayed, and sayd: Blessed art thou o sauiour of Israel, which brakest the assault of the mightie by the hand of thy seruant Dauid, & didst deliuer the campe of the aliens into the hand of Ionathas Sauls sonne, and of his esquier. 31. shut vp this armie in the hand of thy people Israel, and let them be confounded in their armie and horsemen. 32. Giue them feare, and consume the bouldnes of their strength, and let them be shaken with their contrition, 33. cast them downe with the sword of them that loue thee: & let al that know thy name, prayse thee in hymnes. 34. And they ioyaed battel: and there fel of the armie of Lysias siue thousand men. 35. And Lysias seeing the flight of his men, and the boldnes of the Iewes, & that they are readie either to liue or to dye manfully, he went to Antioch, and chose souldiers, that being multiplied they might come agayne into Iewrie. 36. But Iudas, and his brethren sayd: Behold our enemies are discomfited: (e) let vs goe vp now to cleanse the holie places, & to renew them. 37. And they saw the sanctification desert, and the altar prophaned, and the gates burnt, and in the courts shrubs growen vp as in a forest, or on the mountaynes, and the chambers throwen downe. 39. And they rent their garments, and lamented with a great lamentation, and layd ashes vpon their head: 40. and they fel on their face vpon the earth, & cried out with trumpets of significations, & cried towards heauen. 41. Then Iudas ordayned men to fight against them that were in the castel, til they clenfed the holie places. 42. And he chose Priests without spot, hauing their wil in the law of God: 43. and they clenfed the holie places, and tooke away (f) the stones of contamination into an vnclene place. 44. And he considered of the altar of holocausts, that was prophaned, what he should doe with it. 45. And good counfel came to their minds, to destroy it: lest perhaps it might be a reproch to them, because the Gentils contaminated it, and they threw it downe. 46. And they layd vp the stones in the mount of the house in a place cōuenient, til there should come a Prophet, & giue answer concerning them. 47. And they tooke whole stones according to the law, and builded a new altar according to that which was before: 48. and they built the holie places, and the things that were within the temple inward: and the temple, and the courts they sanctified. 49. And they made the holie vessels new, and brought in the candlestike, and the altar of incenses, and the table into the temple. 50. And they put incense vpon the altar, and lighted the lamps, that were vpon the candlesticke, and they gaue light in the temple. 51. And they set loaues vpon the table, and hung vp the veyles, and finished al the works, that they had made. 52. And before the morning they arose the five and twentieth day of the ninth month (this is the month of Casleu) of (g) the hundreth & eight and fourtith year: 53. and they offered sacrifice according to the law vpon the new altar of holocausts, which they made. 54. According to the time and according to the day, wherein the heathen contaminated it, in the same was it renewed in canticles, & harps, and lutes, and in cymbals. 55. And al the people fel on their face, and they adored toward heauen, and blessed him that prospered them. 56. And (h) they made the dedication of the altar eight dayes, and they offered holocausts with ioy, and sacrifice of saluation, and of prayse. 57. And they adorned the face of the temple with golden crownes, and litle shields: & they dedicated the gates, and the chambers, and hanged doores vpon them. 58. And there was made exceeding great ioy in the people, and the reproch of the Gentils was turned away. 59. And Iudas decreed, and his brethren, and al the Church of Israel, that the day of the dedication of the altar be kept in the times therof frō yeare to yeare for eight dayes, from the five & twentieth day of the month Casleu, with ioy and gladnes. 60. And they builded at that time mount Sion, and round about high wals, and strong towres, lest sometime the Gentils should come, and conculcate it as they did before. 16. And he placed an armie there, Iudas and his brethren expugne their bordering enemies, 9. deliuer them that were distressed. 17. Simon prospereth in Galeley, 24. Iudas in Galaad, 45. taketh Ephron, and al returne safe into Ierusalem. 55. Iosephus and Azarias attempting ambitiously without order to fight against their enemies, are defeated. 63. And Iudas hath more victories.

AND it came to passe, as (a) the Gentils round about heard that the altar was builded vp, and the sanctuarie as before, they were exceeding angrie: 2. and they thought to take away the stock of Iacob, that were among the, and they began to kil of the people, and to persecute. 3. And Iudas fought against (b) the children of Esau in Idumea, & them that were in Acrabathane: because they beset the Israelites round about, and he struck them with a great glague. 4. And he remeubred the malice of the children (c) of Bean, which were to the people a snare and a scandal, lying in waite for them in the way. 5. And they were shut vp by him in towres, and he came nere to them, and anathematized them, and burnt their towres with fyre, with al that were in them. 6. And he passed to the children (d) of Ammon, and found a strong band, and a copious people, and Timothee their captaine: 7. and he made manie battels with them, and they were discomfited in their sight, & he struck them: 8. and he tooke Gazer the citie, and her daughters, and returned into Iewrie. 9. And the Gentils that are (e) in Galaad, gathered together agaynst the Israelites, that were in their costs to dispatch them: and they fled into the fortresse of Batheman. 10. And they sent letters to Iudas, and his brethren, saying: The heathen round about are gathered together against vs, to dispatch vs: 11. and they prepare to come, and to occupie the fortresse into which we are fled: and Timothee is the captayne of their host. 12. Now therefore come, & deliuer vs, out of their hands, because a multitude of vs is fallen. 13. And al our brethren, that were in the places of Tubin, are slaine: and they led away their wiues captiues, and the children, and the spoiles, and they haue slaine there almost a thousand men. 14. And the epistles were yet in reading, and loe other messengers came out of Galilee their coates rent, reporting according to these words: 15. saying that there were assembled against them from Ptolemis, and Tyre, and Sidon, and al Galilee is replenished with aliens, to consume vs. 16. And as Iudas and the people heard these words, a great assemblie assembled together to consider what they should doe for their brethren, that were in tribulation, and were expugned of them. 17. And Iudas sayd to Simon his brother : Choose thee men, and goe, and deliuer thy brethren in (f) Galilee : and I, and my brother Ionathas wil goe into the countrie of Galaad. 18. And he left Ioseph the sonne of Zacharie, and Azarias, captaynes of the people, with the residue of the armie in Iurie to keepe it : 19. and he commanded them, saying : Be ye ouer this people : & make no battel against the heathen, til we returne. 20. And there were parted to Simon three thousand men, to goe into Galilee : but to Iudas eight thousand to goe into the countrie of Galaad. 21. And Simon went into Galilee, & made manie battels with the heathen : and the heathen were discomfited before his face, and he pursued them euen to the gate of Ptolemis. 22. And there fel of the heathen almost three thousand men, & he tooke the spoiles of them, 23. and he tooke them that were in Galilee & in Arbatis with their wiues, and children, & al things that they had, and he brought them into Iurie with great ioy. 24. And Iudas Machabeus, and Ionathas his brother passed ouer Iordan, and went three dayes iourney through the desert. 25. And the Nabutheians met them, & receiued the peaceably, & told them al things, that had happened to their brethren in the countrie of Galaad, 26. and that manie of them were comprehended in Barasa, and Bosor, and in Alimis, and in Casphor, & Mageth, & Carnaim, al these cities fensed, & great. 27. Yea and in the rest of the cities of Galaad they are held captiue, & on the morow they appoynted to remoue the armie nere to these cities, and to take them, & to dispatch them in one day. 28. And Iudas turned & his armie the way into Bosor sodenly, and tooke the citie : and he slew euerie male in the edge of the sword, & rooke al their spoiles, & burnt in with fire. 29. And they arose thence by night, & went euen to the fortresse. 30. And it came to passe early in the morning, when they had listed vp their eyes, & behold much people, wherof there was no number, carying ladders, & engins. to take the fortresse, and they expugned them. 31. And Iudas saw that the battel began and the crie of the battel ascended to heauen as a trumpet, and a great crie out of the citie : 32. & he sayd to his host : Fight ye to day for your brethren. 33. And he came with three rankes behind them, & they cried out with trumpets, & cried in prayer. 34. And the campe of Timothee vnderstood that it was Machabeus, and they fled backe frō his presence : and they struck them with a great plague : and there fel of them in that day almost eight thousand men. 35. And Iudas turned aside into Maspha, and expugned, & tooke it, and he slew euerie male therof, & he tooke the spoiles therof, & burnt it with fyre. 36. From thence he marched, and tooke Casbon, and Mageth, and Bolor, & the rest of the cities of Galaad. 37. But after these words Timothee gathered an other armie, and camped against Raphon beyond the torrent. 38. And Iudas sent to vew the armie : and they reported vnto him, sayng : That al the nations, that are round about vs, are assembled against vs, an armie exceeding great : 39. and they haue hyred the Arabians to helpe

them, & they haue camped beyond the torrent, being readie to come vnto thee into battel. And Iudas went to meet them. 40. And Timothee sayd to the Princes of his armie: When Iudas shal approch, & his armie to the torrent of water: if he passe ouer vnto vs first, we shal not be able to sustaine him: because preuayling he wil preuaile against vs. 41. But if he be afrayd to passe ouer, and campe without the riuer, let vs passe ouer to them, and we shal preuaile against him. 42. But as Iudas approched to the torrent of water, he set the scribes of the people by the torrent, & commanded them, saying: Leauē not a man: but let al come into the battel. 43. And he passed ouer to them first, & al the people after him, & al the heathen were discomfited at their presence, & they threw away their weapons, & fled to the temple, that was in Carnaim. 44. And he tooke (g) the citie it-self, & temple he burnt with fire, with al things that were therein: & Carnaim was subdued, & could not stand against the face of Iudas. 45. And Iudas gathered together al the Israelites, that were in the countrie of Galaad, from the least euen to the greatest, and their wiues, and children, and an armie exceeding great, to come into the land of Iuda. 46. And they came as far as (b) Ephron: and this citie was great, situate in the entrance, fenced exceedingly, and there was no meanes to decline from it on the right hand or on the left, but the way was through the middes. 47. And they that were in the citie, shut in themselues, and stopped the gates with stones: & Iudas sent to them in peaceable words, 48. saying: Let vs passe through your land, and goe into our countrie: and no man shal hurt you, onlie on foot we wil passe. And they would not open vnto them. 49. And Iudas commanded proclamation to be made in the campe, that they should approch euerie man in the place wherein he was. 50. and the men of strength approched, and he assaulted that citie al the day, and al the night, and the citie was deliuered into his hand: 51. & they slew euerie male in the edge of the sword, and he rooted it vp, and tooke the spoiles therof; & passed through al the citie vpon the slaine. 52. And they passed ouer Jordan in the great playne, against the face of Bethsan. 53. And Iudas gathered together (i) the hinmost, & he (k) exhorted the people throughout al the way, til they came into the land of Iuda: 54. and they went vp into mount Sion with ioy and gladnes, and offered holocausts because none of them was fallen til they returned in peace. 55. And in the dayes that Iudas & Ionathas were in the land of Galaad, & Simon his brother in Galilee against the face of Ptolomais, 56. (l) Ioseph the sonne of Zacharie heard, & Azarias, the Princes of the band, the things wel atcheiued, and the battels that were made, 57. and he sayd: Let vs also make vs a name, and let vs goe fight against the heathen, that are round about vs. 58. And he commanded them that were in his armie, and they went to Iamnia. 59. And Gorgias went forth out of the citie, and his men to meete them into battel. 60. And Ioseph and Azarias were chased in flight: euen vnto the borders of Iurie: and there

Epiphanes his death is writ-chapter to the 16. v. and in al

the 9. of the second Book.
Finally he returned into the countrie of Babylou.

AND King Antiochus walked through the higher countries, and he heard that there was a citie Elymais in Persia, most noble, and plentiful in siuer & gold, 2. and a temple therin exceeding rich: and coverings thereof gold, and brigantines, and shields, which Alexander Philips sonne the King of Macedonia that reigned first in Grece left there. 3. And he came, and fought to take the citie, and to spoile it, and he could not, because the word was knowen to them that were in the citie. 4. And they rose vp into battel, and he fled from thence, and departed with great forow, and returned into Babylonia. 5. And there came

one that told him in Persia, that the camps that were in the land of Iuda, were put to flight: 6. and that Lysias went with great power with the first, and was put to flight before the face of the Iewes, and they grew strong with armour, and force, and manie spoiles: which they tooke out of the camps, which they destroyed: 7. and that they threw downe the abominatiō which they had builded vpon the altar that was in Ierusalem, and the sanctification they compassed about as before with high wals, yea and Bethsura his citie. 8. And it came to passe as the King heard these words, he was sore afraid, and was moued exceedingly: and he lay downe vpon his bed, and fel into sicknes for sorow, because it was not not chanced to him as he thought. 9. And he was there for manie dayes: because there was renewed in him great sorowfulness, and he made account to dye. 10. And he called al his freinds, & sayd to them: sleep is departed from mine eyes, and I am fallen away, and my hart is gone for pēisenes: 11. and I sayd in my hart: Into how great tribulatiō am I come, & into what waues of sorow, wherein now I am: who was pleasant, and beloued in my power! 12. But (a) now I remember the euils, that I haue done in Ierusalem, from whence also I tooke away al the spoiles of gold, and of siluer, that were in it, and I sent to take away the inhabitants of Iewrie, without cause. 13. I know therefore that for this cause haue these euils found me: and loe I perish with great sorow in a strange countrie. 14. And he called Philip, one of his friends, & he made him chiefe ouer al his Kingdom. 15. And he gaue him the crowne, and his robe, and ring, that he should bring Antiochus his sonne, and should bring him vp to reigne. 16. And Antiochus the King died there in the yeare (v) an hundredth fourtie nine. *

17. And Lysias vnderstood that the King was dead, and he appoynted Antiochus his sonne to reigne, whom he brought vp a yong man: and he called his name Eupator. *

18. And they that were in the castel, had inclosed Israel round about the holie places: and they sought them euils alwayes, and the strengthening of the Gentils. 19. And Iudas thought to destroy them: and he called together al the people, to besiege them. 20. And they came together, and besieged them in the yeare an hundredth fiftie, and they made ballists and engins. 21. And certaine of them that were besieged, wēt forth: and some impious men of Israel ioyned themselue vnto them, 22. and they went to the King, & sayd: How long doest thou not iudgements, & reuengest our brethren? 23. We decreed to serue thy father, and to walke in his precepts, and obey his edicts: 24. and the children of our people for this alienated themselues from vs, & whosocuer were found of vs, they were slayne, and our inheritances were spoyled. 35. And not to vs only haue they extended the hand, but also into al our coasts. 26. and behold they haue approached this day to the castel in Ierusalem to take it, and they haue fortified a fortresse in Bethsura: 27. and vnles thou preuent the more speedely, they wil doe greater things then these,

But before he arrived there he heard the bad news of his armie in Iurie, & fel into intolerable and desperate diseases. v. 8. and li. 2. ch. 9. v. 5.

(b) Antiochus began to persecute the Iewes in the yeare 143. ch. 1. v. 21. and dying this yeare 149. it appeareth that his persecution dured about six yeares, or some-what more: agreeable to the answer of the Angel Dan. 8. v. 14. that it should indure 2300. dayes, which make six yeares, & almost foure months. and thou shalt not be able to winne them. And the King was angrie, as he heard these things: & he called together al his freinds, & the Princes of his armie, and them that were ouer the horsfemen. 29. Yea and of other realmes, and of the islands by the sea there came vnto him hyred armies. 30. And the number of his armie was an hundred thousand footemen, and twentie thousand horsfemen, and elephants thirtie two, taught to battel. 31. And they came through Idumea, and approched to Bethsura, and fought manie dayes, and they made engins and came forth, and burnt them with fyre, and fought manfully. 32. And Iudas departed from the castel, & remoued the campe to Bethzacaram against the Kings campe. 33. And the King arose before it was light, and stirred the bands into fiercenes against the way to Bethzacaram: and the armies made themselues readie to the battel, and they sounded with trumpets: 34. and to the elephants they shewed (c) the bloud of the grape, and of the mulberie, to prouoke them to the battel. 35. And they diuided the beasts by the legions: & there stood by euerie elephant a thousand men in coates of maile, and helmets of brasse on their heads: and fve hundred horsfemen set in order were chosen for euerie beast. 36. These before the time whersoever the beast was, there were they: & whither soeuer it went, they went, & they departed not from it. 37. Yea and vpon them were strong woodden towres protecting euerie beast: and vpon them engins, and vpon euerie one thirtie two men of strength which fought from aboue: and within the master of the beast. 38. And the residue of the horsfemen he placed on this side and on that side into two parts, with trumpets to stir vp the armie, and to vrge them that stood thicke together in the legions therof. 39. And as the sunne did shine vpon the bucklers of gold, and of brasse, the mountaynes glistered therewith, & they glistered as lampes of fire. 40. And part of the Kings armie was seuered by the high mountaynes, & an other part by the low places: & they marched warely and orderly. 41. And al the inhabitants of the land were moued at the voice of the multitude of them, and the marching of the troupe, and the ratling of the armour, for it was an armie exceeding great and strong. 42. And Iudas approched, and his armie into battel: and there fel of the Kings armie six hundred men. 43. And Eleazar the sone of Saura saw one of the beasts harnessed with the Kings harnes: & it was eminent aboue the other beasts; & it seemed to him that the King was on it: 44. and he gaue himself to deliuer his people, and to get himself an euerlasting name. 45. And he ranne to it boldly in the middes of the legion, killing on the right hand, & on the left, and they were slaine of him on this side and that side. 46. And (d) he went vnder the feet of the elephant, and put himself vnder him, and slew him: and it fel to the ground vpon him, and he died there. 47. And they seeing the Kings power, and the fiercenes of his armie, turned themselues aside from them. 48. But the Kings campe went vp against them vnto Ierusalem: and the Kings campe approched to Iurie and mount

Sion. 49. And he made peace with them that were in Bethsura: & they came forth out of the citie, because there were no victuals for the there being shut vp, because it was the sabbath of the land. 50. And the King tooke Bethsura: and he placed there a garrison to keep it. 51. And he turned the place of the sanctification manie dayes: and he placed there arbalists, and engins, and instruments to cast fyre, & pieces to cast stones, and arrowes, & scorpions to shoote arrowes, and slings. 52. And they also made engins against their engins, and they fought manie dayes. 53. But there were no victuals in the citie, for that it was the seventh year: and they that had remayned in Iurie of the Gentils, had consumed their remaynes, that had been layd vp. 54. And there remayned in the holies few men, because famine had preuailed ouer them: and they were disperied euerie man into his place. 55. And Lysias heard that Philip, whom King Antiochus when he liued, had appointed to bring vp his sonne to reigne, 56. was returned from Persis, and Media, and the armie that went with him, and that he sought to take vpon him the affyres of the Kingdom: 57. and he hastned to goe, and to say to the King, & to the Princes of the armie: We decay dayly, and there is litle victual for vs, and the place that we besiege, is fensed, and it lyeth vpon vs to take order for the Kingdom. 58. Now therefore let vs giue the right hands to these men, and make peace with them, and with al their nation. 59. And let vs decree for them, that they walke in their owne ordinances as before. For, because of their ordinances which me dispised, they haue been wrath, and haue done al these things. 60. And the word was liked in the sight of the King, and of the Princes: and he sent vnto them to make peace: and they receiued it. 61. And the King and the Princes sware to them: & they came out of the fortresse. 62. And the King entred mount Sion, and saw the munition of the place: and he brake quickly the othe which he sware, and commanded to destroy the wal round about. 63. And he departed in hast, and returned to Antioche, and found Philip ruling ouer the citie: and he fought against him and wanne the citie. *

Aaron is come, he wil not deceiue vs. 15. And he spake with them peaceable words: and he sware to them, saying: We wil doe you no harime, nor your freinds. 16. And they belieued him. And he tooke of them threescore men, & slew them in one day, according to the word that is written: 17. The flesh of thy saints, and the bloud of them they haue shed round about Ierusalem, and there was none to burie them. 18. And there fel feare, and trembling vpon al the people, because they sayd: There is no truth and iudgement in them: for they haue transgressed the appointment & the othe which they sware. 19. And Bacchides removed the campe from Ierusalem, and approached to Bethzecha: and he sent, and tooke manie of them that were fled from him, and certaine of the people he killed, & threw them into a great pitte. 20. And he committed the countrie to Alcimus, and left with him ayde to helpe him. And Bacchides went away to the King: 21. & Alcimus did what he could for the principalitie of his Priesthood: 22. and there gathered together vnto him al that disturbed their people, & they obeyned the lād of Iuda, & made a great plague in Israel. 23. And Iudas saw al the euils that Alcimus did, and they that were with him, to the children of Israel, much more then the Gentils. 24. And he went out into al the coasts of Iurie round about, & did vengeance vpon the men that reuolted, & they ceased to goe forth any more into the countrie. 25. But Alcimus saw that Iudas preuisiled, & they that were with him: & he knew that he could not stand with them, and he went backe to the King, & accused them of manie crimes. 26. And the King sent (f) Nicanor, one of his nobler Princes: that practised enmities against Israel: and he commanded him to destroy the people. 27. And Nicanor came into Ierusalem with a great armie, and he sent to Iudas & to his brethren in peaceable words with guile, 28. saying: Let there be no fighting between me and you: I wil come with few men, to see your faces with peace. 29. And he came to Iudas, & they saluted one an other peaceably: & the enemies were readie to catch Iudas: 30. And the thing was knowne to Iudas that he was come with guile: and he was sore afrayd of him, and would not see his face any more. 31. And Nicanor knew that his counsel was disclosed: and he went forth to Iudas into battel beside Capharsalama. 32. And there fel of Nicanors armie almost fise thousand men, & they fled into the citie of David. 33. And after these words Nicanor went vp into mount Sion: and there went forth of the Priests of the people to salute him in peace, and to shew him the halocausts, that were offered for the King. 34. And scorning he contemned them, & polluted them: and he spake proudly, 35. and sware with anger, saying: Vnles Iudas be deliuered, & his armie into my hands, incontinent when I shal returne in peace I wil burne this house. And he went out with great anger: 36. and the Priests entered in, and stood before the face of the altar and the temple: and weeping they sayd: 37. Thou O Lord hast chosen this house for thy name to be invocated therein, that it might be a house of prayer, and them in a matter of fact, to-wit, that himself meant truly (as he did not) cruelly murdered three score of them.

39. And (g) Nicanor went out from Ierusalem, & moued the campe, neere to Bethhoron: and the armie of Syria mette him. 40. And Iudas approached in Adarsa with three thousand men: and Iudas prayed, and sayd: 41. They that were sent by King Sennacherib, O Lord, because they blasphemed thee, an angel came forth, and struck of them an hundred eightie five thousand: 42. so destroy this armie in our sight to day, and let the rest know that he hath spoken it vpon the holy places: and iudge thou him according to his malice. 43. And the armies ioyned battel the thirteenth day of the month Adar: and the campe of Nicanor was discomfited, & himself was slaine first in the battel. 44. And as his armie saw that Nicanor was slaine, they threw away their weapons, & fled: 45. and they pursued them one dayes iourney from Adazer, euen til ye come into Gazara, & with trumpets they sounded after them with significations. 46. And they went forth out of al the townes of Iurie round about, and they pushed them with the hornes, and they turned againe to them, and they were al slaine with the sword, and there was not left of them so much as one. 47. And they tooke the spoiles of them for a praye: and Nicanors head they cut off, and his right hand, which he had proudly stretched forth, & they brought it, & hung it vp against Ierusalem. 48. And the people reioyced exceedingly, & they spent that day in great gladnes. 49. And he ordayned that this day should be kept euerie yeare the thirteenth of the month Adar. 50. And the land of Iuda was quiet for (b) a few dayes. *

Iudas knowing the Romanes to be a most renowned nation, reciting their worthy actes, 17. sendeth Embassadors to enter league with them: 23. Wherto they agreeing confirme a perpetual amitie with mutual conditions.

(a) Of the renowned actes of the Romas, other Historiographers haue also written largely: especially Livius, Diodorus, Justinus, Florus, Varro, Plutarchus, and manie others. What places these were Iosephus expresth. l. 12. c. 17.

AND Iudas heard of (a) the name of the Romanes, that they are mightie of power, and agree vnto al things that are requested of them: and whosoever haue come vnto them; they haue made amitie with them; and that they are mightie of power. 2. And they heard of their battels, and goodlie actes, which they did in Galatia, that they overcame them, and brought them vnder tribute: 3. and how great things they did in the countrie of Spaine, & that they brought into their power the metals of siluer and gold, that are there, and possessed euerie place by their counsel and patience: 4. and destroyed the places that were very far off from them, and the Kings that came vpon them from the ends of the

And Philip and Peres the King of the Ceteans, & the rest that had borne weapon against them ; they discomfited in battel, and ouercame them : 6. and that Antiochus the great King of Asia, who made battel against them, hauing (b) an hundred and twentie elephants, and horsemen, and chariots an armie exceeding great was discomfited by them : 7. and that they tooke him aliue, and appointed him that himself and they that should reigne after him ; should giue a great tribute, and he should giue hostages, and the thing appointed him. 8. and the region of the Indes ; and the Medes, and the Lydians of their best countries : and the same being taken of them ; they gaue to Eumenes the King. 9. And that they which were in Hellada, would haue gone to dispatch them : and the word was knowen to them, 10. and they sent vnto them one captayne, and they fought against them, and manie of them were slaine, and they led away their wiues captiue, and their children, and spoiled them, and possessed their land, and destroyed their wals, and brought them into bondage euen vntil this day : 11. and the residue of Kingdoms, and isles that some time had resisted them, they spoiled, and brought vnder their power. 12. But with their freinds, and those that rested in them, they kept amitie, and obreynd the Kingdoms, that were next, and that were far off : that whosoever heard their name, feared them. 13. But such as they would helpe to reigne, those reigned : and whom they would, they deposed from the Kingdom : and they were exalted exceedingly. 14. And in al these none bare a crowne, nor was clothed with purple, to be magnified therein. 15. And that they made themselues a court, and consulted dayly three hundred and twentie, that sate in counsel alwayes for the multitude, that they might doe the things that were conuenient : 16. and they commit their gouernment (c) to one man euerie yeare to rule ouer al their land, and al they obey one, and there is no enuie, nor emulation amongst them. 17. And Iudas chose Eupolemus the sonne of Iohn, the sonne of Iacob, and Iason the sonne of Eleazar, & he sent them to Rome to make amitie and societie with them : 18. and that they should take from them the yoke of the Greeks, because they saw that they pressed the Kingdom of Israel vnto bondage. 19. And they went to Rome, a way exceeding great, and they entred into the court, and sayd : 20. Iudas Machabeus, and his brethren, and the people of the Iewes haue sent vs vnto you to make societie and peace with you, and to write vs your felowes and freinds. 21. And the word was liked in their sight. 22. And this is the rescript that they wrot againe in tables of brasse, and sent into Ierusalem, that it might be with them there a memorial of peace and societie. 23. BE IT WEL TO THE ROMANES, and to the nation of the Iewes by sea, and by land for euer : and sword and enemye be far from them. 24. In like manner also & if warre shal happen first to the nation of the Iewes, the Romanes shal helpe with al their hart, according as the time shal permitte them : 28. & to them helping shal not be giuen wheate, armour, money, shippes, as it hath pleased the Romanes : and they shal keepe their charge without guile. 29. According to these words did the Romanes agree to the people of the Iewes. 30. And if after these words these or they wil adde to these, or take away any thing, they shal doe it at their pleasure : and whatsoever they shal adde, or take away, shal be ratified. 31. Yea and concerning the euils, that Demetrius the King hath done against them, we haue written to him, saying : Why hast thou aggrauated thy yoke vpon our freinds and felowes the Iewes ? 32. If therefore they come againe vnto vs against thee, we wil doe iudgement for them, and wil fight with thee by sea and land.

Bacchides and Alcimus returning into Iurie make great slaughter. 5. More then two parts of Iudas final troupe flying away, he with eight hundred, setteth vpon the enemye, 14. ouerthroweth the strongest part of their armie : 16. but an other part comming at his back, with great slaughter on both parties, Iudas is slaine : 19. and most honourably buried. 13. Much euil encrease in Israel. 28. Ionathas is made captaine general. 36. The children of Iambrie kil his brother, which he reuengeth. 43. Being environed by Bacchides chaceth him away to his fenced places, killing manie. 54. Alcimus beginning to deface the temple, is stricken with a palse, and dyeth miserably. 57. So they haue peace two yeares. 58. Bacchides comming with a new armie, 62. Ionathas and Simon retye into Bethbessen : 65. there defend themselves, and annoy the enemye. 69. Who blaming his counsellors, maketh peace, and departeth.

a) This happened about a year after the death of Niconor. ch. 7. v. 10 li. 2. c. 15. 38.

N (a) the meane time as Demetrius heard that Niconor was fallen and his armie in the battel, he added to send Bacchides and Alcimus againe into Iurie, and the right wing with them. 2. And they went the way, that leadeth into Galgal, and camped in Mafaloth, which is in Arbellis : and they wanne it, and slew of men manie soules. 3. In the first month of the yeare an hundredth and fiftie two they brought the armie nere to Ierusalem : 4. and they arose, and went into Beræa twentie thousand men, and two thofand horsemen. 5. And Iudas had camped in Laifa, and three thousand chosen men with him : 6. and they saw the multitude of the armie that they were manie , and they feared exceedingly : and manie withdrew themselues out of the campe , and there remayned of them but eight hundred men. 7. And Iudas saw that his armie shrunk away, and the battel pressed vpon him, and (d) his hart was broken : because he had not time to gather them together , and he was discouraged. 8. And he sayd to them that were remaying : Let vs rise , and goe to our aduersaries, if we may be able to fight against them. 9. And they diswaded him saying: We are not able , but let vs saue our liues now , and returne to our brethren, and then we wil fight against them : and we are few. 10. And Iudas sayd : God forbid we should doe this thing , to flye from them : & if our time be neere, let vs dye manfully for our brethren, and let vs not stayne our glorie. 11. And the armie moued out of the campe, and they stood to meet them : and the horsemen were diuided into two parts, and the slingers, and the archers went before the armie, & of the forward al mightie. 12. And Bacchides was in the right wing, and the legion approched on two sides, & they sounded with trumpets: 13. and they also cried out that were on Iudas side, euen they also, & the earth was moued at the voice of the armies : and the battel was fought from morning euen vntil the euening. 14. And Iudas saw that that the stronger part of the armie was on the right hand, and al the stout of hart came together with him : 15. and the right side was discomfited of them, & he pursued them euen to the mount of Azorus. 15. And they that were in the left wing, saw that the right wing was discomfited, and they folowed after Iudas , and them that were with him at the backe: 17. and the battel grew sore , and there fel manie wounded of these and of them. 18. And Iudas was slaine , and the rest fled. 19. And Ionathas and Simon tooke Iudas their brother , and buried him in the sepulcher of their fathers in the citie Modin. 20. And al the people of Israel lamented him with great lamentation , and they mourned manie dayes, 21. and sayd : (e) How is the mightie fallen , that saued the people of Israel ! 22. And the rest of the words of Iudas battels, and of the valient acts that he did, and of his greatnes are not described : for they were exceeding manie.

23. And it came to passe: (d) after the death of Iudas, there came forth the wicked men in al the colts of Israel , & there arose al that wrought iniquitie. 24. In those dayes was made an exceeding great famine, and al their countrie with themselues yealded to Bacchides, 25. And Bacchides chose the impious mē, & appointed them Lords of the countrie: 26. and they sought out, & searched for the freinds of Iudas , & brought the to Bacchides , and he tooke reuenge on them, and scorned them. 27. And there was made great tribulatio in Israel, such as was not since the day, that there was no Prophet seen in Israel. 28. And al the freinds of Iudas gathered, & sayd to (e) Ionathas: 29. Since thy brother Iudas died, there is not a man like vnto him, to goe forth against the enemies, Bacchides,

(h) Ionathas and his men swame not to the other side, but to an other place on the same side: for other wise the armies had been parted by the river: and so there had been no conflict that time.

(i) Iosephus li. 12. c. 17, confesseth that Iudas was high-Priest, but erreth in saying he succeeded after Alci-

& them that are the enemies of our nation. 30. Now therefore thee haue we chosen this day to be for him our Prince, and captayne to wage our battel. 31. And Ionathas tooke vpon him at that time the principedom, & arose in the place of Iudas his brother. 32. And Bacchides vnderstood it, and sought to kil him. 33. And Ionathas vnderstood it, and Simon his brother, and al that were with them: and they fled into the desert of Thecua, and they pitched by the water of the lake Asphar. 34. And Bacchides vnderstood it, and in the day of the Sabbaths came himself, and al his armie ouer Iordan. 53. And Ionathas sent his brother captaine of the people, to desire the Nabutheians his freinds, that they would lend him their prouision, which was copious. 36. And the children of Iambri issued forth of Madaba, and (f) tooke Iohn, & al things that he had, and went away hauing them. 27. After these words, it was told Ionathas and Simon his brother, that the children of Iambri make a great mariage, & bring the bride out of Madaba, the daughter of one of the great Princes of Chanaan with great pompe. 38. And they remembered the bloud of Iohn their brother: and they went vp, and hid themselues vnder the couert of the mountayne. 39. And they lifted vp their eyes, and saw: and loe a tumult, and great preparation: and the bridegrome came forth, and his freinds, and his brethren to meet them with timbrils, and muscal instruments, and manie weapons. 40. And they rose vpon them out of the embushement, and slew them, and there fel manie wounded, & the rest fled into the mountaines, and they tooke al the spoiles of them: 41. and the mariage was turned into mourning, and the voice of their muscal instruments into lamentation. 42. And they (g) tooke reuenge of the bloud of their brother: and they returned to the banke of Iordan. 43. And Bacchides heard it, and he came on the day of the Sabbaths euen to the brinke of Iordan with a great power. And Ionathas sayd to his companie: Let vs arise, and fight against our enemies: for it is not to day as yesterday, and the day before. 45. For loe battel directly against vs, and the water of Iordan on this side and on that side, and bankes, and marrises, & forests: and there is no place to turne aside. 46. Now therefore crie ye vnto heauen, that you may be deliuered out of the hand of your enemies. And battel was ioyned. 47. And Ionathas stretched forth his hand to strike Bacchides, & he turned aside from him backwards. 48. And Ionathas lept aside, and they that were with him into Iordan, & they swame (h) ouer Iordan to them: 49. and there fel of Brechides part that day a thousand men: and they returned into Ierusalem, 50. and built fenced cities in Iurie, the fortresse that was in Iericho, and in Ammaum, and in Bethoron, and in Bethel, and Thammata, and Phara, and Thopo with high wals, and gates, & lockes. 51. And he placed a garrison in them, that they might exercise enmities against Israel: 52. and he fenced the citie Bethsura, and Gazara, and the castel, and set garrisons in them, & prouision of victuals: 53. & he tooke the sonnes of the Princes of the countrie for hostages, and put them in the castel in Ierusalem into ward. 54. And in (i) the yeare an hundred fiftie three, the second month, Alcimus cōmanded the wals of the inner holie house to be destroyed, and the works of the Prophets to be destroyed: & he begā to destroyed. 55. In that time was Alcimus stricken: and his works were stayed, and his mouth was stopped, and he was dissolved with the palsey, neither could he speake a word any more, and giue commandement touching his house. 56. And Alcimus died at that time with great torment. 57. And Bacchides saw that Alcimus was dead: and he returned to the King, & the land was quiet for two yeares. 58. And al the wicked thought saying: Behold Ionathas, and they that are with him, dwel in silence securely: now tberfore let vs bring Bacchides, and he shal take them al in one night. 59. And they went, and gaue him counsel. 60. And he arose to come with a great armie: and he sent secretly epistles. to his felowes that were in Iurie, to take Ionathas, and them that were with him: but they could not, because their counsel was knowen to them. 61. And he apprehended of the men of the countrie, that were the principal of the mischitē, fiftie men, and he slew them. 62. And Ionathas retyred aside, and Simon, and they that were with him into Bethbessen, which is in the desert: and he built vp the ruines therof, and they fortified it. 63. And Bacchides vnderstood it, and gathered together al his multitude, and sent word to them that were of Iurie. 64. And he came, and camped aboue Bethbessen, and assaulted it manie dayes, and made engins. 65. And Ionathas left Simon his brother in the citie, and went forth into the countrie, & came with a number, 66. and struck Odares, and his brethren, and the children of Phaseron in their tabernacles, and he began to slay, and to gtow in forces. 67. But Simon and they that were with him, went out of the citie, and burnt the engins, 68. and they fought against Bacchides, & he was discomfited by them: and they afflicted him exceedingly, because his counsel, and his conflict was in vayne. 69. And being angrie against the wicked men, that had giuen him counsel to come into their countrie, (k) he slew manie of them: but himself thought with the rest to depart into their countrie. 70. And Ionathas vnderstood it, and he sent vnto him legates to make peace with him, and to render vnto him the captiues. 71. And he tooke it gladly, and did according to his words, and sware that he would doe him nō harme al the dayes of his life. 72. And he rendered vnto him the captiues, which he before had taken for a praye, out of the land of Iuda: & returning he departed into his owne countrie, and he added no more to come into their coasts. 73. And the sword ceased out of Israel: and Ionathas dwelt in Machmas, and Ionathas began there to iudge the people, and he destroyed the impious out of Israel.

AND in the yeare an hundreth threescore came vp Alexander (4) the sonne of Antiochus, that was furnamed Noble: and he tooke Ptolemais, and they receiued him, and he reigned there. 2. And Demetrius the King heard it, and he gathered together an exceeding great armie, and went forth to meet him into battel. 3. And Demetrius sent an epistle to Ionathas in peaceable words, to magnifie him. 4. For he sayd: Let vs preuent to make peace with him, before he make with Alexander against vs: 5. for he wil remember al the euils, that we haue done against him, and against his brother, and against his nation. 6. And he gaue him authoritie to gather an armie, and to make weapons, and to be himself his fellow: and the hostages that were in the castel, he commanded to be deliuered to him. 7. And Ionathas came into Ierusalem, and read the epistles in the hearing of al the people, and of them that were in the castel. 8. And they feared with great feare, because they heard that the King gaue him authoritie to gather an armie. 9. And the hostages were deliuered to Ionathas, and he rendered them to their parents. 10. And Ionathas dwelt in Ierusalem, and began to build, & to renew the citie. 11. And he spake to them that made the works, that they should buid the wals, and mount Sion round about with square stones for munition: and so they did. 12. And the Aliens fled that were in the holds, which Bacchides had built: 13. and euerie man left his place, & departed into his owne countrie: 14. onlie in Bethsura there remained some of them, that had forsaken the law, and the precepts of God: for this was for a refuge to them. 15. he sayd:

he sayd : Why , shal we find any such man ? and now we wil make him a freind , and our felow. 17 And he wrote an epistle , and sent it to him according to these words , saying : 18. KING Alexander to his brother Ionathas greeting. 19. We haue heard of thee , that thou art mightie of powre , and art meet to be our freind : 20. and now (b) we make thee this day high Priest of thy nation , that thou be called the Kings freind (& he sent him purple , and a crowne of gold) & in our affaires thou be of one mind with vs , and keepe amitie towards vs. 21. And Ionathas put on him the holie stole the seuenth month , in the yeare an hundredth threescore in the solemne day of Scenopegia : and he gathered an armie , and made very manie weapons. 22. And Demetrius heard these words , and was exceeding sorie , and sayd : 23. And he wrote to them in these words : KING Demetrius to the nation of the Iewes greeting. 26. Because you haue kept couenant towards vs , and haue continewed in our amitie , and haue not ioyned to our enemies , (c) we haue heard of it , and are glad. 27. And now perseuere stil to keepe fidelitie towards vs , & we wil reward you with good things , for that you haue done with vs. 28. And we wil remitte you manie charges , and wil giue you manie giufts. 29. And now I release you , and al the Iewes from tributes , & I pardon you the prices of salt , & remitte the crownes , & the thirds of the seed : 30. and the halfe of the fruit of trees , which is my portion , I leaue to you frō this day forward , that it be not taken of the land of Iuda , and of the three cities that are added therto of Samaria , & Galilee from this day & for euer : 31. & let Ierusalem be holie , and free with the coasts therof : & the tithes , & tributes be they to it. 32. I release also the authoritie of the castel , that is in Ierusalem , and I giue it to the High-Priest , to placetherein men whom soeuer he shal choose , that may keepe it. 33. And euerie soule of the Iewes , that is captiue from the land of Iuda in al my Kingdom , I dismissee free for nothing , that al may be discharged also frō tributes of their cattel. 34. And al the solēne dayes , & the sabbaths , & the new moones , & the dayes appointed , and three dayes before the solemne day , and three dayes after the solemne day let thē al be of immunitie & remission , to al the Iewes that are in my Kingdom : 35. & no man shal haue powre to doe any thing , & to make buisnesses against any of them in any cause. 36. And let there be enrolled of the Iewes in the Kings armie to the number of thirtie thousand men : & allowance shal be giuen them as behoueth to al the Kings bands , & of them there shal be ordayned certaine , that shal be in the fortresses of the great King : 37. and of these there shal be appoynted ouer the affaires of the Kingdom , that are done of trust , and let there be Princes of them , and let them walke in their owne lawes , as the King hath commanded in the land of Iuda. 38. The countrie of Samaria, let them be accounted with Iurie: that they may be vnder one, and obey no other powre, but the High-Priests: 39. Ptolomais, and the confines therof, which I haue giuen for a gift to the holies, that are in Ierusalem, to the necessarie charges of the holie things. 40. And I giue euerie year fifteen thousand sicles of siluer of the Kings accounts, that belong to me: 41. & al that is about which they had not rendred, that were ouer the affaires the yeares before, frō this time they shal giue it to the works of the house. 42. And beside these five thousand sicles of siluer, which they receiued of the account of the holies euerie year: & let these pertain to the Priests, that execute the ministerie. 43. And whosoeuer flye into the temple that is in Ierusalē, and in al the coasts therof, in the Kings danger for matter, let them be dismissed, & al things, that they haue in my Kingdom, let them haue it free. 44. And to build or reparaire the works of the holie places, the charges shal be giuen of the Kings account: 45. and to build the wals in Ierusalem, and to fortifie them round about, the charges shal be giuen of the Kings account, and to build the wals in Iurie. 46. But as Ionathas, & the people heard these words, (d) they belieued them not, nor receiued them: because they remēbred the great mischise, that he had done in Israel, and had afflicted them exceedingly. 47. And their liking was toward Alexander, because he had been the first mouer of the words of peace vnto them, & him they ayded al dayes. 48. And King Alexander gathered a great armie, & moued the campe nere to Demetrius. 49. And the two Kings ioyned battel, and the armie of Demetrius fled, & Alexander pursued him, & vrged them sore. 50. And the battel grew very sore, til the sunne went downe: & Demetrius was slaine in that day. 51. And Alexander sent legates to (e) Ptolomee King of Ægypt according to these words, saying: 52. BECAVSE I am returned into my Kingdom, and am set in the seate of my fathers, & haue obteyned the principdom, & haue destroyed Demetrius, & possessed our countrie, 53. and haue ioyned battel with him, and he is destroyed himself, & his campe by vs, and we sit in the seate of his Kingdom: 54. and now let vs make amitie one with an other: & giue me thy daughter to wife, and I wil be thy sonne in law, & I wil giue thee gifts, and to her dignitie. 55. And King Ptolomee answered, saying: HAPPY is the day wherein thou art returned to the land of thy fathers, and art set in the seate of thy Kingdom. 56. And now I wil doe to thee that which thou hast writen: but meet me at Ptolomais, that we may see one another, and I may despouse her to thee as thou hast sayd. 57. And Ptolomee went out of Ægypt, he & Cleopatra his daughter, & he came to Ptolomais in the yeare an hundred threescore and two. 58. And Alexander the King mette him, & he gaue him Cleopatra his daughter: and he made her mariage at Ptolomais, as Kings in great glorie. 59. And King Alexander wrote to Ionathas, that he should come to meete him. 60. And he went with glorie to Ptolomais, & he met there the two Kings, & he gaue thē much siluer,

d) Notwithstanding the great offers of euil disposed men, Ionathas and al prudent men considering their former wicked deeds do not giue credite to glorious wordes. (e) This Ptolomeus Philometor decided a controuersie, that the Iewes had the true temple in Ierusalem, and that the Samaritanes temple in Garizim was schismatical: which he iudged, because albeit both pleaded antiquitie, yet only the Iewes proued by continual succession of high priests from Aaron, and shewed that the other departed from them, first in the time of Ieroboam, and afterwards built that temple in Garizim, when

& gold, & gifts: & he found grace in their sight. 61. And there assēbled against him pestilent men of Israel, wicked men solliciting against him: & the King attended not to them. 62. And he cōmanded Ionathas to be changed of his garments, & that he should be clothed with purple: and so they did. And the King placed him to sit with himself. 63. And he said to his Princes: Goe ye out with him into the middes of the citie, & proclame, that no man sollicite against him for any matter, & that no man be troublesome vnto him for any cause. 64. And it came to passe, as they that sollicitēd (f) saw his glorie that was published, & him couered with purple, they affled: 65. & the King magnified him, & wrote him amongst his chiefe freinds, & made him Duke, & partaker of the principedom. 66. And Ionathas returned into Ierusalē with peace & ioy. 67. In the yeare an hundreth sixtie siue came Demetrius the sonne of Demetrius from Crete into the land of his fathers. 68. And Alexander the King heard it, & he was verie sorie, & returned to Antioche. 69. And Demetrius the King made Apollonius general, who was ruler of Cœlesiria: & he gathered a great armie, & came to Iamnia: & he sent to Ionathas the High-Priest, 70. saying: Thou onlie resistest vs, & I am brought into dēriſion, & into reproch, because thou doest exercise powre against vs in the mountaines 71. Now therefore if thou trust in thy forces, come downe to vs in the plaine, let vs compare there one with an other: because with me is the force of battels. 72. Aske, & learne who I am, & the rest, that aide me, who also say that your foot can not stand before our face, because twiſe haue thy fathers been put to flight in their owne land: 73. and now how wilt thou be able to abide the horsemen, & so great an armie in the plaine, where is no stone, nor rocke, nor place to flye? 74. But as Ionathas heard the words of Apollonius, he was moued in mind: & he chose ten thousand men, & went forth from Ierusalem, & Simon his brother met him to ayde him. 75. And they moued the campe to Ioppe, & it shut him out of the citie: because the garison of Apollonius was in Ioppe, & he assaulted it. 76. And they that were in the citie being put in great feare, opened to him, & Ionathas obtēyēd Ioppe. 77. And Apollonius heard it, & he tooke three thousand horsemen, & a great armie. 78. And he went to Azotus as making iourney, and immediately he went forth into the plaine: because he had a multitude of horsemen, and he trusted in them. And Ionathas pursued him vnto Azotus, and they ioyned battel. 79. And Apollonius left in the campe a thousand horsemen behind them secretly. 80. And Ionathas vnderstood that there was an embuſhement behind him, and they compassed his campe, and they threw dartes vpon the people from morning euen vnto euening. 81. But (g) the people stood, as Ionathas had commanded: and their horses laboured. 82. And Simon put forth his armie, and ioyned it against the legion: for the horsemen were wearied: and they were discomfited by him, and fled. 83. And they that were scattered by the playne, fled into Azotus, and entered into Bethdagon their idol house,

(g) Ionathas set his armie in that manner as on euerie side his men stood in front readie to resist the force of the enemy coming towards them, al their backs so turned within their owne squadron, that the enemy could no way enter without present resistance: and so those of the embuſhment could only cast dartes, but could not breake the aray of Ionathas: nor make any entrance without their owne present death.

And Ionathas burnt Azotus , and the cities that were round about it , and he tooke the spoiles of them, and the temple of Dagon : and al that fled into it , he burnt with fire. 85. And there were slayne by the sword , with these that were burnt , almost eight thousand men. 86. And Ionathas remo- ued the campe from thence , and brought it to Ascalon : and they went out of the citie to meete him in great glorie. 87. And Iona- thas returned into Ierusalem with his companie , hauing manie spoiles. 88. And it came to passe : as Alexander the King heard these words, he added yet to glorie Ionathas. 89. And he sent him a chaine of gold , as the custome is to be giuen to the cousins of Kings. And he gaue him Accaron and al the borders therof in possession.

AND the King of Ægypt gathered an armie , (a) as the sand that is about the sea shore , and manie shippes : and he sought to winne the Kingdom of Alexander by guile, and to adde it to his owne Kingdom. 2. And he went out into Syria with peaceable words , & they opened to him the cities, and mette him : because Alexander the King had commanded them to goe forth to meete him , for that he was his father in law. 3. But when Ptolomee entered the cities, he put garrisons of souldiars in euerie citie. 4. And as he approached to Azotus , they shewed him the temple of dagon burnt with fyre, and Azotus, & the rest therof throwen downe, and the bodies-cast forth, & the graues of them that were slaine in the battel , which they had made neere the way. 5. And they told the King that Ionathas did these things : to raise enuie against him : and the King held his peace. 6. And Ionathas came to meete the King into Ioppe with glorie , and they saluted one an other , and they slept there.

7. And Ionathas went with the King euen to the riuer, that was called Eleutherus, and he returned into Ierusalem. 8. And King Ptolomee obeyned the dominion of the cities euen to Seleucia by the sea side, and he purposed euil purposes against Alexander. 9. And sent legates to Demetrius, saying: Come, let vs make a league between vs, and I will giue thee my daughter that Alexander hath, and thou shalt reigne in the Kingdom of thy father. 10. For it repenteth me that I haue giuen him my daughter: for he hath sought to kil me. 11. And he dispraised him, for that he coueted his kingdom, 12. and he tooke away his daughter, & gaue her to Demetrius, and alienated himself from Alexander, and his enmities were made manifest. 13. And Ptolomee entred into Antioch, & he put two crownes vpon his head, of Ægypt, & of Asia. 14. But Alexander the King was in Cilicia at that time: because they rebelled that were in those places. 15. And Alexander heard it, and came to him into battel: and Ptolomee the King brought forth an armie, and mette him with a strong power, and put him to flight. 16. And Alexander fled into Arabia, there to be protected: and King Ptolomee was exalted. 17. And Zabdiel an Arabian tooke off Alexanders head, & sent it to Ptolomee. 18. And King Ptolomee died the third day: & they that were in the fortresses, perished by them that were within the campe. 19. And Demetrius reigned the yeare an hundreth sixtie seuen. 20. In those dayes Ionathas gathered together thē, that were in Iurie, to winne the castel in Ierusalem: and they made engins against it. 21. And certaine (b) that hated their owne nation wicked men, went to King Demetrius, and told him that Ionathas besieged the castel. 22. And as he heard it he was wrath: and forthwith he came to Ptolemais, and wrote to Ionathas, that he should not besiege the castel, but should meet him to talke together in hast. 23. But as Ionathas heard it, (c) he bade them besiege it: and he chose of the ancients of Israel, and of the Priests, and put himself in hazard. 24. And he tooke gold, & siluer, and rayments, & manie other presents, & went to the King to Ptolemais, and he found grace in his sight. 25. And certaine wicked men of his natiō solicited against him. 26. And (d) the King did to him, as they had done to him which had been before him: and he exalted him in the sight of al his freinds, 27. and he established to him the chiefe Priesthood, & whatsoever other things he had before precious, & he made him the chiefe of his freinds. 28. And Ionathas requested of the King that he would make Iurie free, & the three (e) toparchies, and Samaria, & the confines therof: and he promised him three hundred talents. 29. And the King consented: and he wrote to Ionathas epistles of al these things, conteyning this tenure. 30. KING Demetrius to his brother Ionathas greeting, and to the nation of the Iewes. 31. A copie of the epistle, which we haue writen to Lathenes our parent cōcerning you, we haue sent to you that you might know it. 32. KING Demetrius to Lathenes his parent greeting. 33. keep the things that are iust with vs, for their gentlenes which they beare towards vs. 34. We haue ordayned therefore vnto them al the coasts of Iurie, & the three cities, Apherema, Lyda, & Ramatha; which are added to Iurie of Samaria, & al their confines, to be sequestred to al them that sacrifice in Ierusalē, for these things, which the King receiued of them euerie yeare, and for the fruits of the land, and of the trees. 35. And other things, that pertained to vs of the tithes, and of the tributes, from this time we remitte to them: & the salt floores, and the crownes, that were presented to vs, 36. we grant al to thē, & nothing of these shal be broken from this time, and for euer. 37. Now therefore prouide to make a copie of these, and let it be giuen to Ionathas, & let it be layd in the holie mount, and in a solemne place. 38. And Demetrius the King seeing that the lād was quiet in his sight, & nothing resisted him, he dismissed al his armie, euerie man to his place, except the forren armie, which he brought from the iles of the Gentils: and al the bands of his fathers were enemies to him. 39. And there was one Tryphō of Alexanders part before: and he saw that al the armie murmured against Demetrius, & he went to Emalchuel the Arabian, that brought vp Antiochus the sonne of Alexander: 40. And he lay vpon him, to deliuer this Antiochus vnto him, to reigne in his fathers place: and he declared vnto him what great things Demetrius did, and the enmities of his hosts against him. And he taried there manie dayes. 41. And Ionathas sent to Demetrius the King, that he would cast out thē, that were in the castel in Ierusalem, and that were in the holds: because they impugned Israel. 42. And Demetrius sent to Ionathas, saying: I wil not onlie doe these things for thee, & for thy nation, but with glorie I wil honour thee, & thy nation, when it shal be time conuenient. 43. Now therefore thou shalt doe wel if thou wilt send men to helpe me: because al mine armie is departed. 44. And Ionathas sent him (f) three thousand valient men to Antioch: and they came to the King, & the King was delighted at their comming. 45. And there assembled they that were of the citie, an hundred twentie thousand men, and they would haue slaine the King. 46. And the King fled into the court: & they that were of the citie kept the wayes of the citie, and began to fight. 47. And the King called the Iewes for ayde: & they came together to him al at once, & they were al dispersed through the citie. 48. And they flew in that day an hundred thousand men, & they burnt the citie, & tooke manie spoiles in that day, & deliuered the King. 49. And they that were of the citie saw, that the Iewes had obteyned the citie as they would: and they were discomfited in their minde, and cried to the King with petitions, saying: 50. Giue vs the right hand, and let the Iewes cease to oppugne vs & the citie. 51. And they threw away their weapons, & made peace, & the Iewes were glorified in the Kings sight, & were renoumed in the sight of al that were in his Kingdom, & returned into Ierusalem with manie spoiles. 52. And King Demetrius sare in the seat of his Kingdom: and the land was at rest in his sight. 53.

53. And he feyned al things whatsoeuer he sayd, & alienated himself frō Ionathas, and he requited him not according to the benefits, that he had giuen him, and he vexed him exceedingly. 54. And after these things Tryphon returned, & with him Antiochus the yong boy, who reigned, and put the crowne vpon him. 55. And there gathered vnto him al the bands, which Demetrius had dispersed, and they fought agaynst him: & he fled, and returned the backe. 56. And Tryphon tooke the beasts, and wanne Antioch. 57. And Antiochus the yong man wrote to Ionathas, saying: I appoynt to thee the Priest-hood, & I place thee ouer the foure cities, that thou mayst be of the Kings freinds. 58. And he sent him vessels of gold for his seruice, and he gaue him leauē (g) to drinke in gold, and to be in purple, & to haue a cheyne of gold: 59. And he appointed Simon his brother gouernour from the borders of Tyre euen to the coasts of Ægypt. 60. And Ionathas went forth, & walked through the cities beyond the riuer: and al the band of Syria gathered vnto him to helpe him, and he came to Ascalō, & they met him honourably out of the citie. 61. And he went from thence to Gaza: and they that were in Gaza shut in themselves: and he besieged it, & burnt the things that were round about the citie, and he spoiled it. 62. And the men of Gaza besought Ionathas, and he gaue them the right hand: and he tooke their sonnes for hostages, & sent them into Ierusalem: and he walked through the countrie euen to Damascus. 63. And Ionathas heard that the Princes of Demetrius preuaricated in Cades, which is in Galilee, with a great armie meaning to remoue him from the affayres of the Kingdō: 64. and he wēt against thē: but his brother Simon he left within the Prouince. 65. And Simon approached to Bethsura, and expugned it manie dayes, and inclosed them. 66. And they requested of him (h) to take the right hands, and he gaue it them: and he cast them out from thence, and tooke the citie, & placed therein a garrison. 67. And Ionathas and his campe approached to the water of Genesar, and before it was liaht they watched in the plaine Asor. 68. And loe the campe of the aliens mette him in the playne, and they layd embushments for him in the mountaines: but he went against them. 69. And the embushments rose out of their places, & they ioyned battel. 70. And al fled that were on Ionathas part, and (i) none was left of them, but Mathathias the sonne of Absolom, and Iudas the sonne of Calphi, chiefe captayne of the chilualrie of the host. 71. And Ionathas rent his garments, and put earth vpon his head, and prayed. 72. And Ionathas returned to them into battel, and he put them to flight, and they fought. 73. And they of his part that fled saw, and returned to him, and pursued with him euen to Cades to their campe, and the came euen thither. 74. And there fel of the aliens in that day three thousand men: and Ionathas returned into Ierusalem.

And they went to Rome, and entered into the court, and sayd: Ionathas the high-Priest, and the nation of the Iewes haue sent vs to renew the amitie and societie according as before. 4. And they gaue them epistles vnto them by place and place, to conduct them into the land of Iuda with peace. 5. And this is a copie of the epistles which Ionathas wrote to the Spartiates: 6. I O N A T H A S the high Priest, and the ancients of the nation, and the Priests, and the rest of the people of the Iewes, to the Spartiates (b) their brethren greeting. 7. Long agoe were epistles sent to Onias the high-Priest from Arius who reigned with you, that you are our brethren, as the writing containeth, that here beneath foloweth. 8. And Onias receiued the man that was sent with honour: and he receiued the epistles, wherein there was signification of the societie and amitie. 9. We wheras we needed none of these, hauing for our comfort the holie Books, that are in our hands, 10. chose rather to send vnto you to renew the fraternitie, lest perhaps we be made aliens from you: for much time is passed, since you sent to vs. 11. We therefore at al time without intermission in the solemne dayes, and the rest wherein we should, are mindful of you in the sacrifices, that we offer, and in the obseruances, as it is meet, and becometh to remember brethren. 12. We reioyce therefore of your glorie. 13. But manie tribulations haue compassed vs, and manie battels, and the Kings that are round about vs, haue impugned vs. 14. We therefore would not be troublesome to you, nor to the rest our felowes & friends in these battels. 15. For we haue had ayde from heauen, and we are deliuered, and our enemies are humbled. 16. We haue chosen therefore Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Iason, and haue sent to the Romanes to renew with them the old amitie and societie. 17. We therefore haue commanded them that they come vnto you also, and salute you, and deliuer you our epistles, concerning the

It is found (d) in scripture of the Spartians, and the Iewes, that they are brethren, & that they are of the stocke of Abraham. 22. And now since we vnderstood these things, you doe wel in writing to vs of your peace. 23. Yea and we haue written agayne to you, Our cattel, and our possessions, are yours: and yours, ours. We therefore haue commanded that these things be told you. 24. And Ionathas heard that the Princes of Demetrius were come againe with a great armie more then before to fight against him. 25. And he went out from Ierusalem, & mette them in the countrie of Amathis: for he gaue them not space to enter into his countrie. 26. And he sent spies into their campe, and they returning reported that they appointed to come vpon them in the night. 27. And when the sunne was set, Ionathas commanded his men to watch, and to be in armour readie to fight all night, and he set watchmen round about the campe. 28. And the aduersaries heard that Ionathas with his companie was prepared to battel: & they feared & were afrayd in their hart: and they kindled fyres in their campe. 29. But Ionathas, & they that were with him, knew in not til the morning, and they saw light burning, 30. and Ionathas folowed them, & overtooke them not: for they had passed the riuer Eleutherus. 31. And Ionathas turned aside to the Arabians, that were called Zabadeans, & he stricke them, & tooke the spoiles of them. 32. And he ioyned, & came to Damascus, & walked through all that countrie. 33. But Simon went forth, and came euen to Ascalon, and to the next holds, and he declined into Ioppe, and tooke it. (34. For he heard that they would deliuer the hold to Demetrius part) and he put a garrison there to keepe it. 35. And Ionathas returned, and called together the ancients of the people, & he consulted with them to build fortresses in Iurie, 36. & to build the wals in Ierusalem, and to reare a mount of a great height between the castel and the citie, to separate it from the citie, that it might be alone, and they might neither bye nor sel: 37. And they came together to build the citie: and the wal fel that was vpon the torrent toward the rising of the sunne, and he repayred it, which is called Capheterha: 38. and Simon built Adiada in Sephela, and fortified it, and hanged on gates & locks. 39. And when (e) Tryphon had purposed to reigne ouer Asia, and to take the crowne, and to extend his hand against Antiochus the King: 40. fearing lest perhaps Ionathas would not permit him, but would fight against him, he sought to take him and to kil him. And rising vp he went into Bethsan. 41. And Ionathas went forth to meete him with fourtie thousand chosen men into battel, and came to Bethsan. 42. And Tryphon saw that Ionathas came with a great armie, to extend his hands vpon him: and he feared: 43. and receiued him with honour, & commanded him to al his friends, and gaue him gifts: and he com-

(e) Morally in Tryphon is noted the practise of the diuel: who intending to overthrow a King or a Kingdom, first seeketh to deceine the pastors, and to destroy them: especially by error or other sinne. For (as S. Gregorie teacheth. ho. 38.) if the pastor's life be corrupted, his doctrine will be contemned.

maigned his noits to obey him, as himself. 44. And he sayd to Ionathas: Why hast thou troubled al the people, wheras we haue no warre? 45. And now send them backe to their houses, but choose thee a few men, that may be with thee, and come with me to Ptolomais, and I wil deliuer it to thee, and the other holds, and the armie, and al the ouerseers of the affaires, and returning I wil depart: for therefore I came. 46. And Ionathas belieued him, and did as he sayd: and dismissed his armie, and they departed into the land of Iuda: 47. but he reteyned with him three thousand men: of whom he sent backe two thousand into Galilee, and a thousand came with him. 48. But as Ionathas entered into Ptolemas, they of Ptolemas shut the gates of the citie, and they tooke him, and al that had entered with him they slew with the sword. 49. And Tryphon sent an armie and horsemen into Galilee, and into the great playne to destroy al Ionathas felowes. 50. But they when they vnderstood that Ionathas was taken, & was perished, and al that were with him, they encouraged themselues, and went forth readie to battel. 51. And these that had pursued, seeing that the matter stood vpon their life, they returned. 52. But they came al with peace into the land of Iuda. And they lamented Iouathas, & them that were with him exceedingly: and Israel mourned with great mourning. 53. And al the heathen that were round about them, sought to destroy them, for they sayd: 54. They haue no Prince, and helper: now therefore let vs expugne them, and take away from men the memorie of them.

CHAP. XIII.

Simon exhorteth the people to defend themselues, and religion: 7. is made general captaine. 14. Tryphon demandeth an hundred talents of siluer, and hostages for Ionathas, 17. which are sent (to satisfie the people.) Tryphon receiueth the ransom; 23. Killeth Ionathas, and his sonnes. 25. Simon erecteth a memorie to his parents and brethren. 31. Tryphon murdereth his young King. 33. Simon fortifieth the countrie, obteyneth peace, and liberties of Demetrius: 42. subueth the citie Gaza, and the rebellious castle within Ierusalem.

(a) Simon the fourth general captaine of the Machabees, & high-priest excelled his bretheren in wisdom, by the testimonie of his father, c. 2. v. 65.

ND (a) Simon heard that Tryphon gathered a very great armie, to come into the land of Iuda, and to destroy it. 2. Seeing that the people was in dread, and in feare, he went vp to Ierusalem, and assembled the people: 3. and exhorting he sayd: You know what great battels I and my brethren, and the house of my father haue made for the lawes, and the holies, and the distresses that we haue seen: 4. by reason of these are al my brethren perished for Israel, and I onlie am left. 5. And now let it not fal to me to spare my life in al time of tribulation for I am not better then my brethren. 6. I wil (b) auenge therefore my nation and the holies, our children also, and wiues: because al the heathen are gathered together to destroy vs of emittie. 7. And the spirit of the people was kindled as soone as they heard these words: 8. and they answered with a loud voice, saying: Thou art our captayne in the place of Iudas, and Ionathas thy brother: 9. fight thou our battel, and we wil doe al things whatsoever thou shalt say to vs. 10. And gathering together al the men of warre, he hastened to finish al the wals of Ierusalem, and fortified it round about. 11. And he sent Ionathas the sonne of Absalom, and with him a new armie into Ioppe, and they that were in the castel being cast out, he remayned there. 12. And Tryphon removed from Ptolemais with a great armie, to come into the land of Iuda, and Ionathas with him inward. 13. But Simon pitched in Addus against the face of the plaine. 14. And as Tryphon vnderstood that Simon was risen in the place of his brother Ionathas: and that he would ioyne battel with him, he sent legats to him, 15. saying: For the siluer, that thy brother Ionathas owed in the Kings account, for the affaires which he had, we haue stayed him. 16. And now send an hundred talents of siluer, and his two sonnes for hostages, that being dimissed he flye not from vs, and we wil release him. 17. And Simon knew that with guile he spake with him, (c) neuertheles he commanded the siluer, and the children to be giuen: lest he should get great emittie with the people of Israel, saying: 18. Because he sent not the siluer, and the children, therefore is he perished. 19. And he sent the children, and the hundred talents: and he lyed, and dismissed not Ionathas. 20. And after these things came Tryphon within the countrie, to destroy it, and they compassed by the way that leadeth to Addar, and Simon, & his campe marched into euerie place whither soeuer they went. 21. And they that were in the castel sent legats to Tryphon, that he should hasten to come through the desert, and should send them victuals. 22. And Tryphon prepared al the horsemen to come that night: but there was an exceeding great snow, and he came not into the countrie of Galaad. 23. And when he had approached to Bascama, he slew Ionathas and his sonnes there. 24. And Tryphon returned, and went into his countrie. 25. And Simon sent and rooke the bones of Ionathas his brother, and buried them in Modin the citie of his fathers. 26. And al Israel lamented him with great lamentation: and they mourned for him manie dayes. 27. And Simon (d) built ouer the sepulcher of his father and of his brethren a building high to behold, of stone polished behind and before: 28. and he erected seuen spyres one against one, to his father and mother, and to his foure brethren: 29. and about these he set great pillers: and vpon the pillers armour for an eternal memorie: and by the armour thips grauen, which might be seen of al that sayled the sea. 30. This is the sepulcher, that he made in Modin euen vntil this day. 31. But Tryphon when he iourneyed with Antiochus the King, being but a yong man,

(c) Simon being wise chose the lesse euil, and lesse danger. For if he had not sent that was demanded, it was very like and almost certaine, that Ionathas should be slaine, and it would haue bene imputed to Simon, that he had not taken iust care of his brothers life, whereby the people would haue bene alienated from him, and perhaps haue revolted from him, and also from religion. by guile he slew him. 32. And he reigned in his place, & put the crowne of Asia vpon himself, and made a great plague in the land. 33. And Simon built the fortresses of Iurie, fortifying them with high towres, & great wals, and gates, and locks: and he put victuals in the fortresses. 34. And Simon chose men & sent to Demetrius the King, that he would make a release to the countrie: because al Tryphons actes had been done by spoile. 35. And Demetrius the King according to these words answered him, and wrote an epistle in this manner: 36. KING Demetrius to Simon the High-Priest, and the freind of Kings, and to the ancients, and to the nation of the Iewes, greeting. 37. The crowne of gold, and * the bahem, which you sent, we haue receiued: and we are readie to make with you great peace, and to write to the Kings chiefe officers to release you the things that we haue released. 38. For whatsoeuer things we haue decreed vnto you, stand in force. The holdes that you haue built, let them be to you. 39. We remitte also the ignorances, and offences euen vntil this day, and the crowne which you owed: and if any other thing was tributarie in Ierusalem, now let it not be tributarie. 40. And if anie of you be fit to be enrolled among ours, let them be enrolled, and let there be peace between vs. 41. In the yeare an hundredth seuentie was the yoke of the Geniuls taken away from Israel. 42. And the people of Israel began to write in the tables, and publique instruments. The first yeare vnder Simon the High-Priest, the great Duke, and the Prince of the Iewes: 43. In these dayes Simon approached to Gaza, and compassed it with campes, and he made engins, and set them to the citie, and he struck one towre, and tooke it. 44. And they that were within the engin, brake out into the citie: and there was made a great sturre in the citie. 45. And they that were in the citie went vp with their wiues and children vpon the wal their coates rent, and they cried with a lowd voice, desyring of Simon that the right hands might be giuen them, 46. and they sayd: Requite vs not according to our malices, but according to thy mercies. 47. And Simon yealding destroyed them not: but (e) yet he cast them out of the citie, and clensted the houses, wherein there had been idols, and then he entred into it with hymes blessing our Lord: 48. and al filthines being cast out of it, he placed in it men that should doe the law: and he fortified it, and made it his habitation. 49. But they that were in the castel of Ierusalem, were prohibited to goe out and to come into the countrie, and to bye and sel: and they were exceeding hungrie, and manie of them perished for famine, 50. and they cried to Simon to receiue the right hands, and he gaue it them: and he cast them out from thence, and clensted the castel from the contaminations: 51. and they entred into it the three and twentieth day of the second month, the yeare and hundredth seuentie one, with prayse, and boughes of palme trees, and harpes, and cymbals, and nables, and hymnes, and canticles, because the great enemy was destroyed out of Israel. 52. CHAP. XIII.

Demetrius inuading Media is taken captiue: 4. and Iurie is in peace. 14. Simon cherisheth the godlie, and punisheth the wicked: 16. receiveth freinlie letters from the Romanes and Spartiates: 20. wherof the copie is recited: 24. sendeth a legare to Rome with a present. 25. Ana is established high-Priest and gouernour by publique consent.

IN the yeare an hundreth seuentie two, King Demetrius gathered his armie, and went into Media to get him aydes to expugne Tryphon. 2. And Arsaces the King of Persia, and Media heard, that Demetrius was entred his confines, and he sent one of his Princes to take him aliue. 3. And he went, and struck the campe of Demetrius: and tooke him, and brought him to Arsaces, and he put him into ward. 4. And (a) al the land of Iuda was at rest al the dayes of Simon, and he fought good to his nation: & his power, and his glorie pleased them al dayes. 5. And with al his glorie he tooke Ioppe for an hauen, and made it an entrance vnto the iles of the sea. 6. And he enlarged the borders of his nation, and obeyned the countrie. 7. And gathered a great (b) captiuitie, and had the dominion of Gazara, and of Besura, and of the castle: and tooke away the vn-cleanes out of it, and there was none that resisted him. 8. And euerie man tilled his land with peace: and the land of Iuda yealded her fruits, and the trees of the fields their fruit. 9. The ancients sate al in the streets, and treated of the good things of the land, and the yongmen did on them glorie, and the stoles of warre. 10. And he gaue victuals to the cities, and he appointed them that they should be vessels of munition, til the name of his glorie was renoumed euen to the end of the earth. 11. He made peace vpon the land, and Israel reioyced with great ioy. 12. And euerie man sate vnder his vine, and vnder his figtree: and there was none to make them afraid. 13. There was none lett that impugned the vpon the earth: Kings were discomfited in those dayes. 14. And he confirmed al the humble of his people, and sought the law, & tooke away euerie wicked and euil man: he glorified the holies, and multiplied the vessels of the holie places. 16. And it was heard at Rome that Ionathas was dead, & euen vnto the Spartiats: and they were very sorie. 17. But as they heard that Simon his brother was made the High-Priest in his place, and he obteyned al the countrie, and the cities therein; 18. they wrote to him in brasen tables, to renew the amities and societie, which they had made with Iudas, & with Ianathas his brethren. 19. And they were read in the sight of the Church in Ierusalem. And this is a copie of the epistles, that the Spartiates sent. 20. THE PRINCES and (c) the cities of the Spartians to Simon the grand Priest, & to the ancients, and the Priests, and the rest of the people of the Iewes their brethren, greeting. 21. The legates, that were sent to our people, haue told vs of your glorie, and honour, and ioy: and we reioyced at their entrance. 22. And we wrote that, which was sayd of them in the counsels of the people, thus: Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Iason, legates of the Iewes, came to vs, renewing with vs old amitie. 23. And it pleased the people to receiue the men gloriously, and to put a copie of their words in the feuered Book of the people, to be for a memorie to the people of the Spartiats. And a copie of these we haue written to Simon the grand Priest. 24. And after these things Simon sent Numenius to Rome, hauing a great buckler of gold, of the weight of thousand pounds, to establiſh amitie with them. But when the people of Rome had heard 25. these words, they sayd: What thanks giuing ſhal we render to Simon & his children? 26. For he hath restored his brethren, and hath expugned the enemies of Israel from them: and they decreed him libertie, & registred it in tables of brasse, & put it in titles in mount Sion. 27. And this is a copie of the writing. THE EIGHTEENTH day of the month Elul, in the yeare an hundredth seuentie two, the third yeare vnder Simon the grand-Priest in Ataramel, 28. in a great assemblie of the Priests, and of the people & the Princes of the nation, and the ancients of the countrie, these things were notified: that there haue often been battels made in our countrie. 29. But Simon the sonne of Mathathias of the children of Iarib, & his brethren put themſelues in danger, and resisted the aduersaries of their nation, that their holies and law might stand: and with great glorie haue they glorified their nation. 30. And Ionathas gathered together his nation, & was made their grand Priest, & he was layd to his people. 31. And their enemies would conculcate, and destroy their countrie, and extend their hands against the holies. 32. Then Simon, resisted and fought for his nation, and bestowed much money, and armed the valient men of his nation, and gaue them wages: 33. and he fortified the cities of Iurie, and Bethsura, that was in the borders of Iurie, where the armour of the enemies was before: and he placed there Iewes for a garrison. 34. And he fortified Ioppe, which was by the sea: and Gazara; which is in the borders of Azotus, wherein the enemies dwelt before, and he placed Iewes there: and whatsoever was fitte for their correption, he

d) When peace was established in al Iurie, and freindshippe confirmed with the Romanes, & Lacedemonians, the whole nation of the Iewes in gratitude towards Simon, who onlie now remained of Mathathias sonnes, confirmed him in the office of high-priest perpetually or for ever, v. 41 that is, during his life, & to his progenie, v. 49.

put in them. 35. And the people saw the fact of Simon, and the glorie that he meant to doe to his nation, and they made him their duke, and grand Priest, for that he had done al these things, and for the iustice, and fayth, which he kept to his nation, and for that he sought by al meanes to aduance his people. 36. And in his dayes it prospered in his hands, so that the heathen were taken away out of their countrie, and they that were in the citie of Dauid in Ierusalem in the castel, out of which they came forth, and contaminated al things that were round about the holies, and they brought great plague vpon chastitie: 37. and he placed in it men of Turie to the defence of the countrie, and of the citie, and he raysed the wals of Ierusalem. 38. And King Demetrius appointed him the high-Priest-hood. 39. According to these things he made him his freind, and glorified him with great glorie. 40. For he heard that the Iewes were called of the Romanes, freinds, & felowes, & brethren, & that they receiued Simons legats gloriously: 41. and that the Iewes, and their Priests consented that he should be their duke, & high-Priest(e) for euer, til there rise the faithful Prophet: 42. and that he be duke ouer them, and that he should haue the care of the holies, and that he should appoint rulers ouer their works, and ouer the countrie, and ouer the armour, and ouer the holds. 43. And that he haue care of the holies: and that he be heard of al, and that al writings in the countrie be written in his name: and that he be clothed with purple and gold: 44. and that it be not lawful for any of the people, and of the Priests to disanul anie of these, and to gainsay those things, that are sayd of him, or to cal together an assemblie in the countrie without him: & to be clothed with purple, & to weare a cheyne of gold. 45. But he that shal doe beside these things, or shal make frustrate any of these, he shal be guiltie. 46. And it pleased al the people to appoint Simon, and to doe according to these words. 47. And Simon tooke it vpon him, and it pleased him to execute high Priest-hood, and to be duke & Prince of the nation of the Iewes, and of the Priests, and to be chiefe ouer al. 48. And this writing they bad them put in tables of brasse, and to set them in the circuite of the holies, in a famous place: 49. and to put a copie therof in the treasure, that Simon may haue it, and his children.

Antiochus by his letters granteth great priuileges to Simon: 10. pursueth Thryphon, and inuironeth him. 15. The Romanes commend the Iewes to oiber nations. 25. Antiochus refusing ayde sent by Simon, breaketh league, 30. and exacteth certaine cities, and tribute. 37. Thryphon escapeth, and oiber of the Kings forces inuade and spoile Iurie.

AND King Antiochus (a) the sonne of Demetrius sent epistles from the iles of the sea to Simon the Priest, and Prince of the nation of the Iewes, and to al the nation: 2. and they conteyned this tenure: KING Antiochus to Simon the grand-Priest, and to the nation of the Iewes greeting. 3. Because certaine pestilent men haue obteyned the Kingdome of our fathers, and I meane to chalenge the Kingdome, and to restore it as it was before: and I haue chosen a great armie, and haue made ships of warre. 4. And I wil march through the countrie, that I may take reuenge of them, that haue destroyed our countrie, and that haue made manie cities desolate in my realme. 5. Now therefore I establish vnto thee al the oblations, which al the Kings before me remitted vnto thee, & what other guifts soeuer they remitted thee: 6. and I permitte thee to make a coyne of thy owne money in thy countrie: 7. and Ierusalem to be holie and free, and al the armour that is made, and the fortresses which thou hast built, and which thou dost hold, let them remayne to thee. 8. And al that is dew to the King, and the things that are to be the Kings hereafter, from this present and for al time, they are remitted to thee. 9. And when we shal haue obteyned our Kingdome, we wil glorifie thee, and thy nation, & the temple with great glorie, so that your glorie shal be made manifest in al the earth. 10. In the yeare an hundredth seuentie foure went forth Antiochus into the land of his fathers, and al the hosts assembled vnto him, so that there were few left with Thryphon. 11. And Antiochus the King pursued him, and he came to Dora flying by the sea coast. 12. For he knew that euils were heaped vpon him, and the armie forsooke him. 13. And Antiochus camped vpon Dora with an hundred twentie thousand men of warre, & eight thousand horsemen: 14. and he compassed the citie, and the ships approached to the sea: & they vexed the citie by land & by sea, and suffered none to come in, or to goe out. 15. And (b) Numenius came, and they that had been with him, from the citie of Rome, hauing epistles written to Kings, and countries, wherein were conteyned these words: 16. fauours of the Iewes our freinds came to vs, renewing the old amitie, and societie, being sent from Simon the Prince of the Priests, and the people of the Iewes. 18. And they brought also a buckler of gold of a thousand pownds. 19. It hath pleased vs therefore to write to the Kings, & countries, that they doe them no harme, nor impugne them, & their cities, and their countries: and that they giue no ayde to them that fight against them. 20. And it hath seemed good vnto vs to take the buckler of them. 21. If therefore anie pestilent men are fled out of their countrie to you, deliuer them to Simon the Prince of the Priests, that he may punish them according to their law. 22. These self same things were written to Demetrius the King, and to Attalus, and to Ariarathes, and to Arfaces, 23. and into al countries: and to Lampfaces, & to the Spartiats, and to Delus, and to Myndus, and to Sicyon, & to Caria, and to Samus, & Pamphilia, and Lycia, and Alicarnassus, and Coos, & Siden, & Ara-don, and Rodes, and Phaselis, & Gortyna, and Gnidus, and Cypres, & Cyrence. 24. And a copie therof they wrote to Simon the Prince of the Priests and people of the Iewes. 25. But King Antiochus moued his campe vnto Dora the second time, setting hands alwayes vpon it, and making engins: & he shut vp Tryphon, that he could not goe forth. 26.
 And Simon sent vnto him two thousand chosen men for ayde, and siluer, & gold, and abouandance of furniture. 27. And he would not take them, but brake al things that he couenanted with him before, and alienated himselfe frō him. 28. And he sent to him Athenobius one of his freinds, to treat with him, saying: You hold Ioppe, and Gazara, and the castel, that is in Ierusalem, cities of my Kingdom: 29. their borders you haue made detolate, and you haue made a great plague in the land, and haue ruled in manie places in my Kingdom. 30. Now therefore deliuer the cities, that you haue taken, and the tributes of the places, wherin you haue ruled without the borders of Iurie. 31. But if not, giue you for the five hundred talents of siluer, and for the destruction, that you haue made, & the tributes of cities other five hundred talents: but if not, we wil come and expugne you. 32. And Athenobius the Kings freind came into Ierusalem, and saw the glorie of Simon, and his magnificence in gold, and siluer, and furniture abundant, and he was astonished, & told him the Kings words. 33. And Simon answered him, and sayd to him:
 Neither haue we taken other mens land, neither do we hold that is other mens: but the inheritance of our fathers, which was a certaine season vniustly possessed of our enemies. 34. But we hauing oportunitie challenge the inheritance of our fathers. 35. For concerning Ioppe, and Gazara, that thou complaynest (c) they made a great plague among the people, and in our countrie: for theise (c) we giue an hundred talents.
 And Athenobius answered him not a word. 36. But with anger returning to the King, he reported vnto him these words, and the glorie of Simon, and al things that he saw, and the King was wrath with great anger. 37. And Tryphon fled by shipp to Orthosias. 38. And the King appointed Cendebæus captaine by the sea coast, and gaue him an armie of foot men and horsemen. 39. And he commanded him to moue the campe against the face of Iurie: and he commanded him to build (a) Cedron, and to fortifie the gates of the citie, and to conquer the people. But the King pursued Tryphon. 40. And Cendebæus came to Iamnia, and began to prouoke the people, and to conculcate Iurie, & to take the people captiue, and to kil, and to build Cedron. 41. And he placed there horsemen, and an host: that going forth they might walke by the way of Iurie, as the King appointed him.

Simon sendeth two of his sonnes to fight against Cendebæus, 8. whom they overthrow. 11. Ptolemee Simons sonne in law, inuiting him to a feast treacherously killeth him, and his sonnes Iudas and Mathathias: 19. sendeth also men to kil Iohn, but he being warned of the treason, killeth them: 23. and succeedeth to his father in the gouernment.

a) After Simons death, his eldest sone Iohn, surnamed Hyrcanus, succeeded him in gouernment spiritual and temporal. v. 24.

AND (a) Iohn went vp from Gazara, and told Simon his father what Cendebæus did among their people. 2. And Simon called his two elder sonnes, Iudas and Iohn, and he sayd to them: I and my brethren, and the house of my father, haue expugned the enemies of Israel from our youth euen to this day: and it hath prospered in our hands to deliuer Israel oftentimes. 3. And now I am old, but be you in place of me, and my brethren, and going forth fight for our nation: and the helpe from heauen be with you. 4. And he chose out of the countrie twentie thousand fighting men and horsemen, and they went forth to Cendebæus: and they slept in Modin. 5. And they arose in the morning, and went into the plaine field: and loe a mightie great armie comming to meete them of foot men, and horsemen, & there was a running riuer between them. 6. And he camped against the face of them, himself and his people, and he saw the people fearful to passe through the torrent, and he passed through first: and the men saw him, and they passed ouer after him. 7. And he diuided the people, and the horsemen in the middes of the footemen: and the horsemen of the aduersaries were exceeding manie. 8. And they sounded with the hoiie trumpets: and Cendebæus was put to flight, and his campe: and there fel manie of them wounded, & the rest fled into the hold. 9. Then was Iudas Iohns brother wounded: But Iohn pursued them, til he came to Cedron, which he built: 10. and they fled euen to the towres, that were in the fields of Azotus, and he burnt them with fyre. And there fel of them two thousand men, and he returned into Iurie in peace. 11. And Ptolomee the sonne of Abobus was appointed captayne in the plaine of Iericho, and he had much siluer, & gold. 12. For he was the sonne in law of the high-Priest. 13. And his hart was exalted, and he would gayne the countrie, and he purposed treacherie against Simon and his sonnes to dispatch them. 14. And Simon walking through the cities, that were in the countrie of Iurie, and being careful of them, went downe into Iericho, he and Mathathias his sonne, and Iudas, the yeare an hundreth seuentie seuen, the eleuenth month: this is the month Sabath. 15. And the sonne of Abobus receiued them with guile into a litle fortresse, that is called Doch, which he built, and he made them a great feast, and hid men there. 16. And when Simon was (b) inebriated & his sonnes, Ptolomee arose with his companie, and they tooke their weapons, and entered into the feast, and slew him, and his two sonnes, and certain of his seruants. 17. And he did great deceite in Israel, and rendered euil for good. 18. And Ptolomee wrote these things, and sent to the King that he should send him an armie for ayde, and he would deliuer him the countrie, and their cities, and tributes. 19. And he sent others into Gazara to dispatch Iohn: and to the tribunes he sent epistles, that they should come to him, and he would giue them siluer, and gold, and gifts. 20. And he sent others to take Ierusalem, and the mount of the temple. 21. And one running before told Iohn in Gazara, that his father was perished, and his brethren, and that he hath sent that thou also mayst be slayne. 22. But as he heard it, he was exceedingly afrayd: and he apprehended the men, that came to destroy him, and he slew them: for he knew that they sought to destroy him. 23. And the rest concerning the words of Iohn, and his battels, and the valient-actes, which he did manfully, and the building of the wals, which he built, and the things that he did: 24. loe these are written in (c) the Book of the dayes of his priesthood, from the time that he was made Prince of the Priests after his father. *

THE SECOND BOOK OF MACABEES.

CHAP. I.

The Iewes in Ierusalem write to the Iewes in Ægypt, 7. signifying that they had writte be fore of manie afflictions past: 9. and now write againe, rendering thanks to God for their deliuerie from Antiochus: 18. exhorting their bretheren to keepe the feast of scenopegia: reciting the miracle of water returning into fire 24. when Nehemias prayea: 33. and that the King built a temple in memorie therof.

This Appendix concerning two epistles of the Iewes was added to the historie of the first booke by him that writte this second. 1. As they had written before in their afflictions, so now they exhorte their bretheren to be thankful to God, and amongst other meanes to shew their grateful minde by celebrating the feast of dedication of the new altar

O the bretheren, the Iewes that are throughout Ægypt, the bretheren, the Iewes that are in Ierusalem, and that are in the countrie of Iurie, send health, & good peace. 2. God doe good to you, and remember his testament, that he spake to Abraham, and Isaac, and Iacob, his faithfull seruants: 3. and giue he vnto you an hart to worship him him, and to doe his wil with a great hart, and a willing minde. 4. Open he your hart in his law, and in his precepts, and make peace. 5. Heare he your prayers, and be he reconciled vnto you, neither forsake he you in the euill time. 6. And now here we are praying for you. 7. When Demetrius reigned, in the yeare one hundreth sixtie nine, (1) we Iewes wrote vnto you in the tribulation, and violence, that came vpon vs in these yeares, since Iason reuolted from the holie land, and from the Kingdom. 8. They burnt the gate and the innocent blood: and we prayed to our Lord, & were heard, & we offered sacrifice, and fine floore, and lighted the lamps, and set forth there breads. 9. And now celebrate ye the dayes of Scenopegia of the month Casfeu. 10. In the yeare one hundredth eightie eight, the people that is at Ierusalem, and in Iurie, and the senate, and (b) Iudas, to Aristobolus the maister of Ptolomee the King, who is of the stock of the annointed Priests, and to those Iewes that are in Ægypt, health and welfare. 11. Being deliuered by God out of great dangers, we giue him thanks magnifically, as who haue fought against such a King. 12. For he made the swarme out of Persis, that haue fought against vs, & the holie citie. 13. For whē he was captaine in Persis, & with him a very great armie, he fel in the temple of Nania, being deceiued by the counsel of Naneaes Priests. 14. For Antiochus, and his freinds came to the place as to dwel with her, & that he might receiue much money vnder the title of a dowrie. 15. And when Naneaes Priests had layde it forth, and he with a few was entred within the cōpasse of the temple, they shut the tēple, 16. when Antiochus was entred in: & a secrete entrāce of the temple being opened, casting stones they struck the duke, and them that were with him, and diuided them in pieces, and cutting off their heads they threw them forth. 17. Blessed be the God in al things, who hath deliuered vp the impious. 18. We therefore meaning to keep the purification of the temple the five and twentieth day of the month Casfeu, thought it necessary to signifie vnto you: that you also may keep the day of Scenopegia, and the day of the fire that was giuen, when Nehemias, after the temple was built & the altar, offered sacrifice. 19. For when our fathers were caryed (c) into Persis, the Priests that then were the worshippers of God, taking the fire from the altar, hid it secretly in a valley: where there was a pitte deep, & dry, & therein they saued it, so that the place was vnkowne to al men. 20. But when manie yeares had passed, and it pleased God that Nehemias should be sent of the King of Persis: he sent the nephewes of those Priests, that had hid it, to seeke out the fire: and as they told vs, they found not fire, but (d) thicke water. 21. And he had them draw, and bring vnto him: and the sacrifices, that were layd on, the Priest Nehemias commanded to be sprinkled with the same water, and the wood, and the things that were layde therupon. 22. And as this was done, and the time was come that the sunne shone forth, which before was in a cloude, there (e) was kindled a great fire, so that al merueiled. 23. And al the Priests made prayer, whiles the sacrifice was consuming, Ionathas beginning, and the rest answering. 24. And the prayer of Nehemias was in this manner: O L O R D God creator of al, greadful, & strong, iust, & merciful, which only art the good King, 25. only giuer, only iust, and omnipotent, and eternal: which deliuered Israel from al euil, which madest the fathers elect, and didst sanctifie them. 26. Receiue the sacrifice for al thy people Israel, & keep thy Afflict them that oppresse vs, and that doe contumelie in pride. 29. Place thy people in thy holie place, as Moyses sayd. 30. And the Priests sang hymnes, til the sacrifice was consumed. 31. And when the sacrifice was consumed, of the rest of the water Nehemias commanded the greater stones to be throughly washed. 32. Which thing as it was done, out of them (f) was kindled a flame: but (g) by light also, that shined from the altar, it was consumed. 33. And as the thing was made manifest, it was told the King of the Persians, that in the place, wherein those Priests that were transported, had hid fire, there appeared water, with the which Nehemias, and they that were with him, purified the sacrifices. 34. And the King considering, and diligently examining the matter, made a temple for it, that he might approue that which was done. 35. And when he had approued it, he gaue to the Priests manie good things, and diuerse gifts, and taking them with his owne hand, he gaue to them. 36. And Nehemias called this place (b) Nephtar, which is interpreted purification. But it is called with manie Nephi.

Holie fire, and the Booke of the law were conserued by Ieremie the Prophet, in the transmigation into Babylon. 4. Likewise the Tabernacle of Moyses, the Arke, and Altar of incesse in a secrete place. 8. As Moyses had dedicated the Tabernacle, and Salomon the Temple: 14. so Iudas Machabeus cleansing the Temple, and making a new Altar, instituted a feast of the Dedication thereof. 20. The Preface of the Auctour abridging the historie of the Machabees written by Iason in fise Books.

ND it is found in the descriptions of Ieremie the Prophet, that he commanded them that went in transmigation, to take (a) the fire, as it was signified, and as he commanded them that were caried away in transmigation. 2. And he gaue them a law that they should not forget the precepts of our Lord, and that they should not erre in their minds, seeing the idols of gold, & siluer, & the ornaments of them. 3. And saying other like things, he exhorted them that they would not remoue the Law from their hart. 4. And it was in the same writing, how the Prophet commanded by the diuine answer made to him, that (b) the tabernacle, and the arke should folow in company with him, til he came forth into the mount in which Moyses ascended, and saw the inheritance of God. 5. And Ieremie comming thither found a place of a caue : and he brought the tabernacle, and the arke, & the altar of incense in thither and stopped the doore. 6. And there came certaine withal, that folowed, to marke the place for themselues : and they could not finde it. 7. And as Ieremie vnderstood it, bl'aming them he sayd : that the place shalbe vnknowne, til God gather together the congregation of the people, and become propitious : 8. and then our Lord wil shew these things, and the maiestie of our Lord shal appeare, and there shal be a cloude as it was also made manifest to Moyse, and as when Salomon prayed that the place might be sanctified to the great God, he did manifest these things. 9. For he handled wisdom magnifically : as hauing wisdom, did he offer the sacrifice of the dedication, and of the consummation of the temple. 10. As Moyse also prayed to our Lord, and as Salomon prayed, and fire came downe from heauen, and consumed the holocaust. 11. And Moyse sayd : Because that which was for sinne, was not eaten, it was consumed. 12. In like manner Salomon also eight dayes celebrated the dedication. 13. And these selfe same things were put in the descriptions and commentaries of Nehemias : & after what sord he making a librarie gathered together Books of the Prophets, and of Dauid, and the epistles of the Kings, and concerning the donaries. 14. And in like manner (c) Iudas also such things as were fallen away by the warre that happened to vs, gathered them al together, and they are with vs. 15. If therefore you desire things, send some that may fetch them vnto you. 16. We therefore meaning to keep the purification haue written vnto you : You shal doe wel then, if you keep these dayes. 17. And God that hath deliuered his people, and rendered the inheritance to al, the Kingdom, and the Priest-hood, and the sanctification, 18. as he promised in the law, we hope that he wil quickly haue mercie vpon vs, and wil gather vs together from vnder heauen into the holie place. 19. For he hath deliuered vs out of great perils, and hath purged the place. *

20. (d) Concerning Iudas Machabeus, and his brethren, and of the purification of the great temple, and of the dedication of the altar, 21. Yea and of the battels that perteyne to Antiochus the Noble, and his sonne Eupator : 22. and of the apparitions, that were made from heauen to them, that did manfully for the Iewes, so that being few they reuenged the whole countrie, and put to flight the barbarous multitude : 23. and repayred the most famous temple in al the world, and deliuered the citie, and the lawes that were abolished, were restored, our Lord with al clemencie being made propitious vnto them. 24. Also the things which by Iason the Cyrenean are comprised in fise Books, we haue attempted to abridge in one volume. 25. For considering the multitude of Books, & the difficultie to them, that wil attempt the narrations of histories, because of the multitude of matters : 26. we haue been careful for them that are willing to reade, that there might be delectation of the minde : and for the studious, that they may

For as the builder of a new house must haue care of the whole building: but he that hath the care to paint must seeke out the things that are apt for garnishing: so must it be esteemed also in vs. 31. For to gather together the vnderstanding, to order the speach, and curiously to discusse euery particular part, agreeth to the auctour of an historie: 32. but to pursue the breuitie of speach, and to auoyde the exact declarations of things, is to be granted to him that abridgeth. 33. From hence then wil we beginne the narration: of the preface let it be sufficient to haue sayd thus much. for it is a foolish thing before the historie to flow ouer, and in the historie to be short.*

When Ierusalem was in peace, and good order, by the care of Onias high Priest, and King seleucus fauoured pious works, 4. Simon a wicked churchwarden, betrayeth the treasure of the sanctuarie: 7. Whereupon Heliodorus sent by the King, and after curteous entertainments, declaring that he must carie al the money to the King, is resisted by Onias with others, deuoutly commending the cause to God. 23. He neuertheles attempting the sacriledge, is terrified by a vision, sore beaten, and in desperate miserie. 31. By Onias sacrifice and prayers is restored to health: 31. and returning home confesseth the power of God.

HEREFOR E when the holie (a) citie was inhabited in (1.) al peace, (2.) the lawes also as yet were very wel kept, because of Onias (3.) the high Priest his pious, and minde that hated euils, 2. it came to passe that Kings also themselves, and Princes esteemed the place worthie of high honour, & glorified the temple with verie great gifts: 3. so that Seleucus the King of Asia of his reuenues allowed al the charges pertyning to the ministerie of the sacrifices. 4. But (b) Simon of the tribe of Benjamin, being appointed overseer of the temple, (c) contended, the Prince of the Priests resisting him, to worke some wicked thing in the citie. 5. And (3.) when Appolonius had made relation to the King, concerning the money that he was told of, he calling for Heliodorus, who was ouer his affaires, sent him with commission to transport the foresayd money. 8. And forthwith Hliodorus began to take his iourney, in shew indeed as if he would goe visit the cities throughout Cælyria and Phænicia, but in very deed to accomplish the Kings purpose. 9. But when he was come to Ierusalem, and was curteously receiued in the citie by the high Priest, he told of the aduertisement giuen of the money: and opened for what cause he was come: and asked if these things were so in very deed. 10. Then the high Priest shewed that these were deposita, and the liuelihoods of widowes & pupils: 11. but certaine of them to belong vnto Hircabus of Tobie a very noble man, among these things, which impious Simon had promoted, and the whole to be of siuer foure hundred talents, and of gold two hundred. 12. And that they should be deceiued which had committed it to the place, and the temple, that is honoured throughout the whole world, to be a thing, for the reuerence and holines therof altogether vnapossible. 13. But he by reason of those things, which he had in commission of the King, sayd in any wise that they must be caried to the King. 14. And on a day appointed, Heliodorus entered in to take order concerning these things. But there was no smal trembling throughout the whole citie. 15. And the Priests cast themselues before the altar with their Priests stoles, and inuocated him from heauen, which made the law of deposita, that he would keepe the things safe, from them that had deposed them. 16. But now he that saw the countenance of the high Priest, was wounded in minde: for his face and colour being changed declared the inner sorow of the minde. 17. For there was a certaine pensuenes powred about the man, and horrour of the bodie, wherby the sorow of his hart was made manifest to them that beheld him. 18. Others also came flocking together out of their houses: praying with publike supplication, for that the place was to come into contempt. 19. And the women having their breast girded with haire-clothes, came together through the stretes Yea and the virgins (c) that were shut vp, came forth to Onias, and some to the wals, but some looked through the windowes: 20. and al stretching forth their hands vnto heauen, prayed. 21. For the expectation of the confuse multitude, and of the grand Priest being in an agonie, was miserable. 22. And these certes inuocated almighty God, that the things committed to them, might be performed with al integritie for them that had committed the same of trust. 23. But Heliodorus exercised that which he had decreed in the same place himself present with his gard about the treasurie. 24. But the spirit of almightie God made great euidence of his appearing, so that al which had presumed to obey him, falling by the vertue of God, were turned into dissolution and feare. 25. For (d) there appeared to them a certaine horse hauing a terrible rider, adorned with very rich harnessse: and he with fiercenes struck Heliodorus with his forefoote, and he that sat vpon him, seemed to haue armour of gold. 26. There appeared also two other yong men comely for strength, excellent of glorie, and beautiful in attyre: which stood about him, and on both sides whipped him, beating him with manie stripes without intermission. 27. And Heliodorus sodenly fel on the ground, and they tooke him being couered round about with much darknes, and being set in a seate portatiue, they thrust him forth. 28. And he that with manie curreurs, and men of his garde entered into the foresayd treasurie, was caried no man giuing him succourse, the manifest powre of God being knowne. 29. And he indeede by the powre of God lay dumbe, and deprived of al hope, and health. 30. But they blessed our Lord, because he magnified his place: and the temple, that a litle before was ful of feare and tumult, almightie God appearing, was filled with ioy and gladnes. 31. And then certaine of the freinds of Heliodorus forthwith desired Onias, that he would inuocate the highest to giue him life, who was at the very last gaspe. 32. And the high-Priest considering least perhaps the King might suspect some malice on the Jewes part done about Heliodorus, offered for the health of the man an healthful host. 33. And when the high-Priest by prayer obeyned, the selfe same yong men, clothed with the same garments, standing by Heliodorus, sayd: Giue thanks to Onias the Priest: for him hath our Lord giuen thee life. 34. But thou being scourged of God, declare vnto al men the great workes and the powre of God. And these things being sayd, they appeared no more. 35. And Heliodorus hauing offered an host to God, and hauing promised great vowes to him, that granted him to liue, and giuing thanks to Onias, taking his armie againe returned to the King. 36. And he testified to al men those works of the great God, which he had scen before his owne eyes. 37. And when the King had asked Heliodorus; who was meete to be sent yet once more to Ierusalem, he sayd: 38. If thou haue anieemie, or traitour to thy Kingdome, send him thither, and thou shalt receiue him againe scourged, if yet he escape: because there is vndoubtedly in the place a certaine powre of God. 39. For he that hath his dwelling in the heauens, is the visiter, and helper of that place, and them that come to doe euil, he striketh, and destroyeth. 40. Therefore concerning Heliodorus, and the keeping of the treasurie so the matter standeth.

CHAP. III.

Onias defamed and molested by Simon, repayreth to the King to procure peace.

7. Seleucus dying, and Antiochus reigning, Iason by promising money to the King, getteth the office of high-Priest from his brother Onias: 10. and peruertereth religion: 12. setteth vp a wicked schoole, wherby manie are corrupted: 8. sendeth money for sacrifice to be offered to Hercules, which is employed in making gallees. 21. Antiochus is receiued with great pompe into Ierusalem. 23. Menelaus by promise of more money getteth the high priest-hood from Iason. 29. He also is depofed, and his brother Lysimachus put in the place. 32. Andronicus trayterously murdereth Onias; 36. and for the same is flaine by the Kings commandment: 39. and Lysimachus by the people. 43. Menelaus iustly accused escapeth by bribing, and the innocents are flaine.

BUT Simon the foresayd betrayer of the money and of his cuntry, (a) spake ill of Onias, as though he had stirred vp Heliodorus to these things, and had been the mouer of the euils: 2. and the prouider for the citie, and defender of his nation, and the emulatour of the law of God, he presumed to call a secret betrayer of the Kingdom: 3. But when the enmities proceeded so far, that murders also were committed by certaine of Simons familiars: 4. Onias considering the perill of the contention, and that Appollonius being gouernour of Cæleſyria, & Phænicia, was outragious, which encreased the malice of Simon, (b) went to the King. 5. not as an accuser of the citiziens, but considering with himself the common profite of the whole multitude. 6. For he saw that without the Kings prouidence it was vnpossible that peace should be made in those matters, and that Simon would not cease from his folle. * 7. But after Seleucus departure out of life, when Antiochus that was called the Noble, had taken the Kingdom vpon him, Iason the brother of Onias ambitiously sought the high-priesthood: 8. going to the King, promising him three hundred three score talents of siluer, & of other reuenues foure score talents, 9. about this he promised also an hundred fittie more, if leaue might be granted him to make a schoole, and a place for youth, and to intitule them, that were at Ierusalem, Antiochians. 10. Which when the King had granted; and he had obteyned the principedom, forthwith he began to transport his cuntrymen to the heathen rite. 11. And these things being taken away, which of fauoure had been decreed by Kings vnto the Iewes, and through Ioha the father of the Eupolenus, who was embassadour with the Romans concerning amitie and societie, he disanulling the lawful rites of the citizens, made wicked ordinances. 12. For he presumed vnder the verie castle to set vp a schoole, and to put al the goodliest youthes in brothel houses. 13. And this was not the beginning, but a certaine encrease, and going forward of the heathen and strange conuersation, through the abominable neuer heard before, of Iason the impious and not a Priest. 14. So that the Priests were not now occupied about the offices of the altar, but (c) the temple being contemned, & the sacrifices neglected, they hastened to be partakers of the game of wrassling, & of the vniust maintenance therof, & in the exercise of the coyte. 15. And setting nought by the honours of their fathers, they esteemed the Greeke glories for the best: 16. by reason wherof they had dangerous contention, & they had emulation toward their ordinances, and in al things they coueted to be like to them, whom they had enemies & murderers. 17. For to doe impiously against the lawes of God escapeth not unpunished, but this the time folowing wil declare. 18. And when the game vsed euerie fifth yeare was kept at Tyre, & the King was present, 19. the wicked Iason sent frō Ierusalem sinful men, carying three hundred didrachmaes of siluer for the sacrifice of Hercules, which they that caryed it, requested that it might not be bestowed on the sacrifices, because it ought not, but that it might be deputed for other charges. 20. And these were offered indeed by him that sent them, vnto the sacrifice of Hercules: but because of them that were present they were giuen to the making of gallees. *

21. And Apollonius the sonne of Mnestheus being sent into Ægypt because of the nobles of Ptolomee Philometor the King; (d) when Antiochus vnderstood that himself was made an alien from the affaires of the Kingdom, providing for his owne commodities, departing thence he came to Ioppe, and from thence to Ierusalem. 22. And being magnifically receiued of Iason, and the citie, entered in with torch lights, and with prayes: and from thence he turned his armie into Phœnicia. 23. And after the time of three yeares Iason sent Menelaus brother of the foresaid Simon, carying money to the King, and to bring answers of necessarie affaires. 24. But he being commended to the King, when he had magnified the presence of his power, wrested the high-Priesthood vpon himself, ouer bidding Iason three hundred talents of siluer. 25. And hauing receiued commission from the King, he came, hauing in deed nothing worthie of the Priesthood: but bearing the mind of a cruel tyrant, and the wrath of a wilde beast. 26. And Iason indeede, who had circumvented his owne brother, being himself deceiued was driuen out a fugitiue into the countrie of the Ammanites. 27. And (e) Menelaus obteyned the principedom: but concerning the money promised to the King he did nothing, wheras Softratus that was gouernour of the castel exacted it. 28. For to him perteyned the exacting of the tributes: for which cause they were both called out to the King. 29. And

(c) Where true Religion is abolished, most men neglect al new of religion, and rather applie themselves to vanities, or worse sinnes.
(d) This King falsely pretended to restore his kinsman (his sisters sōne) to the kingdom, being depriued by his younger brother (Liuus li. 44.) but the true cause of his sending Apollonius into Ægypt, was to subdue that kingdom to himself. Mac. i. 2. 17.
(e) Menelaus brother of Simon (v. 23) of the tribe of Benjamin (ch. 3. v. 4.) was not by the law capable of the Priesthood, which only perteyned to the progenie of Aaron of the tribe of Leui. So in this troublesome time the right succession of high-Priests was intermitted, and restored in Matharhias. li. cl. 2.

Menelaus was remoued from the Priest-hood, Lyfimachus his brother succeeding: and Softratus was made gouernour of the Cyprians. 30. And when these things were a doing, it chanced the Tharsians, and the Mallotians to moue sedition, because they were giuen for a gift to King An-tiochus concubine: 31. The King therefore came in hast to pacifie them, one of his companions Adronicus being left substitute. 32. But Menelaus supposing that he had taken a conuenient time, stealing certaine vessels of gold out of the temple, gaue them to Adronicus, and others he had sould at Tyre, and in their neere cities: 33. Which thing when Onias vnderstood most certainly, he rebuked him, keeping himself in a safe place at Antioche beside Daphne. 34. Whereupon Menelaus coming to Adronicus, desired him to kil Onias. Who when he was come to Onias, and right hands being giuen with an oath (although he was suspected of him) had perswaded him to come out of the sanctuarie, immediately he slew him, not reuerencing iustice. 35. For which cause not only the Iewes, but also other natiōs likewise were offended, & tooke it grie-uouly for the vniust murder of so great a man. 36. But when the King was returned out of the places of Cilicia, the Iewes went vnto him at Antioch, and also (f) the Greeks: complayning of the vniust murder of Onias. 37. Antiochus therefore was sorie in his minde for Onias, & being inclined to pitie, he shed teares, remembering the sobrietie and modestie of the deceased. 38. And his hart being incensed, he commanded Andro-nicus being spoiled of the purple, to be led about al the cite: and that in the same place, wherein he had committed the impiety vpon Onias, the sacrilegious person should be deprived of his life, our Lord repaying him worthie punishment. 39. And manie sacrilegies being committed of Lyfimachus in the temple by the counsel of Menelaus, and the rumour being bruiet abroad, the multitude gathered together against Lyfima-chus, much gold being now caryed out. 40. But the multitudes making insurrection, & their minds replenished with anger, Lyfimachus arming almost three thousand began to vse vniust hands, a certaine tyrāt being captaine farre growne in age, and also in madnes. 41. But as they vnder-stood the endeauour of Lyfimachus, some tooke stones, some strong clubbes, & certaine threw alhes. 42. And manie indeed were wounded, and certaine also throwne to the ground, but al were put to flight: the sacrilegious person also himself they slew beside the treasure. 43. Concerning these things therefore iudgement began to be comēced against Menelaus. 44. And when the King was come to Tyre, three men sent from the ancients, put vp the matter vnto him. 45. And when Menelaus was ouercome, he promised Ptolomee to giue much money to per-swade the King. 46. Ptolomee therefore went to the King being in a certaine courte, as it were to coole himself, and brought him from his purpose: 47. and Menelaus certes being guiltie of al the euil was quitted of the crimes: and the poore wretches, who if they had pleaded the cause euen before Scythians should be iudged innocent, them he ommanded to death. 48. Quickly then did they vniustly suffer, which prosecuted the cause for the citie, and the people, and the sacred vesseis. 49. For the which thing the Tyriās also beind offēded, were very liberal towards the burial of them. 50. But Menelaus because of their auarice that were in power, continued in authoritie, increasing in malice to the betraying of the citizens.

Visions of armies fighting in the ayre appeare in Ierusalem fourtie dayes. 5. Iason with a thousand men surpriseth the citie, killeth manie citizens, but is expulsed and dyeth miserably. 11. Antiochus persecuteth the Iewes, 15. spoyleth the temple, and prophaneth holie things. 27. Iudas with others flye into the desert.

AT the same time Antiochus prepared a second iorney into Ægypt. 2. And it came to passe: that throughout the whole citie of Ierusalem were (a) seen for fourtie dayes in the ayre horsemen running hither and thither, hauing golden stoles, and speares, as it were companies armed, 3. and coursing of horses set in orders by rankes, & that there were encountering together neere hand, and thakings of sheildes, and a multitude of men in helmets with swords drawen, & throwing of darts, & the glittering of golden armour, and of al kind of harnes. 4. Wherefore al prayed that the wonders might be turned to good. 5. But when there was a false rumour gone forth, as though Antiochus had been parted this life, Iason taking vnto him no lesse then a thousand men, suddenly set vpon the citie: and the citizens flying together to the wal, at the last the citie being taken, Menelaus fled into the castel. 6. But Iason spared not his citizens in murder, nor considered, that prosperitie against kinsmen is a verie great euil, supposing that he should take the victorious spoiles of the enemies, and not of his citizens. 7. And the principdom verily he obtcynd not, but receiued confusion, the end of his treacherie, and went againe a fugitiue into the countrie of the Ammanites. 8. At last to his owne destruction being inclosed of Aretas the tyrant of the Arabians, flying from citie to citie, odious to al men, as an apostata from the lawes, and execrable, as an enemye of his countrie and citizens, he was thrust out into Ægypt: 9. and he that had expelled manie out of their countrie, perished in a strange place, going to the Lacedemonians, as being like (b) for kindred sake to haue refuge there: obut he that cast away manie vnburied, himself both vnlamented, and vnburied is cast forth, neither enjoying forrein buryal, nor pattaker of the sepulcher of his fathers. *

11. These things therefore being done, the King suspected that the Iewes would forsake the societie: & for this departing out of Ægypt with a furious mind, he tooke the citie by armes. 12. And he bad^d the souldiers kil, and not spare them that came in their way, to murder thē that went vp into the houses. 13. Slaughters therefore were made of yong men & old, and destructions of women and children, & murders of virgins and litle ones. 14. And there were in the whole three dayes foure score thousand slaine, fourtie thousand prisoners, and no lesse sold. 15. But neither doe these things suffice, he presumed also to enter into the temple, in al the earth the most holie, Menelaus being his^d leader, who was betrayer of the lawes, and his countrie. 16. And with wicked hands taking the holie vessels, which by other Kings & cities were set for the ornament and the glorie of the place, he vnworthily handled and contaminated them. 17. So Antiochus being alienated in minde, considered not, that for the sinnes of thē that inhabite the citie, God had been angrie a litle: for the which also hapned the contempt about the place: 18. otherwise vnles it had chanced them to haue been wrapped in manie sinnes, as Heliodorus, who was sent of Seleucus the King to spoile the treasurie, this man also immediatly as he came had been scourged, and repelled verily from his boldnes. 19. But (c) not the nation for the place, but the place for the nation hath God chosen. 20. And therefore the place also it self is made partaker of the peoples euils: but afterward it shal be partaker of the good things, and it that was forsaken in the wrath of almightie God, shal be exalted againe with great glorie in the reconciliation of the great Lord. 21. Therefore Antiochus hauing taken away out of the temple a thousand & eight hundred talents, speedily went backe to Antioch, thinking through pride, that he might bring the land to sayle vpon, & the sea to goe vpon, through haughtines of minde. 22. And he left also rulers to afflict the natiō: at Ierusalem, Philip a Phrygian borne, more cruel of manners then he himself by whom he was appointed: 23. and in Garizim Andronicus & Menelaus, who lay more grieuously vpon the citizens then the rest. 24. And wheras he was set against the Iewes, he sent the odious Prince Apollonius with an armie of two and twentie thousand, commanding him to kil al of perfect age, to sel the woman and the yong ones. 25. Who when he was come to Ierusalem, feyning peace, rested vntil the holie day of the Sabbath: and then the Iewes keeping holie day, he commanded his men to take weapons. 26. And he murdered al that were gone forth to behold the gammes: and running through the citie with armed men, he slew a very greate multitude. 27. But Iudas Machabeus, who was (d) the tenth, was retired into a desert place, and there amongst wilde beasts he led his life in the mountaines with his companie: and they abode eating meate of grasse, that they might not be partakers of the contamination.

(b) Besides for great maker. c. 1. foure most notorious martyrdomes are here related.

1. Women with their circumcised children.

2. Other people for keeping the sabbath.

A necessarie admonition to the weak in time of persecution.

VT not long after the King sent a certaine ancient man of Antioch, that should compel the Iewes to remoue themselves from the Lawes of their fathers and of God: 2. to contaminate also the temple that was in Ierusalem, & to call it by the name of Iupiter Olympius: and in (a) Gazim, according as they were that inhabited the place, of Iupiter Hospitalis. 3. And the inuasion of the euils was fore & grieuous to al: 4. for the temple was full of the lecherie & glottonie of the Gentiles: & of the that played the harlots with whoores. And women thrusting themselves of their owne accord into the sacred houses, bringing in those things which were not lawful. 5. The altar also was full of vnlawful things which were forbidden by the lawes. 6. And neither were the Sabbaths kept, nor the solene dayes of the fathers obserued, neither plainly did anie man confesse himselfe to be a Iewe. 7. But they were led with bitter necessitie in the Kings birth day to sacrifices: & when the feast of Bacchus was kept, they were compelled to goe about crowned with Iuie vnto Bacchus. 8. And there went forth a decree into the next cities of the Gentiles, the Ptolomeans giuing the aduise, that they also in like manner should doe against the Iewes, that they might sacrifice: 9. and them that would not passe to the ordinances of the heathen, (b) they should kil. A man the might see the miserie. 10. For (1.) two womē were accused to haue circumcised their children: whom, the infants hanging at their breasts, when they had openly led them about through the citie, they threwe downe headlong by the wals. 11. And others comming together to the next caues, and secretly (2.) keeping the day of the Sabbath, when they were discouered to Philip, were burnt with fyre, because they feared for religion and obseruance, to helpe themselves with their hand.

12. But I beseech them that shal read this Book, that they abhorre not for the aduersities, but that they account those things, which haue happened, not to be for the destruction, but for the chastening of our stocke. 13. For not to suffer sinners a long time to doe as they wil, but forthwith to punish, is a token of a great benefite. 14. For, not as in other nations nations our Lord patiently expecteth, that when the day of iudgement shal come, he may punish them in the fulnes of sinnes: 15. so also doth he determine in vs, that our sinnes being come to the end, so at length he may punish vs. 16. For which cause he neuer certes remoueth away his mercie from vs: but chastening his people by aduersitie, he forsaketh them not. 17. But let these things be sayd of vs in few words for an admonition of the readers. And now we must come to the storie.

18. Therfore 3. Eleazarus one (c) of the chief of the Scribes, a man striken in age, and comely of countenance, with open mouth gaping was compelled to eat swines flesh. 19. But he embracing rather a most glorious death then an hateful life, went before voluntarily to the punishment. 20. And considering how he ought to come patiently susteyning, he determined not to committe vnlawful things for loue of life. 21. But they that stood by, moued with vnlawful pitie, for the old freinds shipe of the man, taking him in secrete, desired that flesh might be brought, which it was lawful for him to eat, that he (d) might feyne to haue eaten, as the King had commanded, of the flesh of the sacrifice: 22. that by this fact he might be deliuered from death: and for the old freinds shipe of the man, they did him this courtesie. 23. But he begane to thinke vpon the worthie preeminence of his age and ancientnes, and the hoare haire of natural nobilitie, and his doings from a childe of very good conuersation, and according to the ordinances, and the holie law made of God, he answered quickly, saying: that he would rather (e) be sent vnto hel. 24. For it is not meete, quoth he, for our (f) age to feyne: that manie yong men thinking, that Eleazarus of foure score yeare and tenne is passed to the life of Aliens: 25. they also through my dissimulation, and for a litle time of corruptible life, may be deceiued, and hereby I may purchase a stayne, and a curse to mine old age. 26. For although at this present time I be deliuered from the punishments of men, yet neither alieue nor dead shal I escape the hand of the Almighty. 27. Wherefore in departing manfully out of this life, I shal appeare worthie of mine old age: 28. & to yong men I shal leaue a constant example, if with readie mind and stoutly I suffer an honest death, for the most graue and most holie lawes. These things being spoken, forthwith he was drawen to execution. 29. And they that led him, and had been a litle before more milde, were turned into wrath for the words spoken of him, which they thought were vttered through arrogancie. 30. But when he was now in killing with the stroks, he groined, and sayd: O Lord, which hast the holie knowledge, thou knowest manifestly that wheras I might be deliuered from death, I doe susteyne fore praises of the bodie: but according to the soule, for thy feare I doe willingly suffer these things. 31. And this man certes in this manner departed this life, leauing not only to yong men, but also to the whole nation the memorie of his death for an example of vertue and fortitude.

C H A P. VII.

The noble Martyrdome of seuen brethren, refusing to eat swines flesh : and boldly admonishing King Antiochus of his damnable state. 41. Lastly the mother (having encouraged her sonnes) likewise dyeth gloriously.

AND it came to passe, (4) that seuen brethren together with their mother being apprehended, to be compelled by the King to eat against the law swines flesh, were tormented with whips and scourges. 2. But one of them which was the first, sayd thus : What seekest thou, and what wilt thou learne of vs? we are readie to dye rather then to transgresse the lawes of God, comming from our fathers. 3. The King therefore being wrath commanded frying pannes, and brasen pots to be heated : 4. the which forthwith being heated, he commanded his tongue, that had spoken first, to be cut out : and the skinne of his head being drawn off, the ends also of his hands and feet to be chopped off, the rest of his brethren, and his mother looking on. 5. And when he was now made in al parts vnprofitable, he commanded fire to be put vnto him, and that breathing as yet he should be fried in the frying panne: wherein when he was long tormented, the rest together with the mother exhorted one an other to dye manfully, 6. saying : Our Lord God wil behold the truth, and wil take pleasure in vs, as Moyses declared in the profession of the Canticle : And in his seruants he wil take pleasure. 7. That first therefore being dead in this manner, they brought the next to make him a mocking stocke : & the skinne of his head with the haire being drawn off, they asked if he would eat, before that he were punished throughout the whole bodie in euerie member. 8. But he answering in his cuntrye speech, sayd : I wil not doe it. Wherefore this also in the next place, receiued the torments of the first : 9. and being at the verie last gaspe, thus he said : Thou indeed, o most wicked man, in this present life destroyest vs : but the King of the world wil raise vs vp which dye for his lawes, in the resurrection of eternal life. 10. After him the third is had in derision, and being demanded his tongue, he quickly put it forth, and constantly stretched out his hands : 11. & with confidence he said : From heauen doe I possesse these, but for the lawes of God now doe I contemne these selfe same, because I hope that I shal receiue them againe of him. 12. So that the King, and they that were with him merueiled at the yong mans courage, because he esteemed the torments as nothing. 13. And this being thus dead, the fourth they vexed in like manner tormenting him. 14. And when he was now euen to dye, thus he said : It is better for them that are put to death by men to expect hope of God, that they shal be raysted vp againe by him. For to thee there shal not be resurrection vnto life. 15. And when they had brought the fifth, they tormented him. But he looking vpon him, 16. sayd: Thou hauing power among men, wheras thou art corruptible doest what thou wilt: but thinke not that our stock is forsaken of God. 17. And doe thou patiently abide, and thou shalt see his great power, in what sort he wil torment thee, and thy feed. 18. After him they brought the sixth, and he beginning to dye, sayd thus: Be not deceiued vainely: for we suffer this for our owne sakes, sinning against our God, and things worthie of admiration are done in vs: 19. but doe not thinke that thou shalt escape vnpunished, for that thou hast attempted to fight against God. 20. But the mother aboue measure meruelous, & worthie of good mens memorie, which beholding her seuen sonnes perishing in one dayes-space, bare it with a good hart, for the hope that she had in God: 21. exhorted euerie one of them in their countrie language manfully, being replenished with wisedome: and ioyning a mans hart to a womans cogitation, 22. she sayd to them: I know not how you appeared in my wombe: for neither did I giue you spirit and soule and life, and the members of euerie one I my selfe framed not. 23. But indeed the Creator of the world, that hath formed the natiuitie of man, and that inuented the origine of al, and he wil restore againe with mercie vnto you spirit and life, as now you despise your selues for his lawes. 24. But Antiochus thinking himself contemned, and withal despising the voice of the vpbayder, when the yonger was yet aliue, he did not only exhort with words, but also with oth he affirmed that he would make him rich and happie, & being turned from the lawes of his fathers, he would account him a freind, & giue him things necessariē. 25. But when the yong man was not enclined to these things, the King called the mother, and counselled her to deal with the yong man to saue his life. 26. And when he had exhorted her in manie words, (a) she promised that she would counsel her sonne. 27. Therefore bending towards him, (b) mocking the cruel tyrant, she sayd in her countrie language: My sonne haue pite on me which haue borne thee in my wombe nine months, and gaue thee milke for three yeares, and nourished thee, and brought thee vnto this age. 28. I beseech thee my sonne, that thou looke to heauen and earth, and to al things that are in them: and vnderstand that God of nothing made them & mankind: 29. so shal it come to passe, that thou wilt not feare this tormenter, but being made a worthie partaker with thy brethren, take thou death, that in that mercie I may receiue thee againe with thy brethren. 30. When she as yet was saying these things the yong man sayd: For whom stay you? I obey not the commandment of the King, but the commandment of the law, which was giuen vs by Moses. 31. But thou that art become the inuener of al malice against the Hebrewes, shal not escape the hand of God. 32. For we for our sinnes doe suffer these things. 33. And if the Lord our God hath been angrie with vs a litle for rebuke & correction: yet he wil be reconciled againe

(a) A promise is properly of a good thing, & bindeth the promiser to doe that which is in deed good. In so much that whosoever promiseth, or sweareth, or voweth to do euil, is bound netto do it. And to do it, is a distinct sinne beside the former:

For thou hast not yet escaped the iudgement of the almightie God, and him that beholdeth al things. 36. For my brethren hauing now susteyned short payne, are become vnder the testament of eternal life: but thou by the iudgement of God shalt receiue iust punishmēt for thy pride. 37. And I as also my brethren doe yeald my life and my bodie for the lawes of our fathers: inuocating God to be propitious to our nation quickly, and that thou with torments and stripes maist confesse that he onlic is God. 38. But in me and in my brethren shal the wrath of the Almighty cease, which hath iustly been brought vpon al our stocke. 39. Then the King incensed with anger, raged against him more cruelly aboute al the rest, taking it grieuouly that he was mocked. 40. And this same therefore died vnspotted, wholly trusting in our Lord. 41. And last of al after the sonnes the mother also was consumed. 42. Therefore of the sacrifices, and of the exceeding cruelties there is enough sayd. *

The second part of the historie. The warres of the Machabees begun by Mathathias. li. i. c. 2. and prosecuted by Iudas.

Iudas Machabeus with six thousand men, commending their cause to God, 5. prospereth in battel. 8. Philippe soliciting for more helpe, Nicanor and Gorgias are sent with twentie thousand men against Iudas. 12. Whose men beginning to feare, and some flying, he encourageth the rest, 19. reciting manie examples of Gods assistance: 22. disposeth his armie, and preuaileth, 30. killing manie of Timothees and Bacchides men. 34. The principal hardly escaping by flight, acknowledge that God protecteth the Iewes.

(a) In al good attempts deuout prayer is the first preparation. And no where more necessary then in battel. As wel for good successe (supposing alwayes a good cause) as also that euerie one pray for his owne soul, hat it be in state of grace.

BV T Iudas Machabeus and they that were with him, went in secretly into the townes: and calling together their kinsmen and taking vnto them those that continued in Iudaisme, they brought out to them six thousand men. 2. And (a) they inuocated our Lord, that he would haue respect vnto his people that was troden of al, and would haue mercie on the temple, that was contaminated of the impious: 3. he would haue pitie also vpon the destruction of the citie, which was forthwith to be made flat with the ground, and would heare the voice of the bloud crying to him: 4. he would remember also the most vniust deaths of innocent children, & the blasphemies done to his name, and would take indignation for them. 5. But Machabeus hauing gathered a multitude, became intolerable to the heathen: for the wrath of our Lord was turned into mercie. 6. And comming vpon the castels and cities vnlooked for, he burnt them: and taking commodious places, he made not few slaughters of the enemies: 7. and especially in the nights he was caried to such excursions, and the fame of his manlines was spred abrode euerie where.*

8. But (b) Philip seeing the mā to come forward by litle & litle, & that things for the more part succeeded with him prosperously, wrote to Ptolomee the gouernour of Cœlesyria & Phœnicia, to giue ayde to the Kings affaires. 9. And he with speede sēt Nicanor the sōne of Patroclus, of the principals of his freinds, giuing him of the nations mingled together, no lesse then twentie thousand armed men, to destroy vtterly al the stock of the Iewes, adioyning also vnto him Gorgias a man of warre, and in martiall affayres of very great experience. 10. And Nicanor appointed, that he would supplie vnto the King the tribute that was to be giuen to the Romanes, two thousand talents out of the captiuitie of the Iewes: 11. and forthwith he sent to the cities by the sea side, calling men together to the buying of the Iewish slaues, promising that he would sel ninetie slaues for a talent, not looking to the vengeance, which was to folow him from the Almighty. 12. But Iudas when he vnderstood it, shewed to those Iewes that were with him, the comming of Nicanor. 13. Of whom certaine fearing, and not crediting the iustice of God, fled away: 14. and others if they had any thing left sold it, & withal besought our Lord, that he would deliuer them from the impious Nicanor who had sold them before he came neere them: 15. and if not for them, yet (c) for the testament that was with their fathers, & for the inuocation of his holie & magnificent name vpon them. 16. But Machabeus calling together seuen thousand, that were with him, desired that they would not be reconciled to the enemies, nor feare the multitude of the enemies cōming against them vniustly, but would fight manfully: 17. hauing before their eyes the contumelie, that was vniustly done by them to the holie place, & moreouer the iniurie also of the citie being made a laughing stock, besides also the ordinances of the ancessors broken. 18. For they indeed trust to their weapons, sayd he, and to their boldnes also: but we trust in the Almighty Lord, who can vtterly destroy both them comming against vs, and the whole world with one becke. 19. And he admonished them also of the aydes of God, that were giuen to their fathers: & that vnder Sennacherib an hundred foure score fise thousand perished. 20. And of the battel, that they had against the Galatians in Babylonia, how al they, when it came to the point, the Macedonians their felowes staggering, being only six thousand slewe an hundred twentie thousand, by reason of the ayde giuen them from heauen, and for these things obteyned verie manie benefits. 21. With these words they were made constant, & readie to dye for the lawes, and their countrie. 22. He appointed therefore his brethren captains ouer both orders, Simon, and Ioseph, and Ionathas, vnder euerie one putting a thousand and fise hundred. 23. Beside this also the holie Booke being read vnto them by Esdras, 24. and a signe of Gods helpe being giuen, in the foreward the

And the Almighty being made their helper, they slew aboue nine thousand men: and the greater part of Nicanors armie being made weake with woundes, they forced to flye. 25. And taking away their money that came to buy them, they pursued them on euerie hand, 26. but they returned being taken short with the time: for it was the day before the Sabbath: for the which cause they continewed not pursewing them. 27. But gathering together the armour and spoiles of them, they kept the Sabbath: blessing our Lord that deliuered them this day, distilling the beginning of mercie vpon them. 28. But after the Sabbath they diuided the spoyles to the feeble and to orphans, & to widowes: and the rest themselues had with their felowes. 29. These things therefore being done, and obsecration being made in common of al, they desired our merciful Lord, that he would be reconciled to his seruants vnto the end. 30. And of them that were with Timothee and Bacchides fighting against them, they slew aboue twentie thousand, and wanne the high holds: and they diuided manie prayes, making equal portion to the feeble, pupils, and widowes, yea and to the elder men. 31. And when they had diligently gathered together their armour, they layd al together in conuenient places, and the residue of the spoiles they caried to Ierusalem: 32. and Philarches that was with Timothee, they slew, a wicked man, which in manie things had afflicted the Iewes. 33. And when they kept the feast of victorie in Ierusalem, him that had burnt the holie gates, that is, Callisthenes, when he was fled into a certaine house, they burnt, a worthie reward being repayed him for his impieties: 34. But the most impious Nicanor, who had brought a thousand merchants to the the sale of the Iewes, 35. being humbled through the helpe of our Lord by them, whom he esteemed no bodie, laying aside his garment of glorie, flying by the midland, came alone to Antioch, hauing gotten great infelicitie by the destruction of his armie. 36. And he that had promised that he would render tribute to the Romanes of the captiuitie of Ierusalem, now professed that the Iewes had God their protectour, and that for him they could not be wounded, because they folowed the lawes appointed by him. *

T that time Antiochus returned out of Perfis dishonourably. 2. For he had entered into the citie which is called (*) Perfipolis, and he attempted to spoile the temple, and to oppresse the citie: but the multitude running together to armes, they were put to flight: and so it chanced that Antiochus after his flight returned with dishonour. 3. And when he was come about Ecbatana, he vnderstood the things that were done to Nicanor and Timothee. 4. And swelling in anger, he thought that he might wreake the iniurie of them, that had put him to flight, vpon the Iewes. And therefore he commanded his chariot to be driuen, iorneying without intermission, the heauenlie iudgement vrging him forward, because he spoke so proudly, that he would come to Ierusalem, & make it an heape of the sepulcher of the Iewes. 5. But he that seethal things our Lord the God of Israel, struck him with an vncurable and inuisible plague. For as he ended this verie speach, a cruel plague of the bowels tooke him, and bitter tormētts of the inner parts: 6. and indeed very iustly, as who had tormented the bowels of others with manie & new torments, albeit he by no meanes ceased frō his malice. 7. And beside this replenished with pride, breathing fire in his minde against the Iewes, & commanding the matter to be hastened, it chanced him going with violence to fal frō the chariot, & his limmes to be vexed with a greuous bruising of the bodie. 8. And he that seemed to himself to rule euen ouer the waues of the sea, replenished with pride aboue the measure of man, & to weye the heights of mountaines in a balance, now being humbled to the ground was carried in a portatiue seate, testifying the manifest power of God in himself: 9. so that out of the bodie of the impious mā, wormes crawled abundantly, and his liue flesh fel off for paynes, with his smel also & stinke the armie was annoyed. 10. And he that a litle before thought to touch the starres of heauen, him no man could carie for the intolerable stinke. 11. Hereby therefore he began, being brought from his great pride, to come to the knowledge of himself, admonished by the plague of God, his paines increasing euerie moment. 12. And when neither himself now could abide his owne stinke, thus he sayd: It is reason to be subiect to God, and a mortal man not to thinke of himself equally with God. 13. And this wicked man prayed to our Lord, (b) of whom he was not to obteyne mercie. 14. And the citie to the which he came in hast to haue brought it to the ground, and to haue made it a sepulchre of bodies heaped together, now wisheth to make it free: 15. And the Iewes whom he sayd the would not vouchsafe worthie, no not of burial, but would giue them to birds and wilde beasts to be spoiled, and destroy them with the litle ones, now he promisseth to make them equal with the Athenians. 16. The holie temple also, which before he had spoiled, he would adorne with goodlie donaries, & would multiply the holie vessels, and of his reueneues would allow the charges perteyning to the sacrifices. 17. Besides these things, that he would be a Iew also, and would walke through euerie place of the earth, & would declare the power of God. 18. But the paines ceasing not (for the iust iudgement of God was come vpon him) despayring he wrote to the Iewes by the manner of a supplication an epistle conteyning these words: 19. TO HIS VERY GOOD SVBIECTS the Iewes the King and Prince Antiochus, much health, and welfare, and to be happie. 20. If you and your children farewell, and if things be with you to your mind, we giue very great thankes. 21. And I being in infirmitie, & mindful of you benignely, being returned out of the places of Persis, & taken with a grieuous infirmitie, haue thought it necessarie to haue a care for the common profite: 22. not despayring of myself, but hauing great hope to escape the sicknes. 23. But cōsidering that my father also, at what times he led his armie in the higher places, he shewed who should take the principedom after him: 24. that if any mishap should chance, or hard tydings be told, they that were in the countries, knowing to whom the whole gouernement was committed, might not be troubled. 25. Besides this, considering that al the potestates, and bordering neighbours wayte for times, and expect the euent, I haue appointed my sonne Antiochus King, whom I hauing recourse oftentimes to the higher Kingdoms did commend to manie of you: and I haue writen to him that which is set downe here beneath. 26. I pray you therefore, and desire you mindful of the benefits both publike and priuate, that euerie one keep his fidelitie to me, and to my sonne. 27. For I trust that he wil deale modestly and gently, and folowing my purpose, and that he wil be common vnto you. 28. Therefore (c) the murderer and blasphemmer being very sore stricken, & as himself had handled others in a strange countrie among the mountaynes, with a miserable death departed this life. 29. But Philip his foster brother remoued his bodie: who fearing the sonne of Anucehus, went to Ptolomee Philometor into Ægypt. *

Which things being done, they besought our Lord prostrate on the ground, that they might no more fall into such euils: but and if they had sometime sinned, that they might be chastned of him more mildly, & not be deliuered to barbarous, & blasphemous men. 5. And what day the temple had been polluted of the aliens, it happened that on the same day was made the purification, the five & twentieth of the month, which was Casleu. 6. And there were slaine twentie thousand siue hundred, and horsemen six hundred. 32. But Timothee fled into Gazara a strong hold, wherof Chæreas was the captayne. 33. And Machabeus, and they that were with him ioyfully besieged the hold foure dayes. 34. But they that were within, trusting to the place, blasphemed aboue measure, & cast forth abominable words. 35. 8. They decreed.] Beza in his Annotations (in Ioan. 10. v. 22.) set forth in English in the yeare 1603. confesseth that the feast which our Sauour obserued, was instituted by Iudas Machabeus, and his brethren, after the restoring of Gods true religion by casting out Antiochus his garrison. It is also cleare that this feast was in winter, ibidem, agreeable to the text, in the month of Casleu, which is Nouember, whereas the feast of tabernacles was in September, before winter; and the feast of restoration of the temple after the captiuitie of Babylon, was in Adar (1. Esd. 6.) which is Februarie, between which time and middes of March, was not competent space for those things which Christ did after this feast, before his Passion. And therefore it is very strange that Beza, or other Protestants wil denie these Books to be Canonical: which haue so excellent a testimonie by the Euangelist of our Sauours owne fact.

he trusted in the multitude of foot men, and thousands of horsemen, & in foure score elephants. 5. And he entred into Iurie, and approching to Bethsura, which was in a narrow place from Ierusalem the space of five furlongs, he expugned that hold. 6. But as Machabeus, and they that were with him, vnderstood that the holds were expugned, they besought our Lord with weeping and teares, and al the multitude together, (b) that he would send a good Angel to the sauing of Israel. 7. And Machabeus himself first taking weapons, exhorted the rest together with him, to aduenture, and to giue ayde to their brethren. 8. And when they went forth together with prompt courage, at Ierusalē there appeared going before them an horseman in white clothing, with armour of gold, shaking a speare. 9. Then al they together blessed our merciful Lord, and tooke great courage: being readie to penetrate not only men, but also most fierce beasts, and wals of yron. 10. Yea and Lyfias himself shamefully flying escaped. 13. And because he was not senselesse recounting with himself, the diminution made on his side, & vnderstanding the Hebrewes to be inuincible, because they rested vpon the helpe of the almightie God, he sent vnto them: 14. & promised that he would consent to al things, that are iust, and that he would force the King to be their freind. 15. And Machabeus granted to Lyfias requestes, in al things hauing respect to the commonwealth and whatsoever Machabeus wrote to Lyfias, concerning the Iewes, the King granted it. 16. For there were epistles written to the Iewes from Lyfias, conteyning this tenure: LYSIAS to the people of the Iewes health. 17. Iohn and Absalom that were sent from you, deliuering the wrytings, requested that I would accomplish those things which by them were signified. 18. Therefore whatsoever might be brought to the King I declared vnto him: & that which the matters permitted I granted. 19. If therfore you keepe fidelitie in the affaires & henceforward, also wil endeauour to be a cause of doing you good. 20. And concerning the rest, word for word I haue giuen commandement both to these, and to them that are sent of me, to commune with you. 21. Fare ye wel. In the yeare an hundred fourtie eight, of the month Dioscorus the foure and twentieth day. 22. But the Kings epistle conteyned these things: King Antiochus to Lyfias (c) his brother, health. 23. Our father being translated amongst the Gods, we being willing that they that are in our Kingdom should liue without trouble, and employ diligence to their owne matters; 24. we haue heard that the Iewes consented not to my father to turne to the rite of the Greeks, but that they would keepe their owne institution, and therefore that they request vs their rites to be granted them.

(b) Knowing that the Patriarches Abraham, Isaac, Iacob, likewise Moyses Iosue and manie others were singularly assisted by Angels, these Machabees in their good cause prayed for Angelical helpe, and had it: but ioyntly with their owne endeauour, although some times God giueth such victories without cooperation of men.

Thou shalt doe wel therefore if thou send to them, & giue the right hand, that our pleasure being knowē they may be of good cheere, & looke to their owne commodities. 27. But to the Iewes the Kings epistle was in this manner:

KING Antiochus to the senate of the Iewes, and to the rest of the Iewes health. 28. If you fare wel, you are so as we would: yea our selues also fare wel. 29. Menelaus came to vs, saying that you would come downe to your countrie men, that are with vs. 30. To them therefore that come & goe, vntil the thirtieth day of the month Xanthicus, we giue the righthands of securitie, 31. that the Iewes may vse their owne meates, & their owne lawes, as also before: & that none of them by any meanes suffer molestatiō for these things, which haue been done by ignorance. 32. And we haue sent also Menelaus to speake to you. 33. Fare ye wel. In the yeare an hundred fourtie eight, of the month Xanthicus the fiftenth day. 34. And the Romans also sent an epistle, which is thus:

QVINTVS Memmius, and Titus Manilius legats of the Romans, to the people of the Iewes health. 35. Concerning these things which Lyfias the Kings cosin hath granted you, we also haue granted. 36. But touching the things which he thought good to be referred to King, send ye forthwith some bodie, conferring diligently among your selues, that we may decree as is couenient for you: for we got to Antioch. 37. And therefore make hast to write agayne, that we also may know of what minde you are. 38. Fare ye wel. In the yeare an hundred fourtie eight the fiftenth day of the month Xanthicus.

taine flagitious fact, which was this: They desired the Iewes with whom they dwelt, to goe into the botes, which they had prepared, with their wiues & children, as though no secret enmities were between them. 4. Therefore according to the comon decree of the citie, & they agreeing thereto, & because of the peace suspecting nothing: when they were gone forward into the depth, they drowned no lesse then two hundred. 5. Which crueltie Iudas as he vnderstood to be done vpon the men of his nation, commanded the men that were with him: and inuocating God the iust iudge, 6. he came against the murderers of his brethren, & the hauen he set on fire in the night, the botes he burnt, & them that were fled from the fire he slew with the sword. 7. And when he had thus done these things, he departed as to returne againe, & to roote out all the Iopites. 8. But when he vnderstood that they also, which were at Iamnia, would doe in like manner to the Iewes dwelling with them, 9. he came vpon the Iamnites also by night, & set the hauen on fyre with the ships, so that the light of the fire appeared at Ierusalem (c) two hundred fourtie furlongs off. 10. When they were now departed thence nine furlongs, and made their iourney towards Timothee, the Arabians five thousand men, & five hundred horsemen ioyned battel with them. 11. And when there was a mightie battel, and by the helpe of God it had succeeded prosperously, the rest of the Arabians that were overcome, besought Iudas that the right hand might be giuen them, promising that they would giue pastures, and profite them in other things. 12. And Iudas thinking in very deed that they might be profitable in manie things, promised peace: and right hands being taken, they departed to their tabernacles. 13. And he set also vpon a certaine citie strong with bridges, & enuironed with wals, which was inhabited with multitudes of heathen of all sortes, the name wherof is Caspin. 14. But they that were within, trusting in the firmenes of the wals, and the prouision of victuals, dealt the more slackly, with reuiling words prouoking Iudas, & blaspheming, & speaking such things as is not lawful to speake. 15. But Machabeus inuocating the great Prince of the world, who without rammes & engines in Ierusalem threwe downe Ierico, fiercely assaulted the wals. 16. And the citie being takē by the wil of our Lord he made innumerable slaughters, so that the poolē adioyning of two furlongs in bredth, seemed to runned with bloud. 17. From thence they departed seuen hundred fiftie furlongs, & they came to Characa to those Iewes, that are called (d) Tubiamoiās: 18. and in those places they tooke not Timothee, & nothing being done he went backe, hauing left in a certaine place a very strong garrison. 19. But Dositheus and Solipater, who were captayns with Machabeus, slew them that were left of Timothee in the hold, then thousand men. 20. And Machabeus ordaying about him six thousand, & placing them by bands, went forth against Timothee, who had with him an hundred twenty thousand footemen, and of horsemen two thousand five hundred. 21. sent the women and children, and the other baggage before into the forresse, that is called Carnion: for it was inuincible, and hard to come by, by reason of the straits of the places. 22. And when the first band of Iudas had appeared, feare was stricken into the enemies, by the presence of God, who seeth all things, and they were put to flight one of another, so that they were rather ouerthrowen of their owne companie, and were weakened with the stroks of their owne swords. 23. But Iudas was exceeding earnest punishing the prophane men, and he ouerthrewe of them thirtie thousand men. 24. And Timothee himselfe fel into the hands of Dositheus & Sispaters partes, & with manie prayers he besought that he might be let go aliue, because he had parents & brethren of manie of the Iewes, whom it might happen by his death to be deceiued. 25. And when he had giuen his faith that he would restore them according to the appointment they let him goe without harne, for the safetie of their brethren. 26. And Iudas came backe from Carnion, hauing slayne twentie five thousand. 27. After the flight & slaughter of these, he moued his armie to Ephron a strong citie, wherein a multitude dwelt of diuerse nations: and strong yong men standing before the wals resisted manfully, & in this were manie engins, and prouision of dartes. 28. But when they had inuocated the Almighty, who with his power breaketh the forces of the enemies, they tooke the citie: and of them that were within they ouerthrew twentie five thousand. 29. From thence they departed to a citie of the Scythians, which was dittant from Ierusalem six hundred furlongs. 30. But those Iewes that were with the Scythopolitans testifying that they were vsed curteously of them, euen in the times of miserie that they dealt mod. stly with them: 31. giuing them that kes, and exhorting them also thence forward to be fauourable toward their stock, they came to Ierusalem the solene day of the weeks approaching. 32. And after Pentecost they went against (e) Gorgias the gouernour of Idumea. 33. And he wet forth with footemē three thousand, and horsemen foure hundred. 34. Who buckling together, it chanced few of the Iewes to be slayne. 35. But Dositheus one of the Bacenors an horseman, a valiant man, held Gorgias: and wheras he would haue taken him aliue, a certayne horseman of the Thracians came vpon him, and cut off his shoulder: and so Gorgias escaped into Maresa. 36. But they that were with Efdrin, fighting long, and being wearied, Iudas inuocated our Lord to be their helper and captayne of the battel: 37. beginning in his countrey language and with hymes raising a crie, draue Gorgias souldiers into flight. 38. And Iudas hauing gathered an armie came into the citie Odollam: and when the seuenth day came on, being purifyed according to the custome, they kept the Sabbath in the same place. 39. And the day folowing Iudas came with his companie, to take away the bodies of them that were ouerthrowen, and with their kinsmen to lay them in the sepulchers of their fathers. 40. 46. It is a holie and healthful cogitation to pray for the dead. The Catholike beliefe, doctrine, and practise of praying for the dead, is so euidently confirmed by this place, that our aduersaries haue no better shift to auoide the same, then by denying these Books to be Canonical Scripture. Which being authentically proued, it may here suffice to adde, that albeit the Greeke text (as in other innumerable places) differeth from the Latin, yet it is no lesse cleere for this doctrine. Which in English is thus v. 45. Regarding (or considering) shas grace is layde vp for them shat sleep (or dye) in pietie: to wit in true faith and repentance; in the next verie (46.) inferreth thus: Whereupon he (Iudas Machabeus) made reconciliation (or expiation) for the dead, shat they might be deliuered (or loosed) from their sinne, that is, from punishment for sinne.

ing for the
Likewise the Greeke.

Denial of this
resie.

Omitting therefore multitude of other proofes, we wil here only cite two great Doctours, who with others teach that the denial of this particular point of religion is a condemned heresie. S. Augustin. li. de Hæresib. her. 13. noteth this for a special heresie, saying: Arians are named of one Acrius, who being a Priest, and taking it greuously that he could not be ordained a Bishop, falling into the heresie of the Arrians, added some proper doctines of his owne, saying: shat we ought not to pray, nor offer sacrifice for the dead. Likewise S. Bernard, Ser. 46. in Cantica in plaine termes saith they are heretikes, which believe not shat there is purgatorie fire after death, but that the soule departing from the bodie, goeth forthwith either to rest or to dānation. Let thé then (saith he) aske of him who saide: There is some sinne that shal not be forgūen, neither in this world, nor in the future why he sayd this, if there remaine no remission and purgation of sinne in the future world? He therefore aduiseeth al to beware of such seducers, saying: See the detractors, see the dogges. They deride vs, because we baptize infants, for that we pray for the dead.

high priest

It is also most worthie of consideration, that Iudas Machabeus (who did this charitable act for his souldiers slaine in the holie warres) was the High

Priest

Priest, or chief Bishop of the Church at that time, and defender of true faith & Religion. Finally we may also obserue that he did not anie new thing, but practised the vsual custome of the whole Church. For so it appeareth by their set forme of Office for the dead, called H A S C H A B A H, that is, Requie, or prayer for rest, in their Book MAHZOR, translated and set forth by Bishop Genebrard, in the yeare of our Lord 1569. Where are these expresse supplications: Requiescat animus ipsius in cubili suo: iaceat in pace: dormiat in pace, His for her, soule rest in his bed: lye, and sleepe in peace. Againe, The Angels of peace come forth to meete him, &c. And that the Iewes this day vse to pray for the dead, is a cleare thing, and confessed by Protestants, namely Munsterus, and Fagius in their Annotations vpon the 14. of Deut. and M. Whiraker, in his first Book against F. Dureus, fol. 81.

when he caused prayers and sacrifice to be offered for the dead.

It was the general practise of the Church. And is yet abused by the Iewes.

Menelaus a fugitiue Iewe is put to death. 9. Antiochus with his great armie is defeated twice, with losse of manie men. 23. Philippe rebelling, peace is renewed. 24. And Iudas is made Lord of Ptolemais,

IN the yeare an hundred fourtie nine Iudas vnderstood, that Antiochus Eupator came with a multitude agaynst Iurie, 2. and with him Lysias the procuratour, and chiefe ouer the affaires hauing with him of footmen (a) an hundred ten thousand, and of horsemen five thousand, and elephants twentie two, chariots with hooks three hundred. 3. And Menelaus also ioynd himself with them: & with much deceite besought Antiochus, not for the weale of his countrie, but hoping that he should be appointed to the principaitie. 4. But the King of Kings stirred vp Antiochus mind against the sinner, and Lysias suggesting that he was the cause of al the euils, he commanded (as the custome is with the) that being apprehended he should be killed in the same place. 5. And there was in the same place a tower of fiftie cubites, hauing an heape of ashes on euerie side: this had a prospect steepe downe. 6. From thence he commanded the sacrilegious person to be throwne downe into the ashes, al thrusting him forward to death. 7. And by such law it chanced the transgressour of the law to dye: and Menelaus not to be put into the earth. 8. And in decde very iustly, because he committed manie offences toward the altar of God, the fyre and ashes wherof was holie: himself was condemned into the death of ashes. 9. But the King furious in mind, came to anew himself worle to the Iewes then his father. 10. them : 11. as who were afraid to be deprived of the law , and their countrie , and the holie temple : and that he would not suffer the people that had of late taken breath a litle while , to be againe subdued to the blasphemous nations. 12. Al therefore doing it together , and crauing mercie of our Lord with weeping and fastings, being prostrate for three dayes continually , Iudas exhorted them to prepare themselues. 13. But he with the ancients consulted , before the King should bring his armie to Iurie , and winne the citie , to goe out , and to commit the euent of the thing to the iudgement of our Lord. 14. Committing therefore the power and charge of al to God , the creatour of the world , and hauing exhorted his companie to fight manfully , and to stand euen to death for the lawes, the temple , the citie , their countrie , and citizens : he placed his armie about Modin. 15. And hauing giuen a signe to his companie of (b) the victorie of God , with most valient yong men piked out , by night setting vpon the Kings court , in the campe he slew foure thousand men , and the greatest of the elephants , with them that had been placed thereupon, 16. & he filled the campe of the enemies with exceeding feare & perturbation , & the things being prosperously atcheiued , they departed. 17. And this was done when the day appeared , the protection of our Lord helping him. 18. But the King hauing taken a taste of the hardines of the Iewes , attempted the difficultie of the places by policie:
 19. & he moued his campe to Bethsura , which was a strong hold of the Iewes : but he was put to flight , he fel , he was diminished. 20. And to them that were within Iudas sent necessaries 21. But one Rhodocus of the Iewes armie vttered the secrets to the enemies , who being sought for was apprehended , and shut vp. 22. Againe the King had talke with them that were in Bethsura : he gaue the right hand : he tooke it : he went away. 23. He ioyned battel with Iudas . he was ouercome. And as he vnderstood that Phillippe rebelled at Antioch , who was left ouer the affaires, dismayed in minde intreating the Iewes, and yealding vnto them , he sweareth concerning al things that seemed reason , and being reconciled he offered sacrifice , honoured the temple , and gaue hosts.
 24. He embraced Machabeus , and made him gouernour and Prince from Ptolemais euen to the Gerrenians. 25. But after , as he came to Ptolemais the Ptolemaians tooke grieuouly the couenant of amitie, being offended lest perhaps they would breake their league. 26. Then Lysias went vp to the iudgement seate , and declared the reason , and appeased the people , and returned to Antioch : and in this manner the Kings iourney and returne proceeded. *

Demetrius hauing taken certaine holds from Antiochus, 3. Alcimus lately deposed from the office of high Priest, 6. accuseth good men of disloyaltie, 11. others also incense Demetrius. 12. Whereupon Nicanor being sent into Iurie, maketh Alcimus againe high-priest: 18. hath peace with Iudas, conuersing with him most familiarly. 26. But by Alcimus suggestion, seeketh to deliuer him into the Kings hands: 30. otherwise threateth to prophane the temple. 32. The Priests pray God to protect them. 37. BT after the space of three yeares Iudas vnderstood, and they that were with him, that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus with a strong multitude, & with shippes was come vp by the port of Tripolis to commodious places, 2. and held the countries against Antiochus, and his gouernour Lysias. 3. And one (a) Alcimus that had been highpriest, but voluntarily was contaminated in the time of the cōfution, considering that there was tarric for him by no means, nor accesse to the altar, 4. came to King Demetrius in the yeare an hundred fittie, offering him a crowne of gold, & a palme, & besides these, * Talloes, which seemed to be of the tēple. And that same day in deede he held his peace. 5. But hauing gotten a commodius time for his madnes, being called of Demetrius to counsel, and asked on what thing and counsels the Iewes rested, he answered: 6. They of the Iewes that are called (b) Assidians, of whō Iudas Machabeus is captaine, nourish battels, and moue seditions, neither doe they suffer the realme to be quiet. 7. For I also being defrauded of my ancestours glorie (I meane of the highpriesthood) am come hither: 8. principally in deede keeping fidelitie to the Kings commodities, but secondly also prouiding for my citizens, for by their naughtines our stocke is not a litle vexed. 9. But al these things being knowen, O King, prouide I pray thee, both for the countrie, and for our stocke according to thy humanitie published to al men. 10. For as long as Iudas is aliue, it is vnpossible that there be peace to the affaires. 11. And such things being sayd of him, the other treinds also behauing themselues as enemies against Iudas, incensed Demetrius. * 12. Who forthwith sent Nicanor, chiefe ouer the elephants captaine into Iurie: 13. giuing him cōmissiō, that he should take Iudas himself, but thē that were with him, he should disperie, & make Alcimus the high priest of the greatest temple.

(a) Alcimus was of Aarons stock li. i. c. 7. v. 14. but for this apostasie here mentioned was vn capable of high priesthood, & so Marthathias was ordayned, being of the same progenie and most sincere in religion.

(b) This description of the Assideans made by their malicious enemie in calumnious and odious termes, sheweth wcl their singular zeale, & sinceritie in promoting Gods seruance. And so their aduerfaries malignant accusations more against them then al others, is a plaine testimonie of their more rare and more singular vertues.

(e) They knew not precisely where Iudas was, neither would they search for him to deliuer him to the persecutor.

14. Then the nations, which had fled from Iudas out of Iurie, ioyned themselves by troupes with Nicanor, (c) esteeming the miseries and calamities of the Iewes the prosperities of their owne affaires. 15. The Iewes therefore hauing heard of Nicanors comming, and the assemblie of the nations, being sprinkled with earth besought him, that ordayned his people to keepe them for cuer, & that protecteth his portion by euident signes. 16. And the captaine commanding forthwith they remoued from thence, and they came together to the castel of Dessau. 17. And Simon the brother of Iudas had ioyned battel with Nicanor: but he was made afrayd with the sodaine comming of the aduersaries. 18. Neuertheles Nicanor hearing the manlines of Iudas companions, & greatnes of courage, that they had for the conflicts of their countrie, was afrayd to make tryall by bloud. 19. Wherefore he sent Posidonius, and Theodotius, & Marthias before to giue and take the right hands. 20. And when there was long consultation of these things, and the captayne himself had moued it to the multitude, there was one sentence of them al to accord vnto amitie. 21. Therefore they appointed a day, wherein they might secretly deale among themselves, and seates were brought forth & set for euery one. 22. But Iudas commanded armed men to be in places conuenient, lest perhaps some mischefe might sodainly arise from the enemies: and they made agreable communication. 23. Nicanor abode at Ierusalem, and did nothing vniustly, and the flockes of the multitudes that had been gathered together he diminished. 24. And he esteemed Iudas alwayes deare from the hart, and he was inclined to the man. 25. And he desired him to marrie a wife, and to beget children. He made a marriage, he liued quietly, and they liued in common. 26. But Alcimus seeing their charitie one towards an other, and the couenants, came to Demetrius, and sayd that Nicanor assented to forraine matters, and that he ment to make Iudas being a traytour to the Kingdom, his successour. 27. Therefore the King being exasperated with this mans most wicked criminations, wrote to Nicanor, saying, that he indeede was greatly displeased for the couenant of their amitie: neuertheles that he commanded him to send Machabeus quickly prisoner to Antioch. 28. Which things being knowen Nicanor was amased, and tooke it grieuouly, if he should vndoe those things which they had couenanted, being nothing hurt of the man. 29. but (d) because he could not resist the King, he obserued oportunitie wherby to accomplish the commandment. 30. But Machabeus seeing that Nicanor dealt with him more austerely, and that he exhibited his accustomed meeting more sternely, vnderstanding this austeritie not to be of good, a few of his companie gathered together, he hid himself from Nicanor. 31. Which when he vnderstood that he was stoutly preuented of the man, he came to the most great and most holie temple: and the Priests offering the accustomed hosts, he commanded the man to be deliuered vnto him. 32. And when he had sayd these things, he departed. But the Priests stretching forth their hands vnto heauē, inuocated him that was alwayes the defender of their natiō, saying thus: 35. Thou ô Lord of al, which lackest nothing, wouldest a temple of thy habitation to be made among vs. 36. And now ô Lord nolie of al holics, preserue for euer this house impolluted, which of late hath been clesed. 37. And Razias one of the ancients of Ierusalem, was accused to Nicanor, a man that was a loue of the citie, and wel reported of, who for his affection was called father of the Iewes. 38. This man long time kept the purpose of continencie in Iudaisme, and content to giue his bodie and life for perseuerance. 39. But Nicanor willing to manifest the hatred that he had against the Iewes, sent siue hundred souldiars to take him. 40. for he thought if he had intrapped him, that he should doe the Iewes verie great hurt. 41. But the multitudes coueting to rush into his house, and to breake open the gate, and to set fyre therto, when he was in taking, (g) he struck himself with a sword: 42. choosung to dye nobly rather then to be made subiect to sinners, and against his noble birth to suffer vnworthie iniuries. 43. But wheras for hast he had not made the wound with a sure struck, and the multitudes brake in within the doores, running backe boldly to the wal, he threwe downe himselfe manfully headlong vnto the multitudes: 44. who quickly giuing place to his fal he fel vpon his necke. 45. And when he had breathed, incensed in minde he arose: and when his blood ranne with a great streame, and he was wounded with most grieuous wounds, running he passed through the multitude: 46. and standing vpon a certaine steep rocke, and now being become without bloud, gryping his bowels, with both hands he cast them vpon multitudes, inuocating the dominatour of life and spirit, that he would restore these to him againe: and so he departed this life. *

Nicanor intending to assault Iudas on the sabbath day 5. blasphemeth most proudly. 7. Iudas with al confidence in God encourageth his men, 11. confirming them with the relation of a vision in sleep. 21. So he with fervent prayer, the enemy trusting his owne strength, wynneth batel, 27. and killeth: virtie five thousand, and Micanor amongst the rest: whose head and hand cut off with the shoulder are hanged vp in Ierusalem: 33. his tongue given to the birds, and a festiual day obserued. 38. And here with the Auctour (of second Book) concludeth the whole historie.

BUT Nicanor as he vnderstood that Iudas was in the places of Samaria, he purposed with al violence to toyne batel (a) the day of the Sabbath. 2. But the Iewes that of necessitie folowed him, saying doe not so fiercely and barbarously, but giue honour to the day of the sanctification, and honour him that beholdeth al things: 3. that unhappie man asked, if there were a power in heauen, that commanded the Sabbath day to be kept. 4. And they answering: There is the liuing Lord himself in heauen, the potent, that comanded the seuenth day to be kept. 5. But he sayd. And (b) I am potent vpon the earth, that commanded armes to be taken, and the Kings affayres to be accomplished. Neuertheles he obteyned not to accomplish his counsel. 6. And Nicanor in deed puffed vp with exceeding pride, had thought to haue set vp a common victorious memorie of Iudas. 7. But Machabeus alwayes trusted with al hope that there would come ayde from God to them. 8. And exhorted his companie, that they should not feare at the coming of the nations, but should haue in minde the aydes giuen vnto them from heauen, and now should hope that they should haue the victorie from the Almightye: 9. And speaking vnto them out of the law, and the Prophets, admonishing them also of the conflicts, that they had made before, he made them the more prompt: 10. and so their harts being encouraged, withal he shewed the fraude of the Gentils, and their breaking of oathes. 11. And he armed euerie one of them not with fense of buckler and speare, but with very good words, and exhortations, (c) declaring a dreame worthy to be credited, wherby he reioyced them al. 12. And the vision was in this manner: Onias who had been the high-Priest, a good and benigne man, reuerent to behold, modest of manners, and comelie of speach, and who from a childe was exercised in vertues, that he stretching forth the hands prayed for al the people of the Iewes. 13. After this that there appeared also another man meruelous for age, and glorie, and for the port of great dignitie about him. 14. And that Onias answering sayd: This is a Iourer of his brethren, and of the people of Israel: this is he that prayeth much for the people, and for the whole citie, Ieremie the Prophet of God. 15. And that Ieremie put forth his right hand, and (d) gaue vnto Iudas a sword of gold, saying: Take the holie sword a gift from God, wherwith thou shalt ouerthrow the aduersaries of my people Israel. 17. Being exhorted therefore with the words of Iudas exceeding good, by which the courages might be stirred vp, & the harts of the yong men strengthened, they resolued to fight, and to encounter manfully: that manhood might decide the matter, because the holie citie, and the temple were in danger. 18. (e) For there was lesse care for their wiues, and children, and also for their brethren, and kinsmen: but the greatest and principal feare was for the holines of the temple. 19. And they also that were in the citie, tooke no litle care for them that were to ioyne battel. 20. And when they did al hope that iudgement would be giuen, and the enimies were present, and the armie was set in aray, the beasts & horsemea disposed in conuenient place, 21. Machabeus considering the comming of the multitude, and the varietie of the prouision of armour, and the fiercenes of the beasts, stretching forth his hands vnto heauen, he inuocated our Lord, that worketh wonders, who not according to the might of armes, but according as it pleaseth him, giueth victorie to the worhie. 22. And he sayd inuocating in this manner: Thou Lord which didst send thy Angel in the time of Ezechias King of Iuda, and didst kil an hundred eightie fise thousand of the campe of Sennacharib: 23. and now ô Dominatour of the heauens send thy good Angel before vs, in feare and trembling of the greatnes of thyne arme, 24. that they may be afrayde, which with blasphemie come against thyne holie people. And he indeed ended his prayer thus. 25. But Nicanor, and they that were with him, with trumpets & songs came nere. 26. But Iudas, & they that were with him, inuocating God by prayers ioynea battel: 27. with the hand indeed fighting, but in their harts praying to our Lord, they ouerthrew no lesse then fise and thirtie thousand, being greatly delighted with the presence of God. 28. And when they had ceased, and returned with ioy, they vnderstood that Nicanor was slaine, for al his armour. 29. A shout therefore being made, and a great crie, they blessed the Almighty Lord in their countrie language. 30. And Iudas, who by al meanes was in bodie and mind readie to dye for his citizens, cōmanded that Nicanors head, & hand with the shoulder being cut off, should be caried to Ierusalem. 31. Whither when he was come, hauing called his countrimen, and the Priests to the altar, he sent also for the that were in the castel. 32. And shewing them the head of Nicanor, and the wicked hand, which he stretching forth against the holie house of Almighty God, had mightily bragged. 33. The tongue also of impious Nicanor being cut out, he cōmanded to be giuen piecemeale to the birds: and the hand of the furious man to be hanged vp against the temple. 34. Al therefore blessed the Lord of heauen, saying: Blessed be he, that hath kept his place vndefiled. 35. And he hung vp Nicanors head in

d) Ieremie (ch. 38. v. 17.) persuaded the King of Iuda. to yeald himself with the citie and people to the Chaldees, and not to resist. 12. Onias prayed for al the people. And v. 14. Jeremie prayeth for the people.) As against prayer of the faithful for the dead : Ch. 12. so against prayer of Saints for the militant Church, Protestants haue no better euasion, when they are pressed with these examples, then by denying the auctorite of the Books. For seeing the Prophet Jeremie, and the High-Priest Onias, being in Limbo patrum (no holie soules ascending into heauen before Christ) did pray for the whole people of the Iewes, it is also certaine that they, and other Saints in glorie, doe of their excellent cha itie pray for those that are in this mortal life Yet neither doe we Catholikes vrge this place, as though we had no other to alleage, for we shew the same doctrine by other holie Scriptures, Gen. 48. Exo 32. Iere. 15. Luc. 10. 2. Petri. 1. A oc. 5. 6. 8. and others : neither must we omize these books, because our aduerfaries denie them, seeing the learned Doctours and holie Fathers confirme the same doctrine by those Scriptures Among others ancient Origen somo 18. in Ioan. sayth, it appeareth that Saints departed from this life haue care of the people, as it is written (sayth he) in the Acts of the Machabees, manie yeares after the death of Jeremie : this is Jeremie the Prophet of God, who prayeth much for the people. Likewise S. Bernard Ser. 3. vigil Natus. Domini. & Ser. 11. againe Ser. 76. in amica. admonisheth that a good religious man is like to this Onias : who prayeth to God for al the people.

39. If not so worthily) He demandeth not pardon, as though he suspected any error in his doctrine or in the history, but of his vnpolished stile in writing. As S. Paul sayth that himself was rude in speech, yet not in knowledge, 2. Cor. 11. v. 6.

But we, who by Gods great goodnes haue passed now to the end of this English old Testament, iustly fearing that we haue not worthily discharged so great a work : & in nowise presuming that we haue auoided al errors, as wel of doctrine as historie : much more we acknowledge that our stile is rude & vnpolished. And therefore we necessarily, and with al humilitie craue pardon of God & al his glorious Saints, Like vse of the Church militant, & particularly of you, right wel beloued English readers, to whom as at the beginning we directed & dedicated these our endeaours : so to you we offer the rest of our labours, euen to the end of our liues : in our B. Sauour I E S V S Christ, to whom be al prayse and glorie. Amen.

Prayer of Saints is euidently proved by this place.

It is also proved by manie other holie Scriptures.

Neither is this place to be omitted.

The authour of his booke asketh pardon for his stile, not for the doctrine nor historie. But the authours of these Annotations craue pardon for al defects.

THE CONTINVANCE OF THE CHVRCH AND RELIGION IN THE SIXTH AGE: FROM THE CAPTIVITIE in Babylon to the comming of our Sauour, near the space of 640. yeares.

THIS V C H is the providence of Almighty God, that not obscurely, or at some times only, but manifestly, and without intermission his Diuine Maiestie is acknowledged, his name glorified; his Religion professed, and his precepts obserued by a Visible knowne Church, from the beginning of the world to the end thereof, we haue already shewed in the other five ages; and shal nolesse clerly declare the same in this sixth. For albeit the peculiar people of God were for their sinnes caried forth of their countrie, and held captiues in Babylon seuentie yeares, and after their reduction were subiect to strangers ruling ouer them, and sometimes extremely afflicted with persecution, yet they stil persued in the same sayth and religion, had successson of Priestes, and of one Highpriest, with conseruation also of the royal line of Dauid, euen to Christ our eternal King and Priest.

First therefore concerning Articles of sayth and religion, the beleefe in one God was so generally confessed by the whole Iewish nation, that their Priestes and Prophetes did vse it for a principle, in confirmation of other pointes, as wel doctrinal as moral. So Malachie teaching that our neighbour is so beloved, God to be serued, and his lawes to be kept: Is there not one Father of vs al (sayth he ch. 2. v. 10.) Hath not one God created vs? Why then doth euerie ane of vs despise his brother, violating the couenant of our fathers? More expressly Ieremie in his Epistle (Baruc. 6.) sheweth the vauitie and absurditie of manie Gods, exhorting the people to serue the one omnipotent God, saying to him sincerely in their harts (v. 5.) Thou oughtest to be adored, o Lord. Likewise, when the Magicians of Chaldea ascribed the knowledge of dreames to false Gods, Daniel with the other three children (ch. 2. v. 18.) prayed the God of heauen: and the mysterie was reuealed to Daniel. And he declared and expounded the Kings dreame. who therupon confessed to Daniel (v. 47.) In very deede your God is the God of Gods, and Lord of Kings. The same three chidren (Daniel. 3.) were cast into the burning furnace, and Daniel into the lions denne (ch. 6. v. 14.) readie to dye for their sayth in one God. For this sayth also Mardochens, as is written in the booke of Esther, was persecuted, and he with al the people were in extreme danger. And the authour of the booke of wisdom teacheth that one God is knowen by consideration of his creatures: Al men are vaine (sayth he, c. 13. v. 1.) that by things seen, vnderstand not him that is: neither attending to the workes agnise who was the workman. So the authour of Ecclesiasticus ch. 1. v. 8. professeth: There is one most high Creatour omnipotent, and mightie King, and to be feared exceedingly, sitting vpon the throne, the God of Dominion.

As for the high Mysterie of three Diuine Persons in one God not so commonly reuealed in the old testament, yet was it known and in some sorte vttered: As Aggeus 2. v. 5. & 6. I am with you, sayth the Lord of holts, the word that I did couenant with you when you came out of the land of Ægypt: and my Spirit shal be in the middes of you. Where, by the Lord of holts, is commonly vnderstood God the Father; by his spirit, God the Holie Ghost, and the word may signifie God the Sonne: of whose Incarnation the Prophete plainly speaketh in the next verses. For in this consisteth the couenant between God and his people, that they should keepe his word of precepts and comandments expressed in the law: and he would send them the word, his onlie Sonne the Second Diuine Person to redeeme mankind. Again the same three Persons seeme to be distinguished in diuers places. God the Father is described according to mans smal capacitie, Daniel 7. v. 9. thus: Thrones were sette, and THE ANCIENT OF DAYES late: his vesture white as snow, and the haire of his head as cleane wool, his throne flames of fire, his wheelles fire kindled. He is called Ancient of dayes, not only because he is eternal, for so are the other two Diuine Persons, but this terme is attributed to the Father, because in order he is the beginning, from whom the other two Persons proceede (The Sonne by generation, the Holie Ghost from the Father and the Sonne by procesion.) To God the sonne the same Prophet Daniel prayeth: ch. 9. v. 17. saying: Now therefore heare o our God, the petition of thy seruant, and his prayers: and shew thy face vpon thy Sanctuarie which is desert, for thyne owne sake: that is, for thyne owne meritts: which can only be vnderstood of that Diuine Person, which is incarnate. Zacharie 12. v. 10. God speaking by the Prophet sayth: I wil powre out vpon the house of Dauid, and vpon the inhabitants of Ierusalem, the spirit of grace and of prayers, which may easily be vnderstood to be the promise of the B. Trinitie: but that which immediately foloweth: & they shal looke towards me, whom they pearced, can only be spoken by the Second Diuine Person, who only is incarnate, and was pearced in his Passion. In the book of wisdom is much written of wisdom increated, a terme appropriated to God the Sonne. especially ch. 2. 7. 8. 9. and 10. The like in Ecclesiasticus, ch. 1. 4. 24. And ch. 51. v. 14. is distinct mention of the Father & the Sonne: I haue inuocated (sayth the authour, or anie saythful soule) our Lord, the Father of my Lord. There is likewise particular mention of the Holie Ghost in some places. As 2. Esd. 9. v. 20. Thou gauest them the good Spirit, which should teach the. for the office of internal teaching is appropriated to the Holie Ghost. Ioan. 14. v. 17. and 16. v. 13. The spirit of truth, & he shal teach you al truth. Ezech. 36. v. 27. I wil put my Spirit in the middes of you, and wil make that you walke in my precepts. Zach. 7. v. 12. The words which the Lord sent in HIS SPIRIT, by the hand of the former Prophets. Sap. 1. v. 5. The Holie Ghost of discipline wil flye from him that feyneth. Ecclesiasticus 1. v. 9. He created her in the Holie Ghost. 24. v. 29. They that eate ME, shal yet hunger, and they that drinke ME, shal yet thirst. Where God calleth the Holie Ghost (which is receiued by grace) himself. Because al three Diuine Persons are one God. And that there be manie Diuine Persons in God who is one in substance, is sufficiently signified by al those holie Scriptures, where God is called by the name Elohim, in the plural number; especially seeing this name hath also the singular number, Eloha. As Iob. 12. v. 4. & 36. v. 2. Daniel 2. v. 28. Habacuc. 1. v. 11. & 3. v. 3. Which last place seemeth most painly to speake of the Sonne of God, ELOHA MITHEMAN IAVO. God wil come from Theman, or from the South. And therefore where this word Elohim is vsed in the plural number (as in most places it is) it signifieth pluralitie of Persons in God.

Christ's Incarnation is more cleerly foreshewed by the Prophets, who aboue other consolations, most especially comforted the people by their prophecies of Christ our Saviour. Jeremie 23. v. 5. I wil rayse vp to Dauid a iust branch, and he shal reigne a King, and shal be wise, and he shal doe iudgement and iustice in the earth. Ch. 31. v. 23. A woman shal compasse a man. Christ though in bodie a litle infant, yet in power and wisdom was most perfect of al men, euen when he was in his mothers wombe. Ch. 33. v. 14. Behold the dayes wil come, sayth our Lord, and I wil rayse vp the good word. v. 15. I wil make the spring of iustice to bud forth vnto Dauid, & he shal doe iudgement and iustice in the earth. Jeremies Lamentations are in greatest part of Christ and his Church. And some part can hardly be applied to anie other. Ch. 3. v. 30. He shal giue the cheek to him that striketh him, he shal be filled with reproches. c. 4. v. 20. Christ our Lord is taken in our sinnes. Baruc. 2. v. 35. God promising to reduce the people from Babylon, addeth: And I wil establish vnto them an other testament euerlasting (by Christ, whose Kingdom is for eue) that I be their God, and they shal be my people. Ch. 3. v. 36. This is our God, and there shal none other be esteemed against him. v. 38. After these things he was seen vpon the earth, and was conuersant with men. Ezechiel peculiarly called by an Angel the sonne of man, was therein a special figure of our Saviour, who so calleth himself. And the same Prophet hath in plaine termes foreshewed the office of Christ the true Pastour of al pastours. Ch. 24. v. 25. I wil (sayth God by this Prophet rayse) vp ouer them one Pastour, who shal feede them, my seruant Dauid; that is; Christ prefigured by Dauid. His admirable visions in the three first chapters, and nine last perteyne properly and principally to the new Testament of Christ, and his Church, shewing the aboundance of grace and glorie giuen by him to the elect. Daniel 7. v. 13. With the clouds of heauen there came in as it were the Sonne of man, and he came euen to the ancient of dayes, and in his sight they offered him. He came euen to the ancient of dayes, because in his Diuinitie he is equal to the Father: and in his humanitie he is offered to God in sacrifice. v. 14. His power is eternal: and his Kingdom shal not be corrupted. Ch. 9. v. 24. Seuentie wekes (of yeares) are abridged, that sinnes may be forgiven, grace be infused, prophecies which falling into pride and most obstinate malice, are perpetual enemies to God their Creatour, and to al mankind, continually calumniating the workes of God, and of al his seruants, wherof they are called Diuels, or calumniatours. They neuer cease tempting al they can to euil, so to bring men to eternal death: For by the enuie of the diuel (Sap. 2. v. 7.) death (both of soule & bodie) came into this world. The iust stipend of sinne. Al sinnes offend God and please the diuels. But more particularly they desire to be honoured as God with Sacrifice, Which therefore they require to themselves and their idols. And for this sinne of Idolatry, aboue al others, God is most prouoked to wrath: & for the same most especially punished his people: as the Prophet Baruch (ch. 4. v. 6. signifieth to the people, saying: You are sold to the Gentils, &c. You are deliured to their aduersaries: and giuing the reason why, he addeth v. 7. For you haue exasperated him that made you, the eternal God, immolating to diuels and not to God.

The same al the Prophets teach, and wish al that Sacrifice is the souereigne seruice due to God only, and not to any creature, how excellent soeuer. But of Sacrifice there is so much written, that it were ouer long and needles to recite the places. It importeth more to obserue the predictions of the most excellent, and perfect Sacrifice of the new Testament. Malachie 1. v. 11. From the rising of the sunne (sayth God by this Prophet) euen to the going downe, there is sacrificing, and there is offered in my name a cleane oblation. In the old testament they offered cattel, & birds, by powring out their bloud about the altar, and drawing forth their bowels. For purging and cleansing wherof there was much washing and labour: but now in the Church of Christ, is the cleane Sacrifice of our Lords bodie and bloud, in formes of bread and wine. It is also in it-self so pure, that it can not be polluted (as the old sacrifices were, v. 12.) by vnworshie Priests, but is alwayes auaylable to some or other, ex opere operato. According to that the same Prophet testifieth, ch. 3. v. 4. The Sacrifice of Iuda and Ierusalem shal please our Lord. Which is necessarily vnderstood of the Christians sacrifice: for els this place were contrarie to that which God sayd to the Ievish Priests, ch. 1. v. 10. I haue no wil in you, and I wil not receiue giuft at your hand. Daniel also prophecieth, ch. 9. v. 27. that in the halt of the weeke the host and the sacrifice shal fayle. Ch. 12. v. 11. The continual sacrifice shal be taken away, thereby signifying that not only after the figure, the Sacrifice prefigured should succeed (for els there should be no daylie Sacrifice at al in the new Testament, which Malachie sayth plainly there shal be, not in one, or in fevv places, but from the rising of the sunne, euen to the going downe, &c.) but also that both the old and new sacrifices should be taken away in their seueral times. For so our Sauour (Mat. 24. v. 15.) applieth the next vords of this prophecie, and abomination of desolation shal be set vp, not only as a signe before the destruction of Ierusalem, but also of the end of the vworld. Verified in part as in the figure, vwhen the temple was destroyed, & diuers prophanations made in the same place: but more especially shal be fulfilled by Antichrist, abolishing the holie Sacrifice of Christs bodie and bloud, so much as he shal be suffered: as S. Hyppolitus vvrisseth, lib. de Antichristo, & in oratione de consummatione mundi. Agreeable to S. Irenew lib. 4. c. 32. & li. 5. in fine S. Ierom. in Dan. 12. Theodoretus in eundem locum, and S.

They seeke to be honoured with sacrifice.

Sacrifice is the proper seruice of God.

Sacrifice of the new testament, in al places.

More pure and excellent then the old.

The old ceased and the new succeeded.

Transubstantiation confessed by Rabbins.

Chrysostom in opere imperfecto. Yea some Hebrew Rabbins acknowledge Transubstantiation, in the Eucharist. as R. David Kimbi witnesseth vpon these words of Osee. 14. v. 8. They shall liue with wheate, & shal spring as a vine: Manie of our Doctours (sayth he) expound this, that there shal be mutation of nature in vvhate, in the times of our Redeemer Christ.

Baptisme.

This Rabbi David also, and the Caldee Paraphrasis expound Ezechiels Prophecie, ch. 36. v. 25. I wil powre out vpon you cleane water, of the remission of sinne, though they signifie not by what particular meanes. Which Christian Doctours vndoubtedly explicate of the Sacrament of Baptisme. And likewise his other prophecie, ch. 47. v. 1. waters issued forth vnder threhold of the house towards the East, can not be vnderstood of anie other waters then of Baptisme.

Penance.

The purifications, oblations, and other workes of penance practised by the people, after their returne from captiuitie, written. 2. Esd. 9. 10. 13. testifie their obseruation of the law in this point, by which the Sacrament of penance in the new testament was prefigured.

Holie orders.

In like sort the continuance of Priesthood, and Priestlie functions is manifest in the books of Esdras, and of other Prophets, which prefigured the Sacrament of holie Orders, in the Church of Christ.

Faests.

In these times also the feasts instituted by the law, were obserued with more or lesse solemnitic, as time, place, and other opportunities serued. As Esdras testifieth. li. 1. c. 3. v. 2. 10 v. 2. Iosue (the high-Priest) & Zorobabel (the duke) after their returne fro captiuitie, built an altar (notwithstanding the threats of infidels) & offered vpo it holocaust to our Lord morning & euening. And they made the solemnitic of tabernacles, and other feastes, as wel in the Calends, as in al the solemnities of our Lord, though the temple was not yet built againe (v. 6.) And afterwards vpon new occasion, Iudas Machabeus, 1. Mach. 4. & 2. Mach. 10. instituted a new feast, which our Sauour obserued. Ioan. 10. v. 12.

And extraordinarie.

The like obseruation was kept of faests. For amongst the feasts which were aduly performed (1. Esd. 3. v. 5.) one was of Expiation, which consisted in fasting from euen to euen, Leuit. 23. Num. 29. And besides the ordinarie, Esdras appointed a peculiar fast for special purposes, 1. Esd. 8. v. 21. And I proclaimed (sayth he) a fast, beside the riuer Ahaua, that we might be afflicted before the Lord our God: and might desire of him a right way for vs and our children. And (v. 23.) we fasted and besought our God hereby: and it fel out prosperously vnto vs. Againe, 2. Esd. 9. v. 1. The children of Israel came together in fasting, and sackcloths, and earth vpon them. See more of fasting Iudith. 4. & 9. Ester. 5. & 14. Zachar. 8. And of abstinence from certayne meates according to the law, Daniel 1. & 9. Iudith. 10. & 12. 2. Mach. 9. & 7.

Abstinence.

Forme of good life prescribed in the sapiential books.

More generally the whole forme of good life is excellently prescribed in the books of wisdom and Ecclesiasticus. Where vnder the general vertues of Wisdom and Iustice, al are admonished to seeke diligently to know God, and to serue him. As much as to say, to haue sayth and good works: the two feete, and legs, on which the godlie walke vnto life euerlasting. Let one short sentence here serue (or example) wishing al men to reade more in the booke themselues) Sap. 6. v. 18. 19. & 20. is this gradition. The beginning of wisdom is the true desire of discipline; the care of discipline is loue; & loue is the keeping of her lawes: & the keeping of the lawes is the consummation of incorruption: & incorruption maketh to be next to God. These are the steps from earth to heauen, from this vale of miseries to eternal happines. First, a true and sincere desire of discipline, or of Gods true seruice: 2. This desire or care of discipline breedeth loue of God: 3. loue is the keeping of lawes, the commandments of God: for he that sayth he loueth God, and keepeth not his commandments is a lier: 4. keeping the lawes is the consummation of incorruption: making the soule perfect in vertues, & free from corruption of sinnes: 5. and this incorruption maketh to be next to God, ioyning man with God, which is the perfect beatitude of eternal life. And so he concludeth, v. 22. Therefore (from first to last by degrees) desire of wisdom leadeth to the euerlasting kingdom. Yet must we vnderstand that neither the first step of good desire, nor anie of the rest is in a mans owne power as of himself, so much as to thinke a good thought, but Gods grace preuenteth, stirreth men vp, & continually assisteth, in al good beginnings, progresse, & perseuerance, as the same diuine authour teacheth a litle before, v. 14. wisdom preuenteth them that couet her, that she first may shew herself vnto them. Then to admit or refuse is in their power, that haue good motions. And therefore sinne is rightly imputed, and danation iustly inflicted vpon the wicked: because as Nehemias (2. Esd. 9. v. 17.) testifieth of the vngateful people, they would not heare. And they hardened their necks, and gaue the head to returne to their seruitude as it were by contention, or struiuing against God, through their owne free vvil; vvhich appeareth here to remaine in sinners. On the other side the same Nehemias in confidence of reward for good workes, and of his voluntarie cooperating vwith Gods grace, feared not to pray (2. Esd. 5. v. 19.) in these v words: Remember me my God to good, according to al things which I haue done to this people.

Some men moreouer besides the comādmēts of the law, voluntarily professed a peculiar state of holie life, a playne figure, or rather an exāple of Euāgelical counsels. As in the former ages the Nazerites, whose rule is prescribed Numeri 6. practised by Sampson (Iudic. 13.) & Samuel (1. Reg. 1.) & the Rechabites (Ier. 35) so in this last age next before Christ the Assideans, or Esseni. 1. Mach. 2. v. 42. of whom Iudas Machabeus in his time was head or captaine. 2. Mach. 14. v. 6. Ieremie the prophet (ch. 16. v. 2.) by Gods ordinance liued single vnmarrid al the time of the captiuitie. Thou shalt not take a wife, and thou shalt not haue sonnes and daughters in this place, to wit in Ierusalem. Neither did he marie vwhen he vvas afterwards in Aegypt. But of his v vne accord remained a virgin al his life, as S. Ierom v writeth, li. 1. aduers. Iouinianum.

Prayer of Saints after they are departed from this v world is manifestly deduced of the sacred text, Iere. 15. v. 1. of Moyses and Samuel, not to be heard if they should pray for the people, vvhom God had decreed to punish, vvere consequently to be heard in some other case. And more expressly. 2. Mach. 15. v. 12. & 14. is recorded that Onias and Ieremie did pray for al the people, & for al the holie citie. Reuerent estimation of Relikes and other holie things is manifest by the fact of the same Prophet Ieremie, v̄ho by Gods ordināce (2. Mach. 2. v. 1. & 5.) hid the holie fire, and the Tabernacle, and the Arke, & the Altar of incense in a caue, that they should not be prophaned by infidels ransaking Ierusalem, and the temple: Other holie ornaments also, and vessels v̄were restored by the fauourable King Cyrus, 1. Esd. 1. v. 7. & ch. 8. v. 30. In figure also of the holie Crosse on which Christ was to redeeme mankind, those that mourned for the abominations in Ierusalem (Ezec. 9.) were signed in their foreheads with the letter Thau, or T. and so were saued from the common slaughter of the vs̄signed.

Prayer and Sacrifice for the dead is likewise cleere 2. Mach. 12. v. 43. & c. if either the text may be admitted for Canonical, saying (v. 46.) It is a holie & healthful cogitation to pray for the dead; or for good testimonie of Iudas fact, being High-priest, and doing that which the whole Church practised, and which the Iewes yet obserue to this day.

Of the General Resurrection, is good testimonie in the same place v. 43. and 44. as the ground of Iudas his pietie towards the dead, wel and religiously thinking of the Resurrection. For vnles he hoped that they which were slaine should rise againe, it should seeme superfluous and vaine to pray for the dead. But seeing he did belieue the Resurrection, he did right wel and piously. And seeing the beleefe of resurrection is true, it foloweth, as this authour inferreth, that it is a holie thing to pray for the dead.

Malachie the last of the Prophets, in the last chapter foresheweth, and describeth the General iudgement, in the end of this world: wherein the wicked shal be condemned, and the iust eternally re v̄warded. Which day shal come (sayth he) kindled as a furnace. Al that doe impietic (dying in that state) shal be stubble, and that day shal inflame them. And there shal rise to you that feare my name, the Sunne of iustice, and health in this wings, or glorious beames, healing and curing al bodytie infirmities & defects. Before which day he fore-celleth of t̄v̄o signes, v. 5. The coming of Elias the Prophet, and v. 6. & the conuerfion of the Iewes to Christ. And thus much may here suffice, for particular points of religion in this age.

It resteth to vie v̄v̄ the state and gouernement of the Church in this time which may be considered according to the foure Monarchies of heathen nations, the Chaldees, the Medes & Persians, the Grecians, and the Romanes. Vnder the Chaldees, v̄whose Emperial citie v̄vas Babylon, they v̄were in captiuitie seuentie years. By the Medes and Persians (for that Monarchie consisted of those t̄v̄o nations) they v̄were released from captiuitie v̄with manie fauours; yet sometimes afflicted. Vnder the Monarchie of the Grecians, they v̄were partly in extreme persecution of Antiochus Epiphanes, & of other Grecian Kings & Princes, partly in v̄varres for defence of Gods la v̄ves. Before and after v̄which persecution and v̄vares, as v̄vel v̄nder the Grecians as the Romans til Christs Passion, the Church v̄vas for most part in peace, yet some times afflicted. But omitting manie intricate difficulties about the times and reignes of sundrie heathen Kings, it v̄vil suffice our purpose; so she v̄v̄ the general state of the Ie v̄v̄ish nation, with their o v̄v̄ne particular gouerners spiritual and t̄p̄oral, v̄with more or lesse fauour of forraine Princes.

First therefore concerning their estate in their captiuitie in Babylon, we may here obserue Gods providence, in that before the citie and temple of Ierusalem were destroyed, and the whole nation made captiue, Ioachim (otherwise called Iechonias) the sonne of Ioachaz (who was also called Iechonias) King of Iuda was transported into Babylon, and his mother, and manie other principal persons. 4. Reg. 24. 15.) Likewise Iosedech sonne of Saraias high Priest (1. Paral. 6. v. 15. was caried into Babylon. And in the meane time Sedecias (vncle to Ioachim) reigned in Iuda, who in the eleuenth yeare was taken and caried captiue into Babylon, and there died, Ioachim yet liuing in prison. And Saraias the High-priest with others was slayne in Rebla, when Ierusalem was destroyed. 4. Reg. 25. v. 18. & 21. To whom Iosedech succeeded in the high-Priesthood. So that both the issue of Dauid, in the right line of our Saviours genealogie. and the High-Priest of Arons stocke, were in Babylon before the whole bodie of the nation was brought thither. This Iechonias (or Ioachim) remained in prison, til the death of Nabuchodonosor, the space of thirtie seuen yeares, and was then deliuered by Euilmerodach, and by him entertained courteously as a Prince 4. Reg. 25. v. 27. He married there and had issue Salathiel; and Salathiel had Zorobabel. who together with Iosue sonne of Iosedech high-Priest, & Eldras, Nehemias, & others recited 1. Esd. 2. conducted the childre of Israel from Babylon into their countrie. There were also in a former transmigration Daniel and the other three children, Ananias, Misael, & Azarias, (of the royal or principal bloud) in the third yeare of Ioachim (otherwise called Eliacim sonne of Iostas. 4. Reg. 23. v. 34.) King of Iuda. Dan. 1. v. 1. 6. They with others were caried as hostages into Babylon, and brought vp more liberally. where seruing God sincerely, & abstaining from vnlawful meates, they were protected by God, much also esteemed & promoted in that place. For Daniel about the age of twelue yeares, conuincd the two vicked Iudges, and deliuered Susanna from their cruel bands. Dan. 13. And after varas for declaring and interpreting the Kings dreame (Dan. 2.) and excellent vvidom, and gift of prophetic, was admired by al, aduanced by the King: but maligned by certaine enuious sorcerers and great men. vvhery he was sometimes in great danger, but stil deliuered by Gods power protecting him. Dan. 6. & 14. The other three children were like vwise aduanced Dan. 2. v. 49. and therefore by liuers enuied, & for refusing to adore an idol set vp by Nabuchodonosor were cast into a hote burning furnace, and there preserved. Dan. 3.

Jeremie, vvhose before this time began to prophetic vvhiles he was a child, (Iere. 1.) continued in the time of captiuitie, in Ierusalem and Iurie, vvhich much affliction, and stil prophetic finally dyed in Aegypt. Baruch his scribe, and also a Propbet, went sometimes into Babylon, and returned into Iurie (Baruch. 1.) instructing and exhorting the people.

Ezechiel was caried vvhith King Iechonias and Iosedech into Babylon, and there prophetic (ch. 1. v. 2.) part of the same time vvhith Daniel, in great part the same things vvhith Jeremie. And during the captiuitie, King Iechonias, Iosedech the high-Priest, Jeremie, Baruch, Ezechiel Prophets, & innumerrble others

Ezechiel and Daniel in Babylon.

(some Martyrs, and manie Confessours) passed from this world. But Daniel yet lived. And in place of Iosedech High-Priest Ioinc succeeded, and the progenie of King Iec'lonias continuing in Salathiel and Zorobabel, the nation had them and other eminent men, with temporal dependence vpon forreine Princes in the next Monarchie of the Medes and Persians.

The Monarchie of Medes and Persians.

Cyrus licensed the Iewes to returne and build vp their temple. Prophecie of Christ, after seuentie weeks.

For when Darius King of Medes had slaine Baltazar King of the Chaldees, and so possessed Babylon, with the whole countrie, he brought the Monarchie to the Medes and Persians. Dan. 5. v. 31. and within the space of one yeare he dyed; and Cyrus succeeding granted leaue to al the Iewes to returne into Iurie; and there to build vp their temple, and citie of Ierusalem, which Nabuchodonosor had destroyed. At which time Daniel had his vision, that Christ our Saviour should come into the world, within seuentie weeks (of seuen yeares to the weeke, that is, in foure hundred ninesie yeares) after the perfect finishing of the temple and citie. Dan. 9. v. 24. & 25. But when they were so built againe, that the weeks began to be counted, is very obscure: as it was the wil of God, that the prophecie, being certayne in it-self, should not be ouer cleere to euerie mans vnderstanding, but as likewise manie other prophecies, shut and sealed. Dan. 12. v. 6. 9. 13.

Mardocheus.

Esther. Aman.

Iudith.

In this time of the Medes and Persians Monarchie, Mardocheus remayning in Chaldea, after the relaxation had that vision in a dreame, Esther. 11. after which folowed the historie of him, & Queene Esther, and wicked Aman; with the danger and deliuerie of al the Iewes in those parts.

Some thinke it likewise probable, that the historie of Iudith happened after the captiuitie; though others suppose that it was in the time of Manasses King of Iuda: which not being our purpose to discusse and decide, we wil passe to things more certayne.

Aggeus and Zacharias.

The Prophets Aggeus & Zacharias neere twentie yeares after the relaxation, earnestly exhorted the Princes & people to build vp the temple, which had been begun, and now was neglected vpon vaine feare, thinking the time was not yet come of building the house of our Lord. Aggeus 1. v. 2. wherupon the Prophet reproveth them, expostulating thus: Why, is time for you to dwel in cinbowed houses, and this house (of our Lord) desert? And assureth them v. 10. that their ground should remaine barren, & ch. 2. v. 15 their sacrifices vngateful, til they should build the temple: promising moreover that this new temple should be more glorious by Christs personal presence therein, then the former temple, built by Salomon. But specially the Church of Christ perfigured of by the temple, should farre excel the Synagogue of the old testament. ch. 2. v. 10. Great shall be the glorie of this last house more then of the first, which Zacharie confirmeth inuising the Gentils to come, and the Iewes to returne into Christs Church: ch. 2. v. 6. O flye out of the land of the North, sayth our Lord, because into the toure winds of heauen haue I dispersed you. v. 7 O Sion flye thou that dwellest with the daughter of Babylon. And by diuers other visions & prophecies they foreshew the connerison of the Gentils, & reiection of the Iewes for their obduration, but in the end they also shal be conuerted.

The Church more glorious in the new testament.

Malachie.

Malachie prophesied after the finishing of the temple, exhorting al to offer their sacrifices with puritie of hart, reprehending both Priests and people for not so doing. ch. 1. He also foresheiweth the reiection of the Iewes, and calling of the Gentils, with the change of the old sacrifices, and institution of a new farre more excellent, and more effectual, to be offered euerie where where (v. 10. & 11.) He concludeth his prophetic ch. 4. foretelling the terrible day of Iudgement, and life or death euerlasting.

These later prophets yet liuing, as Iosephus, Eusebius, Theodoretus and others testifie in their histories, the Grecians obtained so great a Monarchie by King Alexander the Great of Macedo, that being parted after his death amongst manie, yet al were great kingdoms, some longer some shorter time. In the beginning wherof when King Alexander came to Ierusalem, as Iosephus wrieth li. 11. c. 8. Antiquit. Iaddus the High Priest going forth in his pontifical attyre to meete him, the same King streightwayes fel downe at his seete with al reuerence. And being demanded by his freinds, the Princes of his armie, why he so much honored the High Priest, he answered, that he honored not the man for himself, but for his office, and God in him, who had appeared to him in sleepe in that very habite, and ornaments, when he in Macedonia discoursed in his minde of making battel against the Persians, promising him assured victorie. shortly after this it happened, that Manasses an Apostata High Priest, by intercession of Sanaballat, whose daughter he had vnlawfully married, obtayned licence to build a temple in Garazim, which the Samaritanes afterwards pretended to be more anient then the temple of Ierusalem, against which our Sauour gaue sentence. Ioan 4. v. 22. It was also decided by King Ptolomeus in Alexandria (as Iosephus witneseth li. 13. c. 6.) by way of arburement, finding that the temple of Ierusalem, and the High Priests therof had a perpetual succession from Salomons time, and that their pretence of Iacobs adoring in Garizim was not to the purpose, seeing there was no succession, that temple being lately built. Neuertheles the same Ptolomeus to gratifie Onias an other Apostata, sonne of good Onias High Priest and Martyr (2. Macab. 4. v. 34.) gaue leaue to build an other temple in Aegypt, which stood likewise in schisme against the true temple of Ierusalem, wresting to their purpose the Prophecie of Isaie. ch. 19. v. 19. In that day there shall be an altar of our Lord in the middes of Aegypt. which S. Ierom sheweth to be vnderstood of the Church of Christ. Before this last schismatical temple, and after the former were the Seuentie two Interpreters, or Translatours of the Hebrew Bible into Greeke. of whom S. Ierom and al ancient Fathers speake much, and esteeme of very great and Canonical auctoritie

In the time of the Grecians Monarchie, prophane learning flourished more then before, and Philosophers abounded, but differed exceedingly amongst themselues, & al erred in the principles both of Natural & Moral knowledge. For wheras indeed God omnipotēt was the only maker of the whole world, and al things therein, al these Philosophers supposed & taught, that some material thing was coeternal with God: and so they put the same thing to haue been the beginning of al other things. which some say was the water, some the Ayre, some the Earth, some the Fyre, some al these foure Elements, some the Atomes, or indiuisible smal bodies, some one thing some an other. wherof S. Epiphanius writeth in compendio contra hereses. And the like absurde conceits they had of the chiefe Good, or Summum bonum. Which the Pithagorians thought to be nothing els but a certayne immortalitie of the soule, and so, as it may stil be in a bodie. And therefore seeing both men and beasts doe dye, they held opinion, that when a soule parteth out of one bodie, it goeth into an other. Yea and maketh transmigratio from one species or kind to an other. As from a mans bodie into the bodie of a horse, or an ox; and contrariwise from a brute beast into a man againe, and from one beast into an other. The Stoikes put the chiefe good in vertues, but could reach no further then to a certayne contentment of ioy in their minde, not knowing the reward of vertues to consist in seeing God. Platonikes or Academikes conceined more of God, and pure spirits, but thought both corporal and spiriual creatures were coeternal with God. The Peripatetikes placed the chiefe good or felicitie in the aggregation of best spiriual, corporal, and worldlie things together. The Epicures esteemed carnal and bodilie pleasures about al. And al these and their solo wers iudged so diuersly of the right true felicitie, contradicting and cōdemning ech others opinions, that they were multiplied into innumerable Sectes.

As S. Augustin declareth out of Marcus Varro: and opposeth against them al, the one assured fayth and iudgement of Gods Church, in his 19. book de ciuit. Det. c. 4. And concludeth with the Royal Prophet, and S. Paul, that their cogitations are vaine, which wil haue happines to be in anie other thing but in seeing God; or to be obtained by anie other meanes without Gods grace. And not only before & since, but also in the same times the authours of The Books of wisdom & Ecclesiasticus taught right doctrine against those erroneous Philosophers.

For profession also of true fayth and religion the Machabees both suffered and laboured most notably, when King Antiochus Epiphanes (1. Mach. 1. 7. 43.) wrote to al his kingdom, that al the people should be one, and euerie one should leaue his owne law. And who so euer should not doe according to the word of Antiochus they should dye. Against which most wicked decree, and cruel execution thereof, Gods grace so abounded that (7. 56.) manie of the people of Israel, determined with themselues, that they would not eate the vncleane things: and they chose rather to dye, then to be defiled with vncleane meates: and that they would not breake the holy law of God, & so were murdered: As is more particularly recorded, 2. Mach. 5. 7. 14. how there were in the space of three dayes fourescore thousand slayne, fourtie thousand imprisoned, & no lesse sold. After this with more pretence of iustice, but with more malice, endeauouring to terrifie others, & to draw them to yeald, or make shew of conformitie to wicked lawes, ch. 6. 7. 10. two women were accused to haue circumcised their sonnes whom when they had led about through the citie, with the infanis hanging at their breasts, they threw downe headlōg by the wals. And 7. 11. other people were burnt with fire, for secretly keeping the day of the Sabbath. Thirdly 7. 18. Eleazarus being vrged to eate swines flesh, and intreated by his familiar freinds to make shew of conformitie, would neither eate, nor feyne to eate it, but dyed most constantly, leauing an example of vertue & fortitude. Fourthly seuen brethren and their mother (2. Mach. 7.) yealded also their liues in most glorious Martyrdom,

After which heroical constancie in suffering, it was also Gods prouidence, that others should shew their fortitude, in deliuering his Church from these calamities and dangers. For Matthathias of the tribe of Leui, and stocke of Aaron Priest, and (after the apostasie of Iason li. 2. c. 4. v. 10.) Highpriest, lamenting the pitiful state of Gods people, with resolute mind, and inuincible courage resisting wicked Antiochus (1. Mach. 2.) of iust Zele with his owne hands slew one, who for feare of death was reddie to offer sacrifice to idols, & withal killed the Kings commissioner, who came to compel men to commit idolatrie: and then gathered troups to defend so holie a cause. Against whom the enimies fighting on the sabbath dayes killed manie, which of scruple would not resist. But vpon further consideration, the rest resolved to defend themselues also on the sabbath day, if they were assaulted.

Next to him succeeded his sonne Iudas Machabeus in both the offices of High priest & General capitaine: who (as good order required (first pursued the wicked (to wit amongst his owne subiects) inquiring them out, and such as troubled his people, them he burned with fire. 1. Mach. 3. v. 5. and his enimies were repelled for feare of him: al the workers of iniquitie were troubled: and saluation was directed in his hand. For he & his followers. 2. Mac. 8. v. 2. inuocated our Lord, that he would haue respect to his owne people; the temple; the citie; heare the voice of bloud crying vnto him, remember the most vniust deaths of innocents, and the blaiphemies done to his name. So he with a few (hauing made this preparation by prayer) ouerthrew the armies of Antiochus, with their foure principal captaines Appollonius (1. Mach. 3. v. 11.) and (v. 23.) Seron, (ch. 4.) Gorgias and Lysias. Then cleansing the temple (v. 36. & l. 2. ch. 10.) renewed the holie vessels, which were destroyed by Antiochus, and dedicated a new altar. v. 47. & 56.

And whiles Iudas with his brethren deliuered the people from al bordering enimies. 1. Mach. 5. & li. 2. ch. 10. & 1. Anthiochus Epiphanes li. 1. c. 6. & li. 2. ch. 9. dyed most miserably. And his yong sonne Antiochus Eupator reigned. Against whose captaines Iudas had stil more victories. li. 2. ch. 12. & 13. Then folowed the last battel, of Nicanor sent by King Demetrius, vwhere he was slaine by Iudas forces, in the middes of his armie. li. 1. ch. 7. & li. 2. ch. 15. wherof Demetrius hearing sent new forces with Bacchides and Alcimus, and more then two parts of Iudas smal campe flying away, he with only eight hundred. li. 1. ch. 9. setting vpon the enimies defeated the strongest part of their armie: but another part comming at his backe great slaughter was made on both sides, and Iudas after manie heroical actes was now slaine in battel, dying with most renoumed glorie. v. 8. al good men lamenting his death.

After him Ionathas his brother succeeded Highpriest & general capitaine, ch. 9. v. 28. who managing the common affayres with great wisdom, pietie, and courage, the wicked vsurper Alcimus, who not long before swearing that he would not hurt the Asideans presently killed threescore of them in one day. li. 1. ch. 7. v. 1. and beginning to deface the temple. wa: sodenly strucken with a palseie, and dyed miserably. li. 1. ch. 9. v. 54. league with the Romanes and Lacedemonians, ch. 12. At last vvas deceiued, and both he and his sonnes vvere trecherously slaine: by Tryphon, ch. 13. So Simon his brother was made Highpriest and captaine general by publike consent. ch. 14. vvhoe after manie noble actes, ch. 15. vvas also vilanously slaine vwith 1200 of his sonnes, by his sonne in law Ptolomee. And his other sonne Ioannes Hyrcanus succeeded, ch. 16. In his dayes the Iewes in Ierusalem vvvrit to their brethren in Aegypt, exhorting them not to frequent the schismatical temple in Aegypt, but to keepe the feasts vvhich vvere instituted in Ierusalem. Thus much of the troublesome state of the Church, reduced to peace by the Machabees.

Ioannes Hyrcanus.

The Romane Monarchie.

Shortly after vvhich time, the Romane Kingdom hauing been often increased in the space of neere seuen hundred yeares from the building of Rome, vvas by Pompeius the great, subduing the East countries, extended so farre, that as Plinie vvvriteth, li. 7. c. 26. Asia Minor vvas now as it vvere the middle part, vvhich before vvas the uttermost borders of their dominions. And the same Pompeius, amongst the rest, taking Ierusalem, brought the Iewes vnder the Romane Empyre, nere fourescore yeares before Christ. vnder vvhom they enioyed some liberties, til Herod Ascalonita a stranger borne (his father an Idumean, his mother an Arabike) vvas first made gouernour of Galelee, then Tetrach of Iudaea, and after vwards King therof. Who beeing aduanced by the Romanes to royal dignitie, endeuouring by sundrie benefits to get the peoples fauour, amongst other things enlarged and adorned their Temple, making it as it were a new edifice, in comparison of that vvhich vvas built after the captiuitie: yea more excellent as some thinke, then that vvhich Salomon built. But this new King made saile of spiriteal offices. Namely he sold the office of the Highpriest for money, and that from yeare to yeare, or for short and limited time. In him vvas fulfilled the prophetic of the Patriarch Iacob, Gen. 49. giuing it for a signe that Christ our Redeemer should presently come into this vworld, saying. The scepter shal not be taken away from Iudas, and a duke out of his thigh, til he doe come that is to be sent, and the same shal be the expectation of the Gentils. And therefore Herod hearing by the Sages, that the true King of Iewes vvas borne, in extreme furie murdered the innocent Infants. Mat. 2. And so both Iewes and Gentils vvere admonished that the Messias vvas borne of the seede and right line of King David vvhose Genealogie before the captiuitie vve noted in the fifth age of the vworld, to Ioachaz sonne of Iosias. Now therefore to prosecute the same, vve must obserue, that vvhether S. Mathevv sayth: Iosias begat Iechonias, by this Iechonias he meaneth Ioa: haz, other vvhise called Iechonias; or els he ascribeth the nephevv to the grand-father as his sonne. For Iosias vvas slaine at least eleuen yeares before Iechonias the father of Salathiel vvas borne. And this later Iechonias vvas also called Ioachim, the first of the third Tessaradehad, so the second Salathiel, the 3. Zorobabel, 4. Abiud, 5. Eliachim, 6. Azor. 7. Sadoc. 8. Achim, 9. Eliud, 10. Eleazar, 11. Mathan, 12. Iacob, 13. Ioseph. the husband of Marie, of whom was borne the foureteenth, IESVS CHRIST. And this known by tradition, not vvvritten before S. Mathevv's Gospel.

Herod the first strange King of the Iewes.

He enlarged the temple. But sold the office of High-Priest.

This King was a signe of Christs coming.

Succession of High-Priests.

The succession also of the Highpriests, declared in our former Recapitulations of the fourth and fifth ages, from Aaron to Iosedech, who was High-Priest in the captiuitie, after that his father Saraias was slaine. 4. Reg. 25. v. 18. continued as partly by holie scriptures, the rest by other auctours appeareth in this order: After the same Ioiedech, his sonne Iosue, then Ioachim, Eliachim, Eliasib, Ioiada, Ionathan, Iaddus in the time of King Alexander: Onias the first, Simon Priscus, Eleazarus, by whom the Seuentie two Interpreters were sent to King Ptolomeus Philadelphus. Manasses, who became an Apostata, Onias the second, Simon the second, of whom is worthie mention Eccli. 50. Onias the third, whose brother Iason obtayned the office of the King by Symonie and became an Apostata, so was neuer lawful, neither those that folowed him Menelaus of the tribe of Benjamin. Lisimachus his brother & vicar. Alcimus though of Aarons stock, yet for his Apostasie vnlawful. At which time the true High Priests were of the Machabres, Mathathias & his sonnes Iudas, Ionathas, & Simon, his sonne Ioannes Hyrcanus Then Aristobulus, Alexander, another Hyrcanus, in whose time Pompeius tooke Ierusalem, Antigonus, after whom Herod put Anaclus in the office for money And so the rest or most of them that folowed were Symoniack. Aristobulus, Iosue, Simon, Mathias, Iosephus, Iozarus, Eleazarus, Iosue, Anna, Imael, Eleazarus, Simon, and Caiphas Who in council (Ioan. 1. v. 49.) gaue sentence (which himselfe vnderstood not) that it was expedient, that one should dye for the people, and the whole nation perish not. Which the holie Euangelist ascribeth to his office, being High-Priest of that yeare, he prophesied that Iesus should dye for the nation, and not only for the nations, but to gather into one the children of God, that were dispersed.

The true succession continued also in the times of vsurpers.

IESVS REDEEMER, correct in vs our errours, gather the dispersed, conserue them that are and shall be gathered, make al one flock in one fold vnder one Pastour. thy selfe IESVS CHRIST. To whom with the Father, and the Holie Ghost be al thanks, praise, honour, and glorie, now and for euer and euer. AMEN.

THE PRAYER OF MANASSES KING of Iuda, v when he vvas held captiue in Babylon.

2. Paral. 33.
v. 12.

NORD omnipotent God of our fathers, Abraham, & Isaac, and Iacob, and of their iust seede, which didst make heauen and earth: with al the ornaments of them, which hast bound the sea with the word of thy precept, which hast shut vp the depth, and sealed it with thy terrible and laudable name: whom al things dread, & tremble at the countenance of thy power, because the magnificence of thy glorie is importable, & the wrath of thy threatening vpon sinners is incollerable: but the mercie of thy promise is infinite and vnsearchable: because thou art our Lord, most high, benigne, long suffering, and very merciful, and penitent vpon the wickednes of men. Thou Lord according to the multitude of thy goodnes hast promised penance and remission to them that haue sinned to thee, and by the multitude of thy mercies thou hast decreed penance to sinners, vnto saluation. Thou therefore Lord God of the iust, hast not appointed penance to the iust, Abraham, & Isaac, and Iacob, them that haue not sinned to thee, but hast appointed penance for me a sinner: because I haue sinned about the number of the sand of the sea. Myne iniquities Lord be multiplied, mine iniquities be multiplied, and I am not worthie to behold & looke vpon the height of heauen, for the multitude of mine iniquities. I am made crooked with manie a band of yron, that I can not lift vp my head, and I haue not respiration: because I haue stirred vp thy wrath, and haue done euil before thee: I haue not done thy wil, & thy I commandments I haue not kept: I haue set vp abominations, & multiplied offences. And now I bowe the knee of my hart, beseeching goodnes of thee. I haue sinned Lord, I haue sinned, & I acknowledge myne iniquities. Wherefore

I beseech

I beseech disiring thee, forgiue me Lord, forgiue me: and destroy me not together with myne iniquities, neither referue thou for euer, being angrie, euils for me, neither damme me into the lowest places of the earth: because thou art God, God, I say, of the penitent: in me thou shalt shew al thy goodnes, because thou shalt saue me vnworthie according to thy great mercie, and I wil praysethee alwayes al the dayes of my life: because al the power of the heauens prayseth thee, and to thee is glorie for euer and euer. Amen.

THE THIRD BOOK OF ESDRAS.

For helpe of the readers, especially such as haue not leysure to read al, we haue gathered the contents of the chapters; but made no Annotations: because the text it self is but as a Commentarie to the Canonical bookes; and therforre we haue only added the concordance of other Scriptures in the margin.

Iosias King of Iuda maketh a great Pasch, 7. geuing manie hostes to such as wanted for sacrifice: 14. the Priests and Leuites performing their functions therein: 22. in the eighteenth yeare of his reigne. 25. He is slayne in battel by the King of Aegypt, 32. and much lamented by the Iewes. 34. His sonne Ieconias succedeth. 37. After him Ioachim, 40. who is deposed by the King of Babylon. 43. Ioachim reigneth three months, and is caried into Babylon. 46. Sedecias reigneth eleuen yeares wickedly. 52. and he with his people is caried captiue into Babylon. the citie and temple are destroyed. 57. so remayned til the Monarchie of the Persians.

AND Iosias made a Pasch in Ierusalem to our Lord & imolated the Phafe the fourteenth moone of the moneth: 2. appointing the Priests by courses of dayes clothed with stoles in the temple of our Lord, 3. And he spake to the Leuites the sacred seruants of Israel, that they should sanctifie them selues to our Lord in the placing of the holie arke of our Lord in the house, which King Salomon sonne of Dauid built. 4. It shal not be for you to take it vpon your shoulders. And now serue your Lord, and take the care of that nation Israel, in part according to your villages & tribes, 5. according to the writing of Dauid King of Israel, and according to the magnificence of Salomon his sonne, al in the temple, and according to your fathers portion of principalitie, among them that stand in the sight of your brethren the children of Israel. 6. molate the Pasch, and prepare the sacrifices for your bretheren, and doe according to the precept of our Lord which was giuen to Moyses. 7. And Iosias gaue vnto the people that was found of sheepe, lambes, and kiddes, & goates thirtie thousand, calues three thousand. 8. These things were giue to the people of the Kings goods according to promise: and to the Priests for the Phase, sheepe in number two thousand, and calues an hundred. 9. And Iechonias, and Semeias, and Nathanael bretheren, and Hasabias, and Oziel, & Coraba, for the Phase sheepe five thousand, calues five hundred. 10. And when these things were done in good order, the Priests and the Leuites stood hauing azymes by tribes. 11. And according to the portions of their fathers principalitie, in the sight of the people they did offer to our Lord according to those things, which were written in the book of Moyses: 12. and roasted the Phase with fire as it ought: and the hostes they boyled in cauldrons, and in pottes with beneuolence: 13. and they brought to al that were of the people: and afterward they prepared for them selues and the Priests. 14. For the Priests offered the fatte, vntil the houre was ended: & the Leuites prepared for them selues, and their brethren, the children of Aaron. 15. And the sacred singing men, the children of Asaph were by order according to the precept of Dauid, & Alaph, & Zacharias, & Ieddinus, which was from the King. 16. And the porters at euerie gate, so that none transgressed his owne: for their brethren prepared forth. 17. And the things were consummate that perteyned to the sacrifice of our Lord. 18. In that day they celebrated the Phase, and offered hostes vpon the sacrifice of our Lord, according to the precept of King Iosias. 19. And the children of Israel, that were found at that time, celebrated the Phase: and the festiual day of Azymes for seuen dayes: 20. and there was not celebrated such a Phase in Israel, from the times of Samuel the Prophet: 21. and al the Kings of Israel did not celebrate such a Phase as Iosias did, and the Priests, and the Leuites, and the Iewes, and al Israel, that were found in their abode at Ierusalem. 22. In the eighteenth yeare, Iosias reigning, was the Phase celebrated. 23. And the workes of Iosias were directed in the sight of his Lord in a hart ful of feare: 24. and the things concerning him are written in the ancient times, touching them that sinned, and were irreligious against our Lord aboue al nations, and that sought not the words of our Lord vpon Israel. 25. And after al this fact of Iosias, came vp Pharao the King of Aegypt conming in Charcamis from the way vpon Euphrates, and Iosias went forth to meete him. 26. And the King of Aegypt sent to Iosias saying: What is there between me & thee King of Iuda? 27. I was not sent of the Lord to fight against thee: for my battel is vpon Euphrates, goe downe in halt. 28. And Iosias did not returne vpon his chariot: but endeauoured to ouerthrow him, not attending the word of the Prophet from the mouth of our Lord: 29. but he made battel against him in the field of Mageddo. And Princes went downe to King Iosias. 30. And the King said to his seruants: Remoue me from the battel, for I am weakned exceedingly. And forthwith his seruants remo-

And in al Iurie they mourned for Iofias, & the rulers with their wiues lamented him vntil this day. And this was giuen out to be done alwayes vnto al the stocke of Israel. 33. But these things were written before in the booke of the histories of the kings of Iuda: and al the actes of the doing of Iofias, and his glorie and his vnderstanding in the law of our Lord: and the things that were done by him, and that are not written in the book of the kings of Israel and Iuda. 34. And they that were of the nation, taking Iechonias the sonne of Iofias, made him King for Iofias his father, when he was three and twentie yeares old. 35. And he reigned ouer Irael three months. And the King of Aegypt remoued him, that he should not reigne in Ierusalē: 36. & he put a tax vpon the nation of siluer an hundred talētes, and of gold one talent. 37. And the King of Aegypt made Ioacim his brother King of Iuda & Ierusalem: 38. & he bound the magistrates of Ioacim, and Zaracel his brother, and taking thē brought them backe into Aegypt. 39. Ioacim was siue and twentie yeares old when he began to reigne in the land of Iuda and Ierusalem: & he did euil in the sight of our Lord. 40. And after this man came vp Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon and binding him with a bande of brasse, brought him into Babylon. 41. And Nabuchodonosor took the sacred vessels of our Lord, and carried away, and consecrated thē in his temple in Babylon. 42. For his vncleannes, & lacke of religion is writ ten in the book of the times of the Kings. 43. And Ioachim his sonne reigned for him. And when he was made King, he was eighteen yeares old. 44. And reigned three months and ten dayes in Ierusalem, and did euil in the sight of our Lord: 45. and after a yeare Nabuchodonosor sending, transported him into Babylon together with the sacred vessels of our Lord. 46. And he made Sedecias King of Iuda and Ierusalem, when he was one and twentie yeares old: and he reigned eleuen yeares. 47. And he did euil in the sight of our Lord, and was not afraid of the words which were spoken by Ieremie the Prophet from the mouth of our Lord: 48. and being sworne of King Nabuchodonosor, forsworne he did reuolt: & his necke being hardned, & his hart, he transgressed the ordinances of our Lord the God of Israel. 49. And the Princes of the people of our Lord did manie things wickedly, and they did impiouly aboute al the vncleannes of the nations: & they polluted the temple of our Lord that was holie in Ierusalem. 50. And the God of their fathers sent by his messenger to reclame them, for that he would spare them and his tabernacle. 51. But they scorned at his messengers: and in the day that our Lord spake to them they were mocking his Prophets. 52. Who was moued euen vnto wrath vpon his nation for their impietic, and commanded the Kings of the Chaldees to come vp. 53. Y R V S King of the Persians reigning for the accomplishment of the word of our Lord by the mouth of Ieremie, 2. our Lord rayed vp the spirit of Cyrus King of the Persians, and he proclaymed in al his Kingdomes, and that by writing, 3. saying: Thus sayth Cyrus King of The Persians: The Lord of Israel, the high Lord, hath made me King ouer the whole earth, 4. & hath signified to me to build him a house in Ierusalē which is in Iurie. 5. If there be any of your kinred, his Lord goe vp with him into Ierusalem. 6. Whosoeuer therefore dwel about the places, let them help them that are in the same place, in gold & siluer, 7. in guits, with horses, and beasts, and with other things which by vowes are added into the temple of our Lord which is in Ierusalem. 8. And the Princes of the tribes, of the villages, and of Iurie, of the tribe of Benjamin, & the Priests, and the Leuites standing vp, whom our Lord moued to goe vp, and to build the house of our Lord which is in Ierusalem, and they that were round about them, 9. did helpe them with al their gold and siluer, and beasts, and manie whose minde was stirred vp, with many vowes. 10. And Cyrus the King brought forth the sacred vessels of our Lord, which Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon transported out of Ierusalem, & consecrated them to his Idol. 11. And Cirus the King of Persians bringing thē forth, deliuered thē to Mithridatus, who was ouer his treasures. 12. And by him they were deliuered to Salmanasar president of Iurie. 13. And of these this was the number: Cuppes for libaments of siluer two thousand foure hundred: basens of siluer thirtie: phials of gold thirtie, also of siluer two thousand foure hundred: & other vessels a thousand. 14. & al the vessels of gold & siluer, were siue thousand eight hundred sixtie. 15. And they were numbred to Salmanasar together with them that came out of the captiuite of Babylon into Ierusalem. 16. But in the times of Artaxerxes King of the Persians, there wrote to him of them that dwelt in Iurie and Ierusalem, Balsamus, and Mithridatus, and Sabellius, and Rathimus, Balthemus, Sabellius scribe, and the rest dwelling in Samaria, and other places, the epistle folowing to King Artaxerxes. 17. SIR, thy seruants Rathimus ouer occurrentes, and Sabellius the scribe, and the other iudges of thy court in Celefyria, and Phenice. 18. And now be it knowen to our Lord the King, that Iewes came vp from you to vs, comming into Ierusalem a rebellious, & very naughty citie, do build the fornaces thereof, and set vp the walles, and and rayse the temple. 19. And if this citie, and the walles shal be finished, they wil not onlie not abyde to pay tributes, but also wil resist the Kings. 20. And because that is in doing about the temple, we thought it should doe wel not to neglect this samething: 21. but to make it knowen to our Lord the King, that if it shal seeme good, o King, it may be sought in the books of thy fathers, 22. & thou shalt find in the records, things written of these, and thou shalt know that this citie hath been rebellious, & troubling Kings, & cities, 23. the Iewes rebelles & making battels in it frō time out of mind, for the which cause this citie was made desolate. 24. Now therfore we doe thee to vnderstand, Lord King, that if this citie shal be built, & the walles thereof shal be erected, there wil be no cōming downe for thee into Celefyria & Phenice. 25. Then wrote the King to Rathimus, the writer of the occurrentes, and to Balthemus, and to Sabellius the scribe, and to the rest ioyned with them, and to the dwellers in Syria and Phenice, as foloweth: 26. I haue read the epistle that you sent me. I commanded therefore search to be made, & it was found that the same citie is from the beginning rebellious to Kings, 27. and the men rebelles, and making battels in it, & there were most valient Kings ruling in Ierusalem, and exacting tributes in Celefyria & Phenice. 28. Now therefore I haue giuen commandment to forbid those men to build the citie, and to stay them that nothing be done more then is: 29. and that they procede not farder, wherof are euils, so that there may be trouble brought vpon the Kings. 30. Then these things being read which were written of King Artaxerxes, Rathimus, and Sabellius the scribe, and they that were appointed with them ioyning together in hast came to Ierusalem with a troupe of horsemen, and multitude, & companie: 31. and they begane to forbid the builders, and they ceased from building of the temple in Ierusalem, til in the second yeare of the reigne of Darius King of the Persians.

CHAP. III.

After a solmne supper made to al the court and chief Princes, King Darius sleeping: 4. three esquires of the bodie keeping watch, proposed the question: 10. whether wine, or a King, or wemen, or the truth doth excel: 17. The first prayseth wine.

KING Darius made a great supper to al his domestical seruants, and to al the magistrates of Media and Persia, 2. and to al that weare purple, and to the Pretors, and Consuls, and Liuetenantes vnto him from India vnto Ethiopia, an hundred twentie seuen prouinces. 3. And when they had eaten and drunken, and returned tul, then Darius went vp into his chamber, and slept, and awaked. 4. Then those three yong men keepers of his bodie, which garded the Kings bodie, sayd one to an other: 5. Let euerie one of vs say a word that may excel: & whose word soeuer shal appeare wiser then the others, to him wil King Darius giue great guifts, 6. to be couered with purple, & to drinke in gold, and to sleepe vpon gold, & a chariote with a bridle of gold, & a bonet of silke, and a cheyne about his necke: 7. and he shal sit in the second place next Darius for his wisdorne. And he shal be called the cosin of Darius. 8. Then euerie one writing his word signed it, and they put it vnder the pillow of Darius the King, 9. and they sayd: When the King shal rise, we wil giue him our writings: and which soeuer of the three the King shal iudge, and the magistrates of Persia, that his word is the wiser, to him shal the victorie be giuen as is writen. 10. One wrote: Wine is strong. 11. An other wrote, A King is stronger. 12. The third wrote, Women are more strong: but aboue al things truth ouercommeth. 13. And when the King was risen, they tooke their writings, and gaue him, and he read. 14. And sending he called al the Magistrates of the Persians, and the Medes, and them that weare purple, and the Pretors, and the Ouerleers, 15. and they sate in the Counsel: and the writings were read before them. 16. And he sayd: Cal the yong men, & they shal declare their owne wordes. And they were called, and went in. 17. And he sayd to them: Declare vnto vs concerning these things which are written. And the first began, he that had spoken of the strength of wine, 18. and sayd: O ye men, how doth wine preuaile ouer al men that drinke! it seduceth the minde. 19. And also the mind of King and orphane it maketh vaine. Also of the bondman and the free, of the rich man and the poore, 20. and euerie mind it turneth into securitie and pleasantnes, and it remembreth not any sorow and dutie, 21. and al hartes it maketh honest, and it remembreth not King, nor magistrate, and it maketh a man speake al things by talentes. 22. And when they haue drunke, they remember not freindship, nor brotherhood: yea and not long after they take swords. 23. And when they are recouered and risen from the wine, they remember not what they haue done. 24. O ye men, doth not wine excel? who thinketh to doe so: And hauing sayd this, he held his peace.

C H A P. IIII.

The second prayseth the excellencie of a King: 13. The third (which is Zorobabel) commendeth women: 33. but preferreth truth aboue al. 41. Which is so approued, and he is rewarded. 42. The King moreouer at his request restoreth the holie vessels of the temple, and granteth meanes to build the citie of Ierusalem, and the temple.

ANd the next began to speake, he that spake of the strength of a King. 2. O ye men doe not the men excel, which obteyne land & sea, and al things that are in them? 3. But a King excelleth aboue al things, and hath dominion ouer them: and euerie thing whatsoeuer he shal say to them, they doe. 4. And if he send them to warryers, they goe, and throw downe mountaines, and the walles, and towers. 5. They kil, and are killed: and the Kings word they transgresse not. For if they shal overcome, they bring to the King al things whatsoeuer they haue taken for a praye. 6. In like manner also al others, for so many as are not souldiers, nor fight, but til the ground: when they shal reape, againe they bring tributes to the King. 7. And he being one onlie, it he say: Kil ye, they kil; say he: forgiue, they forgiue; say he: strike, they strike; say he destroy, they destroy; 8. say he build, they build; 9. say he, cut downe, they cut downe; say he plant, they plant: 10. and al the people, & potestates heare him, and beside this he sitteth downe, and drinketh, and sleepeth. 11. And others gard him round about, and can not goe euerie one, and doe their owne workes. but at a word are obedient to him. 12. O ye men, how doth not a King excel that is so renoumed? And he held his peace. 13. The third that spake of women and truth, this is Zorobabel, began to speake. 14. O ye men, not the great King, & many men, neither is it wine that doth excel. Who is it then that hath the dominion of them? 15. Haue not women brought forth the King, & al the people, that ruleth ouer land & sea: 16. and were they not borne of them, and did not they bring vp them which planted the vineyards, whereof wine is made? 17. And they make the garments of al men, & they doe honour to al men, and men can not be separated from women. 18. If they haue gathered gold and siluer, and euerie beautiful thing, & see a woman comlie & fayre, 19. leauing al these things they fixe their looke vpon her, & with open mouth behold her, and allure her more then gold & siluer, and euerie precious thing. 20. Man forsaketh his father that brought him vp, and his countrie, and ioyneth himself to a woman. 21. And with a woman he refretheth his soul: and neither doth he remember father, nor mother, nor countrie. 22. And hereby you must know that women rule ouer you. Are you not forie? 23. And a man taketh his sword, & goeth into the way to commit thefts and murders, & to sayle seas & riuers, 24. and seeth a lyon; and goeth in darkenes: and when he hath cammitted theft, and fraude, and spoyles, he

bringeth it to his beloued. 25. And againe, man loueth his wife more the father or mother. 26. And many haue become madde for their wiues: & haue bene made bondinen for them: 27. and many haue perished and bene slayne, and haue sinned for women. 28. And now belieue me, that the King is great in his powre: because al countries are afrayd to touch him. 29. Neuertheles I saw Apemes the daughter of Bezaces the concubine of a meruelous King, sitting by the King at his right hand, 30. and taking off the crowne from his head, and putting it vpon her self, and with the palme of her left hand she struck the King. 31. And beside these things he with open mouth beheld her: and if she smile he laugheth, and if she be angrie with him, he flattereth, til he be reconciled to her fauour. 32. O ye men, why are not women stronger? Great is the earth, and high is the heauen: who doeth these things? 33. And then the King and they that weare purple looked one vpon an other. And he began to speake of truth. 34. O ye men, are not women strong? The earth is great and heauen is high: & the swift course of the sunne turneth the heauen round into his place in one day. Is not he magnificent that doth these things, and the truth great, and stronger aboue al things? 36. Al the earth calleth vpon the truth, heauen also blesseth it, and al workes are moued, and tremble at it, and there is not any thing with it vniust. 37. Wine is vniust, the King is vniust, women are vniust, al the sonnes of men are vniust, and al their workes are vniust, and in them is not truth, and they shal perish in their iniquitie, 38. and truth abydeth, and groweth strong for euer, and liueth, and preuayleth for euer and euer. 39. Neither is there with it acception of persons, nor differences: but the things that are iust it doth to al men, to the vniust and malignant, and al men are wel pleased in the workes thereof. 40. And there is no vniust thing in the iudgement thereof, but strength, and reigne, and power, and maiestie of worlds. Blessed be the God of truth. 41. And he left speaking. And al the people cryed, and sayd: Great is truth and it preuailleth. 42. Then the King sayd to him: Aske, if thou wilt any more, then the things that are writen, and I wil giue it thee, according as thou art found wiser then thy neighbours, and thou shalt sitte next to me, and shalt be called my cosin. 43. Then sayd he to the King: Be mindful of thy vow, which thou hast vowed, to build Ierusalem in the day that thou didst receiue the Kingdom: 44. and to send backe al the vessels that were taken out of Ierusalem, which Cyrus separated, when he sacked Babylon, and would haue sent them backe thither. 45. And thou hast vowed to build the temple, which the Idumeians burnt, when Iurie was destroyed of the Chaldees. 46. And now this is that which I aske Lord, & which I desire, this is the maiestie which I desire of thee, that thou performe the vowe which thou hast vowed to the King of heaue by thy mouth. 47. Then Darius the King rising vp, kissed him: and wrotte letters to al the officers, and ouerseers, and them that weare purple, that they should conduct him, and them that were with him, al going vp to build Ierusalem. 48. And to al the ouerseers

that were in Syria, and Phœnice, and Libanus he wrote letters, that they should draw Cedar trees from Libanus into Ierusalem, to build the citie with them. 49. And he wrote to al the Iewes which went vp from the Kingdome into Iurie for libertie, euerie mightie man, & magistrate, & ouerseer not to come vpon them to their gates, 50. and al the countrie which they had obtayned to be free vnto the, & that the Idumeians leaue the castels which they possesse of the Iewes, 51. and to the building of the temple to giue euerie yeare twentie talentes vntil it were throughly built: 52. & vpon the altars to burne holocausts dayly, as they haue commandment: to offer other ten talentes euerie yeare, 53. & to al that goe forth from Babylon to build the citie, that there should be libertie as wel to them as to their children, and to al the Priests that goe before, 54. And he wrote a quantitie also, and commanded the sacred stole to be giuen, wherein they should serue; 55. and to the Leuites he wrote to giue precepts, vntil the day wherein the house shal be finished, and Ierusalem builded. And to al that keepe the citie, he wrote portions and wages to be giuen to them. 56. And he sent away al the vessels whatsoeuer Cyrus had separated from Babylon, and al things whatsoeuer Cyrus sayd, he also commanded to be done, & to be sent to Ierusalem. 58. And when that yong man was gone forth, lyfting vp his face toward Ierusalem, he blessed the King of heauen, 59. and sayd: Of thee is victorie, and of thee is wisdom, and glorie. And I am thy seruant. 60. Blessed art thou which hast giuen me wisdom, and I wil confesse to thee Lord God of our fathers. 61. And he took the letters, and went into Babylon. And he came, and told al his brethren that were in Babylon: 62. and they blessed the God of their fathers, because he gaue them remission and refreshing, 63. that they should goe vp and build Ierusalem, and the temple wherein his name was renoumed, and they reioyced with musike & ioy seuen dayes.

dren of Israel were euerie man in his owne affayres, they came together with one minde into the court, that was before the east gate. 48. And Iesus the sonne of Iosedec, and his brethern the Priests: Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and his bretheren standing vp, prepared an altar, 49. that they might offer vpon it holocaustes, according to the things that are written in the book of Moyses the mā of God. 50. And there asēbled there of o:her nations of the land, and al the nations of the land erected the altar in his place, and they offered hosts, and morning holocaustes to our Lord. 51. And they celebrated the feast of Tabernacles, and the solemne day, as it is commanded in the lawe: and sacrifices dayly, as it behoued: 52. & after these they appointed oblations, and the hosts of the sabbaths, and of the newmoones, and of al the solemne sanctified dayes. 53. And as manie as vowed to our Lord from the new moone of the seuenth moneth, began to offer the hosts to God, and the temple of our Lord was not yet built. 54. And they gaue monie to the masons and workōen, and drinke and victuals with ioy. 55. And they gaue cartes to the Sidonians, & Tyrianes, that with them they should carie cedar beames from Lybanus, & should make boates in the hauen Ioppe, according to the decree that was written for them by Cyrus King of the Persians. 56. And in the second year coming into the temple of God in Ierusalem, in the second moneth began Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and Iosue the sonne of Iosedec, and their bretheren, and the Priests and Leuites, and al that were come from the captiuitie into Ierusalem. 57. and they founded the temple of God in the new moone of the second moneth of the second year, after that they came into Iurie & Ierusalem. 58. And they appoynted the Leuites from twentie yeares, ouer the workes of our Lord: and Iesus stood and his sonne, and the bretheren, al Leuites ioyning together, & executours of the lawe, doing the workes in the house of our Lord. 59. And al the Priests stood, hauing stoles with trumpets: 60. and Leuites the children of Asaph, hauing cymbals together praying our Lord, and blessing him according to Dauid King of Israel. 61. And they song a song to our Lord, because his sweetnes and honour is for euer vpon Israel. 62. And al the people sounded with trumpet, and cried out with a loud voice, praying our Lord in the raising vp of the house of our Lord. 63. And there came of the Priests, & Leuites, and presidents by their villages the more ancients, which had sene the old house: 64. and to the building of this with crie and great lamentation, and manie with trumpets and great ioy: 65. in so much that the people heard not the trumpettes for the lamentation of the people. For the multitude was sounding with trumpettes magnifically, so that it was heard far off. 66. And the enemies of the tribe of Iuda, and Benjamin heard it, & they came to knowe what the voyce of the trumpettes was: 67. And they knew that they which were of the captiuitie doe build a tēple to our Lord the God of Israel. 68. And coming to Zorobabel & Iesus, the ouerieers of the villages, they sayd to them: We wil build together with you. 69. For we haue in like manner heard your Lord, & we walke like from the dayes of Asbaza-reth King of the Assyrians, who transported vs hither. 70. And Zorobabel, & Iesus, & the Princes of the villages of Israel, sayd to them: 71. It is not for vs and you to build the house of our God. For we alone wil build to our Lord of Israel according as Cyrus the King of the Persians hath commanded. 72. And the nations of the land lying vpon them that are in Iurie, and lifting vp the worke of the building, and bringing ambushments, and peoples, prohibited them to build: 73. & practising assaults hindred them, that the building might not be finished al the time of the life of King Cyrus, and they differred the building for two yeares vntil the reigne of Darius,

The Iewes by assistance of King Darius build vp the Temple in Ierusalem.

ANd in the secōd yeare of the reigne of Darius prophesied Aggeus, & Zacharias the sonne of Addo the Prophet to Iurie & Ierusalem in the name of God of Israel vpon thē. 2. Thē Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel standing vp, and Iesus the sonne of Iosedec, began to build the house of our Lord, which is in Ierusalem. 3. When the Prophets of our Lord were present with them, and did helpe them. At the same time came Sisennes to them, the deputie of Syria, and of Phenice, and Satrabuzanes, and his felowes: 4. and they sayd to them: By whose commandment build ye this house, and this rooffe, and persite al other things? And who are the workmen that build these things? 5. And the ancients of the Iewes, which were left of the captiuitie by our Lord, had fauour when the visitation was made vpon them. 6. And they were not hindered from building, til it was signified to Darius of al these things, and answer was receiued. 7. A copie of the letter, which they sent to Darius. SISENNES deputie of Syria & Phenice, and Satrabuzanes, and his felowes in Syria and Phenice Presidents, to King Darius greeting. 8. Be al things knowen to our Lord the King, that when we came into the countrie of Iutie, and had entered into Ierusalem, we found them building the great house of God. 9. And the temple of polished stones, and of great & precious matter in the walles. 10. And the workes to be a doing earnestly, and to succede and prosper in their hands, and in al glorie to be persired most diligently. 11. Then we asked the ancients saying, by whose permission build ye this house, and found these workes? 12. And therefore we asked them, that we might doe thee to know the men & the ouerseers, and we required of them a role of the names of the ouerseers. 13. But they answered vs saying: We are the seruants of the Lord, which made heauen and earth. 14. And this house was built these manie yeares past by a King of Israel, that was great and most valiant, & was finitied. 15. And becaue our fathers were prouoking to wrath, and sinned agaynst God of Israel, he deliuered them into the hands of Nabuchodonosor the King of Babylon, King of the Chaldees, 16. And throwing downe this house they burnt it, and they led the people captiue into Babylon. 17. In the first yeare when Cyrus reigned the King of Babylon, Cyrus the King wrote to build this house. 18. And these sacred vessels of gold and siluer which Nabuchodonosor had taken out of the house which is in Ierusalem, and had consecrated them in his owne temple, Cyrus brought them forth agayne out of the temple which was in Babylon, and they were deliuered to Zorobabel, & to salmanasar, the deputie. 19. And it was commanded the that they should offer these vessels, & lay them vp in the temple, which was in Ierusalem, & build the temple of God itself in his place. 20. Then did Salmanasar lay the foundations of the house of our Lord, which is in Ierusalem: & from that time vntil now it is a building, & is not accomplished. 21. Now therefore if thou thinke it good o King let it be sought in the Kings libraries of Cyrus the King, which are in Babylon. 22. and if it shal be found, that the building of the house of the Lord, which is in Ierusalem, begane by the counsel of Cyrus the King, and it be thought good of our Lord the King, let him writte to vs of these things. 23. Then Darius the King comanded search to be made in the libraries: and there was found in Ecbatana a towne that is in the countrie of Media, one place wherin were writē these wordes. 24. IN THE FIRST YEARE of the reigne of Cyrus, King Cyrus commanded to build the house of the Lord which is in Ierusalem, where they did burne incense with dayly fire, 25. the height wherof shal be of ten cubits, & the bredth three score cubits, foure square with three stones polished, and with a loft galerie of wood of the same countrie, & one new galerie and the expenses to be giuen out of the house of Cyrus the King. 26. And the sacred vessels of the house of the Lord, as wel of gold as of siluer, which Nabuchodono orooke from the house of our Lord, which is in Ierusalem where they were layed, that they be put there: 27. And he commanded Siennes the deputie of Syria & Phœnice, and Sarrabuzanes, and his fellows, & them that were ordayned presidents in Syria & Phœnice, that they should refraine themselues from that place. 28. And I alio haue giuen comandment to build it wholly: & haue provided, that they helpe them, which are of the captiuitie of the Iewes, til the temple of the house of the Lord be accōplished. 29. And frō the vexatiō of the tributes of Cœlesyria & Phœnice, a quātitie to be giuen diligently to these men for the sacrifice of the Lord, to Zorobabel the gouernour, for oxen, and rammes, and lambes. 30. And in like manner corne also, and salt, and wine, and oyle continually yeare by yeare, according as the Priests which are in Ierusalem, haue prescribed to be spent dayly: 31. that libaments may be offered to the most high God for the King & his children, & that they may pray for their life. 32. And that it be denounced, that whoeuer shal transgressie anie thing of these which are written, or shal de pise it, a beame be taken of theyr owne, & they be hangd, & their goods be confiscate to the King. 33. Therefore the Lord alio, whose name is inuocated there, destroy euery King & nation, that shal extend their hand to hinder or to handle il the house of the Lord which is in Ierusalem. 34. I Darius the King haue decreed that it be most diligently done according to these things.

The house of Gods finished 7. and dedicated, 10. the feast of Pasch is also celebrated seuen dayes with Azymes.

THEN Sisennes the deputie of Cœlesyria, and Phnice, and Satrabuzames, and their felowes, obeying those things which were decreed of Darius the King, 2. applied the sacred workes most diligēly, working together with the ancients of the Iewes, the Princes of Syria. 3. And the sacred workes prospered, Aggeus & Zacharias the Prophets prophecyng 4. And they accomplished al things by the precept of our Lord the God of Israel, and by the counsel of Cyrus, & Darius, and Artaxerxes the King of the Persians. 5. And our house was a finishing vntil the three and twentieth day of the moneth of Adar, the sixth yeare of Darius the King. 6. And the children of Israel, and the Priests and Leuites, and therest that were of the captiuitie, which were added, did according to those things that are written in the book of Moyfes. 7. And they offered for the dedication of the temple of our Lord, oxen an hundred, rammes two hundred, lambes foure hundred. 8. And kiddes for the sinnes of al Israel, twelue, according to the nnumber of the tribes of Israel. 9. And the Priests & Leuites stood clothed with stoles by tribes, ouer al the wokes of our Lord the God of Israel, according to the book of Moyfes, & the porters at euerie gate. 10. And the children of Israel, with them that were of the captiuitie, celebrated the phaie thefourteenth moone of the first moneth, when the Priests & Leuites were sanctified. 11. Al the children of the captiuitie were not sanctified together, because al the Leuites were sanctified together. 12. And al the children of the captiuitie immolated the phaie, both for their brethren the Priests, & for the elues. 13. And the children of Israel did eate, they that were of the captiuitie, al that remained a part from al the abominations of the nations of the land seeking our Lord. 14. And they celebrated the festiual day of Azymes seuen dayes feasting in the sight of our Lord. 15. Because he turned the counsel of the King of the Assirians toward them, to strengthen their hands to the workes of our Lord the God of Israel.

1. Esd. 7. v. 1.

AND after him when Artaxerxes King of the Persians reigned, came Esdras the sonne of Azarias, the sonne of Helcias the sonne of Salome, 2. the sonne of Sadoc, the sonne of Achitob, the sonne of Ameri, the sonne of Azahel, the sonne of Bocci, the sonne of Abisue, the sonne of Phinees the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron the first Priest. 3. This Esdras came vp from Babylon being scribe & wise in the law of Moyse, which was giuen of our Lord the God of Israel to teach and to doe. 4. And the King gaue him glorie, because he had found grace in al dignitie and desire in his sight. 5. And there went vp with him of the children of Israel, and the Priests, and the Leuites, and the sacred singers of the temple, and the porters, and the seruants of the temple into Ierusalem. 6. In the seuenth year when Artaxerxes reigned in the fifth moneth, this is the seuenth yeare of his reigne, going forth of Babylon in the new moone of the fifth moneth, 7. they came to Ierusalem according to his commandment, according to the prosperitie of their iourney, which their Lord gaue them. 8. For in these Esdras had great knowledge, that he would not pretermite anie of those things, which were according to the law, and the precepts of our Lord, and in teaching al Israel al iustice and iudgement. 9. And they that wrote the writings of Artaxerxes the King, comning deliuered the writing which was granted of Artaxerxes the King to Esdras the Priest, & the reader of the law of our Lord, the copie wherof here foloweth. 10. KING ARTAXERXES to Esdras the Priest, and reader of the law of the Lord, greeting. 11. I of curtesie esteeming it among benefits, haue commanded them that of their owne accord are desirous of the nation of the Jewes, and of the Priests & Leuites, which are in my Kingdom, to goe with thee into Ierusalem. 12. If anitherfore desire to goe with thee, let them come together, and set forward as it hath pleased me, & my seuen freinds my counsellers: 13. that they may visite those things which are done touching Iurie & Ierusalem, obseruing as thou hast in the law of the Lord. 14. And let them carie the gifts to the Lord the God of Israel, which I haue vowed and my freinds to Ierusalem, and al the gold and siluer, that shal be found in the countrie of Babylon to the Lord in Ierusalem, with that 15. which is giuen for the nation it self vnto the temple of their Lord which is in Ierusalem: that this gold and siluer be gathered for oxen, and rammes, and lambes, & kids, & for the things that are agreable to these, 16. that they may offer hosts to the Lord vpon the altar of their Lord, which is in Ierusalem. 17. And all things what soeuer thou with thy brethre wilt doe with gold, & siluer, doe it at thy pleasure, according to the precept of the Lord thy God. 18. And the sacred vessels, which are giuen thee to the workes of the house of the Lord thy God, which is in Ierusalē. 19. And other things whatsoeuer shal helpe thee to the workes of the temple of thy God, thou shalt giue it out of the Kings treasure. 20. When thou with thy brethren wilt doe ought with gold and siluer, doe according to the wil of the Lord. 21. And I King Artaxerxes haue giuen commandment to the keepers of the treasure of Syria and Phenice, that what things soeuer Esdras the Priest and reader of the law of the Lord shal write for, they giue him vnto an hundred talents of siluer, likewise also of gold. 22. And vnto an hundred measures of corne, & an hundred vessels of wine, and other things whatsoeuer abound without taxing. 23. Let all things be done to the most high God according to the law of God, lest perhaps there arise wrath in the reigne of the King, & of his sonne, & his sōnes. 24. And to you it is sayd, that vpon al the Priests, & Leuites, & sacred singers, & seruants of the temple, and scribes this temple 25. no tribute, nor any other taxe be sette, & that no man haue auctoritie to obiect any thing to the. 26. But thou Esdras according to the wisdom of God appoynt iudges, and arbiters in al Syria and Phenice: and teach al them that know no the law of thy God: 27. that whosoever shal transgresse the law, they be diligently punished either with death, or with torment, or els with a forfeite of money, or with banishment. 28. And Esdras the scribe sayd: Blessed be the God of our fathers, which hath giuen this wil into the Kings hart, to glorifie his house, which is in Ierusalem. 29. And hath honoured me in the sight of the King, and of his counsellers, and freinds, and them that weare purple. 30. And I was made constant in minde according to the ayde of our Lord my God, and gathered together of Israel men, that should goe vp together with me. 31. And these are the Princes according to their kindreds, and seueral principalities of them that came vp from Babylon the Kingdom of Artaxerxes. 32. Of the children of Phares, Gersomus: and of the children of Siemarith, Amenus: of the children of Dauid, Acchus the sonne of Sceecilia: 33. Of the children of Phares, Zacharias, and with him returned an hundred fiftie men. 34. Of the children of Ieader Moabilion, Zarxi, and with him two hundred fiftie men. 35. Of the children of Zachues, Iechonias of Zechoel, and with him two hundred fiftie men: 36. of the children of Sala, Maasias of Gotholia, & with him seuentie men, 37. of the children of Saphatia, Zarias of Michel, and with him eightie men: 38. of the children of Iob, Abdias of Iehel, and with him two hundred twelue men: 39. of the children of Bania, Salimoth, the sonne of Iosaphia, & with him an hundred fixtie men: 40. of the children of Beer, Zacharias Bebei, and with him two hundred eight men: 41. of the children of Ezead, Ioannes of Eccetan, and with him an hundred ten men: 42. of the children of Adonicam, which were last, and these are their names: Eliphalam the sonne of Gebel, & Semcias, and with him seuentie men. 43. And I gathered them together to the riuer that is called Thia, and we camped there three dayes, and vewed them againe. 44. And of the children of the Priests and Leuites I found not there. 45. And I sent to Eleazarus, and Eccelon, and Masman, and Maloban, and Enaathan, and Samea, and Ioribum, Nathan, Enuagam, Zacharias, and Mosolam the leaders them selues, and that were skilful. 46. And I sayd to them that they should come to Loddeus, who was at the place of the tresurie. 47. And I commanded them to say to Loddeus, and his brethren, and to them that were in the tresurie, that they should send vs them that might doe the function of Priesthood in the house of the Lord our God. 48. And they brought vnto vs according to the mightie hand of the Lord our God cunning men: of the children of Moholi, the sonne of Leui, the sonne of Israel, Sebebia, & his sonnes & brethre, which were eightene: 49. Asbia, and Amin of the sonnes of the children of Chanaanus, and their children twentie men. 50. And of them that serued the temple, whom Dauid gaue, and the Princes themselues to the ministerie of the Leuites of the that serued the temple, two hundred twentie. Al their names were signified in writings. 51. And I vowed there a fast to the yong men in the sight of God, that I might aske of him a good journey for vs, and them that were with vs, and for the children, & the cattel, because of ambushments. 52. For I was ashamed to aske of the King tootemen & horsemen in my companie, to guard vs against our aduerlaries. 53. For we sayd to the King that the power of our Lord wil be with them that seeke him with al affection. 54. And agayne we besought the Lord our God according to these things: whom also we had propicious, & we obteyned of our God. 55. And I separated of the rulers of the people, & of the Priests of the temple, twelue men, & Sedebia, & Asanna, & with the of their brethren ten men. 56. And I weyed to them the gold and siluer, and the vessels of the house of our God perteyning to the Priests, which the King had giuen, and his counsellers, and the Princes, and al Israel. 57. And when I had weyed it, I deliuered of siluer an hundred fittie talentes, and siluer vessels of an hundred talentes, and of gold an hundred talentes. 58. And of vessels of gold seuen score and twelue brasen vessels good of tynning brasse, resembling the forme of gold. 59. And I sayd to them: You are also sanctified to our Lord, and the vessels be holie, and the gold and siluer is vowed to our Lord the God of our fathers. 60. Watch and keepe, til you deliuer them to some of the rulers of the people, and to the Priests, and Leuites, and to the Princes of the cities of Israel in Ierusalem, in the tresurie of the house of our God. 61. And thote Priests and Leuites that receiued the gold & siluer, & vessels, brought it to Ierusalem into the temple of our Lord. 62. And we went forward from the riuer Thia, the twelfth day of the first month, til we entred into Ierusalē. 63. And when the third day was come, in the fourth day the gold being weyed, and the siluer, was deliuered in the house of the Lord our God, to Marimoth Priest the sonne of Iori. 64. And with him was Eleazar the sonne of Phinees: & with thē were Iosadusthe sōne of Iesus, & Medias, & Bāni the sōne of a Leuite, by nūber & weight al things. 65. And the weight of thē was writē the same houre. 66. And they that came out of the captiuitie offered sacrifice to our Lord the God of Israel, oxen twelue, for al Israel, rammes eightie six. 67. lambes seuentie two, bucke goates for sinne twelue, & for health twelue kyne, al for the sacrifice of our Lord. 68. And they read againe the precepts of the King to the Kings officers, & to the deputies of Cœlesyria, & Phœnice: & they honored the natiō, & the tēple of our Lord. 69. And these things being finished, the rulers came to me, saying: The stocke of Israel, & the Princes, & the P̄iests, & the Leuites, 70. & the strāge people, & nations of the iād haue not separated their vncleānes from the Chananeites, & Hetheites, & Pherezeites, & Iebuēites, & Moobites, & Aegyptians, & Idumeians. 71. For they are ioyned to their daughters both them eiues, & their sonnes: and the holie seed is mingled with the strāge nations of the earth, & the rulers & magistrates were partakers of that iniquitiē from the beginning of the reigne it self. 72. And forthwith as I heard these things, I rent my garmēt̄s & the sacred tunike: & tearing the haire of my head, & my beard, I sate sorowful & heauie. 73. And there assembled to me mourning vpon this iniquitiē, as manie as were then moued by the word of our Lord the God of Israel, & I sate sad vntil the euening sacrifice. 74. And I rising vp frō fasting, hauing my garmēt̄s rent & the sacred tunike, kneeling, & stretching torth my hands to our Lord, 75. I sayd: Lord I am confounded and ashamed before thy face, 76. for our sinnes are multiplied ouer our heads, & our iniquities are exalted euen to heauē. 77. Because frō the times of our fathers we are in great sinne vnto this day. 78. And for the sinnes of vs, & of our fathers we haue been deliuered with our brethren, and with our Priests to the Kings of the earth, into sword & captiuitie & spoile with cōfusiō vnto this presēt day. 79. And now what a great thing is this that mercie hath happened to vs frō thee, o Lord God, and leaue thou vnto vs a roote, and a name in the place of thy sāctificatiō, 80. to discouer our light in the house of the Lord our God, to giue vs meate in al the time of our bōdage. 81. And when we serued, we were not forsakē of the Lord our God: but he sette vs in fauour, appointing the Kings of the Persiās to giue vs meate, 82. & to glorifie the tēple of the Lord our God, & to build the desolatiōs of Siō, to giue vs stabilitie in Iurie, & Ierusalē. 83. And now what say we Lord, hauing these things: For we haue transgressed thy precepts, which thou gauest into the hāds of thy seruāts the prophets, 84. saying: That the lād into which ye entred to possesse the inheritāce therof is a lād polluted with the coinquinatiōs of the strāgers of the lād, & their vncleannes hath filled it wholly with their filthines. 85. And now your daughters you shal not match with their sonnes & their daughters, you shal not take for your sonnes. 86. And you shal not seeke to haue peace with them for euer, that growing strong you may eate the best things of the land, and may distribute the inheritance to your children for euer. 87. And the things that happen to vs, al are done for our naughtie workes, and our great sinnes. 88. And thou gauest vs such a roote, and we are returned againe to transgresse thy ordinances, that we would be mingled with the vncleannes of the nations of this land. 89. Wilt not thou be wrath with vs to destroy vs, til there be no roote left nor our name? 90. Lord God of Isrrael thou art true. For there is a roote left vntil this present day. 91. Behold, now we are in thy sight in our iniquities. For it is not to stand any longer before thee in these matters. 92. And when Esdras with adoration confessed weeping, lying flat on the ground before the temple, there were gathered before him out of Ierusalē a verie great multitude, men and women, and yong mē and yong women. For there was great weeping in the multitude it self. 93. And when he had cried, Iechonias of Ieheli of the children of Isrrael sayd to Esdras: We haue sinned against our Lord, for that we haue taken vnto vs in mariage strāge women of the nations of the land. 94. And now thou art ouer al Isrrael, in these therefore let there be an othe from our Lord to expel al our wiues that are of strangers with their children. 95. As it was decreed to thoe of the ancesters according to the law of our Lord, rising vp declare it. 96. For to thee the busines perreineth, & we are with thee: doe manfully. 97. And Esdras rysing vp adiured the Princes of the Priests and Leuites, and al Isrrael to doe according to these things and they sware.

Esdras fasting for the sinnes of the people, commandeth that they separate al strāge women from them. 18. The Priests and Leuites, vvhich had offnded herein, are recited. 38. He readeth the law before the people: 48. certaine doe expound to the multitudes in several places. 52. And so they are dismissed vwith ioy.

AND Esdras rysing vp from before the court of the temple, went into the chamber of Ionathas the sonne of Nasabi. 2. And lodging there he tasted no bread, nor dranke water for the iniquitie of the multitude. 3. And there was proclamation made in al Iurie, & in Ierusalē to al that were of the captiuitie gathered in Ierusalem, 4. that who fouer shal not appeare within two or three dayes, according to the iudgemēt of the ancients sitting vpō it, their goods should be takē away, himselfe should be iudged an aliē from the multitude of the captiuitie. 5. And al were gathered that were of the tribe of Iuda, & of Bēiamin within three dayes in Ierusalem: this is the ninth moneth, the twentieth day of the month. 6. And al the multitude sate in the court of the tēple tēbbling, for the present winter. 7. And Esdras rysing vp sayd to them: You haue done vnlawfully taking to you in mariage strang wiues, that you might adde to the finnes of Israel. 8. And now giue confession & magnificence to our Lord the God of our fathers: 9. and accomplish his wil, and depart from the nations of the land, and from your wiues the strangers. 10. And al the multitude cried, and they sayd with a lowde voice: As thou hast sayd, we wil doe. 11. But because the multitude is great, and winter time, & we can not stand in the ayre without succour: and this is a worke for vs not of one day, nor of two, for we haue sinned much in these things: 12. Let the rulers of the multitude stand, and that dwel with vs, and as manie as haue with them forreine wiues. 13. and at a time appointed let the Priests out of euerie place, & the iudges assist, vntil they appeaze the wrath of our Lord concerning this busines. 14. And Ionathas the sonne of Ezeli, and Ozias of Thecam tooke vpon them according to these words, and Bosoramus, and Lewis, and Sabbathæus, wrought together with them. 15. And al that were of the captiuitie stood according to al these things. 16. And Esdras the priest chose vnto him men the great Princes of their fathers according to their names: & they sate together in the new moone of the tenth month to examine this busines. 17. And they determined of themē that had outlandish wiues, vntil the newmoone of the first month. And there were found of the Priests entermingled that had outlandish wiues. 19. Of the sonnes of Iesus the sonne of Iosedec, and his brethren: Maseas, and Eleazarus, and Ioribus, and Ioadeus, 20. and they put to their hands to expel their wiues: and to offer a ramme to obtayne pardon for their ignorance. 21. And the sonnes of Semmeri: Maseas and Esse, Ieelech, and Azarias. 22. And of the children of Fosere: Limasias, Hismaenis, and Nathanee, Iulsio, Reddus, and Thalsas, 23. And of the Leuites: Iorabdus, and Semeis, and Colnis, and Calitas, and Facteas, and Coluas, and Eliomas, 24. and of the sacred singing men, Eliasib, Zaccarus. 25. And of the porters. Salumus, and Tolbanes. 26. And of Israel: of the sonnes of Foro, Ozi, and Renias, and Geddias, & Melchias, and Michelus, Eleazarus, and Iammebias, and Bannas. 27. And of the sonnes of Iolaman: Chamas, and Zacharias, and Iezuelus, and Ioddus, & Erimoth, & Helias. 28. And of the sonnes of Zathoim: Eliadas, and Liasumus, Zochias, and Larimoth, & Zabdis, & Thebedias. 29. And of the sonnes of Zebes: Ioannes, and Amanias, and Zabdias, and Emeus. 30. And of the sonnes of Banni: Olamus, & Maluchus, and Ieddeus, and Iasub, and Azabus, & Ierimoth. 31. And of the sonnes of Addin: Natus, and Moofias, & Caleus, and Raanas, Maaseas, Mathathias, and Beseel, and Bonus, and Manasses. 32. And of the sonnes of Nuac: Noneas, and Aseas, and Melchias, and Sameas, and Simon, Benjamin, and Malchus, and Marras. 33. And of the sonnes of Afom: Carianeus, Mathathias, & Bannus, & Eliphalach, and Manasses, & Semei. 34. And of the sonnes of Banni Ieremias, and Moadias, and Abramus, & Iohel, and Baneas, & Pelias, and Ionas, and Marimoth, & Eliasib, and Matheneus, & Eliasis, and Orizas, & Dielus, and Semedius, & Zambris, and Iosephus. 35. And of the sonnes of Nobei: Idelus, and Mathathias, and Sabadus, & Zecheda, zedmi, & Iessei, Banaeus. 36. Al theſe married outlandiſh wiues, and did put them away with their children. 37. And the Priests & the Leuites, & they that were of Iſrael, dwelt in Ieruſalem; & in the whole countrie in the newmoone of the ſeuenth month. And the children of Iſrael were in their habitations. 38. And al the multitude was gathered together into the court, which is on the eaſt of the ſacred gate: 39. and they ſayd to Eſdras the High-Prieſt, and reader, that he ſhould bring the law of Moyſes, which was deliuered of our Lord the God of Iſrael. 40. And Eſdras the High-Prieſt brought the law to al the multitude of them from man vnto woman, and to al the Priests to heare the law in the newmoone of the ſeuenth month. 41. And he read in the court, which is before the ſacred gate of the tēple, from breake of day vntil euening before men and women. And they al gaue their minde to the law. 42. And Eſdras the Prieſt and reader of the law ſtood vpon a tribunal of wood, which was made. 43. And by him ſtood Mathathias, and Samus, and Ananias, Azarias, Vrias, Ezechias, and Baſſamus on the right hand, 44 & on the left Faldeus, Miſael, Malachias, Ambuſthas, Sabus, Nabadias, and Zacharias. 45. And Eſdras tooke the Book before al the multitude: for he was chiefe in glorie in the ſight of al. 46. And when he had ended the law, they ſtood al vpright: & Eſdras bleſſed our Lord the moſt high God, the God of Sabaoth omnipotent. 47. And al the people answered: Amen. And liſting vp their hands, falling on the ground they adored our Lord. 48. Ieſus & Banaeus, & Sarebias, & Iaddimus & Accubus, & Sabbathæus, & Calithes, & Azarias, & Ioradus, & Ananias, and Philius Leuites, 49. who taught the law of our Lord, and read the ſame in the multitude, and euerie one preferred them that vnderſtood the leſſon. 50. And Atharathes ſayd to Eſdras the High-Prieſt and the reader, and to the Leuites, that taught the multitude, 51. ſaying: This day is ſanctified to our Lord. And they al wept, when they had heard the law. 52. And Eſdras ſayd, departing therefore eate ye al the fatteſt things, and drinke al moſt ſweet things, and ſend guiſts to them that haue not. 53. For this is the holy day of our Lord, & be not ſad. For our Lord wil glorifie you. 54. And the Leuites denounced openly to al, ſaying: This day is holie, be not ſad. 55. And they went al to eate, and drinke, and make merie, and to giue guiſts to them that had not, that they might make merie, for they were exceedingly exalted with the words that they were taught. 56. And they were al gathered in Ieruſalem to celebrate the ioy, according to the teſtament of our Lord the God of Iſrael.

Esdras is sent to exhortate with the vngrateful Iewes for neglecting Gods manie great benefitts.

THE second Book of Esdras the Prophet, the sonne of Sarei, the sonne of Azarei, the sonne of Helcias, the sonne of Saldanias, the sonne of Sadoch, the sonne of Achitob, 2. the sonne of Achias, the sonne of Phinees, the sonne of Heli, the sonne of Amerias, the sonne of Asiel, the sonne of Marimoth, the sonne of Arna, the sonne of Ozias, the sonne of Borith, the sonne of Abisei, the sonne of Phinees, the sonne of Eleazar, 3. the sonne of Aaron of the tribe of Leui; who was captiue in the countrie of the Medes, in the reigne of Artaxerxes King of the Persians, 4. And the word of our Lord came to me, saying: 5. Goe, and tel my people their wicked deeds, and their children the iniquities, that they haue done against me, that they may tel their childrens children: 6. because the finnes of their parents are increased in them, for they being forgetful of me haue sacrificed to strange Gods. 7. Did not I bring them out of the land of Ægypt from the house of bondage? But they haue prouoked me, and haue despised my counsels. 8. But doe thou shake off the haire of thy head, & throw al euils vpon them: because they haue not obeyed my law. And it is a people without discipline. 9. How long shal I beare with them, on whom I haue bestowed so great benefitts? 10. I haue ouerthrowen manie Kings from them. I haue struck Pharao with his seruants, and al his hoste. 11. Al nations did I destroy before their face, & in the East I dissipated the peoples of two prouinces Tyre and Sidon, and I slew al their aduersaries. 12. But speake thou to them, saying: Thus sayth our Lord: 13. I made you passe through the sea, and gaue you fenced streets from the beginning. I gaue you Moyles for your gouernour, and Aaron for the Priest: 14. I gaue you light by the pillar of fire, and did manie meruelous things among you: but you haue forgotten me, sayth our Lord. 15. Thus sayth our Lord omnipotent: The quayle was a signe to you, I gaue you a campe for defense, & there you murmured: 16. And you triumphed not in my name for the destruction of your enemies, but yet vntil now you haue murmured. 17. Where are the benefits that I haue giuen you? Did you not crie out to me when you were hungrie in the desert, 18. saying: Why hast thou brought vs into this desert to kil vs, it had been better for vs to serue the Aegyptians, then to dye in this desert. 19. I was sorie for your mournings, & gaue you manna to eate. You did eate bread of Angels. 20. When you thirsted did not I cleaue the rocke, & waters flowed in aboundance? for the heates I couered you with the leaues of trees. 21. I deliuered vnto you fatte lands: The Chananeites, and Pherezeites, & Philistheans I threw our frō your face: what shal I yet doe to you, sayth our Lord? 22. Thus sayth our Lord omnipotēt: In the desert whē you were thirstie in the riuer of the Amorrhaites, and blaspheming my name, 23. I gaue you not fire for blasphemies, but casting wood into the water, I made the riuer sweete. 24. What shal I doe to thee Iacob? Thou wouldest not obey o Iuda. I wil trāsferre my self to other natiōs, & wil giue thē my name, that they may keepe my ordinances. 25. Because you haue forsakē me, I also forsake you whē you aske mercie of me, I wil not haue mercie. 26. When you shal inuocate me, I wil not heare you. For you haue defiled your hāds with blood, & your feete are quicke to cōmit murders. 27. Not as though you haue forsaken me, but yourselues, sayth our Lord. 28. Thus saith our Lord omnipotent, haue not I desired you, as a father his sonnes, & a mother her daughters, & as a nurce her litle ones, 29. that you would be my people, and I your God, and to me for children, and I to you for a father? 30. So haue I gathered you, as the henne her chickens vnder her wings. But now what shal I doe to you? I wil throw you from my face. 31. When you shal bring me oblation, I wil turne away my face from you. For I haue refused your festiual dayes, & new moones & circumcisions. 32. I sent my seruants the Prophets to you, whom being taken you shew, & māgled their bodies, whose blood I wil require, sayth our Lord. 33. Thus sayth our Lord omnipotent, your house is made desolate, I wil throw you away, as the winde doth stubble, 34. & your children shal not haue issue: because they haue neglected my cōmandment, & haue done that which is euil before me. 35. I wil deliuer your houses to a people cōming, who not hearing me doe belieue: to whom I haue not shewed signes, they wil doe the things that I haue cōmāded. 36. The Prophets they I haue not seen, & they wil be mindful of their iniquities. 37. I cal to witnes the grace of the people comming, whose litle ones reioyce with ioy, not seeing me with their carnal eyes, but in spirit belieuing the things that I haue sayd. 38. And now brother behold what glorie: and see people comming from the east, 39. to whom I wil giue the conduction of Abraham, Isaac, and Iacob, and of Osee, & Amos, and of Ioel, & Abdias, & Ionas, & Michæas, 40. & Naum & Habacuc, of Sophonias, Aggaus, Zacharias, & Malachias. who alio is called the Angel of our Lord.

The Synagogue expostulates with her children for their ingratitude; 10. shewing that they shal be forsaken, and the gentils called.

HVS saith our Lord : I brought this people out of bondage , to whom I gaue commandment by my seruants the Prophets , whom they would not heare , but made my counsel frustrate. 2. Their mother that bare them , sayth to them: Goe children, because I am a widow & forsaken. 3. I brought you vp with ioy, and haue lost you with mourning and sorrow , because you haue sinned before our Lord your God , & haue done that which is cuil before him. 4. But now what shal I doe to you? I am a widow and desolate , goe my children , and aske mercie of our Lord. 5. And I cal thee O father a witnes upon the mother of the children, that would not keepe my testament , 6. that thou giue them confusion , and their mother into spoile , that there be no generation of them. 7. Let their names be disperfed into the Gentils , let them be destroyed out of the land : because they haue despised my sacrament. 8. Woe be to thee Assur , which hidest the wicked with thee. Thou naughtie nation , remember what I did to Sodom and Gomorrha : 9. whose land lieth in cloddes of pitch , and heapes of ashes : so wil I make them , that haue not heard me , saith our Lord omnipotent. 10. Thus sayth our Lord to Esdras : Tel my people, that I wil giue them the Kingdom of Ierusalem which I ment to giue to Israel. 11. And I wil take to me the glorie of the , and wil giue them eternal tabernacles , which I had prepared for them. 12. The wood of life shal be to them for an odour of oyntment , & they shal not labour , nor be wearied. 13. Goe and you shal receiue. Aske for your selues a few dayes , that they may abide. Now the Kingdom is prepared for you , watch ye. 14. Cal thou heauen and earth to witnes : for I haue destroyed euil , and haue created good , because I liue saith our Lord. 15. Mother embrace thy children , bring them vp with ioy. As a doue confirme their feet : because I haue chosen thee , saith our Lord. 16. And wil raise againe the dead out of their places , and out of the monuments I wil bring them forth , because I haue knowen my name in Israel. 17. Feare not O mother of the children , because I haue chosen thee , saith our Lord. 18. I wil send thee aide , my seruants Isaie and Ieremie , at whose counsel I haue sanctified , and prepared for thee twelue trees loden with diuerse fruits. 19. & as manie fountaines flowing milke and honie : and seuen huge mountaines , hauing the rose and the lilie , in the which I wil fil thy children with ioy. 20. Iustifie thou the widow , iudge for the pupil , giue to the needie , defend the orphan , clothe the naked, 21. cure the broken and feeble, mocke not the lame, defend the maimed, and admitte the blind to the vision of my glorie. 22. The old mā & the yong keepe within thy wals: 23. where thou shalt find the dead, commit them to the graue signing it, and I wil giue thee the first seate in my resurrection. 24. Pause and rest my people, because thy rest shal come. 25. As a good nurce nourish thy children, confirme their feet. 26. The seruants that I haue giuen thee, none of them shal perish. For I wil require them of thy number. 27. Be not wearied. For when the day of affliction and distresse shal come, others shal weepe, & be sad, but thou shalt be merie and plenteous. 28. The gentils shal enuie, & shal be able to doe nothing against thee, sayth our Lord. 29. My hands shal couer thee, that thy children see not hel. 30. Be pleasant thou mother with thy children, because I wil deliuer thee sayth our Lord. 31. Remember thy children that sleepe, for I wil bring them out of the sides of the earth, & wil doe mercie with them: because I am merciful, sayth our Lord omnipotent. 32. Embrace thy children til I come, & shew them mercie: because my fountaines runne ouer, & my grace shal not faile. 33. I Esdras receiued commandment of our Lord in mount Oreb, that I should goe to Israel: to whom when I came, they refused me, & reiected the commandment of our Lord. 34. And therefore, I say vnto you gentils, which heare, and vnderstand, Looke for you pastor, he wil giue you the rest of eternitie: because he is at hand, that shal come in the end of the world. 35. Be ye readie for the rewards of the Kingdō, because perpetual light shal shine to you for time euerlasting. 36. Flye from the madow of this world: receiue ye the pleasantnes of your glorie. I openly cal to witnes my fauour. 37. Receiue the commended gifts and be pleasant, giuing thanks to him that called you to the heaue. lie Kingdoms. 38. Arise, & stand & see the number of them that are signed in the feast of our Lord. 39. They that haue transferred themselues from the shadow of the world, haue recieued glorious garments of our Lord. 40. Receiue ō Sion thy number, and shut vp thine made white, which haue accomplished the law of our Lord. 41. The number of thy children, which thou didst wish is ful. Desire the powre of our Lord that thy people may be sanctified, which was called from the beginning. 42. I Esdras saw in mount Sion a great multitude, which I could not number, and they did al prayse our Lord with songs. 43. And in the middes of them was a yong man high of stature, appearing aboue ouer them al, and he put crownes vpon euerie one of their heades, and he was more exalted. And I was astonished at the miracle. 44. Then asked I an Angel, and sayd: Who are these Lord? 45. Who answering sayd to me: These are they that haue laid off the morral garment, and taken an immortal, and haue confessed the name of God. Now they are crowned, and receiue palmes. 46. And I sayd to the Angel: That yong man what is he, which putteth the crownes vpon them, & giueth palmes into their hands? 47. And answering he sayd to me: The same is the Sonne of God, whom they did confesse in the world: and I began to magnifie them, that stood strongly for the name of our Lord. 48. Then sayd the Angel to me: Goe, tel my people, what manner of meruelous things and how great thou hast seen of the Lord God.

C H A P. I I I.

The works of God are wonderful from the beginning, 7. and men vngateful. 13. In Abraham God chose to himself a peculiar people: who neuertheles were proud, and obstinate. 23. He also chose Dauid, but stil the people were sinful: 28. the Babylonians also, by whom they are afflicted, are no lesse, but rather greater sinners.

IN the thirteth yeare of the ruine of the citie I was in Babylon, & was troubled lying in my chamber, & my cogitations came vp ouer my hart: 2. because I saw the desolation of Sion, & the aboundance of them that dwelt in Babylon. 3. And my spirit was tossed exceedingly, & I began to speake to the highest timorous words, 4. and sayd: O Lord dominatour thou spakest from the beginning, when thou didst plant the earth, and that alone, & didst rule ouer the people, 5. and gauest Adam a dead bodie, but that also was the worke of thy hands, and didst breath into him the spirit of life, and he was made to liue before thee: 6. and thou broughtst him into paradise, which thy right hand had planted, before the earth came. 7. And him thou didst command to loue thy way, and he transgressed it, and forthwith thou didst institute death in him, and in his posteritie, & there were borne nations, and tribes, & peoples, and kinreds, wherof there is no number. 8. And euerie nation walked in their owne wil, & they did meruelous things before thee, and despised thy precepts. 9. And againe in time thou broughtst in the flood vpon inhabitants of the world, and didst destroy them. 10. And there was made in euery one of them, as vnto Adam to dye, so to them the flood. 11. But thou didst leaue one of them, Noe with his house, and of him were al the iust. 12. And it came to passe, when they began to be multiplied, that dwelt vpon the earth, and multiplied children and peoples and manie nations: and they began againe to doe impietie more then the former. 13. And it came to passe when they did iniquitie before thee, thou didst choose thee a mau of them, whose name was Abraham. 14. And thou didst loue him and to him onlie thou didst shew thy wil. 25. And thou didst dispose vnto him an euerlasting testament, and toldst him that thou wouldst neuer forsake his seede. And thou gauest him Isaac, and to Isaac thou gauest Iacob and Esau. 16. And Iacob thou didst seuer to thy selfe, but Esau thou didst separate. And Iacob grewe to a great multitude. 17. And it came to passe when thou didst bring forth his seede out of Ægypt, thou broughtst it vpon mount Sinai. 18. And thou didst bowe the heauens, and fasten the earth, and didst shake the world, and madest the depths to tremble, and troubledst the world, 19. and thy glorie passed foure gates of fire, and of earthquake, and winde, and frost, that thou mightst giue a law to the seede of Iacob, and to the generation of Israel diligence. 20. And thou didst not take away from them a malignant hart, that thy law might bring forth fruit in them. 21. For Adam the first bearing a vicious hart transgressed and was overcome, yea and al that were borne of him. 22. And it was made a permanent infirmitie, and the law with the hart of the people, with the wickednes of the roote, and that which is good departed, and the wicked remayned. 23. And the times passed, and the yeares were ended: and thou didst raise vp vnto thee a seruant named Dauid, 24. and spakest vnto him to build a citie of thy name, and to offer vnto thee in it frankensense, and oblations. 25. And this was done manie yeares, and they that inhabited the citie forsooke thee, 26. in al things as Adam and al his generations. For they also vsed a wicked hart. 27. And thou didst deliuer thy citie into the hands of thyne enemies. 28. Why, doe they better things, that inhabite Babylon? And for this shal she rule ouer Sion? 29. It came to passe when I was come hither, & had sene the impieties that can not be numbred: and my soul saw manie offending this thirtieth yeare, and my hart was astonished: 30. because I saw how thou bearest with their sinne, and didst spare them that did impiouly, and didst destroy thine owne people, and preserue thine enemies, and didst not signifie it. 31. I nothing remember how this way should be forsaken: doth Babylon better things then Sion? 32. Or hath anie nation knowen thee beside Israel: or what tribes haue believed thy testaments as Iacob? 33. Whose reward hath not appeared, nor their labour fructified. For passing through I passed among the nations, & I saw them about, & not mindful of thy commandments. 34. Now therefore wey our iniquities in a ballance, and theirs that dwel in the world: and they name shal not be found, but in Israel. 35. Or when haue not they sinned in thy sight, that inhabite the earth? or what nation hath so obserued thy commandments? 36. These certes by their names thou shalt find to haue kept thy commandments, but the nations thou shalt not finde.

CHAP. IIII.

Mans wit and reason is not able to vnderstand the counsel and iudgement of God, 22. why his people are afflicted by wicked nations, 33. nor of times, and things to come.

AND the Angel answered me, that was sent to me, whose name was Vriël, 2. and sayd to me: Thy hart exceeding hath exceeded in this world, and thou thinkest to comprehend the way of the Highest. 3. And I sayd: It is so my Lord. And he answered me, and sayd: I am sent to shew thee three wayes, & to propose to thee three similitudes. 4. Of the which if thou shalt declare to me one of them, I also wil shew thee the way which thou desirest to see, & wil teach thee whence a wicked hart is. 5. And I sayd, Speake my Lord. And he sayd to me: Goe, wey me the weight of the fire, or measure me the blast of the winde, or cal me backe the day that is past. 6. And I answered, and sayd: what man borne can doe it, that thou askest me of these things? 7. And he sayd to me: If I should aske thee, saying: How great habitations are there in the hart of the sea, or how great vaines be there in the beginning of the depth, or how great vaines be there about the firmament, and what are the issues of paradise: 8. thou wouldest perhaps say to me: I haue not descended into the depth, nor into hel as yet, neither, haue I ascended at anie time into heauen. 9. But now I haue not asked thee, sauing of the fire, & the winde, and the day by the which thou hast passed, and from the which thou canst not be separated: and thou hast not answered me of them. 10. And he sayd to me: Thou canst not know the things that are thine which grow together with thee: 11. and how can thy vessel comprehend the way of the Highest, and now the world being outwardly corrupted, vnderstand the corruption eident in my sight: 12. I sayd to him: Better were it for vs not to be, then yet liuing to liue in impieties, and to suffer, and not to vnderstand for what thing. 13. And he answered me, and said: Going forth I went forward to a wood of trees in the field, and they deuised a deuise, 14. and said: Come and let vs goe, and make warre against the sea, that it may retyre backe before vs, and we way make vs other woods. 15. And in like manner the waues of the sea they also deuised a deuise, and sayd: Come let vs goe vp, let vs ouerthrow the woods of the field, that there also we may consummate an other cuntry for our selues. 16. And the woods deuise was made vaine, for fire came, and consumed it. 17. Likewise also the deuise of the waues of the sea. For the sand stood, & stayed them. 18. For if thou wert iudge of these, whom wouldest thou

Ind. 9. 2. Per. 25.

begin to iustifie, or whom to condemne? 19. And I answered, and sayd: Verily, they deuised a vayne deuise. For the earth is giuen to the wood, and a place to the sea to carie her waues. 20. And he answered me, and sayd: Thou hast iudged wel, and why hast thou not iudged for thy self? 21. For as the earth is giuen to the wood, and the sea for the waues therof: so they that inhabite vpon the earth, can vnderstand onlie the things that are vpon the earth: and they vpon the heauens, the things that are about the height of the heauens. 22. And I answered, and sayd: I beseech thee Lord, that sense may be giuen me to vnderstand. 23. For I meant not to aske of thy superiour things, but of those that passe by vs dayly. For what cause Israel is giuen into reproch to the gentiles, the people whom thou hast loued, is giuen to impious tribes, and the law of our fathers is brought to destruction, and the written ordinances are no where: 24. and we haue passed out of the world, as locustes, and our life is astonishment and dreade, and we are not whorthie to obtaine mercie. 25. But what wil he doe to his name that is inuocated vpon vs? and of these things I did aske. 26. And he answered me, and sayd: If thou search very much, thou shalt often meruail: because the world hastning hastneth to passe, 27. and can not comprehend the things which in times to come are promised to the iust: because this world is ful of iniustice and infirmities. 28. But concerning the things that thou demandest I wil tel thee: for the euil is sowed, and the destruction therof is not yet come. 29. If then that which is sowed be not turned vp, and the place depart where the euil is sowed, that shal not come where the good is sowed. 30. Because the grayne of il seed hath been sowed in the hart of Adam from the beginning: and how much impietic hath it ingendred vntil now, and doth ingender vntil the floore come? 31. And esteeme with thy self the graine of the il seed, how much fruit of impietic it hath ingendred: 32. When the eares shal be cut, which are innumerable, what a great floore wil they begin to make? 33. And I answered, and sayd: How, and when shal these things be? why are our yeares few and euil? 34. And he answered me, and sayd to me, Hasten not about the Highest. For thou doest hasten in vaine to be about him, for thy excesse is much. 35. Did not the soules of the iust in their cellars, aske of these things, saying: How hope I so, and when shal the fruit come of the floore of our reward? 36. And Ieremiel the Archangel answered to those things, and sayd: When the number of the seeds in you shal be filled, because he hath weyed the world in a balance, 37. and with measure hath he measured the times, and in number he hath numbred the times, & hath not moued, nor stirred them, vntil the foresayd measure be filled. 38. And I answered, & sayd: O Lord Dominatour, we also are al ful of impietic. 39. And left perhaps for vs the floores of the iust be not filled, for the finnes of the inhabitants vpon the earth. 40. And he answered me, and sayd: Goe, and aske a woman with childe, if when she hath accomplished her nine months, her can yet hold the infant within it: 41. And I sayd it can not Lord. And he sayd to me : In hel the cellars of the soules are like to the matrice. 42. For as she that is in trauail maketh hast, to escape the necessitie of trauailing : so this also hasteneth to render those things which are commended to it. 43. From the beginning it shal be shewed thee touching those things, which thou doest couet to see. 44. And I answered and sayd : If I haue found grace before thine eyes, and if it be possible, and if I be fite, 45. shew me if there be more to come then is passed, or moe things haue passed, then are to come. 46. What passed, I know : but what is to come, I know not. 47. And he sayd to me : Stand vpon the right side, and I wil shew thee the interpretation of the similitude. 48. And I stood, and saw : and behold a burning fornace passed before me, and it came to passe when the flame passed, I saw : and behold the smoke ouercame. 49. After these things there passed before me a cloud ful of water, and with violence casting in much raine : and when the violence of raine was cast, the drops therin ouercame. 50. And he sayd to me: Thinke with thyself, as the raine increaseth more then the drops, and the fire then the smoke : so did the measure that passed more abound. But the drops, and the smoke ouercame : 51. and I prayed, and sayd, shal I liue thinkest thou vntil these dayes? or what shal be in those dayes? 52. He answered me, and sayd : Of the signes wherof thou askest me, in part I can tel thee, howbeit of thy life I was not sent to tel thee, neither doe I know.

Diuers signes of things to come are shewed to Esdras by an Angel : 16. for the comfort of the people in captiuitie.

V T concerning signes : behold the dayes shal come, wherin they that inhabite the earth shal be taken in a great number, and the way of truth shal be hid : and the countrie shal be barren from fayth. 2. *And in-*justice shal be multiplied about that which thy self seest, and about that which thou hast heard in time past. 3. And they shal put their foote into the countrie which now thou seest to reigne, and they shal see it desolate. 4. And if the Highest giue thee life, thou shalt see after the third trumpet, and the sunne shal suddenly shine agayne in the night, and the moone thrise in a day, 5. and out of wood blood shal distil, and the stone shal giue his voice, and the peoples shal be moued : 6. and he reigne, whom they hope not that inhabite vpon the earth, and foules shal make their flight away. 7. and the sea of Sodom shal cast the fishes, and shal make a noise in the night, which manie knew not, and al shal heare the voice therof, 8. and there shal be made a confusion in manie places, and the fire shal often be sent backe, and the sauage beasts shal goe to other places, and women in their monthlie flowers shal bring forth monsters, 9. and in sweete waters shal salt waters be found, and al freinds shal ouerthrow one another: and then shal wit be hid, and vnderstanding shal be separated into his cellar: 10. and it shal be sought of manie, & shal not be found: and iniustice shal be multiplied, and incontinence vpon the earth. 11. And one countrie shal aske her neighbour, and shal say: Hath iustice doing iust passed through thee? and she shal denie it. 12. And it shal be in that time, men shal hope, & shal not obtaine: they shal labour, & their wayes shal not haue successe. 13. These signes I am permitted to tel thee: and if thou pray againe and weep, as also now, and fast seuen dayes, thou shalt heare againe greater things then these. 14. And I awaked, and my bodie did shiuer exceedingly: and my soule laboured, that it fainted: 15. and the Angel that came, that spake in me, held me, and strengthened me, and set me vpon my feet. 16. And it came to passe in the second night, and Salathiel the Prince of the people came to me, and sayd to me: Where wast thou? and why is thy countenance heauie? 17. Knowest thou not that Israel is committed to thee in the contrie of their transmigration? 18. Rise vp therefore, and taste bread, and forsake vs not, as the Pastour his flocke in the hand of wicked wolues. 19. And I sayd to him: Goe from me, and approach not vnto me. And he heard, as I said: & he departed from me. 20. And I fasted seuen dayes howling and weeping, as Vriel the Angel commanded me. 21. And it came to passe after seuen dayes, and againe cogitations of my hart molested me very much, 22. and my soule resumed the spirit of vnderstanding: and agayne I began to speake words before the Highest: 23. and I sayd: Lord Dominatour of euerie wood of the earth, and al the trees therof, thou hast chosen one vineyard: 24. and of euerie land of the world thou hast chosen thee one ditch: and of al the flowers of the world thou hast chosen thee one lillie: 25. and of al depthes of the sea, thou hast filled thee one riuer: & of al the builded cities, thou hast sanctified ~~vnto~~ thy selfe Zion: 26. and of al created soules, thou hast named thee one doue: and of al beasts that were made, thou hast prouided thee one sheep: 27. and of al multiplied peoples, thou hast purchased thee one people: and a law approued of al thou hast giuen to this people, whom thou didst desire. 28. And now Lord, why hast thou deliuered one vnto manie? And thou had prepared vpon one roote others, and hast dispersed thy onlie one in manie: 29. and they haue troden vpon it, which gaine sayd thy couenants, and which belieued not thy testaments. 30. And if hating thou hatest thy people, it ought to be chastised with thy hands. 31. And it came to passe, when I had spoken the words, and the Angel was sent to me, that came to me before the night past, 32 & he sayd to me: Heare me, & I wil instruct thee: and harken to me, and I wil adde before thee. 33. And I sayd: Speake my Lord. And he sayd to me: Thou art become exceedingly in excesse of minde for Israel: hast thou loued it more then him that made it? 34. And I sayd to him: No Lord, but for sorow I haue spoken, for my veines torment me euerie houre, to apprehend the pathe of the Higheft, and to search part of his iudgement. 35. And he sayd to me: Thou canst not. And I sayd: Why Lord? To what was I borne, or why was not my mothers wombe my graue, that I might not see the labour of Iacob, and the wearines of the stocke of Israel? 36. And he sayd to me: Number me the things that are not yet come, and gather me the disperfed droppes, and make me the withered flowers greene againe, 37. & open me the shut cellars, & bring me forth the blastes inclosed in them, shew me the image of a voice: & then wil I shew thee the labour that thou desirest to see. 38. And I said: Lord Dominatour, for who is there that can know these things, but he that hath not his habitation with men? 39. And I am vnwise, and how can I speake of these things, which thou hast asked me? 40. And he said to me: As thou canst not doe one of these things, which haue been sayd: so canst thou not finde my iudgement, or in the end the charitie, which I haue promised to the people. 41. And I sayd: But behold Lord thou art nigh to them that are nere the end: and what shal they doe that haue been before me, or we, or they after vs? 42. And he sayd to me: I wil resembie my iudgement to a crowne. As there shal not be slacknes of the last, so neither swiftnes of the former. 43. And I answered, and sayd: Couldst thou not make them that haue been, & that are, and that shal be, at once, that thou mayst shew thy iudgement the quicker? 44. And he answered me, and sayd: The creature can not hasten aboute the Creatour, nor the world sustayne them that are to be created in it, at once. 45. And I sayd: As thou didst say to thy seruant, that quickening thou didst quicken the creature created by thee at once, and the creature susteined it: it may now also beare them present at once. 46. And he sayd to me: Aske the matrice of a woman, and thou shalt say to it: And if thou bring forth children, why by times? Aske it therefore, that it giue ten at once. 47. And I sayd, it can not verily: but according to time. 48. And he sayd to me: And I haue giuen a matrice to the earth for them, that are sown vpon it by time. 49. For as the infant bringeth not forth the things that perteyne to the aged, so haue I disposed the world created of me. 50. And I asked, and sayd: Wheras thou hast now giuen me a way, I wil speake before thee: for our mother, of whom thou toldest me, yet she is yong: now draweth nigh to old age. 51. And he answered me, and sayd: Aske her that beareth children, and she wil tel thee. 52. For thou shalt say to her: Why are not they whom thou hast brought forth now like to them that were before thee, but lesse of stature? 53. And she also wil say vnto thee: They that are borne in the youth of strength are of one sort, and they of an other, that are borne about the time of old age, when the matrice fayleth. 54. Consider therefore thou also, that you are of lesse stature, then they that were before you: 55. and they that are after you, of lesser then you, as it were creatures now waxing old, and past the strength of youth. 56. And I sayd: I beseech thee Lord, if I haue found grace before thine eyes, shew vnto thy seruant, by whom thou doest viuite thy creature.

ND he sayd to me: In the beginning of the earthlie world, and before the ends of the world stood, and before the congregation of the winds did blow, 2. and before the voices of thunders sounded, and before the flashings of lightnings shined, and before the foundations of paradise were confirmed, 3. and before beautiful flowers were sene, and before the moued powers were established, and before the innumerable hosts of Angels were gathered, 4. and before the heights of the ayre were aduanced, and before the firmaments were named, & before the chymneies were hote in Sion, 5. & before the present yeares were searched out, and before their inuentions that now sinne, were put away, and they signed that made fayth their treasure: 6. then I thought, and they were made by me only, and not by any other: and the end by me, and not by any other. 7. And I answered, and sayd: What separation of times shal there be? and when shal the end of the former be, and the beginning of that which foloweth? 8. And he sayd to me, from Abraham vnto Isaac, when Iacob and Esau were borne of him, the hand of Iacob heid from the biginning the heele of Esau, 9. for the end of this world is Esau, and the beginning of the next Iacob. 10. The hand of a man between the heele and the hand. Aske no other thing Esdras. 11. And I answered, and sayd: O Lord dominatour, if I haue found grace before thine eyes, 12. I pray thee shew thy seruant the end of thy signes, wherof thou didst shew me part the night before. 13. And he answered, and sayd to me: Arise vpon thy feete, and heare a voice most ful of sound. 14. And it shal be as it were a commotion, neither shal the place be moued wherin thou standest. 15. Therefore when it speaketh be not thou afrayd, because of the end is the word, and the foundation of the earth vnderstood, 16. for concerning them the word trembleth and is moued, for it knoweth that their end must be changed, 17. And it came to passe, when I had heard, I rose vpon my feete, and I heard: and behold a voice speaking, and the sound therof as the sound of manie waters: 18. and it sayd: Behold the dayes come, and the time shal be when I wil begyne to approach, that I may visite the inhabitants vpon the earth: 19. And when I wil begin to enquire of them that vniustly haue hurt with their iniustice, and when the humilitie of Sion shal be accomplished. 20. And when the world shal be ouersigned that shal beginne to passe, I wil doe these signes:

 Books shal be opened before the face of the firmament, and al shal see together, 21 & infants of one yearre shal speake with their voices, and women with child shal bring forth vntinely infants, not ripe, of three or foure months, and shal liue, and shal be rayfed vp. 22. And sodenly shal appeare sowed places not sowed, and full cellers shal sodenly be found emptie: 23. and a trumpet shal sound; which when al shal heare, they wil sodenly be afrayd. 24. And it shal be in that time, freinds as enemies shal ouerthrow freinds, and the earth shal be afrayd with them: and the vaynes of fountaynes shal stand, and shal not runne in thre howres: 25. and it shal be, euerie one that shal be least of al these, or whom I haue foretold thee, he shal be saued, and shal see my saluation, and the end of your world. 26. And the men that are receiued, shal see, they that tasted not death from their natiuitie, and the hart of the inhabitants shal be turned into an other sense.
 27. For euil shal be put out, and deceite shal be extinguished, 28. but fayth shal flourish, and corruption shal be ouercome, and truth shal be shewed, which was without fruite so manie dayes. 29. And it came to passe, when he spake to me, and I loe by litle and litle looked on him before whom I stood, 30. and he sayd to me these words: I am come to shew thee the time of the night to come. 31. If therefore thou pray agayne, and fast agayne seuen dayes, agayne I wil tel thee greater things by the day which I haue heard. 32. For thy voice is heard before the Highest. For the strong hath sene thy direction, and hath fore sene the chastitie which thou hast had from thy youth: 33. and for this cause he hath sent me to shew thee al these things, and to say to thee, haue confidence, and feare not, 34. and hasten not with the former times to thinke vayne things, that thou hasten not from the last times. 35. And it came to passe after these things, and I wept againe, and in like manner I fasted seuen dayes, to accomplish the three weeks, that were told me. 36. And it came to passe in the eight night, and my hart was troubled agaiue in me, and I began to speake before the Highest. 37. For my spirit was inflamed exceedingly, and my soul was dittressed. 38. And I sayd: O Lord, speaking thou didst speake from the beginning of creature from the first day, saying: Let heauen be made and earth: and thy word was a perfect worke. 39. And then there was spirit, and darkenesse was caried about, and silence, the sound of the voyce of man was not yet from thee. 40. Then thou didst command the light some light to be brought forth of thy treasures, wherby thy worke might appeare. 41. And in the second day thou didst create the spirit of the firmament, and commandest it to diuide, and to make a diuision between the waters, that a certayn part should depart vpward, & part should remaine beneth. 42. And in the third day thou didst command the waters to be gathered together in the seuenth part of the earth: but sixe parts thou didst drie and preserue, that of them might be seruing before thee things sowed of God, and tilled. 43. For thy word proceeded, and the worke forthwith was made. 44. For sodenly came forth fruite of multitude infinite, and diuerse tastes of concupiscence, and flowers of vnchangeable colour, and odours of vnsearcheable smell, & in the third day these things were made. 45. And in the fourth day thou didst command to be made the brightnesse of the sunne, the light of the moone, the disposition of the starres: 46. and didst command them that they should serue man, that should be made. 47. And in the fifth day thou sayd it to the seuenth part, where the water was gathered together, that it should bring forth beasts, & foules & fishes: & so was it done, 48. the dumme water and without life, the things that by Gods appointment were commanded, made beasts, that therby the nations may declare thy merueilous workes 49. And then thou didst preserue two soules: the name of one thou didst cal Henoch, and the name of the second thou didst cal Leuiathan, 50. and thou didst separate them from eche other. For the seuenth part, where the water was gathered together, could not hold them. 51. And thou gauest to Henoch one part, which was dried the third day, to dwelt therein, where are a thousand mountaynes. 52. But to Leuiathan thou gauest the seuenth part being moyst, and kepst it, that it might be to deuoure whom thou wilt, and when thou wilt. 53. And in the sixt day thou didst command the earth to create before thee cattel, and beasts, and creeping creatures: 54. and ouer these Adam, whom thou madest ruler ouer al the works, which thou didst make, and out of him are al we brought forth, and the people whom thou hast chosē. 55. And al these things I haue sayd before thee O Lord, because thou didst create the world for vs. 56. But the residue of the nations borne of Adam thou saydst that they were nothing, and that they were like to spittle, and as it were the dropping out of a vessel thou didst liken the aboundance of them. 57. And now Lord, behold these nations which are reputed for nothing, haue begun to rule ouer vs, and to deuoure vs: 58. but we thy people whom thou didst cal thy first onlie begotten emulatour, are deliuered into their hands: 59. and if the world was created for vs, why doe not we possesse inheritance with the world? how long these things?

C H A P. VII.

Without tribulations no man can attayne immortal life: 17. which the iust shal inherite: and the wicked shal perish. 28. Christ wil come, and dye for mankind. 36. Prayers of the iust shal profite til the end of this world, but not after the general iudgement. 48. Al sinned in Adam 52. and haue added more sinnes, 57. but it is in mans power 62. by Gods grace to liue eternally.

AND it came to passe when I had ended to speake these words, the Angel was sent to me, which had been sent to me the first nights, 2. and he sayd to me: Arise Esdras, and heare the words which I am come to speake to thee. 3. And I sayd: Speake my God. And he sayd to me: The sea is set in a large place, that it might be deep and wide: 4. but the entrance to it shal be set in a streit place, that it might be like to riuers. 5. For who witting wil enter into the sea, and see it, or rule ouer it: if he passe not the streit, how shal he come into the bredth? 6. Also an other thing: A citie is built, and set in a plaine place, and it is ful of al goods. 7. The entrance therof narrow, and set in a steep place, so that on the right hand there was fire, and on the left deep watar: 8. and there is one onlie pathe set between them, that is, between the fire and the water, so that the pathe can not conteyne, but onlie a mans steppe. 9. And if the citie shal be giuen a man for inheritaunce, if he neuer passe through the peril set before it, how shal he receiue his inheritance? 10. And I sayd: So Lord. And he sayd to me, So it is: Israel also a part. 11. For I made the world for them: and when Adam transgressed my constitution, that was iudged which was done. 12. And the entrances of this world were made streit, and sorowful, & paynful, and few and euil, and ful of dangers, and stuffed very much with labour. 13. For the entrances of the greater world are large and secure, and making fruit of immortalitie. 14. If then they that liue entring in enter into these streite and vayne things: they can not receiue the things that are layd vp. 15. Now therefore why art thou troubled, wheras thou art corruptible? and why art thou moued, wheras thou art mortal? 16. And why hast thou not taken in thy hart that which is to come, but that which is present? 17. I answered, and sayd: Lord dominatour: behold thou hast disposed by thy law that the iust shal inherite these things, and the impious shal perish. 18. but the iust shal suffer the streits, hoping for the wyde places: for they that haue done impiously, haue both suffered the streits, add shal not see the wide places. 19. And he sayd to me: There is no iudge aboue God, nor that

vnderstandeth aboute the Highest. 20. For manie present doe perish, because the law of God which was set before, is neglected. 21. For God commanding commanded them that came, when they came, what doing they should liue, and what obseruing they should not be punished. 22. But they were not perswaded, & gaynesayd him, and made to themselves a cogitation of vanitie, 23. and proposed to themselves deceites of sinnes, and they sayd to the Highest that he was not, and they knew not his wayes, 24. and dispised his law, and denyed his couenances, and had not fidelitie in his ordinances, & did not accomplish his works. 25. For this cause Esdras, the emptie to the emptie & the full to the full. 26. Behold the time shal come, & it shal be when the signes shal come which I haue foretold thee, and the bride shal appeare, and appearing she shal be shewed that now is hid with the earth: 27. and euerie one that is deliuered from the foresaid euils, he shal see my meruelous things. 28. For my sonne I E S V S shal be reueled with them that are with him, & they shal be merie that are leaft in the foure hundred yeares. 29. And it shal be after these yeares, and my sonne C H R I S T shal dye: and al men that haue breath, 30. and the world shal be turned into the old silence seuen dayes, as in the former iudgements, so that none shal be leaft. 31. And it shal be after seuen dayes. and the world shal be raysed vp that yet waketh not, and shal dye corrupted: 32. and the earth shal render the things that sleep in it, and the dust them that dwel in it with silence, and the cellars shal render the soules that are commended to them. 33. And the Highest shal be reueled vpon the seate of iudgement, and miseries shal passe, and long sufferance shal be gathered together. 34. And iudgement onlie shal remayne, truth shal stand, and fayth shal waxe strong, 35. and the worke shal folow, and the reward shal be shewed, and iustice shal awake, and iniustice shal not haue dominion. 36. And I sayd: First Abraham prayed for the Sodomites, and Moyse for the fathers that unned in the desert. 37. And they that were after him for Israel in the dayes of Achaz, and of Samuel, 38. and Dauid for the destruction, and of Salomon for them that came vnto the sanctification. 39. And Elias for them that receiued raine, and for the dead that he might liue, 40. and Ezechias for the people in the dayes of Sennacherib, and manie for manie. 41. If therefore now when coreuptible did increase, and iniustice was multiplied, and the iust prayed for the impious: why now also shal it not be so? 42. And he answered me and sayd: This present world is not the end, much glorie remaineth in it: for this cause they prayed for the impotent. 43. For the day of iudgement shal be the end of this time, and the beginning of the immortalitie to come, wherein corruption is past: 44. intemperance is dissolued, incredulitie is cut of: and iustice hath increased, truth is sprong. 45. For then no man can saue him that hath perished, nor drowne him that hath overcome. And I answered, 46. and sayd: This is my word the first and the last, that it had been better not to giue the earth to Adam, or when he had now giuen it, to reſtrainte him that he ſhould not ſinne. 47. For what doth it profit men preſently to liue in ſorow, and being dead to hope for puniſhment? 48. O what haſt thou done Adam? For if thou didſt ſinne, it was not made thy ſal only, but ours alſo which came of thee. 49. For what doth it profit vs if immortal time be promiſed to vs: but we haue done mortal works? 50. And that euerlaſting hope is foretold vs: but we moſt wicked are become vayne? 51. And that habitations of health and ſecuritie are reſerued for vs, but we haue conuerſt naughtily? 52. And that the glorie of the Higheſt is reſerued to proteſt them that haue ſlowly conuerſt: but we haue walked in moſt wicked wayes? 53. And that paradise ſhal be ſhewed, whoſe fruite continueth incorrupted, wherein is ſecurtie and remedie: 54. but we ſhal not enter in: for we haue conuerſt in vnlawful places? 55. And their face which haue had abſtinence, ſhal thine aboute the ſtarres: but our faces blacke aboute darknes. 56. For we did not thinke liuing when we did iniquitie, that we ſhal beginne after death to ſuffer. 57. And he answered, & ſayd: This is the cogitatiō of the battel which man ſhal fight, who is borne vpon the earth, 58. that if he ſhal be ouercome, he ſuffer that which thou haſt ſayd: but if he ouercome he ſhal receiue that which I ſay: 59. for this is the life which Moyſes ſpake of when he liued, to the people, ſaying: Choofe vnto thee life, that thou mayſt liue. 60. But they believed him not, no nor the Prophets after him, no nor me which haue ſpoken to them. 61. Eecaufe there ſhould not be ſorow vnto their perdition, as there ſhal be ioy vpon them, to whom ſaluation is perſwaded. 62. And I answered, and ſayd: I know Lord, that the Higheſt is called merciful in that, he hath mercie on thē which are not yet come into the world, 63. and that he hath mercie on them which cōuerſe in his law: 64. & he is long ſuffering, becauſe he ſheweth long ſufferance to them that haue ſinned, as it were with their owne works: 65. and he is bountiful, becauſe he wil giue according to exigents: 66. and of great mercie, becauſe he multiplieth more mercies to them that are preſent, and that are paſt, and that are to come. 67. For if he ſhal not multiplie his mercies, the world ſhal not be made aliue with them that did inherite it. 68. And he giueth: for if he ſhal not giue of his bountie, that they may be releued which haue done iniquitie, the tenth thouſand part of men can not be quickned from their iniquities. 69. And the iudge if he ſhal not forgieue them that are cured with his word, and wye away a multitude of contentions: there ſhould not perhaps be leaſt in an innumerable multitude, but very few.

CHAP. VIII.

God is merciful in this world, yet fewe are sauēd. 6. Gods workes and disposition of his creatures are meruelous. 15. Esdras prayeth for the people of Israel: 37. and saluation is promised to the iust, and punishment threated to the wicked.

AND he answered me, and sayd: This world the Highest made for manie, but that to come for few. 2. And I wil speake a similitude Esdras before thee. For as thou shalt aske the earth, and it wil tel thee, that it wil giue much more earth wherof earthen worke may be made, but a litle dust wherof gold is made: so also is the act of this present world. 3. Manie indeed are created, but fewe shal be sauēd. 4. And I answered, and sayd: Then ô soul swallow vp the sense, and deaurour that which is wise. 5. For thou art agreed to obey, and willing to prophetic. For there is no space giuen thee but only to liue. 6. O Lord if thou wilt not permit thy seruant, that we pray before thee, and thou giue vs seed to the hart, and tillage to the vnderstanding, wherof may the fruit be made, wherby euerie corrupt person may liue, that shal beare the place of a man? 7. For thou art alone, and we are one workmanship of thy hands, as thou hast spoken: 8. and as now the bodie made in the matrice, and thou doest giue the members, thy creature is preferued in fire and water: and nine months thy workmanship doth suffer thy creature that is created in it: 9. and it self that keepeth, and that which is kept, both shal be preferued: & the matrice being preferued rendreth agayne at some time the things that are growen in it. 10. For thou hast commanded of the members, that is the breasts to giue mike vnto the fruit of the breasts, 11. that the thing which is made, may be nourished til a certayne time, and afterward thou mayst dispose him to thy mercie. 12. For thou hast, brought him vp in thy iustice, and hast instructed him in thy law, and halt corrected him in thy vnderstanding: 13. and thou shalt mortifie him, as thy creature: and shalt giue him life, as thy worke. 14. If then thou wilt destroy him that is made with so great labours: it is easie by thy cōmandmāt to be ordayned, that also which was made, might be preferued. 15. And now Lord I wil speake, of euerie man thou rather knowest: but concerning thy people, for which I am sorowful: 16. and concerning thine inheritance, for which I mourne, and for Israel for whom I am penitue, and concerning Iacob, for whom I am sorowful. 17. Therefore wil I begin to pray before thee for me, and

Mat. 20. v. 16.

for them : because I see our defaults that inhabite the earth. 18. but I haue heard of the celeritie of the iudge that shal be. 19. Therefore heare my voice , and vnderstand my word , and I wil speake before thee. 20. The beginning of the words of Esdras before he was assumed : and I sayd : Lord which inhabitest the world, whose eyes are eleuated vnto things on high and in the ayre: 21. and whose throne is inestimable, and glorie incomprehensible : by whom standeth an host of Angels with trembling , 22. whose keeping is turned in winde and fire , thou whose word is true, and sayings permanent: 23. whose commandment is strong , and disposition terrible : whose looke dryeth vp the depths, and indignation maketh the mountaynes to melt, and truth doth testifie. 24. Heare the prayer of thy seruant , and with thine eares receiue the petition of thy creature. 25. For whiles I liue I wil speake : & whiles I vnderstand, I wil answer: 26. Neither doe thou respect the sinnes of thy people , but them that serue thee in truth. 27. Neither doe thou attend the impious endeauours of the nations, but them that with sorowes haue kept thy testimonies. 28. Neither thinke thou of them that in thy sight haue conuerst falsly , but remember them that according to thy wil haue knowen thy feare. 29. Neither be thou willing to destroy them that haue had the manners of beasts : but respect them that haue taught thy law gloriously. 30. Neither haue indignation towards them, which are iudged worse then beasts : but loue them that alwayes haue confidence in thy iustice and glorie. 31. Because we and our fathers languish with such diseases: but thou for sinners shalt be called merciful. 32. For if thou shalt be desirous to haue mercie on vs, then thou shalt be called merciful ; to vs hauing no works of iustice. 33. For the iust which haue manie works layd vp , of their owne works shal receiue reward. 34. For what is man , that thou art angrie with him : or the corruptible kinde , that thou art so bitter touching it? 35. For in truth there is no man of them that be borne, which hath not done impiouly, and of them that confesse , which haue not sinned. 36. For in this shal thy iustice be declared, and thy goodnes, O Lord, when thou shalt haue mercie on them, that haue no substance of good works. 37. And he answered me , and sayd : Thou hast spoken somethings rightly : and according to thy words, so also shal it be done, 38. because I wil not in deed thinke vpon the worke of them that haue sinned before death, before the iudgement, before perdition : 39. but I wil reioyce vpon the creature of the iust , and I wil remember their pilgrimage also , and saluation , and receiuing of reward. 40. Therefore as I haue spoken, so also it is. 41. For as the husbandman soweth vpon the ground manie seedes, and planteth manie plants , but not al which were sown in time are preserued , nor yet al that were planted shal take roote : so they also that are sown in the world, shal not al be sau'd. 42. And I answered, and sayd : If I haue found grace, let me speake. 43. As the seede of the husbandman , if it come not vp, or receiue not the rayne in time, if it be corrupted with much rayne, perisheth: 44. so likewise also man who made with thy hands, and thou named his image: because thou art likened to him, for whom thou hast made al things, and hast likened him to the seede of the husbandman. 45. Be not angrie vpon vs, but spare thy people, and haue mercie on thy inheritance. And thou hast mercie on thy creature. 46. And he answered me, and sayd: The things that are present to them that are present, and that shal be to them that shal be. 47. For thou lackest much to be able to loue my creature about me: and to thee often times, euen to thyselfe I haue approched, but to the vniust neuer. 48. But in this also thou art meruelous before the Highest, 49. because thou hast humbled thyselfe as becometh thee: and hast not iudged thyselfe, that among the iust thou maist be very much glorified. 50. For which cause manie miseries, and miserable things shal be done to them that inhabite the world in the later dayes: because they haue walked in much pride. 51. But thou for thyselfe vnderstand, and for them that are like vnto thee seeke glorie. 52. For to you paradise is open, the tree of life is planted, time to come is prepared, abundance is prepared, a citie is builded, rest is approued, goodnes is perfected, & perfitt wisdome. 53. The root of euil is signed frō you: infirmitie, & mothe is hid frō you: and corruption is fled into hel in obliuion. 54. Sorowes are past, & the treasure of immortalitie is shewed in the end. 55. Adde not therefore inquiring of the multitude of them that perih. 56. For they also receiuing libertie haue despised the Highest, and contemned his law, and forsaken his wayes. 57. Yea and moreouer they haue troden downe his iust ones, 58. and haue sayd in their hart, that there is no God: and that, knowing that they dye. 59. For as the things aforesayd shal receiue you: so thirst and torment, which are prepared shal take them: for he would not man to be destroyed. 60. But they themselues also which are created, haue defyled his name which made them: and haue been vnkinde to him that prepared life. 61. Wherefore my iudgement now approcheth. 62. Which things I haue not shewed to al, but to thee, and to few like vnto thee. And I answered, and said: 63. Behold now Lord thou hast shewed me a multitude of signes, which thou wilt beginne to doe in the latter times, but thou hast not shewed me at what time.
